THE ONES THAT HOLD THE KEY~

I wonder just how many of the Christians in America realize the very importance of their position as Christians. I am not talking about cultural Christians or those that believe they have the right to be a Christian. I'm talking about born-again Christians. People that have the right to use Jesus' name when they pray and enter in before the throne of God, those that repented of their sins and asked Jesus to become Lord of their lives and became a new creature, as the Bible says, in Christ. I'm not saying that God does not hear a person's prayer. I'm saying that followers of Jesus have the authority to see things done by their prayers.

These are the people that hold the key to heaven with their prayers. As they pray in faith, that unlocks the doors to God's throne room. Those who ask in Jesus name, as the Bible says, God will listen and act on their behalf. These are the ones who hold the key to seeing God move on behalf of our nation. Those who know how to go to their knees, who put self aside and cry out to a Holy God for justice and truth to prevail. Only these Christians can shift the situations we are facing. Good old boys will still be patriotic and use force, but Christians first take up prayer because their weapons are spiritual simply because this is a spiritual battle we are truly facing. Christians have the authority, through Jesus Christ, to move the mountains of troubles America now faces. For if the Christians don't prevail, other options are more costly.

The nation is at a crossroads. There is no middle ground. You either seek God and cooperate with Him to see our circumstances turn around or, I fear, all hell as we can understand it, for now, is going to break out. We are living at a very dangerous time in this nation's future. God can win it through our obedience to obey Him. It is all up to the Christians if they will.

CRYPTO FUN

Determine the code to reveal the answer!

Solve the code to discover words related to poetry. Each number corresponds to a letter. (Hint: 25 = E)

A. 6 13 16 22 25
Clue: Sounds alike

B. 8 25 6 5 25
Clue: Written in metrical rhythm

C. 5 9 10 23 20 10
Clue: A group of lines in a poem

D. 24 2 9 25 6 10 9 17 6 25
Clue: Written works

Answers: A. Rhyme B. Verse C. Stanza D. Iambic

3	9	6	5	8	4
7	4	5	6	2	1
1	8	2	7	3	9

ANSWER:

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

ASK THE MOTOR MEDICS®

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,

My business purchased a brand-new vehicle and during the delivery at the dealership they told me to bring it back to them for all service to ensure the warranty will remain in effect. They did not tell me directly that the warranty would be void if I had it serviced elsewhere but they strongly implied so. I have been a faithful customer of another dealership for many years, but my company decided to go with this model and being a company supplied vehicle that is free for me to drive I have to live with their choice. They do give me the choice of where to have my service work done as I live 80 miles from that dealership. My question to you is can they void my warranty because I have my general service work done elsewhere? This is my first car I have driven that has had any kind of warranty at all. My personal cars have all been 3-5 years old when I buy them.

Thank you,
Belinda in Friendly Minnesota

Dear Belinda,

The dealership would love to have you back for all your service work. Most dealerships can assure that you can get all the service that you need to take care of your car, however, so can almost any independent repair facility out there. You can choose to have your non-warranty work performed anywhere as long as the parts used meet or exceed factory specifications.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I am in need of a third set of intake gaskets on my car in an eight-year period. I now have 150,000 miles on my car and the first set went out at 40,000. I have searched the internet and found countless people with the same engine style in their cars and vans with the same issue. How can the manufacturer have so many failures out there and not have a recall on them? I have owned other cars with recalls for things that weren't even broken, and I could not find anyone else with the issue, these gaskets are almost an epidemic with no recall. Why don't they recall them?

Thank you,
John in Owensboro, KY

Dear John,

I know what you mean. I too own a car that I've had to pay for repairs on myself many times over and I felt the parts should have been designed better. For a recall to be issued complaints must be filed with the government safety office and then they are investigated to determine if they are safety related which could cause consumer harm. Recalls are not usually issued if there is no safety concern. A manufacturer does not have to repair a vehicle out of its warranty period unless a repair is deemed to be a safety hazard and a recall has been started. On occasion, some manufacturers have extended warranty coverage as a good faith measure to retain customers.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2014 Ford F350 with the diesel engine 6.7 four-wheel drive and I have been having a lot of issues with my DEF, Diesel Exhaust Fluid System. I purchased the truck new and have been very happy with it but this system has been the cause of a lot of trouble. I had the complete system replaced three times under warranty and had to wait for parts for it for over two weeks due to backorders and now that it is out of warranty they tell me I need another complete system at a cost of over $3k and it is also on backorder possibly for a month. This is a work truck so I cannot wait for parts, but the dash says reduced power and I can't drive it very fast. Is there a way around the system until it can get fixed and do I have to repair it?

Thank you,
Randy in Saint Jo Missouri

Dear Randy,

The Diesel Emissions have started to become problematic on many makes and models. They are awfully expensive to fix and, in some cases, restrict fuel economy and cause drivers to park their vehicles while they wait to be fixed. There is no legal way around the problem right now. Removing or bypassing the systems is against federal law. In the case of one that has less than 100k miles make sure to check with the dealer for extended warranty coverage of the parts as well.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I just purchased a first car for my 16-year-old daughter. She had her heart set on a 2001 VW Beetle. I have listened to your radio show and heard you talk about a used car pre-purchase inspection to make sure you don't get a car needing a lot of expensive repairs and you saved me a lot of cash. We looked at four of these cars and the first one had rust which was a safety issue and the next two had never had a timing belt change at 120k miles and the owners were not willing to drop the price to help us with the $1k belt change cost. The last one was perfect only needing a belt and the owner helped us with the cost of replacing it. It does have a weird clunk in the back every time we come to a stop at about 20 mph it goes thump. It will not do it unless we have been over 65mph first though.

Thank you,
Ben in Waterloo Iowa

Dear Ben,

Great job on the used car inspection. They often reveal cost saving problems. As for the clunk in the back we may have an idea. Some of these cars had an automatic rear spoiler which only deploys at higher road speeds. In town you would not have it deploy but over 60 you should and when you slow to under 30 it retracts and with age, they can become quite noisy.

Take care,
the Motor Medics
