Weyauwega man goes to Ukraine on rescue mission

BY ROBERT CLOUD
SENIOR EDITOR

COUNTY – Michael Lalla plans to return to Ukraine.

Currently living in Weyauwega, Lalla spent June through November 2022 in the region, rescuing families from the war.

He is part of an independent frontline search and rescue team, SAR Kharkiv/Donbas.

The Donbas region, where Lalla's team operates, has been on the front-line of the war since Russia invaded Ukraine on Feb. 21, 2022.

In 2014, Russia troops occupied Crimea and parts of Donbas, where they set up proxy governments.

Lalla witnessed the devastation as Russian missiles and air strikes reduced the cities and villages in Donbas to rubble.

Rescue efforts

Lalla shared his experiences through stories and photos he posted on his Facebook page.

"Two days ago we received information that a father was killed from a shell in a deoccupied frontline town. The two children watched it all happen. We've been at this man's house many times, he refused to leave his stuff," Lalla wrote on Oct. 26. "Our team went in to get them all out."

Lalla said two officers helped pulled out the two children and placed them and an elderly woman in his van to transport the police station.

The woman asked if they could take her to her mother's home.

"I went in with her. Her mom was dead in the bathroom. The children were still in the van outside. We called the cops.

"We then took the children to a safe home and they'll be staying there for a couple days till family comes and picks them up," he said in his post.

Noting that the team evacuated three adults and two children, Lalla said, "This was the first time in awhile I heard a child cry. I broke down pretty quickly. I had to hold the lady

Student fits in with fire department

BY HOLLY NEUMANN
STAFF REPORTER

IOLA – Not only is MacKenzie Woyak a senior at Iola-Scandinavia High School, she is also an active member of the Iola and Rural Fire Department.

"I decided to become a firefighter because of my dad being in the service for 16 years," she said. "Being able to do different activities with the fire department while growing up allowed me to gain an appreciation for what they do for our own community and other communities around us."

Woyak enjoys being able to help others whenever she can. She is currently taking a Firefighter 1 class at Fox Valley Technical College and recently earned her entry-level certification.

"This allows me to go into a burning structure or to pack up if there is a call Woyak has not gone into burning structure, but did respond to a fire on Christmas Eve.

"I got to the station and went straight to my gear and put it on as fast as I could," she said. "When doing all of this, your heart is beating fast and your adrenaline is just pumping through your body because you only know so much about what you are responding to."

State to remove trees near airport

Runway projects moving forward

BY BERT LEHMAN
STAFF REPORTER

CLINTONVILLE – Trees located on four separate properties surrounding Clintonville Municipal Airport need to be removed in order for runway reconstruction projects to move forward.

The Clintonville Common Council unanimously approved moving forward with the next steps of the project at its Feb. 14 meeting.

Airport Committee Chair Mark Zachow told the council that the city was notified by the FAA that there are "quite a few" trees near the approach of the runway that need to be removed if the city wants to continue to receive funds for projects at the airport.

He said the FAA will have the state of Wisconsin contact the owners of the properties where the trees are located. The state will pay to have the trees removed and work with landowners to replace them.

"They have to come up with a dollar amount that they can agree on to have

Malliets follow family tradition

Irish Man, Rose loyal to New Dublin

BY SCOTT BELLILE
CORRESPONDENT

NEW LONDON – The night before they lead the New Dublin St. Patrick's Day Parade, Steve and Joan Malliet will haul into Pup's Irish Pub a life-size cutout of a loved one and toast to his memory.

This representation of Joan's second-oldest brother and early Shamrock Club booster David "Fluf" Barrington is a sentimental gift dating back to 2000.

That March, Fluf and his wife, Bonnie, rode in the St. Patrick's Day Grand Parade as Irish Man and Rose, just one week after Fluf's spinal operation to treat his cancer.

He died 17 days later at the age of 52.

Fluf's coworkers at Curwood paid tribute at his funeral by enlarging a photo of him in Irish garb and taping it to cardboard.

The cutout came home that day.

Steve and Joan Malliet page through a genealogy book of the Hurley family, Joan's Irish ancestors who settled in the area. Behind Joan is a cutout of her late brother David "Fluf" Barrington.

Eventually the Malliets upgraded the worn cardboard standee to corrugated plastic. More durable than ever, Fluf appears at Pup's each year to provide smiles, memories and photo opportunities.

"If [onlookers] don't know the history, they think it's weird," Joan said, "but everyone in the area knows" and enjoys the spectacle.

Steve and Joan will follow in her beloved brother's footsteps as parade dignitaries 23 years later.

The couple will be introduced at Irish Entertainment Night Thursday, March 16, at 7 p.m. at New London High School.

Then they will cruise in a convertible at the front of the parade Saturday, March 18, at 1 p.m. in downtown New London.

Joan follows a line of honorees in the family going back to her mother, Margaret Barrington, in 1984.

"Her mother being the very first Irish Rose I think was very fitting because she and the whole Barrington clan did a lot for the organization from the very start," Steve said.

The Shamrock Club rewarded Joan's family for their dedication with more Irish Man and Rose titles, starting with uncle Tip Collier in 1989 and followed by numerous Barrington siblings and in-laws: sister Judy McDaniel, 1998; sister Suzi Snyder, 2004; brother Tom "Mooch" and sister-in-law Judi, 2006; and brother Mike and sister-in-law Ruth, 2013.

As a child, Joan's Irish family observed St. Patrick's Day by cooking homemade corned beef and cabbage and sending a green treat with the kids to school.

One year in grade school, Joan wanted to dye her hair green. Her mother told her to use green food coloring with water to dilute it.

"I didn't pay a lot of attention, so my hair was really nice and green for school once we were at her mom's house. I just hugged her and cried with her while her mom was a couple feet away. I'm crying now just writing this."

Lalla told the Waupaca County Post that the last few weeks in Ukraine were stressful.

"Missiles and those Iranian drones are not fun to hear fly over and watch them hit their targets," Lalla said.

When asked how he overcomes the stress, Lalla said, "Everyday the sun comes up is a good day. I cry often. Scream into the darkness. I sleep and eat well. Exercise. Keep a clean house."

Raising funds

He returned home and began raising money to return in this spring.

"We're raising funds for all independent front-line evacuation teams. My team SAR will be able to apply in Donbas for the funds that we raise," Lalla said. "Spring is coming. We need vehicles, fuel, parts, a safer place to live."

To make a tax-deductible donation to all the search and rescue teams, go to www.motherukraine.org/ and earmark the fund for "Volunteer Army Aid Association."

By going online to bit.ly/3Y1MgFX, people can donate directly to Lalla's team, SAR Kharkiv-Donbas, and learn more about their mission in Ukraine. Direct donations are not tax-deductible.

Lalla reflected on what inspired him to help people in a combat zone in a foreign country.

"My friends talk about a force, a power that drew many people together during great chaos," he said. "I don't understand, It's the path. I'm not the only one who feels this way. It's comforting."

and a really long time," Joan said.

"It had to be a month."

Steve and Joan met in the music program as upperclassmen at New London High School in 1980.

When they married five years later, they were already attending the earliest New Dublin festivities.

The Malliets made it to all but one year each since the tradition began 29 years ago (minus the cancellations in 2020 and 2021).

Steve missed 1999 to travel to the varsity boys' state basketball game with his children. Joan skipped 2014 to watch her son Ryan accept his Herb Kohl Student Excellence Scholarship.

Their loyalty can be credited to decades of involvement with the Shamrock Club. They started in the '80s as actors in the Finnegan's Wake funeral procession, Steve as a drummer and Joan as a mourner.

In the '90s, Steve and Joan served as the Shamrock Club's treasurer and secretary, respectively. They additionally entered themed parade floats each year with the Barringtons, and Steve designed 10 years of event buttons.

Since then, they scaled back their hours in the Shamrock Club to focus on their four children and their families: Lauren, son-in-law Dan Gilanyi and 5-year-old grandson Aaron; Colin and daughter-in-law Melissa Koe; Ryan; and Ben.

"We've been members this whole entire time of the club, but ... your life priorities change," Steve said.

They participate by attending meetings and volunteering at the Irish Fest tent.

"When you have a family that's completely involved in it, you really don't have a choice," Joan said of the Barrington clan. "You're always kind of there."

Steve and Joan will continue their year of Irish celebration by taking their kids and the spouses to Ireland this summer.

They plan to revisit places Steve and Joan traveled when they renewed their wedding vows there in 2015 and check out Killahoe, New London's new sister city.

Waupaca's Saturday night live

Original music, no covers

BY JAMES CARD
STAFF REPORTER

WAUPACA – Ben Nendza has the coolest living room in Waupaca County.

He transformed it into a venue for live rock-and-roll performances in his private residence. On the back wall of the set area, he painted a mural of a crowned skull surrounded by bamboo that looks like an undead king of a forbidden jungle.

The floor appears to be collapsed and underneath is a pool swirling with koi fish. This is an illusion.

The caved-in floor is from repurposed bathroom tiles and the watery sheen is an epoxy coating. Under that layer he painted the multi-colored fish on the subfloor and glued in some coins for a wishing well effect. Nendza also added neon paint that is black-light reactive, along with glow-in-the-dark paint for added special effects when the lights go down.

Nendza calls this place "The Atelier." He started it a year ago and has hosted 12 events

Ben Nendza is the founder of The Atelier, a house venue for original live music performances. No cover bands allowed. In the past year he has hosted a dozen shows with local and regional musicians.

so far. This music scene isn't underground but it is one for those in the know. He doesn't advertise his address. Interested people must contact him for it. It works as a vetting system. People who are serious about live music will seek him out. He promotes it on social media and by hanging concert flyers around town.

"It's more about the music and people meeting other like-minded people. Maybe for every show we get about five people from Waupaca and everyone else is from Madison, Stevens Point, Appleton or Milwaukee. It's kind of melting pot of different people from different parts of Wisconsin that are here to check out the arts, check out the music and talk about what bands they are following," said Nendza.

All original

The music ranges from metal, punk, acoustic and other genres. Hemlock Chaser, a folk punk band that recently appeared on Waupaca Local Live, has played there, along with Bernardo Cano, the state's top harmonica player.

Nendza provides a powered mixer, two monitors and two microphones so all musicians have to do is show up and plug and play.

The music must be entirely original.

"Here's the deal, you have a 1,001 venues to play covers in and this isn't one of them. It's really hard making your own music and finding a place to play. It's one of the strongest things I feel about. I want this to be one of those places. That's what I want to support, creating something new rather than holding onto the past and pumping out Cheap Trick," said Nendza.

The crowd usually numbers around 50 people and the age of the audience ranges from people in their 20s to their 60s. No alcohol is sold. People bring their own bottles – alcohol loaded or otherwise – and can retrieve their drinks from the bar in the garage. Anyone who looks underage gets shown the door.

There is no cover charge but donations are welcome and those funds go directly to the performing artists.

Shows are usually on a Saturday with the doors open at 7 p.m. and the music kicking off at 8 p.m. Last Saturday, they had four bands playing for approximately 45 minutes each. The gathering usually is wrapped up by midnight. Occasionally Nendza will host a Sunday show that has a more laid-back vibe and that starts earlier around 5 p.m.

Nendza has been inspired by other private music venues in Wisconsin. The Train Station in Appleton run by Levi Besaw is one. Another is Strange La Grange, a barn venue located on a long dead-end road.

Connected by art

The name Atelier is French for an artist studio and it reflects Nendza's other self-taught artistic endeavors.

Earlier this year, he was in a feature photo in the Waupaca County Post as he demonstrated painting techniques during the Arts on the Square festival. He sells his paintings and also produces surreal animations for Schueller's Great Expectations.

"Primarily acrylics, watercolors or ink. I love illustrating," said Nendza. Fish are often a favorite subject.

When his landlord boarded up a window in the garage, Nendza saw it as surface to work with. He painted a blue-gill on it.

"So ya painted on it, did ya?" asked the landlord. "I love it! Great job."

This spring he will be teaching an aquatic study class for the Waupaca Community Arts Hub.

"The idea is to paint some kind of aquatic like. If they like alligators or koi fish or a northern pike they caught, they pick out what they want to paint and I show them the techniques that I have learned," said Nendza.

PUBLISHER'S LETTER

The Vaulted Chamber

Dear Reader,

Did you ever pick out all of the good parts of a movie? Similarly, have you ever looked at the good parts of your life, the parts you would relive if you could? And along with that, are there a few scenes you would like to leave behind?

Near the end of the round-up, there comes a time for everyone to relive those golden moments, even if there's nothing left but memories. Ghosts from the past revive briefly and shine for a few brilliant moments as they once were. In the vaulted chamber of memory, they transmuted from what they were into what they were meant to be...all of the good of who we were, and who we still try to be today.

Irish Wake features live music

WAUPACA – This year's Irish Wake will move to a new location, H.H. Hinder Brewing Co., 804 Churchill.

Slated from 3-10 p.m. Saturday, March 18, the free event will feature multiple bands and a food truck with traditional Irish food.

Local tradition also features a reading of the Irish Wake Honor Book.

Families who have lost someone over the past year are encouraged to add their name to the book so they can be remembered and honored during the reading.

The Waupaca Community Arts Board sponsors the event.

"We are so pleased that Hinder was interested in providing the Arts Board with a larger venue," said WCAB President Marci Reynolds. "We wanted to keep the tradition of an authentic Celtic musical celebration which honors those we've lost. Hinder was all in. They have been a great partner in the planning."

The event starts with The Calathumpians reeling out authentic Irish tunes from 3-6 p.m.

At 6:30 p.m., Flip O' the Coin takes the stage, featuring traditional Irish dance music.

KRB Klinger's Real Barbeque truck will offer a variety of hot food, including corned beef and cabbage.

H.H. Hinder is creating a special Irish Wake Stout just for this event, as well as serving their regular tap list.

"The Irish Wake has been a popular event for years in Waupaca and H.H. Hinder is honored to be partnering with the Arts Board for the event this year," said Mike Stroik, owner of H.H. Hinder.

Couple finds balance in two worlds

Yoga in Waupaca, Sri Lanka

BY JAMES CARD
STAFF REPORTER

WAUPACA – There is a limited window of time to train in-person with a world-class yoga instructor in Waupaca.

But if this opportunity is missed, an online option is available. Hope Rajasinghe teaches yoga classes from 6 to 7 p.m. Thursdays at EveryBODY Fitness located 455 Industrial Dr.

In the near future she will depart Waupaca to resume her other life in Sri Lanka.

Hope and her husband, Jason Rajasinghe, are in the process of building two separate lives in two very faraway places. The goal is to have a foothold in each place to spend time with both of their families: Hope has family in Waupaca and Jason's family is in Sri Lanka.

This dual international life is reflected in some of her yoga videos: in one she is stretching near a cozy woodstove (Waupaca) and in another video she strikes a pose at a tropical retreat (Sri Lanka). She has lived abroad since 2013 and this is her longest stay back in Wisconsin.

"Part of being back home is finding that balance. About finding that family balance, of where to spend your time? How do you find that balance between those two worlds? How do they converge and how do you work as an international couple? It's one reason why we've come here now very intentionally to establish our businesses so we can be more back and forth for family and set down roots for the rest of our lives," said Rajasinghe.

They run a film production company in Sri Lanka called iFilm Sri Lanka where they produce documentaries and commercials and in the U.S., they established RAD Productions USA where they did similar work sometimes involving travel in different states.

Besides leading the Waupaca in-person class, she teaches classes online to clients in Sri Lanka and the United States. Her most notable client is Nike and she has been teaching their employees since 2018.

She hosts a dancing yoga retreat company that she formed with a partner.

"It's just exactly what it is: dancing yoga in a retreat. You get dance sessions, you get yoga sessions, and the beautiful beaches and rice and curry all packaged into one," she said.

Global perspective

Rajasinghe grew up in New London and her parents moved to Waupaca in 2009. She studied for a couple years at UW-Stevens Point and later graduated from Hope College in Holland, Mich. where she studied psychology and dance.

After college she taught English in South Korea for three years and used that as a base camp to explore Asia. She studied at the Vinyasa Yoga School in Rishikesh, a city in the Himalayan foothills and considered the yoga capitol of the world and there she earned her teaching certification.

"I thought I'd have this short stint of backpacking around and teaching yoga and then I fell in love with the yoga practice," said Rajasinghe.

After some more travelling, she ended up back in Waupaca but the pull to go back and explore Asia some more was strong. She jetted off to Sri Lanka and there she met her husband in 2016. They live in Colombo, the capital and the country's largest city.

City considers cemetery funding

Subcontracting work discussed

BY BERT LEHMAN
STAFF REPORTER

CLINTONVILLE — With the board of Graceland Cemetery requesting additional funding for 2024, the city is exploring options to decrease the funds required by the cemetery.

The request for additional city funds was on the agenda for the Feb. 13 Finance Committee meeting.

City Administrator Caz Muske said she received the request to add it to the agenda two weeks earlier.

"I did my due diligence to find out if it makes sense for the city to increase the subsidy if there's another option that costs the same, if not less," Muske said. "Based on my preliminary analysis we have an option that costs the same, (but) definitely less on the capital side. So, the question I'm posing to the elected officials is why would we even consider, before we're even in budget season, increasing their subsidy, when in two weeks we've been able to compile a solution that could essentially decrease the tax levy for this facility?"

Muske asked the committee to give her more time to "work through the logistics" of her possible solution.

When the request was discussed at the city council meeting on Feb. 14, Ald. Jim Supanich said in July of last year the cemetery board asked for additional funds because the cemetery was having a difficult time financially. He said the financial difficulty was due to the increase in costs of many things.

"The thought was eventually that we would have to supplement them more than the $17,000 we're currently paying them on an annual basis," Supanich said.

Supanich also told the council that Muske informed the Finance Committee the night before that she thought she could subcontract the work out at a lesser cost than what the cemetery board is currently paying.

The city has one tentative quote, Supanich said. "Caz said she'll go out and get a couple of additional quotes," he said.

Additional items will probably need to be addressed regarding the cemetery before anything moves forward, Supanich added.

"One of the things being that St. Rose owns part of that cemetery, and how they would tie into this, if we actually subcontracted this business," Supanich said. "The second thing is that there's a fair amount of funds that are set up to support the cemetery that are not handled through the city right now."

He cited an example of a fund that is required by state law that calls for a certain portion of the cost of each grave plot sale to be placed into this fund. Only the interest of this fund can be used for maintaining the cemetery.

"If we eliminate the board, the question then comes down to who's going to manage the fund and handle the reports for the state," Supanich said.

Supanich noted that the estimated budget for the cemetery in 2023 is $87,000, of which the city is supplying $17,000. The cemetery board had to take $16,000 from its reserves to meet the $87,000 budget, thus the request for additional funds from the city.

Another thing to consider in the future is the cemetery will need to purchase additional property in the future, Supanich said.

Ald. Mark Zachow, who represents the city on the Graceland Cemetery Board, said the account that Supanich described is a perpetuity account and it has more than $287,000 in it. He asked City Attorney Keith Steckbauer what would happen to those funds if the city took over the cemetery.

Steckbauer said he assumed the funds could be set up in a segregated account where the interest would be paid out the way it has always been.

"I don't think that would be difficult at all because you're obligated to follow that rule," Steckbauer said.

this done," Zachow said.

Ald. Jim Supanich asked if it was a reasonable assumption that employees of the city would not be involved in the removal of the trees.

City Administrator Caz Muske verified that city employees will not be involved with the removal of the trees, adding that the removal will be a contracted service.

"To receive the funding, right now we're looking at only funding 5% of this project, but to receive the other 95%, that comes from the federal level and the state level, we have to abide by FAA rules and regulations, and these obstructions fall in that," Muske said.

She added that the state will bid the project out.

Muske also said the trees will need to be removed from properties owned by four different landowners.

"In the event that there is no compensation met, the state has the ability to do eminent domain," Muske said. "However, there is a very good state effort to come to a compromise and properly compensate the property owners. That is first and foremost the effort and the intention of the state."

WISDOT email

In a Jan. 27 email to Muske, Tyler Leslie of the WISDOT Bureau of Aeronautics said the runway reconstruction projects are being considered "because the pavements for runway 14/32 are nearing a condition where they need to be repaired, if not repaired they will deteriorate further and possibly become not usable."

Regarding the removal of trees, Leslie said, "Obstruction clearing must be done as the FAA requires that surfaces be cleared for aviation safety. The surfaces must be clear, so aircraft have a path to land safely on the runway. These obstructions also need to be cleared as the FAA requires them to be done for runways to be rehabilitated/reconstructed."

Leslie went into detail as to roughly how many trees would need to be removed. His analysis indicated:

- Lorge property: 5-10 trees. Some trees shown as obstructions may be within the road right-of-way.
- Much property: 3-5 trees. The large maple in the front yard is the probably worst obstruction.
- MCC Inc. property: 15-

30 trees. There is a large cluster of obstructions in a forest.

- Westphal property: 6-8 trees.

In the email, Leslie said the process for acquiring the easements would be a real estate transaction, and the easements would be negotiated with the property owners.

Leslie added that property owners would be paid fair market price for the easement rights.

"It is possible that we could plant low threshold trees to replace the ones taken down, but that would be done in the negotiation of acquiring the rights," Leslie stated in the email.

Leslie also confirmed that eminent domain could be used if an easement agreement couldn't be reached with a property owner.

More capital projects approved

BY SCOTT BELLILE
CORRESPONDENT

NEW LONDON – The New London Common Council authorized another $284,891 in capital projects on Feb. 22.

Alderpersons on Feb. 22 unanimously approved the expenditures without discussion.

The investments supplement $478,410 of capital projects the city council OKed in December.

Those approvals included a dump truck, two police cars, a bus for the senior center and $125,000 for improvements to Hatten Stadium.

The latest round of projects is as follows.

Firehouse restroom

A restroom at New London Fire Department will be remodeled for $49,739.

“This is an equality thing because we have our first female firefighter on the force,” City Administrator Chad Hoerth told the Capital Projects Committee at a Feb. 8 meeting.

The facilities will be updated for accessibility and converted from a general shower area and restroom into individual unisex restrooms with showers.

Woodchipper

A $50,000 woodchipper machine will chop up felled trees and brush dumped at the yard waste drop-off site.

The woodchips will be laid on park trails, saving the city from buying them as it does now, Parks and Recreation Director Ginger Sowle told the committee.

Surplus woodchips may be offered to residents for free at the city garage, Public Works Director Robert Garske said.

Museum master plan

A $10,000 update to New London Public Museum’s master plan will refresh the document NLPM uses to guide its next five to 10 years, Museum Director Christine Cross said.

NLPM occupies the basement of a shared building with New London Public Library but plans to expand to the entire structure once the library relocates to First State Bank’s building on North Water Street.

The last master plan was completed in 2016. Since then, additional discussions and a collections assessment have revealed new needs for NLPM, Cross said.

A new master plan will inform the Museum Expansion Committee what needs upgrading inside the building and how much to fundraise to cover such improvements, Cross said.

Culvert project

A $15,000 project will address stormwater issues in the 1100 block of West North Water Street.

Three duplexes were built on a slope. Heavy rainfall causes water to pool in the properties’ front yards.

This flooding damages the abutting road and in the wintertime creates hazardous ice buildup, Garske said.

To help drain standing water, culverts will be constructed underneath the duplexes’ driveway aprons, and a ditch will be dug across the road.

Copy machine

An $18,000 combined copier and scanner will replace the machine from 2018 that is malfunctioning at City Hall.

“It just blows my mind that copiers only last that long,” Alderman John Faucher said, adding for that cost the sales representative should guarantee the next machine will operate longer.

“I mean, five years is a long time for a copier” by today’s standards, Mayor Mark Herter said.

Hoerth added City Hall has saved on paper costs since switching to distributing meeting packets electronically to council members and staff.

Other capital projects approvals

$50,000 for street and sidewalk patching around town.

$50,000 for a rewrite of the city’s outdated zoning ordinance.

$38,352 for riprap to combat erosion along the shoreline of the Bernegger River Walk.

$3,800 for a rowing machine and exercise bike at New London Aquatic and Fitness Center.

Roof work

The city council on Feb. 22 also approved a $234,000 roofing contract outside of the capital projects fund.

Kaschak Roofing of Milwaukee will replace hail-damaged rooftops on nine municipal buildings this spring.

Adult kits will feature supplies to weave a yarn coaster. A drop-in craft time for the coasters will take place from 11:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday, March 9.

Litscher breaks planning inertia

More attention to city goals

BY JAMES CARD
STAFF REPORTER

WEYAUWEGA – At end of the common council meeting on Monday, Feb. 20, Ald. Tim Litscher hefted up a document the size of a telephone book.

It was the city’s comprehensive plan, bookmarked with multiple-colored sticky notes.

“I haven’t read it in its entirety but after reading through half of it I’m going through and seeing a lot of things that have been identified as goals but really no action has been taken. To put it into the context with the building across the street [the empty 118 E. Main St building that is crumbling] there are things in here that say the goal is to have a vital downtown. I don’t think anybody can say we have a vital downtown. One of the goals is to preserve significant cultural sites and structures. Obviously nothing has been done to preserve that building,” said Litscher.

He went onto list other goals listed in the plan: better routes for commercial vehicles, improving Weyauwega Lake, more commercial development and downtown improvements. He said he didn’t see much action being taken on these items. Litscher proposed to set aside more time for the future planning and goal-setting for the city.

“When the comprehensive plan was drawn up, the council at the time took a look at it every year. Why the council stopped doing that I don’t know. We should be looking at it every year. I do believe some of the issues have been addressed,” said Ald. Chris Gunderson.

She cited Connected Communities, the city’s revitalization program for downtown that networks with other cities and groups.

“It’s a struggle when you have only a few businesses that want to be involved and very few citizens. So when it comes to the revitalization of downtown, my question is, how do you get businesses to want to improve the business district and to get the citizens to care enough to help and give input. But its crickets out there,” said Gunderson.

Ald. Kaley DuCoeur thanked Litscher for bring this up and pointed out that Weyauwega is in the same boat as other cities.

“We’re not the only community in this situation. Look at Rosholt. Rosholt was just like this when I was in high school and now they have stuff coming in,” said DuCoeur.

Gunderson pointed out there is cyclical nature of business, one of full storefronts and then downswings, and then the next generation steps up. She said it seemed like Weyauwega has “flatlined” but pointed out that this has been recent entrepreneurial activity on Main Street.

“I still have a lot of hope for downtown,” said Gunderson.

“Hope is not a strategy,” said Litscher, then added, “I have a lot of hope myself.”

“All of you need to be part of it. Of what the future is going to hold. It gives some direction for myself and others on what you would like to see done because right now it is more reactive,” said City Administrator Jeremy Schroeder.

The council agreed to become more involved in the planning commission and to possibly hold joint meetings with other committees.

Men charged with serial hunting violations

COUNTY – A decapitated buck found in a rural Weyauwega field resulted in two men being accused of shining and killing dozens of deer since 2019.

Eric A. Feavel, 40, Menasha, is charged with 25 counts of illegal deer shining as party to a crime, 24 counts of felony bait jumping and one count failing to obtain a hunting permit.

Travis J. Vander Heiden, 37, Appleton, is charged with 24 counts of illegal deer shining, 25 counts of hunting after revocation of his hunting privileges and one count of failing to obtain a hunting permit.

Shortly before midnight on Nov. 12, 2022, DNR Warden Jeff Nieling was patrolling rural Weyauwega due to reports of a vehicle shining deer. The illegal shining was taking place near a farm field on County Trunk U, where a decapitated buck carcass had been found.

According to the criminal complaint, Nieling saw a slow-moving vehicle on Railroad Grade Road shining deer with a hand-held flashlight from the driver’s side of the vehicle. It was about one-quarter mile from where the buck had been found.

He pulled over the vehicle and spoke to the driver who identified himself as Vander Heiden. Feaval was identified as a passenger.

Nieling reported seeing a cocked crossbow in the backseat and 10 bolts on the floor.

Background checks indicated that Vanden Heiden’s hunting privileges had been revoked and Feaval was out on a bond with an ankle bracelet.

Warden Zachary Seitz arrived at the scene.

The wardens found a blood-stained tarp in the rear of the vehicle.

Vander Heiden said the blood was from a deer that his ex-girlfriend shot two weeks earlier. Nieling noted that the blood was still wet.

According to the complaint, Vander Heiden also said he was trying to start a taxidermy business and deer had been put in the back, the complaint says.

Feavel said the crossbow belonged to him.

The wardens also found a knife, game shears, a flashlight and a spotlight mounted to the top passenger-side of the vehicle.

Subsequent investigation reportedly found that a bolt found near the dead buck matched the 10 bolts that were seized from Feavel. The bolt’s broadhead matched six of Feavel’s broadheads.

Feavel’s ankle bracelet indicated he had been driving or walking multiple times since September 2022 in the area.

After obtaining warrants, investigators found 37 evidentiary photos on Feavel’s phone. Photos included a buck in the back of a truck, a dead buck in a field, Feavel posing for a picture while holding a buck’s head, carcasses hanging in a garage, buck heads on a tarp and a buck’s head in a trash can.

During questioning, Vander Heiden and Feavel reportedly said they had been shining and hunting since 2019.

Blooming Envy makes move

BY HOLLY NEUMANN
STAFF REPORTER

SCANDINAVIA – Faye Kubisiak has moved her florist shop, Blooming Envy, from downtown Iola to N5587 State Highway 49, Scandinavia.

“Our Iola location was only supposed to be temporary,” Kubisiak said. “We needed a walk-in cooler and could not fit it in that space so we made the decision to add onto our home and run the business from here.”

Everything will remain the same without set hours, Kubisiak said.

“This way, I can focus more on doing weddings and design work,” she said. “I still do deliveries and pickups, wedding flowers and sympathy flowers, but I work by appointment only. I try to do Mondays through Saturdays most weeks, but if I have an event, that can vary.”

Kubisiak said she enjoys being part of Scandinavia and watching the community come back to life again.

“There are a lot of great people here,” she said. “I have done weddings before with Sydney (Brozik) from Country Chic, who is also a wedding planner, I have done pop-up at Sliced over Valentine’s Day and I have worked with Krista (Watson) from ScandiHus. It’s been very nice.”

Customers can reach out to Kubisiak by calling 715-445-2134 or visiting the shop’s website, www.bloom-ingenvy.com.

FIRE FIGHTERS

scene, Woyak looked out the back of the engine and saw a bright orange glow.

“I was speechless about how big the fire was since I hadn’t ever seen something like it before,” she said. “I was so grateful that I had my crew members there with me because they have seen fires like this before.”

Once Woyak was off of the engine, the captain showed her a few different ways to work the hose while putting out the fire.

“It was scary for me at first, but I realized that being involved with more of these situations over time will help me build my confidence as a firefighter,” she said.

Woyak said the hardest part of the job is focusing on where her center of attention needs to be.

“There are so many things happening all at once,” she said. “It is easy to get distracted by the big picture instead of focusing on what I have to do individually.”

She tries to learn something new from each call she responds to, as each call requires a different response.

“When we get paged for a lift assist to help our paramedics, in that situation I need to go straight to the scene,” she said. “If we have someone who is hurt and in a wooded area, we would go to the station, gear up then respond with the proper emergency vehicle. I have also learned which vehicles need to respond to different calls.”

Despite her young age, Woyak feels she has the respect of other members in the department.

“I know that gaining their trust is also a big part of being a team member,” she said. “That will take more time to build while gaining more experiences.”

Woyak plans to remain with the department after she graduates.

“My plan is to stick with the department while I am attending school at Mid-State Technical College,” she said. “After I finish college, I will wait and see where I will end up getting my first job as a nurse. Hopefully, if I do move, there will be a volunteer fire department that I will be able to join.”

Being a firefighter helped prepare Woyak for the future.

“While taking my Firefighter 1 class, I found that there were some fears which I needed to overcome,” she said. “My instructor taught me that when I get to a certain point where I’m afraid, I should challenge myself to go two steps more than what I am comfortable with. I believe that I am able to take what my instructor told me and put that into my own life when I may be struggling with a challenge.

“I know that there will be more challenges along the road I am traveling as a firefighter which help me become even stronger,” she added. “In addition, I appreciate how I am able to learn different procedures and to learn how I can address different types of incidents that we may encounter at training each month with my fellow crew members.”

Woyak said being a member of department has been an amazing experience and she hopes to encourage the younger generation to join the department.

Anyone interested in joining the Iola and Rural Department and Ambulance Service can call (715) 445-2515.

“It’s important for younger adults to consider volunteering their time for their fire departments because they will eventually need to continue the legacy,” Woyak said. “I know that everyone in our department, and other fire departments, would love to see some new young faces join the family and help them to grow bigger throughout the years to come.”

Search begins in school district

BY HOLLY NEUMANN
STAFF REPORTER

MANAWA – With the help of School Exec Connect, the Manawa School Board has begun its search to fill the combined position of district and business administrator.

The board invited the community to attend two separate listening sessions Feb. 21 to give their input.

Consultant Dr. Dean Gorrell led the meeting.

“As part of the process, we put together what is known as a new superintendent profile,” he said. “We will create a summary from a variety of different sources, which will become a document that will be handed to prospective applicants before they dive in with both feet.”

Gorrell asked five questions during the listening session to help build that profile:

- What are the district strengths and attributes?
- What are the challenges/barriers?
- What are the two areas that the superintendent should focus on their first year?
- What are other important attributes or areas of knowledge should the superintendent have?

• Any other comments or suggestions in the selection of a superintendent.

Attendees expressed concerns about the combined position, stating it was unnerving and there were fears of burnout due to staff members wearing too many hats.

Gorrell said it is too early to tell if the combined position will limit the number of candidates.

“There are superintendents out there that have dual roles,” he said. “They tend to be from the smaller districts, so it is not an unheard of thing. There are people that like to do both, so we will see and go from there.”

The timeframe for filling the position includes an application deadline of March 12; first-round interviews the week of March 27; a second round of interviews the week of April 9; a board decision on a final candidate by April 23; and the candidate to begin the position by July 1.

Gorrell said this is a reasonable timeline and is hoping to have at least eight or more applicants to choose from, but the pool of candidates isn’t as big as it used to be.

“I am following every lead and calling people to talk to them about the district and encouraging them to apply,” he said. “I follow any and every lead I can to get the right person.”

After candidates formally apply, Gorrell will read all their materials and decide who should have a screening interview. They will be vetted for the position before taking them to the board.

“We want the best candidate, we don’t want to settle,” community member Mary Griffin said. “If we can’t find the best candidate, then we keep trying. We don’t just hire the best of the worst.”

Gorrell would not disclose if there were any candidates at this point, but said last year, there were 106 superintendent changeovers in Wisconsin out of 420 school districts.

Anyone having questions or concerns about the search can reach out to Gorrell at Dean.Gorrell@schoolexecconnect.com.

Council discusses snowmobile trail

BY HOLLY NEUMANN
STAFF REPORTER

MANAWA – Dave Sarna, representing the Waupaca County Snowmobile Association, addressed the Manawa City Council Feb. 20 about bringing a snowmobile route to downtown Manawa.

“This has been a sore spot for quite few years,” he said. “There is not another municipality in this county that you cannot get into except for Manawa.”

Sarna said the association has been working on proposed suggestions that would bring a route to the city from either the north or south ends of town.

“Originally, the thought was to duplicate what was in place years back,” he said. “We ran along the railroad grade, which was behind where the middle school used to be, but that went away.”

This is still a possibility, but the railroad is more agreeable for the trail to cross the tracks vs, running parallel to it, according to Sarna.

Another option the group is looking at it is running across the pond and the state highway bridge, he said.

Police Chief Jason Severson has been given the authorization to keep discussing this matter with the railroad and the snowmobile association to see if they can come up with a solution.

“As soon as the railroad gives us the go-ahead, which I anticipate maybe as early as next month, we can have another Protection and Welfare Committee meeting and then bring it to the whole council,”

Severson said.

“We are getting kind of late in the year, but at least if we have something in place, it could be marked and put on the maps for next year,” Sarna said. “I personally think this would be great and it would bring a lot of snowmobile traffic into town. This would please a lot of people.”

“The nice thing about this is we will have everybody’s blessing and all our ducks in a row,” Severson said.

In other business, City Hall office hours will change to 7 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 7 a.m. to 11 a.m. Friday.

The change will take effect May 1 and will align with the schedule for the Department of Public Works.

Two wings, two skis

EAA Chapter 444 hosted a Chili and Ski Plane Fly-In Day at the Waupaca Municipal Airport on Saturday, Feb. 25. A handful of ski planes landed in the snow and wheeled planes were welcome and arrived on the tarmac, too. One pilot flew up from Missouri for the event. “It’s the safest way to fly. The landing is soft and in emergency, everywhere is a runway. Look at all of the lakes in Wisconsin,” said airport manager Matt Klatt. He has landed a ski plane on the Chain O’ Lakes in the winter. Hudziak, Jeanette Jeanette "Jean" Hudziak, of Wild Rose, age 88, passed away peacefully Sunday, February 26, after a long and brave battle with cancer.

She was born August 6, 1934, in Weyauwega, Wisconsin, the youngest of five daughters of Loretta (Wenzel) (Shanklin) Kiekhafer and Arnold Koplien.

Jeanette graduated from Amherst High School. She married Norman Hudziak on June 5, 1954, at St. John Catholic Church in Heffron, Wisconsin. They lived in rural Wild Rose all their married life and spent many years as snowbirds in the desert southwest, as well as traveling to Mexico, Alaska and Hawaii.

Norm and Jean were small business people. They operated the Midway Tap Tavern and the Variety Store in Wild Rose, later purchasing a few acres of land to farm cucumbers. It grew to become over 1000 acres of farmland creating Hudziak Farms and Hudziak Trucking.

From the beginning, Jean was an integral part of the family business, doing all the office work and fielding phone calls. She never retired and was the head of the business at her death.

Jean was friendly and outgoing and would strike up conversations with anyone, including many of her caregivers at her chemo treatments. Her smiles and laughs were legendary, and she had a way of instantly putting people at ease. Jean was like a second mom to many, welcoming them as family, without judgement. She loved to bake and would send the most wonderful care packages with more than enough to share.

Nana loved going out to eat. Nearly each Sunday after church, she and three generations of her family would ask, "Where are we eating today?" Her response: "Anywhere, as long as I don't have to cook." There, she would catch up on her family's activities over a cup of hot coffee (it HAD to be hot!) and soup (but not too thick!).

She loved shopping. Annual family Christmas shopping in Appleton, deer hunting weekend craft shopping with "the girls" and the annual pilgrimage to Cranberry Fest each September in Warrens were the highlights.

Nana loved to celebrate birthdays. Going to dinner with family and having an amazing cake were essential. She always sent cards, but at milestone birthdays her tradition was to send numerous cards corresponding to the age of the person (she got 85 cards on her 85th birthday).

Jean was the very definition of a matriarch. Despite her gentle manner, there was no doubt that she was in charge. Her whole family looked to her for guidance. Whenever there was a problem, Nana would be there with love, support and advice. Her love of family knew no bounds. In fact, her last words were about how lucky she was to have such a wonderful family. In turn, we were so lucky to have such a wonderful, loving, beautiful woman as a sister, mother, grandmother, great-grandmother, and friend. She exemplified a life well-lived. Our loss is deep, but we are grateful that she is out of pain and at peace.

Jean is survived by her daughters Sharon Lorenz, Wild Rose, and Lee Ann (Tom) Lella, Wausau; granddaughter Rebecca (Taj) Schumacher, Wautoma; grandson Michael Lella; great-grandchildren Dexter and Amara Schumacher; and a sister, Bea Anderson, Minocqua. She is further survived by many nieces, nephews and friends, including close family friend June Holiday, and her special dog, Coco.

She was preceded in death by her parents; her husband Norman; and her sisters Lois Berto, Ruby Huntoon, and Carol Leu.

The family thanks June Holiday for her devotion in Jean's final days, as well as ProMedica Hospice and ThedaCare Oncology.

The family welcomes friends and family on Monday, March 6, from 4pm-7pm at Maple Crest Funeral Home in Waupaca. In the sure and certain hope in the resurrection, the funeral liturgy will be celebrated on Tuesday, March 7, at 11am at St. Maximilian Kolbe Catholic Church, 8611 Hwy 54, Almond, with visitation from 10 am The Rev. Tom Lindner will preside. In lieu of flowers, a memorial fund has been established.

George Stanley to join MMC

BY KRIS LEONHARDT EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Stanley

GREEN BAY - In March, George Stanley will join Multi Media Channels (MMC), the publishing company of this weekly, as the local news initiatives adviser.

In his role, Stanley will work with the Pass it Forward internship program, as well as other company initiatives to nurture a healthy community journalism environment in the state.

"We are excited to have George as a part of our editorial team as we know he will enrich and add value to everything we are doing to revitalize local news and take it to the next level," said MMC CEO Patrick Wood.

Stanley stepped down as editor of the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel and regional editor for the USA TODAY Network in January 2023. He led the Journal Sentinel newsroom as editor since 2015 and managing editor since 1997.

The newspaper's work won nearly every major national award for reporting about health, business, education, justice, politics, sports and the environment, including 10 Pulitzer finalists and three Pulitzer Prize winners.

Stanley has participated in several national programs paid for by the program. Stanley is past president of the News Leaders Association and a board member of the Wisconsin Newspaper Association.

Before becoming managing editor of the Journal Sentinel, he was business editor and before that he was a reporter for the Milwaukee Sentinel, the Wichita Eagle and Ducks Unlimited magazine with an expertise in environmental and conservation reporting.

He started his career at the Lake Geneva Regional News after graduating from the University of Wisconsin.

He and his wife Pam grew up in Allouez. They have five adult children and seven grandchildren.

"I'm excited about working with the Multi Media Channels, the Press Times and the Pass it Forward internship program as foundation stones to strengthen community news coverage in Wisconsin," Stanley said. "For our democracy to work the way it's supposed to, people need to be informed about what's going on at all levels with our schools, law enforcement, roads, zoning, taxes, new developments, you name it. The business models that supported this local reporting are rapidly changing and we've got to find ways to retain and rebuild it."

aimed at finding a sound future for local news, including the Table Stakes News Transformation program run by the American Press Institute, Lenfest Foundation and Temple University.

Through Table Stakes, the Journal Sentinel learned to innovate, reach readers they hadn't been serving before, and dramatically grow both digital-only circulation revenue and grant-funded journalism projects.

Stanley helped found the O'Brien Public Service Fellowship program at Marquette University's journalism school, which is fully endowed by a $10 million donation.

In this program, experienced journalists spend an academic year working on a major public service journalism project that they then bring back to their newsrooms.

run off and get married over there and I'll never see you again.' No, that's never going to happen and then... here we are," she said.

They expect to be in Waupaca for another couple months or so. Their goal is to bounce between the two countries based on filming, to create "shooting seasons," as in, line up some assignments in one country and later head to the other country for another season of work.

At a recent class at EveryBODY Fitness she was asked if she was heading back to Sri Lanka and this was their last class together. It wasn't but Rajasinghe pointed out that they could practice together online (www.yoga-withhope.com) and they could follow her on her YouTube channel Yoga with Hope.

"So people can practice with me from all over the world, that's the beauty of that. As I transition through life and find that I've living in two difference cultures, well, like

I say, I'm an adopted Korean-American now living between Sri Lanka and Wisconsin and that is very vastly different. I've found that movement and this yoga practice is what helped me find home. That is a place deep within that I hold onto from across cultures and wherever I am," said Rajasinghe.

"I want people to know that movement is a place where you can find home. That is a constant. As I'm all over the place or as our minds are all over the place or all the different conditions that we deal with, that is how I stay rooted," she said.

Another trip to state, another championship

New London's Krueger wins 145-pound title

BY GREG SEUBERT
 SPORTS EDITOR

MADISON – Hailie Krueger turned a lot of heads last year by winning a girls' state wrestling championship as a freshman.

The New London High School sophomore turned even more heads at this year's WIAA State Individual Wrestling Meet, as she returned home with another 145-pound state championship.

Krueger made it two in a row Feb. 25 with a 13-9 decision over Cuba City/Benton/Southwestern's Chloe LaRue at the Kohl Center in Madison.

She wasn't the only area wrestler to make it to a state championship match, as another sophomore, Clintonville's Keela Deering, made it to the 185-pound final and fell to Badger's Ella Creighton. Hortonville's MacKenzie Schieder-mayer also won two of her 145-pound matches, but did not place.

Two for two

Krueger headed to state with a 25-1 record and entered her second season of wrestling as a defending state champion.

"For sure, I was a little more scared, but as the year went on, I gained a lot of confidence just seeing that I was good," she said. "It's been a really good season."

Krueger opened the tournament by pinning Janesville Parker's Victoria-Anne Kampmann in 1:11 before advancing to the semifinal round by pinning Badger's Cameran Jansen in 3:39.

Jansen led 4-0 at one point in the match.

"Occasionally, I'll go and do something and get caught," she said.

She then advanced to her second final by pinning Milwaukee Ronald Reagans' Natalie Maceau in 1:49.

Krueger said this year's state meet, which featured boys and girls for the first time, is different than last year's girls' state meet, which was held in La Crosse.

"There are a lot more people and it's different having the guys around," she said. "It's nice for my teammates to be able to watch me."

Krueger's father, Nate, coaches New London's team.

"She's just a natural leader," he said. "Even as a sophomore girl, she's a leader in our room, even with the junior boys and senior boys. She has no quit, she works hard, she definitely has a great work ethic and is always willing to keep learning."

Repeating as a state champion was a goal for the Kruegers.

"She's had a lot more competition this year with other girls, which has helped," Nate said. "She's gotten stronger. She's the same weight as she was last year, but she has dropped her body fat percentage almost 5%. She's a technician, so she focuses on her technique. She's good at a couple of things that she does really well."

"We knew that we would have some success (last year)," he added. "When all

Third time's the charm for Skebba

BY GREG SEUBERT
 SPORTS EDITOR

MADISON – Wrestling for a state championship was nothing new for Wyatt Skebba.

This time, however, the result was different.

The Hortonville senior wrapped up his wrestling career with the Polar Bears Feb. 25 by winning the Division 1 113-pound championship at the WIAA State Individual Wrestling Meet.

Skebba was one of nine area wrestlers – six boys and three girls – that competed at the state meet, held Feb. 23-25 at the Kohl Center in Madison, and one of five that made it to the medal podium.

Other boys that placed included Weyauwega-Fremont's Vanden Hoffman (third, Division 3, 220); and New London's Wyatt Magolski (fourth, Division 2, 113).

Manawa's Cash Botting (Division 3, 120) and Hortonville's Nolan Skebba (Division 1, 120) and Henry Niebauer (Division 1, 138) also competed, but did not place.

Division 3

After having a bye in the opening round, Hoffman picked up a 10-2 major decision over Cedar Grove-Belgium's Deven Soerens.

He then dropped a 7-2 decision to eventual state champion Sloan Welch of Auburn-dale in the semifinals.

That loss sent Hoffman to the wrestleback round and he won his next two matches to place third. He beat Ithaca/Weston's Marshall Self 5-1 and pinned Kewaunee's Ezra Ducat in 3:30 in the third-place match.

Hoffman made it to state for a second straight year after not placing as a sophomore.

"Vanden put together a great season, posting a 48-3 won-loss record, winning seven tournaments and breaking the school record with 36 pins in a season," coach Tim Potratz said.

"The entire Weyauwega-Fremont wrestling program is proud of Vanden for all that he has accomplished this season. Vanden has worked very hard in our wrestling room, at out-of-season competitions and in the weight room to make himself an all-state athlete. We can't wait to see him on the mat again next year."

Botting, a freshman, took a 44-4 record to state and won his opening match by pinning Poynette's Isaiah Gauer in 2:42.

Any chance of a shot at a state championship ended with a 9-7 loss to Cameron's Kayne Johnson in the quarterfinal round. That loss sent Botting to the wrestleback round and his season ended with an 11-2 loss to Brookwood's Dylan Powell.

Botting said it was big to start his state experience with a win over Gauer.

"It was real big because if I don't move on, I don't wrestle anymore," he said. "I'm a freshman and I have three more years to get here. I know I have to put it all on the line to keep wrestling."

"He stepped it up this year when he came into the varsity room," coach Brad Johnson said. "He's really coachable. He gets the game plan and goes out and executes. A lot of wins are racking up. We just have to keep rolling."

Botting's father, Dan, is Johnson's assistant coach.

"Dad and Cash fight a little bit from time to time, so we have to play mediator for them," Johnson said. "Cash has been coming to the room since he's been in HORTONVILLE – A third matchup with Neenah is a possibility for the Hortonville girls' basketball team.

Both Fox Valley Association teams won WIAA Division 1 regional championships Feb. 25 and would meet again Saturday, March 4, in a sectional final if they win their sectional semifinal game Thursday, March 2.

Third-seeded Hortonville will face No. 7 Wausau West in Stevens Point in one semifinal, while the top-seeded Rockets will face No. 5 Eau Claire Memorial at D.C. Everest High School. The winners will meet at 7 p.m. March 4 at Appleton East High School.

Hortonville and Neenah split their two games during the regular season. The Polar Bears picked up a 60-59 overtime win in Hortonville, while Neenah handed them a 67-47 loss on the Rockets' home court.

Hortonville also opened state tournament play Feb. 24 with a 73-38 win over Oshkosh North.

Hortonville 61, Marshfield 43

Marshfield took a 28-27 into the locker room at halftime, but the Polar Bears held the Tigers to 15 points the rest of the way.

A 15-0 run for Hortonville midway through the second half turned a 34-33 deficit into a 48-34 lead and Marshfield never got any closer than 11 points the rest of the way.

Rainey Welson led Hortonville with 20 points and Mikayla Werner and Trinity Mocadlo chipped in with 17 and 12, respectively.

Ashley Grancorvitz led the Tigers with 14 points.

Hortonville 73, Oshkosh North 38

Kyra Funk had the hot hand for the Polar Bears against the Spartans, as she accounted for six of Hortonville's 12 three-pointers and led all players with 20 points.

Hortonville led 33-20 at halftime before outscoring the Spartans 40-18 in the second half.

Welson and Werner also finished in double figures for the Polar Bears with 16 and 14 points, respectively.

Wins with pins

Deering pinned her first three opponents – Sparta's Kylie Hanson (1:44), Milwaukee Ronald Reagan's Kayla Craig (2:21) and Bloomer/Colfax's Kendra Hamman (1:36) – before Creighton pinned her with six seconds remaining in the second period.

"Keela did a great job representing Clintonville, our high school and our wrestling program this weekend," coach Nick Winkler said. "To have a performance like hers and to see the support from her teammates, teachers and our community was great to see."

Deering also qualified for last year's girls' state tournament as a freshman, but did not wrestle.

"To compete three days straight is demanding and her ability to respond to that challenge showed why she is one of the best in the state,"

Clintonville's Keela Deering competes in a girls' 185-pound match at the WIAA State Individual Wrestling Meet, held Feb. 23-25 at the Kohl Center in Madison. Deering pinned her first three opponents to advance to the championship match, where she fell to Badger's Ella Creighton.

Winkler said. "I know she is excited about her finish to this season and is looking forward to making it back to the podium next season."

Schiedermayer opened the tournament by pinning Watertown's Alison Busler in 4:42. Holmen's

Evelyn Vetsch then pinned her in 54 seconds, which sent Schiedermayer to the wrestleback round. She then pinned Cadott's Alaina Kempen in 33 seconds, but her season ended with an 11-4 loss to Antigo's Olivia Hofrichter.

Taelyn Jirschele led Mosinee with 15 points.

New London 62, Rhinelander 49

New London took a 29-25 lead into the locker room at halftime and led by as many as 14 points in the second half, but a pair of three-pointers from Rhinelander's Leah Jamison cut the lead to 48-45 with just under seven minutes to play.

That's as close as the Hodags would get, however, as New London scored the next 10 points.

Rhineland held Steingraber, New London's leading scorer, to six points in the first half, but she ended up leading all players with 20 points. Glodowski and Kenna Mix also scored in double figures with 17 and 12 points, respectively.

Ava Lamers led Rhinelander with 15 points.

Division 2

Magolski made it to the third-place match for the second straight year, but dropped a 3-0 decision to Northwest's Tommy Brown.

Magolski came into the tournament with a 43-4 record, had a bye in the first round and beat Kewaskum's James Racer 5-1 in the quarterfinal round.

Eventual state runner-up Ethan Aird of Darlington/Black Hawk then pinned Magolski in 2:41 in a semifinal round and Magolski came back in the wrestleback round with an 8-0 win over Luxemburg-Casco's Michael Bostwick to advance to the third-place match with Brown.

"He's a really good wrestler," New London coach Nate Krueger said of Magolski, who placed third at 106 last year as a sophomore. "He's got a kid (Friday) morning that's already beaten him this year, but it's a kid we think we can beat."

Division 1

Skebba made it to a state championship for the third straight year after placing second last year at 113 and 106 in 2021.
