~SOUNDS GOOD~

We sure are beginning to see the Bible's words unfold about End Time events with much more preciseness than before. The devil may be on a rampage and many people may get caught up in what's happening. Yet it is not bothering the Lord God and all His plans are more and more coming together.

In these times we must be spiritually careful not to allow the fear of the flesh to run how Christians should think. Jesus has already secured our victory. Now, more than ever, we must not let the voice of what mankind is saying to override what Gods been trying to tell us all along. The days, at times, may be darkening, but it is Jesus Christ who is still the Light that is to guide us.

Stand firm in His word. Dig into the Bible daily. It is the spiritual nutrition vital for todays issues. Pray always seeking God's guidance, His help and protection. All you need is God.

Jesus always tells His followers in any generation as it is, and now possibly to the last generation. As Jesus still comes through in the midst of the storm saying, "Do not fear. Take courage. It is I." And He will be with you always right to the end of the age which is now closing in.

ASK THE MOTOR MEDICS®

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2002 4x4 GMC Yukon that I have been driving for 200,000 miles. I have changed all of the fluids on this vehicle at the severe recommended service times as indicated by the manufacturer in hopes of preserving the life of the truck. From the beginning, I have been using fully synthetic engine oil starting with the first fluid change and as the other fluids came due I replaced them with the fully synthetic fluid. After all of the care I took to make sure all of the fluids never exceeded their times I overlooked one; the power steering fluid. Now with 200,000 miles it did have a failure of the pump. I will be installing a new pump and I want to use fully synthetic fluid in it. Can I just use fully synthetic transmission fluid? I can't seem to find a parts store with fully synthetic power steering fluid on the shelf.

Thank you,
Mark in Sioux Falls, South Dakota

Dear Mark,

No, don't ever use fluids of a type not recommended by the vehicle manufacturer. There are fully synthetic fluids out there which are compatible with a GM system that should do the trick. If you use a fluid in a system for which it was not designed you can have many unfavorable results from premature parts wear or undesired operation to major safety issues. Always stick with the fluid which was designed for the system you're working on.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I am having an issue with my current car which seems to have plagued me on a couple other vehicles as well over the years. It is a 2006 Ford Explorer 2wd and I can't seem to get the front end lined up so that it will drive straight down the road. I have had three different shops check the front end, one aligned it several times and it still pulls to the left. It does this under acceleration and deceleration as well as cruise and does so at any speed over 25mph. They tell me nothing in the front end is worn but are guessing it could be a left shock. My tires are about two years old and have more than half of their tread wear left. The only issue other than the pull is a slight wobble in the steering wheel at speeds under 20 mph. Do you have any ideas?

Thank you,
Darwin in Madison Wisconsin

Dear Darwin,

Have they checked the tires for a problem by rotating them side to side for testing purposes? Ask them if they did this. Sometimes tires can fail and cause a severe pull to one side and swapping sides will change the pull. If so it's time for new tires. They should also look at the brakes to make sure they are not dragging causing a pull. If it is brakes they would likely be very hot on one side or the other.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a car that needs a timing belt and its going to cost over $1000.00 to change. That sounds crazy to me. I've had belts changed before on my cars and they've never been more than $50.00 but none of my cars have had timing belts. It's a 2005 Lexus so I know it might run a little more than some of the other domestic cars I've had but come on, 1k is just way over the top and I think I may be getting taken. Can I just let it go?

Thank you,
Ben in Portland Maine

Dear Ben,

Welcome to the world of owning a car with a timing belt. When we give purchase advice we will tell buyers to take the cost of regular timing belt service into account when they purchase a car. It's a Must-do item that if let go will eventually break and in the case of an interference engine "which most are" will destroy the engine or severely damage it at the very least and that can cost thousands to repair. The timing belt takes the place of the timing chain and it times the movement of the valves and pistons so that the valves are closed when the pistons get to the top. If the valves are open then they will collide and parts will break. Timing belts are typically in the range of $400.00 to well over $1000.00 to do the job on some cars.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I was filling up my washer bottle in the dark so that I could keep my windows clean and wanted to use the kind that cleans bugs off and de-ices, you know the kind that's orange. Well it's also the color of engine antifreeze so if you haven't got it yet I poured engine antifreeze into my windshield washer bottle. Antifreeze really makes a mess on the window and I can't see a thing. How do I get it out? The bottle is buried deep in the fender.

Thank you,
Mark in Bennington Vermont

Dear Mark,

You are not the first or the last one to do this. We take this question several times a year and it can be fixed. You need to get all the coolant out of the bottle and clean the glass well to get rid of the streaks the coolant leaves. If you have not run the pump then get a suction gun from a parts store and remove all the coolant you can then flush with water, suck out the water with the suction gun and repeat until free of antifreeze then add new washer fluid. If you have run the pump you'll need to do the previous steps then run the pump to clear the lines of antifreeze. You can also have your local mechanic do this for you. Mixing fluids is never good but mixed up washer fluid is easier to fix than other fluids.

Take care,
