An open letter to the Granbury City Council

BY JERRY TIDWELL
PUBLISHER

Council members, it is time for you to clean house. A good way to start is for Tony Allen to resign.

Mr. Allen, you deny misrepresenting yourself to two city of Ovilla employees, claiming to be an employee of the Hood County News and threatening to smear an elected official in that town. But the city's phone records reportedly tell a different story.

It is easy for us to believe that the caller was you. You have shown yourself to be a bully on a number of occasions. The Sept. 5 council meeting was just one of those times.

Funny that when asked whether his name was spelled "Crews" or "Cruz," the so-called "reporter" used the latter spelling, which just happens to be the name of the real reporter you routinely threaten.

Mr. Allen, you aren't worthy of carrying Kathy Cruz's notepad. During a career in which she has won countless awards on regional, state and national levels, the real Cruz never once misrepresented herself, claiming to be someone she is not.

Mickey Parson, you recently requested a meeting with that same reporter so that you could announce your intentions to seek a public hearing against Mayor Nin Hulett.

His "crime" was approving a raise for the city secretary after you and others on the council failed to follow through on written evaluations despite reminders. None of you, by the way, opposed that raise.

Mr. Parson, you and Mr. Allen, as well as Gary Couch, all stood against your colleague Tony Mobly and in support of fellow council member Rose Myers when she received $5,000 worth of perks for her daughter's wedding after she threatened to sue the city she serves.

Apparently, none of you were bothered by the fact that the council was not informed in advance of that settlement.

How will all of you handle this latest, and perhaps most egregious, mess?

Will you stand behind a council member whose irrational, inappropriate behavior is escalating, pretending that approving a raise for the city secretary is a much worse offense? Or will you take a stand and say, "Enough?"

As for you, Mr. Allen, why are you seemingly blinded by rage over issues having to do with transparency?

The Myers lawsuit controversy didn't even involve you - until now.

We can deal with the fact that you routinely spew venom at the newspaper from the seat on the dais that you are paid $12,000 per year by taxpayers to occupy.

And we can shrug off your bullish threats to sue us out of an apparent belief that you are above accountability. (We beg to differ on that, by the way.) But this type of thing we will not ignore.

If you truly are guiltless in this situation, it is strange that you hung up on our reporter - twice - and didn't actively seek to prove your innocence.

If you can prove your innocence, we will be happy to publish details of that evidence.

Otherwise, we are going to assume that it was indeed you who placed that call because, well, it just sounds an awful lot like something you would do.

Your resignation might help the City Council begin to heal some of its festering sores.

The "taxpayers" you routinely claim to care about deserve as much.

Fraud?

Councilman denies posing in threatening call as HCN reporter

BY KATHY CRUZ
HOOD COUNTY NEWS

Whoever allegedly used Granbury City Councilman Tony Allen's cell phone to make a bizarre, threatening phone call to the Ovilla city secretary, claiming to be a Hood County News reporter named "Cruz," apparently didn't consider that Ovilla city offices might have Caller ID.

Turns out, they do.

The phone call was in response to a Letter to the Editor written by Ovilla's Mayor Pro Tem, David Griffin, and published a few days earlier by the HCN.

The letter was in praise of Tony Mobly, Allen's nemesis on the council, who used to live in Ovilla. It is a town of about 4,000 that straddles Dallas and Ellis counties.

The letter was sent to the HCN shortly after a heated council meeting that included a discussion of $5,000 worth of perks that council member Rose Myers received from the city manager without the council's knowledge after she threatened to sue the city over her daughter's wedding.

Allen, who supported Myers, made several angry outbursts during that meeting, and interrupted Mobly to "call the question."

Mayor Nin Hulett said Thursday that he later apologized to Mobly after he realized that Allen violated Rules of Procedure in shutting down discussion.

"I promise it will never happen again," he said.

As for the phone call to Ovilla City Hall, City Secretary Pam Woodall said the phone call was so odd that she jotted notes and wrote down the phone number that was displayed on Caller ID. The city's system, she said, shows the number, but not the caller's name.

WEARING A DIFFERENT HAT? Granbury City Council member Tony Allen (left), shown here on election night last November with fellow council members Rose Myers and Gary Couch, denies ever representing himself as a reporter named "Cruz" working for the Hood County News. But his cell phone number matches the number that three representatives of the city of Ovilla say appeared on Caller ID when a man phoned their City Hall claiming to be an HCN reporter and threatening to write a negative story about the town's mayor pro tem, David Griffin. The call was placed three days after the HCN published a Letter to the Editor from Griffin praising Granbury councilman Tony Mobly, who is Allen's nemesis and a former resident of that town.

She said she hung up on the man after he referred to Ovilla as "a podunk town."

Griffin said that Woodall contacted him to relay details of the bizarre phone call, and that she gave him the caller's phone number.

He said that Woodall and the other employee provided him with written accounts of their exchanges with the "reporter."

Griffin said that when he Googled the phone number, he found that was associated with someone named "Tony Allen." He said that he found out after phoning Mobly, with whom he has been friends for 25 years, that a Granbury City Council member bears that name.

OVILLA MAYOR Pro Tem David Griffin's Letter to the Editor, 4A.

In two brief phone calls with the HCN on Wednesday - both of which he abruptly ended by hanging up - Allen denied representing himself as an HCN reporter.

"No, I did not, and if you print that, I will sue you," Allen said. "I did not represent the Hood County News, never have and never will."

It was the second time in three weeks that Allen threatened to sue the newspaper.

At one point after being pressed repeatedly as to whether he had placed a phone call to the Ovilla city secretary, Allen paused and said: "None of your business!"

In those phone conversations with the HCN - one of which lasted one minute and forty-three seconds, the other lasting two minutes and fifty-five seconds - Allen did not claim that his cell phone (which is the number the HCN reached him on) had previously been lost, stolen or borrowed.

In Woodall's accounting of events, the caller told her that Griffin had written "an article" that was critical of the Granbury City Council. (His Letter to the Editor cautioned citizens to be wary of a council that seems to be on the "same page," with a "lone new voice" crying foul.)

The man also told Woodall that Granbury council members were not happy about that piece and that he (the "reporter") was going to write a similar piece on behalf of the Granbury council and submit it

Council to consider misconduct ordinance

BY KATHY CRUZ
HOOD COUNTY NEWS

Depending on whether you're Tony Allen, Monday's Granbury City Council meeting is either great timing or lousy luck.

It so happens that the San Antonio-based lawyer that the City Council hired in August to review the City Charter - especially the part that pertains to official misconduct - will be back in town to address the council.

Item 4 on Monday night's deliberation agenda is for the council to consider adopting an ordinance proposed by that lawyer, Charles Zech. It would strengthen and clarify guidelines for how the council should discipline its members in situations involving malfeasance.

City staff is recommending approval of the ordinance.

Questions raised about Allen's conduct may be part of that discussion.

Ovilla's mayor pro tem says that a bizarre and threatening phone call placed to Ovilla City Hall last week was from a phone number that matches Allen's cell phone number.

The caller, he said, claimed to be a reporter named "Cruz" with the Hood County News.

Allen denies the misrepresentation, but when pressed repeatedly on whether he had phoned the city secretary in Ovilla, he told the HCN:

"None of your business!"

Council member Tony Mobly said he intends to ask that a public discussion about that situation be placed on the Oct. 17 City Council agenda.

No action can be taken regarding Allen at Monday night's council meeting because the Ovilla situation is not on the agenda.

The City Council normally meets on Tuesdays, but the meeting was moved to 6 p.m. Monday because city officials will be travelling to Houston to attend the annual Texas Municipal League conference.

Infant survives crash that kills woman

BY BETHANY KURTZ
HOOD COUNTY NEWS

A Mineral Wells woman died Tuesday morning after failing to yield to oncoming traffic at the Old Granbury Road and Temple Hall Highway intersection, according to state troopers.

Three others, including an infant, were taken to hospitals for treatment.

The two-vehicle crash occurred about 9:15 a.m., said Texas Department of Public Safety Staff Sergeant Richard Hunter.

Peggy Lynn Barnett, 55, was traveling east on Old Granbury Road in a 1997 Nissan Altima, he said. She appeared to have stopped at the stop sign at the intersection with Temple Hall Highway but failed to yield to oncoming traffic, he said.

Barnett's vehicle was crossing Temple Hall Highway when it was struck on the driver's side by a Dodge Journey traveling south on Temple Hall Highway, he said. The Dodge was driven by Ashley Marie Newton, 30, of Granbury, Hunter said.

Barnett died at the scene, and her passenger, Thomas Almanza, 64, of Mineral Wells, was injured, Hunter said. He was flown to John Peter Smith Hospital in Fort Worth with undisclosed injuries, Hunter said.

Newton and her infant son were taken to Lake Granbury Medical Center with undisclosed injuries.

STRANGE SPRING: The spring around the end of this tool is its most unique characteristics.

Use for spring-wrapped tool stumps woman

BY BETHANY KURTZ
HOOD COUNTY NEWS

A spring around a yellow object has a Granbury woman puzzled.

Holly Robinson found the object in a Granbury resale shop and had to have it, she said.

"I just cannot figure out what it is," she said.

The spatula-shaped object is about 15 inches long. The bottom part is 2 inches wide. There is an indentation on one side and the words "Pat. Pending" on it.

What really makes it a mystery is a long spring that runs through the handle and then all around the edges of the bottom part, she said.

There is a small indentation that the spring fits into to hold it in place, she said.

The handle has a hole for hanging it up.

She is hoping someone will recognize the item and be able to tell her something about it.

ROAD TO COMPLETION: Crews were finishing up the Downtown Streetscape Project as the HCN went to press Friday, though City Manager Chris Coffman said it is possible that Pearl Street won't be finished until Monday. The project, begun in February and paid for partly with grant funds, involved widening sidewalks and making them compliant with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). It also included lighting and the placement of 19 trees – four on each side of the courthouse, and three along Pearl Street.

Square project wraps up

BY KATHY CRUZ
HOOD COUNTY NEWS

Finishing touches were being done on the Downtown Streetscape Project as the Hood County News went to press Friday, but City Manager Chris Coffman said it was possible that work would continue on Pearl Street through Monday.

He said earlier in the week that there were some "details" on that street that might take slightly longer to address.

Otherwise, though, the city met its goal of having the project finished by October, before seasonal festivals and events.

Coffman said that there will be a "punch list" of minor items to change or fix during the month of October.

He also addressed photos and comments that had been posted on social media about workers allegedly napping on sidewalks or repairing or washing their cars.

Those actions may not be as they appeared, he said.

Coffman said the rests may have been taken during regular break times, or because workers were waiting on a truck to arrive or they were coping with oppressive heat.

"Have a little compassion, folks," he said.

As for the car washing, Coffman said it occurred at a time when workers had been "stirring up a whole lot of dust."

"Maybe it was a citizen's car," he said.

Regardless, Coffman said the city was not in charge of the workers and that any naps or car washes were not at the city's expense.

The city, he said, contracted with the Fort Worth-based Fain Group, which used "a core group of employees" on the project, as well as sub-contractors.

The contract price was based on completion of incremental units of the project, Coffman said, and had nothing to do with hours worked by crew members.

Suicide Awareness walk scheduled for Oct. 14

The annual Hope-Live-Walk for Suicide Awareness event is planned for Saturday, Oct. 14 at Shanley Park.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m.

The opening program will be at 8:30, and the walk will start at 9.

The registration fee is $10. Participants are invited to bring a photo of the loved one they lost to suicide. They are also encouraged to bring a small yard flag purchased or made in honor of their loved one.

All items will be returned at the end of the walk.

For more information, call Margaret Fields at 817-313-6916.

to Ovilla's local newspaper for publication.

Reporters don't write Letters to the Editor on behalf of their City Councils and then submit them to other newspapers.

"I've never heard of such a thing, and it made me suspicious," Griffin said.

If, in fact, the person who made the call was Allen, Griffin said, "obviously, it is fraudulent misrepresentation."

CODE WORD: TRUTH

Griffin said that the two women who spoke to the caller are now fearful of speaking to reporters and are also afraid that Allen might try in some way to trick them.

He advised the HCN to use the code word "truth" when phoning to speak to them about the incident.

The receptionist told the HCN that the man asked questions about the mayor pro tem and then said that Griffin was "causing problems" in Granbury and that he, in turn, was going to cause problems for Griffin in Ovilla. When the man said that he "wanted to let people in our area know how David Griffin is, at that point I was done," the woman said.

Woodall said that when the call was passed to her, "the first thing he did was he identified himself as a reporter for the Hood County newspaper."

The man said that he was writing an article about Ovilla and its mayor pro tem and about the disparaging remarks he had made about the Granbury City Council, Woodall said.

"From that moment, I started scribbling," Woodall said, adding that she also wrote down the phone number displayed by Caller ID.

The conversation turned stranger, Woodall indicated, when the so-called "reporter" said something along the lines of, "Oh, so your council stacks its votes and is a rubber-stamp council."

"I said, 'No, sir, that is not what I said,'" Woodall related. "I said, 'Do you have questions of facts for me? I can only answer facts."

Woodall said that when she asked his name, the caller refused to give it, stating, "No, because you won't answer some of my questions."

When she again told the man that she could deal only in facts and would not state opinions, the man then said his name was "Cruz."

Woodall said she has relatives with a name pronounced the same way, but spelled C-r-e-w-s. When she asked the man how he spelled his name, he spelled it C-r-u-z.

It is the same spelling of the HCN reporter that Allen has threatened twice to sue.

Asked how long she stayed on the phone with the man, the city secretary replied: "Too long."

NAILED?

Mobly said that when Griffin phoned him and began relating details of the strange phone call, he immediately thought: Tony Allen.

When Griffin shared the caller's phone number, Mobly realized that, sure enough, it matched Allen's.

He said he does not believe Allen's denial and hopes that the City Council will publicly censure the councilman, though he holds out little hope for it.

Griffin said that if any member of the Ovilla City Council misrepresented themselves in such a fashion, they would immediately be brought up on ethics charges.

"If (Allen) didn't do it, then he needs to step forward and say, 'Well, here's the person who used my phone to do this,'" he said.

Asked what he thought Allen might have hoped to accomplish if the call was, in fact, made by him, Griffin said he assumes he just wanted to be a bully.

Woodall made a similar comment.

"I thought he was just an angry person that wanted to hurt a good man in our city," she said.

She added: "I feel sorry for Granbury."

DREAM COME TRUE: Vanessa Murry and her almost 2-year-old daughter Rubie witnessed an impressive pit stop at the Granbury airport. Her daughter has loved aircraft since she was 1 year old. Getting to meet the Army Chinook pilot and crew was a treat for her, Vanessa said.

Chinook 'pit stop' a special moment for Granbury child

Almost 2-year-old Rubie Murry looks very small standing next to a Chinook helicopter. The young aviation enthusiast got the experience of a lifetime at the Granbury Regional Airport on Sept. 22 thanks to the Army crew and airport managers.

Rubie and her mom, Vanessa Murry, visit the airport almost every day, Vanessa said.

"Rubie has a fascination - or obsession really - with aircraft," she said. "Rubie started noticing planes in the sky before she was even 1 year old," Vanessa continued. "Now that is all she talks about! Planes and helicopters - or 'panes' and 'm-cops.' She is defiantly going to be a pilot."

To supplement their time at the airport, the pair also read aviation books.

That day, Granbury Aviation Director Gary Hawkins told her an Army Chinook was scheduled to refuel and asked if they wanted to stick around for it, Vanessa said.

The timing could not have been better, she said.

"It just happened to be the exact helicopter we were reading about in one of her books that morning," Vanessa explained. Returning to Georgia after a cargo mission to Arizona, the helicopter was manned by seven or eight troops, she said.

"The troops got out to stretch their legs and get a drink of water in the break room," she said. "They wanted to stay in Granbury for the night, but the pilot was ready to get back to his family in Savannah."

After the helicopter was refueled and the crew loaded up, Rubie got a special treat, she said.

"The pilot signaled over to Rubie, and we walked over before they started the props back up," Vanessa said. "He gave her a high five and then this fist bump. She is still smiling. So am I."

After the friendly exchange, Rubie and her mom got way out of the way before the engines whirled to life, she said. The props created enough wind speed to knock over a golf cart, she was told.

"It's not every day a $38 million Chinook pops in the Granbury Regional Airport," Vanessa said. "It was pretty neat."

PASSING THROUGH: An Army Chinook helicopter stopped in Granbury to refuel on Sept. 22. Airport aviation director Gary Hawkins (standing) was on hand to greet the crew when they arrived.

Fire Station 70 ready for its community reveal

BY BETHANY KURTZ
HOOD COUNTY NEWS

Station 70 firefighters are ready to show off their new digs.

The expansion of the fire station in Oak Trail Shores is complete, Fire Chief Brent Wilson said. The station will hold an open house next Saturday from 3 to 7 p.m. to celebrate, he said.

"We want to invite everyone out and let them look at it," Wilson said. "A lot of people helped us raise the money for it through raffle tickets and private donations."

Renovations cost about $75,000, he said. The community donated $25,000, and the station was able to raise about $20,000 more and took out a loan for the last $30,000, Wilson said.

There will be hot dogs, a short ceremony and tours of the new facility during the open house, he said.

The entire station was renovated, and 1,800 square feet of space was added, Wilson said. There is more room for equipment, training and offices.

"We were growing out of our old station," Wilson explained. "We had no room, and everything was outdated."

Renovation began in February, but the fire station remained operational while under construction. The station houses two engines, three brush trucks and one medical unit.

Throughout the process, the 16 volunteers on the station's roster pitched in to make the tough situation work, he said.

"It was good to see everyone come together," Wilson said.

The station is located at 3410 Hilltop Road in Oak Trail Shores.

Pirate pride on Pearl Street

Rayla McKenzie, 20 months, and her big brother Daxen McKenzie, 3, were outfitted to the hilt in Pirate pride as Monday's Granbury High School Homecoming parade marched on Pearl Street. The young Pirate football fans were anxious to see their older brother Laken McKenzie ride on a float with other first-grade football players. Granbury faced Burleson in the Homecoming game Friday night at Pirate Stadium.

Acton helps flooded school

Acton Elementary School mobilized to assist a Houston elementary school impacted by flooding from Hurricane Harvey.

Several teachers and staff traveled to Houston last Saturday to assist the campus with getting classrooms ready to go with supplies, decorations and other important items necessary to welcome students and parents.

Following the devastating storm that ravaged the Texas coast, AES Principal Anna Roe witnessed scenes of the damage at A.L. Hilliard Elementary School.

WITNESS TO DEVASTATION

"From pictures, we saw the devastation, but to see firsthand all the work that goes into rebuilding after destruction was something I'll never forget," commented Roe following the day of service at Hilliard.

By early September and just a week after Harvey made landfall in South Texas, Acton students and teachers quickly raised $8,897 to help purchase supplies and provide other assistance for Hilliard. An anonymous donor matched the school fundraising, bringing the total to $17,794.

"It was completely overwhelming to see people come together and organize a campus for over 600 sweet litters in just a matter of days," Roe said. Other Granbury ISD campuses have been raising funds to assist schools in the Houston and Corpus Christi areas.

GUNNING FOR TITLES: The Granbury High School Junior Marine ROTC rifle team poses for a team picture before the start of their 2017-18 campaign. Lt. Col. Scott Casey, one of the team's coaches, said he expects the team to do "very well" this season.

Reloaded and ready

After successful summer, Granbury rifle team looks ahead to new season

BY GRANT MCGALLIARD
HOOD COUNTY NEWS

Competitive rifle season for the Granbury High School Marine Junior ROTC starts Saturday, Oct. 7.

Although, "starting" a season is rather hard to do when you never really stop.

All summer long, Granbury JROTC shooters have been competing in tournaments across the nation. They've been to Fort Benning, Georgia; Bristol, Indiana; and Camp Perry, in Ohio, shooting against some of the nation's elite talent.

Because competitive rifle isn't a UIL sport, the Granbury JROTC has the freedom to compete in several leagues and organizations. They primarily attend Civilian Marksmanship Program meets, but also travel to USA Shooting, Army Marksmanship Unit and National Rifle Association events.

At those meets, they'll predominantly shoot air rifles in a variety of styles. Team USA Olympic Shooting focuses solely on standing events, but Granbury also competes in three-position events, which include prone, kneeling and standing shooting.

Granbury's done well at all of these competitions. Senior Britney Pinckard and freshman M'Leah Lambdin made USA Shooting's Randall Team, which is a squad of the top 10 female shooters in the nation that compete against shooters from Britain.

BUILDING EXPERIENCE

Pinckard learned quite a bit from her competition-filled summer, especially while shooting against Olympic athletes.

"It's a good look at how far you have to go," she said. "You think you're kicking butt, and then you get up there and everyone else is kicking your butt."

All of this experience helps shooters develop the mental aspect of their game, which coaches Lt. Col. Scott Casey and 1st Sgt. Johnny Rositas III stressed was by far the most important ability.

"The first time you're out there in a match, you have the jitters," Casey said. "These kids have been shooting for years, and hopefully it's just another day at the range."

"A lot of people say that shooting is 90 percent mental. Especially at the level that they're shooting, and the scores that they're shooting, where 1/10 of a point is making or breaking these kids, the mental game ... really helps them out a lot."

"They get to the venue, and they're used to shooting at our range," Rositas said. "You put 'em on a different platform, and - you know, we took them out to the Olympic training center twice a year, and that's a big deal."

"The bar is definitely raised for them. We have to remind them that, you know, go out there and do your best."

A PROMISING SEASON AHEAD

Nearly all of the 12 shooters on the Granbury roster have high-level experience. Three seniors, three juniors, two sophomores and four freshmen will compete this season for Casey and Rositas.

That experience - coupled with the natural talent and hard work of the Granbury shooters - should pay off in dividends.

"I hate to make predictions, but we should do very well," Casey said.

Junior Makenzie Sheffield, one of the top shooters on the team, has her own set of goals laid out this season. Instead of focusing on placing in a certain spot during a meet, she sets her sights on reaching a number.

"I'm wired differently than most people," she said. "So if you give me a score goal, I will try my hardest to reach that score by doing the little things."

"That's how I made it to JOs (Junior Olympics) last year."

She's looking to return to that competition - and to CMP Nationals and USA Nationals, both of which she competed in this year - at the end of the season.

A VERBAL COMMIT

Granbury shooter Kelcy McGrath verbally committed to Murray State University last week.

McGrath, a senior, took her official visit to Murray, Kentucky, and loved what she saw and heard from Racers head coach Alan Loller.

"We went to dinner, talked over everything, got to walk around campus, and he told us about academics and what he expects from the team," McGrath said. "The rest of the time I was there I got to hang out with the team."

"It was an amazing experience."

Aspiring collegiate shooters normally reach out to colleges with their information and scores first. In addition to Murray State, McGrath had considered Ohio State, TCU, North Carolina State and Kentucky.

"You basically just start going down the list," McGrath said. "You find what you want education-wise, and then you find out big school/small school, what you're looking at that way, kind of like a normal college process."

"And then you start looking at the rifle team. Because education comes first before shooting."

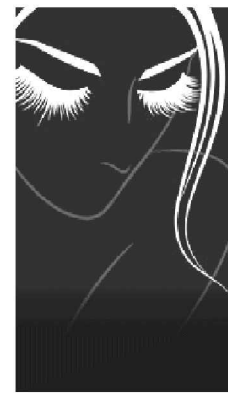

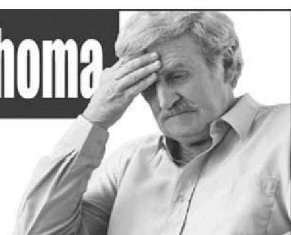

Now that she's already earned her spot in the collegiate ranks, McGrath is focusing this season on comparing herself to her future competitors.

"The motivation for me comes from seeing where their scores are and seeing where they're at on a professional level," she said.

PROBLEM IS TRULY UNIQUE

MIKE ACOSTA

Crappie havens - Where are they on the lake?

Many of you may already know about the man made structures called "fish attractors" put in the lake to attract fish, but many of you do not. There are published GPS coordinates put out by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department (TPWD) to get you to these locations.

The TPWD continually strives to make fishing better and more accessible by putting in these fish attractors. Many of these attractors are near fishing docks such as the dock in Rough Creek and the fishing dock near the dam.

There are actually 30 GPS locations for these fish attractors. Many are grouped together.

Visit the TPWD website to view a map of the GPS locations across Texas.

These sites have crappie "condos" and "safe havens." The "condos" will hold fish most of the year.

In the coldest part of the winter, the crappies may move to deeper water, where it is slightly warmer. On those warmer days in the winter, the fish may move back up to these condos.

HOOD OUTDOORS

Mike Acosta
Unfair Advantage Charters

Crappies can be caught using small minnows fished under a cork or by using small jigs. Pink and chartreuse are popular.

Electric Chicken and Blue Glow colors are also popular. These jigs and or minnows are worked up and down around these crappie condos.

The crappie bite is good right now and many are catching them near docks and structure as well as near the planted "condos."

HOOD COUNTY FISHING REPORT

Granbury water temperatures are in the upper 70s to low 80s. Fishing has been improving with the falling water temperatures.

Crappies are good on small minnows near structures, docks and bridge pilings. White bass (sand bass) are fair to good near humps and channel ledges near deCordova and near the Shores.

Stripers are off and on, but some really good catches have been occurring this last week on the lower ends on live shad. Catfish are extremely active and can be caught on most any flat adjacent to a creek channel.

Cut shad or prepared baits will put them in the boat. Numbers of largemouth bass are being caught on soft plastics on many areas of the lake.

Main lake points with grass are good locations. I am also catching blacks mixed in with sand bass on 12 to 15 foot flats.

Squaw Creek tilapia continue to be a hit for those looking to fill their ice chests. These invasive species are being taken on worms fished under a cork.

Black bass are good to 7 pounds on soft plastics fished on the upper ends.

On other lakes, Whitney strip-er limits are typical on live bait. Possum Kingdom stripers are good near the Peanut Patch on live shad.

THE NEXT LEVEL

JIA PERKINS

Legendary Granbury basketball player Jia Perkins is in a battle for the WNBA Finals.

Perkins' Minnesota Lynx are squaring off against the Los Angeles Sparks. Perkins has averaged 4 points and 2.4 assists per game in the Finals thus far.

The Lynx and Sparks were tied 1-1 after two games.

AMBER STRANGE

Former Granbury Lady Pirate Amber Strange has had an impressive debut season as a freshman volleyball player at Tarleton State.

Strange was named the Lone Star Volleyball Conference Defensive Player of the Week on Tuesday. She had 10 blocks and allowed a .132 opposing hit percentage.

The Tarleton TexAnns (10-4, 5-1 in Lone Star Conference) are up to No. 15 in the American Volleyball Coaches Association Poll.

KELCY MCGRATH

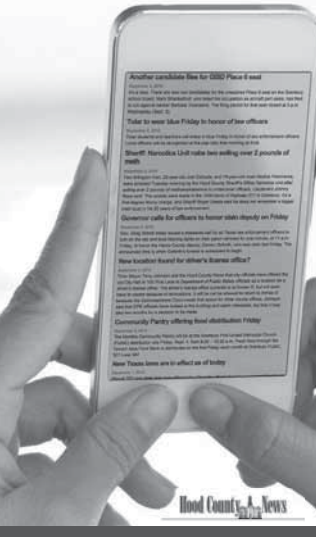

Current Granbury senior rifle team member Kelcy McGrath committed verbally to Murray State University in Kentucky last week.

McGrath is one of the top shooters on a loaded Granbury Marines Junior ROTC rifle team. She plans to study nursing at Murray State.

HEADS UP: Savannah Smith focus in on a ball during Granbury's match against Joshua on Sept. 18. Granbury didn't let a loss to Cleburne in the next game get them down – they swept Everman on Tuesday night to move to 5-1 and stay tied atop the District 9-5A standings.

Volleyball roundup: Granbury rebounds, Tolar slips, NCTA rolls

BY GRANT MCGALLIARD
HOOD COUNTY NEWS

After opening the district season a perfect 4-0, the Granbury Lady Pirates suffered a setback two Fridays ago, getting swept at the hands of Cleburne.

They clearly didn't let it affect them.

Granbury came out swinging Tuesday night at Everman, sweeping the Lady Bulldogs and erasing much of the bad taste left over from the Cleburne loss.

The Lady Pirates won with a final score of 25-19, 25-16 and 25-12. They moved to 5-1 in District 9-5A and maintained their place in a three-way tie with Cleburne and Burleson Centennial for first place in the district.

Sophomore Savannah Smith conducted the Lady Pirates' attack with a stat sheet-stuffing 32 assists. She also added five digs.

Junior Yari Press had with eight kills and eight digs. Sophomore Payton Bell had 10 digs, the most on the team, and added five kills and a block.

Freshman Gracie Nichols had eight kills, four digs and four aces. Granbury played Burleson (3-3) at home Friday night. They'll take on last-place Arlington Seguin (0-6) on Tuesday in Arlington. That game will tipoff at 6:30 p.m.

TOLAR DROPS DISTRICT OPENER

The Tolar Lady Rattlers carried a run of good form into their district opener at Peaster on Tuesday, but it wasn't enough to come out with a win.

Tolar lost 25-8, 25-16 and 25-6 to a Peaster team that ranks No. 16 in Class 3A according to the latest Texas Girls Coaches Association poll.

Brock, No. 2 in the TGCA poll, beat Millsap on Friday, meaning that Tolar and Millsap are now tied at 0-1 in the district. In District 7-3A, all four teams will make the UIL postseason.

Tolar hosted Millsap on Friday night. The Lady Rattlers play Brock on the road Tuesday at 5 p.m.

NCTA BEATS WCS

The North Central Texas Academy Lady Pioneers won their third straight district match with a road sweep of Weatherford Christian Tuesday.

The Lady Pioneers won 25-17, 25-23 and 25-13 to put away Weatherford.

Milica Pejovic and 14 kills on 21 attempts. Iva Jelovac had 27 assists to go along with two aces and Kansas Simons had three aces and nine kills on 13 attempts.

NCTA's next game is a home matchup against San Angelo Christian today at 11 a.m. In the teams' last meeting, NCTA beat San Angelo 25-7, 25-8 and 25-9.

Pirate golf underway, club hosts tourney

BY GRANT MCGALLIARD
HOOD COUNTY NEWS

High school golf has started back up, and the Granbury teams are already posting low scores.

The girls took second place at the Chick-Fil-A Challenge in Burleson Wednesday with a team score of 352. Freshman Taylor Lawrence had herself as good a debut as could be expected with a team-best 82.

Kylie Moore added an 88, Grace Whidders followed her with a 90, Alex White shot 92 and Logan Eagle finished with a 97.

The boys, meanwhile, finished in a tie for 10th place at the 52-team Bart Granger Tournament at Pecan Valley. Jake Holbrook finished -9 for the three-round tournament and took fourth place individually.

Ryan Ziegler shot 75-76-75, Canyon Winters fired a 72-77-79, Jay Shero had a 78-79-79 and Jake Piland finished with 84-84-77.

Veterans displaced by hurricane may receive supportive services

Family Endeavors had run out of funds for the fiscal year so we were unable to get housing assistance from them until last week.

I was contacted by Tim Red about funds now available for veterans who suffered losses from hurricane Harvey. Many individuals were forced to relocate and some may be in Hood and Somervell Counties.

If you are a veteran and need assistance with housing due to Hurricane Harvey, please contact Tim at 817-537-5370 or email tred@familyendeavors.org.

These funds are specifically earmarked for hurricane relief.

The regular funds should be coming available soon so if you are a veteran needing housing assistance but are not relocating from the Houston area, check with Tim after Oct. 1.

HOME MODIFICATION FUNDS

I've written about the Special Adaptive Housing VA program that assists with ramps and other home modifications for veterans with service connected disabilities.

Unfortunately these programs cover the veteran only, not the surviving spouse.

Recently we learned of a program called the Amy Young

Applicant's total household income cannot exceed 80 percent of the area median family income and may be tenants or homeowners. Anyone interested in this program may email htf@tdhca.state.tx.us or call (512)475-4828.

HELP IS AVAILABLE FOR DEBT

Veterans needing help with a debt owed to the VA for overpayments, please contact me so I can assist you with a waiver. You will need to have available a list of your monthly income and expenses and any debts, to include auto loans and what the current balance is.

HEALTH CARE ENROLLMENT

If you applied for enrollment in the VA health care system but were denied because your income last year was too high and you have had a decrease in your income due to retirement or job loss, we need to reapply for enrollment or request a waiver.

We are challenging these decisions and although I can't give you a guarantee we will be successful, we need to try. We've had some positive results!

SOUL REPAIR PROGRAM TODAY

Don't forget the Soul Repair Day Event today presented by the Wet Veterans at Acton Methodist Church from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. The program is designed for active duty military, veterans, first responders and their families, and includes breakfast and lunch, door prizes, children's programs, workshops and amazing speakers.

Grief program to meet in afternoons

For more than 20 years, the Starting a New Life ministry has been helping those suffering with grief.

People who have lost a spouse, a parent, a child, a relative, or a close friend to death have participated in the program.

Facilitator Bill Brewer said, "Getting through this adjustment is one of the hardest things people face in their lives."

Meetings for this session begin Sunday, Oct. 8 and run each Sunday from 3-5 p.m. It is hoped the new meeting time will help those who cannot attend evening sessions during the week.

"This is a God-Centered non-denominational ministry," Brewer stated.

For more information call Phillis and Bill Brewer at 817-573-8915.

Resale shop established to fund help for others

BY DEBBIE SCHNEIDER
HOOD COUNTY NEWS

Michael and Natalie Ragan started the Hope Moves ministry about four years ago.

Today, the registered nonprofit has a storefront in Granbury and continues to help the homeless in Fort Worth on the last Saturday each month.

"We felt a calling by God to begin the homeless ministry to help people," Natalie explained.

Hope Moves, 2005 SW Parkway, is in the warehouse area near the Granbury Church of Christ. The women's resale shop features, business clothes, jeans, shoes, purses, jewelry and more. Items are generally priced between $5-$12. It's open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday.

"We also give clothing to those in need," Natalie said.

THE HENNEYS

Larry and Kim Henney of Granbury, are celebrating their 30th wedding anniversary.

The two first met 32 years ago at Yellowstone National Park. Both worked at Hamilton Stores in Grant Village.

The couple recently took an extended vacation in Yellowstone and beyond. They hiked 100 miles while on the trip.

They also snapped a picture in front of the same waterfall where their picture was first taken.

The Henneys have lived in Granbury the last 15 years. From the papermill, to the Navy, to the airlines, to four wonderful children and a marvelous daughter-in-law, the couple say they have been richly blessed.

The couple's children include Nicholas and Emily Henney, Daniel Henney, David Henney and Tiffany Henney.

James shows art fundamentals

At its September meeting, the Pecan Plantation Art Guild (PPAG) welcomed its own Cynthia James who conducted a mini-workshop on the fundamentals of art.

Guild members then created abstract art using a variety of pictures and shapes.

At its next meeting scheduled for Oct. 10 at 10:30 a.m. at the Pecan Activities Center (PAC), pastel and plein air artist Dina Gregory will demonstrate her artistic style.

Congratulations go to first place winner for artist of the month Ken Kunzman, and also receiving accolades for excellent work are Pam Vannoy, Susan White, Vicki Eaton and Lowell Conder. These folks have their work displayed at the Pecan clubhouse, and other pieces of PPAG work are featured at the PAC and the Pecan Medical Center.

For more information about PPAG, visit www.pecanplantationartguild.com, or call Cheryl Moore at 682-225-6089.

Granbury continues to lure homebuyers

BY DEBBIE SCHNEIDER
HOOD COUNTY NEWS

Small town. On the lake. It's a big draw for folks moving to Granbury. Colorado residents Bernie Rumney and Jill Gorder were looking for a lake house. A place that eventually would become their retirement home. They didn't find anything interesting until they searched the Internet for lake house in small towns.

"Granbury popped up," Rumney said. "They first time we came down here, we just fell in love with this place. We thought it was the cutest town we had ever seen. There's good restaurants, the location, the climate, the friendly people. It's just a great place." After other family members began to visit Rumney's lake house, they also began looking for property. Earlier this summer, nephew Dillon Rumney and his new wife moved to Granbury after he landed a job in the Fort Worth area. Next, Rumney's brother Ron and his wife also purchased a lake home here. "The lake is perfect, it's not real crowded, there's not a lot of screaming people, it's just nice," Rumney said. Apparently the secret is out. The real estate market in Hood County is hot. Homes sales are increasing and so are the prices. dschneider@hcnews.com | 817-573-7066, ext. 255

Preparing your home for sale

Is your home ready to sell? Look over these suggestions from the Granbury Association of Realtors.

1. Inspect your roof for damage, especially if your area experiences severe weather. Hail is particularly damaging.
2. Search for problems in the attic. Check for any roof leaks and signs of termites or rodents. Squirrels or rats nesting in your attic are not particular about what they chew.
3. Check out the exterior paint on your home. It may seem cosmetic, but paint is a first line of defense against the weathering and aging of wood.
4. Check for leaks in any room that has plumbed fixtures.

5. Look for cracks in the walls or other signs of foundation issues.

INCREASE THE APPEAL INSIDE

"You've probably heard this tip, but it's worth stressing: Painting your home is one of the easiest ways to improve the impression your home makes on buyers," said Denise Huber, association executive for GAR.

Go for a minor remodel, like replacing the faucets, light fixtures, and cabinet and drawer pulls. You can also put in new towel holders, a new shower head, light-switch and outlet covers.

SPEND SOME TIME OUTSIDE

The initial image buyers will see of your home is the front. Curb appeal is easy to improve. Replace your dented mailbox. Repaint the address on your curb. Put some fresh mulch in your beds and replace any plants that have seen better days.

STAGING CAN BE INEXPENSIVE

Staging your home can give buyers a positive first impression. Staging is not the same as decorating. Home staging may involve removing some of your furnishings, making changes to the décor or moving some furniture around.
