Take advantage of the IRS Section 179 Tax Credit in addition to GoBob's Year End Sale!

Use the IRS's Tax Code along with GoBob's year end discounts to let Uncle Sam pay for some new equipment instead of you paying him.

For 2024, the maximum Section 179 deduction is capped at $1,220,000.

Section 179

Encourages small businesses to invest in growth by providing accelerated depreciation and tax deductions on qualifying business purchases.

GoBob's Eligible Equipment includes:

- Hay Haulers
- Squeeze Chutes
- Loading Chutes
- Alley-ways
- Tubs
- Feed Bunks
- Hay Feeders
- Portable Equipment

HOROSCOPE

WEEK OF DECEMBER 15 TO 21, 2024

THE LUCKIEST SIGNS THIS WEEK: VIRGO, LIBRA AND SCORPIO

ARIES

Your family may be counting on you to handle all the holiday preparations. Consider delegating some tasks to distribute responsibilities more evenly this year.

TAURUS

You'll have plenty to talk about this week! You'll start wrapping your Christmas presents, adding your personal touch to impress your loved ones and delight the kids, even if it takes some time.

GEMINI

You'll find yourself in the spotlight as you work on a special project. You may bring the family together for an impromptu trip or a special holiday activity.

CANCER

You'll receive many invitations, which you may initially want to decline. However, you may change your mind at the last minute, especially when it comes to participating in the festivities.

LEO

You may find sticking to your budget to be a bit of a struggle, as you might be inclined to choose more expensive gifts than planned. You may also give certain loved ones preferential treatment.

VIRGO

Your credit card will get a workout this season! You'll have to choose whether to buy Christmas presents, participate in social activities or go on a family trip. You must dig deep as you consider your options over the next few days.

LIBRA

Your home will be bustling with activity even before the festivities begin. Your children will turn your abode into a base camp with their friends before the holidays officially start, adding to your responsibilities.

SCORPIO

You'll be carried away by the magic of Christmas, even if you thought you could escape it this year. You'll dedicate time to charitable causes, bringing joy to the people who need it most.

SAGITTARIUS

You'll embrace the excitement of Christmas this year, feeling cheerful and excited to participate in the celebrations. You'll eagerly visit bustling shopping malls to enjoy yourself and join in on the fun.

CAPRICORN

The thought of taking a trip or going on a getaway may cross your mind, a sign of your desire for adventure and new experiences. You might consider working abroad for a change of scenery.

AQUARIUS

Depending on your situation, going back to school could considerably improve your life. A great opportunity may arise, bringing significant material gain and providing relief from your financial stress.

PISCES

It may be time to re-evaluate your personal and social media connections. You don't need toxic influences in your life sowing discord and harming your relationships.

~ In the Midst ~

When life's situations frustrate your well-being, when you've been hurt, when you've been disappointed, whatever your feeling in these times, you must seek God's comfort or you will turn to other things for comfort that may not help. Temporary comforts can only make matters worse many times.

At the crossroads of life, in the midst of trials, a Christian can succeed- only if they will be faithful to fill their mind and soul with God's word. If they will spend good time in fellowship, talking to God and listening for His answer.

We often make choices, and then those choices make us. Our choices can and will determine our destiny, but never can fulfill our best.

Only God. He is the only one that has the inside information. Let God make your decisions. The Bible is stocked full of all the information you need to make the right choices.

ASK THE MOTOR MEDICS®

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood® Show

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2008 GMC Acadia with a transmission problem. It has had 3 transmissions replaced starting with the first one in 2011 just at the end of the factory warranty. The next replacement was in 2016 then a third replacement in 2020. The Acadia only has 105k miles on it and it is starting to do the same thing it did each time the transmission failed before. When shifting from first to second gear the transmission slips then the vehicle will only move forward in second gear until I turn the key off and on again. The transmission shop says it needs to be replaced again. What can we do to make this the last one?

Thank you,
Shannon in Cleveland Ohio

Dear Shannon,

This year Acadia was known for transmission problems and there was some special warranty coverage for them in the beginning. The second gear wave plate had some issues along with some other parts. Usually once they are rebuilt the problem is taken care of but in your case if it was replaced, we have no way to know if the internal upgrades were made to fix the known issues. If you are going to replace it again, choose a good rebuilder such as Certified Transmissions who can get you a correctly modified transmission with a long term warranty. In our experience we have not had to replace one again after one of them even after many years. Make sure the transmission shop checks for other faults too possibly affecting it.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

How can I find a good auto repair shop? We just moved across the country to a town that we know absolutely nothing about and no one in it. We have tried using Google reviews before but that doesn't guarantee anything, and we have had some bad luck going that way. Can you suggest anything?

Thank you,
Tasha in York Nebraska

Dear Tasha,

Finding a new shop can be a challenge. We understand that you don't know anyone in town but with the other readers in mind we will touch on all the things we suggest for finding a new shop. We usually suggest starting by asking friends and coworkers who they use, how long they have been using them and if those experiences have been good. If there is no one to ask you can usually find a counter person in an Auto Parts store to help. Auto Parts stores sell parts to shops near them on a regular basis and should be able to tell you what shops work on what types of vehicles and hopefully if they hear good things about them. Once you have a shop chosen, start with something small like an oil change. This will give you a chance to meet the employees and see how they operate. If you feel comfortable with them, use them more and try them for bigger repairs.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

Guys, My brakes are broken. I have a 2008 Ford F350 single wheel truck and I'm on my fourth set of brakes in four years. I put about 6k miles a year on this truck to pull my camper. I have been told I'm over pulling and that's why the brakes are wearing out, but my camper fully loaded as weighed on the scale is only 8k lbs. That's under what the truck is rated for. The same shop has been replacing the brake for me and they do all my other work. The truck I had before this was a 2000 and it never had brakes in 90k miles. What can cause this?

Thank you,
Michael in Holland Michigan

Dear Michael,

Take a close look at your receipt. What was done? A detail-oriented shop will write down what was done in detail at times like this. They should always know what they did before by looking at your description in case it comes back sooner than expected. If they have only replaced pads and rotors and have not replaced calipers or brake hoses and there is no description about cleaning and lubricating slides and making sure they are free, then there may lie the problem. If brake hoses are restricted it can cause a pull and premature wear. Same goes for sticking calipers or caliper slides. You should be able to get many more miles out of these brakes. Something is likely getting missed during the brake job. Ask your shop about these items

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I'm looking at getting a vehicle with 4-wheel drive. I moved here from California and have never driven in snow. I don't know how to drive in it and want to make sure I have the best vehicle possible for the snow. I am looking at either a Subaru or a Jeep Cherokee but there are so many choices of four-wheel drive type I am confused. What's the difference between Four-Wheel Drive and All-Wheel Drive, and does it matter? You guys are the best. I listened to your show in California for ten years before moving here.

Thank you,
Regan on Montevideo Minnesota

Dear Regan,

Step one, a four-wheel drive car does not make you a better driver. This is important to remember as you will see during winter people get a false sense of security when speeding down the road in a four-wheel drive. Those are usually the same people who are crashed into the median or down on the ditch. However, once they are stuck, they have a much better chance of getting unstuck on their own. Four-wheel drive is for getting moving by way of better traction not for stopping. Four-wheel drive can be shut off and all wheel is mostly automatic but some four wheel is too. Time for some research on your own as it would take a long time to describe them both.

Take care,
the Motor Medics
