

Summer Break Leads To Higher Unemployment

BRIAN WILMOTH
Editor

The unemployment rate was up dramatically across the state in June, as school employees on vacation counted against employment numbers.

The local unemployment rates were released Thursday by the Tennessee Department of Labor and Workforce Development. The department said it was typical for the rate to be increased in June because of the break.

Macon County continues to fare the best in the area when it comes to unemployment. Its rate was only up by eight-tenths of a percentage point at 3.8%. Macon also had the smallest growth in its unemployment in the area.

Clay County continues to have the highest unemployment rate in the area at 5.8% in June. That was 1.3% higher than in May, one of the highest in the area. Other counties that had unemployment growing at that same rate include Jackson County at 4.9%, and Pickett County 4.8%.

The only other counties that saw a growth of under 1% in the area in June were Overton County and Putnam County, which both grew at 0.9 percentage points to 4.1% and 4.2% respectively.

Fentress County and Cumberland County both saw unemployment rates increase by 1.2% in May. Fentress County came in at 4.9%, while Cumberland County finished with 5.2%.

Statewide, unemployment remained unchanged between May and June at 3.3%. The state rate is seasonally adjusted to consider seasonal impacts, like school breaks, while county unemployment data is not adjusted.

Across Tennessee, 68 counties had unemployment rates that were less than 5% in June. The remaining 27 counties had rates that came in at 5% or higher but less than 10%.

Williamson County recorded the state's lowest rate for the month at 2.8%, which was a 0.5 of a percentage point increase. Cheatham and Wilson counties had the next lowest rates at 3.2%, both increased by 0.6 of a percentage point.

Perry County's rate was Tennessee's highest in June. At 6.8%, unemployment there increased by 1.3 percentage points during the month. Bledsoe County followed with an increase of 1.6 percentage points to 6.7%.

Group Trying To Get Animal Shelter

BRIAN WILMOTH
Editor

A new group is pushing for an animal shelter in Jackson County.

The Friends For Jackson County Shelter has been established to help achieve that goal. Director Mark Pack spoke to the Jackson County Commission at its monthly meeting on July 25.

"I propose that we can have an animal shelter in this town, I know you don't have the money but I'll get to that in a little bit," Pack said. "Under state law, the county is responsible for all animals within their jurisdiction."

Pack said one of the biggest problems in the county is people dumping unwanted animals.

"It is pitiful to see the animals come starving to death," Pack said. "Literally, you go on to any of the Facebook pages of lost animals, you see these starving dogs and cats and no one's doing anything about it. So, going back to my engineering roots, how can we do something about it?"

Pack told the commission that the group is not asking for funding at this time, as they are seeking support through volunteer efforts. He said he is hopeful that the organization could work together with the county and City of Gainesboro to better the lives of all animals.

According to the group's Facebook page, they have applied for tax exempt status. Pack said the next step is to begin applying for grants to help move their goals forward.

Hilham Man Pleas To Child Rape

BRIAN WILMOTH
Editor

A Hilham man has received a 30-year sentence after pleading guilty to child rape.

Adam Haney

Adam Jereco Haney, 34, entered a plea to six counts of child rape and one count of continuous sexual abuse of a child in Putnam County Criminal Court on July 25. According to a press release from District Attorney Bryant Dunaway, Haney will have to serve 100% of the sentence, register as a violent sex offender, and be listed on the violent sex offender registry and be subject to community supervision for life.

Haney was arrested in December of 2019. At that time, his arrest warrant all the victims ranged in ages between 10 and 12. It also said that Haney admitted to having intercourse with one of the victims and that the other two victims performed oral sex on him during the months of October and November.

All three offenses occurred in Putnam County.

Dunaway said during the course of the investigation that all the victims gave detailed disclosures describing the abuse by Haney. Haney also confessed to investigators, as well.

Dunaway recognized those that investigated and helped prosecute the case.

"Assistant District Attorney General Antoinette Welch, one of the child sex abuse prosecutors with the District Attorney General's Office prosecuted this case," Dunaway said. "Detective Sgt. Heather Marshall of the Cookeville Police Department was the lead investigator on this case. Criminal Investigator Randal Slayton with the District Attorney's Office assisted. Their investigative work on this case was exemplary."

Donald Trump – Rejection Is Painful

DR. GLENN MOLLETTE
special to the Sentinel

Rejection can be difficult to handle.

Perhaps an employer once said, “You no longer have a job here.” To be dismissed from your job would be painful, especially if you loved your job and wanted to stay.

Imagine a spouse or a boyfriend/girlfriend saying, “I don’t want to be with you anymore. Please leave me alone. I no longer want your company.” Something like that would most likely be very hurtful especially if you loved the person dismissing you and you were willing to do whatever it took to work it out.

The various scenarios of rejection can come from various levels of life. Children can reject parents. Parents reject children. People are rejected because of their politics, sexual orientation, skin color, background, and much more.

Can you think of a hurtful instance in your life when you felt rejected by a group, church, community, employer, friend, loved one or other? If that has ever happened to you then you haven’t forgotten how it made you feel. You were disappointed, hurt, probably angry, and maybe even bewildered by the rejection. You may have even been surprised by the rejection. Or, maybe you saw it coming but tried to hold on to the position or the relationship.

It is obvious that Donald Trump loved being President of the United States. He loved the position, the influence, the power, the prestige, and the millions of adoring fans and supporters. He flourished and thrived personally as President of the United States. While others may have grown tired from the load of being President, Trump seemed to thrive. He loved speaking to the massive crowds and still does.

Trump’s crowds and mega support may have led him to believe that being defeated by an aging Joe Biden was just impossible. In his mind he was mentally set for another four years of White House living. When the vote went for Joe Biden, unfortunately, it was emotionally more than he could handle. He could not accept that enough votes had gone the other way. For a man who loved being President the rejection by the majority of the American people was more than he could swallow when victory seemed so probable to him.

The hurt, pain and anger of rejection and losing something he loved so much muddled the mind of a President who truly had worked hard to shore up our military, Veterans, border security, medical cost transparency, and so much more. Sadly, rejection stings. Often, the way we react to rejection is rarely exemplary.

Trump messed up on January 6th. The rioters and invaders of those who attacked the Capitol were wrong. The long silence of Trump may be the ongoing nightmare that could permanently lock the White House door that he would so love to once again enter. Only time will tell. Republicans will most likely nominate him again and Democrats are fearful of another race between he and Joe Biden. Who knows yet what the future will bring?

The main point is this, if and when you are rejected, give yourself enough time to make a rational and clear response. Anger, hurt and disappointment are black clouds that always mire the mind. Take some time off. Get away for a while. Talk to reasonable thinking people who can see the big picture. Try to recover from the blow of rejection. Eventually, you’ll respond in such a way that won’t result in lifelong embarrassment.

Hear Dr. Glenn Mollette each weekday morning at 8:56 and 10:11:30 AM EST.

Disrupt the Prescription Drug Market

AMY HINOJOSA
special to the Sentinel

Hispanic Americans are the least insured racial or ethnic group in the United States. Roughly 20% don’t have health coverage. That’s compared to just 6% of the non-Hispanic white population.

As a leader in the Latina community, I’m calling on my fellow Americans to join me in forging bold and disruptive change to the enduring inequities in our healthcare system.

For decades, our institutions and policies have profoundly underserved members of historically marginalized communities, especially Black and Hispanic populations. Finding ways to upend the status quo and build a more equitable system needs to be a priority.

Prescription drug delivery systems should be at the top of the list for major overhaul. By bringing greater transparency to pricing, insurance practices, and middlemen entities such as pharmacy benefits managers (PBMs), policy-makers can clear the path to affordable life-saving medicines and level the playing field for health equity.

Simple access to a prescribed medication regimen is a serious public health problem, resulting in as many as 125,000 deaths each year and at least one in ten hospitalizations. For Black and Hispanic populations, they are 7.5 percentage points lower in their ability to maintain a consistent medication regimen. That’s why overhauling how medicines are paid for and distributed in our country could have a life-changing impact on the health of communities of color.

A venture recently launched by the famed entrepreneur Mark Cuban could point the way toward an even bigger push for reform. With his new online pharmacy, the Mark Cuban Cost Plus Drug Company, Cuban intends to shake up the industry by delivering generic medications at cost plus a 15 percent fee. That will make some medications available at lower prices than patients can get through their insurance plans.

Under the current system, the actual price insurers pay for many drugs is often kept secret from patients. This enables coverage providers to significantly inflate out-of-pocket drug costs without consumers ever realizing. Cuban’s model eliminates such secretive pricing strategies, giving patients a much fairer deal as a result.

It’s a great first step in the direction of an even bigger but necessary disruption: exposure and elimination of the back door dealings of PBMs and insurers in the brand-name drug market. Right now, it’s common for these firms to secure massive discounts on brand-name drugs from pharmaceutical companies, totaling more than $175 billion in 2019.

In some cases, this can lead to lower insurance premium costs. But that means little to patients who are sick and need medications requiring expensive out-of-pocket payments. The drug maker discounts aren’t reaching the consumers who need them most. In 2020, the majority of the nation’s spending on brand-name drugs went to companies like insurers and PBMs, not to drug companies who invent and manufacture medicines.

Cutting out these middlemen -- or, at the very least, forcing them to share their massive drug discounts with patients -- is precisely the kind of revolutionary reform that could immediately flip some of the inequities in our health system. Mark Cuban took the ball to the goal line by demanding transparency throughout the prescription drug supply chain. Congress can get the win for consumers and families across the country by following his playbook.

New Number for Suicide Crisis Line: 988

by Freddy Groves

Across the country there is a new mental health suicide and crisis line phone number: 988. The Department of Veterans Affairs has merged services with that number to provide an additional resource for veterans to call when they’re in crisis.

A result of the National Suicide Hotline Designation Act of 2020, the bill was passed and signed off as law. It’s startling, however, to learn that this bill was first created and sponsored by 34 U.S. senators in 2019. (You can go here to learn whether your state’s senators were among those supporting this legislation: www.congress.gov/bill/116th-congress/senate-bill/2661.) Additionally, it was signed into law in 2020.

But these things take time. It wasn’t until the middle of this year, 2022, that the 988 number was hooked up to the VA crisis line. During the two years, the VA beefed up the number of employees and responding staff by the hundreds. It hooks up 500 suicide prevention coordinators at the VA, which ensures that follow-up care is part of the care a veteran receives.

You can call that 988 number, then press 1 for the Veterans Crisis Line. Or you can call the original number: 800-273-8255. Or you can text to 838255. And you also can instantly chat at www.veteranscrisisline.net/get-help-now/chat.

There are a number of options to help veterans who need suicide crisis help, and it’s immediate. Somebody will answer 24/7, and you’ll be asked a couple of quick questions, such as whether you are the veteran or if you’re calling for a veteran who is at risk of suicide or is in immediate danger. It’s all confidential and free. By the next day someone local (your suicide prevention coordinator) will contact you and get you lined up for continued support.

Go to the “Get Help Now” link above and click around, especially on “How It Works.”

Remember, you don’t have to be enrolled in any VA programs for health care or benefits. If you are a veteran, this service is for you. You’re not alone.

How To Modernize Your Résumé

Since the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic more than two years ago, businesses, especially small firms, have struggled to find employees to fill vacancies within their companies. A survey from CNBC/Survey Monkey released in May 2022 indicated that 52 percent of small business owners reported it had grown more difficult to find qualified people over the previous 12 months. The difficulty many businesses are having in

Reconsider Your

Résumé Template

If it's been awhile since you looked for a new job, chances are strong the design of your résumé could be viewed as outdated. Fairly or unfairly, an old template could give prospective employers the impression that your skills are as outdated as your résumé. Jobscan.co/resume-templates offers a host of Microsoft Word-compatible free résumé templates. These templates are categorized, with some specifically for senior- and executive-level positions and others based on how job seekers want to list their skills and experience (i.e., chronological, hybrid, etc.).

Prominently Display Your Abilities

The job-seeking experts at Jobscan indicate that the average recruiter spends around six to seven seconds glancing at a typical résumé before deciding if an applicant could be a good fit. With such little time to make a strong first impression, applicants will want to emphasize their skills at the top of their résumés. Recruiters and human resources professionals who see an attractive skillset might then be compelled to explore the document further to determine how those skills were acquired.

Avoid Information Overload

If HR professionals and recruiters are only spending a few seconds scanning each résumé, applicants will want to keep job descriptions short and sweet. Condense responsibilities into bullet points, ideally using just a single line for each point. Avoid listing too many bullet points for each job, as that could affect the likelihood that the résumé will get more than a passing glance.

Remove outdated information

The online jobs resource Indeed notes that seasoned professionals who have been with their current employers for more than five years can remove certain sections on a résumé. Sections like internships, awards received early in a career, volunteer gigs from years ago, and pre-college educational background do not need to be listed on experienced professionals' résumés.

Now could be a good time for experienced professionals to look for a new job. The first step in a successful job search could be modernizing a résumé to more closely reflect where candidates are in their careers.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

"LET'S GO HUNTING!"

IN TODAY'S LANGUAGE THAT PHRASE BRINGS TO MIND A PLEASANT DAY IN THE FIELDS WITH A GOOD DOG, THE TAKING OF A PHEASANT OR TWO—FINE SPORT! NOT SO, IN BIBLICAL TIMES! TOO OFTEN, IT WAS A CALL TO THE UNPLEASANT DUTY OF RIDDING THE COUNTRYSIDE OF SOME BEAST-OF-PREY—USUALLY THE FEROCIOUS LION! THE BOOKS OF THE BIBLE CONTAIN MANY REFERENCES TO THE LION AND, ALTHOUGH HARDLY A ONE CAN BE FOUND TODAY IN WHAT IS TERMED THE BIBLE LANDS, THE AREA ABOUNDED WITH THEM IN THOSE TIMES.

ANCIENT WRITINGS, PAINTINGS, AND SCULPTURE, HAVE REVEALED MANY RECORDS OF LION HUNTS. THE PLENTITUDE OF YOUNG KIDS, LAMBS, ELDERLY PEOPLE, AND SMALL CHILDREN, ALL EASY PREY, ATTRACTED THESE BEASTS AND, WHEN THEIR DEPREDATIONS BECAME TOO NUMEROUS, A LION HUNT WAS ORGANIZED TO WIPE THEM OUT, OR AT LEAST DRIVE THEM OUT OF THE AREA.

THIS DUTY USUALLY FELL TO ROYALTY AND THE UPPER CLASSES BECAUSE THEY HAD HORSES AND CHARIOTS AND PLENTY OF SOLDIERS OR SERVANTS WHO WERE EXPERT WITH BOW AND ARROW. ALTHOUGH HORSE RACING HAS BEEN CALLED "THE SPORT OF KINGS," YOU MAY BE SURE THAT LION HUNTING EARNED THIS TITLE LONG BEFORE—EXCEPT, UNFORTUNATELY AT TIMES, IT WAS FAR FROM WHAT WE TODAY WOULD CALL SPORT!

NEXT WEEK: "TO MARKET WE GO!"

UTIA Receives Endowment To Create New Position

The Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics at the University of Tennessee Institute of Agriculture has received a generous endowment to create the Jerry L. Gibbs Professor of Practice, a multifaceted position designed to prepare students at the Herbert College of Agriculture for careers in the business world. Retired Farm Credit Mid-America chief executive officer Bill Johnson will pilot the program beginning August 1.

In addition to providing classroom instruction, Johnson will develop project-based courses and experiential learning opportunities to deepen student understanding of business and leadership principles and to enhance their ability to work in interdisciplinary teams in professional settings. His development of capstone courses will provide students with strategic opportunities to apply their business-oriented knowledge and skills to real-world challenges.

Most recently serving as president and chief executive officer for Farm Credit Mid-America in Louisville, Kentucky, Johnson has nearly 40 years of progressively responsible leadership experience in direct lending, risk management, business operations, information services, higher education and civic engagement.

Carrie Castille, the senior vice chancellor and senior vice president of the UT Institute of Agriculture, is pleased that Johnson will work directly with the students. “We are so excited to have such a highly regarded leader in the industry work with the Herbert College of Agriculture,” she said. “Bill’s insights will be extremely valuable to our program.”

Caula Beyl, dean of the Herbert College of Agriculture, cannot think of anyone more suited to excel in this position. “In his role with Farm Credit, Bill Johnson always took a personal interest in the Farm Credit Scholars and offered valuable feedback to every one of them. He was determined that their internship experiences would be meaningful and have the potential for very real impact,” she said. “Our students will reap extraordinary benefits from interacting with Bill, both inside and outside of the classroom.”

“Bill Johnson’s business and leadership experience, deep understanding of the agricultural and finance industries, educational achievements and involvement in experiential learning programs make him the ideal person to lead this effort,” said Chris Clark, professor and head of the Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics.

Johnson earned his doctorate in education from Vanderbilt University, a master’s in business administration from Gonzaga University and a bachelor’s in business administration from the University of Evansville. He has served as a guest lecturer at Lipscomb University, University of Tennessee, Middle Tennessee State University, University of Evansville and the University of Louisville. Among his professional accomplishments, he is a member of the board of trustees at the University of Evansville and served on the boards of Farm Credit Council Services in Denver, Colorado, the Farm Credit System President’s Planning Committee in Washington, D.C., and AgriNovus Indiana in Indianapolis, Indiana.

Through its land-grant mission of research, teaching and extension, the University of Tennessee Institute of Agriculture touches lives and provides Real. Life. Solutions. utia.tennessee.edu.

4-H’ers Can Now Receive College Credit At UT Knoxville

Every 4-H’er knows the project portfolio is the culmination of years of work on the part of the youth. Whether they choose to learn in depth about what it takes to rear a calf or colt, how to manage and coordinate a garden or how to research and present a first-rate presentation, the 4-H project portfolio represents a tremendous effort on the part of senior 4-H students. Now they can get college credits for their work.

In a unique agreement between the University of Tennessee Herbert College of Agriculture and UT Extension, which oversees the statewide Tennessee 4-H Program, senior level 4-H students can now apply for college credit in 10 project areas. The currently approved projects represent coursework in the Department of Animal Science or the Department of Agricultural Leadership, Education and Communications.

“This new program between 4-H and the Herbert College of Agriculture gives thousands of students across Tennessee a jump start on their college career,” said Donde Plowman, chancellor of UT Knoxville. “This is the kind of thinking and innovation that brings real-life solutions to Tennesseans, and sets a national example. It is one of the many ways Tennessee’s flagship, land-grant university develops future leaders in our state and beyond.”

“I am more than thrilled to be able to announce this new collaboration between our Herbert College of Agriculture and UT Extension,” said Carrie Castille, senior vice chancellor and senior vice president of the UT Institute of Agriculture. “I believe this is the first time that the dedication and in-depth knowledge of our 4-H’ers has been recognized on the college level. As a 4-H’er in my youth, I can tell you that every acknowledgment is valued as students launch their academic careers.”

Ashley Stokes, dean of UT Extension, elaborated. “Of course, the students must reach certain benchmarks within each project. We are working to add to the number of projects for which students can receive credit, but we must ensure the academic integrity of each college course and ensure that the 4-H project objectives and accomplishments line up with the college course requirements. Our faculty and specialists have worked collaboratively to make this innovative program possible.”

The new program was announced on July 19 at the annual 4-H Roundup at UT Martin by Castille. Roundup is a five-day event during which senior level 4-H’ers present their project portfolios to panels of experts who judge the presentations and the effort surrounding each project. The top-tier projects in certain categories earn the student scholarships and Roundup participants earn bragging rights for their efforts.

Stokes expects the college credits to be available beginning Fall Semester 2022.

VOTE FOR
CHRIS CARTER
FOR JACKSON COUNTY SHERIFF

Hello, my name is Chris Carter, and I am running for Sheriff of Jackson County. I began my career in law enforcement in 2007 as a corrections officer and was promoted to several different positions during my time in corrections. In 2010 I was promoted to a deputy. I held several positions as a deputy including school resource officer, K-9 officer, sergeant, and chief deputy for the Jackson County Sheriff Department. For the last four years I have served as a county commissioner for the 1st district of Jackson County. Currently, I am employed with the Overton County Sheriff Department.

The Sheriff is responsible for the patrolling of each of our communities; a necessity to stop thefts and drug traffic. The office of Sheriff should be viewed as an honorable position, and it is the sheriff's obligation to find employees who reflect such. The department has the duty of enforcing the law and providing public safety, a duty that should never be taken lightly. The Sheriff is also responsible for operation of the jail, serving civil processes, and maintaining a budget. The Sheriff's Department budget is divided into two parts: the deputy and jail sides. The approximate budget for the deputy side is 1.15 million and approximately 1.4 million for the jail. There are also revenues that the department brings in. This does not mean the department makes a profit, but the revenues help offset a significant portion of cost to the taxpayers. Revenues are generated by several avenues such as housing state inmates, grants for equipment and overtime, park patrols and grants for services such as litter pickup to name a few.

During the 2020-2021 budget the sheriff's department was over $500,000 short on reaching their expected revenue. To be fair, some of this loss was due to covid and all jails throughout the state had short falls meeting expected revenues. However, for the 2021-2022 the department was $500,000 short again. As a commissioner who is concerned about this situation and is experienced in the operation of the jail, I contacted other departments from surrounding counties and found that their jails had nearly met or exceeded their expected revenues for the 2021-2022 budget. There is a large portion of this revenue used to pay the loan payment for the jail while the rest helps offset operation cost and lowers the burden on taxpayers. When the department continues to miss its expected revenues, money must be pulled from the county general fund to make the loan payments and increases the burden on taxpayers. I know that with my leadership I can get the expected jail revenues back on track.

If elected, I will surround myself with like minded people who will help us reach our goals and better serve the people of Jackson County. Ultimately, it will be the voters of Jackson County who choose the qualities they want in their sheriff. These are a few of the things I believe most people would like to see in the person they elect for sheriff. Someone who:

- Believes in honesty and integrity
- Has a commonsense approach to law enforcement
- Will be a good steward of taxpayer money
- Is involved with our schools and community
- Will work hard for Jackson County for their whole term
- Will be there for their employees and available to the citizens of Jackson County
- Will listen to concerns and address complaints
- Will hold themselves as accountable as they hold everyone else

If these are qualities that you would like to see in our sheriff, then I humbly ask for your vote and support for Sheriff of Jackson County on August 4, 2022.
