Gas Prices
Fall Nearly Two Cents

For the second week in a row, the Tennessee gas price average saw a slight decline. Pump prices fell, on average, nearly two cents over the course of last week. The Tennessee Gas Price average is now $4.02 which is nearly 58 cents more expensive than one month ago and $1.35 more than one year ago.

“After seeing strong drops two weeks ago in the price of crude oil, prices rebounded last week,” said Megan Cooper, spokeswoman, AAA - The Auto Club Group. “With the price of oil hovering around $110 per barrel we have seen the declines at the pump begin to slow. If the price of oil continues to increase, pump prices will likely follow suit.”

As the cost of a barrel of oil has remained near $110, the gas price decline has slowed. After hitting $4.33 on March 11, the national average for a gallon of gasoline is now $4.24, but only down a penny since last week. Domestically, gasoline demand is again defying seasonal trends and has dipped for the second straight week, perhaps due to higher pump prices and consumers altering their driving habits.

According to new data from the Energy Information Administration (EIA), total domestic gasoline stocks fell by 3 million bbl to 238 million bbl last week. Gasoline demand also decreased from 8.94 million b/d to 8.63 million b/d. The drop in gas demand is contributing to price decreases. However, the steady increase in the price of oil is slowing that decline. If oil prices continue to rise, pump prices will likely follow suit, reversing course from the current downward trend.

Today’s national average for a gallon of gas is $4.24.

Stolen Vehicle Leads To Chase

BRIAN WILMOTH
Editor

One person is in custody in Livingston after leading officers from multiple jurisdictions on pursuits following a vehicle theft in Putnam County Friday.

Brendon Shope, 18, of Cookeville, is suspected of stealing a vehicle earlier in the day on Friday and led officers from the Algood Police Department on a pursuit he was able to allude.

Later that afternoon, Officer Jon Smith of the Livingston Police Department spotted the vehicle that was reported stolen by the Cookeville Police Department. According to a report from Livingston Police Chief Greg Etheredge, Smith stopped the vehicle in the Food Lion parking lot around 4:21 p.m. and confirmed it was the same one that was stolen.

As Smith attempted to get Shope out of the vehicle, Shope again fled, leading Smith on a chase through back streets and onto Bradford Hicks Drive, where Smith was joined by Officer Jim Gavagan.

Etheredge’s report said that as Shope turned to get onto the Byrdstown Highway, he began to thrown items from the vehicle.

Maintaining pursuit on the Byrdstown Highway, officers attempted to use a rolling roadblock to stop Shope. Shortly after Shope rammed Gavagan’s vehicle, the officer used a pit maneuver to disable Shope’s vehicle, with the chase coming to a stop near Jay Bird Road.

Etheredge reported that Shope continued to resist and was forcibly removed from the vehicle and taken into custody.

BOE Moving Foward
On Land Purchase

BRIAN WILMOTH
Editor

The Overton County Board of Education has voted to purchase property for a future running track at Livingston Academy.

The board agreed to pay $15,000 per acre on the 24 acres currently owned by Dr. Larry Mason near the school. The sale is contingent on the results of core drilling.

“If we want to approve the purchase contingent on the core drilling, then we will approve that and we’ll proceed with getting the core drilling done,” Board Chairman, Mike Hayes said before the vote. “But in the meantime, I’ll go with (Budget Director) Crystal (Nelson) to the Education Committee meeting and let them know we want to go ahead and pursue that option.”

The core drilling has a four-to-six-week lead time and will cost $8,000 for five-to-six borings.

Hayes said an engineering firm that surveyed the land, TTL, recommended moving forward with the purchase. TTL will also do the core drilling at the site.

“The largest construction cost for the track project would be the grading, draining required to get a flat pad ready for the track,” Hayes said. “There is a lot of relief, so there will be a lot of grading required.”

Board Member Wayne Taylor asked Hayes who would be responsible for paying the $8,000 for the core drilling.

“We would have to pay that,” Hayes said. “We have not any discussion with the seller about paying that. We can approve to have it done and we can have discussion with the seller.”

At one point the designs for the new football stadium at Livingston Academy included a running track, but the Overton County Commission nixed that plan, as it was deemed too expensive at the time.

Lee Proposing Food Tax Holiday

BRIAN WILMOTH
Editor

Tennessee Governor Bill Lee has proposed a 30-day suspension of state and local grocery sales taxes.

Lee made that announcement on Thursday. The proposal is part of his Fiscal Year 2022-2023 budget that was delivered on Tuesday.

“As Americans see their cost-of-living skyrocket amid historic inflation, suspending the grocery tax is the most effective way to provide direct relief to every Tennessean,” Lee said in a press release. “Our state has the ability to put dollars back in the pockets of hardworking Tennesseans, and I thank members of the General Assembly for their continued partnership in maintaining our fiscally conservative approach.”

The current sales tax rate on food is 4% for state taxes with a local option of up to 2.25%.

In 2020, legislators considered implementing a two-month holiday. It was estimated that doing so would cost the state $100 million.

Last year, Democrats in the legislature proposed dipping into the state’s growing rainy-day fund to pay for a six-month moratorium on the food tax. Republicans killed the measure in committee.

Rep. Bruce Griffey of Paris was the lone Republican to cosponsor the bill, citing tax collections that exceeded projections during the pandemic.

Other suggestions to help ease Tennesseans’ financial burdens. Senate Republicans floated a year-long break on the state’s $35 license plate fee. Tennessee collected $359 million in tag registrations in 2021. Also, as gas prices continued to rise, Democrats urged the governor to consider a moratorium on the state’s 27.4 tax on each gallon of gasoline.

According to a 2015 Federal Reserve study featured in an article in The Atlantic, Tennessee has the most regressive sales tax in the country.

Tennessee has one of the highest combined local-state sales-tax rates in the country, at 9.45 percent, according to the Tax Foundation.

The sales tax makes up 60% of all tax revenue in the state.

Sadler Named Hagan Foundation Scholar

LA Senior Emma Sadler just learned that she is the recipient of a Hagan Foundation Scholarship.

The Hagan Scholarship will help pay the unmet financial need of the recipient to a college of their choice, up to $6,000 each semester for up to 8 consecutive semesters ($12,000 per year or $48,000 total).

In addition, the scholarship makes each recipient achieving a 3.50 CGPA eligible for an all-expense paid Study and Travel Abroad Award, up to $8,000 during their junior year. During the second year of college a $15,000 Schwab Brokerage Account will be established for each scholarship recipient to manage for the ensuing 2.5 years in order to learn how to invest to attain financial security. During the senior year of college after establishing a personal Schwab Brokerage Account, each recipient will receive $2,000 to be used to start investing to attain financial security.

Recipients graduating college in less than four years can use the remainder of their Hagan Scholarship to attend graduate school or a professional school. Each recipient must contribute toward the cost of their education by working 240 hours during the twelve months prior to the start of each academic year of college as well as attend summer Hagan programs.

Emma is the first LA student to receive the Hagan Scholarship. The scholarship application process is much more challenging than most, which means fewer people complete the application process.

Emma gives credit to her parents for providing the push she needed to complete the lengthy application process. Emma is the daughter of David and Melody Sadler of Livingston.

Emma says she learned of the scholarship from her GEAR UP Coordinator at LA, Vanessa Farris and began the scholarship application process. When she was selected to move forward in the selection process, she was required to submit more essays and documents and almost decided not to proceed. Her mother pushed her to complete the process. Emma said she is very grateful for that push!

The Hagan Scholarship will enable Emma to attend Belmont University. Emma had received a Belmont Academic Scholarship but still needed several thousands of dollars to enable her to attend Belmont. The Hagan Scholarship will take care of that need!

Youth selected were Chyann Livermore, Charlotte Livermore, and Zac Lewis. Youth are sponsored annually by Farm Bureau, One Bank of Overton County, First National Bank, and Swallows Insurance.

Youth that attend 4-H Congress get to experience government in action, debate legislation, vote on bills, and learn about Tennessee History. The trip is open to 9th-10th graders interested in citizenship and leadership as well as 11th to 12th graders who are finalist in 4-H Portfolios and 4-H Speeches. If you have a high schooler interested in joining 4-H, we recommend them joining Honor Club to get started. E-mail Ms. Nicole at nmarrero@utk.edu or call 931-823-2735 to get started.

Tech Alumna Named Science Ambassador

Amy Elliott, who earned her undergraduate degree in mechanical engineering from Tennessee Tech University, has joined an initiative designed to empower current innovators and inspire the next generation of pioneers.

Elliott is a 3D-printing specialist and manufacturing scientist for the Oak Ridge National Laboratory (ORNL), but her impressive career as a woman in STEM has found her on TV, as an ambassador for the American Association for the Advancement of Science and even as a 3D-printed statue at the Smithsonian's Women's History Month exhibit.

"Everything that I have gotten to experience and accomplish has been amazing, and very unique, and has changed my life," she said.

Elliott went on to receive her Ph.D. from Virginia Tech, which lead her to be a contestant on the Discovery Channel's Big Brain Theory, a reality show competition for engineers, where she placed second out of 10 contants. Since 2016, she has served as an on-camera science personality for the Science Channel's Outrageous Acts of Science, explaining the engineering and science behind viral video clips.

In 2021, she was named ORNL's most accomplished innovator for her work in transforming advanced manufacturing in automotive, aerospace and other industries.

Currently, Elliott is an ambassador for the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS). The association created the IF/THEN initiative, which is a part of Lyda Hill's, an American philanthropist, commitment to funding game-changing advancements in science and nature. The ambassadorship was created to help this philanthropy build the workforce in STEM and allowed them to showcase women in the field.

"At first, I wasn't really sure what would be involved, but I thought being an ambassador for AAAS would be a great opportunity to become a role model on a larger scale, and it turned out to be just a really amazing experience," she said. "We go to meet, and the other ambassadors and I just thought we would get some social media coaching and a few other things, but then we get there, and they tell us we can apply for a grant of $10,000 grant to do a project towards outreach. They also told us they were going to be scanned in 3D and making a statue of us in life-size."

The 3D-printed statue is on display in Washington D.C. as part of a Smithsonian exhibit of groundbreaking 'female power players in STEM,' celebrating Women's History Month.

Elliott's statue in the IF/THEN initiative, "if she can see it then she can believe it," is among 120 other statues depicting real women in STEM and is the largest collection of statues depicting women ever assembled.

"With this grant, I chose a project that has allowed me to be in the process of launching a children's book called Where Does Electricity Come From: Superheroes in STEM and Trades. I wrote and illustrated the book which includes characters that are role models for women in STEM. In the back of the book, I have included real-life role models that were the inspiration for each of the characters," she said.

When Elliott was a young girl, she didn't have an idea of what she wanted to do until her brother joined a robotics team in high school that allowed him to travel to Florida for a competition. That piqued her interest because she wanted the opportunity to also go to Florida, even if that meant joining a team she knew nothing about.

NRA Awards Grant

The NRA Foundation has awarded the UT/TSU Extension Overton County 4-H Clubs a grant totaling $2,900 to fund an additional shooting sports program within BB Shooting Sports. "We are very excited about Overton County 4-H being able to start this program," said Nicole Marerro, extension agent for Overton County, "and pleased that the NRA is making an investment in our community for the second year."

Overton County 4-H Shooting sports has reached numerous kids through Bend of The River BB and 4-H Archery! This is our second grant in two years to be awarded. It would not have been possible without Officer Allen Conatser, SRO for Wilson Elementary School, dedicating his time and resources to our community. Officer Allen became a certified instructor in the Fall of 2022 after attending a training in Crosville through the State 4-H Program. He also had 6 hours of virtual training. "Officer Allen is a dedicated civil servant through the Overton County Sheriff's Department, and we are so happy to have him on the 4-H team," state Nicole Marrero.

Officer Allen said, "Special thanks to Sheriff John Garrett for encouraging the school resource officers of Overton County to be a part of programs like this. I am excited to offer it to Wilson Elementary School Students."

Discussion April 13

At Your Library

The Friends of Millard Oakley Library are having a book sale here at the library on Friday, April 8, from 9:00 until 5:00, and Saturday, April 9 from 9:00 until 2:00. All funds raised in this book sale will go to help support the library. Please come out and help support the Friends!

The Crafters Club meets at the library every Tuesday morning, starting at 9:00. Story Time is held every Thursday starting at 10:30 a.m. The Book Club will meet April 5 at 11:00 a.m. Binney Stumpf will be here on April 13 from 9:00 until 12:00 to discuss Medicare and the importance of signing up. The next meeting of the Friends of the Library will be April 21 at 11:30.

The Millard Oakley Library will be closed on Friday, April 15, and Saturday, April 16 for the Easter Holiday and to allow us to have our floors

There are several new books in the library this week. New titles include "Secrets in the Sand" by Carolyn Brown, "The Never King" by Nikki St. Crowe, "Old Bear and his Cub" by Olivier Dunrea, "Ginseng Diggers: A History of Root and Herb Gathering in Appalachia" by Luke Manget, and "Along For the ride" by Sarah Dessen.

This week's staff spotlight highlights Lisa Nichols, our inter-library loan specialist. She helps our patrons get titles our library does not carry. Lisa has lived in Tennessee for 17 years, has four grown sons, three grandchildren, and a very spoiled Australian Shepherd/Cattle dog cross. When she is not working at the library, Lisa enjoys doing outreach with a team from her church at Twinton. She has been a life-long lover of books, a passion that began in childhood, when she was permitted to carry home as many books as she could manage from the excellent community library where she grew up in Oak Park, Mich. Stop in the library and say hi to Lisa!

Legion Taking Applications
For Boys and Girls State

American Legion Auxiliary Volunteer Girls State and Tennessee American Legion Boys State programs are both known to be the most respected and selective educational programs of government instruction for high school students throughout the entire United States. Volunteer Girls State originated in 1947 and Tennessee Boys State originated in 1935. In the state of Tennessee we are both privileged and honored to have programs that are taught by professionals from throughout the country.

High school juniors are selected by the local Legion and Auxiliary with the assistance of educators in our local schools. These students must be of high moral character, have shown strong leadership abilities and have also demonstrated above-average scholastic achievement. It is not a requirement for the delegates to be members of a veteran's family.

Both programs are both non-partisan and non-political that strive to provide hands-on experience in city, county and state government, as well as innovative activities and personal growth opportunities for every participant.

These programs change the lives of the participants by bringing together dynamic young adults for an intense week of leadership, patriotism and community. Both are participatory programs where each participant becomes a part of the operation of government at all levels. Participants learn the rights, privileges and responsibilities of franchised citizens.

There are NO COVID restrictions or vaccination requirements in place for either program.

For additional information or to apply for this year's program, please see your Livingston Academy Guidance Counselor. Registration deadline is April 15, 2022.

Director

BRIAN WILMOTH

A total of six people applied to be Clay County Library's next director.

The Library's Board of Trustees have selected two of those applicants to move on to the interview phase in two weeks.

Whichever person the board chooses will have huge shoes to fill. Former Library Director Judith Cutright worked for the library for 27 years. She left in February to become director of the Millard Oakley Public Library in Livingston.

Board Chair Dennis Miller said it would be difficult to replace someone with decades of experience, but that finding someone who can manage the library's operations and had a willingness to learn was the goal of the board.

COORDINATED SCHOOL HEALTH

Lifestyles

Livingston in 1910

*Looking Backward
By Phoebe Jane
(Emily Sells)*

It's nothing unusual to hear about folks with financial problems this day and time. In 1910, a very prominent businessman in Livingston, R.H. Hankins, father of Mrs. Thomas Ada Hankins Tucker, found it necessary to file a document in the Register's Office of Overton County called a sworn account against a man by the name of William (Bill) T. Goff. From information I've put together, I've been told Mr. Goff's home sat on the corner of Daugherty and West Main streets in Livingston, on the same lot the new telephone office is now located. Mr. Goff was married to Sallie (Oakley) Goff and they had a daughter named Anna Mae. Mr. Goff owed money on a white, two-story frame house. The sworn account listing all the building materials bought for the construction of the home was in the amount of $1,132.10. The following is taken from the itemized list of building materials shown on the sworn account. Take special note of these prices:

On The Square - The Goff home was once located on the square of Livingston.

56 pieces of various size lumber	$19.80
21,750 shingles ...	$92.44
15 sheets tin ...	$1.50
2,908 feet of #1 flooring ...	$46.53
17 gallon of Crusader paint ...	$29.75
60 window pulleys ...	$2.00
10 windows ...	$3.00
60 window pulleys ...	$3.00
7 pounds of tacks ...	$1.05
6 pounds of finishing

nails ...	$25
250 window stops ...	$1.85
China closet frame ...	$3.00
1 front door lock ...	$2.00
55 balusters ...	$5.50
3000 bricks ...	$24.00
Wallpaper ...	$26.62
Labor/hauling ...	$18.00
Lime and sand ...	$4.00
1 keg #3 nails ...	$3.15
2 kegs #20 nails ...	$5.30
76 feet #1 ceiling ...	$1.52
773 yards canvas ...	$38.65
4 gallons varnish ...	$8.00

This is only a partial list of over 100 items listed on the sworn account. The document, like all legal papers recorded back then, was done in beautiful script handwriting. It appears from looking at the entire list, building costs for a nice, two-story home in 1910 would total less than $2,000.00. That amount of money wouldn't go to far today toward the construction of a new home. However, if we compared the cost of living today with how things were in 1910, it would probably all come out about the same.

It isn't known if Mr. Hankins was able to collect the debt Mr. Goff owed him for the building materials or not. From information available, the home was destroyed by fire around 1925. By that time, Mr. Jim Myers owned the house and had rented it to the principal at Livingston Academy. From what I can gather, Mr. Hankins was one of Livingston's most successful businessmen. The entire neighborhood in back of what used to be known as Church Street grocery was always referred to as Hankins Town, appropriately named after him. More than likely, that was Livingston's first subdivision, even though it probably wasn't called that then. Mr. Hankins was also given credit for organizing Livingston's leading industry in 1916, a business called The Livingston Heading Company.

In conclusion, here are some additional historic events from that time period:

The sinking of the Titanic on April 15, 1912 when more than 1500 people lost their lives.

The one millionth Model T ($345) rolled off the first moving assembly line for automobiles in 1914 and 1915.

Other news events included the initiation of the The National Park Service and Prohibition (1919).

Jim Thorpe, an American Indian, won gold medals at the Olympics, although his medals were later taken away because he had played baseball for a salary earlier in his career.

The first parachute jump was made.

The Girl Scouts of America were formed.

The Presidents were William Howard Taft 1909-1913 and Woodrow Wilson 1913-1921.

Wanting What You Can't Quite Have

Human nature is such that most of us aren't seduced by what is completely beyond our reach, but by the thing that is just out of reach. Employees who pilfer from their companies are often just trying to live a slightly more lavish lifestyle than they can afford. We see the same thing in matters of romance. Most of us know that the beauty queen or the captain of the football team is "out of our league"?? and we don't even try for them, but we are drawn to the attractive boy or girl who sits next to us in class and who kindly helps us with our homework, even if we know she's not interested in us. Wanting what we can't quite have isn't necessarily a bad thing. It's good to aim high in life, but desiring things we can't have is also a source of considerable pain and frustration. Keeping up with the Jones's and pining after someone who isn't interested in you is unsatisfying in the short run and in the long run it can lead to a sense of deep disappointment and even resentment. We start to have a sense that life is unfair and we envy those who appear to have the things we want, and moreover appear to have achieved those things so effortlessly. Appearances can be deceiving, however, and you might be surprised to find that Mr. Jones down the street isn't so happy with his big house or his beautiful wife. Strive to be content with what you have, and thank God every day for the blessings he has bestowed on you.

- Christopher Simon

But godliness with contentment is great gain. For we brought nothing into the world, and we can take nothing out of it. But if we have food and clothing, we will be content with that.

Murals Tell Our Stories: Celina’s Riverboat History

Mary Robbins

Regional Writer

Jackson,
Clay, Overton
and Fentress
County

Last week, a friend and I drove to Celina and Livingston. After several weeks of cold, dreary winter weather the sun was shining and the temperature, though not warm, had moderated considerably. It was time to get out and about to enjoy the beautiful scenery that can be found among the hills and valleys and along the winding rivers of Clay and Overton counties.

Besides, I was on a mission to locate, photograph and write about the beautiful murals that have been appearing on the walls of downtown buildings in many of our small towns over the past couple of years or so. For some time I had been hearing about the murals in Celina and Livingston and the talented young man who had painted them, so I decided that this was the best place to start my quest. I was right.

Our first stop in Celina was at the Chamber of Commerce where I enjoyed visiting with the Chamber Director, Dr. Doug Young, whom I had not seen in quite some time. We talked about the town’s riverboat mural and how it attracts visitors to the downtown area who want to know more about the rivers and the town.

“The Obey and Cumberland rivers come together at the western edge of town and Celina was once a major riverport town,” he said; and added, “Logs and other materials and goods were shipped downriver on the Cumberland from here to Nashville.”

The focus of Celina’s mural is a riverboat floating downriver through the hills with an eagle flying overhead. Manuel Fuentes, the young artist who painted the mural, took great care to incorporate details of the boat, river and hills that add depth to the scene as does the eagle flying overhead.

After viewing the mural, which is painted on the Gone Country Building at 302 Dow Avenue, visitors can drive a few blocks to the Clay County Museum at 805 Brown Street, where more information about the rivers and other aspects of the area’s history can be found in displays, exhibits and printed information. Call 931-243-4220 for hours open.

If you haven’t visited Celina recently (or not at all), we hope that you will take advantage of the Spring days just ahead to spend some time there, learning about the history of the town and surrounding countryside, visiting the interesting shops downtown, having lunch and viewing the scenic beauty of the newly green hills and valleys and the deep waters of the Cumberland and Obey rivers. Nearby marinas are great places to visit, as well. All have spectacular lake views; and, if open for the season, some good food to offer hungry travelers.

For more information about all that Celina and Clay County have to offer, give the Chamber a call at 931-243-3338 or stop by. They are glad to welcome visitors at 424 Brown Street.

Our next article about murals will take us to Livingston. Watch for it in the Courier!

Scott Phillips: Finding Art In The Wilderness

Scott Phillips, owner of Backwoods Adventures and wilderness guide into the Big South Fork country, enjoys his business of taking outdoor lovers into the thousands of acres of pristine backcountry that sprawls across the boundary line of Tennessee and Kentucky. Backwoods Adventures is authorized to operate within the Big South Fork National River and Recreation Area by the National Park Service. Scott is also a park volunteer, often doing light trail maintenance.

He loves this area so much that, even when he is not guiding outdoor enthusiasts on day trips and overnight camping excursions into the wilderness, he and his dog will often spend time there revisiting favorite scenes and making new discoveries.

It has been on these solitary forays that he has perfected his version of outdoor cooking (which he confesses might be just a notch above the basic campfire stew), indulging his love of scenic photography, writing about the biology, geology and history of the region and, more recently, perfecting his skill as a woodcarver.

“The beautiful scenery and the sense that time stands still there provides the right atmosphere o be creative,” he said.

Woodcarving, something that he started doing a few years ago as a hobby has become both a skill and a talent that he has turned into a business as well. He is always on the lookout for pieces of unusual wood, preferably dry and well seasoned.

However, if he finds a “younger” piece, he will store it until it is just right for carving. He has turned his wood collection into spoons, cups, plates, candleholders and other objects.

“It’s hard to explain,” he said, “but when I hold a piece of wood in my hands a limb that was ripped from a tree during a storm or dislodged by heavy snow, a piece of driftwood washed up on the riverbank or from a very hold house that has given way to the ravages of time it talks to me. Not verbally, of course, but in a subliminal sort of way. I listen to it carefully as it tells me what it wants to be and the piece I carve from it is the result.”

People who have seen his work usually ask him to carve “something just like this” for themselves, family members or friends. Several people in Fentress and surrounding counties take pride in having a piece of Scott’s work; but he now has customers who live across the country and in Canada as well.

All his sales are either face to face or on the internet. A man who is never happier than when he is roaming the wilderness, he doesn’t anticipate ever having a physical location to sell from.

“That’s not who I am,” he said. A friend, he added, who is a Native American Medicine Man, has given him a Cherokee name that means “He Who Walks the Highlands” and he admits that it fits him well.

Backwoods Adventures has a web page where groups and individuals can book day trips and overnight camping trips into the Big South Fork country and Scott has a personal Facebook page.

To join him on one of these trips, to inquire about acquiring a piece of his exquisitely carved wood (which, by the way, can be very useful as well as decorative), or simply to view some of the most stunning outdoor photography likely to be found anywhere, log onto www.backwoodsadventures.org, or visit his Facebook page. A call 931-397-3490 will also get you information about having your own adventure in Big South Fork Country.

Re-Elect
Daryl Colson,
General
Sessions
Judge

I would like to take this opportunity to formally announce my intent to seek re-election as your General Sessions Court Judge. I am married to Kimberly (Whited) Colson and have been for 32 years. Our family has grown since I asked for your vote eight years ago. Kim and I have three daughters, Danielle Goolsby, Victoria Grelle, and Olivia Colson, two sons-in law, Matthew Goolsby and Pete Grelle, and two wonderful grand-daughters, Allie Goolsby and Everly Grelle. We are excited that we are expecting our first grandson this August. I am the son of the late OD Colson and Eudean Colson of Livingston. My family attends church at the Allons Church of Christ where we have attended for the past 18 years. Prior to that, we attended church at the Flat Creek Church of Christ for 14 years. I believe faith, family, and Christian values are the most important traits anyone can have who seeks public office.

It has been my pleasure to work hard for you each day trying to make our court system better and to be the type of judge that you can be proud of. I promised you that I would be firm, fair, and efficient. I am proud to state that I have kept my word. I believe that what makes a good judge is treating people fairly, with dignity, all while holding those accountable for their actions. I have worked hard each day to offer those in need an opportunity to improve their lives. To that end, I have obtained the first Recovery Court in Overton County to battle addiction in the most efficient way possible. I am very proud of that program and the work that it is doing in changing people’s lives. I promised that I would expand community service to better serve the citizens of this county, and I have. I have placed community service workers at all of the convenience centers throughout the county to assist citizens with unloading their trash. I have also expanded domestic violence counseling to address issues of domestic violence, as well as implement evidence-based treatment methods in adult and juvenile court. I believe in efficiency. I am proud to say that every year I have come in under budget and returned money to the county.

I believe conservative values are not something you merely say or claim to have .Instead, I believe that those values are exemplified by your actions, your character, and your reputation. I have 26 years of experience working in the legal profession in Overton County. I have practiced law in Overton County, including serving as county attorney, and for the past 7 ½ years, serving as your General Sessions Judge. I have over four years of experience as an investigator who investigated child abuse and neglect. At the end of day, a judge’s decisions have a significant impact on people’s lives. Experience, character, and ethics, those are the traits that allow me to make measured, fair decisions that affect people’s lives.

I look forward to meeting each of you over the next few months. I invite you, if your schedule permits, to come watch the General Sessions Court. I am confident that you will see a judge that you can be proud of. I humbly ask each of you for your vote and influence on August 4th, 2022.

DR. DAVID MANN
special to the Enterprise

The Overton County Middle Schools Boys Soccer team beat the Smith County Owls 5-0, Monday, to pick up their fourth consecutive win and second shutout of the season.

Central attacking

midfielder Jagger Hammock scored twice - once unassisted and once from an assist from midfielder Bryson Mann - to give the Wildcats a 2-0 lead at the half. Hammock scored again early in the second half to nab his second hattrick of the season.

Midfielder Waylon Johnson added Overton's fourth goal, and forward Haden Clark dribbled through three Owl defenders before connecting with Brody Thurman who scored the final goal of the match.

Goalkeeper Rocco Carwile was again flawless. The win marked his second shutout after allowing only two goals this season.

The Wildcats, now 4-0, lead the second division of the conference. Together the team has scored 21 goals in four games and has only allowed two.

They traveled to Sparta Monday to face the White County Warriors.

LA Dominates Stone

Sabrina Garrett threw a complete game shut-out as the Livingston Academy Lady Wildcats downed Stone Memorial 10-0 on Tuesday.

Jazlyn Flowers powered the offense against the Lady Panthers, gong 3-for-4 and driving in six runs on a double, homerun, and triple.

LA struck early, as Emma Dulworth doubled off an 0-1 pitch to put the Lady Wildcats up 1-0.

The Lady Wildcats added four more runs in the second stanza, with Dulworth and Flowers driving in runs.

Garrent gave up two hits over her five innings, walking two and striking out three.

Dulworth ended the day perfect at the plate, going 4-for-4 with 3 RBIs.

The Lady Wildcats didn't fare as well against Cookeville High School on Thursday.

LA faltered early and could not get back into the game. CHS scored on a single in the first inning but exploded for 10 runs in the fourth to put the game away.

LA's lone hit in the game was a Dulworth single in the first inning.

Leah Kate Clark

took the loss for the Lady Wildcats. She gave up eight runs on five hits over three-and-two-thirds innings while striking out four.

Archery Championships
Return To Murfreesboro

For the first time since 2019, the Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency will host the National Archery in the Schools Program (NASP) 15th State Championships, March 31-April 1 in Murfreesboro. The 2020 championships were cancelled due to the pandemic and last year's championship was a virtual event.

The NASP State Championships will be returning to the Tennessee Miller Coliseum for the 11th year. Close to 1,500 students representing 80 schools are registered to participate. There will be three divisions. Schools will compete in the elementary, middle school and high school divisions. Awards will be presented to the top teams and individual finishers in each division.

Many of the Volunteer State's best student archers will participate in this year's event. The NASP program began in Tennessee in 2004 and has seen tremendous growth since its inception.

Competition will start at 9:30 a.m. with the final flight scheduled for 3:30 p.m. each day. The awards ceremony is expected to begin at 5 p.m. on the second day of the competition. The public is welcome and invited to attend. There is no admission charge.

Tennessee began NASP in late 2004 with 12 pilot schools participating in the program. The number of schools has grown to more than 600 that now participate in the program. NASP is a two-week curriculum taught during school that teaches International Style Target Archery.

Each student will shoot 30 arrows, 15 from 10 meters and 15 from 15 meters with a maximum score of 300. The top team and top 10 individuals in each division automatically receive a bid to compete in the 2022 National NASP Tournament to be held in May in Louisville, Ky. There will also be at-large bids for those who qualify.

If a school or teacher is interested in starting a NASP program, please contact Don Crawford, Assistant Chief, Multimedia Division at Don.Crawford@tn.gov or (615) 781-6542 or Matt Clarey, Regional Training Coordinator in TWRA Region III at Matt.Clarey@tn.gov or (931) 484-9571.

New Fishing Rules In Effect

Tennessee's 2022-23 fishing regulations are now in effect and anglers are encouraged to obtain the new Tennessee Fishing Guide now available at locations throughout the state, on the Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency website (www.tnwildlife.org) and on the TWRA "On the Go App."

Hard copies of the guide are available wherever hunting and fishing licenses are sold and at the TWRA's four regional offices located in Jackson (Region I), Nashville (Region II), Crossville (Region III), and Morristown (Region IV). This year's statewide and specific region regulation changes are featured in the "What's New" section on page 1 of the guide.

The TWRA offers a reminder that hunting and fishing licenses and permits are now valid for one year from the date of purchase. All previous annual Tennessee hunting and fishing licenses expired Feb. 28.

Licenses are available online anytime at www.GoOutdoorsTennessee.

com, on the TWRA "On the Go App," or at one of 474 license agents across the state. You can also select to auto-renew your license and never worry about your license expiring again. Customers can also purchase a new design of the collector's card for any annual license. The new waterproof, durable card features a choice of a smallmouth, Tennessee's state game fish, or a pair of deer.

Each numbered row contains two clues and two 6-letter answers. The two answers differ from each other by only one letter, which has already been inserted. For example, if you exchange the A from MASTER for an I, you get MISTER. Do not change the order of the letters.

Tennesseans To Rethink Food Habits

Have you ever paused to consider how much food goes to waste in your household? The amount may surprise you. The USDA estimates that more than one-third of the food available in the United States is never eaten. This year, University of Tennessee Extension is partnering with the Tennessee Department of Environment and Conservation (TDEC) and others to encourage Tennesseans to be better stewards of their food resources.

During the week of April 4-9, 2022, Tennessee’s inaugural Food Waste Awareness Week will take place across the state with both virtual and in-person opportunities to participate. This free event is available to everyone and the goal is to increase awareness about issues surrounding food waste and to inspire Tennesseans to take action.

“The United States Environmental Protection Agency states that more food is placed in landfills than any other material,” said Ashley Cabrera, creative services coordinator with TDEC’s Office of Sustainable Practices. “Reducing this waste requires action by all, including farmers, businesses, institutions and consumers. Throughout the week, we will provide opportunities for participants to learn best practices and take action to help end food waste in Tennessee.”

“We are excited to partner with TDEC for this inaugural event,” said Kristen Johnson, assistant professor and UT Extension nutrition specialist. “The USDA estimates that the average family of four spends about $1,500 on food that they never eat. We want to provide help to prevent this money loss and reduce food waste. Meal planning, buying a manageable amount of food and making sure to use the food before it spoils are all good practices.”

The week-long event will have daily themes and various opportunities to get involved, including a statewide food drive. For this, more than 40 county Extension offices across the state, with staff from both UT and Tennessee State University, will host food drives to ensure their neighbors are fed and food is kept out of landfills. To conclude the week, breweries and bakeries have partnered in Memphis, Nashville, Chattanooga and Knoxville to host events featuring a limited-release specialty craft beer made from repurposing unsold bread. These family-friendly gatherings are available to anyone.

For more information on how to participate in Tennessee Food Waste Awareness Week, find a donation center or locate an event near you, visit getfoodsmarttn.com and follow TDEC and UTIA/FC Extension on social media. Pioneering Framework To Optimize Conservation Climate and land use changes are major threats to biodiversity. As the nation looks for solutions, a fundamental examination of our approach to conservation planning becomes essential, prompting the latest collaborative research from the University of Tennessee. The research team have been awarded a $650,000 grant to develop a dynamic solution that addresses uncertainties inherent with conservation planning.

The National Climate Task Force recently revealed a conservation strategy for achieving the goal of protecting 30% of the nation’s lands and waters by 2030, also known as the 30×30 goal that was announced last year by President Joe Biden. Conservation objectives such as these highlight the pressing need to improve our ability to forecast likely shifts in specie ranges and to identify types of species and areas to target for protection.

Drawing on lessons learned from managing portfolios of financial assets, the project team will build conservation portfolios to manage climate change risk. Specifically, researchers will address previous limitations by creating a dynamic series of portfolios of target sites for biodiversity conservation over time.

student and researcher gathering data at computer Seong-Hoon Cho, lead researcher and professor in the Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics (seated), examines data with graduate research assistant Nawon Kang, who is assisting with the climate change risk assessment. Photo by T. Johnson, courtesy UTIA.

The responsive portfolios can accommodate updated information, providing conservation agencies with opportunities to update and adjust conservation plans accordingly. Further, the dynamic framework is easily adaptable for use in other regions to determine where and when to target a variety of forest-based ecosystems, such as conservation of carbon storage, nutrient cycling and mitigation of water and air pollution.

“When people consider conservation planning, they tend to think more about where to protect. However, as much as where to focus is important, the question of when to invest needs to be taken into account,” said Seong-Hoon Cho, lead researcher and professor in the Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics. “The project builds around this idea and further highlights how conservation programs can integrate risk diversification as they confront an era of change and uncertainty. We are hoping the outcome of the project offers conservation agencies a novel series of portfolios for conservation over time that is adaptable to future uncertainities based on updated information, with opportunities to revisit the initial planning.”

In addition to Cho, UT team members include Paul Armsworth, Monica Papes and Xingli Giam from the Department of Ecology and Evolutionary Biology and Charles Sims from the Howard Baker Center/Department of Economics, along with Seong Yun from the Department of Agricultural Economics at Mississippi State University.

The three-year grant is funded by USDA’s National Institute of Food and Agriculture, which provides leadership and funding for programs that advance agriculture-related sciences.

THREE WISE MEN ?

ANY ONE WHO EVER ATTENDED A CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION, PUT ON BY THE SUNDAY SCHOOL KIDS, KNOWS THAT THE WISE MEN WHO FOLLOWED THE STAR FROM THE EAST TO WORSHIP THE INFANT JESUS WERE THREE KINGS NAMED MELCHIOR, GASPER, AND BELTHAZAR, RIGHT ?WRONG!

NOWHERE IN THE BIBLE DOES IT STATE HOW MANY THERE WERE, WHAT THEIR RANK WAS, NOR THEIR NAMES! IN MATTHEW, THE ACCOUNT MERELY SAYS THEY WERE WISE MEN FROM THE EAST (MATT. 2:1). IN LUKE, ONLY SHEPHERDS ARE MENTIONED (LUKE 2:8-15)

...THEY WERE NOT DESCRIBED AS KINGS UNTIL THE 6TH CENTURY A.D. AND, SINCE THREE GIFTS HAD BEEN GIVEN—GOLD, FRANKINCENSE, AND MYRRH—SOMEBODY DECIDED THE "KINGS" MUST HAVE BEEN THREE IN NUMBER! BUT NOT UNTIL THE 6TH CENTURY WERE THEY NAMED, MELCHIOR, GASPER, AND BELTHAZAR—BY WHOM, AND BY WHAT AUTHORITY, WE'LL NEVER KNOW!

NEXT WEEK: LAMP UNTO MY FEET!
