~UNFORTUNATELY~

Jesus Himself declared that everybody who does not repent is doomed for God's judgement if they refused to repent.

Jesus explicitly instructed His disciples that He, Jesus, is both judge and Savior. Today's societies with full medical care and multiple retirement funds many do not think they need to be saved and feel they are better off without the limitations of old-fashioned religion.

Unfortunately, many believers also have forgotten that Jesus came to not only give us a more joyful and meaningful life but save us from the wrath to come.

They have forgotten that without Jesus a person does not just lack the comfort and peace found in Him but the wrath of God remains on them. God judged His own chosen nation, Israel, so He will judge this nation as well.

America is in more trouble than what most Americans realize. Judgement is at the door and far too few see the handwriting on the wall. Even some Christians believe this troubling time will pass and our nation will return to better days. Sin has consequences and it has been building in this country and the world for years. But we are the ones who live in this land and sin has grown into evil and must be addressed by a Holy and Just God.

The only hope for us as a people is complete surrender to Jesus Christ and give Him the reins to lead us through the approaching days.

ASK THE MOTOR MEDICS®

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,

I've been saving for my first brand new vehicle for over ten years, and I now have the money to purchase one. I really want a truck but with the miles I drive I'm leaning towards a car even though I could really use the cargo carrying capability of a truck. If I could get over twenty miles per gallon with a truck consistently and still have good power, I could probably go for that. I have been looking at the Ford EcoBoost equipped trucks. Do they really get the mileage they advertise and what is an EcoBoost engine that makes it so different from its regular counterparts?

Thank you,
Grant in Minneapolis Minnesota

Dear Grant,

We have customers who own these trucks and they have been very happy with the fuel economy and reliability so far. EcoBoost is a family of direct injected, gasoline, turbocharged, engines made by Ford. EcoBoost engines are designed to deliver power and torque similar to larger displacement, naturally aspirated engines while getting about 20% better fuel economy and lower greenhouse emissions than these same engines. Ford sees a great future in the EcoBoost technology and intends on using it extensively in future applications. If I were to purchase a new truck today for use as a general commuter and use it for light hauling, I would be taking a close look at this model truck as one of my choices. Fuel savings are important and add up.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I listen to your radio show often and wonder how you guys answer all those questions. Is it true that you don't use any kind of in-studio computers to reference during a show? My question is about recalls. I have been getting recall notices for my Dodge Caravan van for several years. At latest count I have five postcards with recalls on them about my van that say they are safety related but my vehicle is working just fine, and I don't have time to take it in or want them to charge me for a bunch of other work they find. What happens if I don't go in? Is it necessary to have it checked?

Thank you,
Chris in Rock Valley Iowa

Dear Chris,

Yes, it's true that we don't use any kind of reference to answer questions on the show and we don't always know everything. The one thing we don't need a reference guide to know is safety recalls are no joke. They don't spend millions of dollars on postcards for no reason. Your life and others can be at risk for some recalls. The check is free and if they suggest other paid work, you have the right to just say no. If it's an important safety item that needs attention don't neglect it. When you get a recall in the mail follow the contact instructions and arrange to have it checked as soon as you can. Please stay safe.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I'm a farmer who grows corn and I have now purchased a car that eats corn, well burns it anyway. I purchased a Ford Taurus with the flex-fuel option, but I don't know a thing about it. I've never owned a vehicle that was supposed to burn anything other than 10 percent ethanol. How does this work? Do I need to adjust something, or do I just put in whatever I feel like? Will my fuel mileage change? I have heard all sorts of stories and I just don't know what to believe. How about maintenance, do I need to do anything different if I use a high percentage of ethanol?

Thank you,
Terry in Kalamazoo Michigan

Dear Terry,

Feed that thing any amount of ethanol from zero to 85 percent and you don't need to adjust anything. The computer in the car automatically adjusts the fuel ration and timing to compensate for whatever you throw at it. As for mileage expect a change but take your time and play around a bit to see what gets you the best mileage for the dollars spent. Many of our listeners report they see better mileage with these cars when they use a 30 percent blend of ethanol as opposed to using 85 percent or nothing at all. As far as maintenance goes, don't fall short on the engine oil changes. The higher ethanol content makes it even more important to stick with scheduled oil changes.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I listen to your car advice show every chance I get and on one of your recent shows I heard someone mention a check vehicle light. I listen at work so sometimes I miss a part when I get a customer. What is a check vehicle light? Is it different from a check engine light and if so, could you explain it for me?

Thank you,
Darla in Charleston West Virginia

Dear Darla,

We did have a caller with a check vehicle light that had come on and after checking for engine codes and finding none he called us. Not all vehicles have them but ones that do use the check vehicle light for body related codes generated by the body control module. Many systems use modules to operate them such as lighting systems, windows, and locks, etc. When one of these has a malfunction, it is usually separate from anything engine related, but they still want to alert you of the failure, so they have a separate light. A check vehicle light should be checked soon, a check engine light also means check soon. A flashing check engine light means check engine now! When a check engine light flashes it means the system has detected a misfire that can cause harm to the engine by dumping excess raw fuel into the combustion chamber. This fuel can wash out cylinders and cause damage to the pistons and rings and harm the catalytic convertor too.
