Breaking the cycle: Addressing generational patterns

BY KRIS LEONHARDT EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

NORTHEAST WISCONSIN - As generational cycles occur, negative patterns and traits are known to transfer through multiple generations via learned behavior and family dynamics.

These behaviors are passed down until someone sees a need for change, and more importantly, has access to the tools they need to "break the cycle."

In the upcoming weeks, we will explore five northeast Wisconsin intergenerational family issues — physical health, alcoholism and drug use, mental health, education and housing — and what some organizations are doing to address the trends.

Generation trends

Generational theorists Neil Howe and William Strauss, who developed the "Strauss-Howe generational theory," categorize generations into four distinct classes, stating that an era starts with an "Idealist" generation that focuses on social issues and questions the morals of existing institutions.

Idealists are born during a time of high optimism and low crime, where children are gratified.

The next generation — the "Reactive" generation — focuses on fact and not what could be or should be. The focus is often on self, as crime begins to rise and children are not protected as well.

Next comes the "Civic" generation, which is focused on fixing things, rebuilding institutions and working together for the greater good.

Strauss and Howe's fourth generation is the "Adaptive" generation.

This generation is born during a "crisis" in society and values fairness and sensitivity and is generally over-protective.

While some generations can lend themselves well to addressing existing patterns, change cannot occur unless those affected have access to the devices needed.

Safety has no time out

Students and coaches from three Wisconsin high schools were surprised during a visit to Lambeau Field with $6,000 worth of new helmets for their football programs and an appearance by Packers running back AJ Dillon. After checking out the new helmets, Roncalli Jets kicker Rianna Robbins gave Dillon a mini lesson in kicking. Robbins said Dillon's kicking "could use a little bit of work" but that meeting him was amazing and that she's excited to wear her new helmet next season. More photos inside.

NEW Water uses innovative approach to reach DNR limits

BY RICK COHLER CONTRIBUTING WRITER

GREEN BAY - NEW Water, a wholesale provider of wastewater treatment and conveyance services to 15 municipal customers serving approximately 238,000 residents throughout a 285-square-mile area in the Green

Bay area, is in the second year of a 20-year effort to meet Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) phosphorus and suspended solids discharge permit limits through an innovative approach.

NEW Water Executive Director Tom Sigmund explained that the DNR issued a total daily maximum load for the lower Fox River from Lake Winnebago to Green Bay in 2012.

The analysis focused on suspended solids and phosphorus and determined where the pollutants were coming from.

Some were coming from municipal and industrial sites, which can be relatively easy to regulate, but the bulk of the pollution was coming from rural runoff.

So, the Adaptive Management effort, which concentrates on keeping the pollutants from entering the water, was selected.

Spring and fall runoff accounts for 70-80% of all nutrient and sediment loading annually.

NEW Water launched a pilot program in 2014 on Silver Creek with a grant from the EPA's Great

And, the likelihood to continue negative behaviors is high.

In an article entitled "Intergenerational transmission of child abuse rates, research, and clinical implications," from The American Journal of Psychiatry, J. E. Oliver said that "one-third of child victims grow up to continue a pattern of seriously inept, neglectful or abusive rearing as parents," based on a compilation of 60 studies.

Oliver added that another one-third is susceptible to those generational influences in certain environments.

Addressing healthy eating and food insecurity

Social determinants of health (SDOH) — nonmedical factors that influence health — are conditions in which people are born, live and age that affect conditions of daily living.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) lists access to nutritious foods and physical health opportunities as an important SDOH.

The CDC works to provide tools for health equity and health literacy by implementing service and nutrition guidelines for hospitals, colleges, food banks and pantries; increasing access to healthy foods; and developing strategies to influence customers to select healthier foods and beverages.

But, they are not in it alone, with community partners such as the University of Wisconsin, who is getting information right into the hands of communities that need it.

A July 2022 Wisconsin Food Security Project report from the University of Wisconsin-Madison showed that the adult obesity rate in 2019 for Kewaunee County was at 33.2%, while Brown County was at 34.8% and Door County at 31.1%.

The report also showed that Kewaunee County residents had access to just five supermarket grocery stores and double the number of convenience stores. Brown County residents had access to 39 supermarkets and 84 convenience stores, and Door County had 12 supermarkets and 23 convenience stores.

But for others, it's not just finding healthy choices; it's getting access to food in general.

The report showed that the estimated number of individuals living in food-insecure households was 6.3% in Kewaunee County, with Brown County at 8.1% and Door County at 8%.

The state average is 7.2%. Programs like FoodWise, available through the University of Wisconsin-Madison Extensions in Brown, Door and Kewaunee counties, work to address both food insecurity and healthy eating.

FoodWise works toward healthy eating habits and active lifestyles for families with limited incomes through education and is federally funded by the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program-Education (SNAP-Ed) and the Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program.

Laura Apfelbeck coordinates the programs in Manitowoc, Kewaunee and Door counties.

"We are the connection to the Wisconsin Idea, bringing the knowledge and expertise of the university to rural areas of Wisconsin," Apfelbeck explained.

"Last summer, we partnered with the Manitowoc farmers market to apply for funding that brought a UW-Madison intern to work toward increasing access for low-income people. She staffed our farm market information booth and made it easier for those who receive food to share just spend those dollars at the farmers market.

"That effort increased food share spending at the farm market by 700%, meaning more farmers earned money for their work and more low-income families could access fresh, healthy produce.

In collaboration with 4-H, we mentor youth advocates for community health. The youth added smoothies to their school lunch menu and fresh salads to community meals."

The program meets all generations by working with schools and alongside community partners.

Working for safety at home

Brown County Executive Troy Streckenbach stated that 4,715 referrals of child maltreatment were made to Brown County Child Protective Services last year, as he declared April "Family Strengthening Month in Brown County."

And that number isn't out of the norm.

Family Services of Northeast Wisconsin, Inc. said that "5,000 suspected cases of child abuse are reported in Brown County in a typical year."

"Brown County has been focused on promoting proactive ways for families to stay together in order to enrich environments for children," says Streckenbach. "By understanding that exposure to childhood trauma has a powerful and adverse effect on adults' well-being, county staff and volunteers work tirelessly to support child, family and community strengths through programs and services."

The Green Bay Police Department and several other law enforcement agencies recently joined Golden House's "Be Safe" campaign.

"Be Safe" launched in mid-October, which was Domestic Violence Month. The campaign was created to reach victims of domestic violence so that there are local resources for them to turn to for help. Many times, victims do not know where to go or what to do. They are embarrassed and afraid. An anonymous donor stepped forward to fund the campaign, which was created and implemented by O'Connor Connective.

An easy-to-remember ho-ttline number was created — 920-212-SAFE. All calls go straight to Golden House, where advocates answer the calls," explained O'Connor Connective Communications Manager MaryBeth Matzek.

Golden House is the county's only comprehensive domestic violence program.

"When a victim of domestic violence calls the Be Safe number and is connected with someone from Golden House, the advocate will assess the person's situation, asking about their situation, etc. They discuss different options. It is all very personalized and everything is confidential," Matzek added.

The 2023-25 Wisconsin budget reflected an increase in domestic violence-related funds from $12.4 million per year to $20.2 million per year.

An additional $28 million was also allocated to the Living Independently through Financial Empowerment (LIFE) program.

The LIFE program works to provide economic mobility for those affected by domestic violence to help ensure their basic needs are met, so they can break the cycle and provide their family with a more stable and nurturing environment.

"Wisconsin ranks eighth in the nation for the number of women killed by men," said End Abuse Co-Director of Prevention and Engagement Jenna Gormal. "Eighty people lost their lives to domestic violence in 2021, the highest number since records began."

Finks receive Rotary Club of De Pere 'Roses for the Living' award

BY JOSEPHINE HINDERMAN
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

DE PERE – On April 24, the Rotary Club of De Pere will recognize John and Lynn Fink with this year's "Roses for the Living" award.

The award is presented to someone who has gone above and beyond to better the community.

The Finks were recognized for their "quiet service to their faith community and beyond," servicing the Our Lady of Lourdes parish in De Pere by aiding in maintaining grounds, working on technological infrastructure and performing committee work at the parish's school.

They also organize other community work through the Abbot Pennings Knights of Columbus organization, and are heavily involved with the National Railroad Museum and the Christian Outreach Thrift Store in De Pere.

The Roses for the Living award was started Nov. 10, 1951 by then-Rotary president Reuben M. Tetzlaff.

"[He] wanted to acknowledge and show appreciation to the 'unsung heroes' in our community," said current president Thomas Franken.

Rotary foundation

The Rotary Club of De Pere was founded to give back to the community through various acts of service.

"Locally, the [club] focuses on youth-related activities ranging from direct support to sports programs and other extracurricular pastimes at the high school level, providing growth opportunities through our district's Rotary Youth Leadership Camps and our financial support to high school seniors through our annual scholarship awards that have been ongoing since the late 1960s," said Franken.

In addition to the Roses for the Living award, springtime contains many events for the Rotary Club including scholarship offerings, local community service efforts, such as litter pickup, and fundraisers, such as the De Pere Rotary & Chicago Street Pub Golf Outing hosted June 16 at the Ledgeview Golf Course and the Annual Pink Flamingo softball tournament held in July.

"Like other service clubs in our area we are always looking to bring in new members and new ideas," said Franken. "We have served the broader De Pere community for 97 years, and it is our desire to build on that success and to maintain a healthy and robust Rotary Club going forward, with the energy that a diverse membership brings to our efforts."

Franken encourages those that are "keen on building friendships and staying connected to what is going on 'in the neighborhood' and at the same time caring for the community and beyond" to consider checking out the Rotary Club.

The club meets every Monday at 6 p.m. at the Chicago Street Pub in De Pere.

Green Bay Packers looking for 'Junior Power Pack Reporter'

BY STEPHANIE FAUDO
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

GREEN BAY – The Green Bay Packers are looking for a "Junior Power Pack Reporter."

The winner will receive the opportunity to interview a Packer player and win tickets to a 2023 Packer home game.

This is an opportunity for young Green Bay Packer fans ages 5-14 to tap into their fan spirit.

Green Bay Packers Fan Engagement Coordinator Hannah Puissant explained how the contest came to be.

"This is the first time that we ran a contest like this specifically for our Junior Power Pack members, and the idea came from our fans. We know that some of our most passionate fans are our younger fans, and we thought that this was a great opportunity for them to get to ask some questions to a Packers player. In addition, we all know that kids can be a little more observant, and sometimes they ask the most bizarre, incredible questions. We are just really looking forward to how they approach this contest," Puissant said.

This contest is only open to Junior Power Pack Kids Club members.

Parents are able to sign their children up at packers.com/jpp.

Puissant explains some of the benefits and perks of children who are members of the Junior Power Pack, the Green Bay Packers' official kids club.

"It is for children that are 14 years or younger and love the Packers. You have to pay $25 a year per member to be a part of this club. There are a lot of included benefits to this, but I think that this contest just gives it an extra push to why you would want to be a part of this that would make you want to be part of the Junior Power Pack Club," Puissant added.

Benefits include an official membership kit, 10% in-store discount on regular-priced items at the Packers Pro Shop, member-only invitation to practice with the Packers and free admission to the Packers Hall of Fame.

Once a child is a member, they can enter the contest by uploading a 30-second to one-minute video explaining why they want to become the next Junior Power Pack Reporter.

Submissions can be placed by visiting packers.com/2023jppreporter.

"This contest is based on creativity, how much you love the Packers and on-camera presence. I would just say be yourself and do what you want to dream of. Just be yourself on camera and have fun with it, don't read off a script. We just want to see your true personality," Puissant explained.

The Junior Packer Reporter contest will be open until May 10.

Lakes Restoration Initiative.

"We were able to get a lot of different land management practices installed working with landowners and operators who leased land, and we were able to measure water quality improvement in response," Erin Houghton, NEW Water watershed programs manager, said.

Based on the success of the pilot program, NEW Water negotiated a sub-watershed compliance area for Ashwaubenon Creek and Dutchman Creek, which are both largely in the NEW Water service area.

The plan is expected to cost $71 million over 30 years compared to $88 million to construct a tertiary treatment facility and its needed infrastructure.

During the first permit term, which ends in 2027, the goal is 25% removal of phosphorus and suspended solids.

After the second permit, the goal is 70% removal; after the third permit, it would be 95 percent; and after the fourth permit, 100%. If the plan can meet the standards and new infrastructure is not needed, that cost would drop to $40 million.

Additional benefits include "habitat restoration, preventing the loss of soil and nutrients, enhanced economic value of the Green Bay fishery, reduce the impact of the "dead zone" in the bay and attract up to $10 million of outside investment in improved agricultural practices and water quality," according to

NEW Water literature.

The Dutchman Creek area has more than 19,000 acres, of which 50.5% is agricultural use.

Ashwaubenon Creek has about 18,500 acres of which 61.9% is agricultural.

With the larger area,

NEW Water set about developing a relationship with agriculture.

"All of this is an exercise in social interaction and a way to bring our best foot forward and build trust," Houghton said. "We partnered with the Land and Water Conservation departments and the agronomy staffs in Brown and Outagamie counties because they have experience with landowners and with the messaging that goes along with these conservation practices."

Tilth Agronomy of Hortonville, a private firm that consults with a large number of farmers in Northeast Wisconsin, came alongside in helping NEW Water build relationships in the ag sector.

The project also overlaps onto the Oneida Nation reservation, which has a number of conservation and environmental programs, and was eager to participate, according to Houghton.

The program is voluntary.

"Were we able to get signed contracts on every single field? No," Houghton said. "Did we still have some of those 'nos' turn into observers and start doing some of those practices by the time we were done? Yes, and we count that as a win."

NEW Water is able to link landowners to funding through federal, state and other government programs, along with participation by conservation organizations.

To date, NEW Water has secured grants totaling more than $2 million.

"Every landowner knows the spots that give him trouble every year and we're trying to find the overlap," Houghton said. "They're looking for solutions too, so we're trying to find the overlap of our program and what those farmers are trying to accomplish in their business. We're also working with Austin Straubel International Airport, the Wisconsin Department of Transportation and communities as well because all of us live here, so we all have a place to be part of the solution."

Brandan Tulachka stopped by Packer Fastener in Green Bay with his truck, Just Get 'er Done II, for a meet and greet on his way to perform in Monster Jam, held at the Resch Complex April 15 and 16. Tulachka has been driving monster trucks for about four years, but he said his exposure to the world of monster trucks actually started much earlier thanks to his dad, who drove a monster truck while Tulachka was growing up. Tulachka said his favorite stunt to do in his truck is standing the truck up right on its nose and try not to roll it over, even though it rolls most of the time.

WBAY 70: Expanding programming

BY KRIS LEONHARDT
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Part VI in our series on WBAY's history

The Golden Age of television introduced a broader reach for both information and entertainment, as the television set became the center of the home.

The 1960s brought about the rise of TV politics and journalism and the advent of the variety show as well as increasing sports coverage.

"By October of 1953, we were carrying the World Series. We were carrying Packers games and other NFL games," said station historian Ted Miller.

"There's even the story where the Packers were playing in Florida, and they had to get the film up to Green Bay right away. And among the couriers was like a Mississippi chain gang or an Alabama (chain gang), but somehow it played into it; really, just bizarre stories from back then.

"We started a Packers show with the coach; we'd have the coach, we'd have a player. And we'd have a contest and whoever asked the best question — mailed in the best question — about the last game would be answered by a player, or the coach, and that person would win an autographed Packers football for having the best question.

"Then, of course, we got the Vince Lombardi Show ... that lasted for nine years with Vince Lombardi. Of course, it was just another coach's show. But now, it's Vince Lombardi. We put a clip on YouTube.

"Most of the television programs didn't start until about 4-4:30 p.m. in the afternoon. "One of the early people we got was Hal O'Halloran. He was Captain Hal, and he had a children's show," Miller explained.

"It was actually a show that carried over from radio."

Captain Hal was a looming 6'2" character, who was a former Fond du Lac firefighter turned radio host. The show only ran for a couple of years before he moved onto Chicago.

"Then we got Colonel Caboose. Colonel Caboose was a long-running children's show on WBAY. I can't remember the Colonel's name offhand," Miller added.

"He had a dodo puppet named Zelda; your typical children's show. They had the peanut gallery, with kids watching."

Russ Widoe played Colonel Caboose, often dressed in bib overalls, a train engineer's cap and a bandana, for about a decade.

"We had a farm unit with three employees in the 60s and 70s. (They) won a lot of awards for covering issues important to agriculture here. That's really gone by the wayside," Miller said.

The 1960s also brought about color television at WBAY.

"WBAY started producing programs in color in 1966. We actually had color capability around 1960," Miller stated.

"We believe that a national broadcast of Cinderella was our first program in color."

The clip from the Dec. 27, 1967, Vince Lombardi show can be found at www.youtube.com/watch?v=8vEijW0V\_-4.

Allouez, Glenmore are Project VOTE Voter Challenge winners

FOR THE PRESS TIMES

GREEN BAY — The town of Glenmore and the village of Allouez were awarded the Project VOTE of Brown County Voter Challenge trophies on April 14.

The two municipalities had the highest voter turnout percentages in their respective categories for the April 4, 2023, election.

Glenmore's turnout of 62.3% of registered voters was the best among the municipalities in the Green Division, made up of municipalities with populations below 10,000.

The voter turnout in Allouez was 56.7%, the highest percentage among the larger municipalities that make up the Gold Division.

It's the second Voter Challenge victory for Glenmore and the sixth for Allouez.

"Congratulations to Allouez and Glenmore for their Voter Challenge wins," said Glen Tilot, Project VOTE chair. "The State Supreme Court race and several key local races pushed turnout this time around. It's vitally important for people to take the time and effort to be informed and participate in the election process."

Project VOTE of Brown County issues the voter challenge each election as a way of encouraging informed voter turnout in the county.

Founded in 2002, Project VOTE of Brown County is a volunteer organization dedicated to increasing informed voter turnout in Brown County.

Trollinger, Le are Franklin Research Fellows

FOR THE PRESS TIMES

DE PERE – St. Norbert College Assistant Professors of History Abigail Trollinger and Anh Sy Huy Le were selected as the recipients of this year's Franklin Research Fellowship, funded and administered by the American Philosophical Society.

The fellowship provides the financial support to conduct humanistic and social scientific research on topics that have conventionally been omitted from public understanding and to contribute to the advancement of academic knowledge.

About 80-90 scholars nationwide are selected to receive the fellowship, with two coming from St. Norbert.

"I think, really, it speaks to the quality of research work conducted by our esteemed faculty and to a St. Norbert College education as a whole," said Le.

Trollinger and Le will use the fellowship to research and write books this summer.

Le is a social and political historian of modern Vietnam and Sino-Southeast Asian relations.

His research explores the interlinked dynamics and tensions between migratory networks, colonial capitalism and urbanization.

Trollinger

Le

He has published on topics ranging from trans-Pacific Chinese migration to the roles of Chinese rice commerce in the transformation of southern Vietnamese port cities.

Le studied Chinese at Fudan University in China and Middlebury College in Vermont as a Kathryn Davis Fellow for Peace.

He conducted archival research in China, Taiwan, Singapore and Vietnam from 2016 to 2020 with the support of the SSRC-Andrew Mellon Foundation, the American Council of Learned Societies and the Lee Kong Chian Fellowship from the National Library of Singapore.

Trollinger studies American urban and social welfare history, especially the ways that reformers and workers articulated their beliefs and goals to impact social welfare policy.

She is also interested in the relationships between social workers and their "clients," which were multifaceted and often highly contested.

Trollinger teaches courses on poverty and social welfare policy, immigration and women's and gender history.

She is also a firm advocate of bringing research and teaching into conversation with practice and teaches a methods course that includes archival research and several courses that include community engagement.

Suamico Village Board tables Calavera Hills Park project

BY WILLIAM SOQUET
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

SUAMICO – For the second time in two meetings, a major project at Calavera Hills Park has been tabled.

The village board unanimously approved a motion to send the project back to village staff at its April 17 meeting.

The project entails moving seven soccer fields from one end of the park to the other, which would create space for the future installation of multiple baseball or softball diamonds.

All bids came in significantly over estimates, which prompted the board to table it a first time to look at available park impact fees.

While the entirety of the $73,000 in the Park Impact Fee Fund is available until 2027, multiple trustees expressed reservations about using the entire amount to fund one project.

Another point of contention was the remaining $55,000 of excess stadium tax money that Suamico has yet to spend. Under the proposed plan, the fund would be entirely spent to help fund the project.

There was a consensus that at least some stadium tax money should be saved for future projects.

Trustee Mike Romes

said that while he supported the project, he thought that the difference between the estimates and the bids was too large and that the project should be done at another time.

That sentiment was echoed by other trustees.

Village President Sky Van Rossum noted that the village has been raising funds for the project for just shy of five years, and the involvement of donor funds creates an obligation for action.

Trustee Jason Ward suggested tabling the project for a year in search of both private and grant funding, such as a potential application to the Knowles-Nelson Stewardship Program through the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

The approved motion did not have a definite timetable.

It rejected all bids and sent the project back to village staff to explore additional funding avenues.

In other action, the board approved an update to the Comprehensive Outdoor Recreation Plan concerning Calavera Hills Park.

The changes were made to the 2013-17 plan, which the village still utilizes.

MSA Professional Services of Appleton performed minor changes to the plan, including updating demographics, updating standards and updating the village trail plan.

It also amended the Calavera Hills Park master plan to its most recent form.

The update was also performed with the intention of making projects in the plan eligible for future federal grants.

The board approved the update 6-1, with trustee Melissa Eckert dissenting.

Correction

In the April 7 article on the Herb Kohl Educational Foundation Awards, the section on the area Teacher Fellows should have read: Melanie Clarke, a High School Math Teacher, West De Pere High School, De Pere; Laura Karlen, De Pere, West De Pere Middle School; Kelly Koller, Sobieski, Bay View Middle School; Annie Stewart, De Pere, Father Allouez School; and Amy Stover, Green Bay, Notre Dame de la Baie Academy.

Ashwaubenon superintendent stresses importance of transparency

BY JOSEPHINE HINDERMAN
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

ASHWAUBENON – Superintendent Kurt Weyers opened the April 12 school board meeting by celebrating the Ashwaubenon School District's referendum, which passed April 4.

He emphasized the importance of trust and transparency regarding the referendum, as well as with any and all future projects.

"Trust is built every day with every conversation that you have with your community... it's built by the work of our school board, our teachers and the relationships you build every day. That's how you pass referendums," Weyers said.

Golden Apple awardee

Along with the referendum, Weyers also honored a local teacher as the recipient of the area's Golden Apple Award.

Recognized for "his dedication to the classroom," Michael Smits, a middle school science teacher in the district, said "I've had a wonderful time here [in the district], and I really appreciate [this award]."

Naming the high school track and field facility

Of the items on the board's agenda, the most significant was the naming of the Ashwaubenon High School's track after Al Vandenberg, a beloved coach in the district's recent history.

Several former students and athletes that knew Vandenberg were present for the naming of the track.

Vandenberg served as the Ashwaubenon High School track coach from 1968-94. During that time, he led the boys team to the 1974 State Championship.

He also taught physical education from 1965-94 and was the district's first head football coach from 1967-72.

"It's long overdue... I have a lot of fond memories of Al, and this is something that's long overdue," a 1973 graduate stated.

The board unanimously approved the tracking naming.

Other items

Also on the board's agenda was the unanimous approval of the extension of Student Services and Work Experiences programs in the middle and high schools.

Unified School District of De Pere looks at building repairs

BY LEE REINSCH
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

DE PERE – Schools in the Unified School District of De Pere may need millions of dollars in repairs over the next 15 years, according to results of a facilities study by Somerville.

The firm recently toured all six schools in the district — Dickinson, Heritage and Altmayer elementary schools; Foxview Intermediate; De Pere Middle and De Pere High School — with an eye to physical condition, capacity, optimal design, safety, conduciveness to learning and social development along with other factors.

Melanie Parma, vice president of Somerville, balanced her critique with the caveat that the firm was hired to look for weaknesses.

Across the district, the consultants found school buildings with traditional school designs "which is indicative of the time they were constructed."

They found minimal collaborative learning areas, and spaces that are too small to function appropriately, including the instructional spaces, storage areas, activity rooms and office spaces.

Their report said with a few exceptions, the buildings consist of double loaded (locker-lined) corridors that block the ability to see into classrooms, which the consultants believe is a negative.

Physical condition issues that the firm found included areas of chronic water puddling on some rooftops, buckled and cracked pavements, water heaters nearing the end of their lifetimes and hollow-core metal door frames that are rusting and corroding, among other things.

Somerville provided a host of recommendations to solve several problems, such as overcrowding and classrooms or labs that are too small, ranging from renovations to whole new school buildings.

Other business

In school board business, the board voted to accept a bid for $298,554 from Specialty Engineering Group and Berglund Construction for restoration work to the exterior of Foxview Intermediate School to mitigate water infiltration.

The board also voted to sign a 15-month contract with Care Solace community mental health navigator starting next month.

The price tag of $23,854 computes to $4.75 per student for 4,035 enrolled students.

The service assists with finding a mental health provider or treatment plan.

According to Director of Pupil Services Jerry Nicholson, Care Solace can help people get an appointment within three weeks, whereas it can take several months or longer without the navigator.

Part-time job ideas for retirees

DEAR SAVVY SENIOR,

As a 68-year-old retiree, I'm interested in finding a fun part-time job that can occupy some of my time and generate a little extra income.

Can you write a column on low-stress part-time jobs that are popular among retirees?

Part-time retiree

DEAR RETIREE,

Working part-time in retirement can be a terrific way to occupy your time and earn some extra income.

The key, however, is finding the right gig that's fun and satisfying for you.

While there are literally hundreds of different part-time job opportunities out there for retirees, here are a few possibilities to explore:

Pet services

If you love animals, consider pet sitting and/or dog walking.

Pet sitters, who attend to a pet's needs when their owner is away, can earn $15 to $40 per visit.

Dog walkers can make $10 to $30 for a 30-minute walk.

To find these jobs, advertise your services.

Teach or tutor

Depending on your expertise, you could substitute teach or tutor students privately on any number of subjects.

Substitute teachers typically make between $75 and $125/day, while tutors can earn $15-30 per hour.

To look for substitute teaching positions, contact your local school district to see if they are hiring and what qualifications they require.

Or, if you have a bachelors, masters or doctoral degree,

Savvy Senior

YOU ASK THE SENIOR QUESTION - WE FIND THE SAVVY ANSWER. SYNDICATED COLUMN

inquire about adjunct teaching at a nearby college or university.

Driver

If you like to drive, you can get paid to drive others around using Uber or Lyft apps, or become a food delivery driver through Instacart or Uber Eats.

Drivers make around $15 per hour.

Babysitter

If you like kids, babysitting can be a fun way to put money in your pocket.

Wisconsin dairy industry is committed to our planet

BY TAYLOR SCHAEFER
WISCONSIN'S 75TH
ALICE IN DAIRYLAND

Dairy farmers throughout Wisconsin and the world know that healthy cows can only come from a healthy environment, and they have long been committed to doing what they can to ensure the environment is healthy for generations to come.

According to Dairy Farmers of Wisconsin (DFW), producing a gallon of milk today releases 19% less greenhouse gas emissions than it did in 2007.

That's equivalent to the amount of carbon dioxide removed from the atmosphere by half a million acres of U.S. forests every year.

As a whole, U.S. dairy farmers are committed to reducing their carbon footprint even further as part of the dairy industry's initiative to become carbon neutral or better by 2050.

Helping the cause is Wisconsin's rich bioenergy opportunity.

According to Renew Wisconsin, with the manure from our dairy farms

His two decade-long service to the town makes him the longest-tenured chief in Brown County as he retires.

"I just thought it was one of the coolest things," Minten said. "It's pretty nice, and it's a pretty nice honor to have."

Having been with the department for 33 years, Minten remarked on how much the department has changed during his time of service.

"Full-time and volunteer [firefighters] didn't work together," Minten recalled. "But then we developed MABAS Division 112, and since then you can see these groups work together super well. Everyone helps each other so much now compared to when I first started."

MABAS, or Mutual Aid Box Alarm System, is a mutual aid system that has been utilized by firefighters nationwide since the 1960s, and has been in place in Wisconsin since 2004.

This system encourages teamwork by having a common radio frequency, as well as shared "standards of operation, incident command, minimum level of equipment staffing, safety and on-scene terminology."

MABAS Division 112 consists of 17 separate fire departments in the Brown County area as well as a private ambulance service.

"Everyone is on the same page," said Minten. "And it took a lot of work for us to get there... Memorable calls are so memorable because of how many firefighters will come together and work together."

Minten also wanted to highlight the importance of teamwork when it comes to entering the fire service.

"I tell a lot of the young guys that it's a very rewarding career, but it's nothing but a team effort. If you don't like teamwork, then don't go into fire service," he said. "But it's a very, very rewarding career. To be able to help someone at the worst moment in their life — it's more than rescuing a cat from up in a tree kind of scenario... Helping others is key — that's the big one. A lot of younger people don't understand that you have to give back [to your community], and the fire service is nothing but giving back. You're representing and aiding the community...it truly is rewarding."

"You may not miss the work, but you miss the people. I'm able to look back and say 'Man, we really made a difference', and I think that's great... I'm gonna miss the people, but it was a great career!"

Minten officially retired from the Lawrence Fire Department March 31, but he is still continuing to serve within the community through the Lawrence Public Works and Utility Departments, the Technical Committee for the Central Brown County Water Authority and the WI Medical Credit Union.

"His leadership will truly be missed," said the Lawrence Fire Department in a social media post.

To contact the Lawrence Fire Department for a non-emergency issue, call (920) 391-7450.

Four options to correct being caught in a lie

DEAR MONTY,

We have an offer on our house. There are several contingencies, one of which is a home inspection yet to be scheduled.

When the buyers initially looked at the house, they asked if we ever had any condition issues.

I told them we hadn't. We had a leaking roof several years ago, but I didn't mention it because we had it repaired.

They got wind of it and are now backing out of the deal.

I knew it was a little white lie at the time, but I didn't think it was a big deal.

What can I do to rekindle their interest?

MONTY'S ANSWER

Inspections began in the '70s because enough home sellers either didn't realize the importance of their home's condition, forgot about a defect, or learned it could reduce the value of their home and concealed the problem.

Enough home buyers complained that folks with backgrounds in home construction saw an opportunity.

The fact that real estate consumers shell out hundreds of dollars to understand a home's condition shows how important a home buyer sees this information.

A home buyer's perspective

When potential buyers view a home, they immediately look for anything they must replace.

When they find one item, it triggers an instinct

Dear Monty

BY RICHARD MONTGOMERY
SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

in many to intensify the search for more defects.

Because most home buyers (and sellers) have little or no experience in construction or home maintenance, hiring an expert to examine what, for most, is their most significant single investment is the logical solution.

Many buyers would need to learn how to discover defects.

But living there, the seller knows a lot.

Ultimately, fear of defects gets down to a matter of trust.

What you should have done

You should have told the truth. The roof is a costly component.

It might have led to more questions if you had revealed the repair.

How long ago was it repaired? Who repaired it? Was it a reputable contractor?

But when you conceal it, the first thought that pops into their head is, what else didn't they tell us about?

If the roof starts to leak the day after closing, or a year after closing again, you will likely pay for the new roof and legal fees to defend yourself.

However, losing their trust now is the main consequence.

If you told them about it and they did nothing, now the problem is with them.

Some options

Reverse love letter
If love letters work, send the buyer a note and include a copy of a new seller condition report. Tell them you are sorry and ask for another chance.

A guarantee

Apologize and tell them you'll escrow "x" number of dollars for a year. They get the escrow if anything happens to (name the components).

Offer to replace the roof, after you buy an inspection

That is what caused the problem. Eliminating the problem may help you regain trust.

Look for a new buyer

Complete an updated condition report that contains the roof repair. Depending on your local market, you can recover the cost.

Lesson learned

It is not worth over-looking, forgetting or concealing a defect.

The right thing to do is correctly complete the real estate condition report.

Completing it will remind you of a component you forgot about fixing.

BCCWC makes donations to children's hospital

BROWN COUNTY – The Brown County Community Women's Club (BCCWC) recently held a fleece blanket tying project, during which nineteen ladies tied a total of 25 blankets to provide comfort to children at HSHS St. Vincent Hospital.

Also collected and donated to the children's hospital was an assortment of Lego toys and play dough.

The donations are part of an ongoing partnership between the BCCWC and St. Vincent Hospital to bring fellowship and laughter to the children receiving care there.

NEW Dancing with Our Stars campaign launched

GREEN BAY – The participants for the inaugural ballroom dancing event, NEW Dancing with Our Stars, have been announced.

The participants are Pete Angilello, Ken Corry, Kelly Gusloff, Cora Haltaufderheid, David Konshak, Kristy Maney, Mandy Schroeder and Jenny Vander Zanden.

Each participant has selected a different local nonprofit organization to support through their participation — The Canary Fund, Old Glory Honor Flight, CASA of Brown County, Greater Green Bay Habitat for Humanity, myTeam Triumph, Family Services of Northeast Wisconsin, GBA-SO and House of Hope, respectively.

Over the next several months, participants will raise funds for their chosen charities and learn a ballroom dance to perform at the showcase event, scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 7, at the EPIC Event Center in Green Bay.

More information about the event, including how to purchase tickets and how to make a donation, can be found at newdwos.com.

Registration open for Bellin Women's races

BROWN COUNTY – Registration is open now for the ninth annual Bellin Women's Half Marathon, two-person relay and 5k, scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 7.

Both in-person and virtual race options are available for runners and walkers. In-person events start and end in downtown Green Bay.

Each event is designed to celebrate and motivate female athletes of all levels and abilities while building a sense of community and highlighting health and wellbeing issues specific to women.

"We are thrilled to be planning our ninth annual event, looking forward to an inspiring, empowering race weekend that celebrates our incredible sisterhood of running," Race Director Linda Maxwell said. "From speedy PR (personal record) seekers to first-timers and those just out to go the distance, there's something for everyone in this awesome, female-focused event."

Early bird registration prices are available until May 31, with the half marathon costing $85, the relay being $140 and the 5k coming in at $35. Early registrations can be deferred to 2024 at no cost if the registrant is unable to participate in 2023 for any reason.

All registrations include a long-sleeve shirt and finisher medallion. Half marathon and relay participants will also be provided a ticket to the Women's Inspiration Dinner.

All participants can join in on free training runs beginning in late July.

Find more information and register at bellinwomen-shalf.com.

GREEN BAY – Student athletes and coaches from Bay View High School in Milwaukee, Marshall High School in Marshall and Roncalli High School in Manitowoc were surprised during a visit to Lambeau with $6,000 worth of new Xenith helmets for each school's football program and an appearance by AJ Dillon.

The helmets were presented as part of the Packers Helmet Give Back Program, in partnership with American Family Insurance and Xenith.

Having the right equipment to play football safely is an important part of the game, according to Dillon.

"It's a lot of fun, but you've got to stay protected," he said. "Injuries are inevitable, but the most important part of your body is your head. It's really important to see not only Xenith, but the Packers really trying to take care of the community playing the game that we love."

Being able to surprise the students, Dillon said, was extra special when he considered what an opportunity like that would have meant to him when he was a high schooler.

"I was in their shoes not so long ago," Dillon said. "It's nice to be able to just hang out with them for a little bit, just talk some football talk, make some jokes — it's really important. If I were to have that same opportunity as a high school football player, it would've been the coolest day of my week."

A Healthy Home Starts in the Basement!

A sound and moisture-free basement is essential if you want a quality environment in your whole home. The air in the basement WILL be the air you breathe upstairs, due to the stack effect, which naturally sucks the air from the lower elevation to the upper structure.

If you're looking for the air quality you deserve throughout your home, you need to start with a qualified basement inspection. Not all basement repair specialists are equal, so do your research. You may want to check Angie's List and The Better Business Bureau. Make a few appointments, get references, and talk to the technicians to get a good feel for their knowledge. Make sure the repair specialists are not there to sell you repairs you don't need. Remember: the most expensive repair is not always the best repair. It can be the result of an over-zealous sales person.

Never cover up a problem basement, thinking it will go away: IT WON'T!

A really great show

Bay Area Birds

BY CHARLIE FRISK
GUEST COLUMNIST

Every spring, one of the greatest wildlife spectacles in North America takes place right here in northeast Wisconsin.

Thousands of tundra swans pass through this area on the way to their nesting grounds on the Arctic tundra.

Ironically, very few local residents are aware that these large, beautiful bird travels through this area

The swans are here to do what is called staging, which means that they stop in this area to rest and fatten up before they continue northward.

Studies have shown that they may add up to a third to their body weight before moving on.

When they arrive on the tundra in a couple of weeks, wetland plants may still be under ice, so they depend on their stored fat for survival until spring fully arrives on the tundra.

The tundra swans that come through this area winter in the Chesapeake Bay marshes and nest in the Canadian North in the tundra areas around Hudson's Bay.

Historically, the tundra swans spent most of their staging time in the marshy areas of Green Bay.

There they fattened up on the abundant wild rice, duck potato, wild celery and other wetland plants.

Unfortunately, because of pollution that occurred before the Federal Clean Water Act was passed in 1972, and with the introduction of the common carp, those plants have largely disappeared from the bay.

Northeast Wisconsin could have lost their tundra swan migration altogether, but the swans discovered an alternative food source.

The swans found that they could fatten up on waste grain left in farm fields in this area.

Many of the swans roost on the bay overnight, and then fly out to farm fields to feed for the day.

The best place to see tundra swans is in the flooded farm fields between Black Creek and Shiocton.

They can be seen in fields along Highway 54 and along the side roads off the highway.

The Mack Wildlife Area, located between Black Creek and Shiocton, will usually have tundra swans along with a great variety of other waterfowl species.

On a good day you can see over 5,000 swans in this area.

Swans can also be seen anywhere along the east shore of Green Bay from the city of Green Bay up into Door County, and off of I-29 west of Green Bay.

Most years the tundra swan migration would already be at its peak but spring is a little late coming this year.

The last week of March I heard one flock of tundra swans calling as they flew over my house in Green Bay but couldn't see them. Sometime during the next few weeks the migration should be at its peak.

You will be more likely

Tundra Swans

to see tundra swans if you learn to identify their call.

The tundra swan has a whistling, clear, bell-like call and flocks can be heard up to two miles away.

I occasionally hear tundra swan flocks flying over during the night.

To learn what their calls sound like just Google tundra swan calls on your computer.

Mixed in with the tundra swans might be trumpeter swans.

The trumpeter swan was extirpated from Wisconsin by the late 1800s due to market hunting for their down and feathers and to a lesser degree for their meat.

At that time, it was feared that the trumpeter swan was totally extinct, but a small population was later found in the Yellowstone region and a larger population in Alaska.

The Department of Natural Resources started reintroducing trumpeters from Alaska in to the late 1980s and the population has grown to over 7,000 trumpeters in Wisconsin — one of wildlife management's greatest success stories.

The trumpeter is North America's largest swan with a wingspan of over 7 feet and over 4 feet tall.

Even though they are about a third larger than the tundra swans they are difficult to tell apart by appearance; calls and behavior are better field identification keys.

The tundra swan has a whistling, clear, bell-like call, the trumpeter a nasal honking resembling an out of tune trumpet.

The trumpeter is the only native swan that nests in Wisconsin.

Because they are nesting in Wisconsin, they are much more likely to be paired up.

If you see swans on the edge of large tundra swan flocks that are in pairs, there is a good chance they are trumpeters.

The swan migration is truly a magnificent spectacle.

Swans are large and beautiful and watching them takeoff and land is breathtaking.

Maybe the best part of all is the sounds. The swans are constantly calling to each other in their soft melodious voices.

As flocks pass overhead, the leader often utters a high note like "who-who-who" which is repeated by flock after flock, producing a high pitched whistling sound.

My wife, a former elementary teacher, compares the sounds to that of a class of third graders whooping it up on the playground.

Other spring natural events

Lake sturgeon spawning in the Fox and Wolf River

These huge fish migrate upstream from Green Bay and Lake Winnebago and spawn in shallow rocky areas. They begin spawning when water temperatures reach about 53 degrees which is probably going to happen in late April this year.

Ducks, shorebirds and wading birds returning to Northeast Wisconsin

Along the shore of Green Bay, the ponds at Bay Beach Wildlife Sanctuary and the Mack Wildlife area west of Black Creek are all good places to view waterfowl.

The return of the warblers, nature's flying jewels

Warbler migration will peak in early May. Bay Beach Wildlife Sanctuary is the hotspot for warblers.

Blooming of spring wildflowers

The cold spring has pushed this back, but by late April or early May the show should be on. The Baird Creek Greenway has a great diversity of wildflowers.

Watch this column for reports on these activities when they are at their peak.

The world — nature in particular. How weather affects everything from water to houses.

What is the best advice you have for other artists?

Follow your dream.

How would you describe Green Bay/NE Wisconsin's arts community?

I'm so new here it is hard to describe it. But it seems to be very closed and tight.

Where can people find your work?

Check out what's going on at Brown County Library

Celebrating National Library Week

By Janelle Fisher
City Pages Editor

Over the next week, activities and events will take place at branches throughout the Brown County Library system in celebration of National Library Week.

The week is a celebration not only of the library, but also of the materials and services it offers and how libraries impact people's lives.

One way the Brown County Library will celebrate National Library Week is by encouraging people to share their library stories.

Patrons of the Brown County Library are encouraged to share their stories of how the library has impacted their lives, contributing to a collection of stories which will be displayed on posters at each branch and online for all to see as an example of how the library strengthened the community.

"We really want to hear from the community about how has a library impacted your life," Susan Lagerman, community engagement manager for the Brown County Library, said. "And what we've done with the stories we've collected so far, is we've turned them into big poster boards... And they'll be displayed during National Library Week, and then what we'll do is we'll rotate them around our locations and then hopefully collect more and they will be on our website, too."

Lagerman said her own library story started when she was just a child.

"I grew up in Detroit and I remember going to the Detroit Public Library," she said. "My favorite part was the smell of it... and then the crinkle of all the plastic covers on the books. I still remember that from being a little girl. I've always said libraries are in my blood. I spent a lot of time in college at libraries and studying and that type of thing, but they really have come a long way since I've been here. I've seen cassette tapes go to CDs and VHS tapes to DVDs. That's the other thing. Libraries really pivot with the times — we adapt and listen to the community.”

That love of libraries, Lagerman said, extended into adulthood and has turned into a career she loves.

“I’ve worked here for 32 years and I just think libraries are amazing places,” she said. “They offer so much. I mean, it’s more than just books. We always say that the library is more than just books. Yes, we have lots of books, but we have so many other things, too. Not just physical things, but things to do — our programming for children, teens, adult programming is phenomenal. It’s a place to come and just hang out, do research, have quiet time, come with friends, enjoy a cup of coffee, browse books, browse magazines, read newspapers... I’ve always said I love my job because every day is different and libraries offer that — something different all the time. I like the variety. The people you meet at libraries are wonderful and the relationships you build with other libraries outside of the county, it’s really cool. It’s a really neat library community. You meet people, you see people at library conferences and it’s just a really nice network.”

One of the reasons Lagerman said she thinks the library community is so great is because of a shared drive to provide helpful customer service.

“Customer service is really important to us and I think you find that library people are nice people because we want to help,” she said. “There’s just that intrinsic need, like we want to help you do whatever it is, whether you need help with a resume, help finding a job, help looking something up in the catalog, that type of thing.”

Lagerman said that aside from books and material items patrons can check out, the Brown County Library also offers a variety of other helpful services many people may not know they could be utilizing.

“We have free internet — free high speed internet Wi-Fi,” she said. “We have a career navigator that comes in to help people with job searching which I think is a really important and valuable service. We have delivery to senior living places, so we take collections of books to folks that maybe can’t get out or aren’t as mobile as they used to be. You can always use our reference department if you don’t know what to read next — we’re here to do that. Or even for people that need help in serious social situations, we can refer or connect people. I think libraries are great connectors. If we don’t know the answer, we can usually find the answer.”

One obstacle which sometimes stands in the way of people accessing all of the services the library has to offer, Lagerman said, is the stigma of fines and overdue materials.

During National Library Week, the library will observe a sort of amnesty week with all overdue materials returned between April 23-29 being waived.

“We have fines on our materials if you don’t return them or if you lose them, but we sometimes feel that’s a barrier for people coming to the library,” she said. “So if you have overdue fines and you want to come to the library but feel sheepish about it because you owe something, this is what amnesty week does. It erases those debts and it’s like ‘just bring the books back, we want you back in the library.’ We all make mistakes. We all get fines — even library employees get fines. But amnesty week is a chance to bring back what you have checked out and have those fines wiped away. It’s just kind of a nice gesture... [Fees] are kind of necessary for us, but we don’t want people to be afraid to come back just because they have a fine and feel embarrassed about it.”

In addition to fine forgiveness, the Brown County Library will also host a series of open houses, presentations and classes as part of its National Library Week celebration.

Critical hit: UW-Green Bay brings D&D-inspired play to the stage

By William Kopp
Contributing Writer

The University of Wisconsin-Green Bay is putting on their upcoming show She Kills Monsters this weekend from Thursday, April 20 until Saturday, April 22.

She Kills Monsters is a play created by Qui Nguyen in 2011 and tells the story of Agnes Evans as she comes to terms with the death of her teenage sister, Tilly.

The show embarks on a Dungeons and Dragons-style adventure in the imaginary world Tilly created and mixes high-energy comedy with themes of overcoming loss and what it is to be queer.

"It's also just highly entertaining. It's like going to one of the big, splashy musicals, it's got so much going on," Director Alan Kopischke said. "You've got monsters, you've got stage fighting, it's very colorful — it's kind of like a Marvel movie in some ways."

Audiences can also expect a lot from the performance itself.

Kopischke added, "[Expect] a big, bad dragon; a five-headed dragon; demons, elves and monsters; stage combat; an adventure comedy; goofballs. We have, actually, an important story underneath

▲ Audiences can expect everything from dragons and monsters to elves and demons to appear on stage during 'She Kills Monsters.' Submitted photos it that confronts bullying and bigotry and takes us on a journey discovering identity, community, friendship and being true to yourself."

The play offers two versions of the script including the original, as well as the Young Adventurers Edition of the script, which will be utilized for UW-Green Bay's show— primarily used to adapt the characters' ages from adults to teenagers and omitting the more harsh profanity and intimate references to reflect the characters' ages as well.

When asked about his favorite part of the show, Kopischke was quick to respond, "I think right now I'm enjoying the comedy of it. Because the comedy comes from good nature, friendship and some of the awkwardness of trying to make new friends — I love it when it makes me laugh."

▲ Above: Underneath the monsters and mayhem, 'She Kills Monsters' also features an important story about bullying, bigotry and being true to oneself. Below: Kopischke said the show is almost like a Marvel movie in some ways, due to the stage fighting and monsters.

Like many shows though, there comes a variety of setbacks from sickness to injury to someone dropping out of the show all together and She Kills Monsters is no exception.

"It's a huge play," Kopischke said. "And so, like many shows, we're always under-resourced, we always have less time than we want, we always have less money for some of the things we want to buy than we want. And, you know, there are the inevitable. We had a cast member out for a week, an important part, and so we were making contingency plans — fortunately that person is back. Yeah, there's always stuff. That's part of the thing about theater is it's all kind of built around 'okay, what do we have today. We're gonna make the best we can with what we have today."

The show will run without an intermission with a show time of less than two hours and is available and friendly to people of all ages, from children and teens, to adults and parents alike.

Tickets will feature various prices between advance purchases and at the door prices, with adult tickets selling for $22 in advance and $25 at the door; senior and student tickets selling for $17 in advance and $20 at the door; and UW-Green Bay student tickets selling for $12.

"There's no reason to miss this because it's just one heck of a good time," Kopischke added.

For those interested in attending, you can purchase tickets at <https://www.ticketstaronline.com/events/detail/she-kills-monsters> or by calling (920)465-2400. Tickets can also be purchased at the box office, one hour prior to curtain.

Bay Beach Curator of Animals Lori Bankson uses a feeding syringe with a metal tip to assist the grey squirrel. Freddy Moyano photo

Meet our rehabilitation animal of the month: Grey Squirrel

One of the most vital pieces in the food chain for canine predators and many birds of prey worldwide, the grey squirrel is often seen in parks and backyards across America.

Any vehicle operators would easily recall squirrels risking their own lives by simply crossing a roadway, exposed to oncoming traffic.

This was the case of a male adult grey squirrel that was rescued in the Green Bay area and brought to the Bay Beach Wildlife Sanctuary around mid-March.

"The police department found him in the street. He was hit by a car, wasn't moving. He had a lot of internal injuries" said Bay Beach Curator of Animals Lori Bankson. "He's not out of the woods, but we have a lot of faith in him right now".

He said nothing was "horribly broken" — as in no major fractures — apart from potential micro fractures that have been undetected so far.

Bankson explained this squirrel went from not being able to move to eating on his own eight days into his stay at the observation building.

"He just got done with a round of pain meds and he is feeling really good," Bankson said.

Feeding process

"He eats just a little bit on his own, but he is still pretty sore. So he gets a substance that we call 'critical care', but he also gets some baby food to get some calories" Bankson said.

As Bankson brought out the feeding syringe with a metal tip, which she described as suitable to pump food into these rodents, the inpatient squirrel seemed awake all of a sudden, constantly licking the tip.

"He could not even hold down a syringe dose when he came in. Yesterday he had six of them," Bankson said.

Bankson added that he is fed three times per day and that all of the food nutrients packed inside the syringe are possible from donors who "generously contributed to what [they] do."

Bankson opened the drawer in the visitation room, where they store all different kinds of tips and tools that can be attached to syringes.

She indicated that the thicker ones are for rodents like our inpatient, but raccoons get thinner ones.

Bankson said this squirrel gets a bath twice a day, as he is "a little bit of a messy eater" and he gets weighed every day.

She said they also perform daily physical therapy sessions to help with what according to Bankson could be some neurological damage as a result of the car hit.

Physical therapy

"Most squirrels do not survive these hits. He has been gaining lots of weight. So we are really happy with how far he's come," said Bankson.

In terms of physical therapy, Bankson said they make sure he is in a standing position, on his hind legs, for as long as possible, to "help him build muscle."

"He also wants to clean himself, which is a good sign, but he still has not regained a lot of his motor skill. But the other thing we worry about too is urination," said Bankson, explaining that if he is not able to stand to urinate on his own, he risks sustaining burning injuries from the urine not being released from his body.

To prevent this, Bankson said, "we make sure we watch him, keeping him constantly clean with baby wipes. We also do muscle massaging. When he was on pain meds at first, we noticed he wasn't standing, so we had to cut down on meds and do more physical therapy to make sure he keeps standing on his own."

Coming from the La Crosse area, Kilmer said she enjoys the pace of living in Brown County and how close they are to Door County and all it has to offer during the summer months. Kilmer has begun her career in interior design and works at Designs of the Interior on Broadway as a design/studio assistant, where she says she's gaining valuable experience in the industry and having a lot fun along the way as she works with co-workers and clients on different projects. Josh Staloch photo plus the food waste from vegetable canneries and grocery stores, Wisconsin has the potential to produce as much as 6% of our energy needs from biogas.

This helps create that additional source of energy but also removes food waste from landfills and manure from our farms.

Renew Wisconsin says "Inside the biogas digester, bugs eat the manure and organic wastes, leaving a biogas product that is similar to natural gas, and can be used either to produce electricity or to replace natural gas in a pipeline for use in Wisconsin homes and businesses."

In addition to the bio-fuel potential, Wisconsin's dairy farmers are environmental stewards in other ways.

From the farmers themselves:

Pagel's Ponderosa Dairy, Kewaunee

After losing her dad and husband in 2018, Jamie Pagel Witcpalek and her brothers work together to fill their dad's shoes.

Their dad always told them "You take care of the land; you take care of your cows; you take care of the people, they'll in turn take care of you" and the siblings strive to live up to that advice.

They treat their farm like an ecosystem with their cow's manure becoming fuel, bedding, and nutrients for the crops they grow to feed their cows.

Inspired by their father's idea of "turning poop into power," the farm plans to be net-zero by 2025.

Feltz Family Farms, Stevens Point

Located along the Little Plover River Restoration area, the Feltz Family Farm works with their neighbors to improve the quantity of water available and keep the quality pristine.

As a multi-use recreational area and an important water source in the area, Ken Feltz and his family care for their land, community and dairy farm equally.

They practice composting and have built a farmstead dairy store to allow the inclusion of their next generation in the family business.

PUBLISHER'S LETTER

On One or Multiple "Happily Ever Afters"

Dear Reader,

When we marry we take a snapshot in time. Yes, this is the girl or boy of our dreams based on the perception of who and what they seem to be right then, at that specific moment. We truly believe there is no one on this planet like this person. On our wedding day, we think that we won the lottery and will live happily ever after.

But years later, some of us look at that person and wonder if she or he is still whom we would want to live the rest of our life with. Maybe their growth took them down a path far from your own. Or maybe there was no growth at all, and in fact it seemed like they went backward, to an earlier level of maturity.

Forty-one percent of all first marriages end in divorce. It is worse for second and third marriages: Sixty percent and seventy-three percent, respectively.

Oftentimes, this need not be. Yes, it is true that divorce sometimes is necessary because of violence or lack of trust. But at other times, the rain passes and is followed by the sun and a rainbow. Where there is beauty, there is hope.

Urban Forestry Grant launches Pulaski Tree Initiative

FROM JIM RESICK
VILLAGE OF PULASKI
VOLUNTEER TREE
COORDINATOR

The village of Pulaski is to receive a 2023 Urban Forestry Start Up grant, it was announced by Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources in December.

The village will receive $5,000 to match local contributions from Pulaski Lions Club, Pulaski United Foundation and Tri-County Optimist Club.

It is a competitive grant program; only 58 of 79 applying communities were selected.

Funded activities pave the way toward gradually replanting shade trees in village parks, most of which suffered major losses due to recent tornadoes and gale force windstorms.

First, a tree inventory will be completed by Bluestem Forestry Consulting of Drummond.

The inventory will catalogue tree species, tree health, exact geographic locations, site limitations, and other features.

Bluestem will then prepare a forestry operations plan, for consideration by Pulaski Park & Recreation Commission and other village entities.

A budget for future tree planting and ongoing care of trees will be developed under the auspices of Pulaski Department of Public Works.

A unique project included in the grant is construction of a gravel bed nursery, which permits inexpensive bare root stock trees to reach planting size in one growing season.

Department of Public Works will construct the nursery at Pulaski Community Garden, between the soccer fields and fishing pond.

Future Farmers of America (FFA) of Pulaski

Area Middle School will water and fertilize young nursery trees. The point of growing in gravel is to allow rapid expansion of tree roots, plus easy extraction of trees at fall planting.

While this first grant is directed only to public spaces, grant supporters hope park reforestation will also spur a wave of tree planting on private property over time.

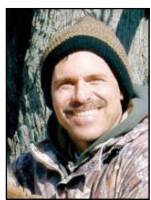

They point out the many benefits of carefully selected, placed, and managed tree species for property owners.

These of course include the visual impact of trees in a landscape, but also economic impacts such as reduced energy costs (summer shading of houses reduce air conditioning costs) and enhanced property resale value.

The grant was written by a team consisting of Pulaski Village President Keith Chambers, FFA middle school advisor Kaleb Santy and volunteer, Jim Resick.

Voters say yes to new urban fishing pond in Brown County

In the Outdoors

BY KEVIN NAZE
GUEST COLUMNIST

There may soon be a new urban fishing pond in Brown County after an encouraging on-line vote during last week's spring fish and wildlife rules hearings.

A Department of Natural Resources fisheries question asking if participants favored adding an unnamed pond on the Village of Suamico property to the DNR's Urban and Community Fishing Program was approved, 2,929 yes to 439 no.

Since the Village of Suamico does not want to run aerators on the pond, the DNR says stocking harvestable-size trout right after ice-out would offer the best fishing opportunity.

The agency says winter-kill is likely without aerators.

There would be no closed season, but there would be a special season from the second Saturday in March up to but not including the last Saturday in April for youths age 15 and under and disabled anglers. The daily bag would be three trout, one other game fish, and 10 panfish.

On the wildlife side of the DNR questions, voters favored adding Brown County to the list of counties covered under a state statute restricting target shooting on DNR-owned lands by a count of 3,639 to 1,354.

Currently target shooting is unregulated on DNR-owned lands unless specifically listed. Brown would join a list of 20 others where it's already restricted, including Manitowoc, Outagamie and Winnebago counties.

A history of non-hunting firearm discharge from DNR-owned property parking lots and near parking lot areas has raised safety concerns of neighbors, department staff, and local law enforcement.

Brown County wildlife areas provide a rural, "woody" atmosphere for target shooting. However, these areas are often surrounded by residential and other developments.

This proposal would allow the department to restrict target shooting in order to address repeated safety and noise complaints, as well as problems with littering.

Hunters and others interested in deer management can attend next week's Brown County Deer Advisory Council meeting in person, via Zoom or by phone. It starts at 6 p.m. April 27 at the DNR Service Center.

Longer deer hunt?

The Wisconsin Conservation Congress' Deer & Elk Committee had an advisory question asking hunters to vote for their preferred choice of three November gun deer hunt scenarios: a 16-day season starting earlier a week earlier than it currently does; a 19-day season similar to the current metro gun deer formats; or the current nine-day season followed by a 10-day muzzleloader hunt.

As has happened every other time hunters were gauged at the hearings, the status quo won big, with 5,725 voting to keep it as it is compared to 1,393 voting for the 16-day option, and 1,657 for the 19-day season.

Other questions that received more votes in favor than opposed included creating a random draw for bonus antlerless permits; blaze orange for upland game bird hunting; requiring a grouse stamp to hunt grouse; and doubling the youth wild turkey hunt to four days.

There were also many votes in support of an earlier muskie opener statewide; a free fishing weekend for veterans; a ban on wildlife shining Sept. 15-Dec. 31; a ban on lead jigs and sinkers 1 oz. or less; and developing an outreach program to increase use of non-lead ammunition.

In close votes, participants didn't favor expanding the youth deer hunt to four days or creating a spearing season for northern pike.

A total of 11,566 people took part, including 775 out-of-state residents.

Check out all the numbers at <https://dnr.wisconsin.gov/about/wcc/spring-hearing>.

Though the results are non-binding and advisory only, some could get enough backing to kickstart a rule change.

Deer meeting April 27

Hunters and anyone else interested in deer management are invited to the Brown County Deer Advisory Council meeting at 6 p.m. April 27 in the Lake Michigan Room at the DNR Service Center, 2984 Shawano Ave., Green Bay.

Councils review current county data on fawn to doe ratios; harvest trends; herd health; deer impacts on agriculture, forests, economics and vehicle collisions; and the deer hunter experience.

You can attend in person, via Zoom (see CDAC website) or by calling 1 (929) 205-6099; meeting ID 826 0422 1267. Learn more at <https://dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/Hunt/cdac>.

Weekly water update

Lake Michigan and Green Bay water levels have risen six inches in the past month, and are expected to rise four more inches by mid-May.

As of April 14, water levels were down four inches from a year ago, but still six inches higher than the 100-year average.

Lake levels were down 29 inches from the all-time April high, set in 2020, but 37 inches higher than the record monthly low in 1964.

CITY OF GREEN BAY SPRING LOOSE LEAF COLLECTION

The City of Green Bay Department of Public Works will begin its spring curbside collection of loose leaves, garden waste, and grass clippings on Monday, April 24, 2023. This material should be placed out to the curb in separate piles (leaves/grass together and brush/branches together) and should not be co-mingled. Bagged material will not be picked up.

MAY 14, 2023 – DEADLINE FOR YARD WASTE ITEMS TO BE PLACED AT THE CURB FOR FINAL COLLECTION.

Yard waste placed to the curb after May 14 WILL NOT be collected by the City.

Residents are responsible for disposing of their own yard waste after the spring collection period, or they will be assessed a fee for collection. Please see Yard Waste Drop-Off Center information below.

Please note that placing yard waste in the road itself is against City ordinance, and residents who do so will be subject to collection fees and/or fines. Similar to past collection periods, Public Works staff will be recording violations.

Residents are reminded that raking leaves into the street increases pollution of storm water, may cause flooding by blocking drainage structures, and most importantly, piles of leaves in the street are a dangerous attraction to young children.

Please refrain from piling yard waste next to trees, poles, mailboxes, or other obstructions as this slows down collection crews and may cause damage to equipment or the obstruction.

YARD WASTE DROP-OFF CENTERS

The City of Green Bay Department of Public Works Yard Waste Drop-Off Centers are open daily (including weekends) April 1 until Thanksgiving Day from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Residents may bring their loose leaves, grass clippings, and garden waste to either of the City's two yard waste drop-off sites located at 2530 East Shore Drive on the east side and 1470 Hurlbut Street on the west side.

Contractor generated/collected yard waste debris is NOT acceptable at these sites or at the curb for City collection.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Department of Public Works – Operations Division at (920) 448-3535 or visiting the City's website at www.greenbaywi.gov/publicworks.

Notice of the Board of Review for the Village of Howard

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Review for the Village of Howard shall hold its meeting on May 17, 2023 from 2:00 p.m. until, at a minimum, 4:00 p.m. at the Village Hall located at 2456 Glendale Avenue. Please be advised of the following requirements to appear before the Board of Review and procedural requirements if appearing before the Board of Review: No person shall be allowed to appear before the Board of Review, to contest the amount of any assessment of real or personal property if the person has refused a reasonable written request by certified mail of the Assessor to view such property. After the first meeting of the Board of Review and before the Board of Review's final adjournment, no person who is scheduled to appear before the Board of Review may contact, or provide information to, a member of the Board of Review about the person's objection except at a session of the Board of Review. No person may appear before the Board of Review, contest the amount of any assessment unless, at least 48 hours before the first meeting of the Board of Review or at least 48 hours before the objection is heard if the objection is allowed under §74.47(3)(a) Wisconsin Statutes, that person provides to the village clerk a notice as to whether the person will ask for removal under §74.47(6m) Wis. Stats. and, if so, which member will be removed and the person's reasonable estimate of the length of time that the hearing will take. When appealing to the Board of Review, the person must specify in writing, his or her estimate of the land value and improvements that he or she is objecting to, and the person must specify the information that he or she used to arrive at the estimate. No person may appeal to the Board of Review, object to a valuation, if the assessor or objector made the valuation using the income method, unless the person supplies the assessor with all the information about income and expenses, as specified in the manual under state law (§73.03(2a), Wis. Stats.), that the assessor requests. The village must provide by ordinance for the confidentiality of information about income and expenses provided to the assessor under this paragraph and shall provide exceptions for persons using the information in the discharge of duties imposed by law or of the duties of their office or by order of a court. The information that is provided under this paragraph, unless a court determines that it is inaccurate, is not subject to the right of inspection and copying under state law

Unified School District of De Pere Board Meeting - Monday, March 20, 2023

School Board President David Youngquist opened the meeting with the following announcements: This is a meeting of the Board of Education of the Unified School District of De Pere being held in public. Prior to this meeting notice was given to the public by posting on the District web site and at each of the school buildings. Finally, a copy of the notice was forwarded to The Press Times, the official newspaper of the District. The meeting of the Unified School District of De Pere Board of Education was held on Monday, March 20, 2023. Board President Youngquist called the meeting to order at 6:01 pm. Roll Call: Present – Brittany Cartwright, Adam Clayton, Chad Jeskewitz, Jeff Mirkes, Doug Seeman, Dan Van Straten, and David Youngquist. After roll call of Board members, a quorum was declared, and the Board proceeded with the order of business. Public Comment: None Agenda: A motion was made by Seeman and seconded by Van Straten to approve the agenda as presented. Motion carried on a voice vote; 7/0. Principal Presentation: Adam Kraemer, De Pere Middle School Principal, introduced Tier 3 math support (math interventions) at DPMS. Adrienne Burns, Math coach and interventionist along with Beth Black, Grade 7 special education teacher and math interventionist, focused on the bands of arithmetic domains, identifying and selecting students for Tier 3 interventions, and the AVMR interventions. They explained the iReady diagnostic results and showed the growth from fall to winter. Positive outcomes of the new intervention structure include positive impact on student growth, servicing more students, creating positive experiences for students, and more inclusive student experiences. Minutes: A motion was made by Jeskewitz and seconded by Seeman to approve the minutes from the February 20, 2023 Board Meeting. Motion carried on a voice vote; 7/0. A motion was made by Cartwright and seconded by Mirkes to approve minutes from the February 27, 2023 special meeting. Motion carried on a voice vote; 7/0. A motion was made by Seeman and seconded by Van Straten to approve the minutes from the March 6, 2023 special meeting. Motion carried on a voice vote; 7/0. Strategic Planning Update: Superintendent Chris Thompson presented the updated mission and vision statements and explained the four pillars that have been drafted. Administrative Team groups reviewed these pillars: Educational Excellence (Shelly Thomas, Adam Kraemer & Andy Bradford), Student engagement (Luke Herlache & Renee Jadin-Rice), Operational Excellence (Dawn Foeller, Curt Pieschek & Chris Thompson), and Safe and Culturally Affirming Environments (Jerry Nicholson & Mark Kirst). The teams are working on SMART goals to align with the pillars in order to measure one year results. The Strategic Plan draft will be presented at the April 17, 2023 Board meeting. Innovative Grant Presentation: Stephanie Karker, Library Media Specialist at Dickinson Elementary School, presented the results of her 2022-23 innovative grant entitled Dickinson Logic Lab Lego Wall. The objectives of the grant were to revitalize the Logic Lab after the pandemic, increase STEM activities, improve collaboration and open-ended problem solving along with increased creativity and motivation. Stephanie used additional funding sources to purchase a variety of items for the Logic Lab. Innovative Grant Presentation: Elementary music teachers Michelle Bredael (Dickinson), Becky Nimmer (Altmayer), and Beth Marcelle (Heritage) explained how their grant entitled Ukuleles for Elementary General Music Classes has been used and applied. With the grant, they were able to purchase a classroom set of ukuleles and cases for each school. The ukuleles will allow students to learn a string instrument in a group setting, develop hand/eye coordination, muscle memory, pattern recognition and a sense of rhythm. Feedback from students has been very positive. Innovative Grants for 2023-24: The Board reviewed the results of the scoring process for the sixteen innovative grants that were submitted for the 2023-24 school year. A motion was made by Cartwright and seconded by Mirkes to award the top seven grants (Using Data Collecting Sensors in the biology and Ecology Classroom, Intro to Digital Art Using Drawing Pads – 5th Grade, Dickinson Logic Lab Sphero Indis, Summer Theater at De Pere High School, Snatoms Molecular Model Kits, A Glowforge Plus Laser Engraver/Cutter to explore STEM and engage students in maker technologies and CTE, and Creating a Mobile Recording Studio using a MacbookPro, Audio Interface and Condenser Microphones) for a total cost of $21,205. Motion carried on a voice vote; 7/0. Internet Service Provider: A motion was made by Mirkes and seconded by Van Straten to approve awarding the internet service contract to Wiscnet at a cost of $19,140.00. Motion carried on a voice vote; 7/0. E-Rate Category 2 Purchases: A motion was made by Jeskewitz and seconded by Clayton to approve awarding the switch bid to Capital Data and the UPS bid to Heartland Business systems at a cost of $18,079.07 and $8,572.32 respectively. Motion carried on a voice vote; 7/0. Health Navigator Service: Jerry Nicholson, Director of Student Services, presented an opportunity for the District to provide a mental health navigator service to connect students, staff, family members, and community members to mental health services within our community. The service reduces waiting times significantly and provides each family with a partner to assist them in getting connected. The recommendation is to approve Care Solace as a Community Mental Health Navigator Service with a contract beginning May 2023 and ending June 30, 2024 as a community fund service which will be included as part of the 2023-24 school year budget and tax levy. An annual review would be made before renewing the service or entering into a multi-year contract at reduced rates. The Board will vote at the April 17 Board meeting. February Financials: Dawn Foeller presented the February revenues and expenditures. A motion was made by Jeskewitz and seconded by Clayton to accept the February financial statements as presented. Motion carried on a voice

Minutes 7725

Unified School District of De Pere Special Board Meeting - Monday, April 10, 2023
 School Board Vice-President Doug Seeman opened the meeting with the following announcements: This is a special meeting of the Board of Education of the Unified School District of De Pere being held in public. Prior to this meeting notice was given to the public by posting on the District web site and at each of the school buildings. Finally, a copy of the notice was forwarded to The Press Times, the official newspaper of the District.
 The special meeting of the Unified School District of De Pere Board of Education was held on Monday, April 10, 2023. Board Vice-President Seeman called the meeting to order at 6:02 pm. Roll Call: Present – Adam Clayton, Chad Jeskewitz, Jeff Mirkes, Doug Seeman, and Dan Van Straten; Brittony Cartwright and David Youngquist excused. After roll call of Board members, a quorum was declared, and the Board proceeded with the order of business.
 Public Comment: None
 Agenda: A motion was made by Jeskewitz and seconded by Van Straten to approve the agenda as presented. Motion carried on a voice vote; 5/0.

Minutes 7725
 Principal Presentation: Luke Herlache, Dickinson Elementary School Principal, introduced the Illustrative Math implementation at Dickinson for the 2022-23 school year. Joining him were Michael Coleman, 3rd Grade teacher and four 3rd Grade students – Willa D., Sydney V., Brody R., and Ayla G. Formative Assessments look at "how do we know what the students know and can do?" They showed a video of Ms. Tlachac's 4th grade classroom which demonstrated how this works within the Illustrative Math environment. The four students at the meeting demonstrated an online game and a small group exercise that can take place while teachers are working on select small groups needing specific interventions.
 Mental Health Navigator: A motion was made by Van Straten and seconded by Mirkes to approve Care Solace as a Community Mental Health Navigator Service with a 14 month contract beginning May 2023 and ending June 30, 2024 at a cost of $20,449 as a community fund service which will be included as part of the 2023-24 school year budget and tax levy along with an annual review date in May/June 2024 before renewing the service or entering into a multi-year contract at reduced rates. Motion approved on a voice vote; 5/0.
 CESA 6 Center4All: Jae Henderson, a consultant for CESA 6, and Kim Walters, Director of CESA 6 Center4All, explained the basis for their work and presented the results of the Intercultural Development Inventory and the Equity Walks. They reviewed areas for celebration and noted opportunities for improvement.
 Superintendent Chris Thompson explained that the District has begun addressing some of the recommendations and, over the summer, school improvement teams at each site will focus on incorporating suggestions into daily usage. Facilities Condition and Educational Adequacy Assessment: Melanie Parma, Vice President and Duane Grove, Architect, of Somerville Architects presented the findings of their assessment completed in the Fall of 2022 with the goal to give the District a better understanding of the current and future replacement and/or repair needs for building components, and systems. Baseline cost estimates will help prepare for ongoing capital and maintenance costs and for future master planning. The Educational Adequacy Assessment focused on teaching and learning needs in a modern learning environment including space and program needs, capacity, flexible and collaborative spaces, visual connection, sense of belonging, and safety and security. The assessment listed itemizations at each site regarding civil, architectural, plumbing, fire protection, HVAC and electrical. Somerville will follow-up with the spreadsheet that was presented at the meeting and will look at night safety lighting.

Ryla House, Ashwaubenon cross country and track and field

Name: Ryla House
Activities: Cross country, track and field
Parents: Susan and Jeff House
Instagram: @rylahouse

Ryla was a four-year member of the Ashwaubenon cross country team and is currently in her last season of track and field, running middle distance.

How did you get started in running?

"When I started high school, my mom told me that I had to do a sport or club so I could meet people. I was really shy as a kid, and I was very obstinate about that, because I only wanted to skate — that was my favorite thing to do. My coach told me that I should do a running sport to increase my endurance for skating, and then I joined the cross country team that fall."

Why did you stick with running?

"My freshman year, I wasn't terrible at it, but I didn't enjoy it until maybe the end of my sophomore year track season. It's a good stress reliever for me, breaking the mental barriers. Something about running until your legs are numb just really takes the stress away. That's my addiction to it."

You're trying the 300 meter hurdles this year. How is that going?

"It's not as hard as I thought it would be to get over the hurdle, it's more of the mental barrier of not being afraid of the hurdle. It's not too bad, I think I just need more practice and more time to work on it, and I think I'll get better with time."

Did you race at all during the great weather in early April?

"We had two meets during that week. We had the Ashwaubenon triangular, and I set a personal record in the 4x800 meter relay by eight seconds. That was the first time I did 300 hurdles, so it wasn't that good of a race. We went to Kimberly on Thursday, and I set a personal record in the 400 meter dash by one second. It's about nine seconds faster than I was running last year."

You're also a club figure skater. How did you get into that?

"It's kind of ironic, because I was very much a bookworm when I was a kid, and my sister did all the sports, she was super athletic. I would try to find a sport—I tried gymnastics about five times. I would make it a couple weeks and then get sick of it. I remember in third grade, some girl had a figure skating jacket. I told my mom I wanted to do that, and she wasn't convinced that I would stick with it because I wasn't a very courageous person. The first time I did it, my grandparents brought me and I would not leave the boards. Apparently I loved it because I would keep holding on to the boards. In terms of breaking the mental barriers, the more you do it, the more confidence you build. It's just really relaxing overall."

What's the timeline on the figure skating season?

"Competition season is usually the summer and then it goes into the winter. My off-season where I do a lot more training is in the winter. It's a lot more refined during cross country and track, but I still get a couple hours in each week."

Does the track team ever go out to eat after races?

"We usually don't, but there is a tradition that the girls will go to Starbucks after practices. We also have team dinners every Wednesday at the school where parents bring in homemade dinner or desserts."

Who is on top of your music playlist right now?

"I love Taylor Swift. I think she's probably the one I listen to the most. Besides her, I don't really have any. It's just Taylor Swift."

What is your favorite movie?

"My favorite movie I've ever watched is Ten Things I Hate About You."

What is your favorite television show?

"I don't watch a lot of TV, but I really enjoyed Wednesday."

Do you have any pets?

"I have a dog named Lucky. He's a Spanish water dog."

What are a couple of your hobbies?

"I am very big on academics; I'm a very big perfectionist when it comes to school. I do a lot of homework outside of school, but I also love to read. I work at Mission BBQ, and I coach figure skating."

Where is a favorite place you've traveled to?

"I definitely traveled a lot more when I was younger, but last year for Spanish we went to Ecuador. I think that's the favorite place I've been just because it's so different from everywhere. Specifically the Galapagos Islands was the coolest part; they have a lot of protection for the wildlife there so the animals aren't scared to come up to you. You can get super close to them. There's laws against hunting them and whatnot, but it's so cool to see them everywhere and the water was just gorgeous. I got to swim with a sea turtle. The wildlife and nature of it was really cool."

What do your plans after high school look like?

"I plan on going to IUPUI (Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis) to major in biology on a pre-physical therapy track."

Blizzard prepares for 'May Mayhem'

BY MALLORY ALLEN
 CONTRIBUTING WRITER

GREEN BAY – The Green Bay Blizzard is set to host three home games at the Resch Center in a 16-day span — May 5, 13 and 20 — an experience dubbed "May Mayhem" by the organization.

"It's definitely stressful, but really exciting too. We're moving from the laser show into the post-game concert into the 20th season celebration. There's been a ton of work and planning in our front office to make this all happen," said Blizzard Director of Sales Ryan Hopson. "And it's wild because once May is over, we'll only have one home game to go."

The basics

Founded in 2003, the Green Bay Blizzard is a member of the Indoor Football League (IFL).

Similar to the traditional style of football most fans are used to, the 50-yard field and other rules regarding formations and scoring that are distinctive to the IFL make for fast-paced, high-scoring, electrifying back-and-forth contests.

Every Blizzard home game has a theme, and along with that comes a variety of fun giveaways, promotions and/or food and beverage specials for attendees to enjoy.

Players run through a "fan tunnel" comprised of area school groups and clubs during pre-game introductions, halftime performances feature youth sports teams, dancers or bands and kids participate in games and challenges on the field during timeouts.

At the end of every game, fans are invited onto the field for the "Fifth Quarter" to take pictures with and get autographs from Blizzard players and coaches.

"Blizzard football is the best kept secret in Green Bay," said Selena Cashman, who manages the team's social media and community relations. "Affordable family fun, entertainment, football — you name it, we have it. You aren't just getting a football game, but a full-on show."

May Mayhem

Kickstarting the team's busy month is "Kids Night" (May 5, 6:05 p.m.) in which children ages 12 and younger can attend the Blizzard game for free with the purchase of an adult ticket.

Local teachers will "Dash 4 Cash" to win money for their schools at halftime, and Cinco de Mayo food and beverage specials will be available.

After the game, fans will be treated to a special 20th season edition of the Blizzard's annual laser-light show.

"I can't wait to see the laser show," Cashman said. "We first did it during the 2019 season and somehow, it gets even better every year. This year's laser show is going to be epic."

One week later (May 13, 3:05 p.m.) is the team's yearly "Faith & Family Day" featuring a post-game concert from Christian singer-songwriter Micah Tyler.

"All the May games are going to be great, but personally, I'm most excited about our Faith & Family Day," Hopson said. "I'm really looking forward to seeing Micah Tyler perform after the game."

Wrapping up "May Mayhem" is the Blizzard's "20th Season Celebration" (May 20, 6:05 p.m.) which will commemorate the Green Bay Blizzard franchise's 20th birthday.

Blizzard alumni and staff from past years are set to return in honor of the team's milestone season.

Since the Blizzard's first season took place in 2003, the first 2,003 fans in the doors for the game will receive a free doughnut and an exclusive 20th season trucker hat.

A career fair will be set up in the Resch Center concourse prior to the game, spotlighting job opportunities with businesses who are partners of the Green Bay Blizzard.

Join in

"Between all the themes, promotions, giveaways, special events and opportunities for fans to engage with the players, Blizzard games are about so much more than just football," Cashman said. "It's about coming together with friends and family and connecting as one big community."

Hopson added that May Mayhem provides the perfect opportunity for people who have never experienced a Blizzard football game to give it a go.

"I dare you to try it out and not like it. Come to one of our games in May, or better yet, come to all three. We've got some amazing things planned and it's crazy affordable. Trust me, you don't want to miss out on all the fun."

Millard joins Green Bay Athletics

BY PRESS TIMES SPORTS

GREEN BAY – UW-Green Bay Athletics has announced Steven Millard as its new associate Athletic Director for Finance & Human Resources, the university announced earlier this week.

"We are excited to welcome Steve to the university," UW-Green Bay Director of Athletics Josh Moon said.

"He has a great background in the budget and planning area and has a true passion for college athletics. Steve has a very positive and welcoming personality and will be a great fit in our department."

A 2005 graduate of Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant, Millard recently spent time as a controller for Delaware North Sportservice in Green Bay.

Millard will be responsible for the development, preparation, execution and management of the athletic department's annual operating budget.

He will also serve as the department's liaison for human resources, finances and business operations.

"I look forward to being part of an already outstanding team at Green Bay," Millard commented.

Green Bay volleyball is Bobby Fong Award recipient

BY GREEN BAY PHOENIX ATHLETICS

INDIANAPOLIS, IND. – Green Bay volleyball has been named this year's recipient of the Horizon League's Bobby Fong Award, the Horizon League announced April 13.

Phoenix Volleyball is involved with numerous community and campus initiatives, including the Green Bay Optimist Club, UWGB's 50 Years of Title IX Celebration, the Alzheimer's Association and the Greater Green Bay YMCA.

The accolade is named after the late Dr. Bobby Fong, who served on the Horizon League Board of Directors from 2001-2011.

It represents three League values: integrity, respect, and stewardship.

"The Green Bay volleyball program clearly personifies the Horizon League's values of integrity, respect, and stewardship," Horizon League Commissioner Julie Roe Lach said. "The team has taken incredible initiative and really stepped into a leadership role on campus and in the community. From their work with the Alzheimer's Association bringing awareness to the disease and supporting fundraising efforts, the GB Optimist Club going into the schools and inspiring young children to read, supporting YMCA camps for underprivileged youth to then playing a leadership role in the campus' 50 Years of Title IX Celebration, this team is amazing. Their commitment to using sport as a powerful platform to positively impact those around them honors President Fong's legacy."

"This award is a testament to the amazing work our volleyball coaches and student-athletes are doing each and every day," said UW-Green Bay Director of Athletics Josh Moon. "Green Bay Volleyball is a positive light to this community and we couldn't be more proud of them in receiving this prestigious honor."

Green Bay volleyball worked with the Alzheimer's Association for years, highlighted by raising more than $8,000 at an Attacking Alzheimer's volleyball match this year and volunteering at the Walk to End Alzheimer's.

The team helped raise awareness for the cause through a video with player interviews and also chalked the route and helped with face painting for children attending the walk.

The Phoenix worked with the Green Bay Optimist Club to bring the National Dictionary Project to Green Bay.

The goal of the project is to provide students with their own personal dictionaries to assist them in becoming active readers.

Volleyball student-athletes spoke to each third grade class in at-risk schools in Green Bay, personally showing the students how to use the dictionaries.

The presence of college students in the classrooms also provided the students with examples of the importance of education and learning.

The program also supported the new UWGB Institute for Women's Leadership this year.

The team attended the organization's inaugural event and participated in a forum with more than 300 community members.

Additionally, team members participated on the campus committee planning the 50 Years of Title IX Celebration.

Phoenix student-athletes helped with videos and the communication plan for the celebration. Team captain Paalman also spoke on the "Title IX: Then and Now" panel, which drew 150 community members.

The volleyball program also worked with the Greater Green Bay YMCA to host multiple youth volleyball camps, helping promote healthy living and providing an example of college student-athletes as role models.

The team's partnership has helped to grow the YMCA's youth recreation volleyball programs in the community.

"I'm so proud of the collective effort from our program to be leaders at our university and in our community, not only as athletes but as well-rounded students and active citizens," Tiffany Paalman, a volleyball team captain said. "Our participation in multiple community service efforts is incredibly rewarding as we learn the positive impact we can have on youth and the Green Bay area."

"Bobby often said that students should learn not just to make a living, but to make a life of purpose in which individual achievement was intertwined with the well-being of others," Bobby's widow Suzanne Fong said. "He believed that participation in a sport, which teaches selfless teamwork, self-discipline, and persistent striving towards common goals, was an important part of such an education. Green Bay volleyball embodies these values. Congratulations to them. Bobby would be so proud of them, as am I."

Strong pitching helps lift Ashwaubenon softball over De Pere

BY RICH PALZEWIC CONTRIBUTING WRITER

ASHWAUBENON – Behind strong pitching and a big second inning, the Ashwaubenon softball team got back to its winning ways on April 18.

Ashwaubenon pitchers struck out 14 De Pere batters in a 6-1 Fox River Classic Conference (FRCC) victory at Pioneer Park.

Jaguars starter Berritt Herr struck out 12 in her six innings of work, while Jocelyn Wirth fanned two in her inning of relief.

The Redbirds didn't help their cause by stranding nine baserunners in the final four innings of the game – including leaving the bases loaded twice.

"It was a nice bounce-back win," Ashwaubenon coach Shannon VanLaanen said. "Putting that four-spot up in the second inning was big. De Pere put some pressure on us in the fifth with a run, but we answered with a run in the bottom of the inning – that was big."

After beating Sheboygan North and Green Bay Southwest in FRCC play by a combined 29-1 margin, the Jaguars (4-3 overall, 3-1 FRCC) lost to Green Bay Preble on April 14, 8-0.

"We got good contributions throughout the lineup – it wasn't just the top of the order," VanLaanen said.

Ashwaubenon used four hits and an error in the second inning to jump ahead 4-0.

Liz Cleveland, Summer Way and Ellie Justman collected singles, while Liz Witt belted a double to score a run.

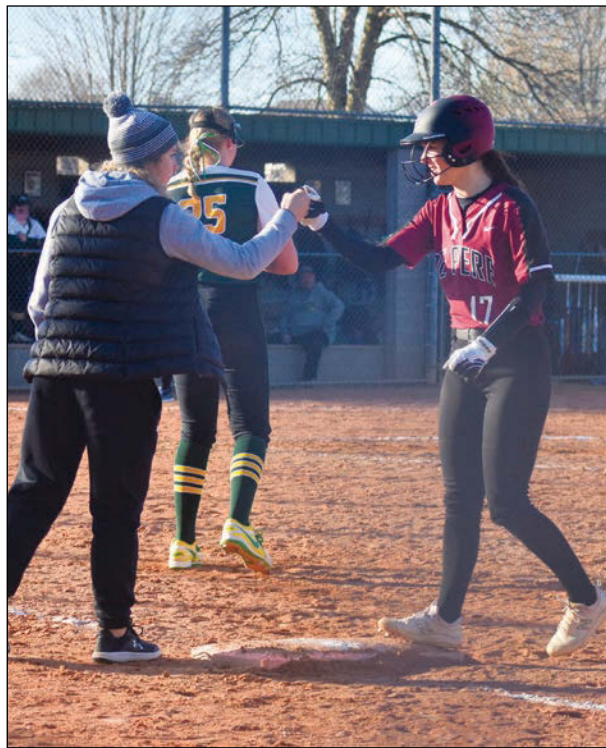

The Jaguars pushed across another run in the third after Sophia Zabel led off with a single and was eventually plated on an RBI single from Way, who was 2-for-2 on the night.

The Redbirds (4-3, 3-2), who were no-hit the first three innings, finally broke through with some offense in the fourth.

They loaded the bases with one out after Olivia Baugnet, Alexandria Stathas and Rachel Kubick all had hits.

Herr, a hard-throwing sophomore, then struck out the final two batters of the inning to end the threat.

At one point, Herr struck out six straight during the early part of the game.

In the fifth, De Pere catcher Annika Dugenske slugged a two-out homer to left-center to cut the deficit to 5-1.

After Dugenske's blast, the Redbirds got hits from Baugnet and Addison Krutz, but Herr coaxed a ground ball to end the inning.

In the bottom of the frame, Gianna Guarascio led off with a double and was knocked in two batters later on an RBI single by Cleveland, who was 2-for-3 on the night.

"We did great as a team and brought it all out today," Cleveland said. "We've been working hard in practice – we support each other, and it's a lot of fun."

De Pere threatened again in the sixth after Herr walked her first two batters of the game, and pinch hitter Ava Grant had a single.

But as she had done in three previous innings, Herr recorded the final out of the inning via strikeout.

"We've struggled to string hits together this season," De Pere coach Travis Piper said. "Tonight, we got runners on when we needed to, but we were one or two big hits away from tying that game. We've got to get the big hit."

After Herr's hot start on the mound for the Jaguars, Piper said his team settled in.

"After we saw (Herr) the first time through (the lineup), we saw the umpire was calling the inside corner," he said. "We made some adjustments at the plate, got deeper into counts and fouled some balls off – it forced (Herr) to put some balls over the zone."

The Redbirds have now lost two straight FRCC games after beginning the conference season 3-0.

De Pere won its first contests over Sheboygan North, Sheboygan South and Manitowoc by a combined 40-0 margin before dropping a 2-0 pitcher's dual to Bay Port last weekend.

Baugnet was 3-for-4 in the game to lead the Redbirds.

Guarascio had two hits for the Jaguars, while Abrielle Jacquet cracked a pinch-hit double in the sixth inning.

VanLaanen said he'd be disappointed if his squad doesn't contend for an FRCC title this season.

"That's the expectation," he said. "There are lots of good teams – five teams I think that can compete at a high level and beat anyone else on any given night. There are a lot of good young pitchers in the conference this year."

Smith knew he wanted to continue playing football.

To pay the bills, he picked up a few odds and ends jobs, while hoping to sign with an NFL team.

When he didn't get an NFL draft invite, he signed with the San Diego Strike Force – a fellow member of the Indoor Football League (IFL) – prior to the start of the 2023 season.

In late February, less than a week before training camp began, he was traded to the Blizzard.

Now in Green Bay, Smith can't think of a better place to be.

"I'm grateful to be here in Green Bay. It's a football town... people have been amazing," he said.

Smith has been a huge part of the Blizzard offense.

He has scored at least one touchdown in every game this season and has recorded several multiple-touchdown games.

But, he's not complacent with just scoring; Smith wants his game to be multifaceted.

"I try to model my game after Le'Veon Bell," he explained. "He redefined how we see a running back today and what's asked of us. You can't just run the ball exclusively anymore; you have to be able to catch the ball, run routes, pass block. [Bell] is not a running back, he's an all-purpose back. I try to embody that when I play."

And he has. He's been a reliable presence in the passing game, returns kicks on special teams and takes on the pass rush to protect his quarterback.

"Terrence is an absolute problem on the field," Blizzard Offensive Coordinator Matt Behrendt said. "His football IQ is off the charts... He is such a valuable part of this offense and is going to continue to get better with the more reps he gets."

With all this success, Smith has set big goals for himself this season.

"I would love to win Offensive Rookie of the Year... I want to lead the league in touchdowns, from any position, but especially out of all the running backs," he said.

A quiet leader, Smith has earned the respect of his teammates, coaches and Blizzard staff.

"Terrence is one of the hardest working and toughest backs I've had the pleasure to coach," Behrendt said.

Off the field, Smith has been active in the Green Bay community, making appearances at local schools and coaching kids at YMCA football clinics.

It's no surprise that Smith said, "My biggest goal is to have a nonprofit."

Reflecting on his journey, Smith is grateful for all of the "no's" that led him to where he is today.

"I really think that the man above wanted me to see things outside of football," he said.

Regardless of where his life takes him next, Smith is confident that everything will work out, knowing that "everything happens for a reason."

Momentum swings in Pulaski's favor in OT win

BY RICH PALZEWIC
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

GREEN BAY – Game two of the Fox River Classic Conference (FRCC) double-header between the Pulaski and Notre Dame Academy baseball teams was exactly the opposite of game one.

Following a 2-0 Notre Dame victory in the opener, Pulaski came back to win the nightcap in nine innings, 6-5, on April 15.

Bryce Wotruba's RBI single to right field scored Brayden Otto with the winning run in the bottom of the ninth to send the Red Raiders (3-3 overall, 3-2 FRCC) home with a split.

Wotruba

"It was a great team win with good pitching today," the sophomore Wotruba said. "It was a pretty wild game."

Wotruba said he got a fastball from Tritons pitcher Bryson Koehne on his game-winning hit.

"I was expecting a fastball, and I took it the other way," he said. "Coach (Tate McMillian) told me to stay back and drive it the other way."

In a game filled with wild momentum swings, Pulaski had to feel fortunate to have an opportunity in extra innings.

Leading 3-1 in the top of the seventh, Notre Dame (3-2, 2-2) was down to its last strike of the game before Donatello Badalamenti stroked a two-RBI single to score Christian Collins and Deuce Musial with the tying runs.

Notre Dame Academy's Landen Lozier fires a pitch early in the game against Pulaski.

A half-inning before, with that 3-1 lead, the Red Raiders had a golden opportunity to add some insurance runs after loading the bases with nobody out.

Caden Rybicki and Wotruba led off the bottom of the sixth with back-to-back walks before Logan Shultz laid down a sacrifice bunt he beat out for a hit.

After an infield popout, Michael Molthen then hit a fly ball to left field for the second out.

Rybicki, who was the runner on third base, attempted to score on the play but left a split second before the ball was caught.

On appeal, Rybicki was called out to end the inning.

After Pulaski failed to score in the bottom of the seventh, the Tritons jumped ahead 5-3 in the eighth.

After pitcher Lincoln Simons got the first two outs of the inning, Musial stroked a single and was knocked home by Avery Duncan's RBI double one batter later.

Duncan advanced to third on a throwing error on the play, and that eventually led to another run.

Landen Lozier then drew a two-out walk to put runners on the corners.

On the first pitch from Simons to Owen Wery, Lozier bolted for second and appeared to purposely trip and fall halfway to second.

After seeing this, Pulaski catcher Jacob McDonald threw to second, but this throw sailed into center field, allowing Duncan to trot home.

Things looked bleak in the bottom of the eighth for the Red Raiders after Notre Dame pitcher Aaron Heyroth recorded the first two outs.

Down to its last out, Pulaski loaded the bases on three consecutive walks from Heyroth, prompting a pitching change from Tritons' coach Jared Barker.

Molthen then hit an infield grounder that was misplayed, allowing two unearned runs to scamper home, tying the game, 5-5.

Notre Dame failed to score in the top of the ninth, setting up Wotruba's heroics in the bottom of the frame.

"It would have sucked had we lost this game," Wotruba laughed.

McMillian also said it would have been a tough way to lose a game had his team not battled back.

"In the first game, there were three hits combined — it lasted about an hour and 15 minutes," he said. "In game two, we got up 3-1 and then got too passive.

We loaded the bases with nobody out (in the sixth) and (Notre Dame) wiggled out of it — that's almost unheard of. They grabbed the momentum and went ahead."

McMillian said after the Tritons went up 5-3, he challenged his players.

"(My players seemed to be) hoping we'd win the game from Notre Dame screwing up versus being aggressive and winning the game," he said. "We had more aggressive at-bats after that and strung a rally together."

Pulaski starting pitcher Brady Wotruba, a Division III commit to Ripon College, was masterful on the mound for the first six innings.

After he allowed the first two Tritons to reach in the seventh, McMillian said "It was time to get (Brady) out of there."

"Brady missed all of his junior season with a hip labrum injury," he said. "This was his third appearance this season. This early in the season, you can see guys getting tired after 70-80 pitches, but our guys didn't seem to tire much. He was close to his pitch count, so I wanted to pull him out then so Lincoln (Simons) had a base to work with."

Wotruba struck out nine and walked two in his six-plus innings of work.

McMillian said his team will have to manufacture runs this season.

"We don't have a lot of big guys who can smack the ball around," he said. "We'll have to put pressure on the defense — hit and run, bunt and make the opposition make plays. We've got a bunch of scrappy guys. Our defense has been solid to start the season — I think we only have two errors in our first six games."

TENNIS

two matches in the fall, but started off quickly in the spring portion of its schedule.

The Green Knights won four dual matches in three days on Feb. 3-5, the last two coming in 5-4 wins over St. Mary's (Minn.) University and UW-Stevens Point.

A pair of De Pere High School graduates, junior David Vandenberg and freshman Brett Daniels, have helped spearhead the turnaround.

Vandenberg is a team-best 15-2 in singles play, while Daniels is 12-5 — all at the No. 1 singles slot.

St. Norbert's lineup features balance thanks to the performances of junior Josh Brown (8-5), freshman Brian Coulter (9-8), graduate student Anthony Michels (6-8), sophomore Joe Pellechia (5-7) and sophomore Adam Stacho (6-3), who is also a standout on the Green Knights' hockey team.

Both Vandenberg and Daniels cited the opening weekend to the spring season as a big confidence booster.

"We were able to go

4-0 and beat St. Mary's for the first time in over a decade," Vandenberg said. "The win gave us confidence in our ability to compete with some of the strongest teams in the NACC later in the season."

"I truly think the turning point in the season was when we started off 4-0 and I think we shocked a lot of people," Daniels concurred.

The Green Knights opened conference play with two wins on March 18-19 and then suffered their only loss in a 6-3 setback to three-time defending NACC champion Illinois Tech on March 25.

The loss to IIT featured three three-set singles losses and a pair of 8-6 doubles defeats.

"The boys had to get used to what it felt like to not only compete but win," Steckart said. "Surprises are turning into expectations."

St. Norbert rebounded to run the table in its last five conference matches.

The Green Knights gained a pair of big wins with a 5-4 win at Concordia University Wisconsin on April 1 and a 7-2 home victory over Wisconsin Lutheran College on April

St. Norbert then dealt MSOE its first NACC loss with a big 6-3 road win on April 8 to move into a first-place tie and into position to win the conference title.

"Winning a conference title validated the hard work put forth by each member of the team in and out of the season," Vandenberg said. "Under the coaching of John Steckart and the effort given by each member of the men's tennis team, we were able to surpass pre-season expectations."

St. Norbert now moves on to the NACC Tournament.

The Green Knights will host a semifinal dual match on April 27. A win would advance to the championship match on April 30.

The winner of the NACC Tournament receives an automatic qualifier into the NCAA Division III Tournament, which would also be a first for the Green Knights.

"I think we have a good shot to go to the NCAA Tournament," Daniels said. "Anything is possible and with this group of guys, I think we can do it."

DE PERE

Winchester said that at the beginning of the season, he and his staff addressed the No. 1 ranking but they didn't dwell on it.

"We talked about it being a nice compliment that people thought we had a good team," he said. "But we also said, 'What we accomplish in March has nothing to do with our pre-season ranking.'"

Winchester also said the perfect season "is a nice feather in our cap."

"Teams in the state were allowed to play 24 regular season games just a few years ago, so there's only been a short time for teams to finish 30-0," he said. "Having said that, it's hard to go undefeated in any division."

When asked if his De Pere squad could be considered the best boys' team in state history, Winchester said it's hard to say.

"I'd like to think we're in that conversation, but it's hard to compare teams across different eras," he said. "This team has a special place in Wisconsin state basketball history — we'll always be remembered as the first 30-0 team, and no one can take that away from us."

De Pere won 28 games by double figures in averaging more than 74 points per outing.

Its closest two games came against Wisconsin Lutheran (54-52) and Pewaukee (70-63), the Division 2 state champion.

The trio of Johnny Kinziger, junior Will Hornseth and sophomore Zach Kinziger combined to average almost 51 points per game.

Both the 6-foot-8 Hornseth and the younger Kinziger are also drawing Division I interest.

Hornseth was also named to the WBCA Division 1 All-State Team.

"We lost a few great seniors, but I'd like to think we can compete for another state title next season," Winchester said. "That's our goal, and that's the kids' goal. They understand the talent level coming back — it's extremely high. We might be a little different next season, but we have a special team coming back — the work has to be done."

As for his Coach of the Year award, Winchester deflected the praise to his team and staff.

"It's a great honor, but it starts with having talented players and a great coaching staff by my side," he said. "If you don't have talented players and a successful season, you're probably not going to be in the running for the award. I bet there are lots of coaches who do a great job with a team and go .500, but they're not getting recognition. There are a lot of things that have to align. All of the coaches put in a lot of time and helped develop these players."

Winchester, who just completed his 16th season as head coach of the Redbirds, is from Escanaba, Michigan — the third largest city in the Upper Peninsula (U.P.).

"It's neat to receive that support from the place I grew up," he said. "In August, I'll be going up there and doing a radio show with one of my former teammates. The U.P. is a close-knit community — just like Northeast Wisconsin. You might not have as many entertainment options up there, so people really love their sports in the U.P."

St. Norbert men's tennis earns first conference title

BY DAN LUKES
SNC ATHLETICS

DE PERE – Draped on the west wall of the arena within St. Norbert College's Mulva Family Fitness & Sports Center are two historical banners — each list the Green Knights' 23 sports and the years they captured conference championships.

The space underneath men's tennis has stood blank since the program started in the 1937-38 school year, until now.

With a 9-0 win over Marian University on Sunday at the Green Bay Tennis Center, the Green Knights won a share of the 2023 Northern Athletics Collegiate Conference (NACC) men's tennis championship with Illinois Institute of Technology (IIT) and Milwaukee School of Engineering (MSOE).

The title is the first for a program that had never finished higher than third in conference standings. St. Norbert wrapped up its regular season 11-6 overall and finished 6-1 in the NACC. The title comes on the heels of a 2022 season where the Green Knights went 4-8 overall. St. Norbert was then picked for fifth in the 2023 pre-season NACC poll.

John Steckart, in his first full season as the program's head coach, cited his seven-player roster's belief and commitment in themselves along with each other.

"A change in culture creating a process where we believe in our ability and face adversity head-on knowing we have each other's support," Steckart said when asked what the biggest reason for the turnaround has been. "All the credit should go to the players who have to strike a balance where their individual goals blend harmoniously with what we want to achieve as a group."

De Pere boys basketball takes home post-season hardware

De Pere head coach Brian Winchester was named AP Coach of the Year and Redbirds' senior standout John Kinziger was named WBCA co-player of the year.

DE PERE – After becoming the first 30-0 boys' team in state history, the De Pere basketball squad took home plenty of postseason hardware. Senior John Kinziger, a Division I commit to Illinois State University, was named the Wisconsin Basketball Coaches Association (WBCA) Co-Player of the Year, while Brian Winchester was named AP Coach of the Year after both helped lead the Redbirds to the WIAA Division 1 championship in March.

It was De Pere's first state title since 1934.

In the process, the Redbirds became the fifth Division 1 team since 1991 — the year the state tournament moved to divisions — to go undefeated.

"If you go back to the beginning of the season, we came in with that No. 1 (preseason) ranking,"

Winchester said. "Expectations were high, but our players did a great job of handling those expectations and thriving — we took everyone's best shot, but we stayed focused on the end goal."

Blizzard's Terrence Smith is setting goals, and meeting them

BY MARA ALLEN

GREEN BAY – "Everything happens for a reason."

For Green Bay Blizzard running back Terrence Smith, this phrase reflects the journey he has taken to get to where he is today.

Smith grew up in Mays Landing, N.J., about 45 minutes south of Philadelphia.

His cousin, NFL Hall of Famer Ty Law, won three Super Bowls with the New England Patriots.

Knowing his family ties, one would think that Smith would've started playing football at a young age.

Smith wanted to play pee-wee football; however, his mom was hesitant to let her son play so young.

In late elementary school, Smith's teacher gave students the assignment of writing down what their dreams were.

"I said my dream was to be an NFL football player," Smith explained. "I also wrote 'but I can't because my mom is crushing my dreams.'" Upon reading the as-ignment, Smith's teacher called his mom. His grandma happened to hear the phone call and finally convinced his mom to let Terrence play, one year before middle school.

Once Smith got the opportunity to play football, he never looked back.

He received his first college offer from Army West Point in the summer of 2015.

"I was extremely happy. It was very unexpected," he said.

After West Point filled all their running back spots for Smith's class, the school rescinded his offer, leaving Smith wondering what was next for him and his football career.

Eventually, Smith moved across the country, and landed at Cabrillo Community College, a Junior College near Santa Cruz, California.

After an impressive first year, he earned the opportunity to transfer to the University of San Diego, a Division 1 program.

There, he racked up 1,526 yards and 18 touchdowns over his D1 career.

Real Rewards Checking (Real Rewards) is available for consumer deposits only. Annual Percentage Yield ("APY") is accurate as of 1/1/2023. Real Rewards is a variable rate account. Your APY may change at any time after your account is opened, at the discretion of Nicolet National Bank. Real Rewards is a tiered rate product. If qualifications are met for the qualification cycle, Tier 1: The portion of your balance that is equal to or less than $15,000 will earn 3.00% APY. Tier 2: The portion of your balance that is over $15,000 will earn 0.01% APY. The APY for Tier 2 will range from 0.40% to 3.00%, depending on the balance in your account. If qualifications are not met for the qualification cycle, your entire balance will earn 0.01% APY. You must enroll in online banking and e-statements in order to qualify. Transactions required each qualification cycle: At least ten posted and cleared debit card transactions (ATM-processed transactions do not count as qualifying debit card transactions), and at least one posted and cleared direct deposit of payroll or social security. Disclosed APY assumes all interest remains on deposit. Fees and withdrawals of interest will reduce earnings and APY. All Nicolet National Bank checking accounts are subject to credit approval. Additional terms and conditions apply. See Nicoletbank.com for details. Member FDIC.
