Daily Express

The Missouri National Guard Hall of Fame Induction Ceremony was held on Friday, Sept. 9 at the Rieger Armory in Kirksville, home of the Hall of Fame. Four national guardsmen were celebrated including Lt. Col. James E. Rieger for whom the armory is named.

The program started with the posting of the colors by the Truman State University Color Guard and the National Anthem sung by Dawn Howd, also of Truman State. Several speakers took to the podium prior to the recognition ceremony

Gates was then assigned to the 761st Tank Battalion, an all-Black unit, in December 1942, and was later promoted to battalion gunner officer. He served in the European Theatre during four major campaigns and spent 183 consecutive days in combat. Additionally, he received a battlefield promotion to captain while serving in Europe during the war. With his experiences, he became the most decorated soldier in his unit, earning both a Silver Star Medal and a Bronze Star, in addition to a Purple Heart for wounds received in combat. He later commanded Company C. In the years after the war, he returned to Kansas City, where he worked for the 242nd Combat Engineer Battalion of the Missouri National Guard, which at one time was an all-Black unit. He was named commander of the battalion at the rank of major and retired from the Missouri National Guard at the same rank.

Rieger was later lauded a hero in World War I after leading a charge to capture a critical hill during the Meuse-Argonne Offensive, earning a Distinguished Service Medal and the nickname "Hero of the Argonne." In the years after the war, he served as an attorney in Kirksville, as a city clerk and volunteered on the local school board. The Armory in Kirksville was later named in his honor.

Major William Robertson

Major William Robertson (Deceased). Through his service, Robertson became known as the "Father of the Air National Guard" in Missouri. He served in the Army Air Service in World War I. After the war, he co-founded Robertson Aircraft Corporation in St. Louis and worked with Albert Bond Lambert to establish Lambert-St. Louis Field. The 35th Division Aviation, Missouri National Guard, was organized in St. Louis on June 23, 1923, when the 110th Observation Squadron, 110th Photo Section and 170th Intelligence Section were federally recognized and designated as components of the 35th Division Air Service. Robertson served as the first commanding officer of the 35th Division Air Service. In 1943, Robertson, along with St. Louis Mayor William Becker and eight others, was killed when a glider crashed at Lambert-St. Louis Field during a flight demonstration.

OBITUARIES

Mabel Louise (Tomlin) Reed

Mar. 6, 1933 – Sept. 8, 2022

Mabel Louise (Tomlin) Reed, 89, beloved wife, mother, grandmother, great-grandmother, sister, and aunt passed away on September 8, 2022 in Bloomington, IN in the comforting presence of her family.

Mabel was born in Linn County, MO to Howard Glenn and Wilna E (Neal) Tomlin on March 6, 1933. She graduated as the senior class valedictorian from Linneus High School in Linneus, MO and went on to study at the University of Missouri on scholarship, where she played on the women's varsity basketball team, was a member of Kappa Epsilon Alpha, freshman women's honorary, and Phi Upsilon Omicron, home economics honorary. After receiving her BS degree, she continued on to receive her MS in Dietetics. Education played a fundamental and important part throughout Mabel's life.

She worked as a registered dietitian in Kirksville and Macon, MO.

She married Thomas Schrock Reed on December 7, 1958 in Linneus for a marriage that would last nearly 60 years and together they became the parents of five children. In addition to her dietitian positions, Mabel also served as the organist for the First Christian Church in Kirksville for many years. Music brought much joy to Mabel's life whether it was playing in the evenings with Tom, teaching piano lessons, playing for the church, or listening to her children practice as she cleaned the kitchen after dinner. She was always quick to give encouragement to budding musicians by explaining that the best musicians couldn't be everywhere, so they should go ahead and play anyway.

Her Christian faith was a fundamental part of Mabel's life as she would tell the story of encountering Jesus during a bout of scarlet fever at the age of 7. She would recount how she held His hand and He told her to take care of the unfortunate people in the world. This message was imprinted upon her heart and became her life's focus. Mabel was kind, selfless, gentle and a compassionate listener for all. She was never too busy to provide support to her family or to take a phone call from someone in need.

Those who knew her best also knew that alongside her gentleness of spirit, came an unrivaled strength of spirit, which fueled her seemingly limitless energy. No one had more grit than Mabel—whether it was helping the coaches teach the young boys of Linneus how to properly play baseball, getting the farm chores done, striving in her own education while tutoring others to their full potential, sharing her immense gift of music on the organ after long work weeks, serving as President multiple terms in her local PEO chapter, leading the local 4-H group, spending countless hours working in the garden and teaching her family the importance of caring for God's earth, or volunteering for a multitude of community and church service works. All of this plus raising five children and working full time. Her love of life and intent to serve were boundless.

At the end of the day however, Mabel's greatest joy was her family. She loved being a sister, aunt, mother, grandmother and great-grandmother. From the extended family Easter gatherings in Laclede to the Labor Day get-togethers in Linneus, Mabel was always on the ready with the red cooler filled with food to share, much of which came from her immense garden (taken care of after a long day at the hospital), and especially at Easter, all would enjoy her sugar cookies. Family visits always involved her famous coffee cake and an abundance of activity in the kitchen. However, she was never too busy to make biscuits with a grandchild or back in the day, to slip Duchess, the family dog, a few treats.

Mabel was preceded in death by her husband, Thomas Reed, grandson, Matthew Reed, her sister and brother-in-law, Elizabeth and Leland Buckman, and her father and mother. She is survived by her brother, John (Dorothy) Tomlin, of Sumner, MO, and sister, Evelyn Huffman, of Madison, WI.

Also surviving are her five children. Scott (Cindy) Reed of Grayslake, IL, Ann (Charles) Ellis of West Chester, PA, Russell (Jennifer) Reed of St. Peters, MO, Ben (Tammy) Reed of Kirksville and Laurel (Dr. Robert) Adams of Bloomington, IN, and her 15 grandchildren — Dr. Michael, Daniel, David, Christine (Chuck McGowan) Johnny, Jeremiah (Samantha), Patrick, Mathew, Sarah, Arabelle, Peres, Katherine, Carson, Josh, and Liam as well as 11 great-grandchildren and many nieces and nephews.

Visitation for family and friends will be held at Travis-Noe Funeral Home, 1008 West Potter Avenue in Kirksville, MO on Friday, Sept. 16, 2022 from 5:00 to 7:00 PM.

The funeral service will be held at the First Christian Church, 100 North High Street in Kirksville, MO on Saturday, Sept, 17, 2022 at 1:00 PM. Burial will follow at Jenkins Cemetery in Browning, MO.

In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to the Alzheimer's Association. Donations may be left at or mailed to Travis-Noe Funeral Home, P.O. Box 306, Kirksville, MO 63501.

Kirksville police capture man wanted on felony probation/parole warrants

By Kirksville Police Department

Kirksville police have a man in custody after he fled from them in a vehicle chase that ended in Schuyler County. The incident began at approximately 1:14 p.m., on Friday, Sept. 9, when Kirksville police officers attempted to stop a black BMW SUV in the 2200 block of North Baltimore, driven by Jackie Wayne Chapman, 44, of Trimble, Mo. Police knew there were felony probation/parole warrants for Chapman's arrest related to prior charges of stalking and possession of a weapon.

Officers believed Chapman to be armed and dangerous and when Chapman was identified while failing to stop for police, a pursuit led north on US Hwy. 63. Police terminated the pursuit and relayed his last know direction of travel to other local law enforcement agencies. A short time later, a Schuyler County Sheriff's deputy was able to stop Chapman and take him into custody for his warrants.

The Kirksville Police Department was assisted by Adair County Sheriff's Office, Schuyler County Sheriff's Office and the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

A criminal charge is merely an accusation and a defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

In 1992 and 1993, Bartlett played both baseball and football for Northeast Missouri State (now Truman State) before going on to graduate from Central Missouri State BS in Education. After a short career in teaching and coaching football at the high school level, he began a career in the hospitality industry. He currently resides in Kansas City Mo.

Mike Munn

Mike Munn dominated both sides of the ball when the gritty Kirksville

Shane Weber hands the award to Sean Bartlett.

Tigers took the field in the fall of 1968. At 6'1" and 205 lbs, Munn anchored the offensive line at center for the prolific offensive season. As only a sophomore, Munn was rewarded with selection as the center for North Central Missouri Conference All Star Team of '68, the only sophomore on the All Star Team. He was also 1st Team All District.

Equally dominate on defense, Munn racked up 58 solo tackles that season, with a single game high of 14.

Patrick Williams

Patrick Williams, KHS '75, earned All Conference honors as a defensive back in the fall of 1974 on a team that had only one win. That win, however, broke a KHS 36 game losing streak and began the turnaround of the football Tigers.

Williams' unanimous selection to the Football Tiger Hall of Fame has as much to do with his accomplishments and contributions off the field as on. Known by most as "Mr Williams", he had a 31-year career with the Kirksville R-III school district after earning bachelors, masters, and specialist degrees in education from Northeast Missouri State (now Truman State) where he was recruited to play baseball for the Bulldogs.

During his career in Kirksville schools, Williams served as teacher, assistant football coach, assistant principal at William Mathew Middle School, principal of Kirksville High School (18 years) and superintendent of Kirksville R-III for eight years. It was as superintendent that Williams perhaps made his greatest contributions to Kirksville Tiger Football, overseeing the massive upgrades to Spainhower Field that included upgraded bleachers, a new entryway celebrating the history of the program, new vendor building and a resurfacing of the field to artificial turf.

Shane Weber hands the award to Mike Munn.

Truman again garnered a place on the list of Most Innovative Schools, coming in as the No. 1 public school – tied for No. 9 overall – in the Midwest Region. Of the 19 schools on this particular list, Truman was the only Missouri university to be included.

Three Truman undergraduate programs also earned recognition on standalone lists compiled by U.S. News & World Report. The computer science, nursing and business programs all met selective criteria which led to their inclusion on three respective lists.

U.S. News & World Report bases its rankings on several indicators of academic excellence, including graduation and retention rates, faculty resources, assessment by peers, financial resources, student excellence and alumni giving. Complete listings are available at usnews.com/colleges.

Adair County Covid cases fall in last seven days

By Adair County Health Department

The number of cases of Covid-19 reported to the Adair County Health Department over the seven-day period ending Sept. 5 fell to 36 from the 56 cases reported during the previous period. Cases have started falling across the country as well, although the known total of deaths from Covid-19 since the beginning of the pandemic are still rising. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) continues to recommend vaccination as an effective way to lower the risk of severe Covid-19, hospitalization and death. Moreover, the CDC recommends that those ages 12 and older who are fully vaccinated or boosted receive a new bivalent Covid-19 vaccine formulated to address the protein spike in both the original strain of the virus as well as the aggressive Omicron BA.5 strain. The Adair County Health Department will have doses of the bivalent Pfizer-BioNTech booster available soon. The Health Department also continues to administer the initial two-dose series of the Pfizer vaccine and monovalent booster doses. Vaccines are administered to those ages 12 and older on Tuesdays from 2 to 4 p.m., to children ages 5 through 11 on Thursdays from 3 to 5:30 p.m., and to children ages 6 months to 4 years old from 9 to 11 a.m. on Thursdays. To schedule an appointment for the appropriate dose of vaccine or booster, or if you have questions regarding the timing of primary vaccines and booster doses, call the Adair County Health Department at 660-665-8491.

Bivalent Covid booster doses will soon be available in county

By Adair County Health Department

The Adair County Health Department will soon be offering the bivalent Covid-19 Pfizer-BioNTech booster. The Pfizer and Moderna bivalent formulas recently received approval by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and are now recommended by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) as protection against Covid-19. The previous two-dose series and boosters manufactured by Pfizer and by Moderna, as well as the one-dose Johnson & Johnson vaccine, are monovalent, meaning they comprise a single mRNA sequence to combat the original Covid-19 strain. The new bivalent boosters contain the mRNA protein spike sequence for both the original strain and for the Omicron BA.5. Omicron BA.4 and BA.5, now largely responsible for the continued spread of Covid-19, contain the same spike protein. The Pfizer bivalent booster is approved for administration to those ages 12 and older. The Moderna bivalent is approved for those ages 18 and older. Those eligible for the bivalent booster may receive a dose by either manufacturer. Research has indicated that mixing the Pfizer and Moderna doses neither increases nor decreases their efficacy. To be eligible to receive the bivalent booster, people of the approved ages for each manufacturer must have completed the two-dose series of the Pfizer or Moderna or the single dose of the Johnson & Johnson monovalent vaccine at least two months before receiving the bivalent booster. Any monovalent booster doses must have been administered at least two months prior to receiving the bivalent booster as well. Those who are not fully vaccinated already will need to complete the two-dose series before they are eligible for the bivalent booster. The Adair County Health Department continues to administer the monovalent Pfizer vaccines and boosters to those ages 12 and older on Tuesdays from 2 to 4 p.m. Although children under age 12 are not yet eligible yet for a bivalent booster, the Health Department administers the monovalent Pfizer vaccine to those ages 5 through 11 on Thursdays from 3 to 5:30 p.m., and to children ages 6 months to 4 years old from 9 to 11 a.m. on Thursdays. The Adair County Health Department will announce availability of the bivalent booster once the Department receives the doses ordered. Area pharmacies and healthcare providers will also begin offering the bivalent boosters. The annual influenza vaccine and the bivalent boosters can be administered at the same time and even in the same arm to eliminate injection site soreness in both arms.

Combat childhood obesity with focus on diet, activity, sleep, and screen time

September is National Childhood Obesity Awareness Month. Childhood obesity in America has increased over the past 20 years. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends helping children to develop healthy eating habits to prevent childhood obesity and the problems it can cause later in life. Some healthy eating tips include:

- Avoiding calorie-rich, prepackaged/highly processed foods.
- Pack lunches with vegetables, fruits, and whole grain products.
- Include low-fat or non-fat dairy products, including cheeses and yogurt.
- Provide healthy proteins like lean meats, chicken, turkey, fish, and beans.
- Encourage water over sugary drinks like juice, sweet teas, and soda.
- Avoid foods high in sugar and saturated fats.

Teaching kids how to eat healthy is one of the best ways to ensure they live a long, happy, and healthy life!

Healthy eating is only one piece of the puzzle. Encouraging an active lifestyle with regular physical activity is also a must. Children who are regularly physically active enjoy benefits like stronger bones, lower blood pressure, decreased stress/anxiety, higher self-esteem, and healthier body weights. Children ages 6 to 17 years old should have an hour of physical activity every day. A lesser known contributor to childhood obesity is poor sleep habits. Children with too little sleep are at higher risk of obesity. Lack of sleep causes kids to have less energy for exercise and to eat more. All kids need more sleep than adults, and their sleep needs change as they age. School-aged children need 9-12 hours of sleep on average, while teens need 8-10 hours of sleep per night. One final factor contributing more and more to childhood obesity is screen time. Screen time refers to watching TV, playing video games, surfing the internet, etc. Screen time can reduce children's physical activity and should be limited to no more than two hours daily. In addition, the American Academy of Pediatrics recommends children age 2 and younger should not have any time in front of screens, as they need to be active to develop many of their motor, communication, and problem solving skills. I hope you found this educational! Have a great September!

DR. ERIC LESH, DO
ATSU Kirksville Family Medicine

Middle schooler finds it hard to make new friends

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is in eighth grade at a small private school. The problem is, she doesn't have any friends there. Away from school she makes friends easily. But around classmates she has known for years, she's quiet and awkward. She isn't invited to parties or other fun activities. She wants to make friends and join in conversations but doesn't know how. (I'm no help. I had the same problem at her age.) Her dad and I tell her high school will be easier, but she doesn't want to wait. Do you have something that might help her? -- MOM OF AN OUTSIDER IN MISSOURI

DEAR MOM: By the time seventh grade rolls around, "cliques" have usually solidified, and the members are not generous about admitting outsiders. I agree that things will improve when your daughter gets into high school. As freshmen, everyone starts out on equal footing, and because classes are larger and students are funneling in from other schools, there's more opportunity to meet new people.

JEANNE PHILLIPS
DEAR ABBY

I speak from experience. I was excluded when I moved to a new school in seventh grade, and I know how it felt. The subject of social dexterity has been in my column before because readers of all ages ask about it. It's important to understand that few individuals are born socially adept. It's a skill that must be learned, then polished until it becomes second nature. Part of being social is showing an interest in others. A smile is an excellent icebreaker, and one of the secrets of being charming is being a good listener. The keys to being liked by both sexes are simple: Be kind. Be honest. Be tactful. Offer a compliment -- but only if it's deserved. Be well groomed, tastefully dressed and conscious of your posture. Confident individuals stand tall. Another useful icebreaker is to ask others what they think and be open to listening to their opinions. Be a good listener and people will think you're a genius. I publish a booklet, "How To Be Popular," for people of all ages. It contains many other useful tips for polishing social skills. You can order one for your daughter by sending your name and address, plus a check or money order for $8 (U.S. funds), to: Dear Abby Popularity Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, IL 61054-0447. Shipping and handling are included in the price. Some people are anxious socially because they become so focused on their own insecurities, it distracts them from reaching out. The solution to that is: Concentrate on the OTHER person. If your daughter tries it, she will find that it works. Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Contact Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD...

Odd Job
Kindt Clinics in Amsterdam, which treats anxiety, phobias and PTSD, posted a job opening for someone who is able to vomit at will, NL Times reported on Sept. 4. The person who fills the part-time position will help patients who have a fear of vomiting, replacing a previous employee who retired. Psychologist Maartje Kroesse, who posted the position, said the response has been overwhelming: "There are many more applications than expected. Our new transmitter is certainly among them." (Transmitter?) One hopeful applicant gushed: "Now I can finally share my art: vomit on command!"

PDH: Public Display of Hygiene
During the U.S. Open tennis tournament on Sept. 6, as a match unfolded between Nick Kyrgios of Australia and Karen Khachanov of Russia at Arthur Ashe Stadium, two men in the stands stole the show for a few minutes, the Associated Press reported. YouTube prankster JiDion donned a barber's cape while a second man gave him a trim with clippers -- at least until tournament security arrived. "They were escorted out of their seats and then off the grounds for disruption of play," USTA's Brendan McIntyre said. "There's a first time for anything." However, it wasn't the first for JiDion: He got a trim at a Timberwolves vs. Mavericks game in March, and in July, he was banned for life from Wimbledon for blowing an air horn during a match between Novak Djokovic and Jannik Sinner.

Pricey Potty Break
Sailboat pilot Steve Strickland was headed to Chesapeake Bay from Queens, New York, early on Labor Day when nature called, NBC Philadelphia reported. He set the boat on autopilot and stepped away, but "the autopilot shot off," he said. The boat, which he'd bought only three weeks before, hit a rock jetty and became stuck in the sand at a beach in Ocean City, New Jersey, around 4 a.m. Strickland had to wait until afternoon to get a tow. For him, Labor Day amounted to "a lot of headache and a lot of money."

Area high school football results for Sept. 9

By Adam Tumino
Daily Express

Week three of the 2022 football season saw two area high school teams improve to 3-0 with mixed results for the other five.

Putnam County hosted Milan in a local matchup. It was Putnam County's home opener, and the Midgets celebrated the occasion with a 21-18 win over the Wildcats. Putnam County improved to 3-0 for the first time in over 15 years with the win. Milan fell to 1-2.

Also improving the 3-0 was Macon with a 26-18 home win over Clark County. It is the first time since the 2019 season that Macon has won its first three games.

Schuyler County continued its early-season success with a 70-46 win over Keytesville with Brunswick, Northwestern. Schuyler County improved to 2-1 with the win, already eclipsing their combined win total from the last two seasons combined. The Rams were 0-8 last season and 1-8 the season prior.

Kirksville was looking to move to 2-1 on the season, but instead fell to 1-2 with a 29-0 loss at home against Savannah. It was the Tigers' second-straight home game following a 40-14 win over Chillicothe.

Also sitting at 1-2 after week three action is Knox County, although the Eagles reached that record with a win this week. They beat Northland Christian 66-12, bouncing back from back-to-back losses by 31 and 32 points respectively.

Still looking for a win this season is Scotland County. The Tigers' margin of defeat has gotten smaller each week, with this week's 28-10 loss against Fayette marking a new high in points scored so far.

The schedule for week four is as follows:

- Kirksville at Moberly
- Knox County vs. Stanberry
- Macon at Palmyra
- Milan vs. Princeton with Newtown-Harris
- Putnam County vs. Trenton
- Schuyler County at North Shelby
- Scotland County at Salisbury

Truman football team jumps ahead early, gets 1st win of season

By Adam Tumino
Daily Express

After late turnovers came back to bite the Truman State football in its opener last week, the Bulldogs responded with a turnover-free performance against South Dakota Mines on Saturday and picked up their first win of the season.

Truman jumped ahead early and fended off a fourth-quarter push from the Hardrockers, holding on to win 27-20.

The Truman defense started the game strong once again, forcing a three-and-out to open the game and giving the ball over to quarterback Nolan Hair and the offense. The Bulldogs then drove 73 yards on seven plays, capping off the drive with a 10-yard touchdown pass from Hair to Tate Crane.

South Dakota Mines then fumbled on the first play of the ensuing drive, giving Truman the ball at the Hardrockers' 23-yard line. Truman cashed in immediately with Hair hitting Chris Kerr on a 23-yard touchdown pass to go up 13-0. Just 19 seconds came off the clock between Truman touchdowns.

South Dakota Mines was able to get on the board next, scoring on a one-yard touchdown run from quarterback Jayden Johannsen near the end of the first quarter.

Truman was able to get the lead back to two scores before the half with Hair's third touchdown pass of the game and second to Kerr, this time from 34 yards out to go up 20-6

Neither team scored in the third quarter, and the score remained 20-6 until Truman scored once again just 30 seconds into the fourth quarter when running back Shamar Griffith ran it in from 12 yards out to increase the lead to 27-6.

South Dakota Mines then forced three-consecutive three-and-outs from the Bulldogs, scoring a touchdown following the second punt to get with 14 points.

The next punt from Truman's Taylor Cornish pinned the Hardrockers at their own one-yard line, the South Dakota Mines then drove 99 yards in just over two minutes, scoring with 37 seconds left to cut the Truman lead to 27-20.

Truman was then able to recover an onside kick and run out the clock.

Hair finished the game 18-of-29 passing for 228 yards, three touchdowns and no interceptions. He also led the team in rushing, picking up 53 yards on six runs. Griffith collected 36 yards on 14 carries and a touchdown.

Kerr had a big game receiving. Including the two touchdowns, he had five catches for 90 yards.

Truman's run defense was stifling once again. They allowed just 46 net rushing yards and an average of 1.6 yards per carry.

Defensive linemen Zach Rouland, Robert Greco and Jack Weltha each recorded a sack while defensive backs Ben Watson and Ryan Olivas each had an interception. Watson also forced and recovered a fumble.

Truman will be back on the road for its next game against Hillsdale College on Sept. 17. The Chargers are 2-0 on the season.

Carlos Alcaraz: 19, US Open champ, No. 1, unique

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Carlos Alcaraz got out of bed Monday as a U.S. Open champion, as the No. 1-ranked player in men's tennis at age 19 — and, truth be told, exhausted.

“I woke up dead,” the Spaniard said through that already-familiar wide smile during an interview with The Associated Press that followed a Times Square photo shoot with his fingerprint-smudged first Grand Slam trophy.

“So many tough days in a row. High intensity. High level,” said Alcaraz, the first man in 30 years to win five-setters in the fourth round, quarterfinals and semifinals and still come away with the title at Flushing Meadows. “I don't know how I played so many tough and long matches.”

By the end of that run, which included saving a match point during his 5-hour, 15-minute quarterfinal victory over Jannik Sinner, then a 4-hour, 19-minute semifinal victory over Frances Tiafoe, before Sunday's 6-4, 2-6, 7-6 (1), 6-3 victory over Casper Ruud, Alcaraz was spent.

Not that he was about to let anyone know.

“You have to show the opponents you are good, you are fine. But you're dealing with problems all the time. You have to know that — and you have to overcome that. You have to be fine with that,” Alcaraz said, sitting in a stuffed chair on the top floor of a Manhattan hotel, skyscrapers jutting beyond the windows. “After the quarterfinals against Jannik, I woke up the next day and I almost couldn't walk. But you have to give everything you have inside. All the hard work you put in every day is for that.”

That hard work is what transformed a body his coach, 2003 French Open champion and U.S. Open finalist Juan Carlos Ferrero, likened to “spaghetti; very thin” when he teamed up with a 15-year-old Alcaraz.

“No muscles at all. Not in the back, not in the legs,” Ferrero said. “But obviously we saw something very special.”

So, too, does the rest of the world.

His youth certainly contributes to the fascination with Alcaraz as the sport looks for a fresh face after decades of dominance by Rafael Nadal, Novak Djokovic and Roger Federer, who each has at least 20 Grand Slam titles.

Alcaraz is the first teenager to top the ATP rankings, the first teenager to win the U.S. Open since Pete Sampras in 1990, the first teenager to win any major tournament since Nadal in 2005.

Asked what he considers his best quality, Alcaraz paused to ponder, then chuckled sheepishly.

“I'm a dynamic player. I can do anything on court,” he said. “The opponent can't read my shots. In some moments, I can try (unique) shots. I can do a lot of shots.”

Like the behind-the-back one against Sinner, say. Or the sprinting-away-from-the-net, twisting flick of a forehand he pulled off more than once against Tiafoe. Or the landing-on-his-belly-on-the-forehand that just barely missed against Ruud.

“I've always been like that. I never give up. I just believe I can win every point,” Alcaraz said. “If the point seems lost, I still believe I have a chance to get the ball, to keep the point alive. So I run. And I consider myself fast.”

Ruud considers Alcaraz a mixture of Nadal's speed and Djokovic's flexibility.

“It makes us other players feel like you need to paint the lines, sort of, to be able to hit a winner. Sometimes even that's not enough,” said Ruud, a 23-year-old from Norway who is now ranked No. 2 after two runner-up finishes at the past three Slams.

“He's very fast. He's very quick. He's a great mover,” Ruud said. “He can get to balls that we've probably never seen before.”

Alcaraz grew up admiring Nadal, who's 36, and Federer, 41 — “but,” he said Monday, “a little bit more Rafa, because he's Spanish.”

There tends to be an obsession in all sports with finding a past athlete with whom to compare a budding star. So some will note that Alcaraz's attacking, all-court game is closer to Federer's than Nadal's.

But it's not time for comparisons. Not yet, anyway.

Carlos Alcaraz wants to be the best version of Carlos Alcaraz, not anyone else. And that makes perfect sense.

“Every player is different. Every player has their style. And some players will look like other players in the game. But I've never wanted to seem like another player, like Federer or Rafa or anyone,” he said. “I'm just who I am. This is my game.”

Boston Marathon to welcome nonbinary athletes to 2023 race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOSTON — Nonbinary athletes will be able to run in next year's Boston Marathon without having to register as members of the men's or women's divisions, race organizers announced Monday.

The Boston Athletic Association, which administers the prestigious marathon, said it's been working to expand opportunities for nonbinary people — not just for the marathon but for the BAA's other races, which include a 5K, a 10K and a half marathon.

Organizers confirmed the change as registration opened Monday for the 127th running of the marathon on April 17, 2023. A field of about 30,000 is expected for next spring's edition of the storied race.

Nonbinary athletes can submit entry applications if they've completed a marathon as a nonbinary participant during the current qualifying window, the BAA said. It said it's still working to establish qualifying standards for nonbinary participants, but that its online applications will include “nonbinary” as a gender option.

“Discussions are ongoing with nonbinary athletes in an effort to further promote inclusion at all BAA events,” the organization said, adding, “We view this first year as an opportunity to learn and grow together.”

Nonbinary pro miler and 1,500 runner Nikki Hiltz, who came out as transgender last year and narrowly missed a spot on the U.S. team for the Tokyo Olympics, lauded the move.

“There's still so much work to be done but I'm thrilled that nonbinary runners are being acknowledged by the Boston Marathon and BAA,” Hiltz tweeted.

The Boston Marathon is the latest major marathon to begin adding nonbinary divisions.

Last year's Philadelphia Distance Run, a premier event offering a half marathon and a 5K, became the first large race in the U.S. to establish a nonbinary division and offer equal prize money.

The Brooklyn Marathon and Half Marathon followed in April. Eighty-two competitors who had registered as nonbinary participants were among the finishers.

Former Chiefs assistant coach Reid pleads guilty in crash

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Former Kansas City Chiefs assistant coach Britt Reid pleaded guilty Monday to felony driving while intoxicated resulting in serious physical injury stemming from a 2021 crash, which occurred when his pickup truck struck two stopped cars on an interstate entrance ramp and seriously injured a 5-year-old girl.

Reid, the 37-year-old son of Chiefs coach Andy Reid, had been scheduled to go to trial on Sept. 26. Britt Reid had faced up to seven years in prison, but the plea deal means he now faces a possible sentence of up to four years in prison. He entered his plea in Jackson County Circuit Court in Kansas City. Sentencing is set for Oct. 28.

While questioning Reid to confirm that he understood the plea deal, Circuit Judge Charles McKenzie said Reid also could serve a short period of time in prison and then be placed on probation if he qualifies for good behavior.

Investigators said Reid was intoxicated and driving about 84 mph (135 kph) when his Dodge truck hit the cars on an entrance ramp to Interstate 435 near Arrowhead Stadium on Feb. 4, 2021.

A girl inside one of the cars, Ariel Young, suffered a traumatic brain injury. Six people, including Reid, were injured in the crash.

In court Monday, Reid acknowledged he was drinking on the night of the crash.

“I really regret what I did,” Reid said. “I made a huge mistake. I apologize to the family. I didn't mean to hurt anyone.”

Tom Porto, an attorney representing Ariel's family, said they opposed the plea deal.

“The five victims of this crime are outraged the prosecuting attorney is not seeking maximum sentence allowable by law,” Porto said. “The defendant is a prior offender whose actions caused a 5-year-old girl to be in a coma and seriously injured three others.”

A Kansas City police officer who arrived at the scene of the crash reported he could smell alcohol and that Reid's eyes were bloodshot, according to court documents. Reid had a blood-alcohol level of 0.113 two hours after the crash, police said. The legal limit is 0.08.

One of the vehicles he hit had stalled because of a dead battery and the second was owned by Ariel's mother, who had arrived to help.

The Chiefs reached a confidential agreement with Ariel's family in November to pay for her ongoing medical treatment and other expenses.

Reid underwent emergency surgery for a groin injury after the crash. The Chiefs placed Reid on administrative leave and his job with the team ended after his contract was allowed to expire.

Dolphins already reaping benefits of Tyreek Hill trade

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MIAMI GARDENS, Fla. — Tyreek Hill's success with Kansas City made it easy to imagine the impact he'd make on this new team.

Hill made his Dolphins debut in Sunday's 20-7 win over the New England Patriots, and his 94 receiving yards was the most by a Miami newcomer in Week 1 since running back Jim Kiick in 1970.

The Dolphins traded a package of draft picks to Kansas City for Hill and gave him a $120 million, four-year contract extension that made him one of the highest-paid NFL receivers ever.

It's already paying off.

“It feels awesome having someone like Tyreek,” quarterback Tua Tagovailoa said.

“I'll keep saying this, the dude is a cheat code. It's not easy covering this guy when he's motioning, running routes off of motions and doing his thing. I love it.”

In five career games against New England, Hill has 32 receptions for 495 yards and five touchdowns.

Coach Mike McDaniels said the team always plans to involve Hill. He added that there were a couple plays against the Patriots that frustrated Hill because he wasn't in the right place on the field when Tagovailoa threw the ball.

“I think each and every game we'll do our best to feature him unless the defense has to fully commit to take him away,” McDaniels said, “which is good news for the Miami Dolphins because we have some other playmakers.”

WHAT'S WORKING

Hill and Jaylen Waddle make up one of the fastest receiving duos in the league. Waddle showed his speed on a 42-yard touchdown catch against the Patriots, but more important, he showed he's healthy. He missed the preseason with a quad injury.

WHAT NEEDS HELP

The run game. The Patriots gained 78 yards on the ground to the Dolphins' 65. Miami's leading rusher was Chase Edmonds, who had 25 yards on 12 carries. McDaniels brought in Edmonds and Raheem Mostert in the offseason to make a difference in a run game that has struggled in recent years.
