ANSWER:

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

~ To Your Advantage ~

The Bible says in 1 Samuel 6:20, "Who is able to stand before the Lord this Holy God?" The answer is no one. But there are multitudes today who have no reverence for the One True God, and the most tragic thing about that is they have not had a born-again experience with Jesus, His Son. This is a daily revealing crisis in our society that has eternal implications they don't want.

Today many people believe they must be in control when actually it is only a delusion. When is the last time you got up and turned the day over to the Lord, set your own agenda aside, cancelled the plans of the day, and opened your Bible and began to pray for God to arrange the day to His benefit?

How many times have you asked the Lord God how you could be useful to Him? How did He want to handle the day with you involved in His business? Do you realize God knows everything about today and all the days ahead? Do you ever start your day seeking the information God possesses about your life since He knows what's going to happen in every aspect of it?

Would it not be to your advantage to cooperate with God and seek what is the most important issues concerning your life for the day?

ASK THE MOTOR MEDICS[®]

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood[®] Show

Dear Motor Medics,

I drive a 2011 Hyundai Elantra with 78K miles. It started making a steering noise lately that happens only when I gently turn the wheel left and right. I have found that if I turn the engine off and leave the steering wheel unlocked the noise goes away completely. I took it into a shop that was not sure what I needed. They thought maybe a steering column as the noise was located up high in the column. I then took it to a dealership who also said I needed to replace the entire column because the motor gears had gone bad. I have not been able to locate a good used column yet and a new one will cost over 3k installed. Is there another way to repair it at a lower cost?

Thank you,
Mark in Rapid City South Dakota

Dear Mark,

Those big repair bills hurt, but we may have a solution you should like. The motor for the electric steering is coupled to the column via a rubber motor coupler to give it a smoother feel. This coupler falls apart with age and now is available only on Amazon as far as we have seen. The part cost is about $6 dollars. Yep, that's it! We see a lot of people try to install it themselves and usually get it done in two to three hours but safety first, so a couple hours shop labor should do it.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

Do you know a way to get the smell of a skunk out of a car? We drive a 2010 Suburban that's in really nice shape with only 90k miles on it but we had an issue. We came home from a camping trip and had the kids help us unload. Tents, gear, and food. One of the doors was left open and when it got dark about midnight, we saw the dome light on and noticed a side door was open. We ran out and shut it but that was not the end. The next weekend we went out to load the car for camping and we found a dead skunk. It must have got in through the door. It sprayed the interior, and it can't be driven. What can be done?

Thank you,
Tina in Duluth Minnesota

Dear Tina,

We have seen things like spilled milk that are bad, but this tops it. If you have full coverage insurance, use it. Cleaning probably won't help. You will need to remove and replace anything that encountered the skunk. Or its spray. Seats, wall panels, carpet, all of it. If there is no insurance coverage, you could try to get some parts from a self-service auto parts yard that you pull yourself. We have seen people do this. Parts are usually very affordable at those yards but there is the labor. Otherwise sell it to someone who can't smell very well.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2011 Honda CR-V that has an internal noise. The noise would come and go and usually after an oil change I would not hear it for a week or so. The noise occurs at the first start up of the day and the colder it is outside, and the longer it has been turned off, the louder and longer the noise will be. A couple shops have told me that they think the engine is going out, but another says it's just timing chains and can be fixed. This car only has 90k miles on it, should I fix the chains or replace the engine.

Thank you,
Jeff in Fergus Falls Minnesota

Dear Jeff,

A timing chain noise is a common occurrence on many vehicles. Most of these had timing belts in the past which were silent but had to be changed at regular intervals. Chains, while made to last the lifetime of an engine, will fail if the engine oil is not changed often enough or if it is a lower quality oil. Sometimes they will fail even when that is done. Something to keep in mind, more than just the chains need attention. In our shop we inspect and replace, if needed, the chains, tensioners, sprockets, and the camshaft phasers. All these can wear and can lead to noise. If a part is missed the noise will still occur leading to a disappointing repair. Get details from your shop

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2019 Dodge Caravan and the horn and cruise have both stopped working. About the same time that the horn and cruise quit, the air bag warning lamp started staying on continuously instead of shutting off after a few seconds. The cruise did start to work for about a day but quit again. What could cause my van to have all these electrical gremlins at once and do you think it will spread to other areas? This van only has 55k miles on it and my extended warranty does not cover electrical issues.

Thank you,
Julian in Springfield Missouri

Dear Julian,

We have seen this before. All vehicles made that have any electronics in the steering wheel such as cruise, air bag, radio controls, etc. all have what is called a clock spring or sliding contact spring. This device houses a ribbon cable which wraps up when turned in one direction and unwraps when turned in the other. This allows the electric wires to make a continuing connection to the electrical devices in the wheel to the components of the vehicle. As time goes by, the cable can bend so many times that it breaks just like a coat hanger that is bent too much. Once the cable breaks it must be replaced which requires removing the steering wheel. A shop has to do this, but it is usually not an extremely costly job. Ask for a quote before repairs.

Take care,
the Motor Medics
