~ SECURING YOUR INTEREST ~

This world is growing darker day by day. We are now heading for the great catching away of the Christians from the earth. How bad will it be before that moment arrives? I don't know. But you can be ready and you can be now serving the interest of God's work to be done.

Just a while back the congress of the United States was in session arguing a bill on sexuality. A representative from Florida came to the microphone when it was his turn to speak. "I watched this".

The representative had a Bible and began to explain what the Bible says about how God created a male and female. The congressman was shouted down and then again continued holding the Bible and declaring the will of God according the Bible. The committee chair congressman from New York came to the microphone and addressed the congressman from Florida saying these words, "this congress has no interest whatsoever in what God's will is".

We should be startled but it is true that very few people have any concern for God's will. So, we sit in a nation that is drawing the judgement of God. What is happening right now is to awaken the church to stand up and do its duty.

MOTORIAL EDICIONAL STATEMENT OF THE PROPERTY O

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood Show

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a newer Mazda Miata and I'm having a problem with detonation in my engine. During cruising and under acceleration the engine will ping under load and on hills. The car calls for premium gasoline and I use it every tankful but even if I use the highest-octane premium fuel the car still pings. Do you have any ideas on what it could be?

Thank you, Mark in Sioux Falls South Dakota.

Dear Mark,

This may not be as bad as you think, you have asked a great question and we want to address the fuel question first as its very important. If a car specifies premium fuel, it is important to use it. Not only does it ensure the best performance from the fuel that the car can deliver, it also allows the car to burn cleaner than using less than premium lower octane fuel. When the lower octane fuel is used it is possible to build up carbon deposits which can cause detonation. You may be using premium, but you could still have some carbon buildup in the engine which is contributing to the detonation. Carbon deposits can often be removed by getting a professional fuel system cleaning done. The kind we use cleans both the injection system and the combustion chambers which is what we suggest. A professional cleaning combined with regular use of premium fuel can make a difference in the amount of detonation you get from your engine. Good luck and enjoy that car.

Take care, the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I drive a 2009 Dodge caravan with the sport package. I use it for daily driving and on weekends I tow a boat in the summer and two snowmobiles in the winter. Last month my trailer light wiring harness that plugs in under the vehicle corroded so badly that I removed it from the main harness and carefully closed and protected the bare wires. After the plug removal I removed the tail lamps and carefully connected the trailer harness directly to the tail and brake lamp wires so they would not come off or short. I have hauled the trailer about three times now and on the most recent trip both turn signals failed. I don't see any burnt fuses, but I get to power to the lights.

Thank you, John in Palm Springs Florida

Dear John,

The caravans now contain a front electronic control module that controls lighting functions including the tail-lights and trailer lighting. When built, the trailer lights were on a separate circuit than the taillights. The tail lamp circuit is made to only carry the amp load of the two tail lamps and no more. If any extra load is added by way of a trailer the module can overload which can destroy it. The first step is to remove the added wiring and check fuses. If there is still no power you will need to have the module checked and possibly replaced.

Take care, the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2013 Camaro SS that's been in storage for two years while I was deployed overseas. There is a good chance that I will again be deployed and must store the car. I probably shouldn't have bought it but not having some family or other bills I felt moved to buy my dream car. When I got back the battery was completely dead, and I have not replaced it. I want to drive it but don't want to hurt anything so is there anything I should do before I start it up? My friends and I listen to your shows on podcast all the time on base. It keeps us going. We often listen to your callers' questions and try to guess what your answers might be.

Thank you, Jeffrey Marcus in California

Dear Jeffrey,

Thank you for your dedicated service to our country. The beauty of a newer car with a fuel injected engine is that if you properly store it you can return it to normal service easily. When storing it is a must to use a fuel stabilizer in the tank and to keep the battery in good condition use a battery maintainer. Talk with a local mechanic to get complete advice on other things to look out for but unless critters get into it while you are gone you should be able to store it often without having to do too much before driving.

Take care, the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2006 Dodge Durango and I lost the key fob. It's the kind with the remote opener for the doors built-in to the key head. I asked the dealership about a replacement fob and it was just too much, so I tried lock smiths and my local hardware store but neither one had the fob with the remote attached. I settled for a key that would start the vehicle without the remote for the doors attached. Is there anything else I can do besides spend several hundred dollars on the correct key so I can get my remote doors back?

Thank you, Taylor in Portland Maine

Dear Taylor,

Remote keyless entry fobs can be very expensive. While some fobs are as low as $40, we have seen others in the several hundred-dollar range and then they still need to be programmed to the vehicle. What you might consider since you have already bought a key is to go with an aftermarket system. You can either get a low budget one that just works the door locks or a very high-end system that will hit the basics and remotely start the car. If you have ever wanted a remote start now may be the time. If you just want basic locks, you may check one of the many online fob resources for an aftermarket remote to hang on your keychain. You still need to program them, but it should save some cash.

Take care, the Motor Medics
