~ A Common Mistake ~

The Bible points something out about the beginning of mankind in Genesis. As the story of life begins, since then millions of people have passed from this life into the next life. And the Bible makes it perfectly clear that there are two places mankind will end up in when they die and leave this world.

Death is real, and a common mistake made by so many people is how they view life after death. The Bible points out what happens at death. In Hebrews 10:28, it says that it is appointed unto all people once to die, but after this the judgement.

The Bible also explains that we all, when death comes, have to stand before the judgement seat of Christ. That means you and I have to meet Jesus face-to-face, and all we've done will be reviewed. And according to those things, we will be judged.

Think about that. Everything you've done will be presented, and you and I are going to receive what is to come next. It is a common mistake a lot of people make is to believe God is not watching our lifestyles and that we won't have to answer for them and ever consider the ultimate cost. The Bible points out in Hebrews 10:31 that it is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God.

 Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,
 I have a 1994 Stealth RT without the turbocharged engine. I have gone through 2 new batteries in a short period of time. Is it possible that a failing alternator can ruin a battery? If so, I would like to know if there is a way to check if the alternator has actually failed. Are there specific testing methods that can be used to narrow the cause down? I listen to your show faithfully. Thanks for your time.

Thank you,
 Karen in Fargo

Dear Karen,
 A failing alternator can ruin a battery in a short period of time. If it's overcharging or is draining current when off it will discharge the battery after it sits for extended periods. Even if it does not sit long enough to run completely down it can cause the battery to fail due to its heavy discharge/charge cycles.

To check the alternator, you need to have a charging system analysis done with a charging system tester. This will show the internal operation of the alternator, diodes, field, and ability to charge at idle and at higher rpm but will not show a drain. To find a drain they will need to perform is a current drain test. Most shops with this type of tool will also have an electronic battery testing tool. It is possible that you have had a run of bad luck with two bad batteries. It has happened to us in our shop before.

Take care,
 the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,
 I drive a Ford F150 which I bought new in 2004. I have been hearing some news from other Ford owners in my area who have had some issues with cam phasers failing in their engines. My question is what should I be doing to give me the best chance of preventing this from happening to my engine? I drive the truck only a few miles to work every day and change the oil about every four months.

Thank you,
 Dean in Moberly Missouri

Dear Dean,
 The 5.4 has been used in hundreds of thousands of Fords without issue but a few have been known to develop issues with the cam phasers or lose just a bit of oil pressure which keeps the phasers from operating properly. Repairs involve phaser replacement or sometimes an entire engine. The best way to prevent this from happening is with routine oil changes. Ford recommends using their factory specified oil or something of better ratings and a Ford genuine filter. There are copies of this filter on the market so make sure you are getting the genuine Ford product. As for time intervals we would suggest changing the oil at three months. The short trips are harder on the oil and engine as the engine does not get up to operating temperature for a long enough period to completely burn off all traces of moisture in the oil which can result in sludge in the engine.

Take care,
 the Motor Medics

ASK THE MOTOR MEDICS®

Dear Motor Medics,

My car runs pretty well, and I am not one to bring it in just to have it checked over once in a while. I am more of the kind of person who visits the shop once the car has broken down. After listening to your show, I am thinking I may be able to save some money by doing some preventative maintenance instead of waiting for major breakdowns. Recently my brakes started making some noise, but they don't do it every day. How can I tell the difference between needing brake repairs or if it's just a little noise; and if I wanted to be proactive on brake maintenance how often should they be checked? I have been in before for a squeak and they said they were fine, just a little rusty.

Thank you,
Joanne in Madison Wisconsin

Dear Joanne,

Routine maintenance will save you money on repairs. Regular inspections should be performed on safety items at each oil change and addressed as needed. These inspections are done for free at most shops so check around to see if yours does not offer this service. Inspect brakes annually and completely check them right away if there is a change in pedal travel or if noise is heard when applying them accompanied by grinding. Damp mornings can cause rust on the braking surfaces resulting in noise. This should go away after a couple of pedal applications and should not be felt in the pedal.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I am a longtime fan of yours and you have saved me countless dollars on repairs by teaching me how to do them myself, and when they are larger than I can handle you have taught me how to look for the best mechanic. I drive a 2012 Ford Explorer and I am getting ready to pull a trailer with it. I have owned it for several years and it has a hitch but no trailer light connector. This will be my first time pulling a trailer with this vehicle. Can I just tap into the taillights to connect my trailer light connector, or do I need something special? I don't want to cause a problem with the vehicle. I have also serviced the transmission and rear end prior to towing as well.

Thank you,
Darren in Port Saint Lucy Florida

Dear Darren,

Great idea you had on the proactive transmission and rear differential service. Depending on the size of the trailer and load you may think about a transmission cooler if the Explorer is not equipped with one. For the trailer wiring you need to make sure you do not overload the electrical system. On this vehicle and many others, a tow wiring kit is advised. Available at most auto parts stores this kit takes its power from the battery directly and uses relays activated by the vehicles lights to power the trailer lights preventing damage to the vehicles system.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I want to know about drive by wire steering. I purchasing a new car with it and it has me concerned and wanting to know more before I buy as I don't know how it works or if it's safe. Does it really have no connection between the steering wheel and wheels? What if it quits working?

Thank you,
Bryan in Vandalia Missouri

Dear Bryan,

Drive-By-Wire has been around for more than a decade in many vehicles and is also used in aircraft. You could almost compare it to remote control where you command the action of a device remotely without actually being in physical connection to it. Electric Throttle Control is the most common and is used in most all cars and trucks on the road today but we are now seeing steering go this way due to autonomous cars and self-parking modes that are coming into the market. Throttles have at least two sensors for redundancy and if it fails, well, you just don't accelerate; if steering fails, not so good... Engineers have taken our safety into account and have designed the system so that there is a physical connection that is made whenever the electronics are not powered just in case there is a failure. This safety system was designed to prevent safety issues in the event of a failure. We suggest you get online and investigate further for your own piece of mind before you choose to purchase one.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I listen to Under The Hood both here in the United States, North America, and also when I'm in my second home in Central America in Costa Rica at my dive shop. You really Are Americas' Favorite Car-talk show. The signals a little weak there on my old Mazda Truck so I have to listen via internet. My question is about the Mazda. I need to find parts for it in the way of door trim. That little chrome piece is missing from the bottom of the side door glass and you can't get one here and they never sold this model in the U.S. What do I do?

Thank you,
Scott in Sioux Falls SD

Dear Scott,

Thanks for listening to the show way down there; maybe if you get a little higher up your radio will have better reception. As for the body parts, ouch. We get this question from many of our listeners who are not in the United States who drive vehicles only made in other parts of the world. You know because you own one but many folks don't know that a Mazda truck or a Ford truck or car made overseas is very different looking even though it may carry the same model name. As for parts, we know salvage yards there are not many so get online and see if you may find one across the pond in New Zealand or Australia. Good luck parts hunting.

Take care,
the Motor Medics
