Celebrate the season with Kirksville's Hometown Holiday on Nov. 26

By Kirksville Tourism

It's almost time to get in the holiday spirit with Kirksville's Hometown Holiday, scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 26. Some of the city's favorite traditions return, along with some new events and activities for people to enjoy.

Get a head start on your shopping by visiting local businesses as part of Small Business Saturday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The 11th Annual Kirksville Kiwanis Club Christmas Parade will begin at 5:30 p.m. The route will head south down Franklin Street, turn right onto Washington Street, then head north onto Elson Street.

Waiting at Dover Park is a new tree fixture created by local artist Brandon Crandall. The Fouch Family, former owners of Fouch's Christmas Tree Farm, serve as this year's parade grand marshals. They will flip a switch at 6 p.m. to light up the trees.

After that, several activities will be going on around the square from 6:15 p.m. to 8 p.m. Stop by Pickler's Famous to grab some cookies and get your picture taken with Santa. Enjoy Living Windows in several storefronts. And hot chocolate stations will be setup on the square.

"We hope you'll join us in Downtown Kirksville!" said Kirksville Tourism Director Sharon Swehla in a press release. For more information, head to VisitKirksville.com.

There is still time for local groups to sign up for the parade. Email kirkvillekiwanis@gmail.com for registration information. The deadline is Monday, Nov. 21.

Hope's Kitchen fundraiser

Staff Reports

Kirksville's Hope's Kitchen continues strong into its 23rd year of operation with the annual Daily Express fundraiser raising money for the organization through Dec. 3. Money raised is used by ATSU students to feed locals in need of food during the school year on two Saturdays a month. It is the primary fundraiser for the program.

Donors so far include: Betty Jay and Jordan Jay, Deb and Dan Slattery, and Charles Thompson. The total so far $175.

Since the Daily Express began organizing the fundraiser in 2001, it has raised more than $136,000 for the kitchen. Last year's fundraiser raised more than $4,100. That money goes directly into feeding folks who need it. Approximately 150 meals are made each time and they are available for pickup or delivery.

The kitchen began in 1999 when Kirksville High School students Rachel Higgins and Megan Leszczynski started the volunteer effort. Today, more than 100 ATSU students volunteer to cook, man the phones taking orders and delivering the meals.

To donate, people can bring money by or mail it to the new Daily Express office, which is now open and located at 701 E. LaHarpe Street, Suite C. Money can also be mailed to ATSU (800 W. Jefferson Street), with "ATSU/Hope's Kitchen" in the address line. And there is also a PayPal link on the kitchen's website (hopes-kitchen.com). Donations are tax deductible.

With a minimum donation of $1, donors can have their names published in each week's Daily Express fundraising summary, as well as in a giant Christmas card that will appear in the Dec. 24 Daily Express, so include your name, business or organization when you donate and include at least $1 for each name you would like to see published.

The list for that card will be finalized on Dec. 16.

For more info about Hope's Kitchen, contact them at 319-883-0123 or email them at hopeskitchen@atsu.edu. For information on the Saturdays meals are available, follow the Hope's Kitchen Facebook page.

Use the write spelling

I really have a problem with words that are spelled incorrectly. It almost hurts, and I know that's crazy. But I can't help it. All around me, all day long, I see misspelled words on billboards. Bumper stickers. TV captions.

Words with apostrophes in the wrong place. Words without a necessary apostrophe. The wrong 'THERE.' It's enough to make me crave a can of spray paint.

When I see a misspelling or grammar error in public, I experience an immediate, visceral discomfort that I can't control.

Am I all alone in this? Sure, there are more important issues in everyday life. War. Guzzling gas prices. Murder Hornets. In light of these things, spelling errors are small potato(e)s. But when did we stop trying to be literate?

It's not that we don't know the difference between 'we'll' and 'well.' Or that we have trouble remembering the correct spelling for 'please' (no EEZE in that word). We all went to school. Who can forget the nail-biting, nerve-pinging spelling bee competitions of elementary school? We knew how to spell then.

I think we've just gotten lazy. We traded accuracy for speed. Sounds like the word, looks similar. Good enough.

Well — you know what? IT'S WRONG.

A restaurant I pass every day on my way to work has a large sign out front for daily specials. Yesterday, it said: 'TRY ARE PIES. THERE DELICIOUS!'

My eyes almost started bleeding. I watched a school bus roll past this same sign, and thought of all the kids staring dully out the windows. What a great reading lesson for them:

"Look, Brad! They got them some pies at that restaurant! They're probbly good. Sign says so. See? 'THERE DELICIOUS!' Let's get our mom to get us one."

How hard is it to spell basic words? I can understand difficult words being flubbed. Vacuum. Sheriff. Penicillin. But these aren't the mistakes we're making.

We're slapping out printed words like sloppy painters; using all-purpose combinations in dull blurbs. Simple rules of spelling are plastered over with blotches of misplaced apostrophes and misused tenses.

I read the bumper sticker on a car I was following. It said: 'Wonder Where All the Successful Women Are? YOUR following one.'

Yeah. I can see that.

My community had a 'flee' market last summer. A bank sign I saw yesterday promised a 'higher yeild.'

Even the churches are afflicted: 'YE MUST BE BORNED AGAIN.'

I'm not making this up, folks. Look around. Spelling errors are everywhere, lulling us into a drooling, imbecile stupor on a hammock of illiterate communication. Poor Webster must be turning over in his grave.

Mispronunciations upset me, too, although I can sometimes understand it. We read words and know their meanings, but sometimes don't hear them in conversation.

But on a newscast the other night, the speaker pronounced ANCHORAGE with a CHORE in the middle. C'mon. We learned that word in geography in primary school.

ROBIN GARRISON LEACH

Botched pronunciations that grate my ears include: LIBERRY, EXPRESSO, OLD-TIMER'S DISEASE, CHESTER DRAWERS, SUPPOSABLY.

Before you discount me as a smug perfectionist, know that I truly can't help my reaction to misspellings and pronunciation mistakes. And I am just as disgusted with myself when I find errors in my own writing and speaking. They're there, and I am embarrassed when I see them.

But I try. And that's all I ask from other people with voices that say words or with fingers that punch keys/wield writing instruments.

Please. For my blood pressure health and in respect for your middle school English teacher. Let's all try a little harder when using language. Thanks.

Counting the minutes to Election Day

Have you been counting the minutes until election day when your neighbors can remove all those campaign signs from their lawns for another two years? Yes, these are mid-term elections, just as serious as the presidential election yet to come two years from now, but not as interesting.

Why not? Because the great candidate Vermin Love Supreme only runs for President and doesn't mess about trying to be someone's governor. V.L., who appears to be a bearded cross between Archimedes and Alexander Graham Bell, tends to stand out in a crowd. That is largely because he's usually wearing a boot on his head and is carrying a giant toothbrush.

Unlike most politicians, who basically ask us to vote for them because they have their names on several yard signs and can prove it, Ol' Verm isn't afraid to face his country head-on and tell us what we really need.

Last time around, while trying to wedge his goals into the New Hampshire primaries, Vermin made no bones of his platform: 1. Passing a national law that everyone must brush their teeth, 2. Dedicating millions of tax dollars to delve into time travel, 3. Investigate the possibilities of a Zombie invasion, and 4. Give a pony to everyone in the country.

SLIM RANDES

Lest you be scratching your head over the time-travel expenditures, Vermin Love Supreme is quick to point out that once science has whipped time travel, he can then go back in time and kill Adolf Hitler.

How can you beat a campaign slogan like that? Not only is it fun, but just picture 250 million people riding ponies around and showing off their shiny teeth.

Just two more years ... we can do it. Two more years.

Law enforcement group backs 'YES' on 3 to legalize adult-use marijuana in Missouri

LEAP says war on drugs failed communities and stretched police departments

By Legal MO

JEFFERSON CITY – The Law Enforcement Action Partnership (LEAP) announces their strong support for a "YES" vote on Amendment 3 to legalize adult-use marijuana. They say it is time for failed marijuana laws to change and urge Missourians to vote "YES" on Nov. 8.

"We have watched as marijuana arrests and convictions taxed the resources of our local police departments and caused real harm to neighborhoods," said Lt. Diane Goldstein (Ret.), current executive director of LEAP. "What people don't see behind the scenes is that law enforcement has a duty to respond any time dispatch receives a call about these low-level marijuana offenses. They divert our attention from responding to and solving more serious crimes. These calls are a distraction and don't serve the public interest."

LEAP is a nonprofit group of police, prosecutors, judges, and other criminal justice professionals who have first-hand experience in making communities safer by focusing law enforcement resources on the greatest threats to public safety. This includes promoting alternatives to arrest and incarceration, addressing the root causes of crime, and working toward healing police-community relations.

"We have watched minds change around the country," said Goldstein. "Nineteen states and the District of Columbia have already done this, and the results are easy to see. The first states to legalize, Washington and Colorado, are seeing improvements in the number of cases solved because police are able to dedicate their time where it matters most—apprehending criminals and helping the victims and survivors of crime."

The legislation would wipe clean the records of non-violent offenders automatically, at no cost. The expungement measures are the most far-reaching to date in nationwide cannabis legalization measures and the only law of its type directed by a vote of the people. Funds from cannabis tax revenues will pay for the expungement.

"The law will return critical resources to local police, but it will also bring new revenue streams to Missouri's veterans," said John Payne, campaign manager, Legal MO 22.

"The tax revenues will be used equally to support veterans' services, pay for drug treatment and counseling, as well as fund public defenders."

Projections show that a 6 percent retail sales tax on marijuana products sold would generate an estimated $40.8 million in annual revenue, although likely much higher, in Missouri and $13.8 million in additional local government revenues. Missouri would be the 20th state to legalize adult-use marijuana.

Amendment 3 has been endorsed by a broad range of supporters including: the AFL-CIO, LEAP, St. Louis City and County Chapters of NAACP, Freedom, Inc and CCO to name a few.

Service Workers International Union urges 'Yes' vote on Amendment 3

By Legal MO 2022

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. – SEIU, Service Workers International Union, one of Missouri's strongest voices in labor, is rallying around Amendment 3 – urging members and Missouri citizens alike to vote "YES" to legalize adult-use marijuana.

"Amendment 3 represents justice for the thousands of workers who will have a clearer path to quality employment once their nonviolent marijuana convictions are expunged," said Rhannon Duryea, Executive Director, SEIU. "Across the country, legalization has generated millions of dollars for some while leaving behind many minority communities disproportionately impacted by the war on drugs. Amendment 3 is the step forward Missouri needs to ensure more workers have access to livable wages and respect on the job."

Projections show that a 6 percent retail sales tax would generate an estimated $40.8 million in annual revenue (likely much higher) in Missouri and $13.8 million in additional local government revenues. SEIU members stand to benefit from the additional tax revenues and economic activity.

"Service workers are the backbone of the Missouri economy, and we are thrilled to get the SEIU endorsement of Amendment 3," said John Payne, Campaign Manager, Legal MO 22. "SEIU members have an incredible track record of turning out to vote in elections that matter to workers. We believe this will drive enthusiasm and voter turnout this November."

If approved, Missouri would be the 20th state to legalize adult-use marijuana. Other states where adult-use is legalized have seen their economies boom and bringing thousands of new jobs.

"This Nov. 8 we have the power to dramatically improve the lives of workers in Missouri. We have seen extraordinary economic gains in states that have legalized marijuana. Now it's Missouri's turn to reap those benefits," said Duryea.

The proposed constitutional amendment would allow Missourians ages 21 and older to possess, consume, purchase, and cultivate marijuana. The revenue generated would cover program costs, including expungement, with remaining funds reserved for veterans' services, drug addiction treatment and the state's severely underfunded public defender system.

Missouri Winter Weather Preparedness Week is Nov. 7-11

By Missouri Emergency Management

JEFFERSON CITY – Missourians should not be fooled by this week's daily high temperatures climbing into the 70s; winter, and the snow, sleet and ice that come with it, are right around the corner. That's why the National Weather Service, the State Emergency Management Agency and Missouri's local emergency managers are teaming up to promote Nov. 7 to 11 as Winter Weather Preparedness Week in Missouri.

"It's extremely important for Missourians to plan ahead for winter — having an emergency kit in their vehicle, committing to avoiding travel during danger winter storm conditions and understanding the health risks of prolonged exposure to cold temperatures," State Emergency Management Agency Director Jim Remillard said. "We encourage all Missourians to prepare for winter by reviewing the steps they can take to help ensure they and their families will have a safe and healthy winter season."

National Weather Service Forecast Offices that serve Missouri and SEMA will be sharing weather safety messaging through social media, targeting specific themes each day during Winter Weather Preparedness Week. Look for messaging focused on these themes:

Monday, Nov. 7 – Winter Weather Terminology (winter storm watch, warning, advisory, blizzard, snow squall, etc.)

Tuesday, Nov. 8 — Ice Safety

Wednesday, Nov. 9 — Snow Safety

Thursday, Nov. 10 — Extreme Cold, Hypothermia and Frostbite

Friday, Nov. 11 – Planning for Snow, Ice and Cold

Often too little attention is paid to the danger posed by prolonged exposure to the cold. In 2021, 76 people died in Missouri as a result of low body temperatures due to prolonged exposure to cold weather, according to the Department of Health and Senior Services. Protect against frostbite and hypothermia by wearing warm, loose-fitting clothing in several layers. Avoid alcohol, limit time spent outdoors in frigid temperatures and stay indoors, if possible. Find the nearest warming center this winter on the DHSS website: <https://health.mo.gov/living/healthcondiseases/hypothermia/>

In 2021, there were more than 7,300 vehicle crashes in Missouri in which snow, sleet, hail or ice were factors, which resulted in 1,995 injuries and 25 deaths, according to preliminary results provided by the Missouri State Highway Patrol. Even if not directly involved in a crash, an accident blocking the roadway could cause other drivers to be stranded for hours. Avoiding non-essential travel during winter storms is one of the best ways to reduce the chance of becoming involved in a crash or becoming stranded. It also allows snow removal crews to clear the roads faster and first responders to get to crashes more quickly.

Missourians should also consider these winter weather preparations:

- Create a family emergency plan and emergency kit. Emergency supplies should include bottled water,

Following are the state ballot measures that voters will vote on.

Amendment 1

Do you want to amend the Missouri Constitution to: allow the General Assembly to override the current constitutional restrictions of state investments by the state treasurer; and allow state investments in municipal securities possessing one of the top five highest long term ratings or the highest short term rating?

State governmental entities estimate no costs and increased interest revenue of $2 million per year. Local governmental entities estimate no costs and increased interest revenue of at least $34,000 per year.

A "yes" vote will amend the Missouri Constitution to grant the General Assembly statutory authority to invest state funds and also expand the state treasurer's investment options. Currently the Constitution grants the General Assembly no statutory investment authority and limits the treasurer's investment options. This amendment will allow the General Assembly by statute to determine investment avenues for the state treasurer to invest state funds, as well as allow the state treasurer to invest in municipal securities.

A "no" vote will not amend the Missouri Constitution and limit the treasurer to investing state funds only in those investment options currently approved by the Constitution.

If passed, this measure will have no impact on taxes.

Amendment 3

Do you want to amend the Missouri Constitution to: remove state prohibitions on purchasing, possessing, consuming, using, delivering, manufacturing, and selling marijuana for personal use for adults over the age of twenty-one; require a registration card for personal cultivation with prescribed limits; allow persons with certain marijuana-related non-violent offenses to petition for release from incarceration or parole and probation and have records expunged; establish a lottery selection process to award licenses and certificates; issue equally distributed licenses to each congressional district; and impose a six percent tax on the retail price of marijuana to benefit various programs?

State governmental entities estimate initial costs of $3.1 million, initial revenues of at least $7.9 million, annual costs of $5.5 million, and annual revenues of at least $40.8 million. Local governments are estimated to have annual costs of at least $35,000 and annual revenues of at least $13.8 million.

A "yes" vote will amend the Missouri Constitution to remove state prohibitions on the purchase, possession, consumption, use, delivery, manufacture, and sale of marijuana for personal use for adults over the age of twenty-one.

The amendment would also allow individuals with certain marijuana-related offenses to petition for release from prison or parole and probation and have their records expunged; along with imposing a six percent tax on the retail price of recreational marijuana.

A "no" vote will not amend the Missouri Constitution and the sale and use of marijuana for recreational purposes will remain prohibited under current law. Medical marijuana would remain unchanged.

If passed, this measure will impose a 6 percent tax on the retail price of recreational marijuana.

Amendment 4

Shall the Missouri Constitution be amended to authorize laws, passed before December 31, 2026, that increase minimum funding for a state board of police commissioners to ensure such police force has additional resources to serve its communities?

State and local governmental entities estimate no additional costs or savings related to this proposal.

A "yes" vote will amend the Missouri Constitution to allow the general assembly by law to increase the minimum funding for a police force established by the state board of police commissioners to ensure such police force has additional resources to serve its communities. Currently the only police force established by the state board of police commissioners is found in Kansas City, Missouri.

A "no" vote will not amend the Missouri Constitution regarding the funding for a police force established by the state board of police commissioners.

If passed, this measure will have no impact on taxes.

Amendment 5

Shall the Missouri National Guard currently under the Missouri Department of Public Safety be its own department, known as the Missouri Department of the National Guard, which shall be required to protect the constitutional rights and civil liberties of Missourians?

State governmental entities estimate no savings and ongoing costs of $132,000 annually. Local governmental entities estimate no costs or savings.

A "yes" vote will amend the Missouri Constitution to create the Missouri Department of the National Guard as a new state agency, headed by an adjutant general appointed by and serving at the pleasure of the governor by and with the advice and consent of the senate.

A "no" vote will not amend the Missouri Constitution regarding the National Guard.

If passed, this measure will have no impact on taxes.

Constitutional Convention Question

Shall there be a convention to revise and amend the Constitution?

A "yes" vote will require the governor to call an election of delegates to serve at a convention for the purpose of revising or amending the Missouri Constitution. Any revisions or amendments will then be put to a vote of the people for their consideration.

A "no" vote will mean no constitutional convention will be held.

If passed, this measure will have no impact on taxes.

reduce your chances of dying in fire by 50 percent. The majority of home fire deaths occur in homes without working smoke alarms. Smoke alarms give you extra time to get out, and today's homes burn faster and hotter than structures built decades ago. This is why we ask Missourians to test their smoke alarms and change the batteries when they move their clocks back each fall."

Across the nation, according to the United States Fire Administration:

- Three out of five home fire deaths occur in homes without working smoke alarms.

- Thirty-eight percent of home fire deaths result from fires in which no smoke alarm was in the home.

- The risk of dying in a home fire is cut in half in homes with working smoke alarms.

- One-half of home fire deaths occur between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m., when most people are asleep.

Smoke Alarms – All alarms should be tested monthly; press the test button to be sure the alarms are working. Replace all smoke alarms once they're 10 years old. Smoke alarms should be installed in every sleeping room and on every level of the home.

Close Doors – Closing doors in your home, when you sleep and when you leave the house slows the spread of fire and heat by cutting the oxygen that feeds a fire. Simply closing the doors to rooms in your house can also dramatically reduce the amount of damage a structure will sustain in a fire.

Plan Your Escape – Each member of the household should know two ways out of each room. Make sure escape routes are clear of debris and windows open easily. Designate an outdoor meeting place for the family. Regularly practice escape routes will all members of the family.

Extension Cord Safety – Never substitute extension cords for permanent wiring or use them for more than one appliance. Make sure extension cords or power strips are rated for the product to be plugged in. Never cover an extension cord with a rug or carpet; it prevents heat from escaping. Multi-plug devices and power strips are designed to be plugged directly into electrical outlets; they should never be chained together.

Space Heater Safety – Space heaters are a factor in about 43 percent of home heating-related fires and 85 percent of associated deaths. They should only be placed on the floor. Never leave a space heater on when you leave a room. Only plug space heaters directly into wall outlets. Keep anything that can burn at least three feet away from all heating equipment, including drapes, furniture and electronics.

Embracing Local History Part 23 - EARLY SETTLERS, TWO CEMETERIES AND THE FIRST CHURCH

By Blytha Ellis, President
Adair County Historical Society and Museum

There are many stories to be told of early settlers in this area and what their lives were like during the decade prior to Adair County coming into existence. Here are only a few of these stories.

William Collett (1791-1880) was a Virginian who followed the same path westward as many other pioneers. He married Jane Hubbard in 1810 in Kentucky, then migrated to Howard County, Missouri, in the 1820s with four children. Jane died there in 1837, and William Collett then moved to The Cabins area and purchased land near John Cain, the 1830 settler who was discussed in previous episodes.

William Collett did not remain as a long-time citizen of this area. He moved on into Iowa, then back south to Chariton County, Missouri, where he lost his second and third wives. He died in Kansas in 1880. Only one of William's children stayed in Adair County and that was his son, Asa King Collett (1821-1898), who married a daughter of John and Emily Cain. We will hear more about them later.

William Collett is credited with raising the first crop of wheat and the first field of timothy hay in this area. From the wheat, he ground his own flour. This was something new to The Cabins community. One resident, George Cain, said he didn't like the first biscuits he tasted made from wheat flour as they were so different from bread made with corn flour which he was used to.

The Collett family land at one time encompassed

the site of Fort Clark after it was abandoned. The palisade was used by the family as a stable for cattle. John Cain also owned Fort Clark at one time.

As with any community, there comes a time when a cemetery is needed. Exactly when the first burial was made in The Cabins area is unknown, but the Cain and Collett families established a cemetery there which still bears their names, the Collett-Cain Cemetery.

When white settlers moved into The Cabins area, they could not miss seeing the large Indian mounds in several places along the Chariton River, a confirmation of the past presence of Native Americans. The Collett-Cain Cemetery was created to the west of some of these Indian mounds which are still preserved and very visible today. These perhaps contain many of the bones of the ancestors of Chief Big Neck whom readers may remember mourned the loss of the land where his people were buried.

This cemetery now memorializes many of Adair County's earliest citizens and can be found on the west side of First Settlement Road near the Chariton River. It is not far from the site of Fort Clark.

Washington "Wash" Philemon Conner (1806-1890) who was mentioned in Part 14 of this history, married Celia Cain, a daughter of John Cain when all were living in Howard County, Missouri. John Cain moved to the future Adair County in 1830, but Wash and Celia Conner did not follow until about 1838. With them came their six children,

Embracing Local History

Wash's widowed mother, Sarah (McLonie) Conner, and some of Wash's siblings. Wash and one of his younger brothers, Lewis Conner, established a tannery on the property of William Collett. William's son, Asa King Collett, began working for the Conner brothers in this tannery when he was age 17.

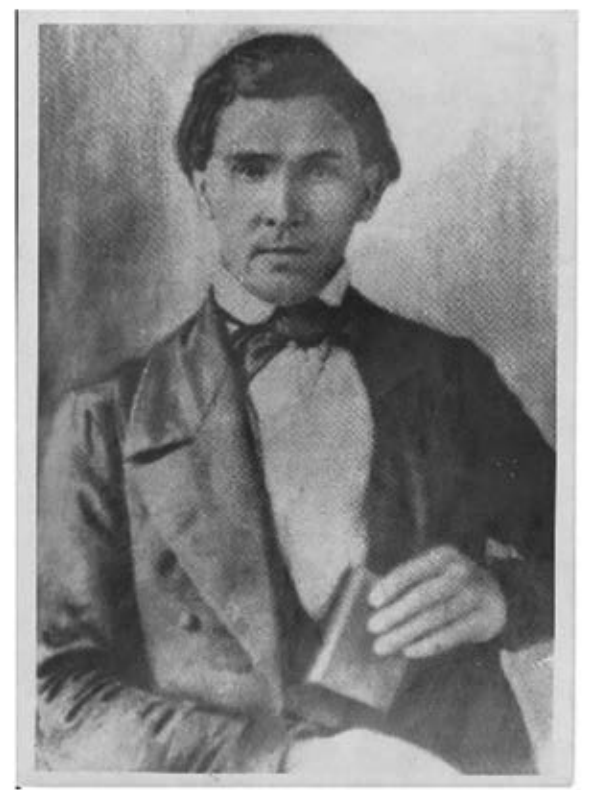

Sadly, Wash Conner's wife, Celia, died in The Cabins area in 1841 at the age of 31. She was one of the early burials at the Collett-Cain Cemetery. Wash remarried to a widow, Martha (Jones) Kimbrough, daughter of another early pioneer named Colonel Jesse Jones. Martha had four Kimbrough children, and Wash and Martha added seven more children to this family.

Wash Conner and his brother, Rev. Lewis Conner, were devout Christians of the Baptist faith who traveled through the northern part of Missouri holding revival services. Wash was not a preacher like his brother but had such a melodious voice when he sang the heartfelt hymns of the day that he became known in their meetings as "The Sweet Singer."

Wash and Lewis Conner later purchased land a few miles northeast of The Cabins area where Wash operated a grist mill, a saw mill and kept a general store. In 1838, Baptist minister, Rev. Archibald T. Hite (sometimes spelled Hight) of Macon County joined with Rev. Lewis Conner in a mutual effort to bring the gospel to pioneers in Adair County. They established the first church of Adair County in the community northwest of present-day Kirksville and named it Bear Creek, even though it was not on the actual creek by the same name. Nevertheless, the people of the organized Bear Creek Church met in alternating homes, and Rev. Lewis Conner was their first pastor. (This is not to be confused with the Bear Creek community which developed in the southeastern part of Adair County along the waterway named Bear Creek.)

Sadly, Rev. Lewis Conner died in 1856 at the young age of 39. After conducting revival meetings in the eastern part of Adair County near the future town of Brashear in January of that year, he baptized converts in the icy waters of Hog Creek. Rev. Lewis then contracted pneumonia which proved fatal. He was buried on a section of his own property where there were already other burials.

Rev. Lewis Conner (1816-1856), first pastor of Bear Creek Church

It is believed that Wash and Lewis Conner had planned that a church building and adjoining cemetery be established on this land at some point, and indeed they were. On May 1, 1860, Wash Conner, as executor of his brother's estate, officially deeded a portion of Lewis' land to the Bear Creek Church "forever or so long as they may use the same for a meeting house and public burying ground."

Construction of the church building was begun in approximately 1860. However, the Civil War came along and interrupted its completion. The building was finished after the war and served the community for many years. The last recorded service was held there in 1914. After that, it was only used for funerals. The building deteriorated and was torn down in October 2021 after over 160 years of existence. The pulpit, two handmade pews and the church sign are preserved in the Adair

County Historical Society Museum, 211 S. Elson St. in Kirksville. These may be viewed during the museum's open hours which are 1-4 p.m. on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, except on holidays.

For more information and photos about the Bear Creek Church, read the article entitled "The Passing of an Adair County Landmark - Bear Creek Church" by Larry Evans. It is in the January 2022 issue of the Adair County Historical Society magazine, The Adair Historian, available at the museum or by mail. Author of this article, Larry Evans, is a descendant of the Conner family.

Today, Bear Creek Cemetery remains the final resting place for nearly 500 early citizens of Adair County. A red granite rock with a plaque marks the location of this historic church and cemetery four miles northwest of Kirksville on Missouri Route B.

110 Years Ago, November 1, 1912

The two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kelley of Novinger downed in a five-gallon jar containing one-gallon of water. Mrs. Kelley missed the child and began searching for him. She found the child who was playing in the yard had fallen head-first into a jar that contained a gallon of water. Dr. Morris Derfler, local physician, was called, and he worked unsuccessfully for two hours to restore life in the boy.

90 Years Ago, October 31, 1932

Mrs. H. M. McAdams delivered a stirring temperance address in a crowded circuit court room in the Adair County Courthouse. Every seat was occupied in the courtroom as the room was overflowing and vacant places were filled with standing people. Mrs. McAdams strongly urged the attendees to support "dry" men (those who favored the continued prohibition of alcohol as provided by the 19th Amendment adopted in 1919) for elected offices in the upcoming November election. Many of those in attendance felt her lecture was presented in a new light and was one of the best lectures on the subject ever presented in Adair County. Mrs. McAdams and her husband, Rev. H. M. McAdams were known county-wide for the temperance revivals and church services they conducted.

90 Years Ago, November 6, 1932

The old Benton School building on South Elson Street (site of present day Rieger Armory) was sold to Guy Hawkins of Galesburg, Illinois, for $100. The building was to be torn down by the purchaser and the wells filled in. The Board of Education planned to improve the spot and beautify it, but its future use was not determined. The old Benton School building was erected about 1885 and was in use as a school until a few years ago when a new Benton School building was erected on West Patterson Street. The old school building was used by the Whitney Manufacturing Company for several years after it was abandoned as a school.

80 Years Ago, November 4, 1942

S. W. "Wat" Arnold, Kirksville lumberyard owner, won election to the United States House of Representatives breaking the twenty-four-year tenure of Congressman M. A. Romjue of Macon. Arnold, a Republican, unseated Democrat Romjue with an 8,000-vote majority in Missouri's First Congressional District. Congressman Arnold was born in Downing, Missouri, graduated from Kirksville State Teachers College (now Truman State University), taught school and became superintendent of public schools in Middletown and Atlanta, Missouri. From 1905-1908 he was engaged in the retail lumber business in Atlanta, and in 1908 moved to Kirksville and organized the Arnold Lumber Company. Arnold was re-elected to Congress from the First District again in 1944 and 1946 and served a total of six years in the United States House of Representatives.

70 Years Ago, October 30 and 31, 1952

During the last two days of October, fire consumed some 1,000 acres of grass, brush, and timber in Adair County. Extremely warm weather combined with low humidity and gusty winds up to 30 mph resulted in numerous fires throughout the county. Kirksville Fire Department received four fire calls within an hour. Most were caused by cigarettes thrown into dry grass and trash fires that got out of control. A fire in the Yarrow-Spring Lake area burned over 200 acres of land, and while it was burning out of control two more fires broke out. One was near the city dump on highway 6 west of town, and another behind the Wabash depot. The fire behind the depot spread to Forest Cemetery where most of the south side of the cemetery was consumed. The next day a fire in the Troy Mills vicinity south of Kirksville burned out of control. A call was made for all available volunteers in the county to assist. The 790th Air Force Base at Sublette provided over 100 airmen, while students from the Kirksville College of Osteopathy and Surgery (KCOS), the teachers college, and Kirksville High School were recruited to assist with the fire fighting. Backfires and a bulldozer were used to finally get the fires under control. The entire state of Missouri was under an extreme fire danger warning. Governor Forrest Smith called on all Missourians to combat the fires that had consumed over 50,000 acres of forests and prairies in the state. He warned that if conditions worsened he would declare the entire state a disaster area and hunting and fishing would be banned.

70 Years Ago, November 4, 1952

Olin Johnson, night police sergeant, was accidentally shot in the hip early in the morning of November 4, as he and night police officer, Elmer Pinkerton, were putting two men charged with peace disturbance in the county jail. The altercation began at the Dockery Hotel Coffee Shop in Kirksville when R. L. Teter, manager, contacted local police to resolve a fight that erupted between two men. Officers Johnson and Pinkerton arrived, broke up the fight, and took the two men to jail. As Johnson was unlocking a cell, one of the men swung at Pinkerton who reached for his blackjack which wasn't there. He then pulled out his pistol. As he did it discharged and accidentally hit Johnson in the hip. Johnson was taken to the hospital by a bystander and the other man under arrest for peace disturbance while sheriff G. E. Grossnickle and Pinkerton placed the second offender in a jail cell.

canned and dry foods, battery-powered radio, flashlights, extra batteries, manual can opener and a first-aid kit. When power outages are possible, charge cell phones and other devices in advance so you are able to communicate if power is lost.

- Assemble a vehicle winter emergency kit. Include a blanket, radio/spare batteries, snacks/energy bars, jumper cables, flares, shovel/sand or shingles for tire traction.

- Avoid driving when conditions could deteriorate. Postpone travel if possible. If driving is necessary, keep your gas tank more than half full, cell phones charged and save emergency numbers for fast dialing. Check road conditions in advance on the Missouri Department of Transportation's Traveler Info Map: <http://traveler.modot.org/map/>. Allow extra time, expect delays, reduce speed and increase following distance. If your vehicle breaks down or slides off the road, stay with the vehicle and call for help.

- Make sure alternate heat and power sources, such as fireplaces, woodstoves, kerosene heaters and generators function properly. These sources can be dangerous and must be maintained and operated. Keep the correct fuel for each source on hand in a safe location. Proper ventilation is essential. Properly install carbon monoxide detectors throughout the home. Only operate generators outdoors.

- Remember space heaters are potentially deadly when misused. Space heaters account for about one-third of home heating fires and 80 percent of home heating fire deaths. Supplemental heating sources like these and should be turned off when leaving a room or going to bed. Keep anything that can burn at least three feet from heating equipment.

Couple in friends group are constant complainers

DEAR ABBY: We have a group of friends who get together most Friday nights. We go out to eat, meet for drinks or gather at one of the group member's homes for dinner and drinks. One person in particular constantly complains about everything every single week. They don't like the restaurant that was chosen, or the food the host prepared or the place the pizza was ordered from. Once, they kept repeatedly telling the host they wanted to punch the host's son in the face because he was rude to the host on his way out for the evening. This guest's spouse also nitpicks relentlessly. It makes everybody uncomfortable. It has reached the point that the group doesn't want to get together anymore because of the damper this couple puts on the evening. My spouse and I haven't seen the group for several weeks now, but we miss them. Is there a polite way to tell this couple their negativity is a drag on the rest of the group, and maybe they should seek professional help or learn to keep their mouths shut? -- DOWN WITH THE DOWNER

JEANNE PHILLIPS

DEAR DOWN: No, there isn't. But you could stop inviting this particular couple. If you are asked about it, all you have to say is that you grew tired of their constant criticism, which put a damper on the events. DEAR READERS: Time flies! Daylight saving time ends at 2 a.m. Sunday. Don't forget to turn your clocks back one hour at bedtime tonight. And while you're at it, be sure to put fresh batteries in your fire alarms and smoke detectors. -- LOVE, ABBY

NEWS OF THE WEIRD...

Nightmare Scenario

A woman known as Jahrah, 54, who worked at a rubber plantation on the island of Sumatra in Indonesia, lost her life at work on Oct. 23 after being swallowed by a 22-foot-long python, the Guardian reported. Her husband reported her missing when she didn't return home from work; while searching for her, he found her sandals, headscarf, jacket and tools. Authorities caught a python that had been spotted nearby and found Jahrah's body in the snake's stomach, the local police chief said.

It's a Mystery

-- A huge, hollow metal object sat by the side of the road in New Brunswick, Canada, for weeks, and no one seemed to know what it was or how it got there, the CBC reported on Oct. 21. Finally, the New Brunswick Department of Transportation had it hauled away. Canadian Forces spokesperson Jamie Donovan said it likely is not connected to the military, and the DOT won't claim it, either. Lying on its side, it's about 10 feet tall and has a concrete base and a hatch. "At this point it really is a mystery we are looking into," said Alycia Bartlett of the DOT.

-- A Florida neighborhood is on high alert after a series of overnight visits from a well-dressed man wielding a machete, WSVN-TV reported. On Oct. 17, around 5:30 a.m., residents heard a knock at the door and saw the man on their doorbell camera, but he walked away after tapping the door with the machete. Other neighbors in Lauderhill had the same experience. "He didn't seem like someone lost or confused," one resident said. "He seemed very intentional, very businesslike, like he was dressed for business, just with a machete." Police have stepped up patrols of the area but say no crimes have been committed.

Truman State to face tough test with McKendree's high-powered offense

By Adam Tumino
Daily Express

The Truman State football team will face a major threat to its seven-game winning streak on Saturday when the high-powered offense of McKendree visits Stokes Stadium. The Bulldogs are 7-1 on the season, 4-0 in conference play and are the No. 21 team in the nation in the AFCA Coaches Poll.

Truman is coming off a 59-32 road win over Quincy. McKendree is 5-4 on the season and 2-3 in GLVC play. The Bearcats lost their last game 49-31 to Southwest Baptist.

Truman has the top scoring defense in the conference, allowing just 17.9 points per game, while McKendree's offensive output of 39.1 points per game ranks second in the conference. Just 0.7 points per game behind Indianapolis.

The play of Bearcat quarterback Turner Pullen has led to their offensive success. He leads the nation with 3,063 passing yards and is averaging 340.3 passing yards per game. This marks a vast improvement over last season, where Pullen averaged 225.5 yards per game. He had 21 touchdowns in 11 games in 2021 and already has 28 touchdowns in nine games this season while only throwing six interceptions so far.

The Bulldog defense will be playing a different Pullen than they did last season, when they mostly held him in check in a 44-13 Truman win. He completed 31 of 43 passes for 289 yards, one touchdown and one interception.

Pullen is coming off his lowest yardage output in a game this season last week against Southwest Baptist. His line in that game was very similar to the Truman game last season, completing 29 of 40 passes for 287 yards, one touchdown and one interception.

Truman's defense has been consistently better overall than Southwest Baptist's this season. Southwest Baptist is allowing 14.8 more points per game than Truman this season although their passing defense has been slightly better than Truman's. Southwest Baptist is allowing 204.4 passing yards per game while Truman is allowing 217.

However, Southwest Baptist has only four interceptions on the season while Truman ranks second in the conference with 13. Pullen has not thrown multiple interceptions in a game this season.

Truman defensive back Jake Closser intercepted Pullen in last year's game and is coming off back-to-back games in which he had an interception returned for a touchdown. He is tied with Ben Watson for third on the team with two interceptions. Ben Thomas and Ryan Olivas both have four interceptions which also ties them for the GLVC lead and ranks 10th in the nation.

Truman quarterback Nolan Hair had an efficient game last season against McKendree, completing 11 of 17 passes for 165 yards, two touchdowns and no interceptions. The combination of a solid completion percentage, low yardage output and lack of turnovers has been a feature of Hair's play this season as well, especially of late.

Hair ranks third in the GLVC with a completion percentage of 63.5 while ranking fourth with 12 touchdown passes and 155.8 passing yards per game, which is more than 100 yards per game behind third place. His four interceptions are the second fewest in the conference. He only has one interception in the last four games. Only Indianapolis's Connor Kinnett has fewer picks on the season with two, but he has 66 fewer pass attempts than Hair.

Last season against McKendree, Truman running back Cody Schrader ran for 219 yards and three touchdowns. Without Schrader, the Bulldogs' rushing attack has been dead in the last several games.

Shamar Griffith ran for a season-high 177 yards last week against Quincy while Denim Cook added 154 yards and four touchdowns. Truman ranks second in the conference with an average of 168.9

rushing yards per game. Griffith ranks third in the conference with 85.6 yards per game. Cook ranks second with 9.1 yards per carry and is tied for sixth with six touchdowns despite having only 30 rushing attempts on the season.

McKendree ranks fifth with 141.4 rushing yards per game, led by Narkel Leflore who ranks sixth with 73.6 rushing yards per game.

As a result of Pullen's excellence, McKendree has the top two receivers in the conference. Yogi Flager ranks first with 99.4 yards per game while Jacob Bachman ranks second with 81 yards per game. Bachman's 77 receptions lead the conference and ranks third in the nation while Flager's 55 are a distant second among GLVC players.

Saturday's game will kick off at noon at Stokes Stadium.

2022 World Series proves how much fun baseball can be

The 2022 World Series between the Houston Astros and Philadelphia Phillies has been truly outstanding so far, with record-setting performances and amazing individual plays making the series an instant classic. It has also been a great reminder that baseball is fun, despite all the discourse in recent years about the ways in which the game is suffering.

ADAM TUMINO
DAILY EXPRESS SPORTS

It is true that baseball has its share of issues. Increased strikeouts and fewer balls in play tend to make the games less exciting on a moment-to-moment basis. Games are often way too long and TV blackouts make it hard for fans to watch games throughout the season.

But the five games of this series so far have shown how fun baseball can be to watch. There is simply nothing better than watching the top athletes in the game play their absolute hardest in front of the biggest and most energized crowds of the year.

Most of the exciting moments early in the series came from the Phillies, who most people outside of Houston are likely hoping will beat the hated Astros.

In game one, Philadelphia trailed 5-0 early on, but came back to tie the score 5-5 in the fifth inning on a double from catcher J.T. Realmuto. The game eventually went to extra innings, where Realmuto gave the Phillies the lead with a solo home run in the top of the 10th inning that would prove to be the winning run.

That was only possible because of an incredible sliding catch made by Philadelphia right fielder Nick Castellanos, who has quite frankly been the worst defensive outfielder in baseball for the last several years.

Houston responded in game two, once again leading 5-0 but this time holding on to win 5-2. One of the most entertaining moments in this game once again came courtesy of the Phillies, this time from Kyle Schwarber. He hit a ball in the eighth inning that looked to be a home run, but upon review turned out to have been foul by a matter of feet.

On the very next pitch, he hit a ball that looked like a home run off the bat, but was caught by Astros outfielder Kyle Tucker with his back against the right field wall.

Schwarber would hit one far enough in game three, going deep to center field for one of five Philly home runs in the game. Philadelphia became the first team to hit five home runs in the first five innings of a World Series game.

Houston made its own history in game four, completing a combined no-hitter. It was just the second no-hitter in World Series history and first since Don Larson of the Yankees threw a perfect game in game five of the 1956 World Series.

Starter Cristian Javier went six innings before Bryan Abreu, Rafael Montero and Ryan Pressly each polished off an inning. This sparked a debate about how impressive combined no-hitters compared to ones completed by a single pitcher, but nevertheless it was an exciting and historic accomplishment.

Game five was exciting throughout, but things got especially tense in the late innings. In the playoffs, it often seems like the best players are at the plate at the most important moments, and that was the case in the ninth inning of this game.

Updating GLVC football standings, stats as regular season nears end

By Adam Tumino
Daily Express

The football teams of the GLVC are prepared for important matchups for the penultimate week of the regular season, with some important matchups slated for Saturday that have the potential to set up even bigger matchups for the final week of the season.

Missouri S&T has the week off, but the other six teams of the conference will be looking to solidify their spot in the standings while two teams, Truman and Indianapolis, will be looking to win and set up a game next week that will decide the conference champion.

Truman is the hottest team in the conference and one of the hottest teams in the nation. The No. 21 ranked Bulldogs have won seven games in a row and are 7-1 on the season and 4-0 in conference. The Bulldogs' only loss this season came in the season opener against Davenport, which is now ranked 13th in the nation.

Truman's opponent, McKendree, features a dangerous offense led by quarterback Turner Pullen, who leads the nation in passing yards this season. Pullen will have a tough test, facing the top-ranked defense in the GLVC.

Indianapolis will also be looking to remain unbeaten in conference play and move to 8-1 overall Saturday when they visit William Jewell. On paper, this would seem to be a blowout waiting to happen. Indianapolis leads the conference with 39.8 points per game while William Jewell is allowing 39.9 points per game, the most in the conference. Indianapolis is ranked 15th in the nation.

Quincy will be looking to bounce back from a 59-32 loss to Truman last week when they travel to play Southwest Baptist. If Quincy wins, both teams will be 2-3 in conference play entering the final week of the season.

Quincy has been marginally more successful on offense than defense this season while Southwest Baptist's defense has outperformed its offense.

There have been several strong individual performers in the GLVC this season, with Pullen perhaps being the most impressive. He has 3,063 passing yards, which leads the nation while his 28 touchdown passes rank second.

The conference's leader in rushing yards is Abel Carter of Southwest Baptist. He has 1,077 yards on the season and is averaging 119.7 yards per game. He is outpaced in this category by Indianapolis running back Toriano Clinton, who is averaging 155.8 yards per game to rank third in the nation.

Clinton has been limited to just six games this season, but still ranks second with 935 yards and leads the conference with 11 rushing touchdowns. Truman's Shamar Griffith ranks third with 685 rushing yards.

Quincy's Peyton Chapel leads the conference with 64 solo tackles and 87 total tackles. He ranks second in the nation in solo tackles. Missouri S&T linebacker Ben Straatmann leads the conference with eight sacks, tied for 17th in the nation.

Indianapolis' Kivonte Houston and Truman's Ryan Olivas and Ben Thomas lead the conference with four interceptions, which also ties them with a large number of players for 10th in the nation. Quincy's Peyton Plunkett is tied for the national lead with four forced fumbles.

Schumaker talking about winning convinced Marlins on hire

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MIAMI — Skip Schumaker thought his meeting with the Miami Marlins might last an hour. Turns out, he'll be around them for quite a bit longer.

Schumaker was introduced as the Marlins' manager on Thursday, a little over a week after accepting the job and replacing Don Mattingly at the helm in Miami. Schumaker, now a manager for the first time, is the 16th skipper in team history.

"It just felt right," Schumaker said. "High-character people, people that I wanted to be around."

Schumaker comes to Miami from St. Louis after spending this season as the Cardinals' bench coach. The Marlins reached out a couple days after the Cardinals were eliminated from the playoffs by the eventual NL champion Philadelphia Phillies, asking him to meet in San Diego.

Schumaker made the relatively short trip from his Southern California home to that meeting, not exactly expecting much. An hour turned into three hours, followed by a second interview in New York, and now a new chance in Miami.

Marlins general manager Kim Ng said Schumaker left an impression by talking about winning from the outset of their first meeting.

"Winning doesn't come easily, honestly," Ng said. "And there are a lot of steps to it. You not only have to have your process, but you have to have execution."

The Marlins surely have learned that by now. Schumaker is inheriting a club that has posted 12 losing records in the last 13 seasons, finished 69-93 this year and plays in a division that has the 2021 World Series champion in Atlanta, a 2022 World Series participant in the Phillies, and a 101-win team in the New York Mets.

COLUMN

After an eighth inning rally from the Phillies was snuffed out on a great play from Houston first baseman Trey Mancini, who was playing his first inning in the field in almost a month, the heart of the Philadelphia order was up in the ninth with Houston up 3-2.

It seemed like Realmuto had tied the score on a deep fly ball to center field, or at the very least hit a double. But Houston center fielder Chas McCormick made a great leaping catch at the wall.

Bryce Harper was then hit by a pitch with two outs, bringing up Castellanos as the winning run. He grounded out to end the game on a full-count pitch.

Regardless of what happens in game six or a potential game seven, this series is a memorable one. It made me think about the excitement of watching the Chicago Cubs win the World Series in 2016, a series that was more exciting than this one.

Baseball is just elevated when the stakes are this high and the fans are this emotional. The crowd shots are as entertaining as the games themselves. It is the very best sports has to offer.

MoDOT extends overwidth hauling permit to aid hay movement

Ranchers, farmers now have through Dec. 1

By MoDOT

JEFFERSON CITY — Continued drought conditions through much of the state have prompted the Missouri Department of Transportation to extend the special overwidth hauling permit for hay at no cost through Dec. 1. Loads must be of legal height, length and weight. Permits can be requested online using the MoDOT Carrier Express online service. To have the fee waived, customers can write a comment on the application about the fee waiver or call in when submitting their application to have the agent waive the fee.

Before hauling, drivers must apply for the special overwidth permit for loads that exceed 8 feet 6 inches in width and map their route to avoid work zones, bridges and other areas that have weight, narrow lane or height restrictions. This information, as well as a special bridge and height restriction view, is available on the MoDOT Traveler Information Map at www.modot.org.

MoDOT's waiver and special overwidth permit allows drivers in Missouri to:

- Obtain the permit at no cost.
- Haul hay loads of up to 12 feet 6 inches in width using a blanket permit. Haul hay loads up to 14 feet in width using a single-trip permit.
- Move hay during holiday periods and at night. At night, or when visibility is less than 500 feet, drivers must use a reflective, oversized load sign and clearance lights instead of the normal flags required at the edges of the load.

Drivers must adhere to all permit requirements, such as using proper signing and lighting and stopping at weigh stations. Drivers are also advised that most of the southeastern United States is currently under a quarantine zone for imported fire ants, which can easily spread through the movement of hay. Farmers and ranchers who believe they have received fire ants in a shipment of hay should call their local University of Missouri Extension agent as soon as possible.

To obtain a permit, hay haulers should visit www.modot.org/mce to login and use MoDOT Carrier Express to order hay permit(s). The login page also provides a link to obtain a Customer ID and password for those who are not regular users of MoDOT Carrier Express. Haulers will need the make, license plate number and vehicle identification number (VIN) of the power unit and must provide the farm business name and address. MoDOT permits cover movement within Missouri only and are required for each truck. Please call MoDOT's Motor Carrier Services office at 1-800-877-8499 if you have questions. Those who hold the special hay permit that expires on Oct. 31 will be issued one that is effective Nov. 1 through Dec. 1.

4-H youths fall into fashion

By University of Missouri Extension

COLUMBIA — The 2022 Missouri 4-H Fashion Revue drew 56 youths from 27 counties to model their garments and participate in educational workshops Oct. 8 on the University of Missouri campus.

Missouri 4-H partnered with faculty from the Stephens College Department of Fashion and graduate students from the MU Department of Textile and Apparel Management to provide judging and workshops for this year's event.

Participants learned about sustainability in fashion through "Mend and Make Do" workshops in which they practiced repairing and decorating clothing and sewing buttons and tears to help make garments last longer.

The annual contest showcases youth skills in sewing, knitting, crochet and consumer decision-making.
