Fun By The Numbers
Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

~ On What Side? ~

The Bible is the very best guide in showing a person what side of the line they are with God. 1 John 3 does a good job and explaining just who is a follower of Christ. Read it for yourself and then evaluate where you stand with God. Here's what it is saying...

Everyone who practices sin also practices lawlessness. That word means ignoring God's law by action or neglect, or by tolerating wrongdoing, or being unrestrained by God's commands and His will. No one who abides in God remains united in fellowship with Him if they deliberately and continually practice sin. They do not know God. The one who practices righteousness and strives to live a consistent and honorable life in private as well as in public conforms to righteousness, as God is righteous.

A person who practices sin separates themselves from God and offends Him by their acts of disobedience, indifference and rebellion. This is of the devil, and they take their inner character and values from the devil, not God. Jesus the Son of God came to destroy the works of the devil. No one born again with Christ can knowingly practice sin because the essence of God's righteous character is to be intolerant of sin. The one who habitually keeps God's commandments by obeying God's Word abides with Him.

ASK THE MOTORMEDICS®

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,

I just bought a 2010 Ford Explorer and it's the first 4x4 I've owned that has electric shift on the dash instead of the floor. I'm more of a manual shift kind of guy but now that I'm a bit older I've traded the full size F350 for something a bit smaller. It was the wife... She made me do it. My question is how well do the electric shift units work? It just seems like it would be weaker in my opinion, and I have yet to be able to get it to shift into 4x4 low range. It didn't come with a manual but how hard can it be? Just push the 4x4 button, or am I missing something? Love the Under The Hood show guys!

Thank you,
Ray in Lykens Pennsylvania

Dear Ray,

Sorry about your loss, the big truck that is, but that Explorer is also a good rig. The electric 4x4 has been around for many years and it's just the shifting mechanism that's electric. Kind of like remote control if you want to think of it that way. Just select what you want, like on the TV, and that's what you get. To engage the low function, it is a bit more involved. While this one can go into 4x4 high while on the highway the low needs to be parked, in neutral and foot on the brake. If that won't work, it's off to the repair shop.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

Guys I'm having a problem with my wheels on my Chrysler 300 leaking air on a daily basis. I lose around 5 pounds of pressure almost daily and it has been annoying going to the store everyday to put air in them. I've tried going to the tire store 4 times where they looked for leaks and found none. On the fourth trip they suggested taking off the tires, cleaning the bead and sealing them with bead glue for tires which should fix any leaks I could have. they also replaced all 4 valve stems. Guess what, it didn't fix a thing. What could be leaking? the tires only have 10k miles on them and look perfect

Thank you,
Troy in Scotts Bluff Nebraska

Dear Troy,

Welcome to the leaky wheel club. If they've checked all the items, you have listed then it only leaves the wheels. While a wheel may look good it can become very porous with age and that can lead to leakage. And when we say leakage, we mean right through the actual surface of the wheel on all areas not just the tire sealing surface. While you can't see it, there are microscopic pores in the wheel that you could see under a very high-power microscope. To the air it might as well be a screen door. The only fix we have ever seen is a set of new or used replacement wheels once this has occurred.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2003 Chevy suburban with 200,000 miles on it, but it runs and looks great! No really...I'm serious. I want to know is about the tire pressure monitors and if I can reset them at home. The owner's manual says I can. I service the vehicle regularly and they charge me for resetting the monitor every time I have the tires rotated but the rotation is free with the oil change. Love the show!

Thank you,
Myron in Kansas City Missouri

Dear Myron,

Tire pressure monitors on this vehicle can be reset at home without special tools but not all vehicles are this way so you will have to spend the money in some cases. To reset the monitors on this vehicle is relatively simple. When the tires have changed positions i.e., rotating, a relearn must be done. Start by applying the parking brake, next turn the key to the on position then turn the headlamp switch from off to park lamp three times within five seconds of key on and the horn will beep twice. Now you must decrease the tire pressure starting with the driver's side front tire until the horn beeps. Move to the passenger side front tire then the passenger rear tire and last the drivers rear tire. When you are done with the last tire turn the key off and inflate the tires to the correct pressure. It gets easier once you have done it once.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I broke my daughters' car, and she won't leave me alone about it. Never mind that I am the one who bought the car and pays for the insurance, the gas, the tires, I could go on forever but she's just not going to get it. I didn't even break it that bad. I borrowed the car and when I went to adjust the rear-view mirror it fell off. I'd tell you the story of what happened when she borrowed my car last, but she would never get over the embarrassment. Anyways, I am stuck with this mirror thing. The metal tab that should be stuck to the window won't stick. I have tried many kinds of glue and it just keeps coming off. Can you help me get this fixed so that I can get my life back?

Thank you,
Helen in Duluth Minnesota

Dear Helen,

Isn't it fun how these things work? At least you didn't break something more serious. If you had, we could probably help you with that too. As for the mirror, you just need better glue. What you need is special glass glue for mirrors that is available at auto parts stores. Ask the counter guy and they will help. Make sure to follow directions exactly, cleaning as directed and don't over apply the product. When they say one drop, they mean it. Once installed it won't come off so be sure to align it right.

Take care,
the Motor Medics
