Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

~ Who Will Prevail? ~

Many a person's soul is fallen captive because of the greatness of their sins. Those that follow the dictates of their own heart in the end profits them nothing. Far too many have forgotten the true God and have trusted in falseness. It is dangerous to wander near sin because we won't always restrain ourselves.

Sins will not go unpunished, and fake repentance will cost many. They search for peace but can't find it all because they continue to allow blatant sin be a part of their lives.

Many have and will fight against God but can never prevail. The Lord is with you and will always deliver from the grip of the enemy. God knows who His enemies are and will deal with them in due time.

Those that make vows to God, who claim to belong to Him, must fulfill those vows and be true to a real commitment. In who and to what do you truly place your trust? Only Christ alone can help the lives of humanity. Many reject the gift of God's salvation and by doing so put themselves in line with eternal damnation.

The Lord is far from those that are dishonest. Even though sin is pushed away at times, unless it is dealt with, it will return and always in greater magnitude. But blessed are those who hear the word of God and will heed it. Wise are those who walk in it.

ASK THE MOTORMEDICS[®]
Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood[®] Show

Dear Motor Medics,
I have a 2016 Ram 1500 truck with a small coolant leak on the passenger side head. It appears to be leaking right through the head and not from the gasket surface. Have you seen this before? My local shop tells me that I need to buy a new cylinder head and replace the gasket which will cost over $3000 unless they find something else while working on it. The truck runs perfectly except for using about a half-gallon of coolant a week. What do you suggest for saving money. I don't have more than about $1000 to spend to fix this truck currently and I need to keep it going.

Thank you,
Jeff in Spirit Lake Iowa

Dear Jeff,
If it is leaking through the side of the head and not a gasket area that means the head is cracked. Normally the only fix for this is to replace the entire cylinder head. Replacing a head will solve the issue of a crack but for leaks like this where money is an issue, on short notice we have used a product in our own shop many times called K-Seal. You add the product to your engine coolant and drive it until the leak has stopped. Don't mix it with other leak stop additives and don't flush it out. Just add it and leave it. We have seen some vehicles four years after using it that still don't leak so it may be your solution.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,
I have problems with my 2014 Toyota Tundra with a 5.7 engine and Flex Fuel option and I do use the blended fuel. When I fuel the truck, I will use anywhere from e15 to e85, and I fill it up when I get to about half a tank but sometimes top it off before I start my work week even if its just below the full mark. The dealer says it's the flex fuel alcohol reading in the computer that needs to be reset and I have paid to have it done six times already with a cost of over $150 each time. What's wrong?

Thank you,
Jake in Yankton South Dakota

Dear Jake,
It's not the fuel, it's the truck, but don't go buy a new one just yet. When flex fuel vehicles first came out, a lot of the computers simply watched the oxygen sensors for a major change in the fuel ratio caused by using a different blend of fuel and the computer would adjust accordingly. Then, they started using a special fuel sensor to read the fuel alcohol content directly and that worked well. Today, most vehicles have done away with all that and now just read the o2 sensors after refueling with at least 3 gallons of fuel. If you top off the tank it will skew the reading and lead to this issue every time. Only fill when you need to add 5 gallons or more.

Take care,
the Motor Medics
