Boozaar's a familyfriendly experience

Free Halloween event set for Oct. 30

From Staff Reports

Gatesville's Boozaar is just around the corner and will be taking place on Saturday, Oct. 30 from 6 until 8 p.m. on the courthouse square. In the past, between 60 and 70 businesses and organizations have participated to hand out candy and provide games for the children. This year, two military units will be joining the festivities.

For more than 20 years, Boozaar has provided Gatesville with a free and safe family Halloween experience. In 2000, the city of Gatesville, along with local businesses and organizations, came together to provide treat stops and game booths for kids of all ages. Now a tradition in our community, Boozaar is the most well-attended event of the year.

Treat stops are businesses located on the square of the Boozaar route. They will be handing out treats from the sidewalk in front of their business to kids as they make their way around the route. Treat Stations are businesses that are not located downtown but set up booths around the square to provide free candy, games and activities for families. There is no charge to set up a treat station.

Vendors can host a food booth, sell Halloween-related items or charge for a game or activity. Vendor booths are $55 for commercial businesses and $30 for non-profit. Any items sold must be Halloween related. Oct. 25 will be the last day to sign up to participate. In addition, there will be a costume contest with categories for all ages. The costume contest will be held at 7th and Leon. It will start promptly at 6:15 p.m. (courthouse clock time). It moves fast, so contestants need to be on time, so they won't miss their age category. No registration is necessary. Prizes will be awarded for first, second and third place in each category. Family/friends theme costumes must have a central idea ("Wizard of Oz," "Flintstones," etc.). For more information, call Faye Nichols at the Gatesville Public Library at 254-865-5367. To sign up for spaces, visit www.gatesvilletx. com.

The "Texas Bucket List," a weekly syndicated television program hosted by Shane McAuliffe, recently made a stop in Gatesville to take a private tour of the Coryell Museum and Historical Center.

McAuliffe was especially interested in the Mitchell Spur Collection, which is reported to be the world's largest collection of spurs. A portion of the spurs, around 6,000 pairs, are on display at the museum. They include spurs worn by former first lady Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, and by Mexican revolutionary Gen. Francisco "Pancho" Villa.

The spurs were collected over the years by Lloyd Mitchell, a former Gatesville High School history by the Texas House of Representatives in Austin when, in 2001, when Gatesville was designated as the "Spur Capital of Texas."

Following a tour of the spur collection and the museum in general, McAuliffe interviewed museum President Ervin Adams, along with Lloyd Mitchell's daughter, Mary Catherine Mitchell, and Lloyd Mitchell's son-in-law, Grayson Wetzel. The three educated McAuliffe on the life of Lloyd Mitchell and his fascination with spurs and his desire to collect as many as he could.

The "Texas Bucket List" airs two seasons in a year, and each season is 13 episodes long and includes Stanley Chevrolet of Gatesville recently made a generous donation of $9,000 to the Gatesville ISD Fishing Club. Stanley Chevrolet General Manager Kandi Mills was on hand for the check presentation. The Gatesville ISD Fishing Club is sponsored by Valerie Wendeborn and coached by her husband, Eric. The fishing club is comprised of 20 students ranging from sixth grade to 12th grade. There are two students per team comprising 10 teams total and each team has a boat captain.

The students, sponsor, coaches, captains, and parents are very appreciative to Stanley Chevrolet for their generous donation, which will help the club pay for tournament fees, overnight stays, new jerseys and to help students who do not have the needed equipment or gas money to reach out of town tournaments.

A quick bunch of interviews, starting in Hico

BY TUMBLEWEED SMITH

ue Land sent me an email and said, "You oughta come to Hico. We've got a bunch of great folks here and they would make good subjects for your radio program and newspaper column." So, I went. I parked my car just before noon on a Friday and left four hours later with seven interviews. They all took place within a two-block area of downtown Hico. Sue arranged all the interviews, scheduling them 30 minutes apart.

Sue is a magnificent host and guide. And by the way, she is an interesting person herself. She writes murder mysteries. "The stories are all from my imagination. I just get an idea and start writing."

CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS Gov. Abbott asks for increased penalties for illegal voting

BY GARY BORDERS

Gov. Greg Abbott has asked the Texas Legislature to increase the penalty for illegal voting, adding the item to the third special session now underway. However, House Speaker Dade Phelan, R-Beaumont, quickly rejected the proposal, according to the "Austin American-Statesman."

During the second special session, Senate Bill 1 was amended to decrease the penalty. House Democrats twice broke quorum in failed attempts to stop the elections bill from passing.

"Now is not the time to relitigate," Phelan said. "Instead, the House will remain focused on its constitutional obligation to pass redistricting maps, and members look forward to fulfilling this critical task."

vironmental Quality has released its recycling market development plan, which found the recycling industry adds $4.8 billion to the Texas economy. In 2019, 12.9 million tons of solid waste were recycled, up 40% compared to four years earlier. However, nearly 44% of the total solid waste in Texas landfills could have been recycled, according to TCEQ. The full marketing plan can be found at tceq.texas.gov.

PEDESTRIAN SAFETY CAMPAIGN

Despite a drop in traffic accidents last year, the state saw a marked increase in the number of people killed walking or biking in the state. In 2020, 731 people died in pedestrian-related crashes, an increase of 9% from the previous year. One-fourth of those crashes involved alcohol. The Texas Department of Transportation is kicking off a public awareness campaign in an attempt to reduce accidents. "Whether you're behind the wheel, on foot or riding a bicycle, we're reminding all Texans that they need to be safe and smart, and that starts with obeying traffic laws," said Marc Williams, Tx-DOT executive director. Drivers are required to stop for pedestrians in crosswalks, yield the right of way to pedestrian and bicyclists when turning, and to pass bicyclists at a safe distance. In turn, bicyclists are required to obey all traffic signs and signals. Pedestrians must cross the street only at intersections and crosswalks and use sidewalks if available. If there is no sidewalk, pedestrians should walk on the left side of the road, facing traffic. Texas is approaching 21 years without a day in which no trafficrelated death occurred. TxDOT has launched #EndTheStreak-TX to encourage drivers to obey traffic laws and end the streak of daily deaths.

talizations. The Coronavirus Resource Center at Johns Hopkins University reported 67,124 new cases in the state in the past week, and 1,851 deaths. The number of new cases, largely due to the delta variant, has dropped by nearly half in the past month, although total deaths remain relatively high. Since the pandemic began, the state has reported more than 4 million cases with nearly 66,000 deaths.

Lab-confirmed COVID-19 hospitalizations in Texas also continue to drop, with 8,218 reported by the Texas Department of State Health Services on Sunday, down 20% from the previous week. A total of 14.88 million Texans are now fully vaccinated, or 51% of the total population.

She has written four books and is spearheading a big book signing of prominent Texas writers the first weekend in November. She volunteers at the Billy the Kid Museum in Hico. "Billy was killed in New Mexico, but he died in Texas," Sue said. She told me a little bit about how Billy ended up in Hico and Hamilton but referred me to Robert Dean, president of the Billy the Kid Museum.

"Billy the Kid came here and was known as Brushy Bill Roberts," Robert said. "We sell copies of his autobiography here at the museum and they sell like crazy. He's buried in Hamilton and people leave all kinds of things at his grave. He died here on a downtown street in 1950 of a heart attack at the age of 91."

My next stop was my favorite: Kevin Wenzel's chocolate kitchen. He makes Wiseman House Chocolates that go all over the U.S. He specializes in truffles, ganache and toffee with origins in Belgium and Venezuela flavored with unique liqueurs and spices. He's been making delicious and exotic chocolates for 25 years. I took home some samples. Exquisite. I'll order more.

I interviewed Trish McMillin, who lives upstairs in a downtown building full of antiques, gift items and clothing. Her business is called Sugar Moon Market. She and her sisters started the business 15 years ago and have shopped for antiques in Europe and the U.S. After retiring from an electric utility Trish spent two years in Iraq working as a government contractor keeping track of money spent for military supplies.

Then I went to the Wooden Indian Cigar store owned by Roy Ward. He sells cigars (from $5 to $30 each) and Arbuckle Coffee, which has been around since 1959 and comes with a peppermint stick in every package.

My next stop was the popcorn store owned by Steve and Donna McInnis. You wouldn't believe how much popcorn they sell: thousands of dollars at a time to schools, businesses, and all kinds of events. They can do popcorn in a variety of colors. While I was there, they were getting ready to ship 200 huge bags of popcorn to Norway.

I interviewed Dillon Riechard at Jersey Lilly's, a Mexican Food Restaurant that is an anchor business in downtown Hico. It's kind of like the community center. He bought the business from his parents a year ago. I finished up at Hill Country Dwellers, which designs homes and sells home furnishings. Good trip. Thanks, Sue.

The measure has moved forward in the Senate. It would make the penalty for voting illegally a second-degree felony, with a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison. SB 1 reduced the penalty to a Class A misdemeanor, with up to one year in jail. However, Phelan's opposition means it is unlikely to move forward.

FLU SHOTS ENCOURAGED

Flu season is approaching, and with COVID-19 still spreading in the state, DSHS is urging Texans to protect themselves by getting the flu vaccine as soon as possible.

"We have good reason to believe this flu season may be worse than last year's," said Dr. John Hellerstedt, DSHS commissioner. "For most of last flu season, we didn't have the COVID vaccine yet, and many Texans were practicing the same basic health protections and good hygiene that have proven to help stop any respiratory virus like COVID-19 and flu. For this upcoming flu season, we expect fewer people to be wearing masks and physically distancing now that we have effective vaccines for COVID-19."

BOOK REVIEW It's not a chore to love this book

BY TERRI SCHLICHENMEYER

ome people call them "chores." In a way, though, they're responsibilities, which sounds better, doesn't it? You're responsible for taking out the trash, doing the dishes, keeping your room clean, helping around home, and that's important stuff. Although - as in the new book, "Barefoot Dreams of Petra Luna" by Alda P. Dobbs - nothing's bigger than being responsible for keeping your family alive.

She never minded bringing Amelia along.

Even though her little sister could be slow sometimes, twelve-year-old Petra Luna understood Amelia's need to follow her: Amelia was just six, and tired of taking care of their baby brother. Diapers, rocking, and baby-feeding became Amelia's work after Mama died giving birth and Abuelita couldn't always do it, and so tagging along while Petra harvested wood to sell was a nice somethingdifferent for them both.

She knew that climbing trees and selling sticks wouldn't be forever. No, Petra had dreams - "barefoot dreams," Abuelita called them, dreams for the poor. Petra imagined going to school, learning to read, and life when Papa came home from the revolution. Meanwhile, cutting wood brought in a few pesos, at least. It was 1913, the Mexican Revolution was everywhere, and even a few pesos could keep away hunger.

But pesos couldn't buy safety: through the kindness of a soldier, Petra and her family escaped death when the Federales came and destroyed their village and their home. He sent them away with the clothes on their backs and their serapes, to run.

They ran into the desert, where Abuelita had knowledge to help them survive; they'd have to find food in the cactus and water in the sand. They ran, until they eventually found shelter with Pancho Villa's people and directions for a new life, if they could run some more. Could they ever be safe from the Federales? And since they were gone from their village, how would Papa find them at the end of the revolution?

Based on a lifetime of stories told to author Alda P. Dobbs by her great-grandmother, who lived during the Mexican Revolution, "Barefoot Dreams of Petra Luna" is breathlessly exciting for an adult. Imagine how much a kid will love reading it.

It will capture young readers, in fact, right from the outset when they see what Dobbs has in store for her main character. That's a sneak peek that comes in the first few pages, and things move swiftly from there, in a way that makes this tale feel urgent, as if speedier reading helps Petra and her family move faster. Most curiously then, and quite wonderfully, the suspense is heightened by occasional, subtle reminders of the time-frame of the story, while it also gains a modern feel with echos of current events.

This tale is set more than a century ago, but forgive a kid who forgets that.

Be sure your 8-to-14-yearold reader goes beyond The End to read Dobbs' author note; it's relevant to the story and to today's headlines. Once they've seen it, loving "Barefoot Dreams of Petra Luna" will be no chore.

She said, "That's weird, we watch the news every night and we never saw that doctor talking about wearing masks again.'

I asked her, "What kind of TV do you have?"

She said, "We have a Samsung; How about you?"

I said, "We have a Sony." We figured the reason we don't get the same news was we had different kinds of TVs.

Are we right, Frankie?

Archie

Dear Archie.

I can understand why you might think that the brand of your TV might be the reason you don't get the same news. It's a good guess; however, that's not the reason why the program you and Lily's family watch doesn't report the same news.

There are many TV news programs. Any TV can tune into any of these programs. Not all these programs however view COVID or how humans should respond to the spike in COVID cases in the same way.

If you think about it, it's like the ads for dog food. Not all dog food companies view the nutritional needs of dogs in the same way or the kind of food that is healthiest for dogs.

Viewers like your parents and Lily's know there are different kinds of news programs and dog foods to choose from. Therefore, they buy the food and watch the programs they believe offers what is best for them.

Best. Frankie

GATESVILLE VOLLEYBALL Hornets show resilience in victory

BY MARK GOODSON Staff Writer

The resilient Gatesville Hornets (25-6) took care of Glen Rose Tuesday to set the table for its run through District 6-4A volleyball.

"There are no off nights in this district," Gatesville coach Janey Weber said after climbing to 2-1 in district. "This is going to be the way it is every night. It's good to see us respond to adversity."

The Hornets own wins over Lampasas and Glen Rose. District leader Stephenville was slated for a Friday visit to Gatesville.

There is not much separation between any of the five squads in District 6-4A.

On Tuesday, Sept. 5, the Hornets defeated Glen Rose, 15-25, 25-22, 25-22, 17-25, 15-13.

After the Hornets fell in Game 1, the intensity and aggressiveness picked up for both teams.

"I really like our aggressiveness," Weber said. "that's what is going to take."

Sparking the Hornets was senior Tasha Thoms with her active play and big swings.

Down the stretch in Game 3, both teams carried out some long volleys. Lola Barron was big serving the deciding points in the crucial game.

Barrett Boyd and Kaleigh Haywood were power hitters for the Hornets all night.

The Hornets were able to battle at the net with Glen Rose's frontline.

Glen Rose was led by 6-2 sophomore Aimee Flippen and Madison Young Camdyn Hinton.

The three middle games were tight throughout with neither team able to pull away. Evant volleyball falls against Hamilton Evant lost to Hamilton, 16-25, 14-25, 25-22, 10-25, Tuesday.

TALL BLOCKER: Khloe Mathews defends against Glen Rose Tuesday to set the table for the Hornets' run through District 6-4A volleyball.

FOOTBALL NOTEBOOK

West Texas scene sits well for Jonesboro

From Staff Reports

Jonesboro High School's trip to West Texas last week had a little bit of everything including a big football performance from Nat Hilliker.

The senior receiver/linebacker is known for his receiving ability.

He ran loose in the Eagles' 70-26 victory over Turkey Valley. He had six catches for 175 yards and scored on five of the receptions.

"Since I've been here, that's the most (receiving touchdowns in a game)," Jonesboro coach Eddie Gallegos said.

The next-to-last non-district game for the Eagles was played at Trent, just 20 miles down I-20 from Abilene.

Trent has one of the nicer six-man stadiums in Texas.

"It was a great surface," Gallegos said. "It felt like West Texas with a little wind, rain and lightning. Our trip had a little bit of everything."

The Eagles will face rival Evant Oct. 15 on the road to open District 15-1A, Div. I play.

That's when six-man football fans can expect some big hits. The Coryell County neighbors bring out the best in each other.

The Hornets opened District 9-4A, Div. II with Salado on Oct. 8. The toughest test to date should be Nov. 15 when they take on China Spring, a perennial playoff team in central Texas.

BIG PERFORMANCE: Jonesboro's Nat Hilliker had six catches for 175 yards and scored on five receptions.
