City plans new apartments

Sites at old church, foundry land

BY ROBERT CLOUD SENIOR EDITOR

WAUPACA - Plans are in the works for two new multifamily apartment complexes in Waupaca.

The City Plan Commission approved two site plans for apartments when it met Wednesday, March. 1.

Foundry apartments

Waupaca Foundry has proposed two apartment buildings at the intersection of Royalton Street and Tower Road.

The buildings would be located near the center of the parcel that the foundry owns.

The two buildings would have a total of 96 units, all of which would be identical studio apartments.

Strongwood Builders is the project's general contractor and Terry Martin is the architect.

Access to the apartments would be directly across from the apartments on the west side of Tower Road.

Ald. Henry Veleker said the site is within walking distance of a restaurant and station/convenience store.

Veleker also noted that when Strand Associates reviewed the site plan, they recommended that a condition for approval include an additional entrance to the parcel from the foundry for emergency vehicles in case of fire.

Mike Bloom, with Strongwood Builders, told the commission that the apartments are exclusively for temporary workers at the foundry.

"There are a lot of temporary workers that are housed at the hotels which are not in walking distance to the foundry," Bloom said.

City Administrator Aaron Jensen asked Bloom about providing more green space at the site for the tenants.

Bloom said Strongwood is trying to determine how many of the temporary workers have vehicles.

If only 25% of the tenants have cars, then there may be fewer parking spaces needed, allowing room for green space.

Bloom estimated that the entire project would require about 18 months to complete.

Five members of the commission voted in favor of the site plan. Ald. Eric Olsen abstained because he is a project manager at the foundry.

Father Jack named grand marshal

Saturdays for sermons, not shenanigans

BY SCOTT BELLILE CORRESPONDENT

NEW LONDON - Rev. Jack Mullarkey – a New . London native in his mid-80s of Irish descent - has never experienced the city's St. Patrick's Day parade.

The retired priest attributed his 38-year absence to his vocation, saying he was busy every Saturday as the celebrant of Catholic mass.

In accepting the Shamrock Club of New Dublin's honor of parade grand marshal, "I was just surprised I said yes, so now I've got to follow it through," he said.

The public can watch him give it that go, first with his introduction at Irish Entertainment Night at 7 p.m. Thursday, March 16, at New London High School.

The Grand Parade will follow at 1 p.m. Saturday, March 18, in downtown New London.

"It will be fun," he said. "I'll give it a go."

Father Jack

Mullarkey grew up in the New London area but moved away as a teen in the early 1950s.

Area residents may best know him as Father Jack of St. Mary's Parish in Bear Creek and St. Rose Parish in Clintonville from 2007-

"He was very well liked," said Bill Klegin, sexton for St. Mary's Parish Cemetery. "He was good with the schoolchildren and is still very much missed. He was very good at giving a homily, and at a funeral he could bring a smile and a grin to a grieving family's face."

St. Mary's parishioner Cora Handschke nominated Mullarkey for grand marshal because she was touched by the sermon he gave at her husband Larry's funeral in 2013.

"Everything was so sincere," Handschke said, "and he was that way with anybody. Whenever he did a funeral, he just made the people feel good."

Mullarkey forged these connections during what was a temporary pastoral assignment.

He had retired from Holy Cross Parish in Kaukauna at age 70 when the Diocese of Green Bay called him to Bear Creek and Clinton-

The churches' priest was leaving for the military. They had lay ministers but needed someone to perform sacraments.

"I enjoyed it a lot," Mullarkey said. "Even as a little boy Í would go to St. Mary's because I would visit my aunt and uncles at the farm, and grandma when she was still alive, so we would go to mass at St. Mary's. It was kind of neat to be back and be the celebrant of the mass." Less enjoyable were the commutes from home in Menasha.

"The driving had finally gotten to me because every time I went to Bear Creek and Clintonville, it was a hundred miles," Mullarkey

Fueled by faith, not oil

Mullarkey's disdain for drive time is ironic given his upbringing.

His father, John, opened Mullarkey Auto Service in downtown New London in the 1930s.

John's son Jim took over in 1974 and operated Mullarkey Pontiac until his retirement in 1998.

Brothers Jim, Jerome and Joseph all had a knack for automobiles, Mullarkey said.

"I'm a terrible mechanic although ... I [knew] more than an awful lot of people,"

Mullarkey found his calling elsewhere: divinity.

Three priests he respected- two older cousins and Rev. Jim Jacobs at Most Precious Blood Catholic Church - influenced him to pursue the ministry.

After two years at Washington High School, he left in 1953 for Salvatorian Seminary in St. Nazianz. There he finished senior high and completed a fouryear theology and spirituality program.

He earned a bachelor's degree in philosophy from St. John's University in Minnesota in 1960.

He was ordained in 1964 and served parishes in Green Bay, Appleton, Marinette and Kaukauna until retire-

Proud to be Irish

Mullarkey appreciates his Irish heritage.

"I know the story of St. Patrick better than most," he said. "I've been to Ireland at least four, five times."

He has golfed along the coast and devoured the villages' seafood. He also enjoys corned beef and cabbage, an invention of firstgeneration Irish immigrants in New York City.

On his living room wall hangs an Irish blessing gifted to him at retirement. It greets visitors with wishes of bright sunshine and God's

"St. Patrick's Day for me has always been kind of fun, and it's always good to know your culture," Mullarkey

"If you understand your culture, and you understand other people's culture, you're richer for it.'

County needs more child care options

Organization explores solutions

BY SCOTT BELLILE CORRESPONDENT

NEW LONDON Waupaca County's 24 licensed child care providers are not meeting parent demand.

Sixty percent are understaffed, and 80% have a waitlist of one year or longer, according to data from the Kimberly-based organization Child Care Resource and Referral.

Two-thirds of Waupaca County's 2,578 children could not be placed in a licensed child care center if every parent wanted a spot, according to CCR&R data.

"When we're looking at why isn't there enough child care in Waupaca County, a lot of it is tied to the wages that child care teachers are being given," Amanda Jolitz, Waupaca County community engagement specialist for CCR&R, said during a presentation to the New London Economic Development Committee on March 1.

The average hourly wage for a lead teacher in Waupaca County is $13.15 based on figures from 10 providers.

"Now, when you compare that to the K-12 system, where teachers are earning upwards of $20 an hour, there's a huge discrepancy," Jolitz said, "and the early child care educators [outside of schools] need to be just as qualified as the K-12 system."

Two Waupaca County school districts, Clintonville and Weyauwega-Fremont, operate public child care providers.

W-F opened the Little Hawks Child Care Center last year to combat the shortage. The move did not lower demand, Jolitz said, because educators left jobs at understaffed private providers for higher pay at Little Hawks.

. Waupaca County's other providers are privately run nonprofits and for-profits.

Although workplaces in the region including Hillshire, Thrivent and JanSport once offered onsite child care, the cenproved difficult to run because the number of children fluctuated as employees came and left, Jolitz said.

Without such on-site resources, productivity takes a hit. Many first-shift parents leave work early to pick up children before centers close. "There's absolutely no second-shift, third-shift or weekend care available in the entirety of Waupaca County," Jolitz said.

New London Alderwoman BaLynda Croy said she struggled to find child care when she worked second shift at Hillshire. She turned to unlicensed child care and babysitters, upsetting them when her overtime crept into the a.m. hours.

Night workers expect less from their child care – protection, not an education, Economic Development Committee member Hans Thompson added.

Waupaca County used funds from President Biden's American Rescue Plan Act to survey child care providers on where they need help.

A key response was worker burnout. Now CCR&R is applying ARPA resources toward recruitment and training educators to handle workplace stressors such as child behavioral issues, Jolitz said.

She encouraged residents to help the cause by writing letters to their state legislators in support of increased child care funding.

She is helping to organize a "Day Without Child Care" event in Waupaca May 8 to bring together the business community and legislators to discuss the shortage. A time and location will be announced.

"The amount of brain development between the ages of birth to 5 makes this the most important time of a child's development, and when we have quality care and we invest early, the payoff is amazing," Jolitz said, pointing to improved crime rates, college attendance and workforce retention.

Division Street

Schuelke Properties LLC plans to build an apartment building on Division Street at the former site of St. Mary Magdalene Catholic Church.

"This church has been sitting vacant for some time," said Jarod Rachu, the city's community and economic development director.

St. Mary Magdalene's moved to its current location on Shadow Road about 20 years ago.

The complex will have 30 apartments that range from about 750 to 1,000 to square feet, according to Tim Schuelke, owner of Schuelke Properties. The two-story building will have a back and white facade with stone and brick.

Most are one-bedroom apartments, but the end units on both levels will have two bedrooms.

The apartments will be leased at market rates.

Plans are to locate the apartment building closer to Badger Street than the church is now. It will span almost the entire distance from Division to State streets, with parking located behind the building.

Prior to the old church being removed from the site, a company that specializes in recycling old church materials, such as pews and stained glass windows, will remove and donate the materials to other churches.

The goal is to have the project completed by the end of 2023, Schuelke said.

Speaker reflects on military career

BY JAMES CARD STAFF REPORTER

WAUPACA -Marcia Anderson became the U.S. Army's first African American female major general in 2011.

At a lecture hosted by the Winchester Academy on March 6, she told the story of how unlikely it all happened: she failed kindergarten and had to repeat that year which left her feeling insecure at a young age. Yet she had an internal self-assurance that told her she knew she could excel in the right situations.

She was the first of her family to go to college and her intention was to be a lawyer.

At Creighton University in Omaha, she needed to sign up for classes and fill some credit hours. This was in the late 1970s, long before online registration. She approached an ROTC table, spoke with the recruiter who told her that you got paid to go to class. She signed up. She thought it was some kind of gym class that included marksmanship train-

She excelled with military life but often felt she was playing catch up to other young officers who had insider knowledge of things, the kind of insights that are passed down from fathers, brothers and uncles who had served. Things like tips on polishing boots or army lingo. Anderson's father served and was a Korean War veteran. He never talked about his experience.

"He actually didn't tell me about his service until I was getting promoted to colonel and he was going to pin me [a significant other pins on the new insignia to the uniform]. That was after 25 years when he started to talk about his service," said Anderson.

The key takeaway from Anderson's lecture and the main ingredient of her success was to be humble and ask ques-

"I found something that would help me for the rest of my career; the sergeants were always willing to help me if I asked them for help. I relied on the sergeants to explain stuff to me and for them it was never a stupid question because the bottom line is, when you are an officer and are in charge of people, you need to get it right. And if you assume you know something and you order people to do something and its wrong – people in the military get hurt or killed. So they were happy that I was willing to ask questions so I got my job right," said Ander-

Anderson later served at the Pentagon and was later appointed as a Civilian Aide to the Secretary of the Army (CASA) for Wisconsin and serves on the Department of Defense Advisory Committee on Investigation, Defense and Prosecution and Defense of Sexual Assault in the Armed Forces. She retired in 2016 after 36 years of service.

Earlier in the day she spoke to students at Waupaca High School.

During the Winchester Academy lecture she spoke of the struggles of the U.S. military to reach its recruiting goals. There are a number of reasons: America's youth are too out of shape to pass the physical or not intelligent enough to pass the Armed Services Vocational Aptitude

The pandemic created an educational shortfall and the military now has a program to get recruits to the level that they need to be to pass the entrance requirements.

Anderson also noted public perception has shifted and pointed out that the Madison Metropolitan School District has explicitly banned military recruiters from setting foot on school campuses. This is something that she is working to change as she lives in the Madison area.

Waupaca DI teams compete

WAUPACA - Waupaca schools sent five teams to the Northeast Regional/ Destination Sectional Imagination Tournament at Shawano Middle School on Feb. 25.

Destination Imagination (DI) is an international, educational and extra-curricular program that encourages innovation, teamwork and creative problem solving.

Teams chose one of seven challenges to solve, which emphasize technology, science, fine arts, improvisational theater, engineering or service learning.

The middle school Ring Pop Comets competed at the Improv Challenge and placed second at the tournament.

This challenge required the team to create a skit, using two minutes of preparation time, about an underdog participating in a randomly selected competition from a list of competitions, incorporating an expert, also randomly selected from a list of experts, and integrating a "complication." The team was allowed to use rubber bands and trash bags to enhance the skit.

Also from the Middle School, but competing at the elementary level, was the team the Red Pickles, for the Fine Arts Challenge.

The Red Pickles created and presented a skit with a flipped tale, inspired by a well-known story, but focused on a new main character and using theatrical techniques to move the audience's focus from one portion of the presentation area to another.

They designed and built scenery that went through a "flip." This team also placed second.

Waupaca Learning Center's DI team, The Golfers, tied for third place. This team chose to compete in the Engineering Challenge.

The students were required to design and build a roller coaster, with a launching mechanism, that started a golf ball along the track.

They also created a presentation showing how the golf ball would experience the roller coaster.

The Chain Exploration Center, sent a middle level team, the Wobbler Weeblers, who came in second for the Scientific Challenge.

This team created a skit with a tall tale, that included an exaggerated character with a hyperbolic trait, and a theatrical embellishment that enhanced the hyperbolic trait. The Wobbler Weeblers placed second.

First and second grade students comprised the youngest team, the Crazy Animals, also from CEC. This age group is non-competitive.

The Crazy Animals were tasked with creating a skit about a group of friends going on a fantastic adventure, with a musical character and a surprise. They also constructed instruments from recycled or repurposed house items, and developed their own song, which they sang at the tournament.

All four competitive level Waupaca teams have qualified to advance to the state tournament at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay on April 1.

Driver charged with 10th OWI

COUNTY - Mark R. Bellin, 55, New London, is charged with a 10th drunken driving offense and disorderly conduct.

He is currently in custody on a $100,000 cash bond.

Shortly after 6 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 23, Wau-paca County Deputies Tyler Guyette and Adam LaBrosse responded to a reported crash on Ferry Street in the town of Mukwa.

When Guyette arrived, he found two witnesses holding Bellin. They said he was trying to leave the scene.

According to the criminal complaint, Bellin drove into two parked cars and nearly hit two people who were snowblowing their driveways. He also drove into a front yard before becoming stuck in a snow bank.

"The defendant's speech was extremely slurred and his eyes were bloodshot and glossy," the complaint says.

A records check indicated that a heavily damaged Chevy Malibu stuck

One witness told LaBrosse that Bellin had said he wanted them to wait until morning to call the police because he was on parole and not supposed to be driving.

Bellin allegedly threatened to kill the witness once he was released from prison if he called 911.

Since 1992, Bellin has been sentenced to prison multiple times for a total of nearly 11 years.

Zero's takes over Bucky's

Plan to open March 20

BY JAMES CARD STAFF REPORTER

NEW LONDON - It's not a mom-and-pop restaurant. It's a mom-and-daughter café.

Brenda (the mother) and Amber (the daughter) Anderson have taken over Bucky's Restaurant, the landmark diner in New London with the 1950s sign out front.

They will rename the place Žero's Café in remembrance of a Brenda's late brother-in-law whose nickname was Zero.

Currently they are in sleeves-rolled-up mode. Newly delivered coffeemakers are on the counter still covered in plastic wrap. The smell of wet paint is in the air. Hand tools and power tools are scattered about.

Everything got a makeover but the end of remodeling is near. They plan to be open on Monday, March

It's been a year since the doors have been open. The Anderson's took over the lease this past June. The health inspector gave them a laundry list of items that needed to be repaired, removed or upgraded.

"Each step we took, we got sent back because something else had to be done. Electrical, plumbing all had to be updated. We have to bring everything up to code. We changed out the light fixtures, we repainted, we ripped out all the carpeting," said Brenda as she shuddered. "Let me tell you, when you walked out the kitchen you stuck to the

They redid the floors with a non-slip coating and they sealed all wood surfaces. They purchased all new kitchen equipment and new condenser units for the cooler and freezer. They removed the booths for easier cleaning and now all seating is tables and chairs.

The backbone of the menu will be breakfast served all day. They will be open from 4:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. On-the-go breakfast sandwiches will be served

For the past two years they have operated Zero's Pub & Grub at Guth's Resort on the Wolf River and they are importing a few specialties from there: smoked pulled pork with a homemade barbecue sauce recipe that has been in the family for years and takes three days to make. They will also bring up the Zero's burger which is a one-third pound sirloin burger with a bratwurst patty topped with fried onions and peppers and choice of cheese.

There will be lunch and dinner menus, a Friday fish fry, one-pound pieces of homemade lasagna and an all-you-can-eat soup and salad bar.

Brenda has celiac disease so gluten-free items will be on the menu as she understands those dietary needs on a personal level. All of their desserts are made from scratch.

NEW LONDON - Plans are underway for a multisuite commercial building immediately south of Sub-

The New London Plan-Commission on Thursday, March 2, reviewed a preliminary site plan for the proposed strip mall on vacant land at 1186 N. Shawano St.

The one-story, L-shaped building would contain seven suites facing north or west, ranging in size from 1,050 to 2,100 square feet.

The property owner has tenants lined up for all seven suites but did not disclose who they would be, according to Zoning Administra-

Kurt Daul of Total Investment Properties LLC, New London, is the owner, according to the Wisconsin Department of Financial Institutions. He did not attend the meeting.

Daul also owns the strip mall at 1200 N. Shawano St., home to Subway, Family Flippers and New London Total Fitness 24-7.

His two buildings would share the driveway to North Shawano Street, but an additional parking lot with 29 stalls would be constructed.

"I like the idea," Commissioner Jeff Handschke said, "and we all know there is not enough retail space in New London right now, so anything that you could do to add to it would be great."

With the planning commission not knowing what kinds of businesses would be there, Alderwoman BaLynda Croy requested Daul address whether semi traffic could increase.

"How is that going to be maneuvered? What's he doing for that?" Croy asked. "And if [he constructs] an egress out the back side, is there an agreement with the adjoining property to allow that?"

A semitrailer services Subway using the existing driveway without problems, so an exit out back for semis should not be necessary, Vincent replied.

The commission plans to review a completed site plan at its next meeting on the Feb. 27 school board meeting, the board voted to replace the rood on the middle school.

New roof for W-F Middle School

The roof has exceeded its useful life and there have been major leaks during heavy rainfall during 2022.

Martin Exteriors was awarded the bid in the amount of $615,000. Martin Exteriors offered it as a turnkey project. All HVAC work will be subcontracted and coordinated by Marten Exteriors and was included in its bid.

In evaluating the four bids, Great Lakes Roofing provided the lowest bid although its bid did not include the required warranty, which was 20 years for materials and labor. The bid from Great Lakes Roofing along with the bids from Quality Roofing and Commercial Roofing did not include the costs of disconnecting, removal, replacement and reconnecting the 18 HVAC rooftop units on the middle school roof.

More days for 4K

The four-year kindergarten instructional day will change from two full days per week to four half-days.

Teacher Sarah Highlander and Little Hawks Child Care Center director Hope Steiger reviewed the survey results and addressed community concerns. The board approved this change.

Turning grief into joy

BY HOLLY NEUMANN

STAFF REPORTER

IOLA – Jodi Schmoldt has found a way to turn her own grief into joy while bringing happiness to others.

Schmoldt, along with her Pomeranians Poochiekins and Luka, visit The Willows, a senior living community in Iola, each week to put smiles on the faces of its residents.

"I first met Jodi in December, when she came here with another group," said Maureen Speck, life enrichment coordinator at the facility. "We started kicking the idea around of her bringing her dogs here. She was willing to do so and has been coming since Janu-

The benefits for the residents have been phenomenal, according to Speck.

"You see unconditional love and joy," she said. "Most of these folks have had dogs at one time in their life or another. When the puppies show up, you can see the tension and stress leave their faces. They are so happy when they are petting these dogs. It brings back a lot of happy memories for them."

Not only did it prove to be beneficial for the residents, but for Schmoldt as well.

Schmoldt lost her mother in 2018 due to a sudden heart attack and her husband Kevin in 2020 due to complications of leukemia.

"I have had so much sadness these last five years especially," she said. "It brings joy to my heart to see and feel all the love and kindness expressed when we visit. Knowing we have brought some joy into their day means the world to me."

Schmoldt said this is exactly what her mother and Kevin would have wanted her to do.

"Kevin really enjoyed spending time with the elderly and listening to their stories," she said. "He knew that the most important thing a person can give to another is your time and listening to them."

Marilyn, a resident at The Willows in Iola, lets Poochiekins sit on her lap. "I love the puppies," she said. "It makes it a great day for everyone here."

"My mom took her two dogs to the nursing home when my grandma was there," she added. "She loved seeing the joy it brought to the residents and employees both. She had only wished she could do it more."

Schmoldt believes the visits turned her own grief into joy.

"Knowing I am able to make someone's day a bit better, even for a short time, makes me happy," she said. "Like Kevin said, 'Give a smile, get a smile.' It is hard to be sad when you're focused on making someone else happy."

Schmoldt encouraged everyone to look for ways to make someone's day better.

"Paying it forward always comes back to you a hundredfold," she said. "We have all had bad things happen to us. No one escapes pain and grief. We have a choice on what we do with what happens to us. We can choose to feel sorry for ourselves and live in our grief or choose to use our pain to alleviate it for someone else.

"Kevin told the kids and me to not let our grief consume us, to not be defined by our grief," she added. "Bringing my puppies to others not only brings them joy, it enhances my life in so many ways."

Sources of Strength promotes mental health awareness

BY HOLLY NEUMANN STAFF REPORTER

MANAWA - Sources of Strength is a student-driven organization with the purpose of promoting mental health awareness and suicide prevention. The mission is to build resiliency in students through messages of hope while identifying personal strengths. The upstream model incorporates sources of support so that when times get difficult, students have strengths to rely on.

The Manawa School board gave its approval of the organization in January 2022. It was previously a pilot program.

With the rise in mental health issues among students, Sources of Strength continues to spread the message of hope, help and strength.

"Our district has selected this program to provide students and staff with a myriad of strategies and sup-times," said Sandy Cordes at teacher at Little Wolf High School and one of the group's advisers. "One of the phrases that stuck with me after our professional training was that we want to help empower students to live in a 'well world."

She believes the team also comprised of Mary Eck, Jill Krause, Nate Ziemer, Meria Wright and Mary Johnson - have the privilege and responsibility to help students to learn their strengths and how to utilize them to help create a supportive culture to decrease bullying, suicide and destructive choices.

"The program is built on eight strengths: mental health, family support, positive friends, mentors, healthy activities, generosity, spirituality and physical health," Cordes said. "This organization can fill a void by helping students focus on what strengths they ports to navigate turbulent have to help them persevere through the pressures they face daily. This is important in daily life as well as helping to build a foundation of coping strategies to access throughout life."

Sources of Strength serves Manawa School District students in grades 6-12 is designed to enable protective influences to protect vulnerable populations.

"Peer leaders and advisers have been trained with programs evidence-based that help build the eight components of the Sources of Strength wheel," Cordes said. "The program focuses on changing the norms of student culture to become a message of strength and hope for students.

Peer-to-peer campaigns have a greater likelihood to improve buy-in for students with their authentic messages," she said. "They know the struggles and the joys of being a teenager. Campaigns curated by students have the greatest impact in helping our students learn coping skills and an increased sense of belonging."

The goal is for students to know they have resources available, no matter what they are facing.

Students with diverse backgrounds were intentionally invited to be part of the peer leader team, which has caused leaders to become more connected with each other and have access to viewpoints other than their own.

"This has helped our students to grow as communicators and leaders with purpose," Cordes said. "Members become more cognizant of their own strengths as well as areas that they may want to explore ways to improve in."

She has witnessed students choosing to focus on positives and controllable instead of dwelling on neg-

"Campaigns thus far have focused on education, knowing your strengths, gratitude and suicide prevention," she said.

Cordes said students who would like to learn more about the program should visit with an adviser or peer

"We welcome all to attend when homeroom meetings are held," she said.

Community members can help by encouraging youth to focus on their strengths and offering activities that can bolster the eight components.

He was always ready to lend a hand when needed and to play a game of cribbage or sheepshead. He loved coffee and his family knew to have a pot brewing if he was stopping by. Bob always had fresh baked brownies or chocolate chip cookies on his counter.

Bob leaves behind a brother, Bill (Ann) Loehrke and a sister, Vicki (Ken) Koerner; his nieces and nephews and their families: Melanie (John) Lendosky, Justin (Katie) Loehrke, Kerry (Chad) Forrest, Michael Loehrke Jr., Kendra (Nate) Collar and Kara Koerner and aunts, uncles and many cousins. In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by his brother Michael Loehrke and sisters-in-law Juli Loehrke and Nancy Loehrke, along with his infant brother Kelvin.

To honor Bob's wishes, no funeral services will be held. The family would love to have those that knew Bob to share a story or memory about Bob on the Tribute Wall on the Valley Funeral Home Website.

You will be missed Bob, more than you know or would want us to tell you!

Flanagan, Tom John

How does one sum up the life of a great man in a few words? It seems impossible, yet we try.

Thomas John Flanagan passed into eternity on Thursday, March 2, 2023. We know for sure the first person he met up inside heaven's gate was his wife, Vera, and then his brother, Garrett, who preceded him in death when Fom was just 16 years old. He was greatly looking forward to seeing them both again, and that gives those left behind some comfort. Tom loved and adored his wife of 58 years. Tom married his high school sweetheart, Vera Mary Konrad, on June 28, 1950. She passed away May 2, 2008. They were a perfect complement for each other, a wonderful demonstration of how a healthy, loving, Christian marriage should look. They made it look easy. Tom led by example, teaching his children how to be great friends to each other and loving parents to their children.

Tom was born on November 3, 1929, in Maple Creek, WI, the second child of John and Alice (Carey) Flanagan. His first priority was God. Second was family. Countless hours of his life were spent praying for his family that continued to grow with each passing year. Tom is leaving a legacy of love: six children, 15 grandchildren, 36 great-grandchildren, and one great-great grandchild.

and Ryan, and the families of his grandchildren. He is further survived by sisters-in-law, Lucille Konrad and Lillian Konrad and brother-in-law, John Peeters. Greeting Tom at heaven's gate are his parents; brother, Garrett; mother- and father-in-law, Loretta and Roy Konrad; sister-in-law, Norma Peeters; brothers-in-law, Leon, Kenneth and David Konrad; sister-in-law, Dorothy Peeters; and daughter-in-law and granddaughter, Mary and Angie Flanagan, along with other relatives and friends Dad, you left us beautiful memories. Your love will always be our guide. May your legacy live on in the way we live our lives, and may God bless our father (Tom) for being such an integral part of who we are today. We will miss you like crazy, but we will honor and celebrate your life the remainder of ours. Tom's children would like to give a heartfelt thank you to Marge Krautkramer and Jayne Rohan for their encouragement and support given over the years. Your friendship has been cherished beyond words.

The family also thanks Moment's Hospice, especially Mikki and Nicki, for their compassionate care of our father. We thank the staff at St. Joseph Residence. We wish to thank all of our father's neighbors and friends for their support and concern during his time at Marion Heights. Finally, we thank Fr. John Kleinschmidt for his visits with Tom and support of our family.

The Mass of Christian Burial for Tom will be held at 11:00 a.m. on Tuesday, March 14, 2023 at Most Precious Blood Catholic Church in New London, with Fr. John Kleinschmidt officiating. Visitation will take place at the church from 9:00 a.m. until the time of the Mass. Burial will be in the parish cemetery.

Secondary Maximum Contaminant Levels are levels that do not present health concerns but may pose aesthetic problems such as objectionable taste, odor, or color. Health Advisory Levels are levels at which concentrations of the contaminant present a health risk.

Contaminants with a Health Advisory Level or a Secondary Maximum Contaminant Level

The following tables list contaminants which were detected in your water and that have either a Health Advisory Level (HAL) or a Secondary Maximum Contaminant Level (SMCL), or both. There are no violations for detections of contaminants that exceed Health Advisory Levels, Groundwater Standards or Secondary Maximum Contaminant Levels. Secondary Maximum Contaminant Levels are levels that do not present health concerns but may pose aesthetic problems such as objectionable taste, odor, or color. Health Advisory Levels are levels at which concentrations of the contaminant present a health risk.

Unregulated Contaminants

Unregulated contaminants are those for which EPA has not established drinking water standards. The purpose of unregulated contaminant monitoring is to assist EPA in determining the occurrence of unregulated contaminants in drinking water and whether future regulation is warranted. EPA required us to participate in this monitoring.

Additional Health Information

While your drinking water meets USEPA's standard for arsenic, it does contain low levels of arsenic. USEPA's standard balances the current understanding of arsenic's possible health effects against the costs of removing arsenic from drinking water. USEPA continues to research the health effects of low levels of arsenic, which is a mineral known to cause cancer in humans at high concentrations and is linked to other health effects such as skin damage and circulatory problems.

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. New London Waterworks is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at www.epa.gov/safewater/lead.

Definition of Terms

Term	Definition
AL	Action Level: The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.
HAL	Health Advisory Level: The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, poses a health risk and may require a system to post a public notice.
Level 1 Assessment	A study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine, if possible, why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system.
Level 2 Assessment	A very detailed study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine, if possible why an E. coli MCL violation has occurred or why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system, or both, on multiple occasions.
MCL	Maximum Contaminant Level: The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
MCLG	Maximum Contaminant Level Goal: The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
MFL	million fibers per liter
MRDL	Maximum Residual Disinfection Level: The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.
MRDLG	Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal: The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
mrem/year	millirems per year (a measure of radiation absorbed by the body)
NTU	Nephelometric Turbidity Units
pCi/l	picocuries per liter (a measure of radioactivity)
ppm	parts per million, or milligrams per liter (mg/l)
ppb	parts per billion, or micrograms per liter (ug/l)
ppt	parts per trillion, or nanograms per liter
ppq	parts per quadrillion, or picograms per liter
SMCL	Secondary drinking water standards or Secondary Maximum Contaminant Levels for contaminants that affect taste, odor, or appearance of the drinking water. The SMCLs do not represent health standards.
TCR	Total Coliform Rule
TT	Treatment Technique: A required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Educational Information

All drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. Those constituents can be microbes, organic or inorganic chemicals, or radioactive materials.

The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Environmental Protection Agency's safe drinking water hotline (800-426-4791).

The sources of drinking water, both tap water and bottled water, include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

- Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.
- Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally occurring or result from urban storm water runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.
- Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm water runoff, and residential uses.
- Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff, and septic systems.
- Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally occurring, or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which shall provide the same protection for public health.

In our continuing efforts to maintain a safe and dependable water supply it may be necessary to make improvements in your water system. The costs of these improvements may be reflected in the rate structure. A rate adjustment was done in 2022. There are several watermain relays occurring this summer. Win over Rockets sends Polar Bears to state

BY GREG SEUBERT SPORTS EDITOR

HORTONVILLE – If the Hortonville girls' basketball team wants to win the program's first state title, the Polar Bears will have to knock off a defending champion.

The Polar Bears will face defending champion Kettle Moraine Friday, March 10, in one of two WIAA Division 1 state semifinals at the Resch Center in Green Bay.

Hortonville received a No. 2 seed, while the Lasers are seeded third. The other semifinal, also set for March 10, has top seed Brookfield East matched up with No. 4 Germantown.

The Polar Bears advanced to state for the first time since 2020 with a 71-54 win over Neenah March 4 and opened sectional play March 2 with a 69-41 win over Wausau West.

Hortonville 71, Neenah 54

APPLETON – Someday, Rainey Welson will be able to tell her kids about "the game."

The Hortonville sophomore scored a school-record 41 points and made 16 of 18 free throws as the Polar Bears knocked off the Rockets for the second time this season.

Both of Neenah's losses came to the Polar Bears, including an overtime defeat on Dec. 31. Neenah handed the Polar Bears a 20-point defeat later in the season that helped the Rockets wrap up the Fox Valley Association championship, but never had the lead in the sectional final.

The Polar Bears built an early 13-3 lead and the Rockets never got any closer than six points for the rest of the first half. Hortonville closed out the half with a 7-1 run and took a 34-19 lead into the locker room.

Neenah scored the first nine points of the second half to quickly cut Hortonville's lead to 10 points. A three-pointer from Sammie Buss cut the lead to 49-42 midway through the half, but that's as close as the Rockets would get.

Hortonville's final 17 points came from the free-throw line, including 11 from Welson.

"I trust our athletes to keep playing and they did tonight," coach AC Clouthier said. "We played so calm and collected and with so much confidence. The pressure wasn't on us. We were not expected to win this one."

Welson was the only Hortonville player to finish in double figures. Allie Ziebell led Neenah with 26 points.

Warhawks fall in regional final

WEYAUWEGA – Auburndale kept the Weyauwega-Fremont boys' basketball team from winning a WIAA Division 4 regional championship.

One day after Jaden Rice's basket at the buzzer gave the Warhawks a 44-42 win over Edgar, Weyauwega-Fremont's season ended March 4 with a 64-48 loss to the Eagles.

AUBURNDALE – Caden Weinfurter and Mason White Eagle made 16 of their 20 shots and combined to score 46 of Auburndale's points in the regional final.

The Eagles used runs of 9-0 and 8-0 to take big leads in the first half and the Warhawks trailed 27-17 at halftime.

Lakeland ends New London's season

BY GREG SEUBER SPORTS EDITOR

ANTIGO – In the end, it turned out be too much Lakeland and not enough New London.

Lakeland, led by sisters Julianna and Kristina Ouimette, ended the New London girls' basketball team's season with a 77-45 loss March 2 in a WIAA Division 2 sectional semifinal at Antigo High School.

Not only did the Thunderbirds pick up a win over the Bulldogs, they also beat Menomonie 60-59 March 4 in a sectional final in Medford and will now face Pewaukee in a state semifinal Friday, March 10, at the Resch Center in Green Bay.

The Ouimettes combined for 43 of Lakeland's points in the first half and helped the Thunderbirds build a 38-22 lead at the break. Julianna scored 12 of her game-high 23 points in the half, while Kristina added 10 of her 20 points.

New London trailed the entire game.

"They've got a good, well-rounded team with two really good players," coach Cody Clark said. "They got the quick lead, we had to climb back and just couldn't." The Bulldogs eventually cut the Thunderbirds' lead to

New London boys win D2 regional

BY GREG SEUBERT SPORTS EDITOR

NEW LONDON – It's not time to pack up the basketball gear at New London High School just yet.

An 83-74 win over topseeded Fox Valley Lutheran March 4 gave the boys' basketball team it's first WIAA regional championship since 2019.

The fourth-seeded Bull-dogs had advanced to the Division 2 final March 3 with a 65-57 win over Lakeland.

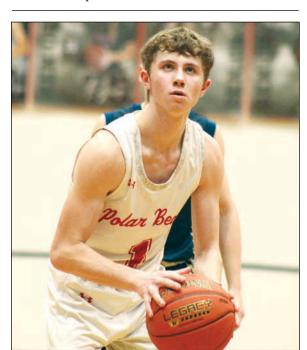

New London improved to 17-9 on the season with the wins and will now face Mosinee at 7 p.m. Thursday, March 9, in a sectional semifinal at Waupaca High School.

The winner will then play Medford or La Crosse Central Saturday, March 11, in a sectional final at a location to be determined. The winner of that game will advance to state.

New London 83, FVL 74

APPLETON – The Bulldogs trailed by as many as 12 points in the first half, but went on a 12-2 run to cut the deficit to 43-41 at the break.

Lightning strikes in Hortonville

BY GREG SEUBERT SPORTS EDITOR

HORTONVILLE – The Hortonville boys' basketball faced a familiar opponent in the second round of the WIAA state tournament.

The Polar Bears had split a pair of Fox Valley Association games with Appleton North during the regular season, but the third matchup – a WIAA Division 1 regional final March 4 at Hortonville High School – ended their season.

The Lightning outscored the Polar Bears 14-12 in overtime and returned home with a 61-59 win.

Hortonville had opened state tournament play the previous day with a 67-44 win over Holmen.

Hortonville scored the first point of the game on a free throw from Camden Kuhnke, but that turned out to be the Polar Bears' only lead of the game.

Appleton North headed to the locker room at half-time with a 29-24 lead and led by as many as nine points in the second half before Hortonville tied the game twice late in regulation.

The teams headed to overtime tied at 47-47. The Lightning opened the four-minute extra period with an 8-1 run. The Polar Bears eventually cut the lead to 60-59 on Kuhnke's three-point play with seven seconds remaining. Abraham Tomori hit one of two free throws for the Lightning to give the Polar Bears one more chance to tie or win the game, but Kuhnke's shot at the buzzer bounced off of the rim.

Kuhnke led the Polar Bears with 14 points, while August Maurer and Riley Mueller added 13 and 10, respectively.

Trent Mullen led Appleton North with 14 points.

WEYAUWEGA - Both teams got off to a slow start on the offensive end. Edgar led by as many as four points in the first half, but the Warhawks closed the half with a 12-5 run to take a 20-17 lead into the locker room at halftime.

The lead changed hands six times before Rice gave the Warhawks the lead for good from the free-throw line.

Leyton Schuett fouled Rice and Edgar's Teegan Streit was whistled for a technical foul.

Rice hit all free throws to give the Warhawks a 42-41 lead with 1:48 to go.

Streit later had a chance to give Edgar the lead, but missed one of two free throws with 50 seconds remaining that tied the game at 42-42.

Rice came up with the game-winning basket as time expired and ended up leading all scorers with 18 points. Brayden Arndt added 13 points for the Warhawks, while Streit led the Wildcats with 13.
