Kirksville police track down man who attempted to evade them

Staff Reports

Kirksville police arrested a man wanted by the State of Missouri Department of Corrections for a parole violation and warrants out of Schuyler County the morning of March 25. According to Kirksville police, Anthony “Andy” Clark was taken into custody after fleeing from police who witnessed a traffic violation in the area of S. Osteopathy and Normal streets.

“The vehicle made several quick maneuvers and fled from the officer,” Kirksville police said in a press release. “The vehicle eventually turned westbound on Missouri Street and exited the Kirksville City Limits on Missouri Trail.”

According to the report, the officer discontinued attempts to stop the vehicle with emergency lights and siren but continued on the last known path of the suspect vehicle.

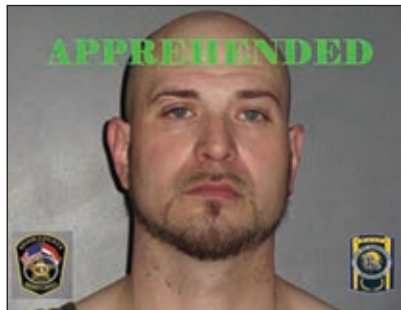

A short time later that same officer located the car stuck in the mud on Missouri Trail, just prior to Orrick Trail. The officer engaged in a short foot pursuit of Clark before taking him into custody.

Clark was wanted in Schuyler County for resisting arrest and a traffic offense. New charges relating to the Kirksville arrest are pending. Kirksville police said that local law enforcement had recently been attempting to locate and arrest Clark in reference to his warrants.

Clark was previously featured as Kirksville Police Department’s “Fugitive of the Week” in March 2014, before being apprehended later that same year.

The Kirksville Police Department were assisted by the Adair County Sheriff’s Office, Kirksville Utility Maintenance Departments.

Truman and Kirksville R-III Partner on Composting Project

By Truman State University

Truman State University and the Kirksville R-III School District are working together to reduce food waste and contribute to locally grown produce.

Since January, the Truman Compost Project has worked with students at Ray Miller Elementary to collect food scraps from the school. The materials are used at Truman’s University Farm to create finished compost, which in turn is donated back to Ray Miller Elementary for use in the school’s Outdoor Garden Classroom. The idea to expand the Truman Compost Project originated with Michael Seipel, chair of the Agricultural Science Department.

“I am passionate about reducing food waste,” Seipel said. “I thought that expanding the Truman Compost Project to include Kirksville public schools could help educate the community about the importance of reducing food waste through educating the community’s youth about food waste and composting.”

The partnership had been in the works since February 2020, but was put on hold at the onset of the pandemic. It was rekindled last fall when Tiffany Miller, the garden educator at Ray Miller Elementary, reached out to the Agricultural Science Department for some finished compost for the school’s garden. Representatives from both schools worked together to implement the program in January 2022.

Kelli Hunsicker, the outdoor education coordinator and a fifth grade teacher, hopes participating in the program will show Ray Miller students how they can limit their food waste by reusing it to help nourish new plants and vegetables.

“The best thing about our outdoor education program is that students get a new experience learning to grow their own food,” Hunsicker said. “Now that we have added the compost project, they can see the process of reusing our food to break down and make compost that will go back into the garden to grow new food.”

Council approves new speed limits for N. East Street and E. Rena Street

Council passes three resolutions at March 21 meeting

By Marty Bachman
Kirksville Daily Express

The Kirksville City Council passed three resolutions at its March 21 regular meeting. The first resolution updated the traffic and motor vehicle schedule as authorized by the city's municipal code.

Kirksville Police Chief Scott Williamson told the council that the resolution originated from a citizen concern that the speed limit for N. East Street between Northtown and Dear Street was too fast. He said that city engineers did a traffic study where they used radar that recorded how many cars passed by and how fast they were going — and based on what they saw, 450 vehicles on average use the street daily at speeds of between 35 and 40 mph. He said that with just one collision on the road, it is actually a road with a medium risk of collision.

Williamson said that the engineers recommended the speed limit be reduced to 25 and that there was a small street off of N. East Street, E. Rena Street, which is narrow and has one side parking, that the department felt was best to have reduced to 25 mph as well.

"I am in support of these recommendations," Williamson told the council.

Councilmember Jessica Parks said that she thought it was great the city was able to receive feedback from the community and that they had the technology and ability to do the studies and react accordingly.

The council voted unanimously to approve the resolution.

A second resolution covered the acceptance of a bid from Stanton Contracting for the construction of multi-modal sidewalks on Baltimore Street from New Street to U.S. Hwy. 6 West to complete the 2018 Transportation Alternatives Program.

City Manager Mari Macomber told the council that back in 2018, the city had applied for a grant from the Missouri Department of Transportation (MoDOT) to build the sidewalk on the east side of the road and a portion along a part of Hwy. 6. She said that in the course of the design, the city found out it had a problem with the traffic signal at Hwy. 6 and it would cost an additional million dollars in order for the city to use it. She said that the city worked with MoDOT to find a solution and that the solution was to create a crossing at Northtown Road. The city would then build a sidewalk along the west side of the road in addition to the east side.

The original project budget was $507,000 but the bid came in at $398,000. Macomber said that the council is required to see if the recommendation and vendor is acceptable to the granting source and that it meets federal requirements.

"Again, we were hoping to have this done last year," Macomber told the council. "So we're hoping, let's get this done, let's get the work done so then we'll have connectivity of sidewalk all up and down Baltimore. It'll be great, it'll tie into the project that will be forthcoming to add the center turn lane further north."

Councilmember John Gardner said he thought it was a great thing and that a lot of people walk on Baltimore and he's always worried that they're going to get hit and that it would be bad for everybody involved.

"I think this will increase safety for our community quite a bit," Gardner said.

Mayor Zac Burden said he liked the idea of being able to use different modes of transportation from the north end of town to the south end.

"I'm glad we're able to adapt in a way that's a little less expensive than purchasing those new lights but still able to provide for some additional opportunities for seniors living there," he said.

"I'm definitely in favor of this." The council voted unanimously to approve the resolution.

A third resolution addressed a second amendment to the engineering design services for a residential street improvements agreement with Klingner and Associates of Quincy, Ill.

Public Works Director Glenn Balliew told the council the project was began several years ago where they were going to do paving work in the old Factory Addition but found that drainage was an issue and that they were going to need a design done. He said that the design had reached about 90 percent of being finished when a new city engineer came on board.

He said that they met with Klingner and Associates and went over the work that needed to be completed; the design and survey of the fiber lines, some utility stuff and the design of the ditch in the right-of-way, the cost of which will be $45,500.

"I want to caution everyone that once this gets done, there's still easements that have to be put in place from the property owners," he said. "If you've worked with easements you know, that can sometimes take awhile."

He said they will begin to work toward relocating utilities and that there are some trees that need to come down, which he said will disappoint some people.

"I just want to caution everyone that this may not go as fast as a lot of people would like it to go just because of the process," he said. "We would like to go do it right away but when you get into those property easements, sometimes that can take time."

Burden said that he was in favor of the project and that there are areas of town that have never received the infrastructure support they needed.

"This is fantastic," he said. "I think it's why the council is still very much in favor of moving forward with this project."

The council approved the resolution with a unanimous vote

PROJECT

At the end of their lunch shift, children at Ray Miller Elementary separate compostable food scraps, napkins and paper towels from non-compostable trash. Twice a week Truman students visit the school to help with the process and pick up materials.

"The students were really excited when Mrs. Tiffany explained the project to them. They couldn't wait to get started," Hunsicker said. "It has been helpful that Truman students have been able to be here during lunch a few days a week to help students sort their lunch trays. Students are always willing to help other students figure out what needs to go where."

Ray Miller Elementary will ultimately use the finished product in its Outdoor Garden Classroom, which grows different fruits and vegetables for use at the school.

The district has a similar program at the primary school that might eventually join the collaboration.

"This is meant to be an ongoing partnership," Seipel said. "If it is successful, and if the Compost Project has enough student labor and resources, we would like to expand it to other buildings in the Kirksville R-III District."

Since its inception in 2004, the Truman Compost Project primarily collects food scraps from the campus dining halls and Student Union Building. The project also partners with Rot Riders, a student organization that offers to pick up food scraps from Kirksville residents for composting. A pre-pandemic student research project estimated the Truman Compost Project collected approximately 142,000 pounds of food scraps during the 2018 academic year. More information about the Truman Compost Project can be found at compost.truman.edu.

This is the second year of a three-year treatment plan. City officials say significant progress was made during the first year and the city is optimistic that this three-year plan will get this invasive weed to a manageable level. If this process must be postponed due to weather, adequate notice will be provided to the public and all affected parties.

Forest Lake is a drinking source lake that provides water for all Adair County residents. This program for treatment of curly-leaf pondweed has been approved by the Missouri Department of Natural Resources. The city will draw water from Hazel Creek Lake — the city's other drinking source lake — during this treatment process. City officials say the city is committed to providing quality drinking water to all of Adair County.

ASTROGRAPH BY EUGENIA LAST

Take the high road. Pursue your goals with strength, courage and intelligence. How you handle others will pay off. Aim for personal and financial stability, and put your mind at rest, knowing you have done the best you can. Physical and emotional improvements are favored, and working with a strong team is recommended.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) -- Take stock of what you've done and what's left to do. Taking an energetic approach and reaching out to those who complement your skills and share your mindset will encourage success.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) -- Control your emotions when working alongside others. Making a change without consulting others will cause havoc. Use your power of persuasion to get others to do things your way.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) -- Stick to instructions. Be wary of anyone who tries to lure you down a slippery slope. Temptation is the enemy, and intelligence and practicality will be necessary. Romance is apparent.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) -- Keep your thoughts to yourself and do your own thing. You'll leave others wondering what you'll do next. A modern approach will capture the moment and put you in the spotlight.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) -- Making a change based on your emotions could cost you. Think matters through before you act. Run your ideas by someone you love and trust, and together you'll come up with a solid plan.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) -- Get into the groove and make your move. You have plenty going for you, so don't let anyone stand in your way. Be a leader, look at the big picture and focus on reaching your goals.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) -- Participate in events that give you the platform you need to show everyone who you are and what you have to offer. Share your thoughts and intentions with someone who can help you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) -- Refuse to let anyone goad you into an argument. Gravitates toward people who encourage you to use your skills uniquely and live life your way. Make happiness your long-term goal.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) -- Listen carefully, but don't get into a debate with someone looking for a fight. Focus on professional gains and taking care of your responsibilities. Discipline will be required.

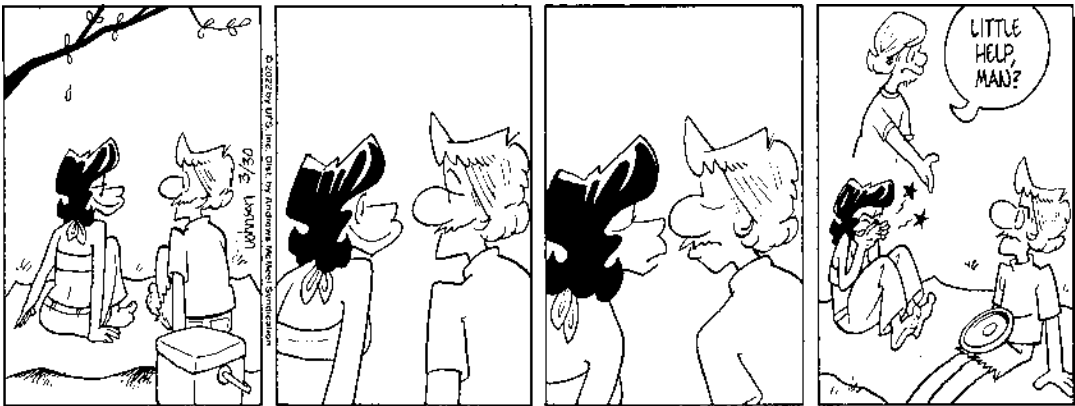

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) -- Work behind the scenes putting together a foolproof plan that will tip the scale in your favor. Precision and attention to detail will ensure that you gain momentum and get things done.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) -- Set your sights on accomplishment. Wasting time on something that doesn't fit your lifestyle, budget or skill set will leave you in a vulnerable position. Don't be a follower.

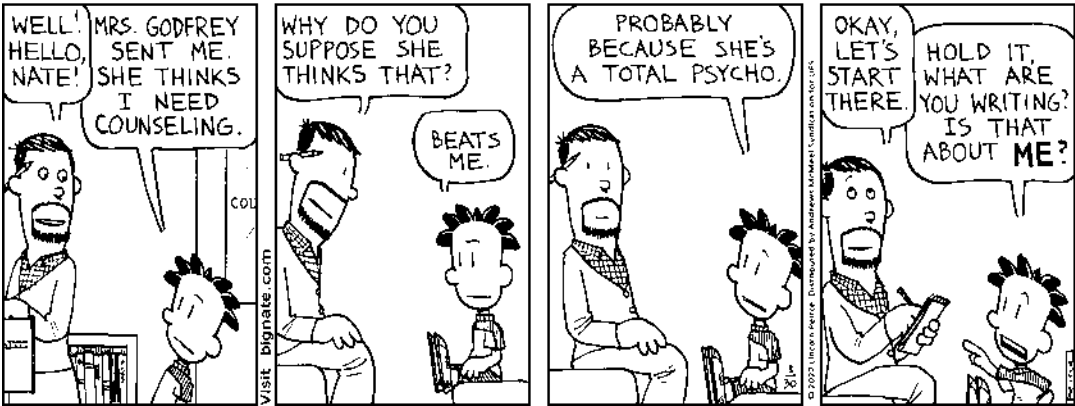

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) -- Pay attention to others while letting your imagination run free. You are overdue for a change that will make you feel content and give you peace of mind. Follow a path that brings you joy.

An impulsive move will be to your detriment and take much longer to reverse than you anticipate. Put your energy where it will do the most good, and ensure that you leave nothing undone. Stipulate your concerns and goals when dealing with people who offer good advice and hands-on help. Exhibit self-control.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) -- Speak your mind and oversee anything you want others to do correctly. You'll get plenty of help, but it won't all be adequate. Consistency and responsibility are necessary if you're going to reach your mark.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) -- Look inward and make adjustments that soothe your soul. Put an end to what makes you unhappy and take charge of your life. Be responsible and make decisions that promote self-improvement.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) -- Put your heart into whatever you choose to do, and don't let anyone lead you astray. Take the initiative, think for yourself and do what's right and best for you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) -- Let your actions speak for you. Dive into what's important to you, and you'll overcome any barrier you encounter. Expand your skills and qualifications, and seek help from experts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) -- Distance yourself from anyone making unrealistic moves. Don't jeopardize your position or reputation or take responsibility for someone's blunder. Stand your ground and protect your rights.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) -- Take pride in what you do and share what you discover with people working to achieve similar results. A partnership that brings out the best in you looks promising. Pursue educational opportunities.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) -- It's up to you to revise your schedule to help you achieve your goals. You can't depend on others to make you happy, but you can strive to do so yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) -- Test the water and head in a direction that makes you feel good about yourself and your efforts. Enlightenment and personal growth will help you attain the serene mindset you're after.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) -- Explore possibilities, but don't believe everything you hear. If something sounds too good to be true, ask questions. Avoid temptation and indulgence, and work to find the truth.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) -- You'll gain insight into what's possible. Consider how to tweak your skills to suit trends, and you'll discover a path that leads to success. A domestic change is encouraged.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) -- Don't look around when you need to focus on what's in front of you. Consider what you enjoy doing and how you can add to your qualifications to help you excel. Don't make a move prematurely.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) -- Let your emotions and intuition lead the way, and you'll discover how to incorporate your dreams into your routine. Procrastination will be your enemy today, so get moving.

Missouri 4-H youth participate in Unlock Ag Innovations Challenge

By Mana Calvert
State 4-H Agriculture and Natural Resources Educator

COLUMBIA — Twenty 4-H teen leaders are ready to teach others how to use their critical thinking skills to take part in solving a real-world agriculture challenge through the 2022 4-H Ag Innovators Experience (4-H AIE) Unlock Ag Innovations Challenge.

Hands-on activities will challenge youth to apply STEM skills to better understand the innovative tools, practices and technologies farmers are using to make farming more environmentally sustainable. Participating youth will learn what these new technologies are, how they are being used to feed the world, and how these innovations can benefit both farmers and communities worldwide.

The collaborative, interactive challenge will help youth across Missouri:

- Identify the technology careers that today's food and agriculture industries require.
- Understand how advancing technologies in each part of the food production system are necessary to feed the world.
- Understand that technology can empower farmers, consumers and others in the food value chain to contribute to environmental sustainability.

Teens participating include Ava Walker from Adair County

The 4-H Ag Innovators Experience, presented by National 4-H Council and Bayer, challenges youth to use STEM skills to solve a real-world issue while also driving youth awareness of, and interest in, agriculture innovation and agriculture careers. Students in Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Kansas, Nebraska, and Missouri will have the opportunity to participate in the Unlock Ag Innovations Challenge throughout the spring and summer.

More than 50,000 members strong, Missouri 4-H is an active, dynamic organization of young people who are learning, growing and preparing to be the leaders of today and tomorrow – making a real difference in their community, country and world. 4-H is the youth development program of the University of Missouri and the nation's Cooperative Extension System. For more information on Missouri 4-H, visit 4h.missouri.edu.

Astronomy events in conjunction with Truman State University and the state park will be scheduled at the lake. The library owns its own telescopes.

Livestock Symposium seeks nominations for Livestock Achievement Award

Staff Reports

The Missouri Livestock Symposium is currently accepting nominations for the new Missouri Livestock Achievement Award. This award recognizes an individual or organization demonstrating outstanding achievements and distinguished contributions to the livestock industry. Eligible applicants can be producers of livestock, agribusiness personnel, agency personnel or agriculture educators in the state of Missouri. Other parties who have been long-time supporters of the Missouri livestock industry will also be considered.

According to committee chairman, Garry Mathes, this new award combines the Missouri Livestock Person of the Year and Agriculture Educator's Lifetime Achievement Awards and replaces them with one award that's more inclusive and recognizes livestock industry leaders from across the state. Mathes stated, "our previous awards were localized to Northeast Missouri and the committee would like to expand and recognize leaders in the livestock industry across our state."

Vice-chairman, Zac Erwin states "the committee reflected on making changes that continue to expand our program into the livestock community and streamline our Friday night program." Erwin added, "we know there are individuals, business and agency personnel, and educators that have made tremendous contributions to the livestock industry in this state and beyond, and we want to recognize them for their career achievements."

The selected applicant will become a member of the Missouri Livestock Symposium Hall of Fame and will be inducted during the Friday evening program of the Missouri Livestock Symposium on December 2.

The award nomination form can be found at missourilivestock.com, by emailing missourilivestock@gmail.com, or by contacting the Adair County Extension office at 660-665-9866.

The Missouri Livestock Symposium is Dec. 2 and 3 at the William Mathew Middle School. Go to missourilivestock.com or our Facebook page @MissouriLivestock for more details.

Kirksville’s Johnny Boyer not thinking about state golf tournament quite yet

By Austin Miller
Daily Express

A team featuring several new faces and young players — and plenty of ugly weather to disrupt their preseason practices — Kirksville boys golf coach Derek Allen doesn’t yet know what to expect for this season.

But he knows his No. 1 player is set for another big year.

Johnny Boyer steps into his junior year after taking seventh at the Class 3 state tournament last spring. After the Tigers didn’t have a state qualifier since 2016, Boyer brought an all-state medal back to Kirksville.

So there are expectations for Boyer to get better and better and make his way up the state leaderboard. That’s something he wants to do, but state isn’t on his radar yet.

“Not until we’re closer to it,” Boyer said.

His primary goal is to have fun on the course. He also wants to shoot under par at a tournament this year, which he thinks is possible. He knows the state tournament is two months away, so his mind isn’t looking ahead to rounds at Crown Pointe Golf Club. Allen thinks that is a good mindset to have for the season.

“You’ve got to take one day at a time,” Allen said. “He’s got to play his round at Macon first, then he’s got to play his round at Centralia on Thursday. Taking each shot one day at a time, taking each round one day at a time. I think that’s what he did at state. He got himself in some pickles at state but he was able to get out of them because he stayed present, stayed in the moment. That’s not easy for a high school kid to do, especially one that had success last year and has expectations for this year. I think he does a good job of that.”

Boyer said nerves got to him at times during his state rounds last year. Having been there, done that and gotten those out of the way, he starts this year in a good place.

“I just proved to myself that I can get to that point, and I know my abilities,” Boyer said. “Then, I wasn’t even playing to my ability or my best. I’m playing way better now, which gives me a lot more confidence going in to this year.”

That comes as he feels even more confidence in his golfing. Boyer added some new equipment to his bag this year, which he said is making shots more accurate. He has been happy with his drives and his already-solid short game looks even better.

So that sets up what should be a great strategy for Boyer. If his drives can stay on line and give him a shot to get on the green efficiently, he’ll always have a chance to score well.

Senior Hayden Tarr is Kirksville’s only other returner from varsity last year. Since Allen knows Boyer and Tarr, he’s confident in what they can do. He expects Boyer to make a state run and he believes Tarr will push for a state appearance.

Sam Wilson is out for his first season of high school golf, though Allen said he has plenty of competitive golf experience. So Wilson should be third in the lineup. And senior Cameron Houser is at No. 4. Allen said No. 5 remains up in the air and could change from week to week.

And aside from just being the No. 1 on the course, Boyer is trying to take on the team leadership that comes with that.

“This is an individual sport, but obviously, we do it as a team,” Allen said. “So there’s a weird variety there of trying to balance your individuality and the team aspect. Obviously, he’s a really good golfer, and it would be really easy for him to go off and do his own thing. But he doesn’t. One through 13, he communicates with the guys, he talks to them. ... He’s working with guys whose swings are way different than his, but saying, ‘Try this, try that.’”

“The kids on the team around him know he’s talented, so seeing when he’s willing to help, I think it makes them feel good about the growth of their game.”

Under-the-radar 1 seed? Jayhawks flying high to Final Four

Duke and North Carolina are likely to get the most attention going into the Final Four this weekend

By DAVE SKRETTA
AP Basketball Writer

Kansas has only trailed for about 24 minutes through its first four games in the NCAA Tournament, and in both its opener against Texas Southern and its regional final against Miami, the margin of victory was more than 25 points.

Yet somehow, the Jayhawks are flying down to the Final Four under the proverbial radar.

Most of the attention heading into the national semifinals Saturday night will no doubt center on Duke and North Carolina, the two storied programs that have met hundreds of times but never in the NCAA Tournament. And not only will that first matchup come in the Final Four, it will come in the final trip for retiring Blue Devils coach Mike Krzyzewski.

Even in the Jayhawks’ own semifinal, more attention is sure to be heaped on Villanova, whose quest for coach Jay Wright’s third national championship was dealt a blow by a devastating injury to star guard Justin Moore.

You’d never guess the Jayhawks were the only 1-seed left in the tournament, and even the oddsmakers at Fanduel have made the Blue Devils the favorite to win the national championship.

“I’ve thought all along that this was a possibility but I’ve also thought all along that the margin for error wasn’t such where we could get loose and have it be a probability,” said Kansas coach Bill Self, back to the Final Four for the fourth time.

Welcome back: Pujols returns to Cardinals for a final season

By Chuck King
Associated Press

With a wave of his hand and a tip of the cap, Albert Pujols walked back into the world of the St. Louis Cardinals for one final season.

“This is it for me,” the 42-year-old Pujols said Monday. “This is my last run.”

It was quite a scene as Pujols rejoined the Redbirds. Wearing a big smile and his familiar red No. 5 jersey, he emerged from beyond the right field wall at Roger Dean Stadium between the first and second innings of a game against Houston.

Cardinals pitchers, catchers and coaches sitting on chairs far down the line stood to acknowledge the three-time NL MVP, as did the fans in the stands. Pujols strolled to the St. Louis dugout on the first base side, where he was greeted with hearty hugs and high-fives.

“I had to put a little smile on,” Pujols said. “I was getting a little emotional.”

All these years later, the slugger who helped the Cardinals win two World Series championship was home.

The Cardinals and Pujols agreed to a $2.5 million, one-year contract, giving him a chance to end his career in the place where it started. He returns with 679 career home runs.

“Seldom does one get to share in watching or being a part of ‘living’ history,” Cardinals President of Baseball Operations John Mozeliak said. “From the day we called Albert’s name in the draft room back in 1999, to now, as we set our sights on 2022, this reunion just makes sense in so many ways.”

“We are all looking forward to reuniting Albert with his Cardinals family, and for the fan in all of us, including myself, this feels like looking through the pages of a favorite scrapbook or baseball card album and seeing those images and memories jump off the pages.”

Pujols spent part of Monday video conferencing with 39-year-old Cardinals catcher Yadier Molina, his teammate during eight seasons in St. Louis.

“I’m happy for him to be here,” said Molina, who likely is in his final season. too. “It’s going to be a fun year.”

Pujols played the first 11 years of his career in St. Louis, teaming with Molina to lead the Cardinals to the 2006 and 2011 World Series titles.

“We’ve only got one thing in mind – winning another championship,” Molina said.

Pujols arrived at the clubhouse in the morning and found Adam Wainwright, who was set to start against the Astros, taking a pregame nap.

Pujols eagerly am-bushed his former teammate.

“I had about a minute and a half left until my alarm went off and I just felt a giant man on top of me. I just started smiling. Everybody was laughing because I was like only one person would wake me up like that,” Wainwright said.

Prior to Monday’s Grapefruit League game, Cardinals center fielder Harrison Bader posted a photo on social media of what appeared to be a No. 5 Pujols jersey hanging in a Cardinals’ locker.

Pujols doesn’t swing nearly as fearsome a bat as he did during his St. Louis hey-day, but the Cardinals decided they have a spot for a designated hitter who can hit left-handed pitching.

That’s one thing Pujols still does well.

Pujols hit a combined .236 for the Los Angeles Angels and Dodgers last season, but hit .294 with a .939 OPS against lefties.

“I think I am here for a reason,” he said. “They believe I can still play this game.”

Pujols needs 21 homers to become the fourth career major leaguer to hit 700 in a career.

“Adding someone like that is crazy important,” first-year manager Oliver Marmol said. “What he does with that clubhouse outside of his skill set is unbelievable.”

The NL Rookie of the Year in 2001 hit at least .300 with at least 30 homers and 100 RBIs in each of his first 10 seasons in St. Louis.

A wildly popular player in St. Louis, Pujols played his last game for the Cardinals on Oct. 28, 2011, a Game 7 win over Texas in the World Series.

Pujols won those three MVP awards and made nine All-Star teams with the Cardinals before signing a 10-year, $240 million deal with the Angels in 2012. He was waived by the Angels last May while hitting .198, and signed with the Dodgers, for whom he hit 12 homers and drove in 38 runs in 85 games.

With use of the designated hitter extending to the National League, the Cardinals found a fit with Pujols as opening day on April 7 against Pittsburgh at Busch Stadium approached.

“This reunion with Albert is a wonderful opportunity for not only him and the Cardinals, but also for our great fans, the St. Louis community, our players and staff, and everyone connected to the St. Louis Cardinals organization,” Cardinals chairman Bill DeWitt Jr. said in a statement.

“We look forward to seeing Albert in the ‘Birds on the Bat’ once again, and wearing his familiar uniform No. 5,” he said.

Chiefs suddenly among busiest NFL teams during offseason

By DAVE SKRETTA
Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The Kansas City Chiefs were supposed to be quiet during free agency, given the perennial AFC West champions had most of their big names tied up in long-term contracts and they already were bumping up against the salary cap. Brett Veach had other ideas.

The uber-aggressive Chiefs general manager instead made a splash by signing former Texans safety Justin Reid and former Steelers wide receiver JuJu Smith-Schuster, then turned the NFL on its head by swinging a blockbuster trade that sent three-time All-Pro wide receiver Tyreek Hill to the Dolphins for a package of draft picks.

All of a sudden, the Chiefs have become one of the league’s busiest teams in the run-up to April’s draft.

With salary cap space suddenly at his disposal, Veach added more help to replace Hill in the form of ex-Packers wide receiver Marquez Valdes-Scantling. He landed running back Ronald Jones, who helped Tampa Bay beat Kansas City in the Super Bowl a couple of years ago. And he added depth at several positions, landing former Texans left tackle Geron Christian, Bears safety Deon Bush and Panthers linebacker Jermaine Carter.

It all makes the Chiefs something of an anomaly in the NFL: a team that contended for a champi-

The Kansas City Chiefs have signed Jones to a one-year contract, a person familiar with the deal told The Associated Press on Saturday, March 26, 2022, adding some depth behind Clyde Edwards-Helaire in the running back room. onship last season but was willing to remake a major part of its roster for a chance at winning another one this season.

“For me, it came down to (several) teams,” Jones said Sunday, “and at the end, I just wanted to be in a situation where I have the best chance to compete for that second (Super Bowl) ring and make my mark on the game.”

That’s what the Chiefs want from him, too.

They aren’t close to being done, either, despite still having just seven of the 22 starters that won their first Super Bowl in five decades a mere 26 months ago: quarterback Patrick Mahomes, tight end Travis Kelce, backup center Austin Reiter, wide receiver Mecole Hardman and defensive linemen Chris Jones, Derrick Nnadi and Frank Clark.

For one thing, the Chiefs still have cash available, and they have been linked to veteran cornerback Stephon Gilmore as they try to replace the departed Charvarius Ward. For another, they have two selections in each of the first four rounds of the draft and 12 in all, giving them the freedom to do just about anything they want when it begins April 28.

They could still use a game-changing wide receiver to replace Hill, though his departure and subsequent record-breaking contract extension in Miami is one of the big reasons that Valdes-Scantling signed on in Kansas City.

“It was a huge decision,” he said. “I think that with the departure of (Hill), it gave me a really good opportunity to be in a position to come in and be an immediate impact right away. So, I think that was a huge factor into it.”

The close-knit locker room in Kansas City already has welcomed the influx of new players, often with tweets — Mahomes has been particularly active — and other social media posts. But in some cases, there are bonds already in place that should help to grease the transition from last year’s team that lost in the AFC title game to this year’s bunch.

Jones and Smith-Schuster played together at Southern California, for example. Reid and Christian both came from Houston. And in just about every other case, the newcomers have played against the Chiefs plenty of times over the years.

“We respect each other’s games,” Smith-Schuster said, “so now it’s time to put it all together.”

They’d better do it quickly. The AFC West, a division the Chiefs have dominated, has become arguably the toughest in the NFL. Russell Wilson is now slinging passes in Denver, where Randy Gregory was brought in to bring down opposing QBs; the Raiders brought in their own pass rusher in Chandler Jones while adding Valdes-Scantling’s former teammate, Davante Adams; and the Chargers landed one of the league’s top cornerbacks, J.C. Jackson.

The Chiefs still have Mahomes, though. They still have Kelce in the passing game, Clark and Jones getting after the other quarterback, and they still have Andy Reid’s offensive genius standing on the sideline.

In fact, Reid has played a big part in landing some of the big free agents suddenly calling Kansas City home.

“It’s one thing for a head coach who just won the Lombardi Trophy — for them to text me personally, it means a lot,” Smith-Schuster said. “And going into this year’s process, KC has been on me for the past two years. Obviously, I feel welcome here and appreciated. So, coming here and having the opportunity to play here for him is a great experience.”

KANSAS

“I don’t know,” Self continued after a pause. “I think these guys have stayed focus They’ve eliminated distractions for the most part all year long. And they do play for each other. And so when we play the way that I think that we’re capable of playing, I have total faith that we can play very well.”

The Jayhawks have sure played well so far in March.

They took a couple of lumps late in the season, but they caught fire in the Big 12 Tournament. They blew out West Virginia by 24, easily beat TCU, then had their way with Texas Tech — which gave Duke all it could handle last weekend — in winning the conference title game.

Kansas has kept the momentum going in the NCAA Tournament: There was a 27-point blowout of Texas Southern in the opening round, when the Jayhawks led 47-19 by the half; there was a gritty 79-72 win over Creighton when they led almost the entire second half; and there was the 66-61 win over Providence in their stiffest test of the postseason.

In the regional final, the Jayhawks stumbled through the first half and trailed Miami by six at the break, only to blitz the overmatched Hurricanes the rest of the way. Kansas outscored them 47-15 in the second half for a 76-50 win that pushed its average margin of victory to more than 16 points through four games of the NCAA Tournament.

Only their upcoming opponent, Villanova, has a bigger margin by a fraction of a point.

Meanwhile, everyone else in the Final Four has had some pressure-packed moments.

The Blue Devils trailed Michigan State with 2 1/2 minutes left in an 85-76 victory, led just 8 1/2 minutes in a slugfest over Texas Tech and had another tough game with Arkansas. North Carolina blew a 25-point second-half lead and needed to hold off No. 1 seed Baylor in overtime. Villanova led Ohio State by six with less than a minute left in a 71-61 victory, then held a four-point lead on Houston with 1:25 left before surviving in its regional final.

Then there’s Kansas, which has cruised through the bracket.

“They are really, really good,” Miami coach Jim Larrañaga marveled, “and especially in running the floor. They’ve got so many terrific athletes who all can handle the ball. And then they’ve got David McCormack on the inside.”

Indeed, they might just be the most complete team left.

Ochai Agabji and fellow wings Christian Braun and Jalen Wilson have the unique combination of athleticism, versatility and range, while Remy Martin — the Midwest Region’s most valuable player — has given the Jayhawks another dimension at point guard with his breakout performance this tournament. McCormack and fellow post Mitch Lightfoot give the Jayhawks options in the paint, while a deep bench is ready.

No wonder Kansas has trailed just 24 minutes, 11 seconds in the entire tournament.

“On the (Big 12 tourney) podium in Kansas City, like, we were saying we weren’t done yet,” said Agbaji, a first-team All-American and the Big 12 player of the year. “Obviously we had more to accomplish with six more. But on this podium, here (in Chicago), it was like we’ve gotten to this point and now it’s just roll the ball out there and go play in the Final Four.”

Duke-Carolina, Kansas-Nova set for epic Final Four showdowns

By DAVE SKRETTA
AP Basketball Writer

Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski refused to let his players ponder the possibility of facing North Carolina for the first time in the NCAA Tournament after the Blue Devils had punched their Final Four ticket with a win over Arkansas.

They have no choice but to think about it now.

The Tar Heels took care of the last of the underdogs Sunday by rolling past 15th-seeded Saint Peter's, setting up a Final Four for the ages in New Orleans: Duke-Carolina for the first time in the tourney, and in retiring Coach K's final appearance on college basketball's biggest stage. The winner gets Kansas or Villanova for the national championship.

"I saw something that Bill Self said about the regional championship game," Krzyzewski said of his Kansas counterpart, "it really is the biggest game a college coach has to coach, because it gets you into the promised land.

"For me to have that, I guess it's 17 times now, that's a big-time thing for me. I'm so proud of that," Krzyzewski said, "that my teams have put us in that position and that's we've won now 13 of them, and whatever happens afterward happens. But it is a heck of a thing. We've won a lot in the tournament, and we've won a lot of games, but Final Fours are big."

The biggest could be Saturday night.

Duke and North Carolina have met 256 times, including in Krzyzewski's final game coaching at Cameron Indoor Stadium, when the Tar Heels spoiled the night with a victory that has helped to propel them to the Final Four.

Duke head coach Mike Krzyzewski, left, walks off the court with his wife, Mickie, after Duke defeated Arkansas in a college basketball game in the Elite 8 round of the NCAA men's tournament in San Francisco, Saturday, March 26, 2022. MARCIO JOSE SANCHEZ — STAFF, AP

Yet somehow, the bluest of the bluebloods have never collided in the NCAA Tournament.

"I'm not even thinking about that right now," said Hubert Davis, who played for the Tar Heels in the Final Four and has led them back in his first year as the head coach. "Right now, I'm just so happy for our guys having an opportunity to play in the Final Four. That's the only thing on my mind."

The Blue Devils locked up their spot Saturday night when Paolo Banchemo and Co. used a big run to put away Arkansas and send Krzyzewski's farewell tour to the Big Easy. It will be his 13th trip to the Final Four, breaking a tie with UCLA's John Wooden for the most in history, and makes 17 in all for the Duke program.

"We knew we were capable of this, and that's what we've worked for since June," Banchemo said. "To finally get to New Orleans and have a chance to play for a national championship is a blessing. I'm just proud of the way we came together."

North Carolina will be making its record 21st appearance in the Final Four, and the four teams headed to the Superdome have combined to make it an astounding 61 times. Together, they have cut down the nets on 17 occasions.

Villanova also locked up its trip to the semifinals Saturday when it beat Houston in a low-scoring slugfest. It's the seventh Final Four appearance for the Wildcats, including one from the 1970s that the NCAA forced them to vacate, and gives Jay Wright a chance to join some rare company by winning his third national championship.

The list that would stand ahead of him? Wooden with 10, Krzyzewski with five and Kentucky's Adolph Rupp with four.

"It feels great to be going back to the Final Four. It never gets old," said Wright, whose 2016 team beat Kansas and North Carolina on the way to the title and whose 2018 team beat the Jayhawks again in the Final Four before topping Michigan for the championship. "It is a dream of every player and coach in college basketball. It's the ultimate."

The Wildcats will be without Justin Moore, though, after announcing Sunday that their second-leading scorer would have surgery this week for a torn Achilles tendon. Moore was hurt in the final minute of the win over the Cougars.

"This is a tough blow for all of us, not just because of the great player Justin is, but because of what he means to us as teammates and coaches," Wright said. "As one of our captains, Justin has been an integral part of our success."

While the Jayhawks have had plenty of problems with Villanova over the years, their real trouble had been escaping the regional finals. But they had their way with Miami in the second half Sunday in Chicago, relying on their superior speed and athleticism to turn a six-point deficit at the break into a 76-50 blowout.

Now, the Jayhawks — who earlier in the tournament passed Kentucky as the winningest school in Division I basketball — are back to the Final Four for the 16th time, and Self is two wins away from his elusive second title.

"I'm just proud of my team and proud of Coach Self. It's great for the program and the university," said Kansas guard Ochai Agbaji, a first-team All-American and the Big 12 player of the year. "But we're not done yet. And I'm not satisfied yet with this. I know my teammates aren't, either."

After NCAA run, Saint Peter's will always have the memories

By TOM CANAVAN

JERSEY CITY, N.J. — Saint Peter's unexpected and uplifting run to the Elite Eight ended with a bus ride back to New Jersey and the unsettling prospect Shaheen Holloway might have coached his last game for Peacocks.

"To be honest, it was amazing to me," forward Hassan Drame said of the experience in the student center on Monday. "Overall, it was an amazing season and something that we're going to look back on, and forever where we go we have this story to tell people."

It was a great story. A little Jesuit university in Jersey City, making just its fourth NCAA Tournament appearance and first since 2011. A program that had never won a game in The Show, knocking off perennial powerhouses Kentucky and Purdue and a very good Murray State squad to become the first No. 15 seed to reach the Elite Eight.

The feel-good story of the NCAA Tournament ended Sunday as the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference tournament champions were blown out 69-49 by North Carolina.

All the players on the team are eligible to return.

"At this point, we don't know what the future hold for us," Drame said. "But, you know, we are always proud to be Peacocks."

Jersey City is also proud. Mayor Steven Fulop said Monday a parade will be held on Friday afternoon to honor the team and keys to the city will be given out.

The major question mark is Holloway. The 45-year-old coach is a former Seton Hall player and that job opened a week ago when Kevin Willard accepted the top job at Maryland. Willard was making roughly $2.4 million coaching at the Big East Conference school in nearby South Orange.

While his salary at Saint Peter's has not been disclosed, Holloway is believed to be getting less than $300,000 annually.

"We don't know nothing about that tactic," Fousseyni Drame, Hassan's twin and a fellow forward, said of Holloway's future. "Nobody knows what the future holds."

Holloway, university president Eugene Cornacchia and athletic director Rachelle Paul were not on campus Monday. Paul did not return an email from The Associated Press seeking comment on Holloway's future.

Around campus, life seemed to be returning to normal. There were only a couple of television crews and few reporters. Freshman Jamie Troutman of New Haven Connecticut, said the tournament success united the community.

"It was nice seeing everybody come together to celebrate something so big and making history," the psychology major said.

Jennifer Dang, a freshman from Middlesex, New Jersey, said while it was sad seeing the team lose Sunday, she said the watch parties on campus made everyone feel like they were at the games.

"No one really knows where Saint Peter's is. No one really knows where Jersey City is," she said. "But we're known across the country, so in the aftermath of the game, it's sad we didn't make it to the Final Four but at least we made it somewhere in history."

Freshman Itchela Alexandre of Orange, New Jersey, enjoyed seeing players who are her friends succeed.

"I'm definitely proud of the boys," she said. "They made it far, regardless of where we ended or how we started. They made it really far."

Furlop said the team had all the attributes of the city.

"I think everyone across the country identified with this team," he said. "They didn't get a lot of recognition. There were not highly recruited and they came together. They were the little engine that could, knocking off all these big powerhouses."

On Monday, Mark McIntyre and his son, Matthew, were on campus taking a picture of a donor sign on the wall near a cafe. They had been in New York City on Sunday for a Nets' NBA game and decided to take a look at Saint Peter's after seeing the Peacocks in the tournament.

"We wanted to come by the campus and get a tee-shirt or hoodie and they are all sold out, crazy," Mark McIntyre said. "It's all because of the Elite Eight run, that's why we're here."

UConn reaches 14th straight Final Four, tops NC State in 20T

UConn is heading to the women's Final Four for the 14th straight time

By DOUG FEINBERG
AP Basketball Writer

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. — Paige Bueckers scored 15 of her 27 points in the two overtimes, and UConn beat North Carolina State 91-87 to extend the Huskies' record women's Final Four streak to 14 straight on Monday night.

The Huskies, who had been 0-for-5 in overtime in the NCAA Tournament, will face top seed Stanford on Friday night in the national semifinals in Minneapolis.

Bueckers, who grew up 10 miles outside the site of the Final Four, scored the first five points in the second overtime to lift the Huskies (29-5).

"Two days ago I said, 'Win or go home', but we won and I'm still going home," Bueckers said. "This is crazy. I'm just so excited no matter the location, no matter where it is."

The sensational sophomore, who missed two months this season with a knee injury, once again looked like the player who was the AP Player of the Year in 2021. She was named the Most Outstanding Player of the Bridgeport Region.

"Thank God Paige came back, because she just gives everybody so much confidence and then everybody just kind of played and everybody took turns making plays," UConn coach Geno Auriemma said. "It was just an amazing basketball game and it was a great showcase for our sport."

With N.C. State within 86-84 in the second OT, Christyn Williams hit the second of two free throws and then a layup with 21 seconds left to give UConn a 89-85 lead.

Jakia Brown-Turner, who hit a 3-pointer with 0.8 seconds in the first overtime to tie the game, then made a layup to get the Wolfpack within two, but Williams converted a layup off the inbounds to seal the win.

UConn had lost senior center Dorka Juhasz to a forearm injury earlier in the game.

"This team has been through so much and it's only made us stronger," Bueckers said. "And if we see one of our sisters go down, we're going to do it for her. We all love each other, we're all so close. It just signifies what we've been through all year. Whole bunch of adversity, highs and lows, ups and downs. We stayed composed and we stayed together."

Brown-Turner finished with 20 points for N.C. State (32-4), and Elissa Cunane scored 18. Williams had 21 points for UConn and freshman Azzi Fudd had 19.

Both teams had chances to win in the final 30 seconds of regulation. UConn's Olivia Nelson-Ododa was fouled with 28 seconds left and missed both free throws. On the ensuing possession, Diamond Johnson dribbled down the clock and drove before passing it back out to Kai Crutchfield, who was way off on a deep 3-pointer from the wing.

N.C. State was trying to reach the national semifinals for the second time in school history. The Wolfpack made it that far in 1998, beating the Huskies in the Elite Eight that season to advance. None of the current roster was even alive then.

"This journey has been incredible and this team has done so much and accomplished so much," said Cunane, a senior. "Although this is hurtful right now, proud of all we've done this season. I couldn't be more proud of the team."

Crutchfield, Raina Perez and Kayla Jones all came back this year using their extra COVID-19 season that was granted by the NCAA to try and lift the Wolfpack to new heights. They succeeded, advancing farther than the team had in 24 years.

The Huskies dealt with injuries and COVID-19 issues all season and had their most losses since 2012, including their first conference defeat in nine years and their first loss to an unranked team since 2012.

Things have been looking up for UConn since the team started getting healthy, starting with Bueckers.

This was the first double-OT game in women's NCAA Tournament history in the regional final or later.

INJURED HUSKY

UConn suffered a major blow when Juhasz went down in the first half with a scary-looking injury just above her left wrist. She was fouled on a putback attempt and landed awkwardly when she tried to put her hands down to brace her fall.

Juhasz was on the floor in tears and was helped back to the locker room with her team up by seven points. The Huskies extended the advantage to 10 before N.C. State cut it to 34-28 at the half.

She returned to the bench at the start of the fourth quarter dressed in warmups with with her arm in a sling.

HOW THEY GOT HERE

UConn: Beat Mercer in the opening round, UCF in the second round and Indiana in the Sweet 16.

N.C. State: Topped Longwood in the first round, Kansas State in the second round and Notre Dame in the regional semifinals.

TILL WE MEET AGAIN

This was the first meeting between the schools since the 2006-07 season. They are scheduled to play the next two seasons.

"I agreed to a series with UConn starting next year," N.C. State coach Wes Moore said. "Coming back here next year, then they'll come to us the following year"
