Cyber Monday a hit, despite high inflation

Black Friday spending. store traffic rose

BY HALELUYA HADERO

Days after flocking to stores on Black Friday, consumers turned online for Cyber Monday to score more discounts on gifts and other items that have ballooned in price because of high inflation.

Cyber Monday was expected to remain the year's biggest online shopping day and rake in up to $11.6 billion in sales, according to Adobe Analytics, which tracks transactions at over 85 of the top 100 U.S. online stores. That forecast represents a jump from the $10.7 billion consumers spent last year.

Adobe's numbers are not adjusted for inflation, but the company says demand is growing even when inflation is factored in. Some analysts have said top line numbers will be boosted by higher prices and the amount of items consumers purchase could remain unchanged - or even fall — compared to prior years. Profit margins are also expected to be tight for retailers offering deeper discounts to attract budget-conscious consumers and clear out their bloated inventories.

Shoppers spent a record $9.12 billion online on Black Friday, up 2.3 percent from last year, according to Adobe E-commerce activity continued to be strong over the weekend, with $9.55 billion in online sales.

Salesforce, which also tracks spending, said their estimates showed online sales in the U.S. hit $15 billion on Friday and $17.2 billion over the weekend, with an average discount rate of 30 percent on products. Electronics, active wear, toys and health and beauty items were among those that provided a big boost, the two groups said.

Consumers spending cautiously

Mastercard SpendingPulse, which tracks spending across all types of payments including cash and credit card, said that overall sales on Black Friday rose 12 percent from a year ago. Sales at physical stores rose 12 percent, while online sales were up 14 percent.

RetailNext, which captures sales and traffic via cameras, reported that store traffic rose 7 percent on Black Friday, while sales at physical stores improved 0.1 percent from a year ago. However, spending per customer dropped nearly 7 percent as cautious shoppers did more browsing than buying. Another company that tracks store traffic -Sensormatic Solutions — said store traffic was up 2.9 percent on Black Friday compared to a year ago.

"Shoppers are being more thoughtful, but they are going to more than a few retailers to be able to make a determination of what they are going to buy this year,' said Brian Field, Sensormatic's global leader of retail consulting and analytics.

Danny Groner, a 39-year-old who lives in New York City, said he and his wife want to get a new TV to replace one they've had for about seven years. He spent some time on Monday searching for deals online and found some good discounts. Still, he says he wants to be intentional about what he buys and doesn't mind spending a bit more for the right product.

Overall, online spending has remained resilient in the past few weeks as eager shoppers buy more items on credit and embrace "buy now, pay later" services that lack interest charges but carry late fees. In the first three weeks of November, online sales were essentially flat compared with last year, according to Adobe. It said the modest uptick shows consumers have a strong appetite for holiday shopping amid uncertainty about the economy.

Still, some major retailers are feeling a shift. Target, Macy's and Kohl's said this month they've seen a slowdown in consumer spending in the past few weeks. The exception was Walmart, which reported higher sales in its third quarter and raised its earnings outlook.

'We're seeing that inflation is starting to really hit the wallet and that consumers are starting to amass more debt at this point," said Guru Hariharan, founder and CEO of retail e-commerce management cenzio contributed to this report. firm CommerceIQ, adding there's more pressure on consumers to purchase cheaper alternatives.

Shifting demand

This year's Cyber Monday also arrived amid a wider e-commerce slowdown affecting online retailers that saw a boom in sales during most of the pandemic. Consumers who feared leaving their homes and embraced e-commerce during the pandemic are heading back to physical stores in greater numbers this year as normalcy returns.

The National Retail Federation said its recent survey showed a 3 percent uptick in the number of Black Friday shoppers planning to go to stores. It expected 63.9 million consumers to shop online during Cyber Monday, compared to 77 million last year.

Amazon saw its retail business thrive during most of the pandemic, but much of the demand waned as the worst of the pandemic eased. To deal with the change, the company has been scaling back its warehouse expansion plans and is cutting costs by axing some of its projects. It's also following in the steps of other tech companies and implementing mass layoffs in its corporate ranks. Amazon CEO Andy Jassy said the company will continue to cut jobs until early next year.

Shopify, a company which helps businesses set up e-commerce websites and also offers offline software, laid off 10 percent of its staff this summer.

The company said Monday that its merchants have surpassed $5.1 billion in global sales since the start of Black Friday in New Zealand. And spending per U.S. customer went up $5 compared to last year, said Shopify President Harley Finkelstein.

Despite the bump, Finkelstein said shoppers were more intentional about their spending this year and waiting for discounts before making a purchase.

Big retailers point to cloudy holiday retail picture

BY ANNE D'INNOCENZIO

Results from Macy's, Kohl's and Gap further underscored the cloudy picture for U.S. retailers heading into the start of the holiday season.

After Target reported a sharp drop in quarterly profits last week, it's clear that inflation-hit shoppers in the last few weeks were waiting for deals and not willing to pay ful price for purchases they could put off. The big question will be if U.S. consumers will spend more freely in the coming weeks. "I think everybody believes that Christmas will come, but I don't think anybody out there knows for sure exactly what's going to happen," Kohl's chairman Peter Boneparth said.

its earnings outlook, in part due to better credit card revenue.

Target, Macy's and Kohl's all noted a slowdown in spending in the last few weeks as the kickoff to the holiday shopping season approaches, which could force retailers to cut prices even further.

One exception was Walmart,

Yet, the New York company topped which has a more robust grocery analysts. He noted the situation a Thanksgiving and Christmas Wall Street expectations and raised aisle and is the nation's largest retailer, reported better-than-expected earnings and raised its earnings outlook.

Inventories are high

"Visibility for the fourth quarter has been as difficult as any period I can remember," Boneparth told ing with supply-chain snarls.

You had last year a situation where nobody had inventory," he said. "All customers were inclined to buy early. Now, we flip over, everybody has a lot of inventory."

Macv's posted net income of $108 million, or 39 cents per share to refurnish homes or buy casufor the three-month period ended al clothing as they stayed close to Oct. 29. That compares with $239 million, or 76 cents per share for the year-ago period. "We know the consumer is under increasing pressure and has choices on where to spend," said Macy's CEO Jeff Gennette. Gennette said the company's upscale Bloomingdale's store has also fared well as wealthy shoppers continue to spend. He said that shoppers' focus on sales merchandise will make the period between with government stimulus money.

But Americans dramatically shifted away from pandemic-fueled spending as the virus eased, and that has left a number of retailers with excess inventory that is now being sold at discounted prices. Elevated prices for food, rent, gasoline and almost everything else have also redirected spending toward necessities, which hurts clothing stores.
