The faces of cancer

BY RICK COHLER
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

GREEN BAY – Since 1985, the month of October has been designated as Breast Cancer Awareness month to focus attention on preventing and treating breast cancer.

Breast cancer accounts for 12.5% of all new annual cancer cases worldwide — making it the most common cancer in the world — according to the American Cancer Society.

About 13%, or one in eight, of U.S. women are going to develop invasive breast cancer during the course of their life.

Aurora BayCare Clinic and local photographer Rachael Phillips have launched “Faces of Breast Cancer” to highlight the inner beauty which still shines in the faces of women fighting the disease.

“I turned 40 in March and got my first mammogram,” Phillips said. “Being curious, I started to explore photos online and I was stunned when I saw the scars and what is left from breast cancer and as a photographer I thought I could help bring more awareness to breast cancer.

Phillips and Jessica Winkel, Business Development Manager for Bay Care Clinic, came up with a plan.

“We put a call out to local breast cancer patients,” Winkel said. “We had 10 spots on a first-come first-serve basis to participate in a program where they would get their hair and makeup done, have a portrait taken and be willing to talk about their cancer journey.”

Another 10 women were put on a waiting list and will likely have their turn next year, according to Winkel.

The profiles will be featured on the RP Photography website during October.

While acknowledging it is a difficult subject, Phillips said it has increased her awareness.

Enhancing the lives of student athletes

BY PRESS TIMES STAFF

GREEN BAY – On Sept. 6, InSideOut Initiative co-founders Joe Ehrmann and Jody Redman hosted InSideOut School Implementation Team (SIT) Training at Lambeau Field in Green Bay.

The program serves as a blueprint for change in school athletic programs.

“The SIT training is designed to guide athletic administrators and their team through the InSideOut Five-Step Pathway,” said Jody Redman, “with the goal of building a purpose-based sports culture in school athletic programs.”

“Our goal in launching the InSideOut Initiative is — and remains — to transform the ‘win-at-all-costs’ sports culture so prevalent in sports today,” said 13-year National Football League (NFL) veteran Joe Ehrmann. “Coaches and administrators who participate in our training programs gain a greater awareness of the true purpose of sports, focusing on and directing resources to making a positive impact in the lives of students.”

The initiative was piloted in Colorado and Texas in 2015.

Since then, the InSideOut Initiative has partnered with 23 NFL Teams across 20 states.

The program was launched in Wisconsin in January 2023, with funding from the NFL Foundation and the Green Bay Packers.

“The Packers are proud to support the InSideOut initiative in Wisconsin. Sports can serve as a powerful catalyst to build unity and bring people together, regardless of what the scoreboard says. Being involved in sports during childhood can help kids develop critical skills and learn valuable assist their survivors, as well as efforts within the fire service community to reduce firefighter deaths.

For participants, the reasons they take part are many.

“Just because we want to remember and never forget 9/11,” said Liz Armagost of the Vesper Volunteer Fire Department, shortly after she and two colleagues completed the stair climb course, which is the equivalent of 110 stories — the height of the fallen World Trade Center towers — on the steps of Lambeau Field. “As a department, coming to this means a lot to us.”

Armagost is a 12-year veteran of the fire department in Vesper, located near the center of Wood County.

This marked the fifth year Armagost completed the Lambeau stair climb.

She was joined by five-year department veteran Delaney Weiler, who was completing her third stair climb, and third-year firefighter Willow Eastling, who was coming off her second stair climb.

Eastling was a kindergarten student on 9/11.

“I do it because it’s an awesome charity, first of all,” said Eastling. “Second of all, it’s just very humbling to remember and to really be aware of what happened on 9/11 in this country. It’s a huge deal. Even though I was in kindergarten, I still remember when that day happened, so I think it’s important that we keep it alive and we remember it,” Eastling added.

Weiler was not yet born on 9/11, but she tries to find meaning through old news footage.

“They start the ceremony with news clips, and just hearing that gives me goose bumps,” Weiler said. “I can’t even imagine being in that situation. And I know, being my job and being a paramedic, if I were that paramedic on that day, I can’t even imagine what that must’ve been like and what that must’ve felt like, and so I really want to remember those people, even though I wasn’t alive when that happened, I still want to remember those people,” added Weiler, who works full-time as a paramedic for Lifestar Ambulance of Adams County.

The stair climb starts and finishes on the northwest end of the stadium and encompasses one full lap of the Lambeau Field steps.

Climb start times are implemented in waves, beginning at 9 a.m.

Waves are filled on a first-come first-served basis and are assigned by Pierce Manufacturing based on registration date and time.

Each wave consists of 343 climbers, a tribute to the 343 firefighters who gave their lives during the tragic events at the World Trade Center on Sept. 11, 2001.

Each climber is given a badge with the name and photograph of one of the fallen firefighters to symbolically complete the climb on their behalf.

At the equivalent of the 78th floor of the World Trade Center towers, which is the highest floor firefighters reached on 9/11, each climber rings a fire bell in honor of the fallen firefighter on their badge.

The stair climb is not a timed race and participants can climb to any desired level.

Depending on the number of climbers and the fitness level of each climber, the climb takes anywhere from 45 minutes to three hours to complete.

Eastling, Weiler and Armagost did it in less than an hour, a new record for the trio.

Another number the group hopes to improve upon is within their ranks.

“We’re always short volunteers,” said Eastling, who also serves as the Vesper department’s treasurer. “It is really important to give back to your community. If you have any sense of wanting to give back and do a little bit more than your everyday, Vesper and all the small towns — especially rural communities — are always looking for extra volunteers,” Eastling added. “Personally, I grew up in Vesper. I was born in Vesper. I came back to the community and I was really unsure of myself. I’m so glad that I did it, but being from a small town I didn’t really consider it until later in my life, so it’s never too late.”

“And just having that sense of being a part of something bigger than yourself, like you want to help others and show compassion for people; so, it’s great to be a part of a community like that,” Armagost said.

GREEN BAY – Sept. 9 marked Green Bay’s second annual International & Community Festival, which took place at the Salvation Army Ray & Joan Kroc Corps Community Center and featured dance demonstrations, traditional storytelling and performances from various cultures, booths representing different cultural groups in the Green Bay area and a Children’s Business Fair which highlighted the businesses of young entrepreneurs, with proceeds going toward relief efforts in Maui.

Somalia, Ukraine, the Oneida Nation and the Hmong were just a few of the many cultures represented.

With a strong sense of inclusion and unity, it was a vibrant display of the various groups that make Green Bay, well, Green Bay. One of the organizers, Tim Perlewitz, said that the purpose of the festival was to “celebrate bringing people together” and to “magnify what’s already here.”

Perlewitz said the festival aimed to fill a gap in the market.

He said for years there have been many festivals put on by different cultural groups in the area, but he, along with organizer Kristine Blum, wanted a space where people could exchange their traditions and create dialogue between groups.

“One of the most rewarding parts of organizing this event,” Perlewitz said, “is seeing children and families light up and try new things.”

Both Perlewitz and Blum emphasized that one of the most important things they need to make next year’s festival even better is feedback from the community.

They noted how they want to make sure they are “reflecting the community accurately,” and want to be “actively and honestly engaged...making sure we’re not missing anything.”

The International & Community Festival has focused on the representation of the various cultures that call Green Bay home.

Prevea, HSHS restore access to patient platforms

GREEN BAY – On Sept. 12, Prevea Health, Hospital Sisters Health System (HSHS) and HSHS hospitals have successfully restored access to their EPIC platform and electronic health records platform.

The health systems had been making progress in restoring their communication and clinic/hospital systems after a “cybersecurity incident” that occurred over two weeks earlier.

On Sept. 5, the health systems announced that they had restored phone systems.

The health systems now have access to patient health records and patient-facing portals.

The roots of the Green Bay Packers

UW-Green Bay began the inaugural session of its “History of the Green Bay Packers Certificate” program on Sept. 6. The virtual, eight-week, two-hour class allows participants to “uncover the team’s storied history and get an inside look at the Packers Hall of Fame.” Over the next eight weeks, we will provide a glimpse of the class experience through Titletown 101.

The program’s first meeting started with a get-to-know session, led by Hall of Fame Curator Brent Hensel.

The 88 members from across the country got to know a little about each other, including one member from overseas — Stephen O’Brien, co-founder of the UK and Irish Packers group.

After a dive into beginnings of football, Hensel brought in Tom Pigeon who has served as a tour guide for 20 years.

“Tom honestly knows more about Packers history than just about anyone I know,” Hensel said, adding that Pigeon had been there from the start.

Pigeon took the class back to the early days.

“It was on a scale of just amateurism and local teams, and communities had their own team. They played each other; and then of course, with the high school football with East and West, that’s where a lot of the players came from in the early Packer teams,” Pigeon recalled, “because (Curly) Lambeau knew a lot of these people.

“They had to go to a more national recruiting and he was very good at that. And that started bringing players in from around the country from other pro teams, and we just kept growing from that point on.”

Games were played at the East High School stadium — City Stadium — which was made mostly of wood at the time and held 25,000 people.

“Because they had the bigger stadium there. There were great teams and of course Lambeau was at East,” Pigeon explained.

Hensel and Pigeon credited Lambeau and George Whitney Calhoun, editor at the Green Bay Press-Gazette for founding the team, adding that Calhoun’s Whitney family had a history in establishing the city of Green Bay.

“He was a guy that knew Lambeau from his high school days, and the story goes that they just met by chance one day on the streets,” Pigeon said.

“They talked about starting their own football team and that’s really how it all started. And, Lambeau wasn’t playing football at the time because he had left another game, and he was missing football. So George, knowing how much he likes football, brought up the subject of ‘why don’t we start our own team.’ And that’s really how the Packers got started.

“They had a meeting on Aug. 11, 1919, at the editorial offices of the Green Bay Press-Gazette.

“That’s considered the birth date of the team.”

They played at City Stadium for the first time on Sept. 13, 1925, in an exhibition game against the Iron Mountain All-Stars.

The stadium became the Packers’ home for 32 years.

at Notre Dame of De Pere Catholic School.

“I have had the privilege of teaching two generations of students. Many students have come back to teach at Notre Dame of De Pere Catholic School because of the solid foundation that the school gave them.

“Imagine my surprise when my former student and colleague came back and became my principal. I have had the opportunity to be at Notre Dame of De Pere Catholic School long enough to see a former student come back and teach my child.”

“Mrs. Cramer is exceptionally dedicated and exemplifies lifelong learning,” said Notre Dame of De Pere Catholic School Principal Molly Mares. “She is a teacher to all those who have the privilege to know her, not just her students. I am sure there are many of her students, including some of our current teachers, who look back on their elementary years fondly and recall the many lessons taught to them by Mrs. Cramer. She is truly remarkable.”

Cramer said that she enjoys teaching at Notre Dame of De Pere Catholic School “because of the camaraderie and family oriented atmosphere in the school. I always say ‘if you love what you are doing, then it doesn’t feel like work.’”

Meeting the needs of the community

HOWARD – A new cremation garden is being installed at St. John the Baptist Cemetery, behind its current chapel.

The cemetery committee at St. John the Baptist Cemetery said that the move is in response to the increasing popularity of cremation for interment.

One of the new additions included in the garden will be a columbarium.

Typically, columbaria are above ground structures which contain many small slots, called niches.

The columbaria being constructed at St. John the Baptist will contain 98 niches each, with each niche having the capability to hold up to two cremains.

The cemetery is also adding an urn garden, which will contain multiple two-foot-square plots, each with the capability to fit a single urn.

The columbaria being constructed at St. John the Baptist will contain 98 niches each, with each niche having the capability to hold up to two cremains. Submitted rendering

A flat marker will be available for each plot, with engraving for each marker.

Some memorial benches will also be available for purchase and will have the option for inscription.

The benches were included to keep those in mind who have loved ones interred elsewhere, but would still like a place to visit near home.

The first phase of the project, which is projected to be completed by early-to-mid November, will include the columbaria as well as the urn garden.

“We just wanted to do a better job in terms of treating [the cremation] part of the interment population,” said Gary Lewins. “Up until the current time, [St. John the Baptist] cemetery only had the capability to offer full body plots.”

As cremations become more and more common — “over 50% of interments are cremations” Lewins said — it was important to the cemetery committee that they change to meet the needs of the community.

While many people who go the cremation route explore options such as jewelry or displaying an urn on a mantel at home, Lewins explains that “a lot of people don’t realize, until they go through the grieving process, that it’s nice to have a place to go to see that person.”

The addition to the cemetery will give the loved ones of those who choose cremation for interment a place to visit similar to full body plots.

The popularity of cremation is expected to continue increasing over the years and is overtaking full-body burial.

According to National Funeral Directors Association 2022 Cremation and Burial Report, the 2022 cremation rate was projected at 59.3% and the burial rate was at 35.7%.

GBAPS board to consider leaving Leonardo da Vinci School at current location

GREEN BAY – The Green Bay Area Public School Board (GBAPS) will consider leaving Leonardo da Vinci School for Gifted Learners at its current location after hearing a recommendation from district staff presented by GBAPS Superintendent Sr. Claude Tiller, Jr. at the board's Sept. 11 meeting.

Plans originally called for moving Leonardo da Vinci students to Webster Elementary.

"Criteria of the resulting plan should respect recent investments and prioritize the utilizations of the newest facilities. So, that was one, we respected that they have been a recent investment in da Vinci and a move to Webster elementary would require additional investments into Webster School," Tiller explained.

One of the schools marked for closing – Leonardo da Vinci – would be relocated to Webster as that school has 23% more square footage and is one of the oldest buildings in the district, with the original portion constructed in 1929. Kris Leonhardt photo

"Another key point is the resulting plan should target resulting operational costs Fund 10 by 10%. Moving the da Vinci to Webster does not create any short- or long-term savings.

"And our last key point is any boundary revisions are associated with the proposed school consolidation should as much as possible minimize change for the Green Bay Area students, families and district operations as opposed to what was presented.

"Since Leonardo da Vinci is a school with no boundaries, keeping da Vinci in the future task force efforts in boundary study only provided long-term uncertainty for the da Vinci students, staff and families, which seemed unnecessary.

He said that "any change to DaVinci would not serve the district's overall goals of addressing aging facilities, declining enrollment and projected budget deficits."

Recommendations for the district's 4K-9 facilities resolution related to the Facility Master Planning Task Force called for the closure of Elmore Elementary School, Beaumont Elementary School, Doty Elementary School, Washington Middle School and Leonardo da Vinci School, along with the modification of McAuliffe Elementary School, Langlade Elementary School and Webster Elementary School.

The board will vote on the matter at their Sept. 25 board meeting.

GREEN BAY – Residents of the Green Bay community and surrounding areas will be able to receive free dental services at ForwardDental on Friday, Oct. 6, as part of Free Dentistry Day, a day dedicated to providing free dental care to Americans without dental insurance.

"We understand that many people in our community and across the nation haven't been to the dentist for a long period of time. Some don't understand the importance of

MMC acquires Peshtigo Times

BY MMC STAFF

GREEN BAY – Multi Media Channels (MMC) has acquired the Peshtigo Times and Times Saver.

"We are excited to assume Chuck Gardon's stewardship of these publications," said MMC CEO Patrick Wood.

"We intend to strengthen and enrich the community by continuing to provide strong reporting on local news and sports and powerful advertising options for retailers and employers. It is our intention to sustain Chuck's family legacy through the years to come by maintaining, and if possible exceeding, the high standards of journalistic integrity and customer service they set during their tenure."

The Peshtigo Times can be traced back to 1867, when it was known as the Peshtigo Herald and was the first weekly newspaper in Peshtigo.

The Herald was succeeded by the Peshtigo Argus, which was then renamed the Peshtigo Times in 1894.

The publication was purchased by Leo J. Pesch Sr. in 1929, whose family continued operations through the next two generations.

"I want to thank all of our loyal readers, advertisers and particularly our employees since 1929 who have helped us to this point," Gardon said.

"I am pleased to be turning over this newspaper to the Wood family, which has roots in Marinette County and has built a reputation for printing accurate and unbiased information while building its network of respected local newspapers in various parts of Wisconsin."

MMC began its work in community newspaper publishing in Denmark, Wis., in 1953.

Under the leadership of its founder, Frank Wood, the business expanded into other markets.

Today, the company remains in the Wood family, owned and operated by both family members and employees, publishing 33 weekly and four monthly print publications and 27 digital channels that serve the central, northern and eastern regions of Wisconsin.

"Yesterday, one of the ladies did tear up a lot talking about her children, so it definitely has been emotional but it has opened my eyes," she said. "I'm hoping that the women we interview throughout the month are more accepting of their bodies and giving them an outlet to express their fears, celebrate what they have overcome. I ask them what their goals looking forward and I've heard some awesome and inspiring things like traveling more, learning to appreciate my family more and keep growing."

Korissa Diehl of Green Bay had her styling done on Thursday, Sept. 7.

"When you go through cancer it's ugly," she said. "You lose your hair, you go through treatment, you're not feeling good then all of sudden you get to come to an event like this! You get pampered a little bit, they do your hair and makeup. It shows a little bit of the beauty in all of the ugly you go through. You need to hang on to that beauty. This whole event has, for me, meant empowerment, it means hope and bringing awareness to others. It's just an amazing event. I think that cancer patients are the strongest people I will ever know and I think that giving opportunities to see our stories is so incredibly important to bring that awareness. Having a strong medical team like Aurora BayCare is everything in your treatment so I'm just incredibly thankful to be here."

Diehl said people think that once treatment is over the journey is done, but said it's almost like chapter No. 2.

"I am still doing hormone treatments and will be on them for the next 10 years," she continued. "I will be having reconstructive surgery next week and I go in about every six weeks as they watch me pretty closely; but I am living life and I am thankful to be here."

Phillips said the photo shoot helps the women build confidence.

"They are showing me their scars and I appreciate their opening up to me about that and honestly I hope it helps them overcome their struggles," she added.

UW-Green Bay a top school for LGBTQ+ students

GREEN BAY – UW-Green Bay has been named one of the top 30 schools in the country for LGBTQ+ students as a part of Campus Pride's "Best of the Best" list.

UW-Green Bay has been included on this list for the past consecutive nine years for its inclusive campus community.

In order to receive this designation, UW-Green Bay has achieved five out of five stars on the Campus Pride Index (CPI) — a national benchmarking tool taking into account factors such as LGBTQ-friendly policies, programs, housing, campus safety, academics, student life and recruitment and retention efforts..

"The UW-Green Bay community recognizes the positive impact LGBTQIA2S+ students, employees and their allies have on the personal growth and academic success of all students on each of the four campuses," said Stacie Christian, assistant vice chancellor of inclusive excellence and interim director of the Multicultural Resource Center at UW-Green Bay. "We are grateful to each of the individuals in our campus communities who work together to create a positive and supportive campus climate."

The Pride Center's mission for all four of the UW-Green Bay campus locations is to identify and respond to the concerns and needs of LGBTQ+ students, faculty, staff and their allies while also providing high-quality support services that contribute to their academic and personal growth and offering a safe, supportive and welcoming environment.

"We are so excited to have our campus named to the 'Best of the Best' list that honors that top 30 campuses in the country, who are striving to make their campuses welcoming and inclusive for all students," said Pride Center Director Nicole Kurth. "It really takes the entire campus community working together at our four locations to make this a welcoming space for all."

Brush collection Sept. 18-21

ALLOUEZ – Brush will be collected for Allouez residents on their garbage day during the week of Sept. 18-21.

Brush includes trimmings from shrubs and trees and stalks from garden plants, but not tree roots or root balls.

Brush should be placed on the curb by 6 a.m. on garbage collection day to ensure pickup.

Brush stacks must not exceed eight feet in length and/or 6 feet in depth, should be aligned parallel to the curb (not obstructing the street or sidewalk) and be four feet away from any structure including mailboxes, trees, cars, power poles and hydrants.

Loose leaves, grass or other garden waste cannot be comingled with brush. If brush is comingled with yard waste, it will not be picked up.

Brush can also be brought by the resident to the LeBrun Yard Waste Site, located on Le Brun Street and open 24/7.

Leap for Learning nominations open

BROWN COUNTY – The Green Bay Packers and UScellular have teamed up for the Leap for Learning program to help identify and award a Wisconsin K-12 school with a $20,000 technology makeover to improve STEM education.

Technology is a vital part of the educational experience for students, providing them with easy-to-access information, accelerated learning and fun opportunities to practice what they learn, but many schools delay updating their classroom technology because of budget constraints, management challenges and time constraints.

Educators, administrators and parents are invited to nominate a Wisconsin-based K-12 school online at packers.com/LeapforLearning through Oct. 23.

A panel of judges will review all nominations and select one school to receive the award.

"We are proud to once again join UScellular for the Leap for Learning program to help a Wisconsin K-12 school receive a much-needed technology makeover," said Packers Vice President of Sales and Business Development Craig Benzel. "It's important to the Packers to support youth and education throughout Wisconsin and ensure students have access to the resources they need to learn and grow."

"Tech upgrades are critical for students to grow and thrive, not just academically, but socially and emotionally as well," said Marlon Bailey, director of sales for UScellular in Wisconsin and N. Illinois. "UScellular cares deeply about our local communities and it's through programs like Leap for Learning that we are proud to support our youth and future leaders in STEM."

Schneider named General Mills' Carrier of the Year

GREEN BAY – Schneider National, Inc. has been named as General Mills' Platinum Carrier of the Year for the fifth consecutive year.

Each year, General Mills selects the carrier that best exemplifies excellence, commitment to collaboration and commitment, which help to advance General Mills' business and customer engagement.

"What an honor to receive this award," said Schneider Chief Commercial Officer Erin Van Zeeland. "This recognition is a testament to the superior experience we continue to provide to General Mills and would not have been possible without the support and dedication from teams across the organization."

The Platinum Carrier of the Year Award recognizes carriers who demonstrate a willingness to work together with General Mills on ongoing, impactful initiatives while providing a high level of engagement across all aspects of the business on a day-to-day basis.

lessons about teamwork, accountability and dedication. The Packers are committed to encouraging participation in sports to help young people discover more about themselves, their teammates and the world around them," Packers President/CEO Mark Murphy said during its launch.

Over 150 coaches, athletic directors and school administrators participated in the training program, developing a "Transformational Purpose Statement" during the session held Sept. 6 at Lambeau Field.

The InSideOut Initiative is a four-phase implementation process designed to "reclaim the educational purpose of athletics in the school communities" through "first systems-level intervention to prioritize the social-emotional and character development of student-athletes in high school athletics."

An InSideOut School Implementation Team consists of the school's athletic administrator, the head football coach or other male coach of influence, a female head coach of influence and an additional school administrator or leader.

In addition to the Packers and NFL Foundation, the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association (WIAA) collaborated on the training event.

"We are excited to be a partner along with the Green Bay Packers and other education organizations by continuing to offer the InSideOut Initiative to our member schools," WIAA Executive Director Stephanie Hauser said. "We believe the foundation of the InSideOut Initiative supports the goals of education-based athletics and will enhance the positive experiences that high school sports provide."

"Equipping our schools with the tools and training needed to enhance the lives of their student athletes will not only benefit their athletic programs, but their communities as well through InSideOut's Purpose-Based approach," added Packers football outreach manager Ryan Fencl.

Allouez Village Board approves purchase of park surveillance cameras

BY JANELLE FISHER
CITY PAGES EDITOR

ALLOUEZ – At its Sept. 5 meeting, the Allouez Village Board approved a bid from Eagle Tech Corp for the purchase and installation of 56 surveillance cameras for the village's parks.

The proposal, totaling $45,910, includes security camera for seven locations within the village, including three at Eastlawn Park, 17 at Green Isle Park, three at Kiwanis Park, three at Langlade Park, five at Optimist Park, 11 at PHM-Webster Park, five at Riverview Park and eight at Lebrun Yard Waste Site.

Two of the cameras installed at Lebrun Yard Waste Site will have the ability to view license plates.

Allouez Director of Parks, Recreation and Forestry Chris Clark said that although there isn't necessarily an additional cost associated with cameras that can view license plates, there hasn't been a need for them in other locations.

"We haven't felt that we've needed those to view a specific vehicle or anything like that, and it would be pretty difficult at a park site versus at the yard waste site where there is one entry in and one entry out," he said. "We haven't had a situation at a park that we felt that we needed to have that information."

Board members also requested that village staff ensure that adequate signage will be placed in each park to make visitors aware of the cameras.

"I think if we're doing that at the parks, we should probably have it posted at entrances as well, just to make sure that we're being transparent that those things are going to be placed," one board member said.

The project will be funded using a portion of the village's remaining American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funds.

A motion to approve the use of $45,910, plus an additional $8,000 allowance for contingencies, of ARPA funding for the purchase and installation of the cameras was approved unanimously by the board.

PUBLISHER'S LETTER

Why Do We Fall in Love?

Dear Reader,

Humans fall in love due to a combination of biological, psychological, and social factors. Love is a complex emotion that helps form strong emotional connections, fostering relationships and bonding between individuals.

It involves the release of various hormones, such as dopamine, oxytocin, and serotonin, which contribute to feelings of pleasure, attachment, and intimacy. Personal experiences, cultural influences, and shared interests also play a significant role in shaping how and why people fall in love.

But falling in love, really, was it the first dance, the first kiss, the first time a glance with a smile went our way? And then what.

Does love promise a wonderful world together?

Does love promise a beautiful set of children?

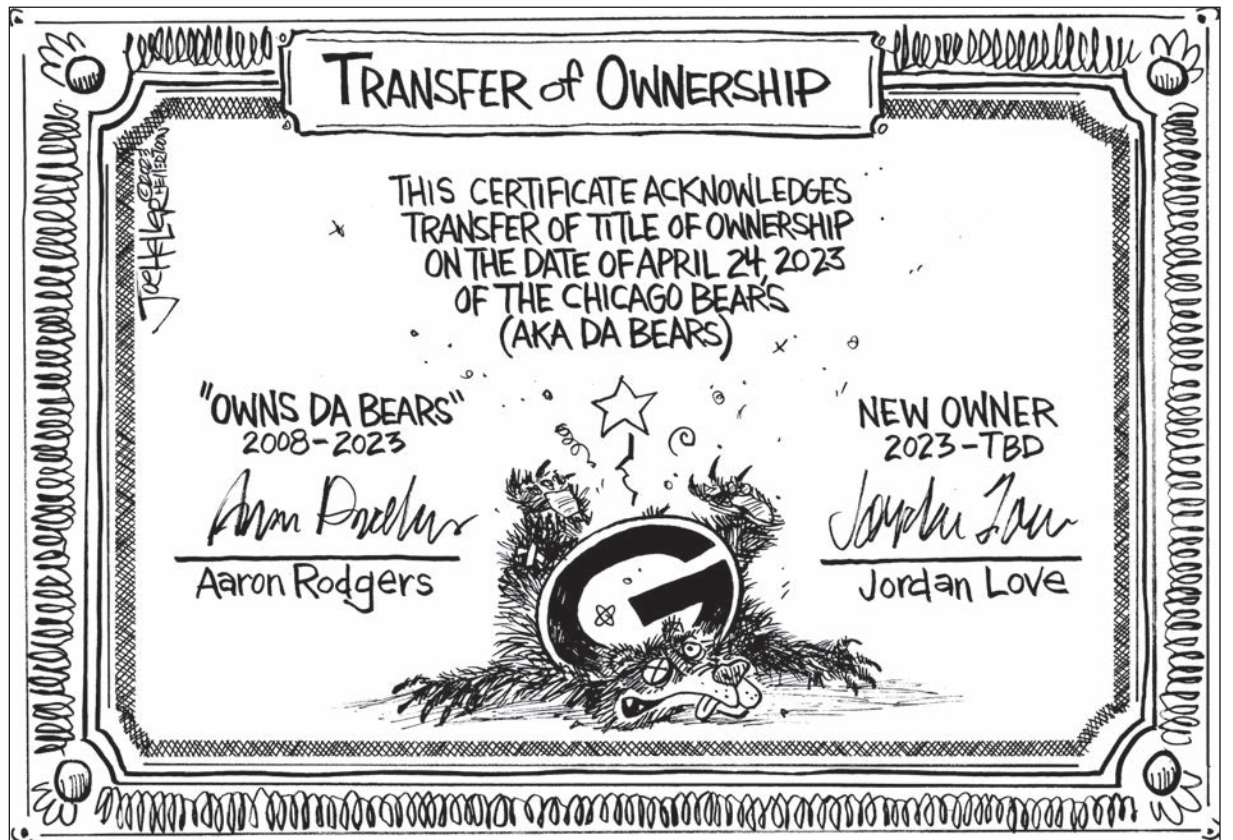

Does love promise every day together spent as a holiday?

Does love promise a together forever and hereafter?

These are not promised, only hoped for.

Between the bins

It's not recycling and it's not trash. What is it?

BY MARK WALTER
BROWN COUNTY
RESOURCE RECOVERY
BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT MANAGER

Since we were young, we have been taught that our waste either goes into the recycling bin or the trash bin — two seemingly simple categories for disposal of our waste.

However, these two categories don't cover it all; there are wastes that fall "between the bins."

Waste that shouldn't go to a landfill and can't be placed in curbside recycling include new products and technological devices that can cause big problems when disposed of in the wrong way.

Improper disposal of batteries and electronic devices containing batteries are an especially big problem with too many people making the wrong decision.

Batteries and the devices containing them can be easily damaged and start fires.

Even the smallest button battery has the potential to cause damage.

There has been an alarming increase in the frequency of battery fires at recycling facilities and landfills throughout Wisconsin as well as nationally.

The cause of these fires is often household batteries and battery-containing devices being placed in curbside recycling and trash bins that then become damaged, short circuit or overheat. These fires are causing thousands, sometimes millions of dollars in damage to machinery and facilities, posing a major safety threat to employees, and have resulted in region-wide disruptions in waste collection services to the public.

How do you know if a device has a battery?

If it can run on its own without being connected to an outlet or if the device needs to be recharged, it has a battery.

Cellphones, laptops, power tools, portable speakers, wireless headphones, robot vacuums, power banks and even your cordless toothbrush all have internal batteries.

The Brown County Hazardous Material Recovery facility is here to help with disposal decisions about your household batteries and battery devices.

We'll even make it easy for you.

Walter

That's because the Brown County Hazardous Material Recovery facility is now accepting household batteries and battery containing devices for free from Brown County residents.

You can also check local retailers to see if any battery or electronic take-back programs are offered.

Hazardous waste facilities ensure that dangerous materials stay out of landfills and material recovery facilities, helping reduce the fire danger as well as conserving the critical minerals essential for new battery production.

For Brown County residents, please visit the Hazardous Material Recovery facility at 2561 South Broadway to dispose of hazardous waste and materials.

The facility's drive-up window is open on Tuesdays, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., and Thursdays, noon to 6 p.m.

For more information on hazardous waste and disposal, visit www.browncountyrecycling.org.

Businesses waste is welcomed, by appointment, for a fee.

Family Services highlights Suicide Awareness Month

FROM FAMILY SERVICES OF NORTHEAST WISCONSIN

According to data from the Wisconsin Department of Health Services, suicide rates among Wisconsin residents increased by 32% from 2000 to 2020.

In 2020, 861 Wisconsin residents died by suicide, making suicide the 10th leading cause of death in the state.

Additionally, it is estimated one suicide death affects as many as 135 other individuals, including family, friends, coworkers professionals.

Family Services of Northeast Wisconsin provides a number of programs that help confront this issue by providing vital resources and assistance to those who need it most.

The Crisis Center is a program of Family Services that provides 24/7 support to those living within Brown County.

In 2022, the Crisis Center received over 19,000 calls, with 79% of those being related to suicide.

Residents of Brown County in need of help can directly contact the Crisis Center Hotline at (920) 436-8888.

Family Services of Northeast Wisconsin also houses and operates the 988 Wisconsin Lifeline as part of the National 988 Suicide and Crisis Helpline.

Available 24/7, this confidential resource provides phone, text, and chat support, connecting individuals with trained counselors to assist in crisis intervention.

"Every day, there are people around us who are struggling with thoughts of suicide and you may not know it just by looking at them," says Jenny Younk, director of Crisis Center. "We need to be willing to ask if someone is thinking about suicide and then listen to the answer. As hard as it may be to hear, it can be all the more difficult for people to admit, and by opening that door, you could help save a life."

Family Services of Northeast Wisconsin is a member of the Brown County Coalition for Suicide Prevention.

This coalition unites various organizations, including local hospitals, law enforcement, school districts, mental wellness agencies and public health departments in effort to promote awareness of suicide as a serious and preventable public health problem.

Through education, they aim to decrease the stigma associated with mental health and suicide.

Applications open for student concerto competition

By City Pages Staff

Northeast Wisconsin students up to age 22 are invited to submit an application for the Miroslav Pansky Memorial Concerto Competition.

The competition, held biennially, was established in 2008 as a tribute to Miroslav Pansky, who was the founder and artistic director of the Pamiro Opera Company and served as the conductor of the Green Bay Symphony Orchestra for 23 years before he passed away in October 2007.

The board of directors for the Civic Symphony of Green Bay chose this event to honor Pansky's memory, taking notice of the inspiration and encouragement he provided to children and young people through his work with youth orchestras.

Sponsored by the Civic Symphony of Green Bay, the competition will be held at UW-Green Bay on Saturday, Oct. 21.

High school and college-age applicants will be judged separately, with the first-place winner from each age group performing with the orchestra at its "Musician's Journey: Beginner to Adult" concert in February.

First- and second-place winners from each age group will also receive a cash award.

To audition, each applicant must perform a selection from the standard repertoire, available with published orchestral accompaniment. Vocal and instrumental soloists are encouraged to apply.

STRONG UNRELENTING SPIRITS

Artist displays Ho-Chunk culture through portraits and beadwork

By Josephine Hinderman
Contributing Writer

▲ Mary Funmaker, 2015, by Tom Jones

At an opening reception Sept. 8, newARTSpace in De Pere welcomed the work of Tom Jones, an artist that's a member of the Ho-Chunk nation, for exhibition.

Jones is an artist that has been "making art for and about the Ho-Chunk nation" for over two decades, ever since he graduated from Columbia College of Art in Chicago, and all across the country his work has been displayed, from the Minneapolis Institute of Art in Minnesota to the National Gallery of Art in Washington D.C. to the Denver Museum of Art in Colorado, says a press release from newARTSpace.

Jones is also a professor of Photography at the UW-Madison, correlating with the primary medium of his works: photography.

Through the medium of photography and beadwork, Jones brings his exhibition "Strong Unrelenting Spirits" to the Green Bay area.

Set against black backdrops, creating vivid, eye-catching contrasts, Jones' collection features powerful, large-scale portraits of Ho-Chunk individuals adorned in native dress, jewelry and accessories, and surrounded by intricate beadwork that are displayed in patterns that feel both geometric and naturally flowing.

Said Jones in an interview with the Milwaukee Art Museum, "The inspiration came out of a visit I had with my mother, who took me [when I was in third grade] to see a Sioux medicine man... We went into this [small building] and everyone was sitting around the edges along the walls, and they had turned all the lights off.

"The Sioux originally came from the Ho-Chunk people, and so my mother said that she could understand what they were saying [as the women started singing], and what they were saying [was] that they were asking the spirits to come in. And so as I started singing, all these orbs of light started floating around the room. So, of course I got scared, [as kids do], but that experience kind of stuck with me for a long time."

With this exhibition, Jones wishes to tell the story of Ho-Chunk identity and pride in culture, as well as history, cultural appropriation, and the presence of Native American people in the U.S., which are stories told through the very title of his exhibition: "Strong Unrelenting Spirits."

"I was trying to figure out [the collection's title] forever, like 'what do I call this?'... [Then] I took my mother to see [a throat singer], and my mother had said, afterwards, 'There was strong unrelenting spirits there,' and I was like, 'That's my title for it!'" Jones said.

In regard to both the title and the use of the unique, white-beaded patterns on his portraits, Jones explained, "It represents the fact that... our people are being looked over by [our ancestors], that's why I only use white beads: [they're] supposed to represent those spirits that are kind of like an aura around them."

He goes on to describe how Bella Falcon, a portrait featuring a young Ho-Chunk woman surrounded by Jones' trademark white beadwork, was the first time he represented those auras.

"I started doing beadwork when I was [between second or third grade], my mother took me and my whole family to learn from somebody. So I started then, and then from then on I kind of just taught myself," he said. "While expressing messages about Native identity and cultures, there are also individual identities and cultures expressed within each portrait, making them all individualistic and unique from one another. When you're looking at some of these people in their portraits, you're kind of able to tell what community or clan they're coming from."

Once again Jones draws back to Bella Falcon, remarking how she wears a pin distinct to the Native American Church, also known as the Peyote religion or Peyotism, one of the most widespread Indigenous religious movements in the United States, and a dress that was the typical day-to-day dress for Indigenous women. "When I'm designing a piece, I generally look at them and what they're wearing, and try to incorporate that [into the portrait]," he said.

"They say you always have to have a good mind and good thoughts when you're beading because you're generally beading for somebody, and so it's kind of that idea that the piece gets infused with how your emotions are."

Jones' work will be on display at the newsARTSpace in De Pere at 124 North Broadway from Sept. 8-Oct. 15 to view and engage with.

There is no admission cost, and the newARTSpace team expressed an eagerness for anyone and everyone to attend and engage with Jones' work.

For more information about Jones' work or other upcoming newsARTSpace events and exhibitions, visit their website at newartspace124.com or contact art@newartspace124.com. CP

Rent to own in the new economy

Dear Monty

BY RICHARD MONTGOMERY
SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

DEAR MONTY,

We want a rent-to-own agreement on a house we jointly own with my husband's mother.

The place is free and clear. We want to buy her out in about two years.

What are both parties' legal obligations in a rent-to-own situation?

Do we have to give her a down payment? How will we handle real estate taxes?

What fees do we have to pay her monthly?

MONTY'S ANSWER:

The U.S. economy appears resilient.

According to many business media outlets, unemployment and inflation are down, and consumers have more in the bank than before COVID-19.

This writer believes that rent-to-own will become more popular as interest rates rise, as it may compete favorably with new construction, which is booming.

Is a down payment necessary?

As you already are a partial owner, you may not need an additional down payment.

You likely know the costs associated with owning the home.

These costs include real estate taxes, special assessments by the municipality, property insurance, utilities and maintenance and repairs.

You can negotiate the range of market rental costs.

For example, if you paid all the ownership costs, how will that compare to a fair market rent or some higher number for a down payment set aside in a rent-to-own lease?

The potential rent-to-own risk

The rental amount includes an option fee and an agreed-upon amount of money set aside or credited by the seller for the buyer to accumulate a down payment over a period.

If the tenant/buyer exercises the option and purchases the home, the option fee and the accumulated set-aside charge apply against the fixed purchase price.

If the buyer does not exercise the option, the rent-to-own provisions provide a non-refundable set-aside and option fee.

A regular lease with an option to buy

Because you already own an interest in the house, it is unclear if there may be other options instead of rent to own.

Your percentage interest in the home is vague, but a 30% interest in a $200,000 free and clear house is $60,000.

That is a substantial equity for a down payment. Can you support a $140,000 mortgage?

Consider a simple option to buy for a specified price on a specific date.

Lenders have different ideas about how they want to structure the agreement.

Visit with several independent mortgage lenders before you decide which route to take.

The legal obligations you asked about will be in the contract between you, your husband, and your mother-in-law.

When you agree, seek a real estate attorney to draft the documents.

Challenge your thinking

It also needs to be clarified why you believe a rent-to-own agreement is the best method.

Having poor credit or no job is one reason a home seeker will enter a rent-to-own agreement.

When dealing with mom, rather than an outside entity, there may not be a non-refundable set-aside and option fee.

Who first introduced you to soccer?

My dad and older brother Sam. My dad was my coach when I was younger, and I enjoyed watching my brother Sam play soccer growing up. My mom is great, too.

What was your favorite part about soccer over any other sport?

In soccer there is constant action, and I love the excitement and challenge of helping my team score goals.

What is your least favorite part about the sport?

My least favorite thing about soccer is that regular season games can end in a draw.

Do you prefer day games or night games under the lights?

Night games under the lights.

What made you gravitate towards your position as a forward instead of playing somewhere else?

I love getting assists and scoring goals!

What is the best advice you have ever gotten from a coach or parent about your sport?

Sacrifice for success.

What has been your most memorable experience in high school

Dorchester

sports so far?

Going to state for soccer my freshman and sophomore year was fun, but my most memorable experience in high school sports so far has to be going 30-0 and winning the state basketball championship my junior year.

Do you prefer weight lifting or conditioning?

Weight lifting, but I enjoy both.

How do you typically prepare for a game, both mentally and physically?

Mentally: I like to listen to music. Physically: Stretch before leaving for the game.

What are you most excited for with your senior season?

Having fun playing soccer with my high school friends and making one last run.

What is your favorite way to celebrate after a big win, like with your big comeback against Sturgeon Bay last week where you scored two goals?

When we have a big win, I enjoy going out to eat with the team and celebrating together.

What is your current favorite TV show?

Ted Lasso.

What are your plans for the future (college/major/career)?

I am planning to play soccer in college and major in exercise science in hopes of becoming a strength and conditioning coach for a professional sports team or university.

conference, one to Northern Kentucky (15-3) and one to Cleveland State (10-8).

The Phoenix is in a bit of uncharted territory this season, finding themselves with quite a few new additions to the roster.

"We lost six, and there were eight players on the team last year who aren't on the team this year, so that's a big turnover, but that's okay. We are good enough and we've got a lot of people who can step in. We have two transfers, one from Indiana State that's been playing libero for us and getting used to her role lately. We also have Hannah Vandenberg who is also getting used to her role in coming back from a knee injury," explained Sutherland.

In addition to the fresh legs on the team, the Phoenix also have some important returners on their roster this year as well.

"Cora Benhke will be an emerging hitter. She has played for us the past couple of years but she really stepped up and I think that people will be excited to watch her swing."

Preseason

The Phoenix women's volleyball team faced a difficult preseason spread, particularly through the teams they faced in the Clemson Invitational in Clemson, S.C. where they faced three straight losses to South Alabama, Western Carolina and Clemson.

"We've been playing without a true setter, which is essentially like playing football without a quarterback. It's been really hard because when we get the ball it's basically, slow pass, slow pass, and then they know where we are setting, which is tough. From an offensive side, we just really need to get back in our groove with a setter now," said Sutherland. "Defensively we really need to work on serving tough. We talk a lot about how serving tough and missing serves does not correlate with wins and losses, and that's a quote

I took from the Stanford coach. It's obviously really tough to miss serves, but going for it can be beneficial. We are also working on improving our first ball stop."

However, Sutherland said that things are looking up for the team as they head into their final preseason stretch as they head into the Capital Credit Union Classic this weekend.

"This weekend will be really interesting because we will finally be playing with a setter, but it is a new challenge for us and seeing what our team will look like. It's really just a lot of continuing to be resilient, and we define resilience as having trust and care, so even though it's really hard right now we are still working on building that trust and care," said Sutherland.

2023 season

According to the Horizon League Preseason Poll, the Phoenix were predicted to place third this season, falling just behind Wright State (1) and Northern Kentucky (2).

With a well-established coach heading up the program, Abbey Sutherland, the team is looking solid as they prepare for their upcoming regular season matches this year entering their sixth season under Sutherland's expertise.

"Bouncing back from adversity will be important this season. This is one of my favorite teams that I have coached in years as far as personnel and understanding that everything is going to be okay and that we just have to keep fighting even though there are a lot of uncontrollables," said Sutherland.

Sutherland holds a winning record with the team after a coaching career at UW-Green Bay which spans over five seasons (83-59).

Their first home game of the 2023 Horizon League season will take place on Friday, Sept. 22, at the Kress Events Center at 6:00 p.m. as the Phoenix face-off against the Purdue Fort Wayne Mastadons.

Preble hangs on in rival territory; get first win of the season vs. Southwest

BY JONATHAN TIMM
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

GREEN BAY – Two cross town rivals were renewed on Sept. 7, as the Green Bay Preble Hornets and the Green Bay Southwest Trojans looked for their first win of the 2023 campaign. Preble came away with a 25-20 victory on the road.

“Our team battled,” Preble Head Coach Dustin Gresen said in a postgame interview. “I’m proud of how our guys played together. We fought until the end and then came away with a W.”

Preble drove the length of the field on the opening drive as Anthony Torres pushed the pile into the endzone for a score.

On their next drive the Hornets moved the ball through the air, senior quarterback Brady Holcomb to fellow senior Jack Neumann from 28 yards out. Another unsuccessful two point conversion attempt left it 12-0.

Momentum would then turn on a dime and in the direction of Southwest as the next kickoff resulted in an 83-yard return for a Curtis Danforth touchdown, cutting Preble’s lead to five going into the second quarter.

Southwest took the lead on their next drive, courtesy of a 78-yard pitch and catch from senior Caleb Spruties to junior Dylan Collard, which would put the Trojans at the goal line. Danforth then snagged a five-yard pass for six.

A textbook drive from Preble was set up by a Neumann kickoff return to their own 49 yard line. This time it was Gerard who found Neumann for a red zone score.

Southwest’s hopes on the first drive of the second half would be ended shortly when Preble’s defensive lineman Andrae Rutledge came up with the ball on a muffed snap.

Capitalizing off of the turnover was Gerard, which was an off tackle run for a ten-yard touchdown, making it a two score game of 25-13 in favor of Preble.

The squads would go back and forth with punts during the fourth quarter. With 4:28 to go, Preble had a chance to put the nail in Southwest’s coffin, knocking on the door in opponent territory. Holcomb’s pass would be picked off on fourth down by junior Braxton Murphy, leaving the final score of the game 25-20.

Preble coaching staff was a proud bunch following the win. “It feels great, they’re a good football team, so our hats off to them”, said Gresen when asked about his team’s performance. “We made a lot of mistakes that wouldn’t have made the game this close if we didn’t make them.”

Preble will look to clean up those mistakes against Ashwaubenon next Friday, and Southwest will host De Pere for Week 5.

Bay Port defense comes up big in win over Pulaski

BY RICH PALZEWIC
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

PULASKI – The Bay Port football team used a pair of second-half turnovers to pull away in a 41-13 Fox River Classic Conference (FRCC) victory over Pulaski on Thursday, Sept. 7.

Leading just 20-13 at the break, the Pirates’ defense didn’t allow a point after intermission in winning their second straight game.

Bay Port amassed 466 yards of total offense and held the Red Raiders to 243.

“We were in a ball game in the first half,” Bay Port coach Gary Westerman said. “I thought our kids responded in the second half – especially on defense. I thought we did some good things on both sides of the ball. Pulaski is continuing to improve – they’re always difficult to play.”

After Pulaski (1-3 overall, 1-1 FRCC) fumbled on the first play of the second half, Bay Port (2-2, 2-0) quarterback Carter Kallies scored two plays later on a 12-yard rushing touchdown to make it 27-13 after Owen Bellisle’s extra point.

The Pirates scored again six minutes later when Kallies hit Blake Buchinger on a four-yard TD pass to bump the lead to 34-13 after the extra point.

Pulaski running back Logan Schultz (15) rushed for 118 yards on 13 carries in Bay Port’s 41-13 victory on Sept. 7.

On the opening play of the fourth quarter, Bay Port’s Noah Holtz picked off Pulaski quarterback Logan Schultz to set up another score – this one a 10-yard TD toss from Kallies to Buchinger to end the scoring.

“The turnovers hurt,” Pulaski coach Jerad Marsh said. “We were able to swing with Bay Port for a half, and we did some fun things – hopefully, we annoyed them a bit. The second half wasn’t quite as clean as the first half.”

Buchinger scored the first of his four TDs from three yards out.

Schultz then dashed 82 yards on the Red Raiders’ first offensive play from scrimmage to make it 7-6.

Miles Wippel’s point-after attempt sailed wide right.

Bay Port went up 13-6 four minutes later when Kallies hit Bennett Deppeler on a five-yard toss on a fourth down play.

“We gave up those two big plays in the first half,” Westerman said. “Other than the first long run of the game and big pass play, I thought we played well.”

One minute after the Red Raiders pulled to within a point, Kallies found a wide-open Buchinger down the middle of the field on a TD pass covering 37 yards.

“Like a lot of other teams, we lack experience,” Marsh said. “We’re at the point where these guys are starting to learn what it takes to win and what it takes not to win.”

In addition to his 44 yards rushing, Buchinger hauled in 11 receptions for 164 yards. Max Romenesko was credited with the fumble recovery for Bay Port.

Notre Dame rolls Pulaski in straight sets

BY RICH PALZEWIC

GREEN BAY – Notre Dame Academy’s Sydney Whitehouse is probably best known for her basketball skills, but she’s not bad at volleyball, either.

Behind Whitehouse’s 10 kills, the Tritons disposed of Pulaski in a straight set (25-20, 25-9, 25-18) Fox River Classic Conference (FRCC) sweep at Notre Dame Academy on Sept. 12.

Hannah Greisen also had a good match for the Tritons with her 11 kills, while Adah Danen added seven.

Grace Borys led Notre Dame with 31 assists.

“I know there’s a lot of great athletes in the state, but I’d put Sydney right up there,” Notre Dame head coach Chris Fitzgerald said. “She’s helped the basketball team win three state titles, she’s a great volleyball player and she was a member of the winning 4x100 state championship relay team in track. She’s also a great teammate and very positive – the girls feed off her energy.”

Whitehouse is a Division II basketball commit to Northern Michigan University.

“I like volleyball because it keeps me active and busy and it’s something different from basketball,” she said. “Whichever sport I’m playing, I focus on that.”

Whitehouse said she appreciates the consistency of having Fitzgerald as a coach.

“The past few years, we’ve had a different head coach every year,” she said. “It’s been hard to adapt to a certain structure, but with Chris, he’s been in our program for a few years now. It’s nice because we are bonding well, and I think we have a chance to go far (into the postseason).”

The Tritons (9-5 overall, 2-0 FRCC) jumped out to a 7-1 lead in the first set and eventually led 19-12, but the Red Raiders (4-13, 0-2) went on a 6-1 run to claw their way back to a 20-18 deficit.

Notre Dame closed out the first set with a 5-2 surge.

Set two belonged to the Tritons, 25-9.

“We’re focusing on what’s happening on our side of the net,” Fitzgerald said. “We can control our energy and playing together. There were times Pulaski went on a run, but I was happy with how we responded.”

The third set was much like the second, with the Tritons jumping out to an early lead and coasting from there in a 25-18 victory.

Fitzgerald said his girls are off to a good start this season.

“This year’s group – from the players to the parents – has been very positive,” he said. “The girls have bought into what I want to do. They have all the pieces there, but now it’s a matter of tinkering around with the lineup and working on some small discipline things. Overall, I couldn’t ask for anything better.”

This is Fitzgerald’s first season as head coach of the varsity team at Notre Dame, but he has spent time as the JV2 and JV coach as well.

come back from the ACL injury my first year at NDSU. I was going to redshirt (my freshman season anyway).”

Then, in December 2020 while back home during the COVID-19 pandemic, Hendricks got in a car accident and injured his neck.

“I got a fusion in my neck,” he said. “I basically lost two years from that – it was just trying to fight back and get healthy. After the accident when I started talking to the doctors, they told me I’d never play football again – that crushed me at the time. It was a huge part of my identity. Quitting was something I never considered.”

On Oct. 8 of last season, Hendricks finally saw some game action against Indiana State – a span of 46 games from his freshman season in 2019 until he took the field against the Sycamores.

“It’s not easy being injured,” he said. “It’s the worst place you can be – on the sidelines. Mentally, it’s tough, but when I was finally able to get out there and play, it was all worth it.”

Coming to NDSU

During his senior season at Pulaski, the 6-foot-3, 215-pound Hendricks also threw for 776 yards with eight touchdown passes.

“When I came to camp at NDSU, I was doing a little linebacker, tight end and fullback work,” he said. “I ended up meeting with the offensive coordinator – that went well, and I was offered (a scholarship), so I just assumed I was going to be a tight end or fullback. When I got here (my freshman year), they said, ‘You’re going to play linebacker.”

Now at 245 pounds, Hendricks has found a home as a defensive end.

Hendricks’ high school coach, Jerad Marsh, had nothing but praise for his former star player.

“Dylan was an excellent teammate,” Marsh said. “He was a well-liked young man and loved to see other teammates succeed. He could do whatever he wanted to do with the ball, but he wasn’t afraid to lead block for others. As a football player, there weren’t many guys tougher. He had a great feel for the game.”

Marsh said Hendricks’ legacy is still being felt at Pulaski – five years after he played.

“The kids playing now still remember watching Dylan play – they were in the stands as middle schoolers,” he said. “He’d stay after practice and play catch with kids. Anything nice written about Dylan is all good – he deserves it all.”

The future

After this season, Hendricks said he still has a year of eligibility remaining.

“I still haven’t decided yet about that,” he said.

What about rugby? “For right now, I’m focused on helping NDSU win games and not focused on rugby,” Hendricks said.

Aaron Rodgers receives sympathy from former Packer teammates amid season-ending injury

BUFFALO, N.Y. – After making waves with his departure from the Green Bay Packers last season after a successful 18 years with the team, NFL quarterback Aaron Rodgers was faced with both backlash and excitement as he signed a two-year $75 million contract to play for the New York Jets in the 2023 season.

However, discussion over his performance this season leading a new team has been cut short amid the Tuesday, Sept. 12, news confirming his ankle-injury is a season-ending torn achilles from his first and only drive with the Jets.

Jets vs. Bills

After an exciting entrance, running out onto the field at Highmark Stadium, proudly carrying an American flag, Rodgers found himself flat on the field, in crippling pain after receiving just four snaps in their Monday, Sept. 11, game against the Buffalo Bills.

The infamous former Packer player, participated in a run play in which he handed the ball off, an incomplete pass and a defensive holding call on the Bills before receiving his final snap which would be a sack by Bills defensive end Leonard Floyd.

Once a teammate, always a teammate

Despite the controversy Rodgers' injury has caused, former teammates from his time in Green Bay have shown their support as fellow professional athletes dedicated to their craft.

One such player is former Green Bay Packer wide receiver Antonio Freeman.

"As a player you hate to see that, you know, because we put so much into it. Regardless of how fans view us, we work so hard on our body. We make sacrifices eating, leisure drinking and things of that nature and to see someone that I know works really, really hard to you know, have it all end on the fourth play of the game, when you spent the last 365 days getting ready for this moment," Freeman told the Press Times.

Freeman said that although injuries like this are a part of the game, it is still hard to see someone that you played with for so long go through the experience.

"I'm so very sad to see it happen, you know, but that's part of the game."

What this means for Green Bay

Although Rodgers has cut ties with the Green Bay Packers, his injury still has some prominent effects on the future of the franchise.

With Rodgers' injury putting him out for the rest of the season, he will not be able to fulfill his role in the terms of the trade agreement between the Packers and the Jets provided he played 65% of the snaps this season. Many loyal Green Bay Packer fans have been up in arms about the inevitability of losing their first round draft pick secured in the trade.

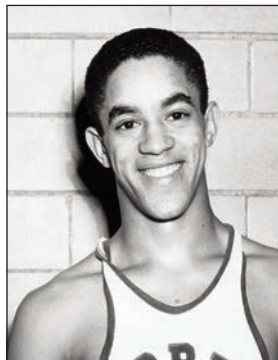

Despite leaving the Green Bay community after 18 years, Rodgers said that Green Bay will always be home to him.

"I'm not sure it's possible to fully express the gratitude that I have to the Packers, our incredible fans, the state of Wisconsin," said Rodgers in a social media post on April 25.

"I grew up in Green Bay, drafted at 21, fell in love with the game, met some lifelong friends, and take with me memories that will last a lifetime."

Even though Rodgers' injury will more directly and immediately affect the Jets than the Packers, he no doubt feels for the community that launched his NFL career, that he says he will always call home.

"This is not the end for us, I will see you again Green Bay, you'll always have my heart," Rodgers said, concluding the message on his post.

Holton's brother, Michael Holton, speaks about Chuck's tenacity as both an athlete and as student while at St. Norbert College, and how his experiences on the campus translated to his success later in life, while also influencing generations of young African-Americans to come.

St. Norbert College renames basketball court to honor alum Chuck Holton

DE PERE – On Thursday, Sept. 7, St. Norbert College officially honored the school's first African-American graduate, Charles Holton, by naming one of their basketball courts located in the Ray Van Den Heuvel campus center, after him.

"I'm simply overwhelmed by the number of people who are here today," said Holton's brother Michael, who was present at the event.

Seventy-five years ago, on Sept. 14, 1948, Holton first began his basketball career as a Green Knight and would eventually become a three year starter for the team, contributing vastly to the team's breakthrough season in '50-51 when St. Norbert College would go on to beat Marquette University and rack up 19 wins on the season.

In addition to playing basketball, Holton was a trailblazer on the college's track and field team as well, being the first person to run a sub 10-second 100-yard dash.

Michel shared an analogy about a study that was done by a gentleman that he once heard about, stating that he said, "Most people give up just before they experience success." But someone in the audience stopped him and said, "But if they quit, how did they know they would have succeeded?" And the man replied, "I didn't count the people who quit. I counted the number of people who were successful," and that was what Chuck was about. Never, ever letting up," as a testament to his brother's tenacity.

However, sports were not the only area that Holton excelled in. He also participated in Greek life as a member of the campus's Alpha Delta Fraternity, and was

Green Bay Phoenix volleyball ready to take the court this season

GREEN BAY – After a tough string of preseason and exhibition matches, the UW-Green Bay Phoenix women's volleyball team is ready to take the court as they head into conference play in the 2023 regular season.

Last season

After finishing third in the Horizon League 2022 season standings with a conference record of 13-5 and overall record of 23-11, the Phoenix are ready to climb even further up in the standings this year, with a new focus, new roster and new mantra.

"It's more about the dynamic and the people. Last year our theme was 5% more fun. No one really had fun during COVID, so it's okay now if we take some time to recover from that and do things 5% more fun, even if it's slightly less efficient," said Head Coach Abbey Sutherland.

Notable losses for the team last season include two drops to Wright State (18-0) who placed first in the

Pulaski's Hendricks back to doing what he loves

BY RICH PALZEWIC
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

FARGO, North Dakota – It may have taken a while, but former Pulaski football star Dylan Hendricks is back to doing what he loves — playing at a high level.

Hendricks, a 2019 Pulaski graduate now playing at North Dakota State University (NDSU) in Fargo, recorded three tackles in the Bison's opening game victory over Eastern Washington and recorded another tackle in a Week 2 win against Maine.

"I'm happy with how things are going," Hendricks said. "It's been a long road to recovery, but it's been worth it. I'm back to 100% healthy."

The road to get back has been anything but easy for Hendricks — the 2018 Wisconsin Football Coaches Association Large School Offensive Player of the Year.

After a phenomenal senior season at Pulaski where Hendricks carried the ball an astounding 404 times for 2,833 yards rushing and 32 touchdowns, he tore his ACL later his senior year playing rugby.

"I was really into rugby at that point in my life," he said. "I was out in California playing with the All-American team and ended up tearing my ACL. The thought with rugby was maybe coming back to it later in life after I was done playing football."

The coaches at NDSU still had faith in Hendricks after the injury.

"I was extremely grateful for that," he said. "I then tore the meniscus in my knee while trying to
