Museum dedicated to Medal of Honor to open soon

The Medal of Honor is the nation's highest medal for valor in combat that can be awarded to members of the armed forces.

The medal was first authorized in 1861 for sailors and marines, and the following year for soldiers as well. Since then, more than 3,500 Medals of Honor have been awarded to members of all Department of Defense services and the Coast Guard.

Medals of Honor are awarded sparingly and are bestowed only to the bravest of the brave; and that courage must be well documented.

Opening in Arlington, Texas, in late 2024, the Medal of Honor Museum will serve as the premier national institution dedicated to the stories, impact and legacy of the service members who went on to become Medal of Honor recipients. Visit mohmuseum.org to read the inspiring stories of recipients from 32 different conflicts.

THESE COLORS DON'T RUN

During the Civil War, the job of color bearer was one of the most hazardous as well as important duties in the Army. Soldiers looked to the flag for direction and inspiration in battle, and the bearer was usually out in front, drawing heavy enemy fire while holding the flag high.

On Nov. 16, 1863, regimental color bearer Pvt. Joseph E. Brandle, from the 17th Michigan Infantry, participated in a battle near Lenoire, Tenn. "Having been twice wounded and the sight of one eye destroyed, (he) still held to the colors until ordered to the rear by his regimental commander."

ABOVE AND BEYOND

Cpl. Alvin C. York, from the 82nd Division, fearlessly engaged the numerically superior German force at Chatel-Chehery, France, on Oct. 8, 1918 - just a month before the armistice was signed.

His citation reads: "After his platoon had suffered heavy casualties and three other noncommissioned officers had become casualties, Cpl. York assumed command. Fearlessly leading seven men, he charged with great daring toward a machine gun nest, which was pouring deadly and incessant fire upon his platoon. In this heroic feat, the machine gun nest was taken, together with four officers and 128 men and several guns."

ULTIMATE SACRIFICE

Valor is found across the times as well as across the ranks, as World War II 2nd Lt. Robert Craig, from the 3rd Infantry Division, demonstrated. According to his citation, 2nd Lt. Craig volunteered to defeat an enemy machine gun that three other officers before him could not. He quickly located the gun outside of Favoratta, Sicily, but without cover, he and his men found themselves vulnerable to approximately 100 enemies.

"Electing to sacrifice himself so that his platoon might carry on the battle, he ordered his men to withdraw... while he drew the enemy fire to himself. With no hope of survival, he charged toward the enemy until he was within 25 yards of them. Assuming a kneeling position, he killed five and wounded three enemy soldiers. While the hostile force concentrated fire on him, his platoon reached the cover of the crest. 2nd Lt. Craig was killed by enemy fire, but his intrepid action so inspired his men that they drove the enemy from the area, inflicting heavy casualties on the hostile force."

Women soldiers: Serving in the Armed Forces since nation's birth

From Staff Reports

Women represent the fastest growing population in both military service and the veteran community.

Today, in greater numbers than ever, women are stepping up to serve in new, critical and formidable roles contributing to our nation's national security.

But women soldiers are not new to the military. In the history of our nation, women have served alongside men since the Revolutionary War. When militias were forming and Gen. Washington's army was gaining numbers, mothers, wives, sisters and daughters accompanied their men, performing many of the service roles they would do at home—laundry, mending, cooking, tending to the sick.

Women became part of the victory, either by acting as spies or disguising themselves as men and fighting in the battles.

During the Civil War, women's military roles expanded. The role of battlefield nurse was formalized, and many women fought on both sides of the conflict.

By April 1917 during WWI, the U.S. Army Nurse Corps - formally established in 1901 - had 403 nurses in its active duty ranks. But by June 1918, just over a year later, there were more than 3,000 American nurses deployed to British-operated hospitals in France. Conditions were often dangerously close to battlefronts, and while women could not vote, they were now serving openly in military service.

During this time, the "war at home" provided an opportunity for women to break out of traditional nursing and domestic military service. They began to replace the men who went overseas in much needed jobs such as radio and telegraph operators, translators and other clerical duties. The Navy enlisted 12,000 "yeomanettes."

When WWII began, men were sent overseas creating openings for non-combat stateside jobs. At this point, all four branches of the Armed Forces had women in their ranks, who some 350,000 served in uniform in that war.

■ Army: The Army formed the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, or WAACs, which was later renamed and restructured to form the active duty Women's Army Corps, the WACS. The branch also formed the Army's Women Airforce Service Pilots, called WASPs.

■ Navy: The Navy formed the Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Service, WAVES.

■ Marine Corps: The Marines enlisted women in the Marine Corps Women's Reserve.

■ Coast Guard: The Coast Guard formed the Women's Reserve, SPARS, which stood for the Coast Guard motto - Semper Paratus - "Always Ready."

In addition to clerical and medical jobs, women worked in cryptology, they drove trucks, they flew airplanes, they rigged parachutes and they trained their male counterparts in aerial combat tactics.

But in WWII, women also served overseas in hazardous duty. Some 57,000 women worked in the Army Nurses Corps. In total, 432 women were killed in the line of service during World War II and 88 were taken as POWs.

During the Korean War, some 120,000 women were serving in active duty positions from 1950-1953. Although they could not serve in combat, they undertook new roles such as military police officers or engineers.

The Vietnam War saw the expansion of women's roles in the Armed Forces, allowing them to train for more technical jobs such as air traffic controllers and intelligence officers. By 1972, women were able to be promoted and even to command units that included men.

Since the Vietnam War, there have been many "firsts" for women as the military opportunities expanded, but soon it became routine for women to serve, to receive promotions and medals, to work in roles traditionally done by men.

By 2013, the ban on women serving in direct combat areas was lifted. By 2015, women in combat positions were in full force, opening up thousands of jobs for women in the military, including the opportunity to train and qualify as Navy SEALs and Army Rangers.

More than 300,000 women have served in Iraq and Afghanistan since 9/11, and more than 9,000 have earned Combat Action Badges.

Today, women make up 16% of our nation's Armed Forces, proudly serving in every branch of the U.S. military.

Dates to celebrate vets

Veterans Day celebrates the service of all U.S. military veterans on November 11.

Memorial Day is the last Monday in May and honors those who have died while in military service.

Armed Forces Day is not a federal holiday but honors servicemen and women who are currently serving in the military. It is celebrated on the third Saturday in May.

Vietnam Veterans Day is celebrated on March 29. With the proclamation by President Obama in 2012, and then signed into law in 2017 by President Trump, this special observance marks the day that American troops left Vietnam, March 29, 1973. The 2012 proclamation also acknowledges what happened when these troops returned. "In one of the war's most profound tragedies, many of these men and women came home to be shunned or neglected — to face treatment unbefitting their courage and a welcome unworthy of their example. We must never let this happen again."

Veterans today: How many have served and how many are still alive?

From Staff Reports

The military men and women who serve and protect the United States come from all walks of life. They are parents, children, grandparents, friends, neighbors and coworkers, and are an important part of their communities. Here are some facts about the veteran population of the United States, according to some government sources.

19.2 million living veterans, from periods of war and peace.

16.1 million Americans served during World War II, 389,000 of whom are living.

8.7 million Vietnam veterans served, 6.2 million of whom are living.

2.2 million Desert Storm/Desert Shield veterans, 1.7 million of whom are living.

U.S. ARMY

“Our purpose remains constant.” To deploy, fight and win the nation’s wars by providing ready, prompt and sustained land dominance by Army forces across the full spectrum of conflict as part of the joint force. The Army mission is vital to the Nation because we are the service capable of defeating enemy ground forces and indefinitely seizing and controlling those things an adversary prizes most – its land, its resources and its population.

U.S. NAVY

The United States is a maritime nation, and the U.S. Navy protects America at sea. Alongside our allies and partners, we defend freedom, preserve economic prosperity, and keep the seas open and free. Our nation is engaged in long-term competition. To defend American interests around the globe, the U.S. Navy must remain prepared to execute our timeless role, as directed by Congress and the President.

U.S. MARINE CORPS

Semper Fidelis. Always faithful. To protect our Nation’s ideals, America turns to its Always Faithful. Every marine. Those who share an uncommon bond for a common cause. Who fight until they win in the battles not everyone can fight. For the promises that America has made. For the promise that America is. Marines remain true to the motto of Semper Fidelis.

U.S. AIR FORCE

The mission of the U.S. Air Force is to fly, fight, and win... airpower anytime, anywhere. Air Force history began when the Army acquired America’s first military aircraft, the Wright Flyer, on August 2, 1909, designated Signal Corps Airplane No. 1. The “aeroplane” was designed and created by Orville and Wilbur Wright. The demonstration flight took place on Fort Meyer, Virginia. Initially formed as a part of the U.S. Army on Aug. 1, 1907, the USAF was established as a separate branch of the U.S. Armed Forces on September 18, 1947, with the passing of the National Security Act of 1947.

U.S. SPACE FORCE

The U.S. Space Force is the newest branch of the Armed Forces, established December 20, 2019. The USSF is responsible for organizing, training, and equipping guardians to conduct global space operations that enhance the way joint and coalition forces fight, while also offering decision makers military options to achieve national objectives. Prior to the Space Force’s creation, U.S. military space operations were managed by the Air Force Space Command, within the U.S. Air Force. Today, the Secretary of the Air Force has overall responsibility for the USSF, under the guidance and direction of the Secretary of Defense.

U.S. COAST GUARD

During peacetime, the U.S. Coast Guard is a stalwart service branch of U.S. Homeland Security, and operates under the Navy during wartime. The Coast Guard was originally established in 1790 to protect the nation’s revenue through enforcing tariff laws and preventing smuggling. The Coast Guard will serve the nation through the selfless performance of its missions, which includes preventing and being a first responder to maritime casualties and disasters. As the nation’s unique instrument across the full spectrum of maritime operations, the Coast Guard cooperates and builds capacity to counter maritime threats.

NATIONAL GUARD

The Army National Guard’s federal mission is to maintain well-trained, well-equipped units available for prompt mobilization during war and to provide assistance during national emergencies such as natural disasters and civil disturbances.
