~WHO ARE YOU~

God does not expect perfection in His people but God does expect obedience because it is through obedience that God can take our failures and turn them into a positive outcome. Some people are thinkers, others are doers. There are people who are very sociable and others are reserved. Most people are followers but some are leaders. A few people are even ahead of their time but most are not. There are people that are very athletic, yet most are average. Some are geniuses but they are few. There are people that are great speakers, some even for God. But not many. There are those people who have lots of talents and others who have just one. Yet regardless of great or average to which most people are, they are all equal before God and He has placed a purpose within them, a very special reason for their existence. And that is you, too. God have given you an assignment or maybe more than one. So, the question – are you doing it?

At the end of your life, you will not be judged according to perfection but you will be judged by what you did with your talents. Money and time and, most of all, the position of your heart toward God, by how you established a relationship with His Son, Jesus. Who, by the way, will be the Judge and He will know what kind of relationship you and He have. This will determine your forever destiny. Make sure you evaluate what you are doing now so that you'll be ready. You'll never know when that moment will arrive.

ASK THE MOTOR MEDICS®

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,

With gas prices constantly changing but always on the slow creep upwards overall, I want to save as much fuel as possible. I have been researching kits to burn hydrogen in my car and other ways to increase my mileage with additives to the tank that are supposed to increase efficiency. Do you guys know which kit is the best one out there and how well they work? Is it something I can do myself at home? What about the additives to the tank?

Thank you,
Craig in Forest Lake Minnesota

Dear Craig,

Keep researching, and you will find many people who have tried these things only to find they don't work as promised. Everyone wants better mileage, and they all want it cheaply. When the cost of fuel gets a sudden spike, you will see more of these kits on the market and offers of pills and additives claiming to be magic fixes for fuel mileage. If there was such a thing it's likely that the manufacturers would be making a good version of it to get their overall fuel ratings up. Not to say that someone won't come up with something that does the job at a price that makes it worthwhile but for now we have not seen anything. It's completely up to you to research these products and make a final decision but we very strongly recommend that you consult with your own local mechanic before making any purchase.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I just got my first car from my dad, a well-used rusty 2003 Chevy Impala and I was at the gas station filling it up for the second time or so and the guy next to me said I was doing it wrong and was going to wreck my car. He said I was overfilling it and need to stop when the pump clicks the first time. The problem is it clicks off when it's only half full and you must fill it really slow or keep clicking it. This is the way my dad had to fill it for the past couple years. What is this guy talking about and why does it click off so soon?

Thank you,
Mark in Parachute Colorado

Dear Mark,

The guy is right. The tank is designed to shut off the pump by backing fuel up the filler tube when it's full. If you overfill the tank by forcing fuel into it after it shuts off it will spill over into the emissions system canister damaging it. You and your dad may not have caused what is going on now. While overfilling can cause damage to the emissions system and result in the premature shut off, a failed tank vent valve can also cause this even without canister damage. Have the emissions system checked and if it is a valve, they can replace it so you can fill the tank faster but remember to stop when it clicks.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I drive a 2006 Toyota Camry and I am having a brake problem. I have owned the car since it was a year old and have had little issues with the car. I have kept detailed service records of all items I have needed at the dealership which is the only place that I have ever had work done. The brakes were first replaced back in 2010 when the car had 95k miles on it and they lasted until 2019 when they were replaced a second time at 140k miles. More years but less miles. The problem is that since that last repair the car has needed tow more sets of brake pads and rotors at only 20k miles each. I am the only one who drives the car, and the dealer says they cannot find any problems

Thank you,
Jules in Tiago North Dakota

Dear Jules,

That is a short time for brakes to last unless you have moved to an area with a much more mountainous terrain, or you have started riding the brakes for some reason. If the dealership has not been able to find any issues you may want to try a different shop for a second opinion. If it is not an induced issue due to terrain or driver habits things to check would be brake hoses and calipers for sticking as these are common areas to cause brakes to slightly stick and cause them to wear out quickly.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I drive a 2004 Chevy Tahoe and I am having window issues and door lock issues. For about two years now the windows have been dragging and getting slower and slower until the passenger side window stopped moving about an inch from the top and the driver's side failed right at the top. Both rear windows are also slow. The door locks wont lock unless you press the lock switch five or more times and with each press, they move a little more. Unlocking they are a little better. I live on a dirt road but wash my truck often and the inside is spotless so it should not be dirt.

Thank you,
Ralph in Lake Herman South Dakota

Dear Ralph,

It is quite common for door locks and windows to act like this with age. Dirt is usually the culprit even in town. The door panels will need to come off and the mechanisms cleaned and pay close attention to the window tracks. Clean and lube everything on the glass run with a dry lube and the lock rods with moly lube. The regulators will likely need replacement too. Once repairs are made, make sure everything is working and moving freely before placing the door panels back on the doors. Many people make these repairs themselves with the help of YouTube or a confident friend, but a shop can make the repairs for a reasonable cost. Ask your shop what costs would be.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

FOR ENTERTAINMENT ONLY • Always consult your local shop and follow all safety procedures before repairs.
