Kirksville man responded to first paramedic call in Adair County

Greg S. Miller

Adair County Historical Society display recognizes history of local ambulance service

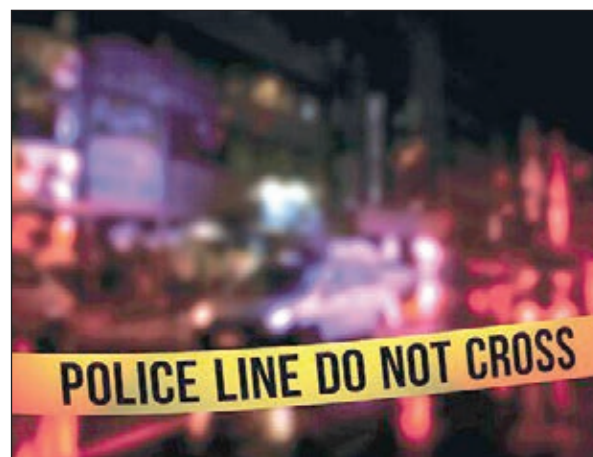

By Marty Bachman
Daily Express

A display at the Adair County Historical Society honors the contributions of Greg S. Miller, a former longtime Adair County Ambulance District employee and one of the first paramedics in the county. The display of certificates, pictures, letters and patches that document the history of the local paramedic program from its infancy, was originally donated to the ambulance district by Miller, which then donated them to the historical society.

Miller helped set up the first paramedic system in the county, which in the beginning consisted of a funeral home hearse before the purchase of an ambulance by what was then the Kirksville Osteopathic Hospital (now Northeast Regional Medical Center) in the early 1970s. Miller, a Navy Corpsman in the Vietnam era, was on the original call for paramedic service in Adair County.

The red Jeep Compass was recovered and returned to the dealership. Officers located the white Jeep Wrangler in the 400 block of S. Main Street and it was also returned to the dealership. At this time, it appears these two vehicles are the only items stolen during the burglary.

Kirksville Police are continuing to investigate this incident. At approximately 6:58 a.m. on Thursday, April 28, Adair County Central Dispatch received a report of a red 2019 Jeep Compass parked on Cloud Trail near Orrick Trail. An Adair County Sheriff's deputy was dispatched to check on the vehicle. A few minutes later, Central Dispatch received a report of a damaged window at Lovegreen Ford Chrysler at 1801 N. Elson Street in Kirksville. Officers responded and found the business had been burglarized.

During this burglary, a white 2022 Jeep Wrangler had been stolen from the dealership. While investigating it was also found that the red Jeep Compass found on Cloud Trail was sto-

Woman charged in death of Kirksville boys, seeks release from jail

By Quincy Herald-Whig

QUINCY, Ill. — The woman charged in connection with the 2020 traffic crash that killed four people, including three children, seeks release from the Adams County Jail as prosecutors appeal the dismissal of one charge of her case.

Natasha L. McBride's attorney, Chief Public Defender Todd Nelson, filed the motion Monday. Judge Timothy Wessel set a hearing on the motion for Monday.

McBride has been held in the Adams County Jail on a $5 million bond since her arrest after the Aug. 14, 2020, crash.

McBride, 37, faces four counts of first-degree murder in the deaths of Jennifer Hendricks, 54, of Rushville, and Dakota Corrick, 6, Archer Corrick, 4, and Ransom Corrick, 21 months. The boys were Hendricks' grandchildren and lived in Kirksville. McBride also faces four counts of leaving the scene of a personal injury accident, four counts of reckless homicide and four counts of driving while license revoked.

She is alleged to have ignored a traffic light at Fourth and Broadway while driving at a high rate of speed on Aug. 14, 2020, which caused the crash. According to the crash report, the Quincy Police Department said Mc-

Natasha L. McBride

Bride admitted to smoking marijuana shortly before leaving in her vehicle.

The Adams County state's attorney's office is appealing the dismissal of one count of aggravated driving under the influence from earlier this month.

Kirksville Police Chief Scott Williamson addresses a group of local business owners at the Aquatic Center last Thursday.

Kirksville police chief holds Business Watch meeting for local business owners

By Marty Bachman
Daily Express

Kirksville Police Chief Scott Williamson held one of two Business Watch meetings at the Aquatic Center on Thursday afternoon. The meeting was sponsored by the Kirksville Area Chamber of Commerce and was open to business owners in town.

Williamson opened the meeting by explaining to the audience the environment that currently exists and the conditions the police department is operating under. He said that the department's jurisdiction covers 10.5 square miles plus Forest Lake, Hazel Creek Lake, Kirksville Airport and bailiff duties in municipal court. There are 100 miles of city streets to patrol and the department averages about 2,000 calls for service for month.

Despite the high volume of calls and large coverage area, the department has only four to five patrol officers on duty, 24/7, two detectives and one school resource officer.

"You can kind of see where we are, resource wise," he said, noting that the department staff is down about 20 percent.

Williamson said that he has two cadets going to the academy beginning Monday. It's a four month academy and then three months of field training so it will be October before they're fully on staff. He has two more cadets he hopes to send to the August academy.

You can see, we're stretched a little bit, and that's why I want everyone's assistance," Williamson said.

Diversity Festival will showcase the city's cultural highlights

By Marty Bachman
Daily Express

The city of Kirksville is hosting a diversity festival that will take place on Saturday, April 30 at the Rieger Armory from 1-4 p.m. According to Debi Boughton, a committee member, the event came about as a result of the city's strategic plan that was done in 2020 titled "Think 2040, a 20-year comprehensive plan that addresses community identity; neighborhoods and housing; economy; mobility and transportation; infrastructure and public facilities; and planning and land use.

A subcommittee, that meets quarterly, was created to explore more community cultural events and when the group met last fall, they came up with the idea of having a diversity festival. A feasibility committee determined they could make this happen in the next year and how they might do it.

"The strategic plan has short term goals, medium term goals and long-term goals," Boughton said. This is actually a medium-term goal meaning they wanted to do it like within five years or so."

Since the feasibility committee gave the go-ahead, plans have been in the works to make it happen—so they have reserved the armory, both inside and out for the April 30 date.

"At this point we reserved the lawn and the inside of the building and the committee is trying to decide if we want to be inside or outside, depending on how much electricity we have, what the weather's like, what the covid cases are like, so we basically reserved the inside and outside," Boughton said.

She said that the entire community of Kirksville is invited and they hope to have interesting food, live entertainment, crafts for kids to do, education about diversity in the local community and they hope to invite many groups to set up tables for free.

"This is not a fundraiser in any way," she said. "It's just a cultural diversity event."

The committee has reached out for corporate sponsorships in order to pay for the craft items or entertainment, though the committee hasn't decided exactly how they plan to spend the money. Some will be spent on promotion and the committee continues to meet to work on the planning of the event.

"As with any first festival, we have a lot of questions but our goal is to have a fun festival and my goal, always, as tourism director, is to have the festival grow into an annual event and to have it become more and more of a tourism event each year," Boughton said. "But of course, the event goal is also for community members to come and enjoy it, learn about each other and have a nice afternoon."

Boughton said that the idea of a diversity festival isn't new, as there had been in the past a community Roots Festival that was sponsored by Take Root Café, which was a pay-what-you-can restaurant on Harrison Street. When the restaurant closed, the festival came to an end as well.

"It was very close to this, a little bit different," Boughton said. "But once that festival no longer existed, it seemed like this would be a good one to have."

She said that there is a lot of cultural diversity in the local area that people may not be aware of. In the past five or seven years, there has been an influx of Congolese and Hispanic people and that there are many people that have lived here a long time that offer a very interesting cultural diversity in the Amish and Mennonite communities. In addition to those cultural enclaves, both Truman State University and ATSU bring people to town of various cultures.

"I've been involved quite a bit on the Truman State campus with Nepal Namaste and that is the student club from the country of Nepal," she said. "They have an event on campus annually where they provide and actually make food from Nepal, music, dances and performances and it is a lovely event."

She said that they hope to have students from that group and other campus groups at the festival and that the diversity offices of both schools can provide tables, student groups as well as guidance on what needs to be provided at a diversity festival.

My goal is to self-learn and for the community to learn about all of the interesting people that live here," Boughton said.

Ashley Young, another committee member, said that their hope with the Diversity Festival is to celebrate the breadth and depth of the community diversity through food, performances and activities.

John Gardner, who also serves on the committee, said that the Diversity Festival is an opportunity for residents to celebrate the unique aspects of the local community and that he was excited so many members of the community have come together to support the festival, both financially and with their efforts.

Committee member Stephanie McGrew said that it was great to see the city, Truman State University, and A.T. Still University come together to provide an event to bring community members together.

"I am excited to be able to offer this event to the community and hope that it continues to grow as we continue to host events," McGrew said in an email. "We hope that this event is a catalyst that creates more events in our community that bring together the Kirksville community to celebrate their differences and to share the stories of their heritage and traditions."

This story originally ran in the March 16, 2022 Kirksville Daily Express.

AMBULANCE

"All we had was a gurney," Miller said about the original ambulance equipment.

Troopers from the Missouri State Highway Patrol witnessed that first Adair County ambulance run, a one-car accident on the other side of Novinger where the driver had hit the steering wheel and broke an arm, while a passenger had hit the windshield. In a time before seat belts were mandatory, the scene was gruesome.

Afterwards, the highway patrol sent a letter to the executive committee at the hospital, stating that Miller and his partner, Mike McKim, a former army medic, had done an excellent job.

In a letter to Miller from the executive committee that's on display at the historical society, it was noted that the highway patrol spoke very highly of the "finesse and dispatch" in which the ambulance service members conducted themselves in the care of their patients.

"We wish to express our appreciation for this type of service," the letter from the executive committee states. "It not only reflects devotion to a job well done and honor the institution for which you work, but the dedication of service to an ailing fellow man for which there is no higher calling."

"That's their history, the first ambulance run in the county," Miller said about the ambulance district, which donated the letter to the historical society.

Miller began his medical training at the Great Lakes Naval Base in Illinois, where he attended boot camp and Corpsman school before being stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Hospital for two-and-a-half years, specializing in cardiac arrest, EKGs and "things like that."

He was scheduled to serve overseas with the Marines but due to his extensive experience working for the Great Lakes

Naval Hospital, he was instead ordered to the naval hospital in Jacksonville, Fla. where his specialty was most needed.

"I got real blessed," he said in having avoided deployment to the Vietnam war zone where more than 650 of his fellow Navy Corpsman were killed.

"I saw a lot of boys go down, that was part of my job as an EKG and cardiac arrest specialist, that's what I did," he said.

"It's just been a blessing to help people."

As time went on, Miller received a BS in biology but ran out of money when attending medical school. He was unable to get a scholarship because it was the end of the Vietnam war and medical schools were "flooded" with veterans at the time. Instead he got a Masters in Counseling Psychology from Eastern Illinois University and ran group homes for juvenile delinquents as well as mental health centers. He received a second Master's in Healthcare Administration from Des Moines University.

Just helping people has been the whole magic," he said.

The Adair County Historical Society is located at 211 S. Elson Street in Kirksville. Hours are Wednesday through Friday from 1-4 p.m.

The family of Tim Schwegler wish to express their appreciation to those who offered such kindness, comfort, cards, flowers and support during this difficult time. God bless you.

Arrange your plans any way you see fit, but don't count on others to help you pull things together. You'll get plenty of input about what you already know, but not a lot of hands-on help or information that will help you gain ground. Own what you say and do, and stick to a logical path. Rewards will come your way.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) -- Use your imagination and put an intelligent plan in place. Make a positive change by going through the proper channels and tidying up paperwork. Leave nothing to chance for best results.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) -- Leadership builds strength. Don't let someone steal your thunder with empty promises. Show compassion and understanding, offer incentives and do your part to make a difference.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) -- Let experience guide you to bigger and better opportunities. Refuse to let someone's emotional restraint stop you from embracing the changes that lead to the type of lifestyle you want to live.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) -- You may not like how others respond, but your decisions and actions should reflect what's in your heart. Don't let anger lead to regret; follow through with your commitments.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) -- Gather information and unite with people who share your concerns and can help bring about change. A family gathering or outing with a loved one will lift your spirits.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) -- Tally up your assets and liabilities. Knowing where you stand financially will help you make decisions regarding expenditures and your lifestyle. Discipline and moderation will help.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) -- Take care of unfinished business before engaging in social pastimes. Put more emphasis on how you look and how you present yourself to others. Discuss your intentions with someone important.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) -- A stable front will help head off interference. Someone will play with your emotions, and guilt will set in if you are too accommodating. Look out for yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) -- When dealing with friends and relatives, patience is required. You can offer suggestions, but don't get involved in other people's decisions. Personal improvements are favored.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) -- Put together a strategy that will benefit you financially and make room for something you want to pursue. Worry less about what others think or do and focus on what's important to you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) -- Keep an open mind, and you'll discover new ways to make the most of your skills, experience and knowledge. A change of plans will work in your favor and give you a chance to discuss your intentions.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) -- Keep promises to a minimum. If you take on too much, it will cause emotional angst, stress and criticism. Have a strategy in place and a backup on hand. Avoid making assumptions if possible.

Kirksville Leadership Institute Class of 2022 moves toward November graduation

By Kirksville Chamber of Commerce

The Kirksville Leadership Institute Class of 2022 of the Kirksville Area Chamber of Commerce started out the program with a retreat at the Kirksville Aquatic Center in late March. The nine class members spent the day getting to know one another and learning more about the Kirksville Leadership Institute Program. In addition, they heard from three community leaders.

Chad Earhart, The Chad Earhart Coaching Company, led a session on Assessing Your Expectations, Strengths and Weaknesses.

Dr. Dave Lusk from the Career Center at Truman State University interpreted the Myers Briggs Type Indicator Assessment that each student completed prior to the first meeting. Each student learned their personality type and then Dr. Lusk led group activities to further explain the differences between the personality types.

Jim Bergman, HR Director at Northeast Regional Medical Center, shared the story of his personal leadership journey with the class and reminded them that we never know the difference our words and encouragement can make in another person's life.

On April 26, the actual class sessions began and the group carpooled to Jefferson City to get a better glimpse at state government. The day began with a visit to Missouri Chamber of Commerce and Industry where they heard from Brendan Cossette, a member of the state Chamber's legislative team.

After a beautiful walk to the state capitol building, the class enjoyed sitting in the upper gallery during a live session of the Missouri State House of Representatives. Later in the day they were able to visit the Senate session.

Senator Cindy O'Laughlin of the 18th Senatorial District, took a few minutes between committee meetings and sessions to greet the class. They had the opportunity to ask questions of her and Senator O'Laughlin in turn asked questions of them.

Several of the class members took the tour of the Whispering Gallery and were able to complete the steep climb inside the dome of the capitol. It was a perfect day for the trip and they were able to step outside the dome once they reached the top and enjoy a view of the city and the Missouri river.

The class enjoyed lunch at Madison's restaurant downtown. They were joined by the two state representatives that cover the Kirksville area, Danny Busick (District 3) and Greg Sharpe (District 4). There was much to talk about as they soon learned that several of the students and the representatives knew many of the same people.

The class ended the day in the typical KLI tradition, with a trip to Central Dairy for ice cream before heading home.

Kirksville Leadership Institute started in 1993 as a program of the Kirksville Area Chamber of Commerce. Each year, local professionals enroll for a 9-month course that offers leadership training, networking in the business community and an opportunity to learn more about the strengths and challenges facing businesses in the local community.

Each month the class spends one entire day focused on a specific subject. Future topics will include tourism, agriculture, healthcare, education, legal services and law enforcement development. In addition to class days, the students will complete a class project together outside of class time. There goal will be to meet a local need and then use their project as a way to give back to the community. Employers and family members will be invited to attend a graduation ceremony for the class in mid-November.

The Kirksville Leadership Institute Class of 2023 will begin enrolling after the first of the year and interested parties are encouraged to inquire. Employers have found this to be a good investment in their employees. For more information, call 660-665-3766.

BUSINESS

He said that arrests are on pace to exceed the five-year average by 42 percent and that he expects officers to make over 1,000 arrests in 2022. Misdemeanor citations are also above the five-year average by 27 percent and should exceed 1,100.

"With the few officers we have, they're making arrests, they're getting people in cuffs," he said, noting that oftentimes, the suspects are right back on the street again, sometimes before the police report is even filed

Williamson said that part of the problem is a Missouri Supreme Court decision in June 2019 that arrestees cannot be held on bail unless they are an immediate threat of physical harm to the victim or the public, or they have a clear and immediate risk of fleeing, or they have a recent and extensive history of failing to appear in court. Barring those three things, current protocol for an arrest for a non-violent crime is to take the suspect to the station for fingerprints and photos.

"They book them, give them a court date and say,

'have a nice day,'" Williamson said. "Ninety-nine percent of the time, the people are released prior to the officer even starting a police report — way before their shift is over."

He said that eight days ago they had arrested a felon in possession of a gun and drugs who had been in jail on bail with a hold on him until a judge reduced the bail by 90 percent, then waived bail and released him. Just that morning he had been arrested again for drugs and possession of a stolen firearm.

"We feel your frustration, we really do," Williamson told the business owners.

Another factor he cited, was that the Adair County Jail has been at capacity for a long time now.

"We can't fit any more people in there," he said. "We have to take the worst of the worst and keep them in there."

Williamson then provided a list of tools and timelines, stating that the way criminal analysis works is not as timely as is seen on TV. He said that fingerprints and DNA have a one to two year turnaround time from the state lab unless it involves a homicide.

"If it's a burglar on a house or a business and we find blood, yeah we're going to take samples of it cause it makes sense to do so, however, it's going to be a long time between sample and match," he said.

Further complicating things, there won't be a match unless the suspect has been convicted of a crime in the past and, if police do obtain a match, it's not admissible in court, they need to get fresh prints and a new DNA sample from the suspect, which adds another six to 12 months.

He said that they can use facial recognition software and social media to narrow down a suspect, but even if they can identify the suspect and know he committed the crime, facial recognition technology is not admissible as evidence in court and it can only be used to provide investigative leads.

"I'm not trying to make this, 'We can't do anything,'" Williamson said. "There's a system we have to operate within. Now I can get angry and mad about all of this and I can sit back and say, 'what do they want us to do?' Or I can help organize people to find a way to help identify these people faster and put a little help and prevention in there."

Williamson then offered some crime prevention tips the business owners could take to help protect themselves and their customers.

- Install motion lights or flood lights

- Maintain quality locks on all entry points

- Install good cameras in key areas

- Install alarms inside buildings, on doors and windows

- Clear out all shrubs in areas someone could hide

- Clear windows

- Park vehicles in an area visible from the road or in an area with cameras and motion lights.

He said that he wanted to get businesses together to talk to one another and share what's happening to the businesses around them.

"Anything suspicious, you call us," he said. "We're not looking for, 'Oh he already broke the window,' we're looking for 'there's someone walking around our alley looking into our store.'"

Williamson said that police would rather respond to those calls than someone breaking a window and while it will increase the department's calls, it will decrease the crime calls, creating a balance.

"We get more calls on prevention, fewer calls on actual acts," he said.

He said that the department is creating liaisons for the business community that they can speak with and who will come out to a business and discuss camera locations and locks among other issues. Williamson also gave out contact forms to the business owners so that police dispatch knows who to call in the case of an open door or other sign of entry into a business. He said that by registering the business with the police, they can respond if they find an open door after hours.

Green City finds offensive rhythm in win against Novinger

By Austin Miller
Daily Express

It took Green City a few innings to remember the B in RBI stands for batted.

The Gophers got plenty of baserunners on Wednesday against Novinger as the Wildcats issued nine walks and one hit by pitch, but took a few innings to take advantage. Green City's first three runs came on an RBI hit by pitch and a pair of RBI walks. Green City's offense found a stride later on to win 11-1 in six innings.

"That was a good win for us," said Green City coach Dale Whitacre. "That's a district opponent for us. I think they're maybe the second-best team in our district, and they're definitely pitching deep and playing good defense. They're a veteran team, that's good for us to come out and play well against them."

Whitacre's desire was to chase Novinger's (3-8) Jace Brownell off the mound as soon as possible. Brownell has good velocity and a delivery that's tough to read, so Whitacre told his hitters to see as many pitches as possible. The Gophers did just that and Brownell's command issues helped that strategy work.

Green City (11-1) worked a trio of two-out walks in the first inning to load the bases. Brownell was ahead 0-2 against Gopher left fielder Kaden Hatcher before plunking him, sending the first run in. Green City loaded the bases with three walks again in the second inning and had the heart of its lineup come to bat. But Brownell got right out of the jam after fanning Laydon Fields and Grant O'Haver.

But continuing to hand out so many free bases, that levy eventually gives way. In the third inning, hits from Brody Lunsford and Jayden O'Haver and a walk for Garrett Hall loaded the bases. Ty Hall drew an RBI walk.

Green City's Kaden Hatcher taps his helmet after hitting a double against Novinger. AUSTIN MILLER/DAILY EXPRESS

Connor Robinson took over on the mound after that for Novinger, with the bases loaded with one out. He walked Xander Salas to give Green City another run. Kaden Johnson struck with the Gophers first true RBI on a two-run single, and Fields followed with another RBI single. Green City grabbed a 6-1 lead in the third and never turned back.

"I made a comment to my assistant that we had several walks already and made several mistakes going into the third inning, but I said, 'You know what? It's still 1-1, I thought we competed pretty decently at the plate, we were making contact,'" said Novinger coach Jason Daniels. "It's not like they just flattened us. I think our guys know they can compete."

The Gophers kept peppering runs in after finding their timing against Robinson. The Gophers expected a steady diet of curveballs from him, so they sat back and drove ones they could hit.

"Everyone saw a lot of pitches, we got some good hits through there, so we just kept getting on," said Hatcher, who hit the ball hard Wednesday with a double and two RBI.

The bottom portion of Green City's lineup set the table well, getting on base so they could score runs.

"Our seven-eight-nine guys won the ballgame for us," Whitacre said. "If they don't get on base, it's hard for us to score runs. They did a great job tonight. Ty Hall walked, Garrett Hall put the ball in play and walked a couple times, Kaden Hatcher hit the ball well in the six-hole. That part of the order did well for us, and if they do well, we're going to win games."

Toss in a good night on the mound from Fields and the Gophers found their path to success. He went all six innings and got the win. Novinger scored its lone run in the second inning after hits by Xander Broadwell and Drew Magruder. Broadwell scored on an error after Green City catcher Grant O'Haver tried to throw him out at third base. Fields allowed only six baserunners after that.

Green City and Novinger should likely be the No. 1 and No. 2 seeds in the Class 1 District 14 bracket, which the Gophers will host. Green City has wins over everyone in that bracket except for Bucklin, and they won't see each other in the regular season. So both the Gophers and Wildcats have an idea of things to work on if a second meeting occurs.

For Whitacre, he's been pleasantly surprised by the run his team has gone on after losing one of its top players to injury. Pitcher and shortstop Aaron Peavler sprained his ankle a few weeks ago, but the Gophers have won six straight — including a North Harrison Tournament title — without him. Whitacre credited the next guys up who have stepped up.

"If you'd have told me two weeks ago we'd win six straight games with Aaron on the sidelines, I thought that'd be a stretch for us, pitching-wise and to score runs," Whitacre said. "Kaden Johnson has stepped into that spot in the order and done a great job for us. Some other guys on the mound have stepped up."

Peavler got out of a walking boot Wednesday. Whitacre hopes to have him back next week. After winning games without him, the Gophers are excited to add him back soon.

"We're going to run some people over, I hope," Fields said. "The way we're scoring and getting outs without him on the field, I'd like to see what we can do with him on the field."

Boyer wins, Tigers play well at home golf tournament

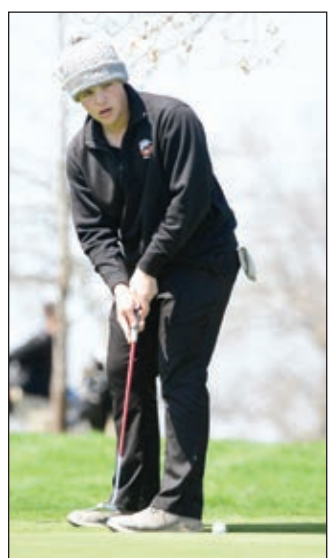

By Austin Miller
Daily Express

It was just the ending he wanted to his round.

Johnny Boyer went 17 holes without a birdie at Tuesday's Kirksville Tournament. He hit a strong drive on the 18th hole that took that hole's pond out of the equation, though it sailed a bit to left, just crossing the cart path. But as was the case for him most of the day, his mid-range work was solid.

Fifty-five yards from the cup, he dropped his shot about 54 yards, sticking right near the hole for an easy birdie. Boyer felt like he struggled with longer putts, but there was no need for one of those after he dropped in on a dime.

"I had confidence in that shot," Boyer said. "I've practiced a lot of flop shots and I have really good touch with those, I feel like. So once I hit that drive I was just like, 'OK, hit a flop shot on the green and two-put for par.' I wasn't too nervous about it."

That gave him a 75 for the day, the top individual score at Tuesday's tournament. He just fended off Putnam County's Jaden Wyant (77) for home gold.

"I felt confident I could do it and I'm happy that I did what I believed I could do," Boyer said.

The day started looking like another unseasonably dreary spring day this season after a brief frost delay Tuesday morning. But the sun soon appeared, allowing for some of the best weather the young golfers have had this season. With differing formats in the tournament, the Tigers saw quality scores on the course.

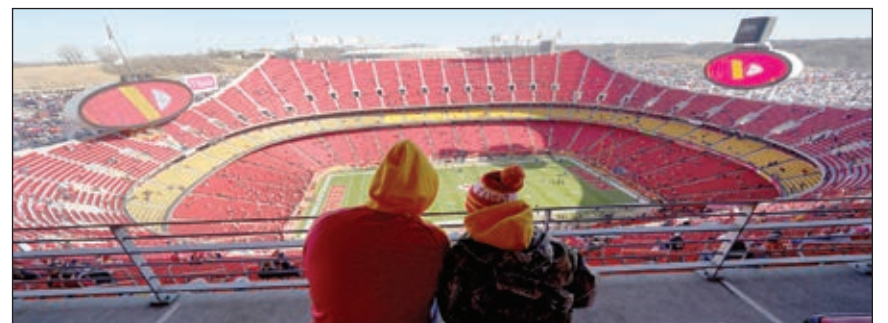

Hayden Tarr and Sam Wilson played in the best ball group and finished in second with an 82.

"We played really solid, and whenever one of us had a bad hole, the other one compensated and had a good hole. I was pleased with how we played," Tarr said.

Marceline's Braden Lightenberg and Jace Bixenman won the best ball event with a score of 78. And in the scramble group, Cameron Houser and Hunter Combs shot an 85.

The Tigers shot 242 as a team, second on the day behind Marceline's 233. Kirksville coach Derek Allen was encouraged by the Tiger's scores, especially as the Tigers play in a tough week.

Kansas looks to use taxes on sports bets to attract Chiefs

By JOHN HANNA, ANDY TSUBASA FIELD and DAVE SKRETTA
Associated Press

TOPEKA, Kan. — Kansas legislators were close Wednesday to approving a measure authorizing sports betting that would dedicate most of the state's revenues from it to efforts to lure the Kansas City Chiefs from Missouri to the Kansas side of the metropolitan area.

Lawmakers expected to give final approval this week to a bill allowing people in the state to use cellphone or computer apps to bet on sporting events and to place bets at state-owned casinos or up to 50 other locations chosen by each casino. A version cleared the House earlier this month and was set for a vote Wednesday in the Senate but senators discovered that they wanted technical changes before it goes to Gov. Laura Kelly.

The state would impose a 10% tax on each bet, and the measure says 80% of the revenues — perhaps $5 million a year — would go into a fund to provide incentives for professional sports teams to come to Kansas. The teams could include professional baseball's Kansas City Royals or pro basketball or hockey teams. However, most supporters contemplated trying to lure the Chiefs to the Legends, a shopping and entertainment district in Kansas City, Kansas, that's already home to a NASCAR track, professional soccer's Sporting KC, and a state-owned casino.

The idea faced bipartisan skepticism in the Republican-controlled Legislature, with some lawmakers viewing it as quixotic. But top Republicans said they're simply trying to put Kansas in a better position to land the Chiefs or another team, should they want to move.

"I would love to see the Chiefs playing in Kansas, but I'm not in a position to really gauge and know how serious that is," said Senate President Ty Masterson, an Andover Republican.

The U.S. Supreme Court in 2018 struck down a ban on sports betting in most states. Twenty-nine have authorized commercial sports betting, while another six allow Native American tribes to provide it, according to the National Conference of State Legislatures. Missouri lawmakers also are considering a measure to legalize sports betting.

Kansas allows betting through fantasy sports leagues, operates a state lottery and allows private companies to operate four casinos under contracts with the lottery. Efforts to authorize sports wagering have stalled in the past over state-owned casinos' control and whether to allow other new forms of gambling.

Supporters also must contend with some lawmakers' moral objections. GOP Rep. Paul Waggoner, of Hutchinson, argued that gambling addictions destroy families and was disappointed that fellow Republicans backed the bill.

"You're supposed to be the party that is promoting, you know, family values, or family cohesiveness," Waggoner said.

But other lawmakers said people already are betting illegally.

Chiefs address defense with McDuffie, Karlaftis in 1st round

By DAVE SKRETTA
Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Brett Veach kept eyeing the draft board as the first round ticked away, knowing full well that two picks Thursday night and 10 more over the next couple of days gave him plenty of options on both sides of the ball.

The Chiefs' general manager decided to address the defensive side first.

In a serendipitous first round in which the best players left on their board also fulfilled the Chiefs' biggest needs, Veach traded up to select Washington cornerback Trent McDuffie with the 21st pick and then added Purdue defensive end George Karlaftis at No. 30, all while holding onto both of his second-round choices Friday night.

"We wanted to add some depth on defensive line, add depth in the secondary — it worked out. It's usually not the case," Veach said. "We have a lot of picks and we wanted to make sure we used them selectively."

They wound up sending the 29th pick along with selections in the third and fourth round to New England to jump ahead of the Bills, who also were targeting a cornerback, and land one of the most versatile players at the position.

McDuffie, a track standout in the 100 and 200 meters, has the speed and athleticism to play in the slot or on the outside, making him a good fit for Chiefs defensive coordinator Steve Spagnuolo's scheme. He allowed just one reception of at least 20 yards last season for Washington, and he did not allow a touchdown catch in his past two seasons.

"I look at myself like Tyrann Mathieu, somebody that is going to be able to go in and play a bunch of different positions and help the team as much as I can," McDuffie said. "That's the biggest thing for me: However I can get on the field, however I can help this team, I'm going to do whatever I can to do it."

The Chiefs had a pressing need at cornerback after Charvarius Ward left for the 49ers in free agency. But they were expected to address the position with one of their original first-round picks or in the second or third round, rather than making an aggressive jump up the board for one of the top players the position.

McDuffie was the third cornerback taken after the Texans selected LSU's Derek Stingley Jr. at No. 3 and the Jets grabbed Cincinnati's Ahmad Gardner No. 4. The Bills took Florida cornerback Kair Elam two picks after Kansas City.

"Very seldom do you have the highest player on the board at that time for us, and it's a position of need," Chiefs coach Andy Reid said, "and that's when you try to go up and get a guy."

It was the first time the Chiefs chose a cornerback in the first or second round since 2015, when they took Marcus Peters out of Washington at No. 18 overall. But unlike Peters, whose character questions in college followed him to Kansas City, the 21-year-old McDuffie has earned rave reviews for his leadership and maturity.

McDuffie's job in the new-look Kansas City secondary, where safety Justin Reid was signed in free agency to replace

All-Pro safety Mathieu, should be made a little easier with Karlaftis getting after the quarterback.

The native of Greece, who moved to the U.S. when he was 13 and picked up football relatively late, had 39 tackles and 4 1/2 sacks for the Boilermakers last season. Karlaftis wound up with 14 sacks and 29 tackles-for-loss during his three seasons in West Lafayette, and is a natural fit for the 4-3 scheme run in Kansas City.

"I've only played football for six or seven years now," he said. "I feel like my best football is ahead of me."

The Chiefs had just 31 sacks last season, better only than three other teams in the NFL.

"I get after the quarterback. I stop the run. I feel like I'm a three-down player that can do anything and everything asked of them," Karlaftis said. "I had some meetings with the Chiefs and just couldn't have asked to be in a better situation."

Most expected Veach and Co. to chase one of the top wide receivers in the first round after dealing three-time All-Pro Tyreek Hill to the Dolphins for a package of draft picks earlier this offseason. But they've already plugged the hole in part by signing JuJu Smith-Schuster and Marquez Valdes-Scantling, and they still have plenty of picks at their disposal.

Their trade with the Patriots, sending them No. 94 and No. 121, allowed the Chiefs to keep their two second-round picks at No. 50 and No. 62. The Chiefs also have a third-round pick at No. 103 on Friday night, along with a fourth-rounder and four picks in the seventh round when the draft concludes on Saturday.

"As much as I love Thursday, our staff loves Friday and Saturday even more," Veach said. "This is when we have a lot of fun the next few days and I'm looking forward to it."

Truman track and field runs away from competition in home meet

By Truman State Athletics

The Truman State Track & Field teams returned to action on Thursday hosting the Truman Twilight Meet at Stokes Stadium/Kenneth Gardner Track. Grace Feeney and Jacob Morris each claimed three individual event titles during the meet.

Feeney was part of four event wins, three as an individual and placed fourth in a fifth event, the shot put. Feeney took top honors in the high jump, clearing 1.50 meter, long jump with a mark of 5.08 meters, and the 100 hurdles with a time of 15.99. Her 4x400 relay team with Sophie Oxandale, Alayna Pipkin and Audrey Gilmore won the event in a tune-up for their Drake Relays run tomorrow afternoon.

Brianna Barton took two gold medals as she swept the 100 and 200 meter dashes. She ran 13.26 in the 100 and 27.03 in the 200. Other winners on the women's side included Oxandale in the 400 meter dash, Cora Stimpson (1500m run), Kirsten Poole with a PR time in the 400 meter hurdles, Addie Mathis with a PR in the 800, Lea Moose with a PR in the javelin and Addison Walker in the triple jump.

Morris won all three throwing events he competed in during the meet. He was the victory with a personal best mark in the discus at 51.87, took the hammer in 55.09 and the shot put in 14.99. Kelly Hoskins won both of his events winning the pole vault (3.81m) and the triple jump (12.72m).

Grant Lair was the victor in the 800-meter run with a PR time of 1:56.28. Other PRs on the men's side included Joe Armour (1500m run), Trevor Carey (400m dash), Brett Griesbaum (400m dash) and Nathan Bufka (hammer).

The next team action for the Bulldogs will be next week at the Great Lakes Valley Conference Championships at Southwest Baptist University in Bolivar.

GOLF

Kirksville played Monday night at Capital City, played at home Tuesday, then its conference tournament Wednesday at Moberly. It's an exhausting run but is the last regular season action the Tigers have. So it will be a good mental test as the Tigers prepare for districts afterward. Kirksville will have plenty of practice time after since the Class 3 District 4 tournament Hodge Park Golf Course in Kansas City is scheduled for May 9.

Across a wet and windy spring, the Tigers' wits have been tested the whole way through. So Allen feels his guys have the fortitude to finish this run and get better with it.

"I think the thing I'm most proud of is — we've had some rough rounds and some rough weather, but guys have never quit," Allen said. "That's what I'm proud of most as coach of this team, and that's one through 13, my varsity and my junior varsity. When the going gets tough, we keep competing."

The hope is that Tuesday's good scores can continue on into the post-season.

"I know if me and Sam play like we did today, we'll do fine because we shot some very good scores," Tarr said.
