ASK THE MOTOR MEDICS®

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,

Hi guys, I drive a 2010 GMC van with a 5.3 engine. The van is a custom AWD 2500 with a snowplow on the front and I've just reached 150k miles. This van ran perfectly, and I have been careful on the maintenance of changing engine oil every 3k miles and servicing the transmission and the differentials and transfer case several times already. I know this vehicle very well and know for a fact that it has used no oil in the past so when it suddenly started using a quart a week I was concerned. It smokes from the exhaust also but only after I drive on the highway for several miles then shut it off and restart. A mechanic says I need an engine. What are your thoughts.

Thank you,
Lynn in Thayer Missouri

Dear Lynn,

Without a hands-on check it would have us leaning towards a much cheaper repair. These engines are not known to be oil burners and have an inherent problem with the drivers side PCV valve cover. The cover clogs with oil sludge and will suddenly develop these symptoms. There is an updated cover available to fix this and a replacement engine should also get one before installation. In our own shop, if we found oil in the PCV hose we would replace the cover first and see if the issue goes away. Highway speeds cause extra oil to build up in the cover which can be sucked in.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2018 Toyota Prius that we have driven for over 250k miles. I bought the car new and drove it for work making deliveries on the highway with an average of 100 miles a day. When it reached 250k we decided that we should replace it for reliability issues. We handed it down to our son to drive to high school and he had it for two months and it started knocking. Upon taking it to a shop they told us the engine needed to be replaced. It is full of clean oil and coolant and was working perfectly until the day before when the check engine light started flashing during a rainstorm. He stopped driving it immediately. The shop didn't bring it in, they just started it and said it was bad. What are your thoughts?

Thank you,
Jeff in Oklahoma City

Dear Jeff,

We have listened to cars before and declared them as having one kind of failure or another, but this is a car that can give a false impression to a mechanic. A flashing check engine light means stop immediately due to a engine misfire. If it occurs in the rain, we lean towards a coil issue caused by wear and water. When this happens on a Prius, they knock loudly at takeoff due to the stator in the electric drive. If it is quiet but missing down the road, we would check this first.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I am having trouble with my 2012 Buick Lacross the past few weeks I have not been able to adjust my inside temperature properly. When I first start the car and whenever I adjust the temperature controls, I hear a clicking under the center of the dash that last about ten seconds. It started as a once a week thing but now happens every time. Since this started happening the temperature seems to either stick on full hot or full cold. The car has adjustments for both driver and passenger side temperature and both sides cause the noise when adjusted.

Thank you,
Susan in Vandalia

Dear Susan,

The noise is likely coming from the temperature blend door motors. The temperature is adjusted by means of electric motors with gears connecting them to the temperature doors. The climate module measures the temperature of the air and the setting on the dash and adjusts the motors as needed. With age the sensors that report the position of the motors wear out and when the door reaches full hot or cold the module tells them to keep going and you hear the sound of the gears as they are pushed too far. If you find that this is the problem the fix is to replace the actuator motor. Some motors can be accessed under dash while others require more extensive disassembly. Most new blend door motors are affordable, used are also a good option.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

My new job has taken me to an unfamiliar city hundreds of miles away from home where I don't know anyone. I have a good running car but I owe that to the great care that my repair shop has given me over the years. It's a 2019 Taurus with 98,000 miles. This car has not needed any major repairs in the past but on the way across country the air conditioner stopped working. I can live without air for a short time but I want to get it fixed. How can I find a good shop? I am afraid to just walk into the first shop I see. I am a young woman that knows little about cars so I need some guidance. Can you give me a suggestion on how to find a shop in an unfamiliar town?

Thank you,
Mary in Denver

Dear Mary,

Many people find themselves in this situation. Maybe it's a child who has moved for school needing a good shop for repairs. Hopefully you will have contact with people you can trust when you arrive. Ask them where they go then narrow the shops down to just a few by the ones with the best word of mouth reviews. Then maybe visit the shop for an oil change and ask the other customers waiting how they like the shop. If you don't like what you hear try another. It's a little like finding a doctor.

Take care,
the Motor Medics
