HOROSCOPE

WEEK OF APRIL 13 TO 19, 2025

ARIES
This week, your generosity will shine brightly, even in the eyes of those who might take advantage of it. Fortunately, your ability to speak your mind will put everything into perspective, and you'll earn the respect you deserve.

TAURUS
You must thoroughly prepare before entering into any negotiations, whether for a business deal or a personal purchase. You must gather all the necessary information, a task will require a lot of patience.

GEMINI
This week is the perfect opportunity to resolve conflicts and correct past mistakes. You'll be pleased with the outcome. You must consider many elements to restore balance and harmony within your social circle.

CANCER
Buying a home requires significant financial resources and time. You'll take great pride in this impressive achievement—it's a milestone that's not within everyone's reach.

LEO
Enjoy quality time with your family this week. A major project involving your loved ones, such as a move or organizational change at work, awaits you. You may also receive news about an upcoming birth.

VIRGO
Summer is almost here! You'll want to treat yourself by buying new clothes. Your social calendar is set to blossom. Many exciting outings await!

LIBRA
Look at home improvements as a valuable investment. You must have deep conversations with those close to you to nurture your relationships. To keep your relationship friendly, avoid lending money to a friend.

SCORPIO
You're filled with energy this week! Even though you're bound by time constraints or financial limitations, you'll dive into a series of initiatives, each more exciting than the last.

SAGITTARIUS
If you don't take time to unwind and relax, you could be overwhelmed by stress. Consider adopting a lifestyle that nourishes your spirit and aligns with your core values to cultivate a lasting sense of well-being.

CAPRICORN
Despite your reserved and shy nature, you'll enjoy some fun experiences in good company. You may even organize a work or family gathering.

AQUARIUS
Expect a big promotion at work this week. If you're looking for a job, a new position offering excellent career opportunities with rapid advancement will come your way.

PISCES
This week, you'll feel the urge to travel or escape to a scenic destination. If you're planning an adventure with a group, stay alert—some individuals may complicate things.

The luckiest signs this week:
CAPRICORN, AQUARIUS AND PISCES

~ This Is The Day ~

How do you start your day? Did you ever consider that each day is a day the Lord has made, and He expects His children to rejoice for the great things He has done?

Throughout this day, are you seeking God's guidance and looking for what opportunities He has given you and the possibilities of doing something great?

Did you know that you can ask God for the protection you need, the health to do His will, and accomplish all that God has for you?

If you enter each day looking to His word for instruction, you'll find God's favor and have the strength to be a part of His ongoing plan- not just for you but for others as well. It is a special privilege for each breath that God provides. You need to make something good out of each day.

ASK THE MOTORMEDICS[®]

Automotive Advice from the Under The Hood[®] Show

Dear Motor Medics,

I am having issues with my 2009 Chevy Tahoe. When I try to turn the heat from hot to cold it sticks on the cold position on just the passenger side. If I use a scanner to reset and calibrate the doors once the engine is hot it will be fair but not great. I tried replacing the blend door motors on all the positions while I was in there, but it did no good. Sometimes I also hear a click sound when it operates. What could be going on?

Thank you,
Ralph, in Carthage Texas

Dear Ralph,

Summers coming so you are good. Just kidding but who needs heat in the summer right. We've repaired a large number of these, and we find door motors failed which you already addressed. Make sure the motors are an exact match as it is common to get the wrong ones as they look similar. Also make sure the doors move freely with the motors disconnected. You may find that you have a broken door or something inside of the case causing them to stick as noted by the noise you have on occasion. Any repairs to the doors will require complete removal of the dash assembly and some professional help to drain the ac system and recharge it. The job also takes many hours to perform. The parts needed if a door is broken are fairly reasonable, but the labor is where the cost is. .

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2005 Chevy truck, and the cruise control recently quit. I don't use it often so it could have been anytime in the past year. In addition to the cruise, I now have a problem with my lights blinking fast. I installed LED taillights and headlights, and front turn signals this year, and it seems to have started around the time I did this. I tried to install some resistors I found on Amazon, but it still does the same thing.

Thank you,
Michelle in Cloquet Minnesota

Dear Michelle,

Let's start with the cruise. Our first thought is that maybe it failed at the same time that the lights did. You mentioned so many light replacements that we wonder if you replaced that high-mount center stop lamp as well, which is common with the light kits? If you did, this is a probable cause. The resistance of an LED light is not correct for the cruise to operate unless the resistance is correct. Use a multi meter and see if it is the same as the original bulb. It must be the same. This also goes for the front and rear lights. Make sure that all the bulbs have the same resistance as the factory original ones. Many people buy resistor kits to make them function but if the total resistance is not the same as factory, then you can have a fast blink issue with the truck lights.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

I have a 2011 Ford F-150 with a 5.4 engine. The engine started losing power over a few hundred miles and then started missing on one, then two, now four cylinders. I had all of the coils replaced with the spark plugs and that did absolutely no good. The truck has 180k miles on it and has no engine noise. I have it in a shop now and they tell me that the compression is low on the entire passenger side bank one. The truck does not burn oil. Before I have the engine replaced like they said, should I look for anything else? Is it common to have low compression on the 5.4 engine?

Thank you,
Patty in Boise Idaho

Dear Patty,

We just don't see low compression on these engines. We see oil pressure issues internally which lead to low pressure at the phasers causing them to operate incorrectly. If they see low compression on a entire bank we would look at the exhaust back pressure. You may have a failed catalytic converter on that side. Even if it does not burn oil, we have seen these catalytic converters fail with a restriction that acts this way. The exhaust back-pressure can easily be tested through the front o2 sensor hole and if found to be very high you can leave it out during compression testing. If you are lucky and it is a plugged cat you may get away with replacement of it and be back on the road. It may also have caused major damage.

Take care,
the Motor Medics

Dear Motor Medics,

What do you guys think about active fuel management. I have a Honda ridgeline with it and a GMC Sierra and A Cadillac Escalade. Two of my previous vehicles have had issues with the AFM. Both were GM vehicles. I had to replace the cam and lifters on one and the entire engine on the other. Is there anything that can be done to prevent the failure? I have heard that you can have the system deactivated and that will fix the problem. I change the engine oil when the change light comes on and drive mostly in the city which is about every 6k miles.

Thank you,
Peter, in Sandusky Ohio

Dear Peter,

This problem is not new. It has been happening as long as these engines have had Active Fuel Management. You would hope that if the problem was strictly with the mechanics of the system the manufacturers would step up and make them better. While we think that they could be a little stronger, we also find that the ones that seem to fail are the ones that don't have their oil changed more often. We suggest to all of our customers to not exceed 3 months or 3k miles for this very reason. That factory light just seems to be too long. As for deactivation they fail even when deactivated.

Take care,
the Motor Medics
