~ THE EXPANDING GAP ~

There is a growing fault line in the land today among the people of this world. Not one of race or status but of belief in God- in where one's true faith in life rests. We live in a world of many gods, of many distractions from God in a fast-paced lifestyle that is ever-changing and evolving more and more into a society that is growing more self-sufficient and much more self-centered. It has a belief system of doing what feels rights, of intolerance to others that may tend to disagree, and less patience with individuals or groups who hold a completely different view of the vocal public's opinion.

There is an increase of right and wrong in media between truth and lies. There is a growing fascination with the dark side of life, of calling evil good and good evil. Slowly but surely this is putting more and more distance between friends, family, Christianity and religion (just people in general).

This expanding gap is going to grow wider in the days ahead because God's word has predicted this, and now the speed of the gap is growing at a much greater speed, and very soon it will grow into such a separation among the people that there will be some real unpleasant changes, greater persecutions and much more division.

If you are going to live your life as a Christian and for the one True God, now is the time because it is not going to get any easier, and the pressure to compromise gets greater and greater.
