School board reviews unpaid student meals

Clintonville updates policy

BY BERT LEHMAN STAFF REPORTER

CLINTONVILLE - The Clintonville School Board has updated the district's food services policy on how the district handles negative meal balances for students in the district.

The board approved the second reading of the updated policy at its March 27 meeting.

The policy was updated for elementary, middle and high school students.

For elementary school students, the policy was amended to read, "Students PK-5 will be permitted to receive breakfast, snack, and lunch with a negative account balance."

For middle school and high school students, the policy was amended to read, "Students 6-12 will not be permitted to receive a breakfast or lunch if their Food Service account has a balance exceeding negative twentyfive dollars (-$25)."

The policy was also amended to include, "Any family balance exceeding negative one hundred dollars (-$100) will be applied as a fine to the eldest child who is an active Clintonville Public School District Student at the end of the school year in accordance with Policy 6152."

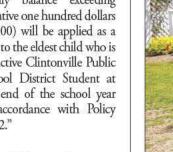

The board originally discussed the policy at its Feb. 13 meeting.

At this meeting, Clintonville Superintendent Troy Kuhn talked to the board about negative meal balances that students accumulate. He told the board he didn't want to make any decisions at the meeting, but asked board members to think about how they want to handle negative meal balances, and discuss it at a future meeting.

Kuhn further explained that one of the things that has changed for school districts since COVID is that

Group seeks funds for buildings

WAUPACA - The Waupaca Historical Society will hold an ice cream and pie social to celebrate its 70th anniversary in the same building where it held its first meeting.

The social will be held from 6-8 p.m. Thursday, April 27, at the Holly History and Genealogy Ćenter, 321 S. Main St., Waupaca.

The event will feature free freshments, information on WHS and self-guided tours of the Holly Center. On April 27, 1953, WHS held its first meeting at the Waupaca Area Public Library, which at the time was located in what is now the Holly Center. According to Tracy Beh-rendt, WHS director, Tom A. Browne, a Waupaca attorney, was elected the first president of the new group. Sophelia Built in 1854, the Hutchinson House was originally located on the corner of West Fulton and Franklin streets. It had been the home of Chester and Susannah Hutchinson.

The white clapboard wood-frame Greek Revival farmhouse is 1 1/2 stories with a gable front in the center. The two wings each have a recessed porch.

Julia Hutchinson, the granddaughter of Chester and Susannah, was the last Hutchinson to live in the house. A Waupaca teacher, she was an active member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Volunteers seek city aid

BY SCOTT BELLILE CORRESPONDENT

NEW LONDON - The all-volunteer New London Area First Responders requested aid from city officials who were surprised to learn the group is driven by donations.

"I thought you guys were state- and county-funded," Mayor Mark Herter told them.

"Not a lot of people know [we are not], so that's part of our plan is to get the word out," said Tiffany Strey, director for the first responders.

The nonprofit New London Area First Responders asked the city to begin providing annual monetary assistance at a pair of Finance and Personnel Committee meetings on Feb. 8 and April 5.

Fundraisers, grants and donations provide the income to pay for training, equipment and medications.

There is no guarantee of funding through any of these means and it makes budgeting difficult," the first responders stated in a memo. "Equipment wears out and medical supplies are consumed. If we do not raise enough funds, we limit our spending."

The group started 2023 with about $16,500 in cash on hand.

Its projected income and expenditures this year are $4,248 and $7,537, respectively.

Volunteers are paged at their homes and workplaces to assist the sick and injured throughout New London, Mukwa, and parts of Lebanon, Liberty and Maple Creek, first responder Jeff Handschke said.

Hutchinson House

In 1956, WHS purchased the historic Hutchinson House and moved it 10 blocks to South Park. The Hutchinson House was opened as a public museum during the summer of 1957, the year the city of Waupaca celebrated its centennial.

WHS also held meetings and used storage space at what was once Waupaca's City Hall and fire station.

Good wood at the library BY JAMES CARD

STAFF REPORTER

WEYAUWEGA - The Boy Scout slogan is "Do a good turn daily."

Frank Zaboj does 700 good turns per minute.

That's the RPM speed set on his mini lathe where he is turning chunks of wood into finely polished dishes and bowls.

Zaboj is donating his wood creations to the Weyauwega Public Library to raise funds for their new addition.

His handmade saucers, shallow bowls, edged plates, coasters and small dishes are of various shades and grains. Zaboj finishes them with a coating of food-safe butcher block oil.

He also has donated other woodworking projects: some decorative mushroom toadstools and small Christmas trees. These are currently for sale in a silent auction format that is displayed on the library counter. If this becomes popular they might offer Zaboj's creations for direct sale.

"This biggest reason is there are a lot of people in town that can't afford to come up with bigger donations. By bigger I mean $500 or a thousand, but, they are willing to pitch in where they can. So I thought give them a chance. If they can give five or ten bucks and they get something for it, good. This way everyone feels ownership.

We're going to have to raise about $100,000 total," said Zaboj.

Currently the library has a little over $200,000 for the new addition project and is anticipating extra funding will be needed. They do not have the exact final figure yet.

This week the library staff is meeting with the engineering firm in Appleton who will make some suggestions and once they get state approval, the project will go out to bid.

Zaboj's workshop is part of his garage and inside are antique hand tools mixed with modern power equipment.

"This is the newest acquisition. It came about a year ago. This is my pride and joy. This is a mini lathe so

King Cottage

WHS's next major project was its purchase and relocation of a cottage from the Wisconsin Veterans Home in King to space behind the Hutchinson House in 1975.

Then, a porch was added and interior walls removed so the former dwelling could be used as a research library.

From 1997 until 2001, it was filled with photographs, books, maps and other research and genealogical materials.

In 2001, WHS relocated the research materials from King Cottage to the Holly Center. The building has since been used for storage.

The cottage has several Chain O' Lakes-related exhibits, including Whispering Pines Park and the Wisconsin Veterans Home in King.

Carnegie Library

In 1914, the Waupaca Free Public Library opened in a new building funded in large part by a $10,000 grant from the Carnegie Corporation.

According to an application to the National Register of Historic Places prepared by Mary Gordon in 1995, the building was designed by architects Bernard Parkinson and Albert Dockendorff of La Crosse and represents "an excellent local example of the influence of the American Arts and Craft and Tudor Revival styles."

The Waupaca Historical Society has restored the formerly abandoned train depot on Oak Street in Waupaca.

In the 1890s, the Monday Night Club, an early local women's club, began advocating and fundraising for a public library.

The group invited Lutie Stearns, a leader in the Wisconsin library movement, to speak in Waupaca. They provided donations for the city's first library books.

Later, the Waupaca Common Council appointed a library board and the Waupaca Electric Light and Railway Co. provided space to house the library's growing collection of books.

The library board and the women's club persuaded the common council to pass an ordinance that accepted the Carnegie grant and committed $1,000 a year to fund library operations.

A petition signed by 135 citizens urged the council to suspend the ordinance. The city held a referendum and citizens voted 2-1 in favor of funding of a public library.

The Carnegie building housed Waupaca's public library until 1993, when Waupaca built its current library and city hall on the site of the former county courthouse on Main Street.

WHS purchased the Carnegie building in 2001 and remodeled it into what has become the organization's offices, archives, research center and community meeting space.

The building is now named the Holly History and Genealogy Center, because the Holly family has had a major role in supporting the historical society.

As visitors climb the stairs from the Main Street entrance to upper level, they will see photos of A.J. Holly, Roy Holly and Tom Holly, On the lower level is the Cynthia Holly Meeting Room.

Train Depot

WHS's most recent building project has been the train depot.

Located at the top of a hill just past the Oak Street railroad overpass, the passenger station was built in 1907 by the Wisconsin Central Railway, then later leased by the Soo Line.

The sandstone building has a Spanish tile. Inside there is a now students have to pay to receive breakfast and lunch at school. It was free during the COVID pandemic.

Once a student's meal balance reaches a certain amount, the district calls one of the student's parents to inform them about the meal balance, Kuhn said.

"Once it gets to a certain number then Karleen (Brei, the district's food service manager) makes personal phone calls, sends a letter home," Kuhn said.

Kuhn said for middle school and high school students, when they know their meal balance is negative, most of the time they won't even try to get a meal at school.

It's a similar process for elementary school students. But for elementary school students, Kuhn said if their meal balance drops below a certain dollar amount, they will receive a bagged lunch consisting of a cheese sandwich and a milk. They are charged for only the cheese sandwich and the milk.

waiting room, ladies' parlor, smoking room, agent's office, baggage room and three fire places.

Before automobiles and interstate highways, Waupaca became a tourist destination due to train service.

Visitors would disembark at the depot, take a trolley through the city and out to the Chain.

In 1965, Soo Line ended passenger service in Waupaca. The station continued to be used as an agent's office and crew quarters until the new Wisconsin Central purchased the railroad in 1987.

The depot was abandoned and it became the target of vandals, who covered the walls with graffiti and burned a hole in the wooden floor.

In 2004, after four years of negotiations with the railroads that owned the depot, the Waupaca Historical Society purchased the building.

Mike Kirk led volunteers who worked tirelessly to restore the depot.

They repaired the roof, using what tiles they could save and purchasing new ones when needed.

to bus them," Kuhn said.

Kuhn acknowledged that the Clintonville School District can do some things better. He said currently, only one parent receives a phone call, and this can be problematic if parents of a student are no longer together. He said the district is working on creating a system that will call multiple parents.

If a student didn't pay for any meals from the beginning of the school year to the end of the school year, Kuhn said the balance owed to the district would be more than $1,000 per kid.

School counselors do have food available for students, Kuhn said. He added that middle school and high school students know this, but elementary school students may not know this.

"I just don't want a kid embarrassed," Kuhn said.

There are people in the community who are willing to donate money to pay negative lunch balances, Kuhn said.

"But then its, which ones do you pay off, and all of those different things as well," Kuhn said.

Lundt asked why parents

They cleaned the grounds, cleaned soot from the exterior walls, repaired the fireplaces, repaired and painted the interior walls and replaced broken windows.

Kirk and volunteers also dug out a basement under the depot, using shovels and buckets. Today, a model train runs in the basement.

Capital campaign

The Waupaca Historical Society has an ongoing capital campaign with a goal of raising $400,000.

WHS completed its first two capital campaign projects: a new roof and renovations and technology upgrades in the lower level meeting room at the Holly Center.

This year, WHS plans to renovate the kitchen and the collections storage space at the Holly Center.

Plans also include upgrading the HVAC system at the Hutchinson House.

a process for a family to go through if they want to apply for the district to waive the meal fees for their children.

She added that the only person in the district who can tell her to waive meal fees for a family is Brei, because she is the only person in the district with access to that information. It is set up this way to prevent others from finding out who has had meal fees waived.

"There is nobody that should know, other than Karleen," Norder said.

Lundt asked if the district considered accepting donations to cover the cost of school meals.

Regarding donations, Norder said she doesn't recall the district receiving any donations to pay for school meals.

Board President Ben Huber said it's been a few years since such donations have been received.

Kuhn added that he has received some inquiries this year about such donations, but donations were never actually received.

"If somebody would donate, I would tell Karleen, 'Here's X number of dollars, you apply it where you feel it needs to go,' Norder said. "I wouldn't want anything to do with that." Lundt asked how much in donations would be needed to get rid of all the negative food service balances for students in the district. Norder said a report could be run to determine that number. She updated the board at its April 10 meeting, telling the board that the total dollar amount of negative meal accounts is ever-changing, but on March 28 the total of negative meal balances for students was negative $2,044.

PUBLISHER'S LETTER A View To Love

Dear Reader,

Spending a few days with my newest granddaughter Madelyn, who was born just three weeks ago, has opened my mind to how we should engage with the world around us. Her tiny eyes are open and filled with innocence and a sense of wonderment. She has no opinions, no judgments, no prejudices, and no negativity; there is only a simple acceptance of everything within her view.

This newest soul is animated by curiosity about the world around her and an innate ability to love. This is precious and to be treasured; further, it would be good for us to foster and nourish this attitude among all children - and ourselves.

Kuhn said. "However, they don't get breakfast, and they wouldn't get their milk break once they get to a certain level down at elementary."

Kuhn said school meals are a hot topic around the nation. He added that some school districts feel the district should cover the costs of all student meals, while others feel the costs fall on the parents of the students.

"I know one district, down way south of us, said, 'Sure, we'll pay for all the food but you parents can figure out how to get your kids to school because we're no longer going aren't paying on the balance after the school contacts them.

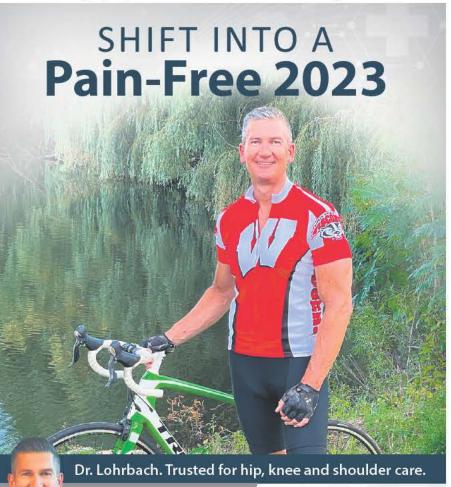

Brei said some say they just forgot to pay. She acknowl-edged that a lot of times she can't get a hold of the parents, in which case she leaves a message.

Kuhn told the board that Brei isn't doing anything wrong.

"She's doing what she's supposed to be doing," Kuhn said.

City plans open house on facility

WAUPACA – The city of Waupaca plans to build a new Public Works facility at 500 Harding St.

Construction is anticipated to start May 2023 and continue through May 2024.

Currently, the Public Works Department operates out of five buildings throughout the central and east side of the city. The average age of the buildings is more than 50 years old.

The new facility will house all of the Public Works Department except the wastewater department, which will remain at the treatment plant on South Oborn Street.

The city plans to locate the new 40,000-squarefoot facility on 8 acres of buildable land at Haberkorn Field, which it purchased from the Waupaca School District in 2017.

Common Council initially approved costs of $7 million for the project, but in response to rising costs due to inflation and material shortages, they increased that amount to $9 million.

Speaker discusses ancient canoes

WAUPACA – James Skibo will present "What a Find! Ancient Canoes Discovered in Lake Mendota" at 6:30 p.m. Monday, April 17, at the Waupaca Area Public Library.

Hosted by Winchester Academy, the program is free and open to the public.

Skibo is state archaeologist at the Wisconsin Historical Society.

The WHS, in partnership with Wisconsin's Native Nations, is preserving a pair of historic dugout canoes recovered from Madison's Lake Mendota in 2021 and 2022.

Resting on the lake bottom 27 feet underwater, the first discovery contained seven notched stones known as net sinkers used to hold down fishing nets.

Photos of the canoe showed it to be in such pristine condition that it was suspected to have been made recently.

But radiocarbon dating showed the canoe was in use around A.D. 800, likely by ancestors of today's Ho-Chunk Nation.

These finds have prompted WHS to research fluctuating water levels and ancient shorelines to explore the possibility that the canoes were near what are now submerged village sites.

Skibo received his bachelor's degree from Northern Michigan University, where he was first introduced to archaeology, and a master's degree and doctorate from the University of Arizona.

A Michigan native, Skibo previously served in roles at Illinois state University for 27 years, first as a professor of anthropology and later as chair of the department.

The north half of First State Bank's west parking lot is now gravel as construction progresses on a new bank building on St. John's Place. Scott Bellile Photo

Parking lot offer debated

Alderman pushes for better deal

BY SCOTT BELLILE CORRESPONDENT

NEW LONDON - An offer to purchase property from First State Bank advanced to the city council despite opposition from one alderman concerned about the cost.

The New London Finance Personnel Committee on April 5 recommended the $92,530 purchase to council with Ald. Bernie Ritchie Jr. casting the lone no vote.

First State Bank owns a downtown parking lot between St. John's Place and Lincoln Court next to its drive-up building.

The bank tore up the north half of the parking lot for construction of its future headquarters up the block.

The city intends to purchase the undisturbed south half. This half will be incorporated into the adjacent public parking lot as part of a two-year downtown reconstruction project beginning this spring.

Ritchie said there is no competition for the property, so the city should offer less than $92,530. "I think it's still too much money to pay for a [parking] lot that the bank wants to get rid of," Ritchie said. "And they ain't going to be able to sell it to somebody [else] to build something because it's off the beaten path, so it's a useless piece of property to the bank."

"I don't know if you can say it's a 'useless piece,'" City Administrator Chad Hoerth said, though he added he does not know if zoning regulations would allow new building construction there.

"I would have to say the parcel is invaluable to the city, as all we've been hearing since the day I started here is we need parking downtown ... and it's the first time something of this magnitude has become available for the city to purchase in a very long time," Finance Director Judy Radke said.

"I'm not saying that the city doesn't need parking," Ritchie said. "I just think it's too much money for that piece of property."

Radke said First State Bank's improvements to the block "will more than pay for that parking lot." The $92,530 offer is lower than the bank's original asking price, Hoerth said.

The offer was calculated using the same cost per square foot as what the city paid to purchase the abutting former Wolf River Theatrical Troupe property on West North Water Street for the parking lot expansion, Hoerth said.

Ald. Robert Besaw said he agrees the property may be worth less than $92,530, but the city also wishes to maintain a "goodwill relationship" with First State Bank.

The company last year announced plans to donate its 113 W. North Water St. headquarters, across the street from the parking lot in question, to New London Public Library when the new bank opens on St. John's Place.

The council will review the offer and vote on it Tuesday, April 18.

The committee also recommended to council an agreement to lease the south parking lot to First State Bank for $1 through mid-January, when the new building is expected to open.

Georgette Coppersmith, 2023 Sturgeon Shuffle Race Director says, "The annual activity of these incredible fish draws people from all over"

"The Shuffle Board works with the community and its race volunteers each year to provide an optimal opportunity to experience this walk/run event and welcome visitors, fishermen and families into our community," said Coppersmith.

The event promotes health and wellbeing in the community and directly affects several charitable organizations in the region.

Two new members join city council

BY BERT LEHMAN STAFF REPORTER

CLINTONVILLE - Voters elected two new members to the Clintonville City Council during the April 4 spring election.

New members of the council include Thomas Lederer in District 4 and Greg Rose in District 5.

Lederer won as a write-in candidate as there were no official candidates on the ballot for District 4. Lederer received 15 votes. There were 12 votes for other write-in candidates.

This is Rose's second tenure on the city council. He was recalled by voters in November 2014, ending his first tenure on the council.

Rose received 104 votes in the April 4 election.

Incumbents ran unopposed in the rest of the districts, and were all reelected. Mark Zachow received 188 votes in District 1, Tammy Strey-Hirt received 158 votes in District 2, and Kody Zempel received 81 votes in District 3.

We'll bank it towards the middle so it can drain in there. We're going to add permanent outdoor lighting for races later in the year," said co-owner Jeremy Griesbach.

Lawnmower races are every other Saturday, about 10 times per year depending on the weather. They will expand the parking area and also make a new pit for the lawnmower race crews.

Local quilters donate to Sleep in Heavenly Peace

BY HOLLY NEUMANN STAFF REPORTER

IOLA – When Lynn Myers learned about an organization called Sleep in Heavenly Peace, she thought it was a worthwhile cause to get involved with.

"Anything for kids is important to me," the Iola resident said. "Just knowing that there are children out there that needed a bed really touched my heart."

Myers enlisted the help of a local quilting group she belongs to, the Norske Needlers. The group, which is 36 members strong, were able to make 31 quilts for the organization.

"Everyone helped in one way or another," she said. "From quilting, to providing material, a lot of people were involved."

Amanda Rasmussen, president of the Waupaca chapter of Sleep in Heavenly Peace, is thankful for the donation.

SHP makes beds for kids who would otherwise be sleeping on the floor.

"So often, beds are something that is overlooked, but keeping the little ones off the floor is so important," Ras-mussen said. "We are filling that need."

Under the program, families receive a free twin bed, sheets, blanket and pillow for their child or children.

Delivery days are amazing, according to Rasmussen.

"To see the smiles on the kids' faces, knowing that they will no longer have to sleep on the floor is a good feeling," she said. "When we are ready to deliver the beds, we ask the parents if there is something special that their child may like on their quilt. We usually take along a couple of quilts with us and the child gets to choose what they like. This makes it that much more meaningful."

Anyone that needs a bed for their child ages 3–17 can visit shpbeds.org to fill out an application, which are sent to the appropriate chapter based on ZIP Code.

SHP is completely run by volunteers and donations. There are 10 core team members that take care of fundraising and gather volunteers for community build days.

"There is always something for people to do," Rasmussen said. "My hope is that people remember the value of community involvement that is wrapped abound kids."

The next Community Build Day will be held Saturday, April 29, at Waupaca High School. Contact Kimberly at 920-841-6215 or Amanda at 920-268-7914 for more information.

Monetary donations are used to buy lumber, mattresses, sheets and pillows. Donations can be sent to SHP, P.O. Box 53, Waupaca, WI 54981. Checks should be made payable to SHP.

Abel, Donald

Donald Herman Abel, age 96, went home to his Lord among the thunder and lightning of early Wednesday, April 5, 2023, at Brewster Village in Appleton, Wisconsin. In his final days, as was true for the decades prior, "Don" was surrounded by Betty, his beloved bride of sixty-eight years, and his children, of whom he was fiercely proud. Considering that he was a man of tremendous industry, it seems no accident that the percussion of the heavens outside his window at the end so closely resembled the sounds of crashing brake presses and ringing hammer strikes during a life lived to build—and build so very well.

Don Abel was born in Lisbon, Wisconsin, in Waukesha County, on November 2, 1926, to Erwin and Alma Abel. He was the second of two boys—Kenneth being the eldest. Three months before Don's birth, his mother, Alma, fell from a ladder. Fearing for the life of her unborn child, Alma cried out to God to preserve the life growing within her—dedicating her son to the Lord. With little money but a great deal of grit, the Abels operated an 80-acre farm where the young Don learned to apply himself, overcoming the challenges of limited means through willpower and ingenuity—attributes necessary to surmount the troubled span of the Great Depression. His family would eventually leave the farm, moving around every few years as opportunities arose; they would ultimately reside in Waukesha. Working in the Waukesha Motor Company's carpentry shop during his high school years, Don grew into the tall, kempt, broad-shouldered man he would remain for the next eight decades. Before his high school graduation, Don was drafted into the U.S. Army during the waning days of World War II and assigned to Camp Kilmer in New Jersey. He was tasked with processing the men and materials re-turning from Europe. While at Camp Kilmer, a nearby Victory Center offered servicemen a meal and Christian wit-Not one to dismiss a home-cooked meal. Don to know Mr. and Mrs. Harper, who ran the center. In speaking with the Harpers and discussing the eternal, Don Abel accepted Christ as his Savior. All the years and events that followed-his marriage to the lovely Betty Lou Gill, the fathering of nine children (six of whom survived to birth), building projects that dotted the globe-were devoted to being a witness to the Truth to which his mother dedicated him in the womb and that he later found as a young man. Don attended Emmaus Bible School in Toronto, Canada, on the G.I. Bill and became an active member of Appleton Bible Chapel and later Calvary Bible Church in Neenah and Alliance Church in Appleton. Don's earthly achievements were manifold. He was a successful entrepreneur-a self-taught engineer and businessman. In 1963 he launched Abel Manufacturing, the company he'd head until the age of 84. Abel Mfg.'s towering steel bins and dispensing systems, operating on every farm-ing continent, will stand silent witness for years to come of Don Abel's insistence on exacting standards of quality. Generations of men and women found life-sustaining employment on the shop floor and in the offices of Abel Mfg. When markets turned and bankruptcy was the only option, Don Abel took note of each lender he owed and repaid the debts that the courts had cleared him of as soon as the business was back on its feet. While he was in no way obligated to do so, Don found it morally necessary to repay those who had trusted him-trusted the Abel name-with their investments. Just as he constructed a company, so too did Don Abel look to foster institutions that would declare God's goodness and steadfastness. Don was instrumental in the creation and continued witness of WRVM, a Christian radio station that serves the far-flung homes of the Northwoods. From Rawhide Boys Ministries to the Bible camps of Wisconsin and the Upper Peninsula, Don Abel was the man to whom others turned when a patch of Creation needed vision, steel, and will. Don's family was precious to him, a fact poignantly affirmed by the way he choked up during pre-meal prayers of heartfelt thanksgiving at frequent family gatherings and events. He welcomed into his family many more sons and daughters through marriage. Those blessed unions then provided ten cherished grandchildren, whose spouses he celebrated; from them came great-grandchildren, sunshine at his bedside. To list all of those who survive Don would be more a boast of fruitfulness than a helpful reference, so let it simply be said that Donald Herman Abel is survived by the woman he adored until his final breath, his Betty Lou, and their children and the attendant families: Don B. (Yon) Abel, Alan (Sandra) Abel, Cheryl (Robert) Chesebrough, Bradley (Sharon) Abel, Marilou (Mark) Schnaderbeck, and Eric (Julie) Abel. Amidst the tears, we are grateful to have been blessed to share a name and a table with Donald H. Abel. The Don Abel family would like to thank the generous and tireless caregivers of Brewster Village and Silverstone Memory Care. The staff made a home for Dad/Grandpa and provided him the quality of life necessary to enjoy even these last, most difficult years-years when the man who had shouldered so much for so many was forced by tired limbs to slow his pace, to graciously set aside his pride, and to allow his family to carry him to the end of his race. The funeral will be held on Wednesday, April 19, 2023, at Appleton Alliance Church (2693 W Grand Chute Blvd, Appleton, WI 54913). Visitation hours will be from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. in the Worship Center, with the service held from 12 p.m. to 1 p.m. A reception will follow in the church's South Hub from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. In lieu of flowers, please consider donating to WRVM Radio.

WEYAUWEGA - The bottom of the seventh turned out to be a big inning for the Weyauwega-Fremont softball and baseball teams in their Central Wisconsin Conference-East games with Manawa.

Jayden McCoy's double broke a 3-3 tie to give the softball team a 4-3 win over the Wolves April 6, while Connor Delwiche scored on a passed ball in the baseball team's 7-6 win.

Sturgeon For Tomorrow, a statewide organization that created the Sturgeon Guard with the DNR in the 1980s, is helping fund the program, according to Mielke.

CWD discussed at open house

BY GREG SEUBERT SPORTS EDITOR

WAUPACA - A response plan that includes more testing is in place now that chronic wasting disease has turned up twice in Waupaca County's wild white-tailed deer herd.

The fatal, infectious nervous system disease that affects deer, moose, elk and reindeer turned out to be a major discussion topic April 3 during the county's spring hearing open house at Waupaca High School.

"We are in the surveillance phase of CWD based on detections last fall," DNR wildlife biologist Jake Fries said. "We have a CWD response plan. We hope to collect as many samples as we can in the county over the next two years to determine an actual prevalence rate for the county. For the next two years, we'd like to collect that's a significant uptick from what we've been doing.'

The disease showed up last year in two of 269 wild deer tested in the county during a hunting season surveillance.

CWD first showed up in a 2-year-old doe harvested during the nineday gun deer season in the town of Harrison. The second positive came from a 3-year-old doe harvested during the holiday hunt in the town of Wyoming, about eight miles east of the first detection.

The state Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection - an agency separate from the DNR - oversees Wisconsin's game farms, where several positive tests have been reported over the last 20 years, including at farms in Waupaca County.

man is behind an effort to revive the Sturgeon Guard program, a group of volunteers that help protect the large fish that make their way up the Wolf and Fox rivers from Lake Winnebago each spring to spawn and are vulnerable to poaching.

After overseeing the program since its inception in the 1980s, state Department of Natural Resources officials announced last year that the program would be discontinued for the foreseeable future due to fewer volunteers and a drop in illegal harvest cases.

That announcement came after the agency canceled the Guard in 2020 and 2021 because of CO-VID-19.

'To me, it gave an open invitation to anyone that was even thinking of the possibility of doing some illegal activity," Mielke said. "I know that we had a great number of people volunteering in the past. I talked to a few of them and they were equally disturbed that the river system was just not going to be watched any more."

Spawning sturgeon some of them more than 7 feet long - have drawn big crowds for years, including along the Wolf River Sturgeon Trail near New London, Bamboo Bend in Shiocton and below the dam in Shawano.

"I live on the shore of Lake Winnebago and have been an active sturgeon fisherman all my life," Mielke said. "If somebody would spear a 100-pound fish, people would travel 50, 60 miles to see it. Now, we have such a wonderful population of big fish and I feel a great part of that has to do with the Guard. I know (poaching) is still going on and I guess (the decision to

"The Sturgeon For Tomorrow group was adamant about trying to find someone to continue it," he said.

Mielke contacted all five of the group's chapter presidents, as well as DNR sturgeon biologist Margaret Stadig and conservation warden captain Ben Treml.

Treml came to Mielke's home to discuss Mielke's idea.

"He said, 'Don, I came here to your house for one reason: to talk you out of this," Mielke said. "He said, 'After I listened to your ideas, I don't see why it can't work.' With that, we were off and running."

Volunteers will be stationed along the Wolf River from New London to Shawano and along the Fox

WHITEWATER – Two local athletes turned in top-two performances at a state indoor track meet.

Teams from Hortonville, Iola-Scandinavia and New London competed April 8 at the Wisconsin State Indoor Track & Field Championships at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater.

Hortonville's Ben Smith beat out 68 other competitors and won the boys' shot put event with a top throw of 67 feet, 8 1/4 inches.

Iola-Scandinavia's Charlie Vater finished second in the boys' 1,600-meter run with a time of 4:20.63. Oconomowoc's Zachariah Vance won with a time of 4:20.29 in a race that included 81 runners.

Hortonville went on to tie with six other teams for 13th place with 10 points in the boys' standings and Vater's finish helped the Thunderbirds tie with four other teams for 21st place with eight points.

Manawa, Hortonville and New London competed in a handful of events on the girls' side, but did not place in the final team standings.

"There are white-tailed deer within these farms, but essentially, they're domestic animals and therefore have to be handled through DATCP," local DNR conservation warden Jonathan Kaiser said. "At the end of the day, I think we're all recognizing that there are a lot of questions out there. We can only stay within the bounds of what we're authorized to enforce and regulate. It definitely leads to some interesting situations."

Bill Krostue of New London attended the open house. He is a member of Waupaca County's County Deer Advisory Council, which provides input and recommendations to the DNR on deer management within the county.

"What hunters and landowners that bought property for hunting should be concerned with is what it may or could do to the value of your land," he said. "Waupaca County has the highest deer numbers per square mile in the state. It could spread pretty fast. If that happens and if I was looking for land, I wouldn't want to buy land where there's a lot of CWD."

All of these volunteers are going to have information sheets on why the fish are doing this. We are certain-ly going to continue the tradition of the Guard."

Mielke said he wouldn't be able to revive the program without help from others, including Josh Reitz of Scandinavia.

"There's no way one person can do it," he said. We're dividing the areas up into quadrants. A gentleman named Ed contacted me and he lives in Montello. He sent me an email and has been involved with the Guard for years. He's going to be the

The first cases of CWD in captive deer also turned up in 2002 at Buckhorn Flats, a former hunting preserve near Almond in southern Portage County. The positive tests led to the depopulation of the preserve's entire captive deer herd, which had a CWD prevalence rate approaching 80%. The DNR eventually purchased the 80-acre property in 2011. In the past, the DNR used sharpshooters to remove deer in areas with high disease prevalence, high deer populations and low public harvest as a way to remove infected deer from the wild herd.

"If you do that and you depopulate the herd dramatically in Wisconsin, Mielke already has several volunteers lined up for this year's spawning event, which typically happens in mid- to late-April and in the past has lasted from three to 11 days.

We have a gentleman from Park Falls, a lady from Stevens Point, people from Bloomer. have other family and friends that I can tap into. We will contact people via phone approximately two days before we need them at various sites. Mielke doesn't want to think about what could happen to Lake Winnebago's sturgeon population without the Guard.

"No one has a crystal ball, but I can see the system deteriorating slowly when you take these massive fish - the extremely healthy males and females - out of production," he said. "There are a lot of people that want to abuse this sport, but I have found a lot of people that want to keep the tradition going."

State trail passes available

MADISON – State trail state passes for 2023 are now morr available for purchase. whic

A state trail pass is required for all people age 16 or older biking, in-line skating, horseback riding or off-highway motorcycling on specific state trails, but is not required for walking or hiking. Passes are valid from the date of purchase through Dec. 31, 2023.

Trails that require a pass are located in state parks, forests and recreation areas, as well as stand-alone state trails such as the Tomorrow River State Trail, which runs from Plover to Manawa.

Signs are posted at trailheads on trails that require a pass. County and local trails may have their own fees and a state trail pass is not valid at those trails.

"Our 700 miles of equestrian trails and thousands of bike miles provide outside recreation, enjoyment and health and wellness opportunities to millions of visitors each year," said Steve Schmelzer, director of the state Department of Natural Resources' Parks and Recreation Management Bureau. "State trail pass sales help DNR staff maintain these trails – both our linear trails and those heavily used trails inside of parks and forests for bikes and horses – and it helps us continue to expand the network of available miles to residents and out-ofstate visitors alike."

Annual trail passes cost $25 for state residents and nonresidents. A $5 state trail day pass is also available.

State trail passes are available only at individual properties, licensed vendors or self-registration stations.

Trail fee revenues are used to maintain and operate state trails and trails in state parks, forests and recreation areas. These costs include dealing with erosion, trash removal, maintaining safe surfaces, trimming brush, removing fallen trees and law enforcement.

Equipment is available for 14, so the group does not seek money to furnish new recruits, Handschke said.

However, costly recurring expenses include workers' compensation, liability insurance and life-saving medications naloxone and epinephrine, which are replaced yearly at around $40 per dose, Handschke said.

"We're not really looking for a ton of money, but it'd be nice to have some," Handschke said, suggesting the city give 25 to 50 cents per New London resident.

The U.S. Census Bureau states the population is 7,320, which could put an annual donation at $1,830 to $3,660.

The first responders receive donations of $500 per year from Lebanon and $1,000 to $1,500 from Mukwa every one to two years, Handschke said.

City officials appeared receptive to the idea.

"I think it's a great plan," Herter said.

City Finance Director Judy Radke told the first responders to return with a proposed amount before the 2024 budget is set in September.

Ald. Bernie Ritchie Jr., who brought the matter before the committee, said the first responders work hard and pay some costs individually to serve, so ensuring financial stability for the organization could improve retention.

"Sometimes it takes 20 minutes for Gold Cross to get on a scene, and the only thing we've got is first responders," Ritchie said.
