

County Bidding For Trash Truck

BRIAN WILMOTH
Editor

Jackson County is taking steps to purchase a new trash truck.

According to County Mayor Randy Heady, the county currently has two trash trucks. If the purchase goes through, Heady said the new truck would replace one that's been in service since 2004.

The Jackson County Commission voted June 27 to make the truck purchase through Sourcewell, a public cooperative purchasing group licensed through the state. By using Sourcewell, the county does not have to run the bidding process itself.

"If you put it out for bid, you're going to take what they give you," Heady said. "We're going to go with the lowest bid. Sourcewell is an organization who governments can go through."

Heady said the group has already received some feedback on the purchase. He said most of the cost should be covered through grants and federal funding.

"They've received bids on two different trash trucks," Heady said. "As you know, I asked you all to let me do a USDA grant for $105,000 purchase of this truck. Then, we will match $200,000 in ARPA funds for that purchase."

According to Heady, this will not be the first time the county has used Sourcewell.

"We bought the Fire Department turnout gear, this is how we bought it," Heady said. "This is the same way. They picked what they wanted. This company took bids and purchased that turnout gear a couple of years ago for all the volunteer fire departments."

Heady said there is around a $15,000 difference between the two trash trucks that have been identified for purchase.

"We can decide later which one we want," Heady said. "The solid waste committee is deciding which way they want to go."

Heady said both the trucks are currently being held for the county. When it makes its decision, he said the hopefully delivery date will be sometime in January.

Livingston RAM Clinic Sat & Sun

BRIAN WILMOTH
Editor

Free medical care is coming to Livingston this week.

Remote Area Medical, a nonprofit that provides pop-up clinics devoted to free dental, vision, and medical care for people in need will hold a clinic at First Baptist Church of Livingston Saturday and Sunday.

According to RAM, all services are free and no identification is required. Also, services are on a first-come, first-serve basis.

RAM clinics may include dental cleanings, dental filling, tooth extractions, dental x-rays, eye exams, glaucoma testing, eyeglass prescriptions, women's health exams, and general health exams. In addition, free take-home colon cancer screening test kits will be available.

Cookeville High School has hosted RAM clinics for several years, the last of which was held in March.

The clinic is being held in collaboration with the Rotary Club of Livingston and is partially funded by a UCEMC Cares grant.

When it was founded by Stan Brock in 1985, RAM was dedicated to serve as a provider of medical care in remote areas of developing countries. The first domestic clinic as held on May 9, 1992 in Sneedville, Tenn.

RAM has provided over 888,000 people with more $181 million worth of free healthcare and veterinary services.

Putnam Teacher Arrested

BRIAN WILMOTH

A former Putnam County teacher has been arrested for sexual exploitation of a minor and aggravated sexual exploitation of a minor.

According to a release from District Attorney Bryant Dunaway, Michael Joe Phillips, 61, of Cumberland County, was arrested by TBI agents and deputies from the Cumberland County Sheriff's Department following an indictment handed down by the Cumberland County Grand Jury on Tuesday, June 28. According to school administrators, Phillips, who was employed by the Putnam County School System as a Physical Education teacher, was removed from his position as soon as the allegations were brought to their attention.

"We were shocked and saddened when investigators notified us of the allegations against Mr. Phillips," Director of Schools Corby King said. "We ask parents and community members to entrust us with the care of their children. To build this trust, members of the education profession are held to a high standard of accountability. I am angered when any member of the education profession violates this most sacred trust. These situations are taken very seriously at all levels, especially in education."

Dunaway's release that there is no evidence that any child in Putnam or Cumberland County have been a victim in Phillips' case.

According to Dunaway, officials became aware of the situation when the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children received a tip that photographic files containing suspected child pornography may have been uploaded in the area. The Cookeville Police Department began an initial investigation and was later joined by the

New School Laws In Effect

BRIAN WILMOTH
Editor

Several new laws impacting Tennessee public schools went into effect on July 1, the beginning of the state's fiscal year.

Republican lawmakers approved the varying bills in the past year to address such issues as school staffing problems, fairness in girls' athletics, and to prohibit school computers from accessing obscene materials.

According to a release from the State Senate, lawmakers are attempting to address challenges in staffing schools by removing barriers for retired members of the Tennessee Consolidated Retirement System to be reemployed as teachers, substitutes, or as bus drivers without losing their benefits or having them suspended. Under the previous law, members of the TCRS could return to work, however, they could only work for 120 days.

The new law allows teachers to return to the classroom for up to one year while maintaining retirement benefits. During the reemployment, retirement benefits will be reduced to 70% of the allowance the teacher is entitled to receive.

"This legislation will go a long way to alleviating the staffing crunch facing schools statewide," Sen. Ken Yager of Kingston, the sponsor of the legislation, said. "Many retirees are already helping their local school districts and want to continue to help but are being held back by current requirements. This bill temporarily removes those barriers to provide much needed support in our schools."

The law will remain in effect until June 30, 2025.

Another new law is one sponsored by Sen. Joey Hensley of Hohenwald that prohibits "biological males" from participating in girls' athletics in K-12 public schools. The law requires the Tennessee

Department of Education to withhold state funds from public middle or high schools that fail to uphold the new law.

Lawmakers have also passed legislation ensuring vendors that provide internet services to public schools take steps to prohibit or block any inappropriate content on school computers. Failure to do so may lead to officials withholding payments to the provider or even finding the provider to be in a breach of contract. The law also requires local boards of education to establish a means for parents to report inappropriate content failures in student's devices.

Tammy Chapman Clouse For Register Of Deeds

To the fine folks of Jackson County, all families and friends, Election Day is getting closer and we would like to respectfully ask you and your loved ones to vote for one of our own nieces, Tammy Chapman-Clouse. She is the daughter of our oldest sister, Sue (Sisco) Matthews and the late SB Matthews. Tammy is married to Steve Clouse, has one son Matt Chapman (Ashley Chapman) and two precious grandchildren whom she loves to spend her free time with. Tammy is a genuinely, good hearted candidate seeking to do the very best for Jackson County and the wonderful people, friends and families it is made up of. She is a native of Jackson County where she was born and raised and continues to raise her own family. Along side her good heart, she has all the qualities it takes to serve the fine people of our beloved county to the absolute highest standard. Tammy has worked in the Jackson County Register of Deeds office for the last 5 1/2 years. She has the knowledge to take over without issue and challenge as it has been her job to strive daily to only grow in her knowledge of the office and its goals and growth. Her passion and greatest achievement thus far over the last 5+ years has been to serve the people, assisting with the greatest qualities one could have in office...honesty, integrity and professionalism. Experience is and should be a must, if you vote for our niece, Tammy you will continue to see that same experience in the years to come. She's always been a positive, independent person that seeks the best for those around her. Tammy loves the people of our town and plans to work hard to get out and meet and speak with as many people as she can. We truly believe in her and her knowledge to run the office with dedication and good morals, we humbly ask you all to do the same! Join us and VOTE for our niece, Tammy Chapman Clouse for Register of Deeds.

Respectfully,
The Sisco Family (Paid for by the Aunts and Uncles of Tammy Chapman-Clouse)

Here’s Why Gas Prices Could Skyrocket Again

WAYNE WINEGARDEN
special to the Sentinel

We’re all looking for relief from record high gas prices these days. Gas prices are the highest in United States history at a nationwide average of $4.59 as of May 19, according to AAA. Many states surpass this average with California at $6.050, Nevada at $5.224, Washington at $5.148, and New York at $4.868, to name a few. But lawsuits filed by several cities across the country could actually drive gas prices even higher. In the name of climate change, over a dozen federal lawsuits have been filed by state and local governments, including New York City, Baltimore, and several California cities. They are suing oil and gas companies for alleged damages they caused contributing to climate change. So, what do climate change lawsuits have to do with the devastating gas prices sweeping the nation? State and municipal climate lawsuits are anti-growth, anti-innovation, and anti-environment. They could impose large economic costs on families and businesses as the hundreds of billions of dollars in damages these municipalities are seeking in these lawsuits would inevitably be passed along to consumers. As calculated in a new Pacific Research Institute study, for every $100 billion in potential judgements in these cases, gas prices could rise by 31 cents per gallon -- or an additional $326 per household per year in higher energy costs. As Americans suffer through painful inflation increases, such additional costs are simply unaffordable for most households. Burdening consumers and businesses with additional costs is detrimental not only to economic growth but discourages the private sector innovation required to meet America’s clean energy goals. A strong economy fosters an environment more conducive to developing the meaningful innovations required to address the global climate change these municipalities claim to be fighting for. In fact, increasing use of natural gas contributed to the decline of carbon emissions over the past twenty years. The U.S. Energy Information Administration (EIA) has noted that “the 4% decrease in U.S. carbon intensity came largely from a decrease in the consumption of fuels with high carbon contents. Part of this change came from the continuing trend of natural gas and renewables displacing coal for electric power generation, both of which have lower or zero carbon content. Low natural gas prices supported this switch from coal use, and higher natural gas prices in 2021 have started to reverse this trend.” The development of once-celebrated natural gas through private sector innovation has resulted in lower overall emissions. Investors see this litigation effort as a threat, making them less likely to make future investments in nuclear energy advancements, new battery technology, improved fuel efficiency and other innovations required to continue lowering emissions. We cannot afford to stifle positive incentives for innovation in this space. Rather than continue with these lawsuits, there are other, better ways that state and local governments concerned about climate change can make positive changes. For example, they could increase incentives for private sector investment through reducing taxes for the companies working to develop innovative technologies that reduce GHG emissions. Such a positive-focused policy has the potential to address the risks associated with climate change through the private sector, rather than punishing innovators who have successfully reduced emissions through misguided lawsuits. It’s time to find new ways to make America’s clean energy potential a reality. If these lawsuits are successful, we will continue to see increased energy expenditures for consumers across the country, further strained family budgets, rising costs of production for businesses, and decreased motivation to innovate -- while ironically reducing our progress in combating climate change. Dr. Wayne Winegarden is a senior fellow in business and economics at the Pacific Research Institute and author of the new issue brief, “Counterproductive.”

New Covid Rules At VA Medical Facilities

by Freddy Groves

The Department of Veterans Affairs has just instituted a three-tier safety program to keep veterans, visitors and staff safe from COVID at medical facilities. Starting in May the Veterans Health Administration COVID-19 Health Protection Levels program, aligning with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention’s health care setting data, will determine on a weekly basis just what needs to be done before you can access care at a VA medical facility. At mine, for example, it’s at Level High. That means the full menu of options comes into play: masks, social distancing (stay 6 feet from others), probable screening at the door, approved visitors only and video options encouraged for appointments instead of needing to go in. At a Level Medium, it means masks, your care partner can come in but no other visitors, self-screen for COVID symptoms before you go and social distancing not required. At a Level Low, visitors are probably fine (staff approved) if you’re hospitalized, self-screen for COVID symptoms before you go and social distancing not required. And yet there were other facilities I checked across the country where there were no health protection levels whatsoever, typically at VA in-network community partners like civilian optometrists. You’ll need to call them individually to find out their protection levels. Oddly enough, in some locations across the country, facilities within mere miles of each other can range from low to medium to high. Each week on Mondays the CDC rules will be updated on the facility listing with any changes and signs posted at doors. They’ll also update on website and social media and telephone voicemails. The new guidance covers not just coming in the door, but waiting rooms, group therapy, staffing, visitors ... everything. If you’re about to head out to a VA health facility, check to see their level so you’ll know what to expect, even if you can guess based on the COVID cases in your home area: www.va.gov/coronavirus-veteran-frequently-asked-questions. Price Controls Come At Too High A Cost

CRAIG GARTHWAITE
special to the Sentinel

Health and Human Services Secretary Xavier Becerra is facing mounting pressure to unilaterally lower the price of high-cost medications. A group of nonprofits just petitioned him to cut the cost of six medications, including Xtandi, a popular prostate cancer medicine manufactured by Astellas, a Japanese drug company. The petitioners argue that because the federal government helped fund the basic research that ultimately led to Xtandi, the government can seize the intellectual property rights utilized by Astellas. Even if the government could legally do that, which would rest on a dubious reading of existing law, the costs would far outweigh any benefits. It would chill all investments in drug development and dramatically slow medical innovation.

Petitioners’ case for government intervention is based on an unprecedented and hotly contested reading of a 1980 law known as the Bayh-Dole Act, which Congress passed to facilitate the commercialization of technologies invented with the help of federal funding. Bayh-Dole allows the government to “march-in” and relicense the patents to third parties -- but this was only supposed to be in an exceptionally narrow set of circumstances when the products are truly unavailable to the public. The government has never once found a reason to assert its march-in rights. In fact, administrations of both parties have rejected all previous petitions to march-in based on the price of publicly available products. Yet, in the case of Xtandi, activists and lawmakers want the federal government to do just that. They are asking the Biden administration to cancel Astellas’ exclusive license to the technology behind Xtandi so that generic drug makers can copy it and sell it for less. Federal officials should reject this call. Without reliable IP protections, the entire enterprise of drug development simply doesn’t work. After all, when a company licenses a new technology, it’s taking an enormous risk. Turning a laboratory breakthrough into a practical medical treatment takes years -- and costs can easily run into the billions. More often than not, those efforts fail. Companies and investors accept these high risks for only one reason: the assurance that, if a drug succeeds, they will have the right to sell the product exclusively until their IP protections expire. Changing the rules in the middle of the game, as the petition seeks, is indistinguishable from patent theft and will have wide ranging consequences.

Should the government choose to assert its march-in rights in the case of Xtandi, it would send a message to the entire biopharmaceutical industry that IP protections can no longer be trusted -- even for medicines that are already on the market. For this reason, the decision to use march-in rights in this way is about far more than the drugs being discussed. Once venture capital funders and start-ups lose confidence in the security of the IP rights they think they are acquiring, the incentive to invest in drug development would greatly diminish. The Biden administration must join its predecessors in resisting this kind of push. *Craig Garthwaite is the Herman R. How The Arts Benefit Academic Performance

The cost of products and services continues to rise and organizations everywhere have increasingly been feeling the pressure to reevaluate budgets. It's no different in school districts nationwide, with school boards making difficult decisions about which programs to keep and which will have to go in order to save money.

Music and arts programs often are the first to be cut when school budgets are tightened.

The organization Save the Music says that, during the Great Recession in 2008 and 2009, per-pupil spending in public schools decreased by approximately 7 percent across the country. This led to a trickle-down effect that resulted in the cancellation of art and music programs. Since then, many districts have continued to cut arts programs due to budget limitations. COVID-19 also did little to help the situation.

Art program cutbacks are rarely met with open arms, and that resistance has a lot to do with the positive effects such offerings have on students' academic performance.

Better Test Performance

Numerous studies have found a correlation between early introduction to music education and a number of benefits for children. Music education can help develop communication skills, brain plasticity, language, and motor skills. A study conducted by the University of California, Los Angeles used a database of more than 25,000 middle and high school students. The researchers found that students involved in arts performed better on standardized achievement tests than students with lower arts involvement. Furthermore, data from 2015 from The College Board, which produces the SAT, found students who took four years of arts and music classes while in high school scored an average of 92 points higher on their SATs than students who only took one-half year or less.

Improved Emotional States

In addition to better performance on tests, a review in Frontiers in Psychology examined several studies linking arts and aesthetic experiences with "broad improvements" in people's emotional states. Those improvements included greater psychological and physical well-being.

Community Involvement

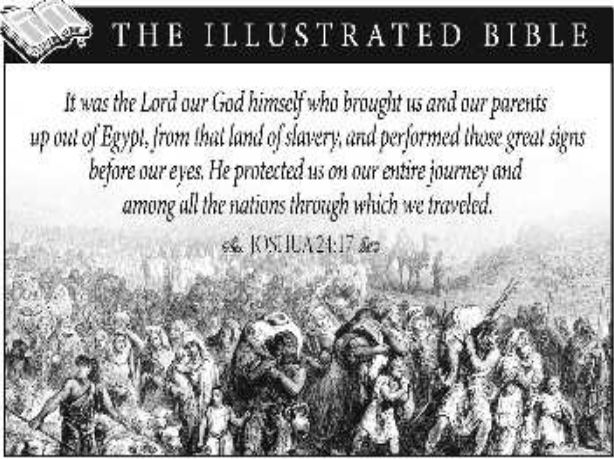

Participation and even appreciation of the arts can have an impact as well. Researchers from the Department of Public Administration at the University of Illinois Chicago found that being an art curator or audience member leads to high levels of civic engagement and social tolerance.

The support and therapy company Evolve Treatment Centers reports that involvement in music and arts leads to overall higher GPAs, higher scores in math and reading and a reduced risk of behavioral problems and suspensions.

Music and arts education are important to students' development. Keeping these programs alive in schools can benefit students in many ways.

MEAT AND MILK NOT TO BE EATEN AT THE SAME MEAL!

THREE TIMES THE BIBLE SPECIFICALLY STATES "THOU SHALT NOT SEETHE (BOIL) A KID IN HIS MOTHER'S MILK" (EXODUS 23:19, EXODUS 34:26, DEUT. 14:21). THIS WAS GOD'S LAW LAID DOWN TO ISRAEL BY MOSES AND, TO THIS DAY, THE ORTHODOX HAVE NO MEAT AND MILK AT THE SAME MEAL. MANY PEOPLE THINK THIS WAS A DIETARY LAW—THAT MILK AND MEAT TOGETHER WOULDN'T DIGEST WELL, ESPECIALLY IN THE HOT DESERT CLIMATE—WHICH IS NONSENSE! MILK AND MEAT, BOTH HIGH PROTEIN FOODS, DIGEST AS EASILY TOGETHER AS THEY DO APART—HOT WEATHER OR COLD... BUT THERE WAS A GOOD REASON, IN MOSES' EYES, FOR THIS LAW—VERY UNDERSTANDABLE WHEN WE EXAMINE A CUSTOM OF THE IDOL WORSHIPPERS WITH WHOM THE ISRAELITES CAME INTO CONTACT IN THEIR DAILY LIVING....

NEVER A DAY WENT BY THAT SOME HEATHEN FAMILY DIDN'T TURN UP AT THE TEMPLE WITH THIS DELECTABLE DISH, CONVINCED THEIR GODS WOULD ENJOY IT AND SO SMILE DOWN ON THEM WITH FAVOR! IS IT ANY WONDER, THEN, THAT MOSES ORDERED HIS PEOPLE TO HAVE NOTHING TO DO WITH THIS DISH AT ANY TIME—EVEN! THE IDEA THAT SOME ISRAELITE MIGHT OFFER TO GOD (OR SOMETHING THAT WAS GIVEN TO A STONE IDOL WAS UNTHINKABLE! YE SHALL NOT DO AS THE HEATHEN DO, WAS THE ORDER OF THE DAY SO THAT ISRAEL MIGHT (CONTINUE...) "A PECULIAR (SPECIAL) PEOPLE... ABOVE ALL THE NATIONS THAT ARE UPON THE EARTH!" (DEUT. 14:2)

MOSES CONSTANTLY ADMONISHED HIS PEOPLE TO STAY PURE IN GOD'S EYES - TO HAVE NOTHING TO DO WITH HEATHEN IDOLATERS. THE YOUNG MEN WERE FORBIDDEN TO "GO WITH THE DAUGHTERS OF BAAL" WHICH MANY OF THEM DID! MOSES COULD FORESEE THE DANGER OF HIS YOUNG NATION ORPHANSPEERING FROM EARTH, NOT BY WAR, BUT BY THE SLOW INFLUXES OF NEEDED-NEEDS—SO HE ORDERED ISRAEL TO AVOID ALL CUSTOMS OF THEIR HEATHEN NEIGHBORS TO KEEP AS MANY OF THEIR WAYS CREEPING INTO THE LIVES OF HIS PEOPLE. JUST AS ISRAELITES BROUGHT SACRIFICES TO GOD'S ALTAR, SO DID THE HEATHEN TO THEIR IDOLS—A POPULAR OFFERING WAS A YAGNY DISH OF SOILED YOUNG KID OR LAMB IN ITS MOTHER'S MILK (OR RAW MILK FOR THAT MATTER). THE MEAT JUICE AND THE MILK BOILED INTO A SAVORY SAUCE (23 DEUTERONOMY) THE PHARISES AND TEMPLE PROSTITUTES COULD HARDLY WAIT TO GRAB AND EAT IT BEFORE THE DONOR, WHO HAD BROUGHT IT, LEFT THE TEMPLE!

NEXT WEEK: GIANTS THEN AND NOW!

Agriculture

UTIA To Launch UT Center Of Farm Management

Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics at the University of Tennessee Institute of Agriculture is launching the UT Center of Farm Management, with a dedicated purpose of enhancing the long-term profitability and sustainability of agricultural enterprises in the state and across the Southeast. Launching July 2022, the Center will integrate established Institute programs and responsively develop new ones to meet the needs of Tennessee producers.

Established and successful programs that will now be centralized at the Center include Income Tax Seminars, Tennessee Master Farm Manager, and UT Farming Fundamentals, to name a few. The Center will be comprised of three branches: research, extension and teaching. The research branch is responsible for data-driven solutions for producers and stakeholders and will also focus on policy that affects producers in Tennessee and the Southeast. The extension branch will develop curriculum and deliver programming based on the latest research findings, while the teaching branch provides unique opportunities for undergraduate and graduate students of the Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics that include first-hand farm and financial management experiences. These experiences, in tandem with research and extension influences, provide students with a competitive edge for employment and advanced graduate programs.

“The Center will provide an organized and collaborative environment to implement grant-funded research and UT Extension programming, while also providing students with real-life farm management opportunities,” said Charley Martinez, Center director. “Additionally, the Center positions the Institute for collaborations on numerous farm management and policy issues with other centers and universities, expanding the reach to benefit even more agricultural producers.”

The Center will also host annual conferences, bringing together Tennessee producers and stakeholders in farm financial management to discuss current issues, research priorities and UT Extension programming needs.

In addition to Martinez, the Center will be led by codirectors Chris Boyer and Aaron Smith, also from the Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics. The UT Center of Farm Management is comprised of MANAGE Program agents, affiliated faculty, and undergraduate and graduate student research assistants.

Through its land-grant mission of research, teaching and extension, the University of Tennessee Institute of Agriculture touches lives and provides Real. Life. Solutions. utia.tennessee.edu.

Bush beans

As the heat of mid-summer wears your garden plants, it's not too late to try for another bean crop for fall. Bush beans tend to mature in 45 days, which means planting them in late July will have them ready for picking right before the first frost. Fall-grown beans can be more tender and flavorful than beans grown in the heat of the summer. Make sure to wet your soil thoroughly before planting to help speed up germination.

House Bill Sets Stage For Rural Funding

Recently, the U.S. House Appropriations Committee released its draft agriculture appropriations bill for 2023. The bill outlines funding for multiple programs that benefit rural America, including Conservation Technical Assistance (CTA) and the Rural Microentrepreneur Assistance Program (RMAP).

“The Center relies on lawmakers to show their support for these programs through the appropriations process,” said Kalee Olson, policy associate for the Center. “This year, we’re pleased to see the House propose an increased investment in CTA.”

Offered through the U.S. Department of Agriculture’s Natural Resources Conservation Service, CTA supports farmers and ranchers with the implementation of practices to improve soil health and water quality. The recommended funding level of $883.7 million is a nearly $124 million increase from 2022.

With this funding, Olson said, more producers will have access to assistance with cover crops, rotational grazing, and other practices that play an important role in the nation’s efforts to address climate change.

While support was strong for CTA, proposed funding fell short for RMAP. The $6 million is $500,000 less than the budget for 2022 and $2 million lower than the Center’s requested $8 million.

“RMAP is essential for small businesses in our rural communities because it is often their only option for financial or technical assistance,” Olson said. “Funding for the program needs to increase, as these microbusinesses are what keep rural main streets vibrant.”

The House budget follows President Joe Biden’s budget released in March. The Senate agriculture appropriations budget is expected in the next couple of months.

Established in 1973, the Center for Rural Affairs is a private, non-profit organization working to strengthen small businesses, family farms and ranches, and rural communities through action oriented programs addressing social, economic, and environmental issues.

Weekly Tennessee Cattle and Grain Summary

Nashville, TN

For Week Ending:

Receipts: 5,366 Last Week: 5,570 Last Year: 4,838

Compared to last week, feeder steers under 600 lbs were mostly 3.00-5.00 higher, with instances of 8.00 higher; steers over 600 lbs were mostly steady to 3.00 higher. Feeder heifers were mostly 1.00-3.00 higher with instances of 5.00 higher. Feeder classes were in very good demand, especially for groups of long-weaned, preconditioned cattle. Slaughter cows were 2.00-4.00 higher with good demand, and slaughter bulls were mostly steady with moderate demand.

HOROSCOPES

ARIES
Mar 21/Apr 20
Aries, you can expect anything to happen this week, which makes it an ideal time to fall in love - or fall back in love. Throw caution to the wind and welcome romance.

TAURUS
Apr 21/May 21
Taurus, don't be surprised if a former romantic partner or close friend reconnects with you this week. It may be possible to rekindle this connection if you so desire.

GEMINI
May 22/Jun 21
Don't hesitate to try something new this week, Gemini. You'll likely be surprised at what you discover you enjoy. You may even meet some interesting people.

CANCER
Jun 22/Jul 22
Spiritual matters are on your mind, Cancer. You are increasingly drawn to them as you get older. Do not hesitate to ask questions in your pursuit of enlighten-

LEO
Jul 23/Aug 23
Optimism about life is in full force for you, Leo. Others will notice you are smiling more and moving about with a spring in your step. Channel that energy into a fun project.

VIRGO
Aug 24/Sept 22
Virgo, this week is full of possibilities. You may strike up a new friendship or decide to try a unique hobby. Travel may be the name of the game as well.

LIBRA
Sept 23/Oct 23
Libra, even though you may be feeling positive and looking well, you're simply not drawing that special attention you desire. Don't be too hard on yourself; it will come.

SCORPIO
Oct 24/Nov 22
Scorpio, communication channels have been blocked lately, so you have been facing challenges getting your point across. Employ a little more patience.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov 23/Dec 21
Sagittarius, there have been days you have felt better. Don't let a minor illness derail your plans. Before you know it, you will be back on your feet.

CAPRICORN
Dec 22/Jan 20
Try an activity that strays from your usual routine, Capricorn. Change the time or the location to get a fresh perspective on your experiences. It can be the boost you need right now.

AQUARIUS
Jan 21/Feb 18
Don't be surprised if you have a desire to redecorate or change up your living space in some way, Aquarius. A new look can refresh your mindset as well.

PISCES
Feb 19/Mar 20
Some interesting news is likely to come your way, Pisces. It's important to answer your phone, read your texts and check your emails.

Gainesboro Housing Preservation Grant Outreach Project

The Town of Gainesboro is applying for a grant through the USDA Rural Development Housing Preservation Grant Program. This grant would provide Gainesboro with funds that would be used throughout the town to do minor and major repairs for seniors, individuals with disabilities, individuals and families who reside in very-low or low-income households.

To qualify for this grant, it is necessary to announce its potential to the area in which we will serve and receive feedback from the community.

Pursuant to 7 CFR part 1944, subpart N, it is necessary to announce to the area in which we will serve and receive feedback from the community. Anyone may review our Statement of Activities, which list our intended purpose and use of grant funds, if received. Anyone in the proposed counties that the funds are proposed to be spent, may review the Statement of Activities, and provide comments. If you have any comments on whether Gainesboro should receive this grant and why, please mail them or bring them by Town Mayor Lloyd Williams's office at City Hall or email Megan Templeton at mtempleton@ucdd.org.

The deadline for submitting comments and /or support letters is July 10, 2022.

Fun Facts

There Is An Island In The Bahamas With Only Pigs As Residents.
Another interesting fun fact: Pig Beach is an otherwise uninhabited island in the Bahamas mainly populated by feral pigs. There's no confirmed theory of why these pigs ended up there in the first place, but some speculate that they came from a shipwreck, a business tactic, or an abandoned ration of food.

Australia Has A Bright Pink Lake.
Lake Hillier is a pink lake in West Coast of Australia. Although colored lakes seem to be a norm in the world, Lake Hillier is the only one that scientists have yet to figure out. To this day, reasons for its pink coloration remains to be theory.

If You Ate Nothing But Rabbit Meat, You Would Die From Protein Poisoning.
Rabbit meat is extremely lean. Using it as a sole food source will leave you with too much protein and no fat, which is toxic for the body.

Chicken Bacon Ranch Tater Tots Casserole
1teaspoon vegetable oil
1/2cup chopped onion
1can (10.5 oz) condensed cream of chicken soup
1cup sour cream
1/2cup milk
2cups shredded Colby-Monterey Jack cheese blend (8 oz)
1package (1 oz) ranch dressing & seasoning mix
1/4teaspoon black pepper
3cups shredded cooked chicken
1bag (32 oz) Ore-Ida™ Tater Tots™ frozen potatoes
1/2cup chopped cooked bacon
1/2cup chopped tomatoes
1/4cup sliced green onions
Heat oven to 350°F. Spray 13x9-inch (3-quart) glass baking dish with cooking spray.
In 8- or 10-inch nonstick skillet, heat oil over medium heat. Cook onion in oil 3 to 5 minutes, stirring occasionally, until tender.
In medium bowl, stir onion, condensed soup, sour cream, milk, 1 cup of the cheese, 2 tablespoons of the dressing mix and the black pepper until mixed well; stir in chicken.
Place half of the frozen potatoes in single layer on bottom of baking dish. Spoon and spread chicken mixture on top of potatoes; sprinkle 1/4 cup of the bacon on top.
In large resealable food-storage plastic bag, add remaining potatoes with remaining dressing mix; seal and shake bag to coat. Arrange on top of casserole.
Bake 40 minutes; top casserole with remaining 1 cup cheese and 1/4 cup bacon.
Bake 10 to 15 minutes or until cheese is melted and potatoes are lightly browned. Top with tomatoes and green onions.

I, Ricky Head, am running for Alderman for the City of Gainesboro. I am married to Rebecca Head, and we have two sons, Kyler and Jaxson. I have been an Alderman for the past two years. Myself, along with the other Alderman have made progress for the city. Since in office, I have been a part of some great changes. We have made ordinances to help keep storefronts neat and orderly for the beautification of the city.

We have had some paving done in places that needed paving desperately, we have given all the employees a much-needed cost-of-living raise, Christmas lights for the town square to be enjoyed by the residents of the City and County, several grants for the sewer system, a FEMA grant for damage from the storms, we also have been working with the water department and have managed to improve and keep a low water loss, provided training courses for the employees for safety and to better allow them to do their job. We have purchased better equipment for the water department so they would be able to replace outdated and unusable equipment. We have also worked with the electric company to get led lights for the streetlights, which in turn was cost-saving to the city taxpayers. During my term, I have tried to be available to anyone who has tried to reach me with any questions or concerns and to be fair in all our decisions. I know we have more work to do, and I would consider it a privilege to continue to serve as your Alderman. I appreciate the vote and support.
