A resolution honoring the late Sam Fullerton and his wife, the late “Fufa” Fullerton was accepted by the family. Their children Samuel Baker Fullerton III, Rev. Dr. Fairfax Fullerton, and Arthur King Fullerton were present to accept.

A resolution honoring the late Coach Don Whittemore was accepted by his family. His wife Cecilia Whittemore and son John Whittemore accepted on the family's behalf.

Resolutions honoring Fullertons and Coach Whittemore presented

Resolutions were passed at the Warren City Council honoring the late Sam Fullerton and his late wife, Tommie “Fufa” Fullerton, and the late Coach Don Whittemore. Their families were present to accept the resolutions.

The resolution for the late Sam Fullerton was read aloud by Warren Mayor Gregg Reep. The resolution honored his commitment and service to the community. It stated his accomplishments and work he's done for the community.

“We appreciate the service and commitment he made to the community. He will be missed,” said Alderwoman Dorothy Henderson.

The resolution honoring the late Tommie Fullerton was read by Mayor Reep. It also honored her work and commitment to the community. Her accomplishments and the work she did was listed.

Their family accepted the resolution and said both of them loved the community.

Alderman Joel Tolefree and Alderwoman Henderson both reflected on the positive impact she had on them and the community.

The resolution for the late Coach Whittemore was also read with his family present. The resolution honored his life and devotion to his family, those he loved, and the community. Coach Whittemore won 151 games in his coaching career and he retired in 2016. His wife, Cecelia Whittemore, thanked everyone.

The city council approved the street closures for the Pink Tomato Festival. The same streets will be closed as the previous year.

The Community and Economic Development Committee would review the memorandum of understanding with Warren Water and Sewer. The Ways and Means Committee would review and discuss the pay increase for the assistant city clerk and treasurer.

A resident of McCauley Street spoke before the council about properties near her that were overgrown and becoming a mess.

Archie Domineck also spoke before the council asking for updates on repavement on Clover Street. Alderwoman Emily Moseley said the street committee was in the process of choosing streets to be repaved.

Warren Police Chief Shaun Hildreth reported the police department had a new hire who was in the process of completing the police training. The training is a 13-week course. Chief Hildreth said the police officers were working a lot of overtime due to shortage of staff.

Warren Fire Chief Chuck Moore reported the fire department responded to 11 calls in March. The city council and the fire committee approved new policy changes for department live fire training, department station coverage, and non-emergency rules. There was also a pay increase approved $40 for volunteer captains and $30 for volunteer lieutenants. The previous pay was $15 per call.

Sanitation Manager and Building Official reported the sanitation trucks were out for repairs and the workers were getting trash out of dumpsters by hand until the vehicles get returned. The company that handles city waste raised their rates from $65 to $80 a ton. Mayor Reep discussed looking into the new recycling facility being constructed near Lake Village when it's completed to save money.

Johnson reported letters were sent to property owners with inoperable vehicles in yard. He said they did the final plumbing inspection at the new elementary school.

Street Foreman Monty Hearnberger reported they were digging out ditches and cleaning gutters. Streets were being measured. The city council approved an ordinance that banned burning trash, leaves, or any other combustible items in city ditches.

The Warren Cultural Center was addressed. Mayor Reep reported the building was not a safety hazard, according to the structural engineers. However, much work is needed. Warren resident David King submitted a letter to the city offering to help raise money for the much-needed repairs at the cultural center.

A business on Myrtle Street requested for signs to be put up at his business allowing two designated parking spots for his customers.

Herman Phillips and Nick Mann were both nominated and approved to be on the planning commission board.

The next city council meeting will be at 5:30 p.m. on Monday, May 8. The city council meeting will be located at the Warren Municipal Building courtroom. The monthly meeting is open to the public.

County purchases downtown buildings

By Zach Killian
Editor

Downtown Warren was the main topic of discussion at the Bradley County Quorum Court meeting on Monday night.

Leah St. John spoke during the public comment portion at the start of the meeting. She shared her concern about the flag mural that would be torn down. She called for transparency from the quorum court. She said she asked four quorum court members about what was happening with the buildings and she was told they didn't know what the county was going to do with it.

“This town needs hope,” St. John said. She said downtown needs to be improved to bring in new businesses.

She told the quorum court it would cost $7,500 to replace the flag mural.

The quorum court passed a resolution to acquire certain parcels of real estate property across from the courthouse for the “best interest of the public's health, safety, and welfare.” The quorum court approved to purchase 100 East Cedar from Annette Colvin for $10,000; 106 and 108 East Cedar from Johnny and Jennifer Bradford for $20,000; 110 East Cedar from Jason Reep for $25,000; and 112 East Cedar from the Bradley County Rural Water Association for $65,000. The quorum court passed an ordinance to amend the 2022 county budget to allow the purchase of the properties by the appropriate funds. Federal funds will be used to purchase the properties.

Bradley County Judge Klay McKinney said no county business could be done without the quorum court passing ordinances or resolutions.

The tenants have until May 1 to move out. The judge said they hope to get it done by the Pink Tomato Festival time, but safety for the public and the workers was his primary concern.

He told The Eagle Democrat there were no plans yet of what the properties will be used for after demolition. Judge McKinney asked the community for prayers and patience as they tear down the old buildings.

“It's a daunting task maintaining these 110-year-old buildings,” said Judge McKinney.

In other business, Michael Milton was approved to replace Lathan Hairston on the Bradley County Medical Center board.

The judge said funds from the CARES Act would be used to install more fire hydrants in rural areas in Bradley County.

Kenneth Saunders was recognized and honored by the quorum court for his work with the Bradley County Rural Fire Department.

The next meeting will be at 6 p.m. on Monday, May 15 at the courthouse courtroom.

Warren School District raises teacher salaries

By Zach Killian
Editor

The Warren School Board approved a salary increase for certified personnel for $50,000 under the new state LEARNS Act that was passed. The LEARNS Act sets the base salary for certified teachers at $50,000. An additional $2,000 would be included to teachers already making $50,000. Administrator salaries were raised by $2,000.

The school board heard a presentation by Mainline Health CEO Allan Nichols about installing a school-based health clinic. No action was taken.

The school board approved the playground bid from Davis Playground for $178,942 for new playground equipment. Another bid of $39,000 from Davis Playground would purchase shades.

Warren Superintendent Bryan Cornish said work was still being done at the elementary school. Painting is being done inside and ceiling tiles are being installed.

The school board voted to officially name the new elementary school Warren Elementary School.

Superintendent Cornish hopes to have the high school occupied by July.

The school district received a $164,000 grant for safety upgrades for the schools.

The school board approved the 2021-2022 legislative audit.

Brunson Elementary Principal Regina Scroggins announced her retirement. She has been in education for 37 years and worked at the Warren School District for 31 years. Before being the principal, she was the special education teacher.

The school board accepted the following resignations: Elizabeth McKinney, assistant principal at Eastside Elementary; Misty Reynolds, second grade instructor at Eastside; Kristin Weeks, sixth grade instructor at Warren Middle School; and Randi Hasley, cheer sponsor at Warren High School.

The following hiring recommendations were approved: Elizabeth McKinney, second grade instructor at Eastside; Lisa Courtney, WHS English instructor; Brooke Hogue, Warren High School FACS instructor; Logan Evans, Warren High School History instructor; Eric Greene, Warren High School History instructor; Susan Hennell, Warren High School Math instructor; and Ginnie Sellers, Warren High School Math instructor.

The next school board meeting will be at 7 p.m. on Monday, May 8 at the Warren School Administration Building.

Ouachita and Townsend Flooring receive state awards for zero safety violations

By Zach Killian

Ouachita Hardwood Flooring and Townsend Flooring received awards on Friday for three years of zero safety violations. Clark Thomas, from the Arkansas Department of Labor presented the awards to both firms.

Shay Dugal, owner and general manager, accepted the awards. Also, in attendance was safety consultant Ricky Geiger, Yancy Kyle, field representative for U.S. Representative Bruce Westerman, Martha Chavez, and Tommy Maxwell, owner of Maxwell Hardwood Flooring.

Dugal thanked the employees for their hard work to make it a safe workplace.

Geiger said their record with OSHA was not great five years ago. Employees received CPR and first aid training.

Thomas said there were 25 workplace fatalities in the state from October 1, 2021 to September 30, 2022.

AMAZING RESURRECTION CELEBRATION

Easter Sunday was amazing! “He is not here, He is risen!”, echoed throughout the world. He’s alive and I’m forgiven, heaven’s gates are open wide!

The message of Easter cannot be written in the past tense. It is a message relevant for today and the days to come.

In chemistry, Jesus turned water to wine.

In biology, He was born without normal conception.

In physics, He disproved the law of diminishing return by feeding 5,000 men with two fishes and five loaves of bread.

In medicine, He cured the sick and the blind, without administering a single dose of drugs.

In history, He is the beginning and the end.

In government, He said that He shall be called Wonderful Counselor, Prince of Peace.

In religion, He said no one comes to the Father except through Him.

Jesus had no servants, yet they called Him master; had no degree, yet they called Him teacher; had no medicines, yet they called Him healer.

He had no armies, yet rulers feared Him.

He won no military battles, yet He conquered the world.

He committed no crime, yet they crucified Him.

He was buried in a tomb, yet He lives today.

Oldtimer’s Notebook

By
Robert L. Newton

The publishers of The Eagle Democrat have chosen to publish articles from the past Oldtimer’s Notebook in memory of Robert L. Newton. This article was first published March 14, 2001.

The Ides of March, about which the Soothsayer warned Caesar, is here again: grass is poppin’ up, the sound of the lawn mower is heard again.

We exit (maybe) from a pretty ghastly winter, tho’ admittedly, it hasn’t been as awful in Bradley County as elsewhere (save the day we get our Natural Gas bills: then it can be plumb awful).

Explanation: The “Ides of March” means the middle of the month, of course.

It’s been special at our house for many a year: my father succumbed, suddenly, at the age of 51 on March 18, 1942.

I thought he was an old man, then.

Now, of course, from the vantage point of being in the neighborhood of age 72, that doesn’t seem so elderly after all.

But he smoked, was too heavy, worked 12 hours a day.

Of the three things mentioned, I am guilty of only carrying of excessive lard: and that’s going away, thanks to a regimen of reduction upon which I have been since the first of the year.

Wanta lose 20 pounds and more? It’s not complicated:

- A small glass of orange juice plus some oatmeal for breakfast.
- Some “Nabs”, containing less than 200 calories, for lunch.
- One of these “Lean Cuisine” entrees, less than 300 calories for dinner.

There is even space in there for the quaffing of a small adult soda water as the aurora borealis of the day sinks dependably in the west.

No cookies, nor cake, nor pie, nor hot rolls, nor hamburgers, etc.

One must be faithful, screwing up his or her courage to the stickin’ point...but it works.

If one can lose 20 pounds, he can lose thirty.

More later (always more later).

Am in receipt of a first of the year note from the still-dazzling Beverly Nason Jones of 433 Shadowood Drive in Ridgeland, Miss.

Beverly was the elder daughter of the late Lorraine Jones Turner and her first husband, an extremely handsome young man from Louisiana who had come to Warren to work for Judge DuVal L. Purkins at THE EAGLE DEMOCRAT.

His name was Noel Newell Nason.

(Beverly says the real name probably doesn’t matter to folks nowadays, save herself).

Mr. Nason was also sheriff of that Parish in Louisiana.

He died at 39 of leukemia.

“wish I could have met him”, muses his daughter.

Judge Purkins published the newspaper from 1926 to 1946.

Small word department: we had a nice visit with the nephew of the Judge, the retired Little Rock Banker Glen Williams, at an occasion of civic nature at Hot Springs Katelyn Busby was the guest Warren Junior Rotarians (from L to R): Felicity Crockett and Abby Mendez attended the Rotary Club meeting.

Rotary Club hears from financial advisor

Special to The Eagle Democrat

The Rotary Club of Warren met for its weekly meeting Tuesday, April 11 at First United Methodist Church.

The group heard from Warren High School Junior Rotarian Abby Mendez to begin the event.

Warren Rotary Club President Dennen Cuthbertson then introduced Katelyn Busby of Edward Jones in Monticello to present the program.

Busby, a native of Monticello, is a financial advisor and prepared a presentation for the group.

She spoke about growing up in Monticello and wanting to help the people of Southeast Arkansas. Busby explained that she had worked as an attorney before switching careers to become a financial advisor.

The current state of the market along with inflation were key topics during the program.

There was also a mention of a recession, but Busby stated that you can still make money in today’s climate with the right investments.

Busby ended her informative presentation by answering several questions from the crowd.

Hermitage superintendent announces retirement

Hermitage School Superintendent Dr. Tracy Tucker submitted her letter of retirement to the Hermitage School Board on April 3. It was accepted by the school board. Her retirement will be effective June 30. The hiring firm McPherson and Jacobson was chosen by the school board to search for a new superintendent.

The school board approved the pre-k salary schedule and the certified salary schedule for 2023-2024 school year. The rehiring of staff for the 2023-2024 school year was also approved.

Dr. Tucker gave an update on the American Rescue Plan Act. She also reported heating and air units for both gyms had arrived and would be installed soon. Floor work would also continue over the summer.

Dr. Tucker made a request for the approval of the ARPA Plan for submission to the Division of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE). The school board approved the request.

The school board approved the special education application to DESE.

Letters of resignation from the following were approved by the school board: Brenna Leggett, vocational agriculture teacher; Ginnie Sellers; and Melinda Haire. Kimberly Stratton submitted her letter to retire. The board approved.

There will no school board meetings until a superintendent is hired.

Glen’s divorced: resides alone in an apartment in West Little Rock.

His mother was a sister of Judge Purkins; Glen grew up at Hope, where he was well-acquainted with Bill Clinton’s people, Mike Huckabee’s too.

An office supply dealer in Little Rock: nationwide, really, runs a bunch of teevee ads saying the concern keeps busy “taking care of business”.

Phrase reminds the oldtimer of J.J. Neal, long the Ford dealer at Hampton.

Somebody did an article on Mr. Neal in the Hampton paper long after he was supposed to be retired in which Mr. Neal said he was “taking care of business” daily.

Mr. Neal’s elder daughter is the wife of Highway Commissioner John Lipton, who has been praised in this column before.

Mr. Neal’d be proud of his grandson, Michael Lipton, who is in the insurance business at Hot Springs, and now a vice president of the chamber of commerce there (he will be president of the civic group in two years).

Mr. Neal’s sister is Faye Wall, Hermitage.

We went to college the same day in 1947: she to State Teachers, me to Hendrix.

We sat on the curb together in downtown Conway that night and walked about how homesick we were.

...fifty-four years ago this September.

The father of J.J. Neal and his sister was Mr. Cliff Neal, one of the real founders of the tomato deal at Hermitage.

A fine, old-fashioned gentleman, Mr. Cliff Neal.

BCMC to host blood drive April 27

Special to The Eagle

There will be a LifeShare Blood Drive on Thursday, April 27 from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. in the LifeShare bus that will be set up in the BCMC Rural Health Clinic parking lot. The BCMC Rural Health Clinic is located at 304 East Central Street across the road from the Emergency Room entrance at Bradley County Medical Center.

Blood donations are significantly needed currently as contributions are in a downturn across the nation. Local blood drives are the main source of blood for Bradley County Medical Center and the other hospitals in our region. If you can donate blood, please consider becoming a contributor on Thursday, April 27.

Every two seconds, someone somewhere needs blood. One of every seven people who enter the hospital will need blood. That person may be you, your loved one, friend, or co-worker. With all the wonderful advances in modern medicine, there still is NO substitute for human blood. The blood that helps patients comes only from caring people who volunteer to help others by donating their life-saving blood.

It is safe to donate blood. COVID-19 does not pose any known risk to blood donors during the donation process or from attending blood drives. It is also safe to donate blood if you have received a COVID-19 vaccination.

LifeShare Blood Center, established in Shreveport, La., in 1942, regularly supplies blood components and related services to more than 100 medical facilities and hospitals throughout Louisiana, East Texas and South Arkansas. LifeShare is a member of America’s Blood Centers and the American Rare Donor Program, is licensed by the U.S. Food & Drug Administration, and accredited by AABB. LifeShare Blood Center is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit community blood bank governed by a volunteer Board of Trustees.

Warren named Tree City USA for 18th year

The city of Warren was named Tree City USA for the 18th year in a row by the Arkansas Department of Agriculture’s Forestry Division. The program honors the city’s dedication to planting trees. The four standards to be awarded are: a city department must bedesignated to be responsible for community tree care; must have a tree care ordinance in effect; must have an active forestry program; and the city must proclaim and observe Arbor Day annually. Pictured left to right: Mayor Gregg Reep, Charlotte Brown, and Krissy Kimbro, from the Department of Agriculture Forestry Division.

Arkansas
History Minute

by
Dr. Kenneth Bridges

With springtime, Arkansans have long looked with trepidation to rising storm clouds or sudden shifts in winds. In recent days, tornadoes again brought tragedy to the state with damage in the Little Rock area and across Central Arkansas. While Arkansas is considered on the edge of the notorious Tornado Alley, the intensity and fury of these storms have not spared the people of the state.

Tornadoes are powerful, compact storms with swirling winds of up to 300 miles per hour. It is these intense winds in the more powerful tornadoes that produce the more unusual stories of straw being flung into trees intact or cars or even trains being lifted up and carried long distances. Most have weak winds and never touch the ground, but they can intensify suddenly and without warning. Some tornadoes have been reported as much as a mile wide and can travel over a hundred miles before dissipating. Some have been reported to be so wide and so powerful that they have actually parted the Mississippi River as they crossed.

While tornadoes most often occur on late afternoons in spring, they can occur at any time of year and any time of day. The largest tornado outbreak in recorded history in Arkansas was January 17, 1999, when twelve tornadoes formed in Northeast Arkansas, resulting in only minor injuries. One man died in Leachville near Jonesboro in a tornado in December 2021.

One of the earliest recorded Arkansas tornadoes occurred in Fort Smith on January 11, 1898. The storm struck at 11:15 PM while most of the town slept, unaware of the danger approaching them, and no way to warn anyone. Fifty-five people died in the tornado, with 113 injured. On June 5, 1916, Heber Springs was wrecked by a tornado that left twenty-five dead and more than fifty homes destroyed. On May 9, 1927, the town of Victoria in eastern Union County was all but destroyed by a tornado that left thirty dead. Here, the town rebuilt and renamed their community “Strong” as a show of spirit.

Other storms came and wreaked their terrible toll: the January 3, 1949, tornado destroyed 700 homes in Warren and killed 55; the tornado of March 21, 1952, left 112 dead across the state, including 30 in Judsonia, 10 in Bald Knob, and another 29 in Cotton Plant; Greenwood was wrecked on April 19, 1968, by the tornado that killed 14; thirty-five died in Jonesboro in the horrors of the May 15, 1968, tornado; while six died in West Memphis on December 14, 1987. The heartbreaking list could go on.

Since the end of World War II, technological advances have steadily improved understanding of how and when tornadoes form. Use of radar combined with observations of wind, humidity, and air pressure greatly advanced weather forecasting techniques. Looking at the success of Air Force weathermen in issuing a tornado watch in 1948 to save lives, prompted the warning system to be adopted everywhere.

In a tornado watch, meteorologists warn area residents that conditions could produce a tornado. With a tornado warning, residents are alerted that a tornado has been sighted in the area and residents should take cover, preferably in a basement, storm shelter, or in a secure room on the lowest floor of a building, such as a closet or a bathroom away from windows.

By the late 1980s, extensive research into tornadoes and new radar systems prompted the National Weather Service to establish a system of Doppler radar towers to monitor the weather. By the mid-1990s, a network of 100 WSR-88D Doppler radar sites had been set up across the nation, carefully scanning each storm and relaying that information to the media, to the public, and to government agencies. Better computer systems allowed forecasters to scan these storms for rotation that would indicate a tornado forming. Meteorologists can now have a warning of up to 15 minutes that a tornado is forming. Because of these developments and better storm shelters, fatalities from tornadoes in Arkansas have fallen more than 90% since 1952. Tornadoes, however, are still extremely dangerous and residents should pay careful attention to the weather when tornado watches are announced.

In spite of our advances in technology and more sophisticated warning systems, we are still at the mercy of nature. With each storm, neighbors would always come together and rebuild, determined not to let disaster be the end. The outpouring of support in the aftermath of these terrible storms through the years show that spirit can be stronger than any storm.

During the 2023 regular session the Arkansas legislature not only continued to lower state income taxes, but also reduced homeowners’ property taxes.

Act 315 lowers property taxes by increasing the homestead property tax credit from $375 to $425 a year. It is effective beginning with assessment year 2023.

In 2024 the act will save Arkansas homeowners an estimated $34 million, and in the following year savings will increase to $34.8 million. Homeowners that receive the homestead property tax credit will get a credit of $425 to offset their property tax liability.

The major tax reduction of the 2023 legislative session was Senate Bill 549, to reduce individual income taxes by $100 million a year and corporate income taxes by $24 million a year.

The legislature also approved HB 1045 to phase in a new method of calculating the income tax owed by companies that do business in multiple states. Tax savings will begin modestly because it is being phased in. Businesses in Arkansas will save $10.6 million next year.

Those savings go up dramatically and by 2030 will be more than $74 million a year. Sponsors of HB 1045 say it will make Arkansas more competitive when we recruit new industries.

The legislature has enacted tax cuts in every session since 2015, when lawmakers approved Act 22. It lowered income taxes by $102 million a year, mainly for middle-income families. In 2017 the legislature lowered income taxes for low-income families by $50 million a year and for retired veterans by $13.4 million a year.

In 2019 the legislature lowered individual income taxes for upper income and middle income families, saving them $97 million a year. The homestead property tax credit was increased too.

In 2021 the legislature passed historic income tax cuts that save Arkansas families and businesses $500 million a year. The package will benefit taxpayers in all brackets. In 2022 legislators accelerated the 2021 tax cuts.

Since 2015 the legislature has lowered the personal income tax rate from 7 percent to 4.7 percent. Over the same period legislators have lowered the corporate income tax rate from 6.5 percent to 5.1 percent.

The tax reductions were made possible because the legislature consistently budgeted very conservatively. Even with the tax reductions, state government has accumulated a surplus of more than $1.6 billion.

The state general revenue budget, which pays for day-to-day operations, will be about $6.2 billion for the fiscal year that begins July 1.

The availability of reserve funds will make it possible for the state to build prison space for an additional 3,000 inmates, which reinforces the criminal justice bill that was approved late in the session.

The bill requires dangerous offenders to serve 85 percent or even 100 percent of their sentences. It also requires inmates to earn good time by finishing programs like drug rehabilitation, mental health treatment and job training.

Those programs better prepare inmates to transition to the outside world, because while in prison they will have incentives to better themselves and learn skills necessary for being a productive citizen.

JOHN BOOZMAN

U.S. SENATOR for ARKANSAS

Arkansas has a long and storied history that makes it such a unique place. Since gaining statehood in 1836, our state has become known for its natural beauty, earning the nickname “The Natural State,” as well as the world-famous duck hunting, major agricultural production and growing city life. This year Arkansas is celebrating many milestones that show just how far we have come as a state and how bright our future is.

This year we celebrate 100 years of one of our state’s greatest assets, Arkansas State Parks. In 1923, the Arkansas legislature authorized the commissioner of state lands to accept donations for state parks and the creation of the first in Arkansas, Petit Jean State Park.

I have many fond memories with my family at this Conway County site, which continues to be a favorite place for us to spend time together in addition to so many other Arkansans. Today, in every corner of our state, this park and countless others are great places for families and friends to enjoy the outdoors.

The beauty of Arkansas brings people from all across the country to our backyard. Our state parks are driving local economies and helping support businesses, spurring critical development and commerce.

As we mark their centennial, celebrations are taking place in the 52 state parks all year and provide another great opportunity to explore our state’s inviting landscape.

Along with the Arkansas State Parks, Blanchard Springs Caverns is celebrating its 50th anniversary in 2023. After decades of underground exploration and development, the caverns opened to the general public in 1973, showcasing their natural wonder to visitors from near and far. Thanks to the dedicated personnel at the U.S. Forest Service, community advocates and outdoor enthusiasts, it remains a popular attraction and is often described as one of the most beautiful caves in the country.

Celebrations are also happening in Faulkner County and Bentonville in recognition of their 150th anniversaries.

With around 125,000 residents, Faulkner County is now the state’s sixth-most populated county and home to a thriving economy that has enhanced the quality of life. In Conway, also known as the City of Colleges, students at the University of Central Arkansas, Hendrix College and Central Baptist College enrich its social life and culture during the school year and long after graduation.

The county’s proximity to Little Rock and major transportation routes makes it an ideal location for industry and business, while Lake Conway and Cadron Creek provide ample opportunities for recreation and relaxation.

Over the years Bentonville has become a hub of commerce and culture in Northwest Arkansas. By 1950, Sam Walton had opened the orig-

Cattle prices continue to rise

Special to The Eagle

It's true: Cattle market prices are at what some analysts have called "historic highs." Unfortunately, profits are not.

For the entirety of 2023, slaughtered steer prices across all U.S. markets have remained above those of the previous year by 20-30 cwt, ranging from $155 to $170, and practically soared above the 2017-2021 average by 40 cwt or more. According to recent data from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, fed steer prices reached above $175 cwt last week, topping the 2014-2015 record of about $172.

But of course, a dollar in 2023 is not what it was in 2014. According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, inflation during those nine years has reduced the value of a dollar spent in the consumer price index by 28 cents.

James Mitchell, extension livestock economist for the University of Arkansas System Division of Agriculture, said inflation is just one reason to keep today's market prices in perspective.

"I wouldn't say we're near 'record territory,'" Mitchell said. "I'd say we have prices as high as we've seen in the last 10 years in nominal terms — which is still great. You have to be careful how you interpret that, however."

Mitchell also emphasized that the cattle industry, as a whole, abides by a cyclical nature.

"We've had three, four consecutive years of liquidating cow herds, of tighter and tighter feeder cattle supplies, and that's driven significantly higher," he said. But producers shouldn't expect that upward trend to continue indefinitely.

For cattle producers in the U.S. Southeast and elsewhere, 2014-2015 was an unforgettable season, for reasons both good and bad. Prices spiked to record highs at the end of 2014, owing largely to market demand, at a time when feed, fuel and other input prices remained relatively low. When supply began catching up, however, market competition pulled the floor out from beneath those prices, leaving many producers with larger herds they had to either maintain or sell off at much-lower-than-anticipated prices.

Mitchell said that today's high input prices, while largely the bane of many producers' existence, will at least help sustain the cattle market prices.

"All the inputs are much higher than they were 10 years ago," he said. "Corn is still high, fertilizer is still high, fuel is still high. So, because profitability hasn't moved up as high as prices have, I do think we're going to see prices stay high for a more prolonged period amount of time. When we got into the fall of 2015, it seemed like prices just fell out from under us, and we continued along that path for the next couple of years."

As always, spring and summer weather will play the wild card in cattle production. While Arkansas has seen a fairly wet few months, that augers nothing for the summer, when rainfall will be more critical for providing grazing material to livestock.

"We've been pretty fortunate in Arkansas, but I'd argue that moisture really doesn't matter now as much as it does in the next few months," Mitchell said. "We need timely, adequate rainfall through the spring and summer, when it matters most for both forage production and hay production. It doesn't matter a whole lot if we've got rain in February and March."

Even if Arkansas does see a dry summer, the state's cattle producers still have a lead on some neighboring states that have dwelled in the doldrums of drought for more than a year now.

"We still have two of our biggest cattle states, Oklahoma and Texas, that are still very much in drought, so that's limiting the options for a lot of those producers," Mitchell said. "Kansas is in even more of a severe drought scenario."

"The prices may be high, but if we don't have grass to feed cattle, there's nothing we can do about it," he said.

FEATURES FROM THE BIBLE

TRUTH IN SCRIPTURE

A Wife for Isaac

Genesis 24

Abraham sent his chief servant to the land from which Abraham and Sarah had come to find a wife for Isaac.

He journeyed to Nahor and was at the town well watering his camels at the time the women of the town came out to get water for home. He prayed that he would have success in finding a wife for Isaac.

He determined that he would know which girl was right for Isaac if, when he asked for a drink from a girl, she would give a drink to him and also give a drink to his camels.

While this servant was still praying the beautiful Rebekah came and filled her jar with water. The servant asked her for a drink for himself.

She gave him a drink and offered to draw water for his camels. Bingo. Success.

Isaac's servant had found Isaac a wife.

NOTICE OF ANNUAL SCHOOL ELECTION
Hermitage School District of Bradley County, Arkansas
May 9, 2023

In accordance with Act 448 of 2021, the Bradley County Election Commission has approved the resolution submitted by the Hermitage School District Board of Directors to declare an election by candidate to be held. The candidates will be allowed to cast a ballot for himself/herself during the time period of May 2 through May 8, 2023, during the hours of 8:00 am through 4:30 pm in the office of the Bradley County Clerk.
Zone 1 – Dorothy Davis
At-Large – Kevin Reep

41.5 Mill School Tax
The total tax rate proposed above includes the uniform rate of tax (the “Statewide Uniform Rate”) to be collected on all taxable property in the State and remitted to the State Treasurer pursuant to Amendment No. 74 to the Arkansas Constitution to be used solely for maintenance and operation of schools in the State. As provided in Amendment No. 74, the Statewide Uniform Rate replaces a portion of the existing rate of the tax levied by this School District and available for maintenance and operations of school in the District. This total proposed school tax levy of 41.5 mills includes 25.0 mills specifically voted for general maintenance and operation and 16.5 mills voted for debt service previously voted as a continuing levy pledged for the retirement of existing bonded indebtedness. The surplus revenues produced each year by debt service millage may be used by the District for other school purposes.
The total proposed school tax levy of 41.5 mills represents the same rate presently being collected.

Lumberjack sports recap

Warren defeated McGehee in a nonconference game Monday, April 10 with a score of 13-3. Maddox Lassiter led the Jacks going three for three at the plate, stealing four bases and scoring three runs.

Lumberjacks defeat Monticello 6-0 on Thursday, April 20. Jose Garcia gets by the keeper for an open shot but is fouled from behind. Miguel Mendoza would take the penalty shot to score Warren’s second goal of the half.

The Lady Jacks defeated Monticello at Monticello Thursday, April 20, with the score of 4-1. Azul Cortes sets up for her first goal in the first of four goals.

The Garden Bug

Dogwood trees

The dogwood has graceful blossoms and distinctive bark, and also attracts wildlife. Silk moths and several species of butterflies favor dogwoods as hosts. The flowers provide nectar to many pollinating insects. American robins, northern mockingbirds and sparrows will build nests on its horizontal branches. Many birds eat its berries, including cardinals, titmice, bluebirds, juncos and waxwings. – Brenda Weaver
