~ Instructions for Life ~

God indeed loves His people. All His holy ones are in His hands. They that follow in His steps- those that accept and receive His instructions- God will be a help against their enemies. The eternal God is your refuge, your dwelling place. Your strength, rest and security will be within His everlasting arms.

Proclaim the name and the presence of the Lord. Ascribe greatness and honor to our God, the rock. His work is perfect, for all His ways are just. A God of faithfulness, without iniquity or injustice. For just and upright is He. Know that He is God and there is no other God besides Him. It is He who allows death and who gives life. There is no one that can deliver from the power of His hand.

It is the Lord your God who will go ahead of you to lead you in the way you should go. Seek His path and you will succeed in your journey. You need not fear when it is the Lord who goes before you. He will not abandon you. Be strong and courageous. Do not be afraid, for the Lord will not fail you.

(These words are from Deuteronomy 31-33. They are Moses' parting words to the Israelites- and also for you today, if you will heed them.)

ASK THE MOTOR MEDICS®

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,

I've got a power steering leak on my Mazda Protege that's been getting worse over the past year. When it started it was just a small drip but as it has become worse it is now to the point where I must add fluid to it every time, I drive the car. I only drive about 100 miles a week for work and if I don't fill it the car makes an embarrassing noise. Due to the cost can I just let it run out and drive it with no power steering? It doesn't seem that hard to turn when its empty.

Thank you,
Mark in Bowling Green Kentucky

Dear Mark,

Power steering leaks are common as cars age and should be repaired quickly for many reasons. When oils leak, they can cause the car to become hard to turn, become a fire hazard, and also cause other components to fail due to oil intrusion which are all safety concerns. We have seen folks let their systems run dry and it is not good. The car is not only hard to steer but the lack of lubrication in the pump can cause it to overheat and even melt the shaft which can lead to belt loss and the engine being damaged. See what your local mechanic can do for you. They may be able to find a used part to make the repair which can save you a ton of your money.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

What are sway bar end links? I have had a knock under my Dodge caravan for over a year and I have had multiple parts replaced under the vehicle including struts, tie rod ends and more. Now they say I need these sway bar links. I'm just a little apprehensive after spending all this cash and still having a noise.

Thank you,
Brenda in Watertown South Dakota

Dear Brenda,

That's why we're here, to help folks understand how their vehicle works so that they are more comfortable when things need attention. Hopefully that will help them save a little on repairs also. The sway bar end links connect the end of the vehicles anti-roll or sway bar to the vehicle's suspension. The ends look similar to a trailer hitch ball and if it becomes worn the joint will make a considerable amount of noise as it is transferred to the body. This sound is a clunk which can best be heard when driving across a parking lot or in town over very small bumps where the body shifts a lot. These parts are not usually real expensive but can be labor intensive if they are rusted in place. It sounds like you have had a lot of suspension work done looking for a noise. The sway bar links are one of the first things we look at in our shop and cheap compared to struts. Talk with your shop about why they weren't noticed.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I've got a noise under my hood that despite several attempts at repair persists. The vehicle is a 2004 Chevy Tahoe with the 5.3 engine and upon startup it will chirp from the engine drive belts for about 15 minutes no matter what the conditions. We have tried to repair this by switching the belt which resolved it for about a week. The next thing we tried was to replace the tensioner in hopes that the belt tension was incorrect. After the tensioner replacement, it lasted another week then was back to chirping again. Have you had this problem before and if so what kind of things have you done to stop the noise? My mechanic suggests trying a Gatorback belt. What is a Gatorback belt, and do you think it may help?

Thank you,
Daryl in Sheldon Iowa.

Dear Daryl,

When we have belt squeaks, we look very closely at all of the rotating parts to make certain there is not a problem with alignment or wear that could be the root cause of the noise. We also check for proper tension and make sure the pulleys all have good bearings. With that all done we install a new belt and if it squeaks again soon after we sometimes use the Gatorback belt which is different in design in that it has grooves on both sides of the belt which can help to eliminate noise by providing a better gripping surface area.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

Every time fuel prices go up, I start to see products on the market that claim to increase fuel mileage. Some are claiming to increase up to 4 mpg! These products range from a pill you drop in the tank at fill-up to devices installed into the air cleaner and other crazy things. If these products are so good, why are the car manufactures not installing them at the factory instead of spending millions of dollars researching how to increase fuel mileage? And if there is a "pill" you can just drop in the tank to do the same then why don't the gas companies make a fuel that contains the pill contents in it already and market it as a fuel that gives you better mileage than the other guys?

Thank you,
Trent in Decorah Iowa

Dear Trent,

While there are a few products that will help your car get a very limited increase in mileage, there are many more that are just a waste of your money. Before you buy be very diligent in your research of each product. You will find that many have not been proven to work and the ones that do may not be cost effective. You may spend more for the product than you will make up for with the limited mileage gain. As you said, if it were so good the manufacturers and fuel companies would use it to meet their goals and improve their sales.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

ASK THE MOTOR MEDICS®

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,

I've got a 2006 GMC Yukon with a bad A/C leak. I have re-filled it each summer for the past couple years with the leak going unfound but now it has become quite large, and they have finally found it. The leak is coming from the rear A/C lines that run under the vehicle just over the passenger side rear tire. They tell me the rocks from the tire have caused abrasion of the line and the only way to fix it is to replace the entire line set. The cost of repairs for the lines is over 1000.00 and I am looking for alternatives to get my air back. Do you have any suggestions for me?.

Thank you,
Tom in Philadelphia PA

Dear Tom,

If the lines only have a leak in the one spot just over the tire, then you may be in luck. There are now line repair kits that can install a splice into the line where it is damaged. If the line has extensive damage over a significant area, it can't be done but for a short one foot or less section, which is very common on your model at that location it is a possibility that it can be done. If your shop won't do it check around for one that will. You may find your repair costs cut by more than half and in the game of auto repairing every dollar you can save is a blessing

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

My Dodge Caravan is doing a strange thing. Over the past six months it has had random ghosts in it and my kids say it's possessed and I'm starting to think so myself. First the cruise control would shut off by itself, then the radio would change stations on its own and the volume would go all the way up without anyone touching it. That was just the beginning. My horn has not worked for two months but now when I'm turning it sometimes honks by itself and the people in front of me think I'm honking at them. This morning the air bag light came on too so I'm waiting for it to blow off in my face as I drive so I'm at my wits end. Where do I go from here?

Thank you,
Gina in Okmulgee Oklahoma

Dear Gina,

It is possessed, next email please. Just kidding. It sounds like the old, failed clock spring issue. There is a sliding contactor in the steering column that makes all electrical connection for everything in the steering wheel by way of a flat cable wrapped up like a clock spring. If the cable breaks down with age it can short together and cause all sorts of weird stuff to happen and in the case of the air bag can be dangerous. There were some free safety recalls from Dodge on a few so call them to check but get in for repairs fast.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2011 Honda Civic and it specifies that I use a fully synthetic oil of very low weight. I have never seen oil with this low of a weight rating, so I worry about protection and it's also very expensive as compared to regular conventional oil. My question is this, can I use conventional oil and go with a heavier weight like a 5w30 and get the same protection at a lower cost? I want to protect my engine but also be as economical as possible..

Thank you,
Brad in Williamsport Pennsylvania

Dear Brad,

No, that's about as easy as I can put it. The manufacturers have gone to lower weight oil to increase fuel mileage through less drag and reduce emissions due to stricter government standards and a demand for better fuel economy. When they changed to the lower weight oil, they also engineered the engine to run with it. This means that the engine will not lubricate properly with heavier weight oil. As for the synthetic part there are many reasons that it is required, some of which are reduced friction for the mileage and emissions, better stability to protect at the lower weight ratings, and less sludge buildup in the engine. If you were to switch to higher weight oil or use non-synthetic oil, you could risk damage to the engine that would not be covered by the warranty. Always use the manufacturer's recommended oils in your engine.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I drive a 2004 Buick Regal with 110,000 miles and it felt just broke-in, but lately my feelings about the car are leaning more towards just plain broken. I have not had to do much more than general maintenance to the car, oil, coolant, transmission fluid changes and tires are about it. In the last six months it's been bigger things like starters, alternators, and wiper motors. I'm beginning to wonder where it will all stop. The latest failing item that has me writing to you because I can't duplicate it for my local shop is smoke that comes from my steering column by the steering wheel. It has happened three times at random. I am worried that the car may catch fire. Do you have any ideas, or should I just sell it?

Thank you,
Karen in Bennington, Vermont

Dear Karen,

We can help. Older cars can be great if they've been well maintained, but eventually all will need something. It sounds like you are just in a spell of breakdowns that hopefully will pass. As for the smoke I suspect that you have an issue with the turn signal switch. This was a common area for a breakdown of the contacts that causes a hotter than normal condition resulting in the grease that coats the contacts smoking. I have never seen one catch fire, but you need to have it and the wiring checked right away. I hope this helps you out.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

WATCH FOR SIGNS RESTROOMS PROVIDED SNACK SNACK AVAILABLE

To settle the estate of the late Sharon Pogue, we have scheduled an excellent auction to help bring in the new year. There is an abundance of sewing, kitchen and household items along with some nice furniture. We have the privilege to offer a nice piece of real estate as well. Well-built home and shop on a little bit of acreage, makes this the place to call home. This is a partial listing with many more items come sale day. Parking may be somewhat limited.
