Sister of shooting suspect charged with hindering prosecution

Daily Express staff

The sister of one of the suspects from the fatal December shooting has been charged with hindering prosecution of a felony.

Eden Tracy, 21, received that charge in Adair County Circuit Court on Feb. 4. Her brother, Anquan Glover, has 14 criminal charges following the Dec. 30 incident that killed three people.

According to court documents, Tracy gave Glover a ride to Kansas City soon after the shooting happened.

When first interviewed by police on Dec. 30, Tracy told police she went to Kansas City with her girlfriend to see a relative in the hospital. She told police she saw the press release about the shooting, which identified Glover as suspect, on her way to Kansas City. She also told police she hadn't spoken to Glover since Dec. 29.

In a subsequent interview with police on Jan. 3, Tracy said she did give Glover a ride to Kansas City. Court documents say Tracy told police Glover showed up at her house around 11:30 a.m. Police were first called about the shooting at 11:27 a.m.

Tracy told police Glover said he needed a ride but didn't say why. Glover wrapped himself in a blanket and laid down in the backseat of the car for the entire ride. Tracy told police she never asked why Glover did that or why he needed a ride.

The proposed site plan for Kirkville's new turf baseball and softball fields. PROVIDED BY THE KIRKSVILLE R-III SCHOOL DISTRICT.

Kirkville school district picks bids for $4.3 million baseball-softball complex

Marty Bachman
Daily Express

The Kirkville R-III School Board chose the two low-bidders for construction of the new athletic complex, field lighting and adjacent parking lot lighting at its Feb. 9 meeting.

The winning bid ($3.99 million) to build the baseball and softball fields, which will include synthetic turf for both the infields and the outfields, went to Byrne & Jones Construction, the same contractor that created the district's football field. Musco Lighting had the winning bid ($380,000) to install the lighting and controls.

The overall cost of the project will be $4,395,556. The district's early estimate last year was for $2.7 million. Construction costs have continued to increase, leading to this jump. The funds come out of the district's capital improvement fund, which is solely for facilities.

The council voted unanimously to accept the bids.

"On the baseball field, that's a huge amount of synthetic turf," said Carolyn Green of Building Resource Studio, the district's architecture firm partner. "So that was a big deal and that is in this proposal."

Green said that the important thing about the turf is that it gives flexibility to all the kids in the district to be able to use it, not just for baseball and softball, but for other practices and P.E. time. She said that with all the cost-savings and reductions that were part of the negotiating process, no cuts were made to the turf. The field grading and all the earthwork are included in the contract and the subsurface drainage is an engineered system.

"It's very important so that you don't have wet spots in the field," she said.

The contract includes all fencing and backstops, portable pitching mounds on both fields as well as the masonry dug-out construction. The contract includes storage in the dugouts, construction of bullpens and batting cages, concrete modular block retaining walls and parking lot lighting. The lighting contract includes additional lighting for the field itself.

She said they have some local participation to construct the press boxes and concession buildings and that they were in discussions with the city to build the parking lots. The high school's building trades class will be involved in parts of the construction, too.

"There are some definite ways to skin the cat here and bringing down the cost as much as we could," Green said. "It's a very unpredictable bid market right now as you probably heard. We feel fortunate that we could get it to this point."

She said they would try to keep the project on schedule for the summer.

"We've had some really good partnerships through this, not just the people

Autumn Ridge subdivision, historic landmark designation, other items approved by City Council

Daily Express

The Kirkville City Council, in an almost two-hour marathon session, approved several ordinances and resolutions at its Feb. 7 meeting.

The council passed an ordinance approving the preliminary plat of the Autumn Ridge Phase I subdivision. The city's Planning and Zoning Commission approved the preliminary. That subdivision is planned to have smaller homes, designed for new families or elderly residents.

The council passed a resolution for an agreement with Aquatic Control, Inc., to treat the curly-leaf pondweed at Forest Lake. The invasion was discovered in 2017. The city obtained quotes and entered into a three-year program with American Dredge and Aquatic Weed Control Company for years 2018-2022. In 2021, the city solicited companies to provide weed control. According to the resolution, both processes have been successful in tons of invasive weeds being removed from Forest Lake.

City to seek matching grant funds to improve local parks and trails

Marty Bachman
Daily Express

The Kirkville City Council held hearings to apply for grants that provide improvements to city parks and local recreational trails at their Feb. 7 meeting.

The city will apply for National Park Service grant money from the federal Land & Water Conservation Fund (LWCF), to build ADA-accessible bathrooms and an ADA-accessible splash pad at P.C. Mills Park.

According to a staff report prepared by Administrative Services Coordinator Sarah Halstead, the grant funds can be used for the acquisition, development, and/or renovation of outdoor recreation facilities.

Halstead wrote in her report that Kirkville has received the funds in the past for initial development of Brashear Park, P.C. Mills Park, Rotary Park, Memorial Park, Jaycee Park, and Patryla Park, the Rotary Park Amphitheatre

Chrisman serves ten years as executive director of K-REDI

Submitted by K-REDI

K-REDI is recognizing its Executive Director, Carolyn Chrisman, for her work over the past 10 years in economic development.

“Reflecting on these past 10 years, reminded me that K-REDI and Carolyn’s work has made a difference to better our community, and more importantly a difference in the lives of others employed through these efforts.” Stated Matt Heeren, President of K-REDI. “To have an impact on families and friends in such a meaningful way is cause for celebration and reflection,” he further stated.

The K-REDI organization hired Ms. Chrisman, a former school teacher with limited experience in economic development, but a passion for both the work and the community where she was raised. That chance, her drive, and commitment have helped to not only bring new opportunities to Kirksville and the region but to establish our economic efforts and expertise as a leader in the State of Missouri.

Over the past 10 years, through Chrisman’s work and community support numerous projects, meaning local jobs, have resulted such as the Kraft Heinz expansion project, the High Prairie Wind Farm project (the largest in the state), and the more recent Cooperative Call Center project. The approach of Chrisman and K-REDI is leading not only to newer jobs but sustainability by identifying problems and reaching solutions such as the establishment of the wind farm technician program and working to address other barriers to employment, like daycare.

In addition to all of the community’s success Chrisman has been individually recognized for her work: The Greater Missouri Leadership Foundation, 40 Under 40 Development Counsellors International, the Rural Advocacy Award, and the MEDC Economic Developer of the Year.

The collective Kirksville community is asked to take a moment and reflect on our local economic success, and to consider the unique work of those making this possible, including Carolyn Chrisman.

Chamber of Commerce Member Spotlight: American Family Insurance

Submitted by the Kirksville Area Chamber of Commerce

Adam Mercer, along with his wife, Heather Mercer, opened their new American Family Insurance Office at 401 E. Northtown Road in Kirksville, MO just a little over a year ago.

Sandra Williams, Executive Director for the Kirksville Area Chamber of Commerce recently visited with Adam about his experience this past year. Here’s how that conversation went:

Sandra: We saw many professionals evaluate work/life balance during the pandemic. Was that a factor in your decision to open your own insurance office?

Adam: Life/work balance has always been important to me. I don’t want to miss my three children growing up. Insurance business can be completed in many ways and the pandemic forced people to start using technology. Our agency utilizes text, zoom and other tools to help conduct business away from the office or outside office hours. This allows me to spend more time with my family.

Sandra: You had prior experience in the insurance industry, were you already familiar with this particular company or did you know the previous agent and did that influence your decision to open an American Family Insurance office?

Adam: I started my insurance career with State Farm in 2014 and then went to American Family Insurance to work for Paul Stevens. Right away I knew that American Family Insurance was a fantastic company. I have known Bill and Mary Mangini for years. He coached my wife’s softball team years ago even. Timing and location could not have been better for me and my family.

Sandra: What challenges did the pandemic provide and did they prolong your ability to open on schedule?

Adam: The pandemic caused multiple delays and made things more difficult. Contractors tested for covid so they could no longer work on our office at one point. The owner of the building did a fantastic job problem solving and helping us open on schedule.

Sandra: I know your wife Heather works together with you in the office. Any comments on why you knew that would work? Most couples wouldn’t even consider trying that arrangement.

Adam: We get a lot of comments about working together but we knew it could work. We worked together in the past for several years at HyVee.

Sandra: What has been the most unexpected challenge you’ve faced as a new business owner?

Adam: Our biggest challenge is no different than many other business, staffing.

Sandra: One last question, what advice do you have for someone considering starting their own business?

Adam: Never give up. I have been after my own business since 2014. At times it can be discouraging but keep working towards your goals.

Sandra: I’ve noticed that Adam Mercer talks about the importance of insuring your dreams. I’m sure that’s because he is busy living his dream. We wish you much success Adam & Heather.

project, and the Skate Park Project. She wrote that recent renovations include work at North Park and Rotary Park.

“It would include ADA accessibility where right now the wading pool is, that would allow more people access to the feature, she said in a presentation to the council on Monday, noting that the location is next to low-income housing, another reason the park was chosen for the splash pad.

Halstead said that the grant would be a 50/50 match, meaning the city would pay half the costs should the grant application be approved. The project would replace the current restrooms and a wading pool.

“This is a two-year grant, which means we will have two budget cycles to complete the project, and the necessary local match of 50 percent will be budgeted in the Parks and Recreation budget,” she wrote in her report, noting that the application is due Feb. 16.

A hearing was then held in which Halstead told the council that the city is currently interested in seeking a Recreational Trails Program (RTP) grant from the Missouri Department of Natural Resources Division of State Parks, to construct a paved multi-use trail at the North Park Complex.

“This project has been discussed with the City Council and is part of the long-term capital plan for parks,” Halstead wrote in her report to the council. “This is a three-year grant, and if awarded, we anticipate the work to begin in late 2023.”

She wrote that the grant funding will provide and maintain recreational trails and trail-related facilities for both motorized and non-motorized recreational use through its Recreational Trails Program (RTP).

The maximum amount of funding for trail construction is $250,000 this year, with a minimum 20 percent local match, and the application is also due Feb. 16.

“It is in the long-term capital plan for our parks to add this trail in,” Halstead told the council. “The biggest impact is an ADA-accessible trail that 50 percent will be paid for with a grant rather than local dollars.”

Later in the meeting, the council approved related resolutions for both projects.

Missouri man convicted at 14 of killing mom gets parole

Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A Missouri man who has insisted for more than 20 years that he was wrongly convicted as a teenager of killing his mother has been granted parole.

Attorneys for 37-year-old Michael Politte confirmed Tuesday that he had been given parole, the Kansas City Star reported. He is set to be released April 23 from the Jefferson City Correctional Center.

Politte was 14 years old in 1998 when, according to his lawyers, he found the burning body of his mother, Rita Politte, on the floor of their home in the eastern Missouri town of Hopewell as he and a friend, who said they awoke to smoke, scrambled to escape.

Investigators said the fire was started with gasoline and determined that Rita Politte had also suffered blunt force head trauma. The investigation focused on her teenage son as the main suspect and four years later, he was convicted as an adult of second-degree murder and sentenced to life in prison.

The Midwest Innocence Project and the MacArthur Justice Center, which both work to overturn wrongful convictions, have sought to exonerate Politte, saying he was convicted based on debunked science and a biased investigation.

A petition by Politte's attorneys last year seeking his release from prison faulted investigators who determined that the teen had gasoline on his shoes, which was the only physical evidence they said linked him to the crime. The findings were based on now-discredited fire investigation techniques, and the state has conceded that Politte did not have gas on his shoes, the attorneys said.

The petition said investigators ignored other potential suspects, including Politte's father, who was going through a difficult divorce with Rita Politte at the time of her killing.

Michael Politte's attorneys said Tuesday that his parole will not curtail their efforts to get him exonerated.

"We will continue to litigate in court to overturn his conviction," his lawyers said in a statement. "His release on parole means he can now continue this fight from home with his sisters."

on the committee but we have been having a lot of conversations with the city and there's a lot of things they're offering potentially to help us do, so that might be huge," said Board President Nan Davis.

Assistant Superintendent Tricia Reger said that timeline-wise, August was the goal to complete the project. The plan has been to hopefully have the project done for softball season in the fall. The high school baseball team would still play at North Park this upcoming spring.

"On any given day in the fall, you have band down in the middle of field, you've got track running around, you have soccer on one end and then football and soccer exchange, so it will be nice, even for our band to have that outfield to practice on," Reger said.

Boardmember John McConnell said he remembered a former coach hitting ground balls to players on the asphalt and the players running bases on asphalt as well. And during times of early freezing temps in the fall, or heavy rain in the spring, it hasn't been uncommon for the baseball and softball teams to practice on the turf football field.

"It's going to open up avenues for so many kids to get outside and do things that they otherwise would be trying to do in the gym," McConnell said.

Turf is becoming more prevalent in the area, particularly as spring seasons are getting wetter. Truman has installed a turf infield at its baseball field. Macon and Schuyler County are constructing new turf fields as well.

The council approved an ordinance granting historic landmark designation for a property at 1003 E. Illinois Street, known to most as either the Evans or Mikel House. It was built in the late 1800s. It is the 12th building in Kirksville to receive the historic landmark designation.

"I just think this is one of the coolest houses in Kirksville," said Councilmember John Gardner.

The council approved an updated fee schedule for use of Rieger Armory. With the Parks and Recreation overseeing the armory, Parks and Recreation Director Rodney Sadler proposed an updated fee schedule last October.

Sadler recommended a flat-rate structure of $25 per hour, $75 for four hours and $150 for a full day. There would also be a refundable $100 security/cleaning deposit. After discussions since October, it was decided that the security deposit won't be required for birthday parties.

Several vehicle purchases or leases were also approved by the council.

The city now has a lease with Altorfer Cat for an asphalt milling machine that will be used to rebuild city streets. It is a four-month lease worth $70,000.

A Bobcat T66 track loader was purchased from Bobcat of Columbia for $62,323.41. The previous track loader will be sold at auction.

A truck with snow equipment will be purchased to replace an old maintenance vehicle. The cost of that truck is $109,420.

The council unanimously approved a resolution recognizing Assistant Fire Chief David Rigdon, who retired on Feb. 2. Rigdon began his career on Jan. 17, 1989.

SHOOTING

Tracy saw the press release that identified Glover as a suspect in the triple murder about halfway to Kansas City. Court documents say she kept driving and nothing was said to Glover.

Near the city limits of Kansas City, Glover said he needed out. Tracy pulled over at an exit and Glover jumped out before she came to a full stop. He ran away and Tracy told police she had not contact with him after.

Glover was arrested at a motel near Belton on Jan. 10 by US Marshals and Missouri State Highway Patrol.

Cell phone records showed a one-minute call between Tracy and Glover just a few minutes before the shooting occurred.

In another interview with police on Jan. 5, Tracy was asked about that call before the shooting. She said did not remember a call at that time, though the detective had given her an incorrect time window.

Tracy showed her call logs to police, but they didn't go back far enough to show when the Dec. 30th call would have happened. The police report also says Tracy didn't have a contact saved with Glover's name.

Home security footage was later shown to police that showed Glover running through the backyard of a residence near West George street at 11:35 a.m. on Dec. 30, soon after the shooting. A white car that matches the description of Tracy's car appears near there and picked Glover up.

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Be realistic and honest regarding what you can achieve. Set guidelines that will help you maintain your integrity and honor your promises. How you deal with others will determine your success. You can be kind and considerate without letting others coerce you into doing something questionable. Be good to yourself. Focus on being your best and live in the moment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) -- Spend time with people who encourage you to follow your heart and dreams. Be true to yourself instead of letting someone dictate what's possible. Uncertainty will hold you back. Take control.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) -- Be honest and keep the peace. Use reason and incentives if you wish to reach common ground with friends, relatives or peers. Embrace positive suggestions and changes.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) -- Talk to someone who always has your back. The discussion will help you avoid making a mistake. You may be restless for a change of pace, but it must be the right move at the right time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) -- Leave nothing unfinished. Go over every detail yourself. Once you are satisfied, feel free to kick back and celebrate. A positive reaction from a loved one will boost your confidence.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) -- Plan your day carefully. Be sure to have updated paperwork to avoid problems with institutions or authority figures. Stick to facts and figures, and leave no room for error. Abide by the rules.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) -- Be realistic about what you have to offer or the direction you want to go. Consider what's required to reach your goal. Put together a solid plan and make needed adjustments.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) -- Keep an open mind, but don't believe everything you hear. Someone is likely to exaggerate or lead you to believe something that will encourage you to make a hasty decision.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) -- Make unique plans with a loved one. A social event will allow you to share your ideas with someone who can offer suggestions that will motivate you to move forward.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) -- Don't let anger prevail. Stand back and look at the big picture before you make a move or unwise comment. Know what you are up against and be prepared to handle matters responsibly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) -- Invest more time and money into your home or living arrangements. Think outside the box, and you'll come up with a responsible plan that will help you save money.

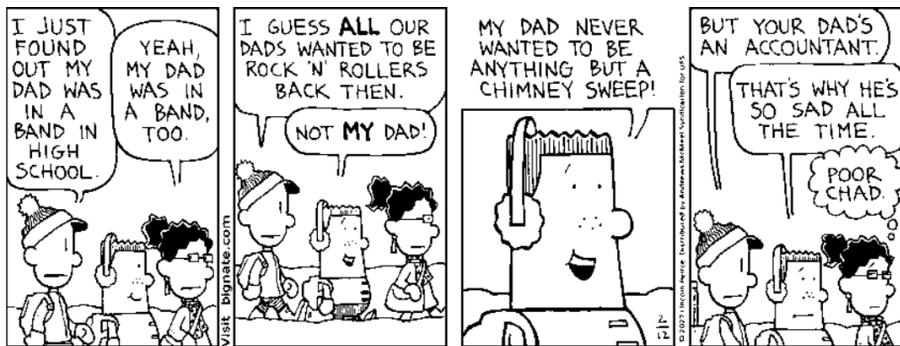

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) -- Emotions will surface over trivial matters that you neglected to address. Don't leave anything to chance or think that ignoring something will make it go away. Face the facts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) -- Be creative and take care of your responsibilities efficiently and with finesse. The options you choose will lead to positive changes. Love and romance are on the rise.

SUDOKU

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Try something new and exciting. Be open to suggestions and look at what's trending. Take your basic skills and then diversify. Expand your interests and make new connections. Personal growth will lead to new beginnings and opportunities that will help you become more vibrant. Don't settle for less when you can have so much more with a little effort.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) -- Bounce your ideas around. Get together with someone who is imaginative and quick to chime in. Actions will speak louder than words, so take the initiative and present what you have to offer.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) -- Open your doors to friends and family, or share something special with a loved one. You can make a difference if you give time, money or skills to a fundraiser or cause.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) -- Take time to relax and mull over where you are currently and where you see yourself heading. Look at change as an opportunity to start over or redefine how you want your life to unfold.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) -- Plan activities to get you up and physically active. Participate in events geared toward personal growth, fitness and overall better health. Share your feelings. Romance is on the rise.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) -- Put more thought into how you earn and handle your money. Refuse to let anyone influence you or push you into something risky. The wrong move will leave you with unwanted obligations.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) -- Share your feelings with a loved one. The discussion will help you get what you want and ease personal and financial stress. Don't let fear of change stand in your way.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) -- Offer suggestions, but don't take on someone else's obligations. Address personal affairs first, regardless of anyone trying to monopolize your time. Don't be afraid to say no.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) -- Relax and enjoy life. A makeover or physical change will fetch compliments. Gravitate toward the people and pastimes that make you happy. Socialize, make plans and participate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) -- Don't expect to persuade others to help you or take your side. Consider what you are up against and what you are trying to achieve, and concentrate on what you need to get things done.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) -- Look over your investments or what you have accumulated, and you'll discover you have more than you thought. Unload items you no longer need and transform your portfolio.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) -- Be careful what you wish for; if you make a sudden move, don't expect others to follow. Rethink your plans and map out the best way to reach your goal. Don't trust anyone who tries to upstage you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) -- A passionate approach will bring positive results. Dig in and get your hands dirty if it will get you closer to what you want. Don't be afraid to do things differently.

Truman cashes in on free throws to beat Quincy in physical matchup

By Austin Miller
Daily Express

Physical.

You only need one word to describe Thursday's battle between Truman and Quincy. The Bulldogs racked up frequent flyer miles at the free throw line, earning 32 trips and converting 26 times. That disparity between Quincy's 10-for-13 night from the stripe made the difference in a 93-86 win for the Bulldogs (16-6, 10-4 GLVC).

"I think that's probably why we won the game," said Truman coach Jeff Horner. "... We're a really good free-throw shooting team. ... When we get to the line, we're a really good team, especially when we're not shooting the 3 well."

Last year's Bulldog squad shot 78 percent from the line, the best mark in Truman history. This year's team is on a similar path, shooting 77 percent from the line. When the Bulldogs get those opportunities, they make the most of them.

"We put them up tonight. Luckily we were hitting them because in a close game, we needed those," said Truman guard Hunter Strait, who went 8-for-10 from the free-throw line and scored 21 points. "Came up big for us. We knew our shot wasn't really falling, so we wanted to attack the hoop, that turned into some fouls."

Both teams shot over 50 percent from the field in the first half. That cooled in the second half, both finishing at 33 percent in the second half. And as Truman struggled from deep — going 7-for-21 from 3 — that prompted them to push inside.

Truman led most of the way against their nearby rivals, roughly 75 percent of Thursday's contest. But the Bulldogs could never put the Hawks away. Truman led by as many as nine, but every time they'd make a run, Quincy (12-14, 5-11 GLVC) answered and cut right back.

mark, going ahead 83-74 after a 3-pointer from Elijah Hazekamp. Hazekamp turned in a double-double with 15 points and 12 rebounds. Quincy would fight back from that deficit to get close, but that breathing room sealed the deal.

Horner thought his team played solid defense for the first 10 minutes, then fell off a bit. He said Quincy is an interesting matchup since the Hawks use four guards on the floor a lot of the time. Since Truman has good forwards, Horner wants them on the floor. But there are times, like Thursday, where a fast guard can get around a good big.

Quincy's Jamaurie Coakley led the Hawks with 23 points. The Bulldogs had few answers for him. Paul Zilinskas also added 15, Jalen Stamps scored 12 and Adam Moore added 11. The Bulldogs only average 71.8 points allowed per night, so that's where some of Horner's frustrations were after the game.

"As much as I love offense, my whole thing is defense," Horner said. "Because at some point, you're going to miss shots or free throws, so you'll have to be able to guard. That's hurt us in the past already this year."

Reigning GLVC Player of the Year Cade McKnight had a game-high 25 points. But he didn't finish the game. He grabbed the rebound on a Quincy missed free throw with 1:44 left. His arm tangled with a Quincy player and McKnight was immediately in pain. He walked off the floor holding his left shoulder and sat the rest of the game with ice on it.

Horner said there has been a lingering shoulder issue for a few games after getting it bent backward. He said McKnight should get an MRI soon, though was hopeful he could play Saturday against Illinois-Springfield.

For the past four games, the Bulldogs have started freshman Trey Shearer at point guard. Horner moved Strait, a senior, to the bench because he wanted some veteran pop off the bench. That gameplan worked perfectly Thursday with Strait's output.

"I thought Hunter Strait played really well tonight, and that's exactly what we need," Horner said. "He's the type of the guy that can bring that for us. His minutes haven't really changed and he's finishing game, too. It doesn't matter who starts a game. ... What does mean? You get your name announced and people think you're awesome? ... I understand it, but at the same time, we have to do what we can do to win ballgames. Right now, I think that's beneficial for us."

Strait is still playing 25-plus minutes every night and is contributing in a similar fashion. If he hits the floor five minutes later than usual, he hasn't minded too much.

"Still try to be a leader of the team. The guys still look at me like that," Strait said. "Just kind of come in and do what I would do if I was starting. Just play my game, play hard, make plays for other people. And then guys feed off of that energy, that way we don't have a drop off when we do get out of that starting lineup."

And he'd prefer to be one of the five that finishes a game than starts.

"I just want to be in at the end, make those free throws, take care of the ball, that type of stuff. Start, you don't start, it is what it is. You just do what you can for the team," Strait said.

Truman women 'feed the beasts' to overcome slow start and beat Quincy

By Austin Miller
Daily Express

They might deem it ugly, but a win is still a win.

The Truman women's basketball team improved to 16-7 this season with a 58-48 win over Quincy on Thursday night, one its lowest scoring outings of the year.

That ugliness came in the first quarter with a slow offensive start and lacking defense. The Bulldogs shot 3-for-14 in the opening quarter to help the Hawks (6-17, 2-13 GLVC) take a 15-6 lead.

Guard Hannah Belanger, who had a game-high 20 points, said defense with the guards lacked, allowing Quincy's guards to have free lanes at times.

"Luckily we have post players in the right spot at the right time," Belanger said. "When the guards got past us, they helped out in the paint. That's what (the game) came down to. Obviously, it doesn't hurt that our posts get almost every single defensive rebound."

Truman's (16-7, 12-3 GLVC) offense continued to have hiccups, but its defense settled in. Quincy was kept to 9 points in the second quarter. Truman doubled that total to tie the game at 24 at half-time.

The Bulldogs' offense looked to finally have some legs in the second half, starting the third quarter on a 13-0 run and holding the Hawks scoreless for nearly five minutes.

"I told them that first five minutes would dictate how the game goes," said Truman coach Theo Dean. "We came out strong, got a couple things in transition, got it inside to our post players, got to the free-throw line a few times, and really focused in on defense for those first five minutes. I really do think that was the difference in the game."

Truman's bigs powered the third-quarter rally. Ellie Weltha scored six, and Maddie Re and Allison Thomas scored four each. That's 14 of the Bulldogs' 17 points in the quarter.

"I call it 'feeding our beasts.' By that I mean feeding Ellie and A.T. That's what I call it," Belanger said. "They started off, brought the energy for us and things got going."

Quincy rallied in the third, answering Truman's 13-0 run with a 7-0 run to finish the quarter. That saw Truman lead 41-40 heading to the fourth.

Truman's defense locked in again, holding Quincy to eight points in the fourth to win. Going 9-for-11 from the free-throw line certainly helped.

Weltha finished with 14 points and seven rebounds. Re had a resurgent night on the glass, grabbing 15 rebounds.

She was the program's top rebounder two seasons ago, but missed last year due to a back injury. She is back in the lineup, but with Weltha and Thomas, Re is an uber hybrid between guard and forward.

"It kind of felt good to get back and get some boards," Re said. "I've been more limited in that aspect this season, so it felt good."

Knox County boys feel like they're gaining steam at the right time

By Austin Miller
Daily Express

There are certainly players who can do big things at Knox County.

That sentiment is a little more literal once you watch the Eagles in action. With forwards Nelson Shinkle and Jacob Becker, who stand in at 6-foot-7 and 6-foot-6, that's an unmatched height advantage for this area. So some would expect those guys to just take-over any game and do whatever that wanted.

That isn't the case and the Eagles (11-9) started this season on shaky ground. But going 8-3 in the new year to pull themselves over .500, the Eagles hope to keep this positive momentum going through the last few weeks of the regular season and into districts.

"We knew at the beginning of the season that we should've been better than we were playing at the beginning of the season," Becker said. "We had slumps, weren't playing as a functional team yet. It's starting to show now that we are playing as a team and it's working out for us."

When Nathan Miller returned to his alma mater this year after two years at Brashear, he expected some growing pains as he installed his principles. And with Shinkle being a freshman last season, he wasn't always on the floor with Becker, so they needed time to gel, too.

Add in injuries and sicknesses and Knox limped out the gate and lost its last five games of 2021.

With Shinkle and Becker's height, most teams won't play man-to-man defense because they can't match it, leaving the Eagles to play against a lot of zone defenses. And as the team had little to no outside shooting at the start of the season, other teams just focused on the big guys.

Now getting 3-pointers out of the backcourt with guys like Tanner Gillaspay, Braydon Miller and Branson Miller, and even some from the post players like Kellen Parrish, those skilled bigs have more room to operate.

"Being able to hold other teams accountable in zone (defense) because of the towers we have down low, that's a big part that we didn't have initially," said coach Nathan Miller. "At one point I think we were even shooting single digits from the 3-point line. When you go from that to (only missing one against Scotland), we're starting to click at the right time."

When systems are full-go for the Eagles, they are a fun team to watch. Obviously that starts with Shinkle and Becker. Shinkle has good hands, controls the ball well, and has range to shoot from outside. Becker is also solid with the basketball and agile, which is expected since he ran on a state champion relay team for the Eagles last spring. And, well, they can both dunk.

Those guys aren't just sitting in the paint and waiting for passes either. They play away from the basket and can create their own shots and lanes to rim. That helps everyone, as it did Tuesday in a win over Scotland County, where eight Eagles scored.

"When you've got a big that can pass like they do ... it's pretty hard to defend, especially if they can score, too," Miller said. "You've got two of them, though, so it's even tougher. They're playing good ball right now and feeding off of each other."

The big challenge for the Eagles is playing to full potential against the tougher teams in the area. Nine of their losses have come to teams with winning records. That list includes Putnam County (17-1), North Shelby (15-5), Harrisburg (16-6), Westran (20-2) and Milan (15-8).

Putnam is the opponent that sticks out the most since the Midgets and Eagles will probably be the top two seeds for the Class 2 District 6 tournament. Putnam won a Jan. 25 meeting by 20.

Improved focus leading up to game will be key.

"Definitely continuing to bring the energy at practice," Shinkle said. "We come in wanting to get better everyday, then that helps us to be able to accomplish wins in a game."

Knox County has four games left on the schedule before districts begin on Feb. 21 in Queen City.

"Ultimately, we've been playing some really good ball, really fun ball to watch," Miller said. "Whenever we have the bench engagement that we have, we have people in the community come support us like we do, it's just a fun environment to be apart of — and I think we're clicking at the right time."

Burrow's scrambling helps Bengals reach Super Bowl

By JOSH DUBOW
AP Pro Football Writer

Nearly every time the Kansas City Chiefs got pressure on Joe Burrow in the AFC championship game, he managed to pull off a surprising escape.

That ability to get out of trouble with his legs is one of Burrow's best traits and a big reason why he has the Cincinnati Bengals playing in the Super Bowl.

"That adds a whole other dimension to our offense," offensive coordinator Brian Callahan said. "His ability to extend plays, go off-script, do anything that involves moving the pocket and moving the landmarks for the receivers and let those guys go create has generated a number of explosive plays and first downs over the course of the year. He's got a great natural feel for moving in the pocket. It's a huge part of playing quarterback in the NFL these days. Guys have to be able to do that. He does it as good as anybody else."

Burrow was at his best in that during the AFC championship game win at Kansas City when he turned three sure sacks into third-down conversions with his legs, becoming the first player since Colin Kaepernick nine years ago to run for three first downs in a playoff game when a team needed at least 5 yards for a first down.

Burrow also converted on a third-and-1 run, becoming the fourth player at any position to convert at least four first downs with his legs in a playoff game in the past 10 seasons.

"He's found a lot of different ways for us to win these games, and that's part of the development of playing, is knowing how to play quarterback and doing whatever the game requires," Callahan said. "He knew against Kansas City that he was going to have to run the ball a few times if they're going to double guys and play some coverage structures where there were no eyes on the quarterback. He knew going into the game that would be a big part of it and it was."

Burrow's pocket movement is a big part of Cincinnati's offense with his ability to extend plays helping receivers such as Ja'Marr Chase, Tee Higgins and Tyler Boyd get open downfield for explosive gains.

Burrow was tied for fifth in the NFL in the regular season with six TD passes thrown on the run, according to NFL NextGen stats and led the league with 10.7 yards per attempt when extending plays.

He's increased the frequency of scrambling and running as the season has gone on as he becomes more confident in his left knee that underwent reconstructive surgery during his rookie season in 2020.

"It's night and day from the first half of the season," Burrow said. "I wasn't really able to do any of that the first half. I've really started to come into my own in that in that sense, making plays, extending plays. That's something I've always been able to do, and I'm starting to finally feel like myself and able to pull out of some of those tackles when defensive players have me wrapped up in the pocket and I'm starting to be able to get out of those situations and make some plays."

Returning to the Los Angeles area for the biggest game of his young career seems appropriate for Burrow, who had his knee surgery done in Los Angeles in December 2020 by Rams team physician Neal ElAttrache.

Burrow spent plenty of time rehabbing in the area that he even watched the draft in April at the home of Andrew Whitworth, the former Bengals and current Rams left tackle.

All those hours spent working with Bengals rehabilitation director Nick Cosgray have paid off and now Burrow will have a much rewarding return trip to Southern California.

"It was a long and grueling process," he said. "Nick really helped me get back to the player that I was before. I wouldn't be having the season that I had without him and all the hard work that he put in."

Coach Zac Taylor has seen the gradual progress since training camp when Burrow needed extra time off to deal with lingering soreness and the AFC title game when his Houdini-like evasion skills proved so important.

"I think it got more comfortable closer to the bye and we started to say, 'OK, he looks like he's back 100%,'" Taylor said. "It's hard to ever guess how far along he is, but we could see his confidence growing and his movement skills and certainly this back half of the season he looks like the guy that played for us last year pre-injury."

With contract extension, Berube excited about Blues' future

By JIM SALTER
Associated Press

Craig Berube, the only Stanley Cup-winning coach in St. Louis Blues history, is sticking around to lead a team he thinks can "do some damage."

On Thursday, a day after the Blues announced a three-year contract extension to keep him on the bench through the 2024-25 season, Berube said he is excited about the future of his team. Led by young stars such as 23-year-old Jordan Kyrou and 22-year-old Robert Thomas, the Blues are in fourth place in the Western Conference's Central Division.

"I think we've got a real good hockey team here going forward and we can do some damage, so I'm excited," Berube said at a news conference.

Berube, 56, played 1,054 games for Philadelphia, Toronto, Calgary, Washington and the New York Islanders, with 61 goals, 98 assists — and 3,149 penalty minutes. He coached the Flyers for two seasons (2013-2015).

Berube was an assistant to Blues coach Mike Yeo when the team got off to a 7-9-3 start during the 2018-19 season. Yeo was fired in November and Berube took over as interim coach for a team that eventually dropped to last overall in January.

After that, the Blues went 30-10-5 and they beat Winnipeg, Dallas and San Jose to advance to the Stanley Cup Final for the first time in 49 years. Once there, they stunned the favored Boston Bruins in seven games, culminating with a 4-1 Game 7 win in Boston.

The championship stirred strong emotions in St. Louis, coming just three years after the black eye left by the NFL's Rams' departure to Los Angeles. Hundreds of thousands of people turned out for a beer-soaked victory parade and a massive rally on the grounds of the Gateway Arch.

General manager Doug Armstrong lifted the interim tag and Berube signed a three-year contract that would have ended after this season. Armstrong said talks on the new three-year deal began around Christmas.

"He's able to deliver a firm but strong message," Armstrong said of Berube, adding that the players "accept it. They understand the style of play he wants to incorporate. It's a style of play I think we can win with."
