Teacher talks about social emotional learning

BY JEFF OSBORNE SENIOR WRITER & EDITOR

Mary Bruton is far more than an algebra teacher for Gatesville High School — she is also someone who is dedicated to getting to know her students and helping them achieve their best in life.

Bruton recently talked about social emotional learning for the Gatesville Independent School District, and the strong role it plays in helping teachers connect with students, as well as helping students set goals and envision the type of people they want to be.

"Social emotional learning is getting to know kids before you try and teach them," Bruton said during a recent meeting of the Gatesville Exchange Club. During 30-minute homeroom periods, Bruton said students focus on being mindful of what they want to accomplish on some days, and simply being thankful — and writing thank you notes — on other days.

"The students are instructed to write a note, thanking someone," Bruton said. "It can be to a parent, teacher, classmate, custodian,

Students also participate in conversations and games that promote interaction, with topics such as building community, making agreements, compiling "to do" lists, selfless pursuits and habits to improve well-being.

Bruton showed videos from others involved in SEL, which focused on the difference between goals to be accomplished and simple "to do" lists. It was explained that the lists are about productivity, while goals are something that are worked on for longer pe-

Among the goals students talked about were being more understanding, being a better listener and focusing on traits that will help them become the person they want to be.

"I feel like it's very relatable," Bruton said. "What would be on your list of things you want to be. We are teaching kids to focus on that and I think it's amazing."

In a video Bruton showed, one adult said that in the midst of the chaos in the world, he is inspired by kids and listening to their ideas on how to be a better person. He said students talked about the people in their lives who made a difference. It didn't always take achieving great things — sometimes the students just appreciated those who made the effort to show up and be a positive part of Author and speaker Margaret Mead was quoted that the first sign of culture in a society is when someone stays with a person long enough to help someone heal and endure through difficulties.

On the subject of living well, Bruton referred to former Girls Scouts of the USA Chief Executive Officer Frances Hesselbein, who is now 106, who was quoted as saying she wakes up every morning and says "to serve is to live," a philosophy that has led her to experience many adventures and to live life to the fullest.

County approves internet study

BY JEFF OSBORNE SENIOR WRITER & EDITOR

Improved internet could provide a huge boost for education and businesses in Coryell County, as well as increased connectivity for information and entertainment, and the Coryell County Commissioners Court recently approved plans for a study that could help bolster broadband services in the area.

The Central Texas Council of Governments (CTCOG), which serves Bell, Coryell, Hamilton, Lampasas, Milam, Mills and San Saba counties, has reached out to regional partners about their interest in a broadband study, and has selected the Foresight Group to conduct the study.

County Judge Roger Miller said some of the entities are seeking grant funds to pay for the study, while others already have money budgeted and could go ahead and reach an agreement with the Foresight Group on the cost.

"We have already allocated funds for the study, and I recommend we go out and get a cost estimate,' Miller said. "They estimated it was about a seven-month process — 205 days for the entire regional plan."

Miller said Bell County representatives had already notified CTCOG that it did not want to wait for the grant application process involving other entities.

president of the Jack Barcroft, Coryell County Economic Development Board and a candidate for county judge, said the board worked with the U.S. Department of Agriculture in 2015 on a broadband study.

"They created a 66-page document that talked about the distribution and infrastructure and broke things down from every corner of the county," he said.

Barcroft added that Coryell County does not qualify for certain grant programs to assist with internet connectivity because one portion of the county, Copperas Cove, is urban. However, much of the rest of the county is considered rural or small-town.

"One corner of the county at Copperas Cove has high speed internet access," he said. "Not much has changed since that last evaluation (seven years ago)."

Barcroft said he would make sure members of the commissioners court had copies of that study.

County Attorney Brandon Belt asked about CTCOG's goals for the

"They're primarily just facilitating," Miller said. "They want to know if we want to participate with them as a collective group. Bell, Hamilton and Mills have pulled out of the CTCOG proposal (to fund the studies on their own)."

"What's our endgame?" Belt

"To be able to maximize grant funding for rural areas," Miller said. "Once we get a plan implemented, it's a matter of what we need to do to get broadband all across Coryell

GHS' Brumfield focuses on teaching life lessons

BY SABRINA ANDERSON CONTRIBUTING WRITER

First-year Gatesville High School teacher, Justin Brumfield, began his role as an educator in 2019 at Cedar Park shortly after graduating from the University of Mary Hardin-Baylor (UMHB).

While attending UMHB, Brumfield played football under the direction of Gatesville's own former head coach - Luke Howard. After getting into contact with Howard, Brumfield made his way from Cedar Park to Gatesville to help teach EOC Remediation and to coach football, softball and basketball.

He describes his role in teaching as helping students who need a little modification to their assignments in order to better understand the material overall and give support as the students need it.

"That's the exact reason I wanted to get back into the profession to show people that we're teaching life lessons on top of the stuff we have to teach them for school," said Brumfield. "I'm giving support in a math class, but I'm also teaching them how to be accountable and expect things from themselves and have goals and how to work toward those goals."

Though the majority of his teaching career has been in the shadow of coronavirus protocols, Brumfield says it has helped him to respond to unprecedented situations.

"It's something that I think matured me beyond my years," said Brumfield. "It was very challenging, but it was also very helpful at the same time."

Commissioners approve road & bridge addition

BY JEFF OSBORNE SENIOR WRITER & EDITOR

Those working for the Coryell County road and bridge department will have a significant boost in office space once a new building is completed.

"They need some office space down there, we have allocated money to get them some and I think we should," said Commissioner Kyle Matthews, who said the money could be taken from American Recovery Program funds.

"It's $181,000 to add about 2,200 square feet of office space, and it can easily be done." He described the current lack of space as "frustrating."

Justin Latham, administrator for the county road and bridge department, described the need for the additional space.

"To paint a picture for everybody, my office has all the road and bridge employees in it," he said. "I have to sit in my pickup a lot (because of the lack of space)."

"Adding onto it makes it a viable work area and is needed," Matthews said.

Matthews said the commissioners court would work with contractors on the pro-

County Judge Roger Miller said the item was not a budgeted expenditure from the capital improvements fund.

The addition was approved by a 3-1 vote by the Coryell County Commissioners Court on Jan. 25. Commissioners Matthews, Ray Ashby and Ryan Basham voted in favor of the proposal, with Miller voting against it because of the identified funding source. Commissioner Daren Moore was not present at the meeting.

Fort Hood says goodbye & hello at command change

Leaders and soldiers from across Fort Hood and First Army gathered at Cameron Field to say farewell to Maj. Gen. Richard F. Johnson and welcome Brig. Gen. Joseph A. Edwards II during a change of command ceremony

U.S. Army Lt. Gen. Antonio A. Aguto, First Army commanding general and reviewing officer for the ceremony, spoke at the event about First Army's responsibility for soldier deployments.

"We are responsible for the readiness and deployments of 52% of all of the Army," said Aguto. "We are who we train. It's not a PR campaign, but it is in fact a true statement to who we are - a Total Force composed of active, Guard and Reserve soldiers. From the most senior leaders at Rock Island, to the battalion level observer, coach, and trainers, we prepare soldiers for the rigors of war.'

First Army manages the reality of constant change in assigned soldiers from top to bottom of its formation.

"This command is strategic to this nation's defense. We mobilized an infantry battalion from the Minnesota National Guard that was integral to the defense of the airfield during the withdrawal from Afghanistan," said Aguto. "As we stand here today, we are preparing another combat aviation brigade team to go to the Middle East, and soon, a brigade combat team to join them."

Aguto complemented Johnson's leader-

"This change of command is historic. We are switching from the first Army National Guard commanding general at Division West to the first Army Reserve commanding general back-to-back," said Aguto. "Maj. Gen. Johnson, in the past year alone, you maintained full operational readiness and oversaw the deployment of over 71,000 troops to missions around the world -a 21% increase from the year prior and have done so during a global pandemic."

Proposed amendments to Texas Constitution are on May ballot

BY GARY BORDERS TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Voters who go to the polls for municipal and school board elections on May 7 will also be asked to decide on two proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution.

Deputy Secretary of State Joe Esparza drew the ballot order last week for the two proposed amendments, both dealing with property taxes. The first proposition on May's ballot would authorize the Legislature to cut the property tax limit for the homesteads of elderly or disabled residents "to reflect any statutory reduction from the preceding tax year."

According to Ballotpedia. org, the measure would result in a reduction in revenue of $467.5 million in the first two years it is implemented. The measure passed unanimously in both chambers during the second special session.

The second proposed amendment would increase the homestead exemption for school district property taxes from $25,000 to $40,000. That measure, approved by the Legislature in October in another special session, also passed unanimously.

State Sen. Paul Bettencourt, R-Houston, the author of the amendment, said, "People see the need for property tax relief, and Texans are going to cry out for that continuously. This is a great way to bring that home to all of the taxpayers of Texas."

State signs deal with To-

The state hopes to see expanded growth from Tokyo-based small and medium-sized businesses after signing a cooperative agreement with the Tokyo metropolitan government. The governor's office of Economic Development and Tourism organized 18 local economic development partners across the state to provide resources to Tokyo businesses interested in expanding in Texas.

"Tokyo and Texas may be half a world apart, but we are closing that gap by facilitating more investment and economic development between our two regions," Gov. Greg Abbott said. "I look forward to our continued work together as we create a more robust partnership and a more prosperous economic future.'

The Texas community partners include cities and economic development corporations from throughout the state. More than 400 Japanese companies have operations in Texas. Japan was the state's sixth-largest export destination in 2020, with more than $9.8 billion in exported goods, including organic chemicals, indus trial machinery, aircraft and spacecraft, fuel and oil.

Panel to examine Rolling Pines wildfire

An independent panel has been formed to review the circumstances and causes of a recent prescribed burn at Bastrop State Park that got out of control and burned more than 800 acres. It forced about 250 families to temporarily evacuate, although no structures were damaged. The panel was ordered through the Texas A&M Forest Service and includes wildland fire experts from state forestry agencies in Florida, Georgia, Oklahoma and South Carolina.

Prescribed burns at Bastrop and Buescher state parks have been suspended until the review is complete and recommendations are evaluated.

"We fully support this independent review and will continue working every day to earn the public's trust for the continued safe and effective use of prescribed fire," said Carter Smith, executive director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. "Prescribed burns are a care-

"As a land management tool, prescribed fires are important and help minimize the threat and severity of major wildfires by reducing the amount of existing and dormant vegetation. If left unchecked, the excess of leaves and plants would fuel a minor situation into a major wildfire," according to anews release.

COVID-19 cases down; ICU beds nearly full While the number of new COVID-19 cases in Texas during the past week dropped to 295,501 - a decrease of more than 130,000 — the state's intensive care unit beds are approaching capacity once again. The Coronavirus Resource Center at Johns Hopkins University also reported 1,212 deaths, up nearly 25% from the previous week.

The drop in new cases has health officials hopeful the omicron variant has peaked. Hospitalizations in Texas of lab-confirmed cases of CO-VID-19 dropped slightly to 12,760, with only 317 available ICU beds in the entire state, according to the Texas Department of State Health Services.

BOOK REVIEW

This book is for fans of the unusual

TERRI SCHLICHENMEYER

Pick up eggs. Milk. Macaroni. Bread.

If you don't jot down a list of things you need to find, you'll forget something. Apples. Light bulbs. Flour. Putting things on paper helps you to remember what you need and what's missing. But in the new book, "Personal Effects" by Robert A. Jensen, the pick-up is more personal; the items, more heartwrenching...

Robert Jensen's growingup years were not what you'd "call a normal childhood." His mother suffered from mental illness; his father treated him as "a secondary concern." It perhaps didn't help that there was no room for discussion about Jensen's being a boy "who liked boys as much as girls."

Says Jensen, "I hope you never have to see the things that I've seen..."

He doesn't say that because of his personal life, though, but because of his iob: Iensen is an expert in recovering human remains and personal effects when disaster, accidents, murders and battles occur. He says it's not even his "first weird job," but as the Chairman of Kenyon International Emergency Services, he knows that it's one of the most important.

Jensen, for instance, was called to work after the Murrah Building was bombed in Oklahoma City. He's recovered the dead for the U.S. government in Somalia; helped recovery efforts in places such as Haiti, New Orleans and New York, and he's worked to resolve what happened in devastating plane crashes around the world. He's brought back the remains of loved ones to their grieving families, and he's also been involved in the efforts to recover valuable cargo for insurance companies.

"Being prepared for a disaster is really not that hard," he says.

Just "don't prepare for the last disaster that just occurred."

Something bad is going to happen to you. If not now, tomorrow; if not then, soon. Disasters happen, as author Robert Jensen indicates, and there are things you can do to minimize the damage and hassle. But getting the information you need to do so won't be easy, if you want advice from "Personal Effects."

The thing is that this book is solid. For fans of the unusual, you can't get any more unusual than the story, both personal and professional, of a guy who searches for body parts. Jensen's tale is thrilling, cringe-worthy, and heroic; there's advice and little-known minutiae that only an insider would know. You won't be able to forget the gist of this book.

And yet, man, it's a rough read. "Personal Effects" is laden with choppy half-sentences, errant punctuation and too much repetition things which are relatively common, and forgivable. But then there's the irritatingly incorrect homonym usage, a maddening assumption of readers' prior knowledge, and an extremely unfortunate quotation from a grieving mother that really could've been told better, and you've got a book that'll make you sigh but not in a satisfied way.

For most readers, this will be a deal-breaker and that's too bad. "Personal Effects" is basically very, very fascinating, but its errors might not make it worth picking up.

TROY KENNETH JOHNSON

July 3, 1943 - Jan. 26, 2022

Troy Kenneth Johnson, age 78, of Austin and Gatesville, passed away Jan. 26, 2022. He was a big man with a big heart that finally failed him. Graveside services with military honors will be held at 3 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 19, 2022, at Restland Cemetery in Gatesville, followed by an outdoor gathering at the Lightning J Ranch. Celebration of Life Services will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday, March 27, 2022, at Westlake Hills Presbyterian Church in Aus-Troy was born July 3, 1943, in Austin, the eldest child of the late Lee Roy and Jo Fuchs Johnson. He moved with his family to Gatesville as a young boy. As firstborn, he pulled his weight on the family farm — plowing, fixing fences, hauling hay — while also keeping up with a paper route and doing odd jobs for neighbors. He was smart, stubborn, and independent. Troy was a 1961 graduate of Gatesville High School, where he met his high school sweetheart, the love of his life, Pat Quicksall; they married on April 11, 1964. He attended Texas A&M, was a member of the Corps of Cadets, earned a master's in business, and proudly wore his class of '65 Aggie ring until the day he died. In 1966, he enlisted in the Texas Army National Guard, served 26 years as an ordinance officer, and retired as lieutenant colonel from the 111th Area Support Group in Austin. After working in manufacturing operations at several locations and settling with his wife and family in Austin he retired Vice President of Operations for Weed Instrument. He worshiped at Central Presbyterian Church in early years and moved to Westlake Hills Presbyterian Church after his children were grown.

Troy was a man of few words, but when he spoke, people listened. He was a gifted teacher and an epic storyteller. He showed his love to his children through actions and was very involved in their school and church activities. He used his amazing carpentry skills to design lighting and sets for dance performances, church musicals, and a science center for his wife Pat's students at Becker Elementary. He built elaborate Halloween displays, an epic backyard playhouse, deck and landscaping, and filled his home with arrays of his son's artwork. He was always in the middle of remodeling something in his Austin home or Gatesville ranch. Troy was a mechanical genius, and his family thought he could fix or build anything, which he frequently did. He hated sand but loved the ocean and spent many summer vacations in Port Aransas. He and Pat developed a program to take Becker Elementary kids and families to visit the coast and learn about the wonders of the ocean. Troy and Pat loved to travel coast to coast in his big red Dodge Ram dually and 40ft 5th wheel and visit their many grandchildren. He enjoyed hosting family reunions, playing 42, and giving Jeep or Humvee rides out at the ranch. He volunteered in many capacities at Westlake Hills Presbyterian Church: started a job search group, served as deacon, volunteered with The Gathering and Manos de Cristo, Tuesday Morning Men's Group, Third Well Bible study group, and the safety committee. Troy always had a cowboy hat on his head, boots on his feet, and a quick-witted comment at the ready. He was larger than life in so many ways. Until the day he left us, he was "Absolutely Fabulous."

Troy is survived by his wife, Pat; daughters, Tami Blais and husband, Bob, Teri Miller and husband, Kevin; son, Travis Johnson and wife. Melissa: brother. Rov Johnson and wife, Jan; sister, Perry Cowen and husband. Carl. He was blessed with 18 grandchildren who were the light of his life.

Troy faithfully donated to Westlake Hills Presbyterian Church the Texas A&M Association of Former Students and Manos de Cristo. He cared deeply about land preservation. In lieu of flowers, please consider a donation to one of these organizations or an organization of your choice that would honor him.

Taste of Gatesville scheduled for Feb. 15

The Exchange Club of Gatesville will be hosting the 24th annual Taste of Gatesville and Chili Cook-Off on Tuesday, Feb. 15 at the Gatesville Civic Center from 5:30 p.m. until 8 p.m.

The purpose of the Exchange Club is to provide local and area residents and vendors a place to market their best food products for the public to taste. This year, the Chili Cook-Off will be invitational.

The Exchange Club hopes that this event will broaden markets while helping them provide over $12,000 for community service projects and scholarships.

There will be door prizes, food samples and a silent auction which will include a Jon Brown courthouse print, a three-night stay on the riverwalk in San Antonio, and a fishing trip to Lake Belton.

Participants are asked to bring signs so that tasters will know who they are - business cards, flyers, coupons, and menus are welcome, but no bags. Participants are asked to have samples for 300 or more.

Take-outs will not be allowed.

Tickets for the event will be $9 in advance and $10 at the door. Tickets are available at Educator's Credit Union, Extraco Bank, First National Bank, The Gatesville Messenger, and BancorpSouth.

All proceeds are used for community service projects. For more information about the Taste of Gatesville and Chili Cook-Off, please contact JoAnn Sugg at 254-493-7938 or Nate Busch at 254-702-3099.

Landowner thanks firemen for saving property

As a concerned citizen and landowner in the Mound community, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to all the firemen from all areas who came and put out the housefire at the edge of my property, who did a wonderful job. I was very concerned about the dangers involved.

We citizens are privileged to have brave servants who give their time (without pay) to such services. I appreciate them.

studies on the power of posture. Her research demonstrates that standing tall and engaging in various "power poses" can actually improve our performance. It won't endow you with knowledge you don't already have or allow you to have superhuman strengths, but standing most of your inherent abilities and knowledge.

her research is the finding that you can do these periods of time (as little as one or two minutes)

The standard power pose is simply standing tall, putting your hands on your hips (arms akimbo), pulling your shoulders back (to thrust out your chest), and holding your head up. Pretty easy to do, and we are also warned that "powerless poses," such as being hunched over and dropping your head can lead to poorer performances. Let's face it, when we look and feel confident, we are more likely to perform well, and God wants us head high. You can do it!

Like the boys, the Lady Eagles topped the Lady Tigers on Jan. 7, 31-24 in Oglesby. The Lady Eagles guaranteed themselves a playoff spot with a win over the Lady Tigers. And with the win, the Lady Eagles sit in the third spot in the district set for the playoffs.

JHS girls head coach Billy Massingill claimed excellent defense was a key factor in the domination of Oglesby.

"Our defense did what they were supposed to do," Massingill said.

Sophomore McKenzie Coble and senior Kylee Deason both finished with 15 points on the night. Their teammate, senior Katie Snoddy had 13 points.

The Lady Eagles were scheduled to play Gholson (4-10 overall, 0-9 district) on Friday at the Gholson High School Gym. Results from this game will be in a future edition.

LADY TIGERS

The Oglesby girls were overwhelmed by their District 25-1A girls basketball rival.

Nothing seemed to go right for the Lady Tigers, being outscored in all four quarters. Despite the loss, the girls work hard in practice, are coachable, and have a shot at the playoffs if they beat Cranfills Gap on Friday. The Lady Tigers are a young team creating their identity.

Jonesboro's Nat Hilliker battles Oglesby's Johnny Gomez in a district game between the Eagles and Tigers on Tuesday.

OHS assistant basketball coach Dylan Segundo will be taking the reins as head coach of the Lady Tiger's next season. Segundo shared that tonight was a tough loss, but the girls are working hard to improve going forward.

"They're good kids, they listen, and they want to be better," Segundo said. "They want to win."

The Lady Tigers are scheduled to take on Cranfills Gap Lady Lions

(4-11 overall, 1-5 in district) on Friday at the Oglesby High School Gym. Results from this game will be in a future edition.

GOOD. Water lightly stained; 52 degrees; 2.76 feet low. Catfish are good on main lake points and river channels on the edge of structures using fresh-cut bait, such as perch or shad. Report by Jason "SPUD" Barton, Cattin' Around Adventure's Professional Guide Service. Reading the weather forecast and fishing on days with southern breezes, cloud coverage, and winds 8-17 mph will be key. The sweet wind spot is 8-17 mph because calmer winds are tougher to fish, but high winds are dangerous due to decreased boat control. White bass are fair on fiveeighth-ounce bladed hazy slabs. This is an atypical shallow year on Belton, with the fish in 22-33 feet of water. Report by Bob Maindelle, Holding the Line Guide Service.

Colder weather means adjusting fishing patterns

BY MICHAEL ACOSTA
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

As a licensed professional fishing guide, Michael Acosta shows you how to find them. He has been fishing all of his life, and has been a licensed guide since 1998.

Winter has arrived and we are seeing some of the lowest water temperatures to date. In other words we are in the dead of winter and fishing patterns need to be adjusted for this cold water. The good news for anglers is that this is prime time for catching big fish.

Different species prefer different water temperatures and of course, you will have to use this type of information to help locate and catch fish. Black bass anglers may be more prone to fish on those warmer days or pick afternoons when the water has had a chance to warm some. This is good advice for most species.

Not all species will wait for the warmest part of the day to feed. Their metabolism slows in the winter, but they still must eat. There are many factors to influence the bite. Weather is a major one this time of the year.

Water clarity and water flows can also influence fish feeding or moving. Don't forget about the moon phase. Picking a time to get on the water coincident with a peak feeding time can make a difference.

If it just so happens that the peak feeding time is co-incidental with the warmest part of the day this may be your flag to get out there. If there is a major weather event, the moon may not even play a role on when the fish will feed. If you are fishing a narrow river where the daylight has less impact, the moon phase may have less impact as well.

As always, you will probably have a morning bite and an evening bite. If I am to fish the early part of the day, I do not want to miss the early morning. Conversely, if I am to fish the latter half of the day, I will be looking for that late afternoon bite. I will also be aware of the potential peak or secondary peak feeding times for the day.

As I have mentioned more than once, locate the bait fish. With these colder water temperatures, you will find that the fish will be looking for slightly warmer waters. Typically, on colder days, this will be in deeper holes in a river or deeper places in the lake. Water temperatures will be slightly warmer toward the bottom in the dead of winter. Fish will "huddle" in these deeper places on the colder days.

Fishing is great in the winter if you can get out. Just make sure you dress for the occasion and play it safe. The cold water can kill if you happen to fall in.

Setting a new standard for GHS

Hayden Mooney sets new record for Gatesville season tackles

BY TRISTON MCGEHEE STAFF WRITER

Hayden Mooney was a playmaker for the Gatesville High School football team this past season.

Mooney, 18-year-old senior troubled opposing offenses all season, breaking the GHS school record for most tackles in a season, with 209, breaking Gatesville's state football champion Pedro Quintero's 201 from 2000.

Mooney is a quiet kid who will always put 100% effort into whatever he does. Mooney is a first-team alldistrict safety for Gatesville for the 2022 season. Mooney was awarded the Defensive MVP award at the 2022 GHS Football Banquet for his efforts this season, an award that he has won for the past three years. Mooney also was awarded defensive honorable mention for the 2022 Smoaky.com All-Central Texas Football team for the safety position. Mooney is a driven individual in every way possible.

Aaron Hunter has been the defensive coordinator for the past two seasons but has been the head coach for GHS since January. Hunter remembers coming to Gatesville and watching a film of Mooney standing out on the field.

"When I tell you that he stood out over everyone on the field just how he played the game as a sophomore, 'I said man, I am going to build my defense around him" Hunter said.

Hunter and Mooney developed a bond over the past couple of seasons, developing a lot of trust between the two.

Mooney stepped up to the challenge leading his team. Mooney became the heart and soul of the defense. The belief in him by Hunter made Mooney feel like an important part of the whole process.

Hanging up the cleats is hard, especially in football, where an athlete may never pick them up again. Mooney is trying to soak up all his memories from his senior season.

"It just really hasn't hit me yet," Mooney said. "It's over, and I won't be playing again next year. It probably won't hit me until it starts back up next year, and I won't be able to play."

Mooney is setting his sights on going to college at Texas A&M University in College Station. He plans to major in Civil Engineering but does not think he will play football at the college level.

Although Mooney had a tremendous year in football, he is now preparing for baseball season, his favorite sport. Mooney's dad Terry has made a big impact on his son, motivating him throughout the years.

"He has always pushed me and motivated me," Mooney said. triston@gatesvillemessenger.com.

Gatesville powerlifting teams excel at Robinson meet

BY TRISTON MCGEHEE STAFF WRITER

The Gatesville boys and girls powerlifting teams did well at the Robinson Invitational meet at Robinson High School on Jan. 29.

The boys team placed second as a team with 42 points scored. The girls placed third as a team with 28 points scored. According to Powerlifting head coach Jason Moffett the boys and girls were setting new personal records in most every and in total.

"I tend to measure our success, even more than by them winning medals and winning meets." Moffett stated in an email. "Those things are good, but I love the look on a kid's face when they hit a weight they never hit before. You can see the confidence it gives them for their next meet."

Moffett shared what motivates power lifters to succeed.

"Powerlifting offers the opportunity to literally see your hard work pay off in a very tangible way every week," Moffett stated in the same email. "Everyone can be a good lifter, if they work hard enough. I think that is why some of our kids love to lift.'

The GHS powerlifters are competing with 13 other schools today at Sidney L. Pruitt Gymnasium in Gatesville from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Moffett expects the meet to be "very competitive."

"Many of these schools historically have very strong kids that compete very well."

Moffett said in the email, "I am excited because when you have great competition, it pushes you to bring your A game."

Sara Jo's Haute & Gaudy named Business of the Year

BY SABRINA ANDERSON CONTRIBUTING WRITER

For the last eight years, Sara Jo Poynter has been making her mark across Texas.

What began as an idea to make cheaper and unique clothes from different fabrics soon turned into what local residents now known as Sara Jo's Haute and Gaudy boutique.

Wild. Vibrant. Colorful. These are just some of the words customers use to describe the one-of-a-kind pop-up shop. Among the store's items are bold prints, bleached and distressed materials, graphic tees and accessories for every occasion.

"I wanted to have clothing that people would feel confident in and would also get a compliment from, just to feel good in wearing it," said Poynter.

Before starting up her business, Poynter worked full time as a fitness instructor at various boot camps. However, she knew her passion for fashion would drive her to succeed in operating her own boutique one day.

So, with a few hundred dollars and the utmost determination, Poynter began her journey of sharing her personality and unique style with others.

"It's just kinda something that came natural to me - I like to stand out in a crowd," said Poynter. "I like for my clothing to be a resemblance of who I am - fun, active, energetic."

Today, she has merchandise at two locations, an online website and a trailer she takes with her across the state to set up for popup shops, events and fundraisers.

More often than not, almost every weekend is filled with travel to another city for her, whether it be 45 minutes down the road or several hours away.

"Getting to meet the people, having repeat customers, learning about people's lives...you really do make friends," said Poynter. "It truly is so much fun. I love it."

Poynter also frequently partners with various schools and businesses to plan fundraisers in which she sets up shop for a couple hours. Both employees and the public can shop at these events, usually during lunch time for about three hours. After the fundraiser is over, she gives a portion of the proceeds to the partnered school or business.

"They make my job so fun, and I absolutely love what I do," said Poynter. "Gatesville has been great to me - to just come to a small town and be embraced."

From Central Texas to Oklahoma, and sometimes even Arkansas, she is making all who shop with her into their best version of themselves, or as Sara Jo would say, "In a world full of boutiques, thank you for being haute and gaudy."

You can find Sara Jo's Haute and Gaudy merchandise at local stores such as Baker's Market and 1854 Mercantile in Gatesville, or online at www.hauteandgaudy. com.

Poco Automotive awarded for Best Customer Service

BY SABRINA ANDERSON CONTRIBUTING WRITER

One of the special features of living in a small town like Gatesville is having the familial essence local businesses bring to the community. No doubt, if you've been down Main Street at least once or twice, you've seen the sign that guides people to Poco Automotive - short for Powell Companies Automotive - a business that's been around for just over 50 years now.

In 1971, Gatesville native Robert Powell opened up the auto mechanic shop with four bays and began the legacy that now stands today.

As the years passed, the business grew with more customers and services, becoming well-known for their integrity. In 1984, Kyle Powell bought the business from his father and continued to give clients the same renowned customer service, adding seven new bays to the shop over the years.

Since 2016, Bobby and Melissa Jenkins have owned and maintained Poco Automotive, upholding the principles of great customer service through their business routines and employees' work ethic.

Before he began his journey in Gatesville, Bobby worked as a technician in the Dallas area and then moved to a Firestone shop in Temple where he eventually met and became friends with Robert. In 2005, Bobby started working as a technician with Poco Automotive under Kyle's management, inevitably working his way toward his current position.

"I've always enjoyed doing it; I'm always working on something," said Jenkins. "Even when I was a kid. I was always taking stuff apart and putting it back together."

While most businesses across the nation have seen a dip in sales and services in recent years, the pandemic brought the opposite for Poco Automotive. According to Jenkins, 2020 was a record-setting sales year for the business.

"Ten years ago, 80% or better of our customers were from here," said Jenkins. "And now, probably at least 50% of them are new coming through the door.'

Poco Automotive offers various services to its customers, most of which include wheel alignments and front end work. Jenkins said the business is constantly trying to make sure they keep up with the market, setting a standard for how to handle diagnostics and electrical work among his employees.

"We have a whole crew of talented individuals, which is very hard to find especially today," said Jenkins.

Staying true to its familial Gatesville roots, Poco Automotive sponsors local sports teams for both city and high school leagues. Once upon a time, the business offered their expertise to local high school students enrolled in the automotive classes.

"Every now and then we'd do a demonstration, you know, how to change a flat tire, things like that," said Jenkins. "If you find a good mechanic in this town, if he's from here, usually he went through that program in Gatesville."

As Robert planned, Kyle pur-

Message from outgoing Chamber President Lute Sullins

It has truly been an honor to serve as your Chamber president for 2021.

COVID continued to present numerous challenges for us throughout the year but with the help of some amazing volunteers, and the incredible support from our community members, we were able to push through and make this year one of the best ever.

We were able to bring back the Shivaree and Corks and Kegs events this year, and even resurrected the Chamber golf tournament after a multi-year absence. Most importantly, Chamber membership even grew to over 250 members this year!

All of this would not be possible if it wasn't for the generosity of chamber businesses and individual members. Words cannot express my appreciation for these members - who throughout the year graciously sponsored or donated to chamber events for us, while likely at the same time facing COVID-related income shortfalls and interrup-

The commitment each of you have shown the chamber during this difficult time is something I will never forget.

Lastly, I would like to thank the executive board and ambassadors for their incredibly hard work throughout the year.

Many people don't understand that the directors and ambassadors are volunteers, and are taking time away from work and family to serve the chamber.

I may be biased, but I strongly believe that I was blessed with the best board and ambassador group ever. Though short on numbers, we always had plenty of help from these individuals going above and beyond to make each event a success.

I can leave my presidency with full confidence that the chamber is in GREAT hands with this group.

In closing, I would like to make a plea for those of you who may have some interest in volunteering to please come visit with me or any of the Chamber board members.

The chamber is always in need of volunteer help. More volunteer help would open up so many more possibilities for growth for our chamber. Thank you again for your support, and here's to an AMAZING 2022!

While stores all across the nation were boarding up their doors at the height of the pandemic in 2020, Monica and Justin Doyle were building up their new business from their garage.

Taking advantage of the newfound time people had on their hands, the Doyles decided to fill the community's need for a car detailing service, juggling both their full-time jobs and their new business.

"I put out the word on Facebook, and it was just our friends and family at first and then word of mouth, and it just kinda grew from there," said Monica Doyle.

As the business continued to grow over the last year, the couple transitioned their services from something on the side to something more full time, finding that the demand for detailing is high in the area.

"This is really a need in our community, and there's definitely a learning curve to the actual ins and outs of running a business," said Doyle. "I think this is something that will add value to our community."

The business is also involved in many community events, sponsoring local city league teams and donating details to silent auctions in the area. Whenever possible, they like to get involved as much as they can in giving back to their community.

Among the services offered at The Last Detail are both interior and exterior car detailing, which can include power washing, paint correction, waxing or buffing and many more. From sports cars to smart cars, work trucks and mom cars, they have serviced just about every kind of vehicle in the market.

"It absolutely just makes my day when a customer is happy with the service that we provided for them," said Doyle.

Today, both Monica and Justin work exclusively at The Last Detail and now have four full-time employees to help manage the influx of clients' needs. Their next goals are to expand the business to other locations and have their own building to operate the business from.

"We are here to serve the community, and we absolutely would welcome anyone who would want to seek our business."

You can find more information about services The Last Detail offers on their Facebook page or by calling them at 439-340-8107.
