~THE CONVENIENCE OF CRISIS~

Someone once said never miss an opportunity to accomplish your purpose with a crisis. There have been some who will and have taken advantage of situations to promote their agendas and establish their plans to be in charge, to become the ruling authority over people (companies and nations). Crisis can come in forms of disasters or manmade.

All crises that take control of people are orchestrated by and attached to the heart of Satan and is a demonic move put together and directed by forces of darkness that want to reign over the souls and lives of people of all ages. And they don't care who is destroyed or what damage is done. These people come in all shapes, colors and ethnic backgrounds, from business to religion and of course politics.

Today all over the world people in authority positions have taken advantage of a situation where they can manipulate circumstances. These types of actions are from a rebellious dark spirit that they have given themselves over to exert power and make people do what they want so that they can control.

All of this is tied directly to hell. Satan's handprints are all over what is going on in the world that is making great efforts to take over the world. Especially America to unroot Christianity and sever the influence of God. But God is greater than what we face. Fear can be crushed with faith in God. Satan is no match for the God of the universe. God's Son, Jesus, reigns. Place your hope and keep your trust in the great and mighty God of all creation through Jesus Christ, His Son.

ASK THE MOTOR MEDICS®

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,

I'm having trouble listening to your car radio show. It's not so much you guys but rather my car. If I listen at home or in my friend's car it's loud and clear but I just can't seem to get good reception on my vehicle radio. The truck has about 100k miles and is a 2011 Chevy. I started getting poor reception a few years ago and it has become worse. The FM reception is poor, and the AM is very poor. It has kind of a popping sound that changes speed of pops as the engine changes speed. Where would I begin to fix this problem myself?

Thank you,
Mike in Joplin Missouri

Dear Mike,

It could be many things that won't be too hard to fix if you have some basic mechanical skills. It could also be the entire radio but let's start with checking the cheaper stuff first. A radio is only as good as its antenna so start there. Check the mast and the mounting. The antenna should be tight where it mounts to the vehicle. Check the cable as well. The cable needs to have no corrosion at any connector joint from the antenna to the radio. If all looks good try a test antenna that is not mounted to the vehicle. If it fixes the problem, it is likely the antenna. If not, then it is time to have some diagnostics done at the local radio repair shop.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I don't have any jumper cables in my car at this time and would like to start carrying some. You would think it would be a simple task, just going to the store and picking out a nice set but when I did, I got so confused that I had to write. They have big ones and small ones and ones that go in the lighter socket. They have jumper boxes you recharge. Where do I start? Can you help me with the different kinds and what might be better for me? I have not needed to jump my vehicle ever, but I park in a ramp at work and every week it seems like one of my friends needs a jump and I'm just a helping kind of person.

Thank you,
Sam in Eules Texas

Dear Sam,

There are a lot of choices yes, but what you choose will depend on personal preference and how you will be using any of the items that you mentioned. Heavy gauge jumper cables with large ends are good for jumping a car quickly and often. A rechargeable jump pack also works well for this. The difference is you need to get close with your vehicle to connect cables while the pack is self-contained. Very small gauge cables need more time to charge before cranking and the one for the lighter-to-lighter socket can take a very long time and not provide the needed cranking amperage you need.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

We have had a lot of flooding in our area due to heavy rain after a record cold and snow. I drive a 2010 Chevy Cobalt and it is extremely low to the ground with the lowering kit I installed on it. Last week I was driving home, and I ran into a flooded area and since no one reading this will know it was me, hopefully, I thought I would be cool and see how fast I could go and make a huge spray of water up on the side of the road. Well, the car made it about 100 feet and suddenly died. The engine would not turn over. I had a buddy to it home and we found water in the air filter, so we drained it and had to pull the spark plugs and get the water out. Since then, the car has a mis on one plug that will not fire but it is sparking and is dry now. What is going on.

Thank you,
Greg in Kilgore Texas

Dear Greg,

Driving a car into water is never a good idea. Sometimes the road may be washed out underneath or it can get sucked up into the engine or maybe something is on the road you cannot see. Never a good idea. Never. So, your problem. When water gets into and engine it can bend rods Since you have spark the next step is to check compression for loss.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

My car seems to be possessed. I have a 2015 Chevrolet Impala with over 200k miles, and it runs perfect other than that sometimes the doors will lock when I start the car without pushing any buttons and when the outside temp gets below 10 degrees it sometimes starts itself and runs for about 20 minutes then shuts off. I have had it at a local shop three times for the starting issue and they cannot find it but never have seen it. This has happened at least five times in the past year. My car does not have a remote start so it cannot be that. I have owned it for three years and this year is the first time it has done this.

Thank you,
Michelle in Fergus Falls Minnesota

Dear Michelle,

Yes, your car may be possessed, by the remote start ghost. The only way a car can start and run by itself for a predetermined amount of time like yours is doing is to be running on a remote start. Since you say that the car runs for twenty minutes, we can rule out the factory remote start because they are limited to ten minutes on a GM car. It must be an aftermarket unit. You may not have a remote for it but if a mechanic checks under the dash under the cover they will likely find one. Have it removed if it is malfunctioning or get it replaced.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Be Creative Descriptive. List major selling points (price, color, size, features or options).

Be Factual. Be Helpful. Include hours of operation, best days and times in which to make contact as well as area code on phone numbers.
