

Capital Projects Highlighted In Budget

BRIAN WILMOTH
Editor

The Jackson County Commission approved its 2022-2023 fiscal year budget Aug. 8.

A number of capital projects have been built into the new budget.

One of the capital projects included is improvements to the Jackson County Fairgrounds. The county first began to plan the improvements in late-2020 with after it secured a $75,000 USDA grant, which was matched with grant money from the governor and the Tennessee General Assembly.

Mayor Randy Heady said at that time they would like to use the funds to replace or repair the roof on the barn and improve the baseball field.

Other large projects include a number of water projects that will be funded with money from the American Rescue Plan through the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation. Some of those planned improvements include extending water lines into underserved areas of the county, a tank rehab for the Jackson County Utility District, and assisting Gainesboro in making improvements to its Water Plant. A new county services building is also in its early phase.

Heady said between the grant funding Jackson County has received, all the projects are possible without have to raise property taxes.

Music Festival Coming In October

BRIAN WILMOTH

The sound of music will once again fill the air at the Jackson County Airport in October.

Dailey and Vincent's American Made Music Festival will begin Friday, Oct. 7 at 2 p.m., running until Saturday, Oct. 8 at 10 p.m. in Gainesboro.

The festival will be headlined this year by Shenandoah on Friday night and Josh Turner on Saturday night. Dailey and Vincent, including Jackson County native Jamie Dailey, will also perform each evening.

"It's going to be a great homecoming and I'm looking forward to hearing some great country, bluegrass and gospel music echoing through the beautiful hills of Jackson County," Dailey said.

The other half of the duo, Darrin Vincent also expressed his excitement.

"It's a great feeling to be bringing some of our friends, who are the best in country, bluegrass, and gospel music, to Gainesboro, Tennessee - the home of Jamie Dailey," Vincent said.

Other performers on Friday include bluegrass gospel group The Issacs, long-time county music singer Gene Watson, and a Salute to the Grand Ole Opry with The Issacs, Watson, and Dailey and Vincent.

On Saturday, festivities will again begin at 2 p.m. with the Glasgow, Ky. based bluegrass group Kentucky Just Us, followed by the Malpass Brothers.

According to Dailey, even though his career takes him away, Gainesboro is still home.

"Growing up in Gainesboro was a huge blessing to me," Dailey said. "Though I moved to Nashville years ago due to my career, I still make time to come back home - and I even bought a place in Gainesboro.

"Our new Tennessee state song, 'I'll Leave My Heart In Tennessee,' pretty much sums up my life here, and I couldn't be happier about that. We are beyond thrilled to bring our fellow Grand Ole Opry members to Gainesboro for our 2nd Annual American Made Music Festival on the Cumberland River. Josh Turner, Shenandoah, Gene Watson, The Issacs, Dailey and Vincent, and, of course, other guest artists, including The Malpass Brothers, Kentucky Just Us, and more."

Previously hosting one annual multi-day festival, the bluegrass duo decided to expand their festival for 2022 to five dates across four states. The Gainesboro event will be the third festival this year, following dates in Albertville, Al., in June and Hiwassee, Ga., in September. Another festival will be in Wheeling, WV, in November and Christmasfest, also in Hiwassee, Ga., in December.

Tickets are on sale now at www.americanmademusicfestivals.com and daileyandvincent.com.

UCEMC Members To Choose Three Directors

One of the guiding principles of an electric cooperative is that it is a democratic organization controlled by its members who actively participate. Upper Cumberland Electric Membership Corporation is counting on eligible members to come out and vote to fill the seats of three board members whose terms are expiring.

Before the 84th Annual Meeting of the Members on September 10, 2022, members are encouraged to vote to fill these impending vacancies on the cooperative's Board of Directors. The Board comprises nine members; each year, at least three seats are up for election on a rotational basis.

The terms of incumbent directors are expiring in District One, representing Smith, DeKalb, Macon, and Wilson counties; District Three, representing Overton, Clay, Fentress, and Pickett Counties; and District Four, representing Jackson County.

District 1 Candidate, C.D. (Digger) Poindexter, is the incumbent and is running unopposed in the election. District 4 Candidate Jim Brown, the incumbent, is also running unopposed. Candidate Stormy Hallsell is challenging the incumbent James W. West for the District 3 seat on the Board.

Members may cast their ballots at any of the cooperative's offices listed below. Due to ongoing construction at the Carthage District office, members will vote again this year at the UCEMC Corporate office at 907 Main Street North in Carthage.

The polls below are open Fri., August 26, and Sat., August 27, from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.

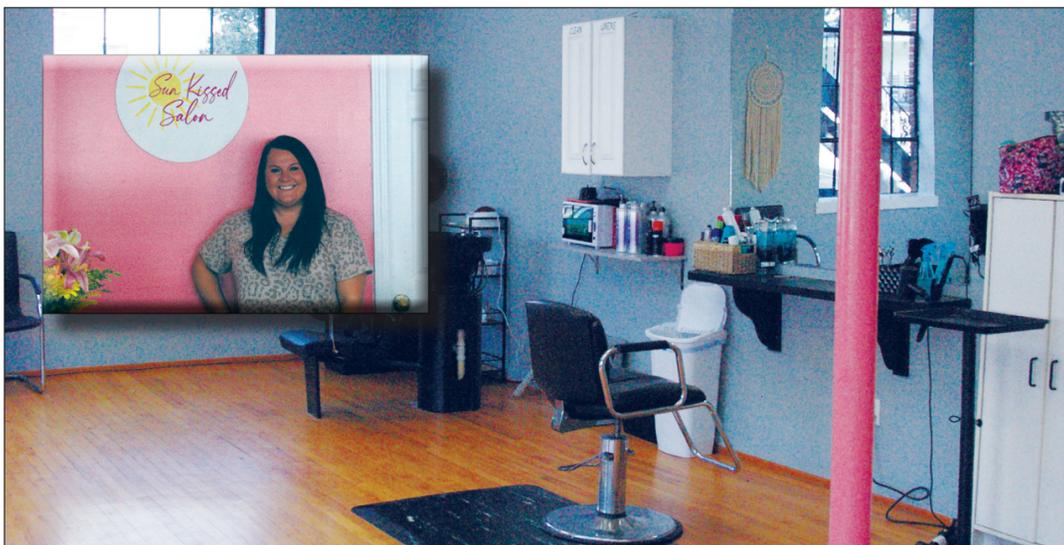

*Carthage - UCEMC Corporate Office - 907 Main Street North, Carthage.

Cookeville - 1794 West Broad Street, Cookeville.

Livingston - 320 Celina Highway, Livingston.

Gainesboro - 1085 North Grundy Quarles Highway, Gainesboro.

Kenneth Turner

Kenneth Brackman Turner, 85, of Granville, Tennessee, passed away August 10, 2022 at Cookeville Regional Medical Center.

Kenneth was born on August 7, 1937, in Smithville, Tennessee, one of 10 children born to Will and Ella Patterson Turner. He was preceded in death by his parents, as well as his older brothers: Aubrey, Morris, Johnny, Riley Wilson, and Donald Turner. He was raised on the family farm in Shiney Rock, near Smithville, and grew up in the Jacob's Pillar United Methodist Church.

He graduated from Oak Grove Elementary and Dekalb County High School, then attended Tennessee Polytechnic Institute (now TTU) for less than a week—deciding that he couldn't stand being in a classroom. He became a successful door-to-door insurance salesman, with his main tactic being to sell to a prominent citizen of the community, hoping that others would follow their lead.

Fate and good luck led him to Ann Douglas Holleman of Granville, and they married on August 17, 1960, she being the love of his life for 62 years. As proof of his love and dedication, he always gave her a Snickers Bar as a Valentine's gift, believing that roses and jewels were just too common.

He settled down in Granville to work with the Hollemans, and as a farmer he raised soybeans, corn, tobacco, and Angus cattle. He served in the Army National Guard, as a Justice of the Peace on the Jackson County Quarterly Court, and as President of the Granville Community Club. As a JP he secured the first fire truck for Granville. He was instrumental in establishing the Flynns Lick & Granville Utility District, and as a board member he took the lead in getting city water to the community. Primarily through his efforts, Martin's Creek Road became a state road.

He loved sports, especially baseball, and traveled to watch games in person for several teams, including the Cleveland Indians, Montreal Expos, NY Mets, NY Yankees, Chicago Cubs, Chicago White Sox, and Milwaukee Brewers. He especially liked the Braves and Dodgers, and spent many nights watching college and pro games, cheering on any team that wasn't from Texas.

Kenneth was appointed a Tennessee Colonel in 1975 by Governor Ray Blanton, and he was one of the last Yellow Dog Democrats in Tennessee, playing a behind-the-scenes role in many political campaigns. He supported a Republican once, and regretted it later. He was a Life Member of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, and traveled to battlefields in the U.S., Canada, and across Europe. He played his first and only soccer game in Mexico City, among a crowd of young, cheering natives.

As a young man he rode Harley-Davidson motorcycles and fixed up old cars to race, but gave that up after marriage and children. Machines and mechanisms always intrigued him, and he could fix just about anything, from an old Farmall tractor or F-150, to a hay baler or a septic system. If he couldn't fix it, then it wasn't worth fixing. He loved reading the local and state newspapers and Progressive Farmer, and spent hours reading through old family letters from the 1800s. He had a quick wit, and loved a good joke. Dominoes was a favorite game with friends, and he was a good Rook player, preferring the Red One version. He liked dogs and the occasional outdoor cat. He worked hard and he played hard, and when facing an obstacle he wasn't sure about, his favorite quote was, "Let's do something, even if it's wrong."

He was a standard in Granville, and loved our little town, and all the local folks who welcomed him here as a young man. They became his close friends for the next sixty years. New arrivals to Granville usually befriended him pretty quickly, and as his memory loss became worse these past few years, they indulged him in conversation on the side of the road in Holleman's Bend, at Sutton's, or at Wildwood. They sometimes helped him with stray cattle. He may not have remembered your name, but he remembered how you treated him. The family is forever indebted to all those who showed that kindness.

Kenneth is survived by his wife, Ann, and three children: James Kenneth Turner (Moira), Barry Kevin Turner (Gail), Sherri Ann Sollmann (Chris), and five grandchildren: Rebecca Ann Turner, Ella Turner, Caldwell Turner, Michael Sollmann, and Mitchell Sollmann. He is also survived by two brothers: Sam and David

Turner, and two sisters: Nina Ruth Puckett, and Sue McGuire; and a host of nieces, nephews, cousins and friends.

Visitation was at the Historic Granville Presbyterian Church on Saturday, August 13, 2022 from 11 am to 2 pm with the funeral service starting at 2 pm with Rev. Michael McLaughlin officiating. Burial will be immediately following in the Holleman Family Plot at Granville Cemetery.

Anderson Upper Cumberland Funeral Home is in charge of the arrangements.

Your New Normal And Resetting Your Life

GLENN MOLLETTE
special to the Sentinel

People who have lost their houses and cars and everything they've worked for all their lives may feel like giving up. Some do. After thirty or forty years they don't feel like they have it within them to rebuild and try again. Some have no choice but to live the life they've been handed. Financially they don't have an option.

I was sitting in a hotel lobby in Pikeville, Kentucky last Sunday talking to FEMA workers. Several of them were preparing to go to areas devastated by the East Kentucky floods. One of the men said, "We are trying to get everyone registered. There is some assistance available but it is small and limited in comparison to what they need. These families have nothing. They have lost everything. Many of them have no means to rebuild what they have lost. Sadly,"

he said, "this is their new normal."

We all face and deal with the "new normals" of our lives. Aching knees, the death of a spouse, the loss of friends who have moved or died. Financial changes and health challenges force us to learn how to reset our lives.

Resetting life is easier said than done. Too often, all we have is the energy to stare out the window, if we have a window.

Life's disasters set us back. Mentally, physically, relationally, and financially such an event may require another lifetime of building your life back, if you have a lifetime. Your lifetime may be five or ten years, and if you are lucky your lifetime will be more. It's certainly a little easier to try to climb back up the mountain at the age of 35 than at 65, but to some extent you can if you have the will and physical ability to do so.

There is a time in life when you either quit or dramatically change gears. You don't feel like standing and teaching a class another ten years. You can't go back into the coal mine another five years. You've stood in the assembly line for 35 or 40 years and you are done. There is nothing wrong with withdrawing from one life you enjoyed and resetting to do something else. This could simply be fishing, golf, traveling, walking by the river or local lake, or sleeping late every morning and enjoying your coffee late in the day. There's nothing wrong with that.

The old Apostle Paul had been through a lot in his life. Shipwrecked, stoned and left for dead, escaped being murdered, whipped cruelly and placed in a jail cell. His life was often far less than glamorous. He once said, "Let us not get tired of well-doing, we will reap a harvest if we don't quit."

Many years ago, a friend of mine restarted his life at the age of 50. He had nothing to show for his years of work and life. Old age was looking grim. He and his wife found an old abandoned hamburger stand in a small town. He rented the building for almost nothing and cleaned it up and he and his wife worked twelve hours a day for the next 17 years and he retired with a couple of million dollars in the bank. Even this would be out of reach for many today but keep in mind that if you have the mental wherewithal to think it and the physical stamina to put it into action, you can reset your life and try again.

Your current normal doesn't have to be forever, if you don't quit.

We're Getting a Lesson in Why Congressional Oversight Matters

LEE HAMILTON
special to the Sentinel

It's impossible to know right now what impact the work of the Jan. 6 committee will have in the long run, though it's a fair bet that whatever the political and legal repercussions, there will be legislation coming. In pulling back the curtain on that day, the days leading up to it, and the days that followed, the committee has offered Americans a clear-eyed look at the misbehavior of high-ranking government officials all the way up to the president.

The committee's work is a dramatic reminder of why congressional oversight matters. In the minds of most members of Congress, oversight tends to take a back seat to legislating and constituent service. This is understandable. There's usually no glory and—except in rare circumstances like these—little media attention paid to congressional oversight work.

Yet it's every bit as important as passing legislation. This is because making government work well is extremely difficult, even when officials are trying to do so. Even accomplished office-holders and civil servants struggle to ensure that their agencies and programs are working efficiently, effectively, and in line with what Congress intended. And when they don't, we read about government mistakes and missteps, and action or lack of action. That's Congress's job: to look into every nook and cranny of the executive branch, to call attention to it, debate it, and, if necessary, to legislate improvements.

I'm not suggesting Congress should directly be involved in the management of federal programs. Far from it. But Congress does have the responsibility to hold the president and his administration accountable for their actions, to ensure that the government is functioning properly and our laws are working as intended—or can be adjusted if they're not—and that taxpayer dollars are being used effectively.

And this applies no matter who's in power. If the majority party in Congress also controls the White House, there's a natural inclination to ease up on oversight, which is exactly the wrong thing to do. Members of Congress who claim they're serious about oversight can only prove it by being as rigorous when their own party holds power at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue as when their political opponents do. That's because in the end it's not about politics, it's about seeing that the federal government is serving the American people's interests.

Congress has plenty of tools to do this. They include the periodic reauthorization of agencies and laws, most of which are passed for a set period; personal visits by members or their staff to see that things are going as the law intended; using the Government Accountability Office and the various inspectors general to dig into the fine points of government operations; and issuing subpoenas, holding hearings, conducting investigations, and reporting the findings to the American people. Strong oversight should be the daily business of Capitol Hill, not just an occasional feature. That is how Congress can help protect the country from an inferior presidency, bureaucratic arrogance, the blind pursuit of rules and regulations that do more harm than good, and, of course, corruption and malfeasance.

There's a cost to all of this, of course, so Congress has to make sure that the oversight is adequately funded. This means not just money to fund the work, but the expertise to pursue it.

Government and the issues it addresses are complicated. Congress needs access to experts in every field it gets into—to counter and add to what the executive branch says, to critique and analyze policies, and to praise good work when it happens. Washington is filled with people like that, who know their fields, are nonpartisan, and just want government to work properly.

At its best, As the Jan. 6 committee is demonstrating, effective oversight is essential to the functioning of our democracy.

The OIG Never Stops

by Freddy Groves

The Department of Veterans Affairs Office of Inspector General has saved us a potential $1.8 billion. When it comes to nailing scammers who steal from the VA, they just never give up.

A nurse at the VA pleaded guilty to Covid vaccination card fraud and theft of government funds. Her scam involved stealing authentic vax record cards, right from the beginning when the vaccines first came out, and included snagging the lot numbers to make it appear legit. Then she went online to sell her wares, charging anywhere from $150 to $200 for each fake card.

The scammer wasn't too bright to peddle these cards that way. The Department of Justice has a whole department dedicated to disaster fraud, and you know that watching the internet was probably the first thing they did when Covid hit. When she was nabbed, the scammer was investigated by no less than three government agencies, plus the OIG.

Then there was the scammer, a habitual offender who, with two co-conspirators, defrauded the VA by creating aliases that made them appear to be heirs of veterans who had died.

By generating fake documents, they grabbed up survivor benefits and unclaimed property (to the tune of nearly a half million dollars). They have been charged with multiple offenses. It doesn't help that one scammer skipped out and didn't show for court, thus generating a bench warrant for her arrest.

Then there was the lowest of the low, a scammer who was in a position of responsibility as a fiduciary. His job was to receive payments on behalf of veterans, in his case, 10 disabled vets, and manage their money. The scammer, who ran his own fiduciary services company, stole more than $300,000, including from the estate of a woman who'd died a few years ago.

When sentenced, he could get as many as 50 years in the federal pen. He deserves every day of that.

They all do.

How To Protect Nature When Enjoying The Outdoors

Few getaways can reinvigorate the mind and body like a day spent in the great outdoors. The rewards of a day spent outside aren't just figments of the imagination. The online medical resource WebMD notes that exposure to the great outdoors can improve sleep cycles, boost self-esteem, reduce anxiety, help people focus, and bolster the immune system, among other benefits.

Between people and nature is not a one-way street. Just as nature takes care of people, people must do their part to protect nature. Whether nature lovers are hiking, relaxing at the beach or engaging in another outdoor activity, the following tips can help people protect the serene settings and landscapes they love so much.

Leave Nothing Behind
Anti-littering campaigns have been prevalent for decades. Despite that, litter remains a significant problem. A 2020 study from Keep America Beautiful, a nonprofit dedicated to preventing litter, found that there are nearly 50 billion pieces of litter along roadways and waterways across the United States. Each piece of litter that finds its way into nature can be prevented. When spending time in nature, individuals can commit to bringing out whatever they bring in. Leaving nothing behind reduces the issues associated with litter, including the negative effects it has on wildlife and marine life, and helps to maintain the idyllic look of natural settings like forests and beaches.

Reduce Reliance On Plastics And Recycle The Plastics You Do Use

Plastics adversely affect the health of the planet in various ways. But a staggering percentage of the plastics humans use are never recycled. A 2108 study published in the journal Science Advances found that, of the 8.3 billion metric tons of plastics that have been produced since 1950, only around 9 percent has been recycled. Plastics take roughly 400 years to degrade, so much of the plastics that have not been recycled are ending up in the world's oceans. In fact, projections from environmentalists suggest that oceans will contain more plastics than fish by the middle of this century. By reducing reliance on plastics and recycling the plastics they do use, nature lovers can do their part to combat this significant threat and protect the natural settings they enjoy so much.

Plant Trees

Planting trees could help combat the issue of rising carbon dioxide (CO2) in the atmosphere. According to Greenpop, an organization devoted to urban greening and forest restoration projects, trees absorb CO2, removing it from the air and storing it as they release oxygen. A day outdoors planting trees is a fun activity for people of all ages, and it's also a highly effective way to help the planet.

The great outdoors is a respite for millions of people across the globe. Taking steps to protect nature is a great way to ensure it's accessible and there to enjoy for generations to come.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Some went out on the sea in ships; they were merchants on the mighty waters. They saw the works of the Lord, his wonderful deeds in the deep. For he spoke and stirred up a tempest that lifted high the waves.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

"LET'S GO TO MARKET!"

SUPER ACE MARKET DRUGS

IN THESE MODERN TIMES, GOING TO MARKET IS A MATTER OF GETTING INTO A CAR AND DRIVING TO THE SHOPPING CENTER. WE NEVER SEE THE MAN WHO GREW OUR FOOD, THE PEOPLE WHO MADE OUR CLOTHES, OR THE OTHER ARTICLES WE BUY AND USE. EVERYTHING IS PACKAGED NEATLY AND SHIPPED TO THE STORES WHERE WE DO OUR SHOPPING. BUT ...

... THE BIBLICAL MARKETPLACE WAS ANOTHER MATTER. A CITY'S GATEWAY OPENED INTO A KIND OF PLAZA—HERE WAS THE MARKET, WHERE EVERY KIND OF TRADING AND SELLING TOOK PLACE. AN ANCIENT SAYING DECLARED, "ONE CAN BUY ANYTHING IN THE MARKETS OF JERUSALEM, FROM A FINE CAMEL TO A FALSE TOOTH!" AND YOU WOULD MEET THE MAN WHO RAISED THE MEAT YOU BOUGHT, OR THE GRAIN YOU WANTED FOR A FINE FLOUR—THE SHEEP-RAISER, THE OLIVE OIL-MAKER, THE FARMER, THE POTTER, THE CLOTH-SPINNER, WERE HERE TO PERSONALLY SELL YOU THEIR OWN GOODS. PEOPLE OF MANY NATIONS THROGGED JERUSALEM'S MARKETS—A DOZEN LANGUAGES MIGHT BE HEARD WITHOUT TAKING MORE THAN A FEW STEPS—A CONSTANT DIN OF VOICES, CRYING THE VIRTUES OF THIS MELON, THAT PERFUME, AGAINST A BACKGROUND OF THE CLINK AND JINGLE OF THE MONEY CHANGERS WITHOUT WHOM THE BUYING AND SELLING OF ALL THESE GOODS COULD HARDLY BE MANAGED. A POLYGLOT OF ACTIVITY, WAS THE ANCIENT MARKETPLACE WHEN "GOING TO MARKET" WAS AN EXCITING EVENT, INDEED!

Agriculture

Greer Named Marketing Consultant

Tennessee Agriculture Commissioner Charlie Hatcher, D.V.M. announces the addition of Christina Greer to the Business Development Division of the Tennessee Department of Agriculture (TDA).

Greer will serve as the division's International Marketing Business Consultant. She comes to the department from the University of Tennessee in Knoxville where she worked as a graduate research assistant and graduate teaching assistant in the Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics. Greer's new role will center on increasing farm income at the global level.

"TDA's international marketing efforts help match global trade opportunities with our state's producers," Agriculture Commissioner Charlie Hatcher, D.V.M. said. "Christina's experiences in Europe, Scandinavia, and South America will help Tennessee's ag and forestry businesses pursue international markets. Additionally, she will lead inbound trade missions to showcase Tennessee's high-quality products to buyers from abroad."

Greer's skill in creating beneficial relationships across the globe and across Tennessee resulted in two significant events this year. Greer's thesis, "A Disaggregated Analysis of Beef Import Demand in Japan," was chosen for presentation to the Southern Agricultural Economics Association Annual Meeting in New Orleans, La. In February, she was part of the collaborative team that brought Tennessee farmers together with brewers, distillers, winemakers, and agricultural industry partners for the Farm and Ferment Conference in Murfreesboro.

"I'm ready to transition the academic and travel knowledge I've gained into opportunities for Tennessee's agricultural businesses," Greer said. "Connecting to buyers in countries across the world adds to our communities' growth and to the state's overall economy. I'm proud to contribute to making international opportunities a reality, particularly for business owners who thought a global marketplace was out of reach."

While earning her Bachelor of Science in Agricultural and Resource Economics from the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, Greer studied in the Netherlands, Germany, Denmark, and Guatemala. She earned a Master of Science in Agricultural and Resource Economics, focusing on agriculture economics and statistics, from the University of Tennessee.

TDA's Business Development Division connects business owners and entrepreneurs to resources, offers ideas for innovation opportunities, and facilitates relationships with organizations and agencies that can assist. For more information, visit www.tn.gov/agbusinessdevelopment.

Buy Local During Peak Produce Season

August is peak produce time in Tennessee for many of your favorite fruits and vegetables.

Farmers markets from east to west and in between are packed with fresh produce

"Farmers markets play an essential role in communities by creating space for connection and actively fostering more resilient local food systems," Agriculture Commissioner Charlie Hatcher, D.V.M. said. "Making the local connection and developing a relationship with the farmers producing your food is the perfect way to support your local community and economy."

As students go back to school, filling lunchboxes with quality, healthy food is easy to do after a visit to a farmers market. The one-stop location provides options for diverse and tasty selections that family members of all ages will love.

"Shopping at a farmers market is important for many reasons," Grow Oak Ridge Markets manager Rebecca Williams said. "I never really loved vegetables until I tried them freshly picked. Buying locally-grown produce brings high quality and amazing taste to your family's table."

In addition to traditional produce, many Tennessee farmers markets offer meats, artisan products, flowers, live music, and food trucks. Some markets accept SNAP and EBT benefits. Check with your local market for information on food assistance programs.

"The Henderson Farmers Market has been a blessing to this community in many ways," market manager Steve Rickman said. "We are thriving, and we continue to add new events and ideas that will keep us sustainable for years to come."

Pick Tennessee Products is the connection to a farmers market near you. There are currently 163 farmers markets listed on the Pick Tennessee Products website and mobile app. Markets are encouraged to apply for this free listing at www.pickTNproducts.org. Follow @PickTNProducts on Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram for seasonal updates and information about farm-related events, activities, and products.

Steak And Potatoes Field Day Scheduled For August 26

The annual Steak and Potatoes Field Day presented by the University of Tennessee Institute of Agriculture will include topics of interest for beef cattle producers, fruit and vegetable producers and land managers. Throughout the morning, experts from both UT AgResearch and UT Extension will share their knowledge to help producers enhance their operations.

This in-person field day is scheduled for Friday, August 26, at the Plateau AgResearch and Education Center.

Topics of interest to beef producers during the field day's educational seminars include:

- Predicting prices of seedstock bulls
- Breeding livestock for profit with economic selection indexes
- Freezer beef nutrition
- Managing winter feed costs for cows
- Surviving high fertilizer prices
- Harvesting cover crops for forage

Fruit and vegetable producers may be interested in the seminars on acorn squash varieties as well as vegetable trials at the Plateau AgResearch Center. Separate presentations on sprayer calibration and maintenance as well as soil and tissue sampling and analysis by the UT Extension Soil, Plant and Pest Center may be of interest to all farmers and land managers.

Everyone will want to join a scenic and educational wagon tour of the research center.

On-site registration begins at 8 a.m. CDT with presentations beginning at 8:30 a.m. and concluding at 11:30 a.m. A sponsored lunch will be available following the seminars, and Carrie Castille, the new senior vice chancellor and senior vice president of UTIA, will be on hand to meet with attendees.

This event is open to the public and is free to attend.

The Plateau AgResearch Center will also host the Fall Gardeners' Festival four days later on August 30 at the same location. That event, which is also conducted in cooperation with the Cumberland County Master Gardeners, a program managed by UT Extension, will be of interest to landowners and gardeners of all types. Learn more about these events and more field days scheduled throughout 2022 online at agresearch.tennessee.edu/field-days.

HOROSCOPES

ARIES
Mar 21/Apr 20
 Aries, try to focus on simple pleasures this week. You don't have to travel to foreign lands or handle complicated hobbies to find happiness right now.

TAURUS
Apr 21/May 21
 Taurus, seek opportunities to focus your mind, which is bubbling with creativity lately. Dabble in artwork or jewelry making. Cake decorating also may appeal to you.

GEMINI
May 22/June 21
 Gemini, you may need to dig down deep and find your motivation for a new project. A change of scenery could be the catalyst for change. Book a short venture to refresh.

CANCER
June 22/July 22
 Cancer, with a clear mind and excellent communication skills, this week you can lead the meeting and get the results you desire. This is only one step on the path to success.

LEO
July 23/Aug 23
 Leo, some type of force is helping you continue your path forward. It may be pride; it may be a desire to move past your current situation. Whatever it is, keep up the momentum.

VIRGO
Aug 24/Sept 22
 Virgo, though it goes against your nature, feel free to be lazy once in a while this week. Share your responsibilities with someone else and you will benefit from the rest.

LIBRA
Sept 23/Oct 23
 Libra, this week you are able to convey what is going on inside your mind. Don't hold anything back, even if it makes you are hesitant to do so.

SCORPIO
Oct 24/Nov 22
 Scorpio, people will be eager to hang on to your every word this week. Think carefully about what you have to say to further your cause to the fullest.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov 23/Dec 21
 Sagittarius, if you find that your mind is muddled and communication is not coming easily to you, take a break and enjoy some alone time. Engage in solo projects.

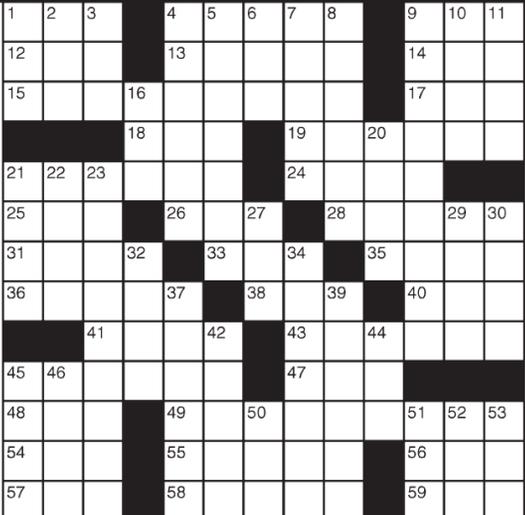

CAPRICORN
Dec 22/Jan 20
 Capricorn, words may not be the best way to express what you are feeling right now to a partner. Actions will speak louder than words.

AQUARIUS
Jan 21/Feb 18
 Things could get intense for you this week, Aquarius. A lot of information is headed your way. A roadblock is in your path, but don't let this trip you up.

PISCES
Feb 19/Mar 20
 Pisces, are you prepared for the spotlight to be turned on you at work? Brush up on your skills and what you have to say to superiors.

STICKELERS

Here is a scrambled quote by comedian Jonathan Winters. See how long it takes to unscramble it.

"Without I couldn't ahead it success wait went so for I."

SCRAMBLERS

Unscramble the letters within each rectangle to form four ordinary words. Then rearrange the boxed letters to form the mystery word, which will complete the gag!

TODAY'S WORD

Even Exchange by Donna Pettman

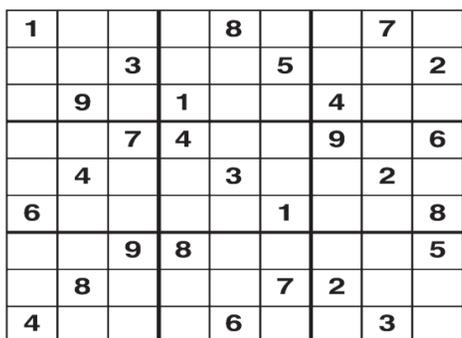

Each numbered row contains two clues and two 6-letter answers. The two answers differ from each other by only one letter, which has already been inserted. For example, if you exchange the A from MASTER for an I, you get MISTER. Do not change the order of the letters.

The number 72 should come next. Each number increases by three (for example: 9, 12, 15, 18, 21, 24), and the double-digit numbers are reversed.

A & W First Shipment to Overseas Firm
 The first shipment of furniture going to the Caribbean from A & W Manufacturing Company left Gainesboro on Sun. Aug. 4, 1968.
 Four different shipments left A & W, three enroute to Nassau and one to Grand Cayman. Included in the shipment were completely upholstered living room suites, sofas, sectionals and other items in the regular line of furniture manufactured by the firm. Ray Roberts, manager of A & W, stated this is the first furniture manufactured in Jackson County to be shipped overseas.

Fun Facts

Russia has a whopping 11 time zones within the country, which gives you an idea of just how large it is.
 Vatican City is actually the smallest country in the world at only .2 miles wide.

There is only one country on earth without mosquitoes: Iceland. Its low temperatures make it impossible for the pest to breed.
 Gatorade was invented at the University of Florida, named after the mascot of the school, the Gators. The university receives 20 percent of the profits from the beverage.

 Bananas are curved because of how they grow — toward the sun. Also, technically speaking, they're actually defined as a type of berry.

Sentinel RECIPES of the WEEK

Baked Stuffed Apples
Ingredients:
 6 fresh apples
 2 cups of finely ground walnuts
 1 cup of brown sugar
 1 teaspoon of cinnamon
 1 tablespoon of vanilla
 1/4 cup of extra virgin olive oil or regular olive oil will do

Directions:
 Preheat oven to 365"
 Peel and core apples, set aside. In a large bowl mix walnuts, brown sugar and vanilla. Tightly pack the walnut filling inside the cored apples. Set apples in a deep baking pan or dish. Drizzle apples with olive oil. Bake for 35 minutes on 365" until apples are soft enough for a knife to easily go through.

 Served chilled by itself or with a side of ice cream, whipped cream or touch of caramel.

Peanut Butter Banana Quesadillas

Ingredients:
 1 8-inch flour tortilla
 2 Tbsp peanut butter
 1/2 medium banana, sliced
 1 Tbsp chocolate chips
Directions:
 Spread the peanut butter over the surface of the tortilla.
 Thinly slice the banana, then lay the slices over one half of the tortilla. Sprinkle the chocolate chips over the same half of the tortilla. Fold the tortilla to close over the banana and chocolate.

Cook the quesadilla in a skillet over medium-low heat until it's golden brown and crispy on both sides and the chocolate and banana slices are melty inside.

Breakfast Nachos

Ingredients:
 1 Roma tomato
 1/4 red onion
 1 jalapeño
 1 15oz. can black beans, rinsed and drained
 4 oz. cheddar cheese, shredded

6 large eggs
 1/4 tsp salt
 1/4 tsp pepper
 2 Tbsp butter
 1 15oz. bag tortilla chips
 1/2 cup sour cream
Directions:
 Dice the tomato and red onion. Slice the jalapeño. Rinse and drain the black beans. Shred the cheddar cheese.

Preheat the oven to 350°F. Whisk together the eggs, salt, and pepper in a large bowl. Melt the butter in a large non-stick skillet over medium heat. Once hot, add the whisked eggs and gently stir and fold until the eggs are mostly set, but still slightly wet (they'll finish cooking in the oven).

Line a large baking sheet with parchment paper for easy cleanup. Spread half of the tortilla chips over the surface of the baking sheet, then top with half of the eggs, half of the black beans, and half of the shredded cheese.

Repeat with a second layer of chips, eggs, beans, and cheese.

Bake the nachos in the preheated oven for 5-7 minutes, or until the cheese is melted.

Remove the nachos from the oven and top with the remaining fresh ingredients: tomato, onion, jalapeño, and sour cream. Serve hot.

To All my friends, family and citizens of Jackson County I thank you for your vote and support during this election year.
 I look forward to serving Jackson County as your new Register of Deeds.

Christ or COVID

Sponsored By: Burrstown • Cubb Creek • Flynn's Creek • Shiloh • New Salem • McCoinsville • Richmond Chapel • Zion • Bagdad • Hurricane • Union Hill • Stone Church of Christ

Covid is playing out. It will soon be relegated to the list of shots you get every year. Yet some continue the rhetoric that follows the thought of Romans chapter five. "Therefore, just as through one lab Covid-19 entered the world, and death through Covid, and so Covid spread to all men, because all didn't wear a mask. Nevertheless Covid-19 reigned from Trump to Biden, even over those who had not vaccinated in the likeness of Fauci. For if by the transgression of one lab, death reigned through the lab, much more those who receive an abundance of vaccinations and face masks will reign in a mortal life." This is obviously playful banter, but it highlights a concern. Which is more important?

Read Romans again. "Therefore, just as through one man sin entered into the world, and death through sin, and so death spread to all men, because all sinned— for until the Law sin was in the world, but sin is not imputed when there is no law. Nevertheless, death reigned from Adam until Moses, even over those who had not sinned in the likeness of the offense of Adam, who is a type of Him who was to come. But the free gift is not like the transgression. For if by the transgression of the one the many died, much more did the grace of God and the gift by the grace of the one Man, Jesus Christ, abound to the many. The gift is not like that which came through the one who sinned; for on the one hand the judgment arose from one transgression resulting in condemnation, but on the other hand the free gift arose from many transgressions resulting in justification. For if by the transgression of the one, death reigned through the one, much more those who receive the abundance of grace and of the gift of righteousness will reign in life through the One, Jesus Christ" (Rom. 5:12-17).

This brings up several questions. Which of these do we talk about most? Of the two deaths, which is most concerning. Of the two deaths which are we warning people about? Are we more likely to call all of our friends we have been in contact with to tell them we have Covid or Christ? Are we asking questions about salvation or vaccinations?

I know this might be a bit much, but can we be done with this now and get back to what the church does best? We need to be about our Father's business again. "Death has been swallowed up in victory." Don't let it be swallowed up by fear again (1 Cor. 15:55). Every one of us are positioned to do great things to the Glory of God this year. Everyone one of us as children of God have the most important message to share. This message is a One died for all fit—it's good for all. This message has the greatest reward! We, as humble servants of the Savior, are blessed with carrying that message.

Thank you

Thank you! Thank you! Thank you!

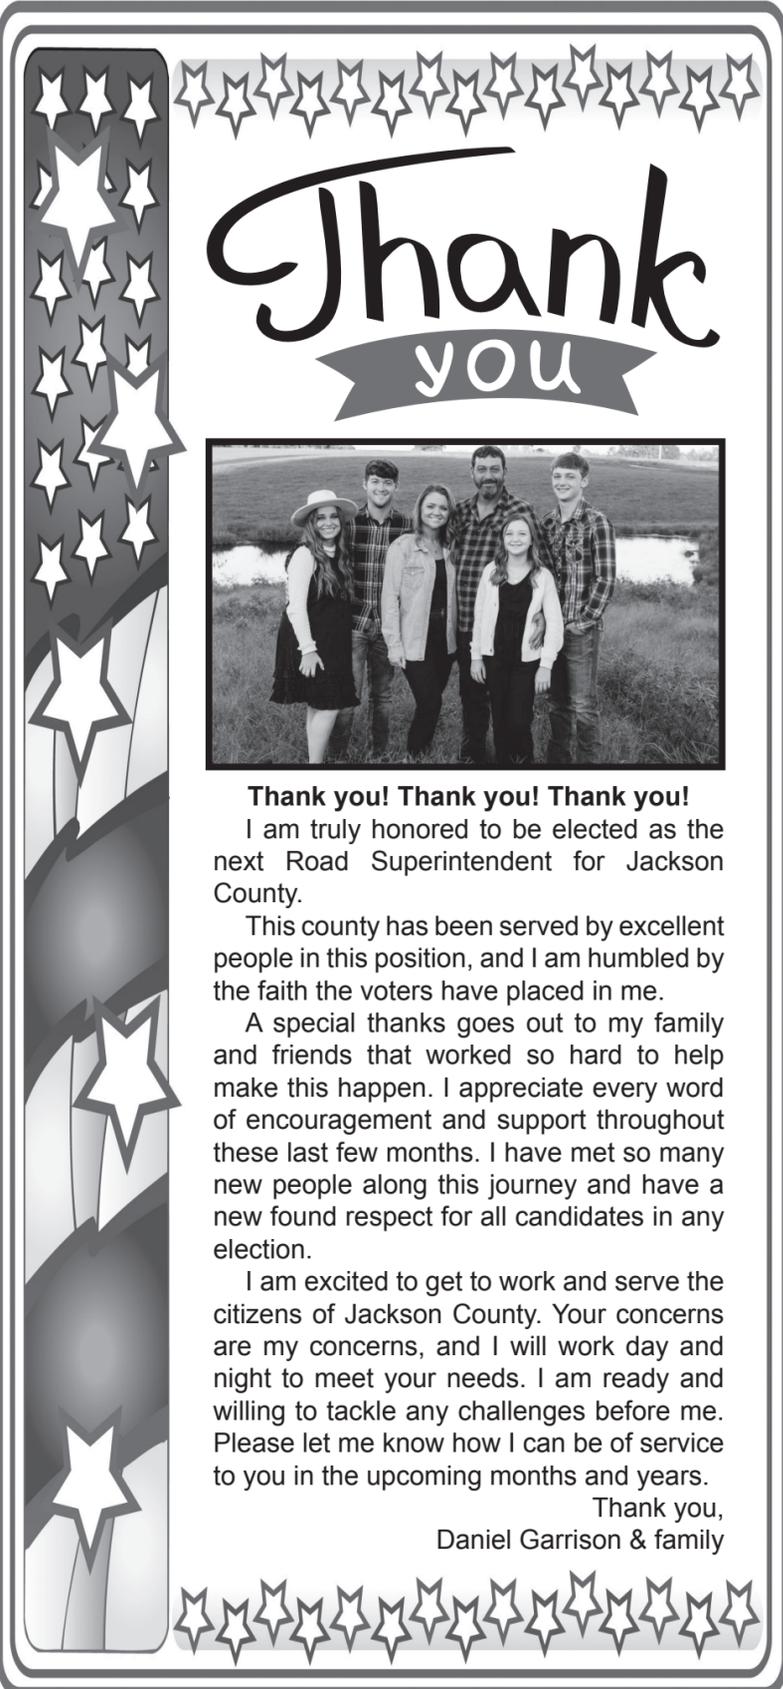

I am truly honored to be elected as the next Road Superintendent for Jackson County.

This county has been served by excellent people in this position, and I am humbled by the faith the voters have placed in me.

A special thanks goes out to my family and friends that worked so hard to help make this happen. I appreciate every word of encouragement and support throughout these last few months. I have met so many new people along this journey and have a new found respect for all candidates in any election.

I am excited to get to work and serve the citizens of Jackson County. Your concerns are my concerns, and I will work day and night to meet your needs. I am ready and willing to tackle any challenges before me. Please let me know how I can be of service to you in the upcoming months and years.

Thank you,
Daniel Garrison & family
