-PUZZLE- SODOKU - APRIL - WEEK 1

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

~ He Did This ~

It was God that spoke and the waters separated from the land to form the seas and oceans. God showed a man how to build an ark so that other people could build giant ships to float on water.

God is never sick, never off duty, never tired, never weary. He is always near for those that call upon His name, a present help in time of trouble. God sees everything, everywhere, every second because God is omnipresent.

God is never surprised. He is always ready to respond with the right answer to any situation. God knows you better than you know yourself. He knows every detail about you.

God by Himself needs no help, yet He asks us to work with Him. It was God alone who spoke the words and the universe came into existence. God fashioned clay with His own hands, breathed His breath into it, and human life began.

God spoke and the moon, stars and sun appeared in the heavens. God's love goes deeper and far above any that flesh can ever experience. God is never limited by time, space or interference from mankind.

God has no lack in anything and has more wealth at His disposal than that of all the nations combined. There are no limits, no boundaries, and no powers greater than The Great I Am.

ASK THE MOTOR MEDICS®

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,

You guys make it easy for us when we need to repair our cars and I'm hoping you can shed a little light on a purchase question too. I have narrowed down my search to two vehicles that are relatively the same except that one is a Front-wheel drive while the other is All-wheel drive. The AWD drive vehicle has 10,000 more miles but has the extra feature, so it is priced the same. I don't see a lot of snowfalls in my area and until now have managed to get by every season with nothing more than a FWD car. If I go with the All-wheel drive system will fuel mileage suffer significantly, and will the overall maintenance cost be a lot higher?

Thank you,
David in Manhattan Kansas

Dear David,

You will have to make your own decision as you will be the one making the purchase, but we can hopefully help you a bit. All-wheel drive vehicles get around better in the snow than their Front-wheel drive counterparts, but if you are in an area that does not see much snow or ice and they plow it quickly, do you really need it? The fuel mileage will be a little lower, there will be slightly faster tire wear, and there are more parts to wear out. While the Front-wheel drive is not as nimble in snow, a lot of people give that up for the savings they gain in other areas.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I recently purchased an older Chevrolet Monte Carlo with about 130k miles on it equipped with the 3.1 engine. The car runs great, but when the engine is cold, I hear a very loud banging or tapping sound until the engine is thoroughly warmed up. The sound is not as pronounced when the temperature is warm outside although it is still there. I have consulted with a few people including GM techs who tell me that this engine is known for this cold start noise which is caused by piston slap and that this is considered normal. Is there something I should or could do to minimize this? Are any engine oil additives that would help this?

Thank you,
Darrin in Brainerd Minnesota.

Dear Darrin,

What these technicians have been telling you is correct. These engines tend to make noise upon a cold start, the colder the engine the louder the noise. Some people fear they are going to fly apart because they are so loud. With age they tend to become worse, but we can't recall one that has come apart because of it. As a mechanic and current owner of a vehicle with this engine I've tried everything I can in the way of engine oil additives and haven't found any that make even the slightest difference in the way it sounds so I've learned to live with it as many people with these cars have had to do.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a question about antifreeze. I have not owned a car for more than 7 years until now and I would like to know if I need to do something with my coolant. The shop I have gone to for the past two years has been trying to get me to flush the system, but they are not really giving me a reason other than its time due to miles and age. I did have it checked to make sure it won't freeze up in the winter and it looks clean so why would I need to change it?

Thank you,
Devon in Larchwood Iowa

Dear Devon,

We are so glad you asked this question because many people are unaware of how to take care of their cooling systems and that can lead to very expensive repairs. The antifreeze serves several purposes. It is there to prevent freeze-up, boil-over, and to assist in the prevention of extremely damaging rust and corrosion in the cooling system. Even though coolant looks good and passes a freeze test it may fail a PH test. If the coolant does not have the proper PH rust and corrosion can damage gaskets, the radiator, and heater core, or scale can form in the passages. Test strips used during yearly checkups at a shop will verify the PH and need for changing which usually falls somewhere in the two-to-five-year range. Changing it can save you money.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I'm ready to buy a new car and I could do it at any time, I'm kind of an impulse buyer. My car is about 8 years old and needs a little work and I have the cash so I may stop by a lot and just buy something that catches my eye. I will likely look for something in the two-year-old or so range with 50k miles or a little more to keep the cost down, which probably means no warranty. Since I usually buy on impulse, I'm not likely to get a pre-purchase inspection done and I know you guys strongly suggest one. What can I do to make sure I get a good car

Thank you,
Tanner in Garretson, South Dakota

Dear Tanner,

Without the inspection you have no guaranty as to what you are buying. While no inspection can guarantee a trouble-free car, it can eliminate many commonly found money robbing issues that consumers could possibly get stuck with when buying a used car. I would suggest that if you don't get the inspection try to buy from a reputable lot that may offer at least a short-term warranty or sale contingent on a passing inspection. Also look for lots offering pre-inspected cars. Many of the credible lots do an outstanding job of pre-inspecting vehicles to keep their customer satisfaction high and will be able to tell you what they have checked over.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

ASK THE MOTOR MEDICS[®]

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood[®] Show

Dear Motor Medics,

I want to buy a truck to pull my boat and camper. I have listened to your radio show for over twenty years and have heard you talk about loading and overloading of vehicles many times but now it's my turn and I didn't pay close attention. My camper is the heaviest and weighs 8500 pounds when loaded with my gear. The passengers and I all add up to about 800 pounds. What should I be looking at for a vehicle.

Thank you,
Bryn in Longview Texas

Dear Bryn,

The Ford F150 and most modern vehicles use what's called coil-on-plug ignition which in simple terms means that the ignition coil is placed directly above the spark plugs and connected by a short rubber boot instead of using a plug wire. Using multiple coils allows the ignition system to work more efficiently when it is working correctly and eliminates spark plug wires. When they fail they give the symptom you describe and cause poor mileage and rough running and possible power train and exhaust system damage. We often see all ignition coils fail within a short period of time to each other due to age and miles so be prepared to replace the other six coils. Due to the labor cost of working on them we often recommend replacing all at the same time to save labor costs even though the coils are not cheap. In the long run it will save a lot of cash over repeat labor repair costs.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2016 Ram truck with the Cummins engine. This truck is used for pulling by boat and camper and during the week I pull a skid steer loader and an excavator to my construction sites, so it never stops pulling. I bought the truck deleted from another state, both the EGR was removed and the DPFE filter. Recently I had to take the truck in for a recall and they programed the computer causing a check engine light. I want to put the truck back to stock but want to know if the aftermarket parts are any good as the factory parts are super expensive.

Thank you,
David in Lansing Michigan

Dear David,

We have replaced many emissions system parts in our shop and have used aftermarket parts for some and others have received factory parts. They do make some good quality aftermarket parts that can give you huge cost savings but beware, you get what you pay for in many cases. Check the reviews of the parts before buying and we would also suggest that you look at some real work actual user reviews on YouTube so you can see if those page reviews really line up with what actual users see.

Once you have the factory parts installed there are some aftermarket tuners which you can use which can add some decent power to the truck but still keep it in compliance with the federal emissions regulations.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2001 Jeep Grand Cherokee with a 4.0 six-cylinder engine that failed. This is the first time I have ever had to replace an engine in a vehicle and with fairly low miles and a faithful maintenance history I am shocked that it failed. They told me the camshaft failed because I was not using an engine oil additive and that if I did not use one on the new engine every time that the engine warranty coverage would be void. Why have I never heard of using an additive before? I thought they were not needed for everyday use. The place that changes my oil is not where I go for bigger repairs and I have not had to see them for several years.

Thank you,
Scott in Dell Rapids, SD

Dear Scott,

Seeing a Jeep engine with low mileage fail when oil additive has not been used is not a surprise to us. The lack of ZDDP in the engine oil was likely the cause. ZDDP was removed from engine oil around the time diesel fuel had most sulfur removed. ZDDP protects high pressure areas such as the flat tappets of the Jeep cam. All oil change facilities should be offering the additive to you as a choice. A yearly check-up at a full-service shop is also a good way to get good advice. They can often advise you of recent changes. Take care, the Motor Medics.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I replaced the air conditioning compressor on my Dodge Caravan before the last winter and it worked great for the short time, I used it before winter and again this spring until the first really hot day. The system stopped working and started making a grinding noise just like before. The shop that fixed it installed a new drier and a new compressor and charged me for Freon and labor. Did they miss something, or did I get a bad part?

Thank you,
Jennifer in Missouri

Dear Jennifer,

It worries me when you say the system is grinding again. According to the list of replaced parts you gave it is possible that the failure could be due to the way it was repaired. Not to doubt the installation but when a compressor grinds it is usually coming apart internally and leaving metal shavings in the system which will plug passages in the condenser and expansion devices. If there was metal found in the system, any parts contaminated must be replaced. Just flushing the parts is not an option because of the small passages that can't be accessed. Partially plugged systems may work well on cooler days but will fail when high temps raise pressures. When the system is repaired this time ask about these parts and if they need to be replaced and why or why not. With the high cost a second opinion is not a bad idea either. You don't want this to happen again.

Take care,
the Motor Medics
