~ Today's Events Shadow Tomorrow ~

As the clock ticks away at the times we live in, as the days pass, there is a casting of shadows that reflect the upcoming events that will affect us all.

Sins that are let go and not challenged or dealt with eventually cast their influence far enough to begin to change the culture, redirecting society in different ways for more future changes, even more ungodly than the ones before them.

For years, many in the church world have had it easy in some ways. Therefore, they became more and more lenient of sinful behavior maybe, not approving but not taking a stand strong enough to stop them.

Everything we allow means we don't want to deal with this issue, whatever the case. Our allowance means, in a way, our approval. And as we allow those shadows of darkness to move forward, it brings more evil than before. And these shadows will go just as far as you allow them.

Take a stand for the Lord. You can win with God. But you have to get in the fight for what is Biblically right.

ASK THE MOTOR MEDICS®

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2005 Chevrolet 2500 truck with a 6.0 engine and automatic transmission. Lately I have been experiencing a noise behind the dashboard upon starting. At first, I thought it was under the hood and searched for something that could make the kind of sound I was experiencing. After much searching, I discovered it was coming from behind the passenger side of the dashboard. It is located just to the right of the glove box door and back by the firewall. There is a box there that I assume is part of the heating system and when I touch it, I can feel the clicking in sync to the noise. This noise occurs each time I start the vehicle and lasts for about one minute. Have you ever heard a noise like this before?

Thank you,
Scott in Denver Colorado

Dear Scott,

Yes, we have heard this noise before and can help you. Most vehicles went to fully electrically operated heater door systems in the late nineties. The door motors have position sensors in them and when they fail the computer does not know where the door position is. Because of this failure the door motor keeps moving when at the end of its travel and begins to strip the gear teeth causing the noise until the module shuts it down at a pre-determined time limit. To fix the noise you will likely need a new door motor. Thanks for the email Scott.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2002 Volkswagen Beetle with the 4 cylinder 1.8L Turbo. The engine runs great, but I have a check engine light on with a code P0411 stored in memory. This code is for the secondary air injection system. The air injection pump runs, and the hoses look good. I have been told it might be the check valve, but I can't seem to locate this. Have you heard of this problem on Beetles, and can you help me locate the elusive "check valve" and am I going in the right direction? I listen via your web site; you guys do a great job.

Thank you,
Rodger in Florida

Dear Rodger,

I am familiar with the problem you are having, and it is common to many vehicles with a secondary air injection pump. Cars in the southern climates don't seem to be bothered by it as much as cold weather states but none the less it happens. The vehicle could have a bad air diverter check valve, but it could be as simple as condensation in the air hose between the pump and the valve. The air valve is located on the engine at the passenger side rear just under the top cover. Remove the hose and check it for water, then clean it out if it is present' reinstall it and see how it works. You will need to have the codes cleared before the system will operate and run a self-test.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have several vehicles and only one driver in the house, me. 13 vehicles in all plus another five ATVs, 2 Jet Skies and 3 boats. I'm a collector, lover of vehicles, and maybe a number of other things but they all run well, and I enjoy having them around. My question is about batteries. It seems like I am always replacing batteries. I charge each one up using several chargers I have every couple months, but they seem to go dead every year or two. I use the small chargers at one amp and let them charge overnight. A few of the older cars seem to stay fully charged but the newer ones with computers are dead anywhere from three weeks to two months. What can I do to keep them charged longer.

Thank you,
David in Tyler Texas

Dear David,

Dead batteries and keeping them from going dead have been a lifelong pursuit of vehicle owners since the beginning of vehicles. Vehicles with computers will draw more power even if they are shut down than a vehicle without a computer but they all will gradually go dead. Make sure that any charger you use is a battery maintainer, not a trickle charger. Trickle chargers will break down a battery if used too long causing overcharging and damage. Use a maintainer and leave it connected when the vehicle is not being used. They are usually less than $40 each and keep batteries conditioned for many years.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

My questions are about oil changes. I recently had to replace the timing chains on my 2009 GMC Acadia, and I have a 2016 Chrysler Town And Country that has noisy lifters. My mechanic is telling me that my engines both have heavy sludge in them and that I should have changed the engine oil much more often which may have saved them. I only put five thousand miles or so on each one of the vehicles, so I change them both once a year. I don't think that changing the oil every three months is a smart idea with that low mileage.

Thank you,
Reggie in Greenwood Indiana

Dear Reggie,

Your mechanic is correct. The problem is the low miles and short trips on the engines, not that you are not changing the oil sooner. When you drive short trips, the oil does not reach a high enough temperature for a long enough period to burn off all the moisture in the oil which will turn to sludge and leave damaging deposits. Also, using a regular filter instead of an extended drain long life filter leaves a possibility of the cardboard in the filter breaking down and clogging the engine causing major damage. If you used a better filter and made sure that the engine was running until fully warm each time it is driven your changes may be ok. But as it stands, more frequent changes are what is needed.

Take care,
the Motor Medics
