~ Is This Who You Are ~

If you feel that you are a child of God, that you are His and that you are secure with making heaven as your eternal home, then let me ask you, do these words from the Bible describe your daily life? Show respect for all people, treat them honorably, fear God, be submissive to your masters and with proper respect, do what is right.

If you are confident about eternal security in Jesus Christ, will these words of the Bible match up with your life? Does your life find favor with God? Do you follow the footsteps of Christ? Your relationship with God must not be merely external but internal. So, do not be preoccupied with outward appearances of worldliness.

If you say you are a believer, you then have been called for a purpose. Are you following that purpose? Here's what the Bible says; your relationship with God must spring forth from you by the inner beauty of Christ in you, showing the quality of a gentle and peaceful spirit being self-controlled and not over-anxious but spiritually mature which is very precious in the sight of God.

If you consider yourself as a follower of Jesus Christ, then be respectful of who He is as God's only begotten Son and what He has done for all humanity. Show honor and respect to others as an heir of God's grace that your life and your prayers, will not be hindered or ineffective. As a Christian, does this describe you and reflect your lifestyle?

ASK THE MOTOR MEDICS®

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 1994 Stealth RT without the turbocharged engine. I have gone through 2 new batteries in a short period of time. Is it possible that a failing alternator can ruin a battery? If so, I would like to know if there is a way to check if the alternator has actually failed. Are there specific testing methods that can be used to narrow the cause down? I listen to your show faithfully. Thanks for your time.

Thank you,
Karen in Fargo

Dear Karen,

A failing alternator can ruin a battery in a short period of time. If it's overcharging or is draining current when off, it will discharge the battery after it sits for extended periods. Even if it does not sit long enough to run completely down it can cause the battery to fail due to its heavy discharge/charge cycles.

To check the alternator, you need to have a charging system analysis done with a charging system tester. This will show the internal operation of the alternator, diodes, field, and ability to charge at idle and at higher rpm but will not show a drain. To find a drain they will need to perform is a current drain test. Most shops with this type of tool will also have an electronic battery testing tool. It is possible that you have had a run of bad luck with two bad batteries. It has happened to us in our shop before.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I drive a Ford F150 which I bought new in 2004. I have been hearing some news from other Ford owners in my area who have had some issues with cam phasers failing in their engines. My question is what should I be doing to give me the best chance at preventing this from happening to my engine? I drive the truck only a few miles to work every day and change the oil about every four months.

Thank you,
Dean in Moberly Missouri

Dear Dean,

The 5.4 has been used in hundreds of thousands of Fords without issue but a few have been known to develop issues with the cam phasers or lose just a bit of oil pressure which keeps the phasers from operating properly. Repairs involve phaser replacement or sometimes an entire engine. The best way to prevent this from happening is with routine oil changes. Ford recommends using their factory specified oil or something of better ratings and a Ford genuine filter. There are copies of this filter on the market so make sure you are getting the genuine Ford product.

As for time intervals we would suggest changing the oil at three months. The short trips are harder on the oil and engine as the engine does not get up to operating temperature for a long enough period to completely burn off all traces of moisture in the oil which can result in sludge in the engine.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

Guys I've listened to the show for years and I feel I'm well versed in the basics of auto repair so when I was told I had killed my car because of something I had done dozens of times in the past on other vehicles I was concerned. I purchased a used 2010 Toyota Prius Hybrid for the fuel savings and the technology. After a few weeks of driving the battery failed in my driveway and I could not get it started. I figured I would just give it a quick charge then drive to the store to pick up a new battery and that's where it all went bad. I connected my charger for a few hours and then tried to start it, but it would still not run. I then installed a new battery and the car powered on but would not move. I had it towed to the dealer and they inspected it then called me to say that charging the car caused a failure in two of the vehicle computers. They did not tell me why, but I had no choice, so I just fixed it. How can this be?

Thank you,
Chris in Berkley California

Dear Chris,

Chargers can put out 20 volts or more without a load so when connected to a totally dead battery that voltage can destroy the computers. Always verify the proper charging procedure before charging your car to avoid this kind of damage.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I'm all shook up literally. I can't seem to get my car to stop vibrating at all speeds. The problem seems to be worse when I am less than 30mph, but I feel it all the time. Sometimes at low speeds the steering wheel even shakes left to right. The vibration started a few months back and seems to be about the same. My tires are about two years old and have 20k miles on them and appear to be in good shape with no excessive wear. My mechanic said the front-end components all look very good and that my tires are properly balanced. Do you have any thoughts?

Thank you,
Juanita in Sioux Falls South Dakota

Dear Juanita,

It sounds like you may not have a tire balance issue but rather a tire belt issue. You can balance a square tire, really you can, but it will only be smooth on the tire machine. What I'm saying is even if the weight of the tire is balanced out the tread can be irregularly shaped causing a hop or side to side movement when in contact with the road. With the vehicle on the shop's hoist ask them to observe the tread of the tire and see if it stays steady as the tire rotates. If it has a lot of movement up and down or side to side, you may have a broken belt which is causing the shaking you are experiencing.

Take care,
the Motor Medics
