WHAT BRINGS SEPERATION~

. To be a Christian, you must die to the old sinful way of life you once lived and bear fruit for God. When you allow yourself to live according to your flesh, you'll be trapped by its sinful passions and if you continue to willingly let sin rule in your life, this will lead to death apart from God. Sin will find an opportunity to express itself when its is given an opening into your life unless you guard yourself through a relationship with Jesus Christ. Sin will eventually get into your life enough to lead you away from God and eventually landing you in hell unless you give way and surrender your life to Jesus and let Him be Lord over your life. There is a consequence for allowing sin to have its place in your life. It brings separation from God and if it continues. There are no works, no good deeds, that can earn salvation from God. Only by the way of the Cross of Christ can there be eternal life. Jesus Christ's death for all sin was dealt with at the cross and this will be your victory, as well, over the troubles of this world, when you put your life in God's care. God's word is truth. God's word is powerful and every true believer that belongs to God through Christ has a new life powered by the Holy Spirit of God. Sin will try to seize every opportunity it can to deceive, to entice, to draw you in if its is given place near your life. You must guard your heart from satan or he will steal it and eventually bring much destruction. You must keep your heart and mind aligned with Christ and live near Him.

ASK THE MOTOR MEDICS®

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,

We purchased a two-year-old Ford Truck that has the flex fuel option. I've never owned a flex fuel vehicle so I read the owner's manual and at your suggestion went to fueleconomy.gov to get an idea of what kind of mileage it should get. They claim about five mpg more than what we are getting. The truck was a lease vehicle and has about 70,000 miles which seems high for two years, but they say it was taken care of. What can we do to improve the fuel economy? 10mpg on the highway for most of the time using e85 seems very low. Your answers are always appreciated.

Thank you,
Darren in Lemmon SD

Dear Darren,

Driving the truck primarily on the highway and assuming it's in perfect tune, you are not carrying extra weight, and you are using no ethanol fuel, it should do better. With 70,000 miles on the truck even though they claim it has been well taken care of it likely has not had much work done in the way of tuning. It's two years old, it just doesn't happen much. Without a fuel system cleaning you can lose a couple mpg and using e85 will take another couple. Being flex fuel you can use a blend. If available, try 30% and check the mileage. That percentage has resulted in an increase for many of our customers with flex fuel vehicles over e85 or nothing.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I'm thinking of buying a Saturn Vue. It's got some miles but is a very nice vehicle. There's only one thing that's keeping me from it and that's because they're no longer in business. This holds true for other companies as well, but they were bigger. If I buy this thing and I need to have it worked on will they be able to find parts for it? It's a great deal but not if I must park it because I can't fix it.

What do you guys think?

Thank you,
Todd in Yankton, SD

Dear Todd,

Yes Saturn is gone but this vehicle shares many of the common drivetrain parts with other vehicles and the aftermarket makes many commonly used parts for popular vehicles, so you don't have to rely solely on the manufacturer. For most unique parts like body and interior that are still available you would purchase them through a GM store. Many companies that are still in business today have discontinued less popular parts to save money and they can be tricky to find. Popularity commonly drives what is available. We have found ourselves looking for parts on a three-year-old vehicle that is out of warranty and at times just could not come up with a new part.

In most cases we were able to find a good used part as an option and get the customer going and save them some money as well.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2011 Camaro V6 that has been in storage for 14 months while I was deployed overseas. There is a good chance that I will again be deployed and must store the car. I probably should not have bought it but not having some family or other bills I felt moved to buy my dream car. When I got back the battery was completely dead, and I have not replaced it. I want to drive it but do not want to hurt anything so is there anything I should do before I start it up? My friends and I listen to your shows on podcast all the time on base. It keeps us going. We often listen to your callers' questions and try to guess what your answers might be.

Thank you,
PFC. Dave in Dallas Texas

Dear Dave,

Thank you for your dedicated service to our country. The beauty of a newer car with a direct injected engine is that if you properly store it you can return it to normal service fairly easily. When storing it is a must to use a fuel stabilizer in the tank and to keep the battery in good condition use a battery maintainer. Talk with a local mechanic to get complete advice on other things to look out for but unless critters get into it while you are gone you should be able to store it often without having to do too much before driving.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2006 Dodge Durango and I lost the key. It's the kind with the remote opener for the doors built-in to the key head. I asked the dealership about a replacement key and it was just too much so I tried lock smiths and my local hardware store but neither one had the key with the remote attached. I settled for a key that would start the vehicle without the remote for the doors attached. Is there anything else I can do besides spending several hundred dollars on the correct key so I can get my remote doors back?

Thank you,
Taylor in Portland Maine

Dear Taylor,

Remote keyless entry fobs can be awfully expensive. While some key fobs are as low as $40, we have seen others in the several hundred-dollar range and then they still need to be programmed to the vehicle. What you might consider since you have already bought a key is to go with an aftermarket system. You can either get a low budget one that just works the door locks or a very high-end system that will hit the basics and remotely start the car. If you have ever wanted a remote start now may be the time. If you just want basic locks, you may check one of the many online fob resources for an aftermarket remote to hang on your keychain. You still need to program but it should save some cash.

Take care,
the Motor Medics
