Kirksville City Council tables decision on zoning for land being pursued by Hannibal Regional

By Marty Bachman
Daily Express

The Kirksville City Council, at their Sept. 19 meeting, tabled until next Monday a decision as to whether or not they will overturn a planning and zoning commission recommendation against the approval of an ordinance authorizing the rezoning of multiple parcels of land on the north side of the 1800-2100 blocks of East Illinois Street from RP-5 Planned Mobile Home Park District to C-1, Local Business District.

Hannibal Regional Healthcare System is looking to purchase 240-acres of property for facilities that would provide medical services, though they said it would not be a hospital. The property is currently zoned R-1 and R-5 and the property owner had originally asked for the entire 240 acres to be rezoned to C-3, Extended Business District. Century 21 broker Mark Whitney told the council that they had changed their application to turning just the R-5 zoned property to C-1.

According to a staff report prepared by Kirksville City Planner Mary Turner, city staff recommended to the city's planning and zoning commission that the request be denied as it directly contradicts with the city's future land use map and was not in accordance with the city's comprehensive plan.

"One Strategic Direction in the plan is to 'develop Kirksville to be compact, served by existing infrastructure, and limit sprawl,'" she wrote.

She stated in her report that the development would contribute to sprawl and add maintenance costs for additional infrastructure such as water, sewer, and streets.

"Such costs are unlikely to be recouped through property taxes paid by the developer and would therefore be passed along to citizens," she wrote in her report, noting that there are more than 200 parcels totaling over 500 acres of commercially zoned properties within the city that would allow for the proposed use.

According to Turner's report, at the Sept. 14 planning and zoning commission meeting, eight people spoke in favor of the rezoning application while three spoke against it, including the two largest adjacent property owners.

She said the comments in favor cited more health care options for local residents while those in opposition were "based on the lack of details provided by the applicant, the overall size of the property proposed for rezoning, and the latitude that would be provided by C-3 zoning."

A.T. Still University Board of Trustees appoints officers, elects new trustees

By A.T. Still University

A.T. Still University of Health Sciences (ATSU) Board of Trustees appointed officers and elected new members at its quarterly meeting July 22.

The following trustees were elected as officers: Chair Herb B. Kuhn, of Lohman, Missouri; Vice-chair Isaac R. Navarro, DMD, MPH, '08, of Visalia, California; and Secretary Michelle L. Mayo, PhD, of Durham, North Carolina.

Newly elected trustees are Kimberly Perry, DO, MBA, MHCM, FACEP, FACOEP, '91, of St. Louis, and Felix M. Valbuena, Jr, MD, DABFM, FAAFP, of Bloomfield Hills, Michigan.

Dr. Perry is an osteopathic physician with more than 30 years' leadership experience in emergency medicine, clinical education, and managed care in St. Louis. Dr. Perry has held positions as senior vice president and chief medical officer for Kindred Healthcare in Louisville, Kentucky; chief medical officer for United Healthcare in St. Louis; dean of medical education and chief of emergency medicine at BJC Christian Hospital; and various roles at SSM Health, including director of emergency medicine at St. Joseph Health Center and attending physician at DePaul Hospital. Dr. Perry is currently the regional chief medical officer for SSM Health.

Dr. Perry earned a bachelor of science degree in chemistry from Salve Regina University in Newport, Rhode Island; doctor of osteopathic medicine degree from

The planning commission voted 6-2 (with one absent) to recommend that the council deny the rezoning application. Turner highlighted in her report that Missouri statutes and the city's municipal code provide that if there is a formal protest against the rezoning request by the owners of 30 percent or more of the property, either of the areas of the land included in such proposed change or within an area determined by lines drawn parallel to and 185 feet distant from the boundaries of the district proposed to be changed, it would take a super majority of the council (four of five members) to pass the ordinance. She said at the council meeting that the number is at 60 percent.

"That's more than twice what would be required to kick in that super majority vote," she told the city council.

She cited additional options of medical care and treatment, as well as more learning opportunities for medical students as a positive impact on the city while expressing concern as to the impact on Northeast Regional Medical Center.

Fiscally, she said the expected investment in the property will provide an economic benefit during construction and if focused on health care, could enhance many community offerings.

"Ideally, there would be no impact on the existing businesses along Baltimore or within the downtown," she said. "The property currently provides minimal property tax, and as a tax-exempt entity, Hannibal Regional will not pay property tax.

At the council meeting, Turner went further in stating that according to state statute, zoning regulations have to be made in accordance with the comprehensive plan.

"It was a team of urban planners as well as a broad group of community members who put careful consideration into the amount of commercial versus residential properties on the future land use map based on our projected growth and an ideal ratio to reduce blight and encourage infill development," Turner told the council. "In other words, if we have too much land zoned commercial without a population growth to support it, blight will occur. So the plan is designed to encourage redevelopment."

She said that if the rezoning request went through, it will set a precedent that the city does not need to follow the future land use map, which will discount all the time and work and community input that went into the comprehensive plan, not to mention all of those who have taken the future land use map into account when making rezone requests or in purchasing land.

She said that the council has already denied at least one request for a zone change from R-3 to C-1 on the basis that it did not conform with the future land use map.

"That property was .6 acres and we denied it on this basis," she said, reiterating that the city had more than 200 parcels totaling over 500 acres of commercially zoned properties that would allow for the proposed use.

"They're mostly concentrated along Baltimore and there are opportunities for new development on both the north and south ends of town," she said. "So the decision before you is not about a single health care facility, it's about land use and the future landscape of our city."

Turner called it likely the largest rezone request in the city's history.

Mayor Zac Burden questioned why Hannibal would need to rezone 240 acres when Northeast Regional Medical Center only takes up 12 acres, which includes parking lots and the helipad.

He said that the council would need to consider the impact on future growth and infrastructure needs as well as that of the neighbors bordering the property. He said that they also needed to consider life-saving medical care in the community.

"A particular interesting concern for me is we have to be a community that has a hospital and I think those who've been involved in some of these discussions and heard from me before, it's imperative that whatever we go forward with, that we make sure that we have a viable hospital," he said. "We cannot be like some other cities in our community, areas that have lost hospital care, right? So we need to make sure that we're making some decisions that impact on that as well."

Burden said that residency programs for locally-trained doctors was crucial as well and that world class health care was befitting of a community that is the home of osteopathic medicine.

"We've got to figure out a way to move forward with perhaps allowing this that is going to minimize the impact of current homeowners to future homeowners and where we move forward as a community," Burden said.

Councilmember Kabir Bansal said that he would love to see additional opportunities for residents to have healthcare.

"You know, a lot of folks that I speak to, and I'm not discounting anything that we have in town, I think we have great doctors, we have great surgeons, but a lot of folks travel out of town for different types of specialized medicine," he said. "I think this may be an opportunity to take on."

Bansal said that he also did not want to discount the work of city staff and community members that spent time putting together the comprehensive plan.

"I think this is an opportunity that somebody from the outside wants to come in and help and develop and invest in that area," he said, noting the two arguments over the proposal. "In my mind, I'm looking at how can we increase the overall quality of living for our citizens and I listened to our citizens and I think this is something that would be desperately needed."

Councilmember Rick Steele said that 90 percent of the phone calls he's received in the last three months were from elderly people that can no longer drive to Columbia for their medical needs.

"And they keep asking, 'Can we get some more help in this area?'" he said. "I think as the population is aging, we're going to need more and more help. And I certainly believe that we should work with Hannibal Regional to get us there."

Councilmember Jennifer Walston said that she appreciated the work of those that put together the comprehensive plan and the recommendation of the planning and zoning commission, but she felt also that it was an "exciting opportunity" that added to the city's "historical roots" in healthcare.

"Our educational institutions all have health care programs that I think can work in partnership with more healthcare facilities as training opportunities," she said. "And obviously, as citizens just having those resources here and to serve the broader region is so valuable. I am really hoping that we can find a way to bring this to fruition because I'm excited about it, but I share the concerns that the planning and zoning commission brought up."

Todd Ahrens, president and CEO of Hannibal Regional told Burden that the trust selling the property was selling 240 acres and not piecing it off, which was the reason they were purchasing it all. He said that none of the other properties available in town were conducive to Hannibal's future plans, though they did not plan to use the entire 240 acres. He said though, that there was a process that depended upon a zoning change before they would be able to purchase the land.

Ahrens said that they have engaged an architectural design firm to assist them with this process and which would be participative, meaning that they would come to Kirksville and have town halls and forums to get city leaders perspectives on how that land could best be used as well as how other leaders in the community and other healthcare providers might be able to assist them.

"That would not only allow Hannibal Regional to improve the health of the community through the mechanisms that we talked about in May, I believe it was, but also use that lane in a way that's beneficial to the city of Kirksville," he said.

Ahrens said though that Hannibal Regional could not commit hundreds of thousands of dollars for design work and then not be able to get it done because they can't use the property for what they intended, saying it was putting the cart before the horse.

"I don't need 240 acres for health care facility development," he said. "I mean, I can see green space in there, you know, native habitat protection, hotels, restaurants, certainly the outpatient surgery center that I talked to you guys about in May, you know, maybe a new clinic site, as I mentioned in May as well, hospice house, things of that nature, all those are very much healthcare, but I can see I don't need all 240 acres."

He said that he would be willing to commit a certain percentage to be set aside for residential development as they complete the design process.

"Very happy to do that," he said.

Burden opened the meeting for public comments and for the next two hours, numerous residents spoke, voicing their opinion on the good and bad of Northeast Regional Medical Center, the need for more medical services in the community, the economics of the project, promises made to the community that went unfilled as well as criticism of the current zoning maps.

Tony Keene, CEO of Northeast Regional Medical Center, said that from having attended the planning and zoning commission meeting, he was hoping that everyone would have come with an open mind, thinking about "larger issues," but not long after arrival, he realized he was "fighting an uphill battle."

"I can see by the crowd and the makeup of the crowd that I'm kind of a lonely individual spitting into the wind," he said. "And so I will take this opportunity to just say that from my perspective, I'm offended that the city would so readily open another city [sic] with open arms to come in and save health care in the community when the office that I sit in is in a building that was built in 1950 as a hospital here in Kirksville."

Keene said that the Northeast Regional has had a relationship with A.T. Still University (ATSU) for a number of years and that while they don't own the building, they lease it from ATSU.

"So again, I find it to be somewhat offensive that you know, a city that came together to save Kraft and save other industries has not even reached out to us about concerns relative to the delivery of health care in this community," he said. "Hannibal Regional is a regional hospital exactly the same as us with the exact same types of capabilities that we have. Now when you talk about care going to Columbia, those are for higher levels of care that no regional hospital is going to be able to provide."

Keene said that the hospital's transfer rate has been in the 6 percent range for the last five to six years, which he said is not uncommon for a hospital their size.

"This was all done behind our backs," he said. "It was not forthright and the situation, the truth about this situation is that if an ASC is built in this community, if an imaging center is built in this community, if additional primary care is built in this community, it will siphon business off of us."

The council made the decision to table any decision in order for a legal determination to be made as to exactly how much of the property needs to be zoned commercial while maintaining the majority of land for residential housing.

Graves introduces bill to promote residency fairness for osteopathic medical students

By Congressman Sam Graves (MO-06)

WASHINGTON, DC – Congressman Sam Graves (MO-06), along with Representatives Diana Harshbarger (R-TN) and Chellie Pingree (D-ME), today introduced the Fair Access in Residency (FAIR) Act to reduce potential barriers that face osteopathic medical students when applying for federally-funded physician residency programs.

“North Missouri is the home to A.T. Still University in Kirksville, MO, the birthplace of osteopathic medicine, which continues to train the next generation of DOs. In a day and age when doctors are in short supply, specifically in rural areas, it’s critical they are able to complete their training and begin practicing,” said Graves. “Yet, many times osteopathic medical students aren’t even considered for taxpayer-funded residency programs. Rural healthcare needs the services and expertise of DOs like never before and this bill will remove some of the hurdles which can keep them from taking the next step in their training.”

“I am proud to help lead legislation that has the ability to transform accessibility to DOs across the country and strengthen our physician pipeline, especially in rural and underserved areas. It’s more critical now than ever that we ensure our taxpayer-funded residency training programs are fairly and equally de-playing all the best talent of tomorrow’s doctors and specialists, from both DO and MD educational backgrounds,” said Harshbarger. “This bill is an important step toward ensuring transparency and equality in our taxpayer-funded GME programs, with the ultimate goal of increasing the number of physicians trained and serving our communities.”

“As one of the fastest growing health professions in the country, Doctors of Osteopathic Medicine provide essential care in our communities, particularly in rural and underserved areas. It’s ridiculous that osteopathic medical students are facing discrimination and extra hurdles to accessing federally funded residency programs. The FAIR Act will help to ensure more accountability from these programs,” said Pingree. “I’m proud that so many dedicated DOs are being trained in Maine and across the country. We should be helping them serve patients without unnecessary barriers, which is exactly what this legislation aims to do.”

The FAIR Act requires taxpayer-funded graduate medical education (GME) programs to: (1) report annually the number of applicants for residency from MD- and DO-granting medical schools and how many such applicants were accepted from each respective type of school and (2) affirm annually that they accept applicants from MD- and DO-granting medical schools and that if an examination score is required for acceptance, the MD and DO licensing exams will be equally accepted.

“The Fair Access in Residency (FAIR) Act is crucial to the health and wellness of our country. Passage helps assure patients will continue to have options and choices for their healthcare,” said A.T. Still University President Craig M. Phelps, DO.

“We appreciate Reps. Harshbarger, Pingree and Graves’ effort to address the unfair barriers and discrimination that osteopathic medical students face when applying to federally funded residency training,” said American Association of Colleges of Osteopathic Medicine (AACOM) President and CEO Robert

Congressman Sam Graves

A. Cain, DO. “Ensuring that osteopathic medical students have an equitable path to residency not only reflects the spirit of single accreditation, which was designed to increase access to residency programs for both DOs and MDs, but it also addresses persistent and prevalent biases against osteopathic medical students, many of whom will go on to care for patients in rural and medically underserved communities. We also thank our peer organizations for supporting this vital bill.”

For our Health page, we know there are a lot of medical clinics and affiliated healthcare providers in the local area that have a message that they wish to share with the public. Whether it’s the findings of local research, ways to promote a healthy diet or lifestyle, or the best treatments for common ailments, we’re sure that the local medical community has a lot to share with the people of our community. Same as with our business page, we would also like stories about new training that your staff has received, a new hire with an exclusive area of expertise, a promotion of a staff member or the attendance at an important conference by clinic staff. While wife was away, husband discovered women's clothing

DEAR ABBY: My wife has been away for a while caring for her ill parents. Because I was alone, I decided to experiment with wearing women's clothes and found that I really enjoyed wearing leggings. They make very comfortable pajamas. I also found that sports bras not only provide compression that feels good, but also serve a purpose because I have rather enlarged breasts. Should I hide everything and put away my leggings and bras, or should I let her in on some of my secrets? -- DRESSED UP IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR DRESSED UP: I'm not sure what other "secrets" you have been hiding, but if they involve cross-dressing, you're not the only man who has discovered he enjoys wearing women's clothes. It may surprise you to know their wives help them do it. Your reasons for wanting to wear a sports bra and leggings seem practical. I see no reason to try to hide it from your wife.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married to a verbally abusive woman for 49 years. To the outside world she seems perfect, but behind closed doors she's nasty. She overreacts angrily to the tiniest problem and jumps down my throat when I ask her the simplest question. She complains about my poor memory and hearing. I am 75 and in good shape except for a belly, which she often makes fun of. I have recommended couples therapy, but she refuses to go. Please help me. -- EX-HAUSTED IN ARIZONA

DEAR EXHAUSTED: Therapy would be a good idea. Because your wife refuses to go, it might benefit you to talk to a mental health professional. While it won't solve her problems, it could help you get to the bottom of yours. Chief among them would be figuring out the reason you have tolerated your wife's verbal abuse for nearly half a century, and deciding what, if anything, to do about it. Please don't wait.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD...

Creme de la Weird

Ranjita Kundu of Kodameta, India, has accused her husband of stealing and selling one of her kidneys four years ago, Oddity Central reported. Kundu recently discovered after visiting the doctor that she has only one kidney; she believes that when she was treated for kidney stones four years ago, her husband secretly arranged for one of her kidneys to be removed and sold on the black market. "I was unaware of the whole incident," she said. She even knows who he sold it to: Asim Haldar, who also lives in her district. Kundu and her husband were married for 12 years before he took off with another woman eight months ago. Kundu said with help from his sister, he sold the organ to make up for dowry money he believed he was owed. Police have taken him into custody and are investigating.

Geography Is Hard

The recently renamed Washington Commanders are, understandably, trying to drum up excitement for their new brand, but one effort went disappointingly wrong, Yahoo! Sports reported. In Week 1 of the NFL season, an official gear truck just outside the stadium, which is located in Maryland, featured a mug with a big "W" on it and a silhouette of Washington state in the background. Of course, the Commanders' Washington is the District of Columbia variety. The mugs were quickly removed from the inventory.

Weapon of Choice

Pennsylvania State Police were called to a home in Monroe Township on Aug. 24 where a fight had taken place, WTAJ-TV reported. One of the combatants told officers that 35-year-old Brandon Shoop of Berkeley Springs, West Virginia, had punched him after a disagreement about food. Next, he said, Shoop picked up a half of a cinder block and swung it at the victim's head; he was able to partially duck, but the hit left a contusion behind his ear. Shoop then tried to strangle the victim but was pulled off by a female witness; he was later charged with, among other crimes, aggravated assault.

What's in a Name?

Al Pacino, admittedly, has committed a whole lifetime of crimes on the screen. Now, Alpatchino Jeune, 25, is following in his footsteps in real life, The Smoking Gun reported. Jeune was arrested in early June for beating up his pregnant girlfriend, who was driving him to work. She told police she asked him to "think of his unborn child," but he went on hitting her -- so she jumped out of the car and ran to an emergency room across the street. When Jeune didn't show up for his Sept. 1 court date, he was arrested again in Orlando, Florida, and his bond was revoked.

Slow start hurts Putnam County football team in 1st loss of season

By Adam Tumino
Daily Express

It was a meeting between unbeaten district opponents Friday as the 3-0 Putnam County Midgets hosted the 3-0 Trenton Bulldogs. Putnam County was unable to maintain its perfect record, though, as a slow start hurt the Midgets in a 42-20 loss.

Despite the loss, Putnam County is off to a 3-1 start for the first time since the 2006 season.

Trenton came out strong, going up 14-0 in the first quarter and growing that lead to 26-0 with just over three minutes to go in the first half. Putnam County managed to outscore the Bulldogs 20-16 the rest of the way, but the damage was already done.

Putnam County head coach Adam Huse, in his first season with the team, said that he was happy with how his team responded in the second half, but that they cannot afford to fall behind by that large a deficit early on.

“I’m proud of the way our kids fought and the way that they battled, but we can’t start slow and make mistakes against a really good quality team, and that’s what we did tonight,” he said. “I told them it’s not going to define who we are. We’re going to come back and get to work very quickly.”

It was the Trenton run game that was responsible for all of the Bulldogs’ scoring, with senior quarterback Coleman Griffin opening the scoring with a 44-yard touchdown run just over two minutes into the game. Griffin scored again on a five-yard run with 1:24 left in the first quarter.

Senior running back Sam Gibson scored the third touchdown of the game on a four-yard run early on in the second quarter before Griffin collected his third touchdown on a two-yard run with just over three minutes left in the half to put the Bulldogs up 26-0.

Then the Putnam county offense kicked into gear, driving down the field on the ensuing possession and scoring with just over a minute remaining before halftime when junior quarterback Trace Riediger hit a wide open Vincent Jones, who then backpedaled into the endzone for the score.

The Midgets came out strong in the second half, with the defense forcing a quick three-and-out to open the half and the offense then driving down the field and scoring on a one-yard run up the middle from senior running back Chase Tomin.

Later in the quarter, Gibson ran for his second touchdown for Trenton before Putnam County answered with another touchdown from Riediger to Jones. This time Riediger was rolling to his right and threw on the run to Jones, who made the catch in the corner of the endzone.

Down by 14 points in the fourth quarter, the Midgets looked to be in good position when linebacker Blaine Perkins intercepted a Griffin pass with 6:47 to go. Unfortunately for Putnam County, Trenton got an interception of its own just two plays later. Gibson ran for his third touchdown soon after, putting Trenton up by the final score of 42-20.

Huse said the fact that the players continued playing hard throughout the game shows their high level of commitment to the team, especially following some tough seasons for the program in recent years.

“It shows the fight that we have,” he said. “These kids have had some rough years the last few years, and they are fighting really, really hard to try and change that. And we’ve got a great year.”

The Midgets were 2-7 two seasons ago and have already equaled their win total from last year’s 3-7 campaign. Huse said there are still a few things to work on if the team is going to surpass that win total by beating Princeton on the road in week five.

“We need to get a little more disciplined, I think, with some of our stuff, and that starts with me making sure that we get that done and get that taken care of,” he said. “But our kids show up every day, practice really well, and we’re going to keep doing that.”

Princeton could provide a nice opportunity for the Midgets to get back on track following the loss. The Tigers are 0-4 so far this season.

Local high school football results for Sept. 16

By Adam Tumino
Daily Express

Week four of the 2022 high school football season is in the books. Three local teams picked up wins in their fourth game, with one team remaining unbeaten on the season.

That team is the Macon Tigers, who set a new season high in points scored in their 49-14 win over Palmyra. Macon is now averaging 33.8 points per game on offense and is allowing 11.5 points on defense.

Putnam County was also looking to improve to 4-0, but the Midgets fell to Trenton by a score of 42-20. Despite the loss, Putnam County’s 3-1 record is its best through four games since the 2006 season.

Kirksville was able to bounce back after being shutout at home by Savannah in week three, beating Moberly 34-14 on the road to improve to 2-2. Kirksville has been outscored 56-14 in its two losses and has outscored opponents 74-28 in its two wins.

Milan also got a week-four win coming off a loss to improve to 2-2. The Wildcats beat Princeton at home 34-14 after losing to Putnam County by just three points in week three.

Scotland County lost its fourth game in a row to start the season, falling 48-7 against Salisbury on the road. The Tigers have had a tough slate of opponents so far, with three of the four teams they have lost to owing 3-1 records this season.

Both local eight-man football teams suffered week four losses. Knox County had picked up its first win of the season in week three, but then lost 72-38 against Stanberry. Schuyler County was also coming off a week-three win. The Rams lost 74-30 against a strong South Shelby squad.

The week five schedule is as follows:

- Kirksville at Marshall
- Knox County vs. North Shelby
- Macon vs. Highland
- Milan at Trenton
- Putnam County at Princeton
- Schuyler County at Kansas City
- East Christian
- Scotland County vs. Russellville

Kirksville slugs its way to win over Hannibal

By Mike Thomas
Hannibal Courier Post

HANNIBAL — Getting the third out and a timely hit were challenges Hannibal was unable to overcome on Monday, with Kirksville exploiting those two factors on its way to a 12-1 win at Veterans Softball Complex.

The Lady Tigers combined for 15 hits, four walks and 12 runs in Monday’s win.

“We are pretty balanced when we are rolling,” said Kirksville head coach Derek Allen. “We had our moments when we’ve gotten hot at one spot and cold in other spots, but here of late we’ve gotten a little more balanced.”

One positive for Hannibal was the return of center fielder Alana Pfeifer, who was out with injury. She made four catches in the outfield and went 0-for-2 with a fielder’s choice at the plate.

“We definitely missed her from her concussion injury, but we’re glad that she’s back,” said Hannibal head coach Madison Kinsel. “I think that helps with the communication in the outfield.”

Kirksville scored four runs in the first inning, three of them being with two outs with the aid of an error and a two-RBI double by Mallory Lymer.

Hannibal leadoff hitter Chloe Simms singled to start the bottom half of the first. She then advanced to second on an error, stole third and was driven in by Chloe Riley to score Hannibal’s sole run.

The Lady Tigers tacked on three more runs in the second inning, with RBI hits from Jordan Meng, Olivia Williams and Jersey Herbst.

Kirksville kept the line moving in the third inning, getting three straight RBI triples from Jada Jackson, Adi Baumgartner and Meng. Williams then hit an RBI single to score a fourth run for the Lady Tigers in the frame.

Simms led off the Hannibal third with a double, but the Lady Pirates were unable to capitalize. Simms finished the game going 2-for-3 with a run and two stolen bases.

“Chloe put up a lot of fight today,” Kinsel said. “She decided to attack early and that’s what we needed to do.”

Kirksville was unable to score in the fourth inning, but added another run in the fifth that would clinch victory.

Meng went 2-for-2 with a walk, two runs, double, triple and an RBI. Jackson went 2-for-3 with a walk, run, two triples, stolen base and an RBI.

Kirksville junior Brianna Elsea was the winning pitcher after going five innings with two strikeouts; while allowing four walks, three hits and one earned run.

“I thought she did a good job,” Allen said. “I thought it wasn’t one of her better command games. Probably more walks than she would had liked, but she pitched around them and that’s kind of what she does. She’s just a battler on how she goes out there and just competes.”

Riley got the start on the mound and went five innings with four strikeouts.

“Chloe did well today,” Kinsel said. “The batters on the other team got a hold of it early and they kept rolling with that.”

Kirksville (9-5) will play at Moberly (6-9) in its next game on Thursday at 5 p.m.

Allen plans on giving the girls the day off on Tuesday to rest and will have a Wednesday practice to prepare for Moberly.

“Moberly gave us a great game when we played them at our place, and we are expecting the same thing when we go there on Thursday,” Allen said. “We are going to have to be ready to play.”

Hannibal (0-16) will play at Highland (9-4) in its next game on Tuesday at 5 p.m. The Lady Pirates will also play at Canton (10-3) on Thursday at 5 p.m.

“We’ll rest up tomorrow and come back strong tomorrow,” Kinsel said. “Hopefully, we can get the bats going early like we did tonight and keep them rolling throughout the game.”

Tale of 2 halves for Truman State football in 21-13 win over Hillsdale

By Adam Tumino
Daily Express

Just like in the season opener against Davenport, the Truman State football team trailed 13-0 in the first half on Saturday against Hillsdale. Unlike the season opener, the Bulldogs then had a second-half surge on offense while their defense completely shut down Hillsdale. After falling behind, Truman scored the final 21 points, all in the second half, to beat the Chargers 21-13 on the road.

Truman's offense struggled in the first half, punting on three of their first possessions and turning it over on the other before their fifth possession of the first half was cut short by the end of the half.

Hillsdale's offense struggled to move the ball on several of their first-half possessions, with an exception being their second drive, in which the Chargers drove 77 yards in just over three and a half minutes to score the first points of the game. That drive was capped off with a 25-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Luke Keller to tight end Sam Lee.

Hillsdale then took advantage of good field position following an interception, driving 37 yards for their second touchdown of the day. This time it was Keller hitting receiver Isaac TeSlaa from 10 yards out for the score. In their next six possessions, the Chargers would punt three times, have a drive end on a Keller interception and have another drive end with a turnover on downs before having the clock run out on their final possession of the game.

After gaining just 84 yards on offense in the first half, the Bulldogs then scored on their first two drives of the second half and took a one-point lead by the first minute of the fourth quarter. They then added an insurance touchdown with 7:43 to go in the game.

The Truman defense held the Chargers to just 85 yards of total offense in the second half, which is three fewer yards than the Truman offense gained on their first drive of the half.

Truman's first score came on a five-yard pass from Nolan Hair to Matt Hall. It was Hair's fifth touchdown pass of the season and his first to Hall. Hair was also responsible for the second Truman touchdown, running into the end zone from six yards out. Hair was 22-of-28 passing in the game for 187 yards and a touchdown while also running for 52 yards and a score.

The final touchdown came on a 20-yard run from Shamar Griffith, his second touchdown of the season. He finished with 60 yards on 15 carries for his most effective game of the season so far.

Hillsdale was led by Keller, who was 12-of-21 passing for 109 yards, two touchdowns and an interception. Chargers running back Michael Herzog ran for 81 yards on 18 carries, by far the best game for a runner this season against Truman's stout run defense.

It was the pass defense for the Bulldogs that was stronger this week after allowing some big plays in the first two games. Ben Watson grabbed the interception for Truman, his second of the season, while also recording seven total tackles.

Truman linebackers Isaiah Estes and Ulysses Ross led the team with nine total tackles each while Estes recorded one of two sacks for the Bulldogs.

Hillsdale also had several standout players on defense. Riley Tolsma recorded 2.5 sacks while Kyle Kudla and Julius Graber led the team with 13 and 12 total tackles respectively.

Following consecutive road games, Truman will be back at home Saturday to host Tiffin University at 2 p.m.. It is the final game for the Bulldogs before the start of conference play. Tiffin is off to a 2-1 start and is coming off a 27-20 loss to Indianapolis, one of Truman's GLVC opponents and the favorite to win the conference.

Analysis: Week 2 a Comeback Sunday NFL hasn't seen in years

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Call it a Comeback Sunday the NFL hasn't seen in years.

The Dolphins and Cardinals made history by overcoming 20-point halftime deficits to win on the same day while the Jets rallied from a 13-point deficit in the final two minutes.

Two other teams almost joined the club.

The Falcons fought back from a 28-3 third-quarter deficit — that score sounds familiar in Atlanta — only to fall short against the defending Super Bowl champion Los Angeles Rams when Jalen Ramsey picked off Marcus Mariota's pass intended for Bryan Edwards in the end zone, sealing a 31-27 victory.

Joe Burrow helped the Cincinnati Bengals erase a 17-3 halftime deficit in Dallas, but Brett Maher kicked a 50-yard field goal as time expired to give the Cowboys a 20-17 win that dropped the reigning AFC champions to 0-2.

Two weeks into the season, close games and wacky finishes are a common theme. It's great news for the league, giving viewers who have no fantasy football or gambling interest reason to stick around until the end.

There have been 12 games decided by three points or fewer already, the most through the first two weeks of a season in NFL history.

Eight teams have overcome a deficit of at least 10 points to win or tie, the second-most through Week 2, trailing only the 1987 season when nine teams did it.

Tua Tagovailoa's performance was most impressive. He tossed six touchdown passes to lead Miami to a 42-38 win at Baltimore after trailing Lamar Jackson and the Ravens 35-14 going into the fourth quarter.

"We basically had to play perfect complementary football to come back from a deficit like that, and this is a really good team so I couldn't be happier with him, and his teammates know," Dolphins coach Mike McDaniels said of Tagovailoa. "His teammates learned a lot about him, and I think he learned something about himself."

Tagovailoa improved to 8-1 vs. Super Bowl-winning head coaches, the highest win percentage league history with a minimum six starts.

His critics should be silent for at least another week.

"Mike told us in our team meeting that this is going to be a great opportunity for us that if we do ever get down against these guys, we know that you're not looking to put your head down," Tagovailoa said. "We're always going to be in the game and just play one play at a time. And Mike is always going to say this. This is kind of like the mindset for our team, that adversity is opportunity. And that's how we played."

Kyler Murray put on a spectacular display of his own to help Arizona overcome a 20-0 halftime deficit in Las Vegas. Murray ran in from the 3 on the final play of regulation and made a perfect throw into a tight window through traffic for the 2-point conversion to send the game into overtime.

Then, Byron Murphy Jr. returned Hunter Renfrow's fumble 59 yards for a touchdown to give the Cardinals a 29-23 win over the Raiders.

"There were so many do-or-die plays, I lost count, where we had to have this stop, had to have this 2-point conversion, had to score, had to have this fourth down and guys just kept fighting," Cardinals coach Kliff Kingsbury said. "Nobody blinked. At halftime, it was 'Hey, we have to settle in and do what we do.' We played about as bad as you could in the first half, didn't play great the second half, but the effort was incredible."

Multiple teams had not rallied from 20-point halftime deficits to win on the same day until both the Dolphins and Cardinals did it Sunday. It was the first time that two teams overcame a deficit of at least 20 points at any point in a game to win in the same week since Week 4 of the 2011 season.

Of the three teams who blew big leads, the Browns should be most bitter. They would've won if Nick Chubb had stayed in bounds instead of run into the end zone for his third touchdown with 1:55 remaining. That score gave Cleveland a 30-17 lead but the extra-point was missed.

Joe Flacco tossed two TD passes in a 60-second span sandwiched around a recovered onside kick as the Jets pulled off an improbable 31-30 victory. Teams had won 2,229 consecutive games when leading by at least 13 points in the final two minutes before the Browns blew it.

"I have won on a Hail Mary. I have lost on a Hail Mary. I have won in a last-second game," Jets coach Robert Saleh said. "At this point in my life, I've experienced all of it, so I'm never surprised at what the league has to offer, but that roller coaster never changes."

SUDOKU

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
