Bradley Co. Medical Center board discusses hospital revenue

By JOANNA POOLE
reporter@theeagledemocrat.com

Bradley County Medical Center held its monthly board meeting on Thursday, February 29. The meeting was opened with a motion to approve the minutes from the previous month's meeting. All were in favor.

The financial report was then presented. The hospital's acute patient days went from 66 previously to 157 as of this month. There was a total gross patient revenue of $4.6 million dollars, a net operating revenue of $2 million dollars, and a net income of $387,000.00 dollars for the month. The hospital's accounts receivable increase to $1 million dollars for the month. The hospital also added $118,000.00 dollars to their sales tax fund.

Leslie Huitt told the board that because the hospital is now using Meditech, revenue is being captured quicker than before.

"Because it is electronic, there is no more lag time between the paper chart being completed and it going to medical records to be scanned," Huitt said. "It goes directly into the system when a physician documents it."

Jamie Wolfe reported that hospital is starting to work through a program with UAMS called TeleSANE. Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner or SANE programs play a critical role in supporting sexual assault victims. SANE programs train registered nurses to provide comprehensive health care to survivors of sexual assault.

"This will strengthen us to where we have twenty-four seven coverage in the emergency room," Wolfe said.

Wolfe reported that even though the emergency room does not experience a high volume of sexual assault cases, it is important to have someone on staff that is trained for and can handle the cases that do come in.

Starting on Tuesday, March 12, the hospital will host a series of educational classes. The first will be a series on diabetes education and will be held at the Brunson Complex from 10 a.m.-12 p.m.

Leeanna Williams reported that the community connect event that was held by BCMC had a positive impact. The hospital will host another connect event on Tuesday, April 16.

The board then went into executive session.

The next meeting will be on Thursday, March 28.

WANT A REVIVAL? THEN SEEK THE LORD

About 600 years before Christ, a profit named Jeremiah, cried out to his fellow citizens of Jerusalem. He said that judgment was coming. He warned that if the people of Jerusalem and Judah did not repent of their sins, a terrible price would have to be paid. Not much attention was paid to this fellow they called "the weeping prophet." They continued in their ways and judgment did come. The people of the land were exiled to a far country, their own beloved country left behind, on fire and desolate.

wild man" who dared to speak of things holy. I must say to you with all candor that I fear for this nation. I think we have already gone too far; we have crossed the line. It is altogether probably that God has given us all the slack He is prepared to give. But on the remote chance that there is still a chance for spiritual recovery, my heartcry is, "O Lord, please send revival to our land."

II Chronicles 7:14 has been referred to so many times that even unbelievers can quote it: "If my people which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land." If America is going to be rescued from its near fatal position, God's conditions are going to have to be met.

The first condition then is to know we're a team and must work together. The next time you drive to your church slow down a little. En route you will pass other churches that preach the gospel. Pray for each one as you pass. Ask God to bless that congregation and pastor. Ask God to fill that sanctuary with His divine presence. You will be amazed at your feelings for that church as you pray for it.

The second condition is to humble ourselves and pray. The hardest thing in the world to do is to get people to pray. Why is that? Why can you announce a singing or supper and fill the sanctuary or fellowship hall? Call a night of prayer and you can meet in the baptistry. God didn't say to us, "want a revival? Have a singing!" No, God said, "want a revival? Pray!"

At this very moment, America is in desperate condition. Whether or not she can be salvaged is very, very marginal. But one thing is sure, if she is to be revived, then God's people will have to humble themselves, and pray, and seek the Lord's favor. There is no other answer at all.

Arkansas House Report

Jeff Wardlaw
Ark. State Representative

From classrooms to healthcare, the state budget has a direct impact on our daily lives. Weeks before the legislative session begins, the General Assembly reviews the state's current fiscal position and budget requests for the upcoming fiscal year.

Budget hearings this year will begin on March 6 and are expected to continue through March 8.

These hearings will be held in the MAC building located directly behind the Capitol. The hearings are open to the public and will be live-streamed on our website.

The Department of Finance and Administration will present the Governor's recommendation for a balanced budget on the first day of budget hearings which will begin at 9 a.m.

After the balanced budget proposal is presented, the Joint Budget Committee will then begin hearing budget requests from state agencies. Historically, the two largest categories of funding are education and human services. Higher education, public safety, and health are also top budget priorities.

The most recent general revenue report released showed net available general revenue at 5.6 percent below levels from one year ago. After seven months into the fiscal year, net available revenue is above forecast by $231.2 million or 6.0 percent.

All of the information gathered during these hearings will help in drafting appropriation bills.

Members can begin pre-filing bills on March 11. The Arkansas General Assembly will convene for the 2024 Fiscal Session at noon on April 10.

Fiscal Sessions began after Arkansas voters approved Amendment 86 in 2008. This will be the 8th Fiscal Session held in state history.

Fiscal Sessions are held in February in years in which the primary elections are held in May. The Fiscal Sessions begin in April in years, like this year, in which primary elections are held in March. Fiscal Sessions are limited to 30 days unless three fourths of the General Assembly agrees to a one-time extension not to exceed 15 days.

You can watch the meetings and find the daily agendas at www.arkansashouse.org.

Senate Week in Review from Ben Gilmore Senator

Arkansas is one of several states that have restricted their public retirement systems from investing in funds that refuse to trade in the stock of fossil fuel companies, energy companies, ammunition manufacturers and firearms makers.

Texas, Oklahoma, Kentucky and West Virginia have drawn up a list of financial institutions that are restricted from handling investments for retirement systems.

The attorney general of Tennessee recently filed a lawsuit against BlackRock, an investment firm with assets of about $10 trillion. The lawsuit alleges that BlackRock misled its customers who live in Tennessee by downplaying the extent to which its investment strategy emphasizes ESG factors. The acronym refers to environmental, social and governance related factors.

For example, there are mutual funds that promote themselves as focusing on clean or renewable energy. Other funds may say to investors that they won't purchase stock in a business that doesn't have a strong inclusion and diversity policy.

Act 411 of 2023 creates a process for the Arkansas Teacher Retirement System and the state Public Employees Retirement System to remove its holdings in restricted companies. Texas has a law similar to Act 411 and so far has listed 15 companies whose energy divisions will be restricted from Texas public investments.

Kentucky has 11 companies on its restricted list. Oklahoma has six and West Virginia has five.

At a recent meeting of the Joint Performance Review Committee, the director of the Arkansas Teacher Retirement System updated lawmakers on the progress of divestment efforts mandated by Act 411.

The act created a five-member ESG Oversight Committee, which will make the decisions about whether Arkansas public systems should take its money out of specific investment funds. It should make divestment decisions in a few months.

The Teacher Retirement System has about $1.2 billion in three funds managed by BlackRock. The largest is about $1 billion in an index fund, which is set up to track the movements of enormous national and worldwide stock market indexes. It has investments in a large variety of businesses.

The teacher retirement system has $260 million in a bond fund and $13.8 million in a private infrastructure fund that has financed fossil fuel production, pipelines and power companies.

The lawsuit by the Tennessee attorney general specifically identifies 27 investment products offered by BlackRock. The Arkansas Teacher Retirement System has no investments in any of those 27 products. The Public Employees Retirement System has no investments in BlackRock funds, nor does the Local Police and Fire Retirement System.

If ESG Oversight Committee identifies a BlackRock fund that Arkansas is prohibited from doing business with, the teacher retirement system would take out its money and place it elsewhere. The director estimated that the administrative costs of divesting would not exceed $10 million, which would not affect the overall financial health of the system because of its size.

The Arkansas Teacher Retirement System has assets of about $21.4 billion and the Arkansas Public Employees Retirement System has assets of more than $11 billion. Their investment managers will have to certify every month that they're in compliance with Act 411, and that their investment decisions are based on monetary factors, with no consideration of political factors.

Tax filing season is upon us, so it's important to pay attention to deadlines and changes impacting our families and businesses. Whether scrambling to find documents or well-organized, there are resources to help us successfully complete this annual practice.

Despite having all the necessary paperwork, many Arkansans face additional hurdles to filing or encounter hiccups in the process that slow down refunds.

The IRS's Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) and Tax Counseling for the Elderly (TCE) programs are good tools to help Arkansans with tax preparation and filing. TCE offers free tax help for those 60 and older, and is especially useful to answer questions about pensions and retirement-related issues unique to seniors. VITA has been helping taxpayers for more than 50 years with partner programs across the country to prepare free basic tax returns. It can help taxpayers who earn less than $64,000 per year, have a disability or need help reading information in English. A number of locations across Arkansas offer this service. As with this program and others administered by the IRS, information is available at IRS.gov.

Additionally, for Arkansans comfortable with filing online, the IRS has information about doing so on its website as well as resources available 24 hours a day.

Another free resource is the AARP Foundation Tax-Aide program. It provides in-person and virtual tax assistance to anyone, with a focus on taxpayers who are over 50 with low-to-moderate incomes. There are several locations in Arkansas available by appointment and open to walk-ins as well. Find a site close to home at aarp.org.

For the best chance for tax-time success, the IRS recommends filing electronically, which is what more than 93 percent of Americans did last year. The agency has processed more than 1.2 billion e-filed returns over the years. Officials say returns are less likely to have errors when using e-file and most taxpayers due a refund get their money within 21 days.

Regardless of e-filing or sending in a paper return, one thing remains the same. It is critical to get information right the first time. For tax filers who must make corrections and file an amended return, everything slows down.

Another complication the IRS is working hard to battle is the prevalence of fraudulent returns. My office frequently hears from Arkansans who have been asked to confirm their identity with tax officials. If someone else files using your Social Security number or other identifying information, the agency may reach out via mail and request additional verification to make sure the right person gets a refund. It is important to respond quickly to this request because officials cannot continue processing the return until that is clarified.

It is also important to try avoiding any potential scammer who might offer to provide tax assistance only to defraud unsuspecting victims. If you do get help filing a tax return, make sure to work with a reputable tax professional or one of the organizations listed above that are authorized to assist you.

As always, if you have trouble getting information from a federal agency or encounter a bureaucratic problem, don't hesitate to reach out to my office. We are always willing to provide assistance to Arkansans, request updates and seek answers on your behalf.

By KENNETH BRIDGES

The law was against L. Clifford Davis and his family for many years. But Davis used the law to change the country and become one of the most respected legal minds in the country.

Davis was born in the small community of Wilton in Little River County in the southwest corner of Arkansas in 1925. He was the youngest of seven children born to Augustus and Dora Duckett Davis.

As he grew up, the Jim Crow system in place blocked his attempt at an education. At the time, Little River County had no high schools for African-Americans, and segregation prevented him from attending with whites. He and his older brothers moved to Little Rock where he attended Dunbar High School. After graduation, he attended Little Rock's Philander Smith College, graduating in 1945 at age 20. Seeing the success of prominent Little Rock African-American attorney Scipio Jones, Davis decided to pursue a career in law. He applied for the University of Arkansas Law School, but he was prevented from attending because of segregation. In 1946, he was accepted into law school at Howard University in Washington, DC.

In 1947, officials at the University of Arkansas Law School contacted him with a possibility of transferring to Fayetteville though under a segregated arrangement. Segregation, however, prevented him from having access to the same classes, materials, and professors as the other students, and therefore, an inferior law school experience. He instead continued at Howard University. The law school quietly desegregated the next year with the admission of Silas Hunt. Davis graduated from Howard in 1949.

Davis then returned to Arkansas. He specialized in civil rights law, and he was one of only nine black lawyers in the state at the time. Though a respected attorney in Pine Bluff, Davis moved to Waco, Texas, in 1952 to teach at Paul Quinn College. Anxious to be back in the courtroom, Davis passed the Texas bar exam in 1953 and moved to Fort Worth in 1954 to open his own law firm. At the time, he was one of only two African-American lawyers in one of the biggest cities in the state. He quickly found himself in high demand.

Though the verdict in the 1954 Brown vs. Board of Education brought a legal end to segregation, there were still many local districts that fought to keep schools separate for the races. In 1956, he filed a federal lawsuit to desegregate schools in Mansfield, then a small farming community southeast of Fort Worth. In the case Jackson vs. Rawdon, Mansfield High School was ordered desegregated, but local Residents refused to heed the ruling. Mobs gathered at the local school to prevent the three African-American children from attending that fall. Texas Gov. Allan Shivers ordered the Texas Rangers in to maintain order and prevent violence. The intimidation of the crowds prevented the students from being able to exercise their constitutional rights, and the schools remained technically segregated for some time to come.

HISTORY

In 1959, he again took on a desegregation challenge. He sued the Fort Worth Independent School District, one of the largest in Texas, over its racial practices. He won the case Flax vs. Potts, forcing Fort Worth schools to integrate.

He was active in community affairs, working with a variety of organizations on different causes. He was also one of the first African-American lawyers to join the Tarrant County Bar Association. Black lawyers found it necessary to come together for mutual aid and support and, with Davis, formed the Fort Worth Black Bar Association. In honor of his years of work, the organization renamed itself as the L. Clifford Davis Legal Association.

In May 1983, he was appointed as a district judge for Criminal District Court No. 2 in Tarrant County. He was known for his fairness and discernment in pursuit of justice knowing that lives depended on his work, necessary qualities in any judge worth the title. In spite of this, he was defeated for re-election in 1988. Because of his respect in the legal community, he continued to serve as a visiting judge for many more years, asked to serve as a judge in special cases. He continued to periodically serve as a visiting judge, presiding over special cases on a one-by-one basis, until he stepped down in 2004 at the age of 79.

His years of dedication to the law and persistence in pursuit of freedom and personal honor had won him praise from allies and adversaries alike. A scholarship was named for him for graduating Fort Worth students, and the Fort Worth ISD named an elementary school for him.

In May 2017, the University of Arkansas Law School awarded him an honorary degree at age 92 in appreciation for his years of work. Sometimes success speaks for itself.

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

This week's recipe: Enjoy a taste of tradition easily

Tamales are a traditional Mesoamerican dish made of a masa dough and fillings, and then steamed in a corn husk or banana leaves. While tamales certainly are delicious, the time-consuming nature of making them may compel some to avoid preparing them at home.

This recipe for "Chicken Tamale Pie" offers the flavors of tamales in a single-pan dish. Try it, courtesy of "30-Minute Meal Prep" (Sourcebooks) by Robin Miller.

 Judges 11
 Jephthah, a son of Gilead and a harlot, was a mighty man of valor. Gilead's wife and her sons drove Jephthah out of the land. He lived in Tob where he and a worthless band of men went out raiding.
 When the people of Ammon came up against the Israelites, the elders of Gilead invited Jephthah to be the commander of their army and lead them in battle against the people of Ammon. Jephthah agreed and went to war against the people of Ammon. Jephthah made a vow to the Lord promising that if the Lord would deliver the people of Ammon into his hands, then it would be that upon his return from battle, whatever came out of his house to meet him, he would offer as a burnt offering.
 Jephthah was victorious and the people of Ammon were subdued before the children of Israel.
 When Jephthah returned to his house, there was his only daughter, coming out to meet him with timbrels and dancing.
 Seeing his daughter, Jephthah tore his clothes and told his daughter what he had promised God. She insisted that he keep his vow to God. And he did.

RECIPE

fin mix (such as Jiffy)
 1/3 cup milk
 2 tablespoons unsalted butter, melted
 1 large egg
 2 teaspoons taco seasoning
 1/2 cup corn, canned, fresh or frozen (thawed if frozen)
 2 cups shredded, cooked chicken
 1 cup red enchilada sauce, divided
 1 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese, or a blend of cheddar and Jack, or Mexican cheese blend
 Fresh cilantro leaves (whole or chopped) for serving

Directions:

1. Preheat the oven to 400 F. Coat a 9-inch pie plate or oven-safe skillet (such as cast iron) with cooking spray.

2. In a large bowl, whisk together the corn muffin mix, milk, butter, egg, and taco seasoning. Fold in the corn. Transfer the mixture to the prepared pan, and smooth the surface. Bake for 12 to 15 minutes, until a wooden toothpick inserted near the center comes out clean or with moist bits clinging to it.

3. Meanwhile, in a large skillet or saucepan, combine the chicken and 3/4 cup of the enchilada sauce. Set the pan over medium heat and warm the mixture through.

4. Using the end of a wooden spoon or spatula, poke holes all over the cornbread in the pan. Pour the remaining enchilada sauce into the holes. Top the cornbread with the chicken mixture. Top with the cheese.

5. Bake for 5 minutes, until the cheese melts.

6. Top with fresh cilantro, and serve.
