Portage County halts nursing facility sale

Proposal returns to committee

BY ROBERT CLOUD
SENIOR EDITOR

STEVENS POINT – The possible sale of the Portage County Health Care Center was put on hold Tuesday, March 19, after more than a dozen people spoke against it. At issue is whether the Portage County Board would authorize County Executive John Pavelski to sign a letter of intent to purchase the facility from Sam Follman.

Follman offered to buy the health care center for $1.88 million and pay $25,000 in earnest money in his letter of intent.

Opponents of the deal reminded supervisors that residents voted twice in favor of keeping the facility open and providing funds to support it.

Nancy Roppe, a Stevens Point resident and long-time advocate for the county-owned 5-star nursing home, spoke out against selling the facility to a private company.

“Why would anyone move to Portage County when you won’t fund childcare, you frustrate clean water efforts, attempt to reduce the caliber of elder care and quality of life in general?” she asked.

“Stop this complete waste of time and money, vote no on agenda item 6 or be voted out on April 2,” she warned, referring to the resolution to accept the letter and begin negotiations for the sale.

State Rep. Katrina Shankland also offered a warning to supervisors.

She noted that the county did not put out request for proposals or receive competitive bids, while ignoring the results of two referendums.

“If the county board passes this resolution today and the sale of the health care center moves forward, I believe the county could be at risk of litigation for not following two voter-approved referendums,” Shankland said.

“In 2018, we know that Portage County voters overwhelmingly voted to raise the levy limit,” she said. “In 2022, Portage County voters again voted to approve even more money.”

In 2018, voters approved a referendum to increase funding for the center by $1.14 million

Six in school board race

Four incumbents, two challengers

BY JAMES CARD
STAFF REPORTER

WAUPACA – The April 2 election will have six candidates on the ballot for the Waupaca School Board.

Up for reelection are Steve Klismet, Betty Manion, Bob Adams and Nicolas Genske. Lori Verhalen and Tom Link are challengers.

Board members Dale Feldt, Molly McDonald and Ron Brooks are serving their current terms and not up for reelection this year.

The Waupaca County Post sent two questions about their background and views to each of the candidates.

Why do you want to be a member of the Waupaca School Board and what are your qualifications?

Adams: I desire to be a member of the Waupaca School Board because I believe in the power of education to transform lives and shape communities. As a current member of the board, I have no hidden agenda. I attend all of my kids events and appreciate how the teachers work with all kids. My faith plays a big part of who I am and through that lens value all students. I am objective and listen to all aspects of a topic to make the best decisions. My qualifications for this role stem from longevity in this school district. I have spent over 20 years as the pastor of Radiant Fellowship and over two years as the Executive Director at Foundations for Living. I have also served this past year on the Waupaca School Board.

I have actively engaged with the community through various volunteer roles, allowing me to understand the diverse needs and perspectives of our district’s stakeholders. I am a skilled communicator and listener, which will enable me to effectively advocate for the needs of students, parents, and teachers.

I am committed to staying informed about education trends, research, and best practices. I constantly seek opportunities for professional development.

Genske: As a parent of two daughters in the district and a member of the Waupaca community, I am deeply committed to helping the district with providing academic excellence, social and emotional development, and career readiness for all students while being fiscally responsible.

Four Clintonville School Board candidates

BY BERT LEHMAN

CLINTONVILLE – Four candidates will face off for three seats on the Clintonville School Board in the spring election on April 2.

Board members up for reelection are Ben Huber and Kris Strauman.

Chad Dobbe is not running for another term on the school board.

Klint Barkow and Marie Vandenberg are also running.

The three candidates who receive the most votes will be elected to three-year terms. The Clintonville Tribune-Gazette sent questions to the four candidates to get their views on issues important to the district.

A recent financial audit noted that district is not following its policy of having a fund balance that is 25% of total general fund expenditures. The fund balance is about 13%. Do you believe the district should follow this policy?

Barkow: If a policy is set it should be followed. The 25% rule is a good rule that households should use for budgeting so you have a nest egg in case something bad happens. I would like to see the fund balance get back to what the policy states unless a feasibility study can prove otherwise. For me, the answer to this question lies in more research and listening to details.

Huber: The district fund balance policy is a good recommendation. During that audit process, it was stated that 80% of school districts across the state have needed to go to an operating referendum to continue to stay open. We have not needed to do that. Our funding is limited to what the state determines. While I would prefer to have a 25% balance, until the state helps out rural districts, we will have to make do with what we have.

Strauman: It is imperative that district policies should be followed. In order to keep our district operating smoothly, the school board must set the policies and procedures so

SENIOR EDITOR

WAUPACA – Sheriff Tim Wilz presented life-saving awards to three officers during the Waupaca County Board meeting on March 19.

Telecommunicator Kirk Merrill, Deputy Eric Kamholz and Deputy Mitch Butterbrodt were recognized for their response to an attempted suicide.

In presenting the award, Wilz noted that Butterbrodt was a deputy at the time of the incident, but he is now a detective in narcotics.

“On June 12, 2023, at 2:05 a.m., the Waupaca County Communications Center received a 911 call with no voice contact,” Wilz said. “The call was answered by Telecommunicator Kirk Merrill.”

Merrill established the location of the call based on the coordinates from the 911 call. Kamholz and Butterbrodt were dispatched to an address in Scandinavia.

“Deputies arrived at the address and attempted to make contact, but were unable to do so,” Wilz said. “Telecommunicator Kirk Merrill continued looking into the call and advised the officers that in a previous call at this residence where a female attempted suicide by having her vehicle running in the garage.”

The deputies were able to gain access to the garage area and located an unconscious woman in a running car.

Wilz said the deputies estimated the temperatures in the garage to have been between 120 and 130 degrees.

“It was extremely hot,” Wilz said, noting that the deputies opened the garage door and ventilated the space.

When the woman began to regain consciousness, “she attempted to take her the personnel teams operate as they are meant to. Policies provide personnel with an understanding of expected performance and behaviors. Policies provide the rules for the decision-making process. If any mistakes are made, the policies can be quickly addressed. Without policies in place, the district is exposed to risk.

Vandenberg: Yes, it is imperative to follow policies, especially relating to finances. Policies are written to protect the district, although it is also important to review policies from time to time to make sure they are still relevant. It is also important to take into consideration extenuating circumstances. Adequate and justifiable data must be communicated for not following the policies.

What steps should the district take to get its fund balance back up to the policy level of 25% of the total expenditures in the general fund?

Barkow: I believe in smart goals. We need to make sure they are measurable and attainable. Set a date with your goals and make it happen. If you don't set a date with a goal it won't happen. Tough decisions will have to be made, but we can and will get there if the 25% rule is a policy we want to maintain.

Huber: We must continue to look at all expenditures and see if there are places where we can save. The completion of the sale of the elementary complex will give a nice bump to the fund balance percentage as well.

Strauman: For several years, our district operated with a healthy fund balance of 25%. As our enrollment continued to drop over the years, our fund balance was dwindling. There are a few things we can do to increase our fund balance. The first step would be to take a close look at district expenditures. There are some budgeted items that are absolutely necessary for safe operation, but other items can be looked closely at. With approximately 80% of our total budget being personnel, we have to carefully assess programs and look at scheduling so we can continue to maintain our "top notch" offerings.

Vandenberg: I would review the recommendations that were presented at the time the proposal to drop was made, and which steps have already been taken to correct this. It would be imperative to work with the school board members to explore other avenues to expedite returning to 25%.

The most recent school budget passed by the school board included a deficit of around $1 million, and deficits are projected for future years. How can the district get to a balanced budget?

Barkow: This answer is similar to my last response. Tough decisions will need to be made. Something needs to give. You can't spend what you don't have and I will not spend money that our community doesn't have. We will have to make cuts, but not at the expense of our students' education. As in all businesses, there is room to narrow down, but I will keep the interest of our students' education at root.

Huber: There have already been real savings to reduce that deficit. The year end number will look considerably better than the original budget. Looking forward, we will need to continue to realize the lowered costs of our new and newly refurbished buildings and grounds. There will be significantly less spending needed on those items, such as roofs and parking lots etc.

Strauman: To get the district to a balanced budget, we need to review the financial records, then compare the actual budget amounts from the previous year to this year. A financial forecast is then created. Expenses are identified and revenue estimated. Once you subtract the expenses from the revenue, you get a picture of the projected budget. Our administration has worked closely with financial advisors to get budget projections. The difficulty with balancing a school district budget, is the uncertainty of the state funding and our enrollment numbers. Many districts in recent years have had to resort to operational referendums.

Vandenberg: The district has recently made changes to improve the process for tracking expenses, thus creating a clearer picture of where expenses are being incurred, and offering opportunities to make the necessary adjustments and improvements. This is a crucial step in correcting the deficit, and must continue to be analyzed on an ongoing basis until a balanced budget is reached.

Do you feel the Clintonville School District is on the right path to success? Explain why or why not.

Barkow: I do. My sons recently graduated from CHS. My oldest son, Klay, went to NWTC and is now working at August Winter as a service technician and my son, Kolton, is a freshman at Platteville studying to be an engineer. My daughter, Madi, is a sophomore now and I am looking forward to seeing what her future may hold. I can attest that my children have had a good education attending CHS. Having the ability to take college credit classes in high school is a huge time and cost saving advantage that CHS offers and should continue to do so, and even expand on. I acknowledge and appreciate all of the educators that have shaped the learning environment of my children.

Huber: The state of the Clintonville School District is strong. We have a new consolidated campus. We have a wonderful professional staff that truly cares about our children's future. We also have a community that cares about our children, and knows the value that a good education will bring.

Strauman: The Clintonville District is on the right path to success. We have innovative offerings for our students who not only are college-bound, but for those students entering the work force. We have extraordinary facilities. Our administrators, teachers, and support personnel are dedicated to our district and you will be hard pressed to find any better. We have a community recreation center that is recognized as exceptional. Our day care is remarkable. In listening to our superintendent's report at monthly board meetings, other districts contact him to see what Clintonville is doing and how they can model their programs after ours.

Vandenberg: Yes, I believe the Clintonville School District is on the right path. They have a strong group of leaders and top educators offering prime education to the students. The students have ample opportunities to learn at all grades and levels, as well as offerings in a large array of extracurricular programs. There are state-of-the-art classrooms in new and remodeled buildings, creating a safe environment. The students' education and well-being is first and foremost in Clintonville.

Why should residents in the Clintonville School District vote for you?

Barkow: If you're looking for someone on the board that will vote for balanced budgets, what's best for our students, and common-sense hometown beliefs, then I deserve your vote. Another thing to consider is that I will not keep any payments for being on the school board. While on the board, I will give back any payments paid to me to the sports programs at CHS.

Huber: I have tried to bring a level headed approach to all aspects that the board has jurisdiction over. I have helped lead the district through the referendum process for the new buildings. I will continue to do all that is in my power to help provide the best education possible for our students and community.

Strauman: I have extensive experience in education and have served the Clintonville District and community for the past 27 years. I am a good listener and I feel decisions should be made with input from those who are involved and those the decision could affect. It's important that we maintain programs for our students as well as those for our community.

Vandenberg: I am passionate about the Clintonville School District, and I want the district and its students to excel. We are a small town and we should be proud of it. We should be using our small-town strengths to our advantage. I will consider what is best for everyone, and help the Clintonville School Board create a strong and flourishing school district.

per year for a total of four years.

In 2022, voters approved a second referendum to raise taxes by $4.5 million annually from 2023 through 2042. The amount included costs for construction for a new facility.

On Jan. 16, the county board voted 16-8 against placing a third referendum on the April 2 ballot. That referendum would have asked voters to approve an additional $3.5 million annually.

"What is the best utilization of taxpayers' money when you look at the overall needs of the county – now and in the future," Pavelski said at the Jan. 16 county board meeting. "We are asking the taxpayers for up to $8 million per year. Just because we can ask for money from the taxpayers, should we? If you had an option of spending an additional $8 million on county needs, would you spend it all on the health care center? Are there other options to solve the concerns at the health care center for the overall benefit of the county?"

Sup. Matt Jacowski, who in January favored delaying the third referendum until the November election, made the motion to send the letter of intent back to three committees for further review.

"With all the confusion, some of the yelling, false information being distributed, it's becoming increasingly hard for me to discern what is fact, what is fiction and I have done some of my due diligence to try to find the bottom of this," he said. "I think this is an opportune time for us to pump the brakes."

Follman's proposal to purchase the facility will be returned to the county's joint committees of Finance, Space and Properties and Health Care Center for further review.

The deputies immediately stopped her from attempting any more harm to herself.

They provided medical care on scene until EMS ar-

"Without the quick thinking and actions of Telecommunicator Kirk Merrill, Deputy Kamholz and Deputy Butterbrodt, the outcome of this situation would have been tragic," Wilz said.

Choir concert spotlights local talent

WAUPACA – The Waupaca Community Chorus and Civic Orchestra Concert will return to the stage of Waupaca High School's Performing Arts Center Sunday, April 7, to celebrate its 61st anniversary.

The theme of this year's concert, which begins at 2:30 p.m., is "Mostly Mozart!" and will bring back a classic in the realm of choral literature, as well as featuring the choir in a few new selections and soloists.

Under the direction of Dan Wolfgram, the choir is returning to its roots of performing choral masterworks with a full symphony orchestra. This year's production will feature soloists who have received training at the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point.

They are soprano Sonia Grimsled, alto Paige Weisenberger, tenor Zak Palmer and baritone Chris Eaton.

Sonia Grimsled

Grimsled has performed in a variety of classical and contemporary music styles with organizations across the Midwest, the Pacific Northwest and France. Favorite roles include Franca Naccarelli in Adam Guettel's "The Light in the Piazza," Maman in Maurice Ravel's "L'enfant et les sortilèges," Antonia in Offenbach's "The Tales of Hoffman" and Countess Almaviva in Mozart's "Le nozze di Figaro."

Grimsled lives in central Wisconsin and was recently appointed as a lecturer/instructor for the prestigious BFA Musical Theatre program at UW-Stevens Point. She is a NATS member and runs a thriving independent studio through the Note-worthy Music Conservatory.

Grimsled holds a Master of Music in Voice Performance from the University of Oregon and a Bachelor of Music in Voice Performance from UW-Stevens Point.

Paige Weisenberger

Weisenberger is currently an undergraduate at UW-Stevens Point, is currently student teaching in Mosinee and will soon receive degrees in music education and vocal performance. She intends on eventually going for a masters in either vocal performance or voice pedagogy, looking to practically use those skills someday as a solo voice teacher.

In addition to her vocational pursuits, Weisenberger enjoys participating in various music-related events such as relating to opera and symphony and writes music with her husband as a pastime. When not creating, performing and teaching music, she loves to spend time cooking and baking; riding her bike out in nature; walking her sweet dog; and doing arts and crafts.

Zak Palmer

Born and raised in the Antigo area, Palmer is known for his ample sound and on-stage animation. Graduating from high school in 2018, he went on to UW-Stevens Point to pursue a bachelor's degree in Vocal Performance.

He completed his degree in December 2023. During that time, he was featured as a choral soloist, performed as Donald in "Gallantry" and received the Alice Peet Faust Concerto Competition Scholarship.

In July 2024, Palmer will travel to Vicenza, Italy, to perform the role of Monostatos in Mozart's "The Magic Flute." He also accepted a Graduate Assistantship position at the University of South Dakota, where he will pursue a master's degree in Vocal Performance. In his free time, Palmer enjoys sports, video games, fellowship and giving voice lessons.

Chris Eaton

Eaton, currently a senior at UW-Stevens Point, is finishing his degree in Vocal Music Education. He is from Racine and is a graduate of Case High School.

He has been described as a wonderful performer and educator and has taken on many roles in the UW-Stevens Point music department, including leadership positions in Opera Club, American Choral Directors Association, Concert Choir, Choral Union and Delta Omicron (music fraternity).

Currently, Eaton is completing his choral student teaching at Lincoln High School in Wisconsin Rapids and is enjoying sharing the gift of music with students each day.

He was a featured soloist last year with the Waupaca Community Choir on Faure's "Requiem." He was also invited to sing with the Central Wisconsin Symphony Orchestra as a part of its Dorothy Vetter Educational Concert. Recent performing roles include Doctor Gregg Gallantry, Masetto Don Giovanni, Count Almaviva scenes from "Le nozze di Figaro," Joseph in "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat;" and the Phantom in "The Phantom of the Opera."

Eaton is a two-time Wisconsin National Association of Teachers of Singing winner while at UW-Stevens Point and was a national NATS semifinalist in 2022. He has also been a featured soloist with the Racine Theater Guild. An avid pianist and organist, Eaton also regularly plays for churches and other events in the Racine and Stevens Point areas.

Tickets for the concert can be purchased at the Waupaca Area Chamber of Commerce office, from Waupaca Community Choir members and at the door. Tickets for adults are $10 in advance and $12 at the door, while student tickets are $4 in advance and $6 at the door.

This will mark the first year that patrons may use their credit or debit card to make a purchase at the box office window on the day of the concert.

Seating is on a first-come, first-served basis. Additional information about the choir and the Waupaca Fine Arts Festival can be found at www.fineartsfestival.org.

Waupaca Foundry worker injured

BY ROBERT CLOUD
SENIOR EDITOR

WAUPACA – A Waupaca Foundry worker was seriously injured after an accident at approximately 8:45 p.m. Friday, March 8.

The worker, who has not been identified due to privacy concerns, was transported from Waupaca Foundry Plant 2/3 to a hospital.

According to a foundry spokesperson, the worker was performing routine plant shutdown tasks at the time of the incident. He was removing sand buildup in the miller.

A sand miller is a machine used to mix sand and binders that make sand molds used to produce metal castings.

Millers are located on a floor above molding machines and are approximately 7 feet wide and 9 feet tall.

"The team member was injured and required hospitalization because the machine was not locked out and properly de-energized," according to an email from the foundry.

An emergency medical responder (EMR) was working in the area when the incident occurred and responded within seconds to provide immediate medical intervention.

Waupaca Foundry Plant 2/3 has 31 trained and certified emergency medical responders who volunteer in this capacity in addition to their primary jobs.

The incident has been reported to Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

In October 2023, OSHA fined the Waupaca Foundry plant in Marinette more than $200,000 after two workers there experienced fingertip amputations in April and May while grinding trim parts without sufficient safety measures.

"Foundry injury rates have been and continue to be much higher than those for all private manufacturing," according to a report by T.J. Schorn in the March 2018 Iron and Steel Technology.

Memory cafes build connections

WAUPACA – Susan McFadden, Ph.D., will present "Memory Cafes and the New Story about Dementia" at 6:30 p.m. Monday, April 1 at the Waupaca Area Public Library lower-level meeting rooms.

Hosted by Winchester Academy, the program is free and open to the public.

McFadden is professor emerita of psychology at the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh.

Her program addresses reasons why society needs a new story about dementia that turns away from the dominant "tragedy narrative."

She will show how the worldwide memory café movement is creating dementia-inclusive communities where people living with all types of brain disorders can experience joy, meaning and friendship.

Memory Cafes offer creative themes and activities designed to welcome and engage those with dementia.

Examples from the work of

McFadden

Fox Valley Memory Project will demonstrate the ways memory cafes ease isolation and create meaningful connections among people dealing with dementia.

Marsha Mueller and David Stoiber are this program's sponsors.

Master Gardeners host open house

WAUPACA – The Waupaca County Master Gardener Volunteers (WCMGV) will host an open house at 6 p.m. Thursday April 11, at the Waupaca County Courthouse, lower level room 42.

WCMGV is holding a membership drive and inviting anyone interested in gardening to join the organization this spring.

This will be an opportunity to learn more about the WCMGV, the group's countywide projects and how to become involved as a "Friend of the Master Gardeners."

Allison Birr, recycling coordinator for the Waupaca County Solid Waste Department, will give a presentation on composting.

There will be a garden-themed gift basket as a door prize and refreshments will be provided.

Among WCMGV's projects are a children's garden in New London, a community and children's garden in Waupaca, maintaining native tree and shrub plantings at the Sturgeon Trail near New London, a flower garden at the Wisconsin Veteran's Home in King, and gardens at the County Fairgrounds in Weyauwega.

The group hosts a plant sale in June. Funds raised from the plant sale support a countywide scholarship to a graduating senior entering a horticultural-related field.

Each library in the county receives a donation to be used toward garden-related books or materials.

Three face homicide charges

BY ROBERT CLOUD
SENIOR EDITOR

STEVENS POINT – The Portage County District Attorney's office filed felony charges against three men who were allegedly involved in the assault that led to the death of a 61-year-old Stevens Point man.

Brandon L. Boehm, 20, Christian J. Emerson, 18, both of Wausau, and Arlin O. Sangster, 19, Rothschild, were charged Thursday, March 21, with first-degree reckless homicide as party to a crime with penalty enhancements for an elderly victim.

They face up to 40 years in prison if convicted, plus six more years because of the victim's age.

Shortly before midnight on Friday, March 15, Stevens Point police found Donald G. Mitchell Jr. lying on the ground in a downtown city parking lot.

Portage County Ambulance transported Mitchell to Aspirus-Stevens Point. He was then flown to Aspirus-Wausau with critical injuries a few hours later.

The following afternoon, Mitchell died from the injuries he sustained in the assault.

Emerson was released from custody after posting a $50,000 cash bond. He is scheduled for an initial court appearance on April 3.

Investigators previously identified Daemon Kitzrow as a suspect in this incident. They have since determined that he was not directly involved in the assault and will not be prosecuted in connection with this incident.

Belts' Soft Serve now open

BY OLIVIA COFFIN
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

STEVENS POINT – Don Belt and his wife, Sadie Joyce, opened Belts' Soft Serve ice cream shop in Stevens Point in 1981.

In the late 1970s, Don purchased a gas station at the site of the future ice cream shop.

A few years later, he opened Belts Barley Brew

When that business wasn't bringing in enough customers, they started selling ice cream and that was a hit.

The Belts slowly replaced the brew with ice cream, and the rest is history

Belts' friendly service and extra large ice cream cones have brought customers from near and far to taste their delicious treats.

Belts' is known as the "Home of the Largest Cone," which stands at almost a foot tall.

Small, medium and junior sizes are also available.

Belts' switches between about 20 specialty flavors, along with vanilla, chocolate, and zebra.

Sweet treat choices include more than 30 varieties of cones, flurries, malts, smoothies and sundaes.

Many of the ingredients are made in-house, including the brownies, cookie dough, peanut butter cups and puppy chow.

Each March, customers eagerly wait for the ice cream shop to reopen for the season.

The first 25 customers received a Belts' T-shirt, while 125 limited edition glasses were also given out to customers waiting in line.

Don Belt died on March 23, 2019, at the age of 90, but his legacy continues.

In 1991, Don and Joyce sold the business to their son, Dan Racine.

Since then it has been passed down to Cole Racine, Dan's son, who now runs the business.

Cole aims to preserve the family and friends atmosphere that his grandparents developed years ago.

Belts' Soft Serve is located at 2140 Division St., in Stevens Point.

The shop has walk up windows and outdoor seating.

The shop is open from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily, March through October.

For more information, visit Belts' Soft Serve Facebook page.

MADISON – The Wisconsin Senate passed five bills introduced by state Sen. Patrick Testin, R-Stevens Point.

"It's always a great day when legislators from both sides of the political aisle can put their differences aside and do what is right to help the residents of our state," Sen. Testin said. "I am honored that my colleagues recognized the value in my legislative proposals and put their support behind them. Hopefully, the governor follows suit and signs them into law so that we can make Wisconsin a better place to live for everyone."

The first bill, SB925, bans the sale of counterfeit and unsafe lighters in Wisconsin.

China and other countries have been exporting counterfeit and unsafe lighters into the United States for decades. These unregulated devices have led to injuries, property damage and death.

Cornerstone Press marks 40 years

STEVENS POINT – The University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point's Cornerstone Press, one of five publishing houses in the United States staffed by undergraduate students, will mark 40 years with a gala event next month.

Open to alumni, students and community members, the free event will be held from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. Friday, April 5, in the Alumni Room of the Dreyfus University Center, 1015 Reserve St., Stevens Point.

Past directors, press alumni, past authors and university administrators will share remarks. Cornerstone Press books will be available for sale and there will be food and a cash bar.

Register to attend the event at www.uwsp.edu/event/cornerstone-press-40th-anniversary-gala/.

Over the years, Cornerstone Press has produced more than 100 titles in various genres, from short fiction to poetry collections, which have won awards and brought authors national and international recognition.

It was established in 1984 as a part of the Department of English curriculum, with support from the School of Humanities and Global Studies and the College of Letters and Science. It was the first of its kind within the Universities of Wisconsin.

The press doesn't just produce books – it also produces skilled, career-ready students with hands-on writing, editing, design, sales and marketing experience for jobs in the world of publishing and beyond.

"Cornerstone Press receives manuscripts from coast to coast," said Ross Tangedal, associate professor of English and director and publisher of Cornerstone Press. "We do what we can to put out the best books possible, and we are proud of that. But my experiences with the students are number one."

"I'm most proud of the students who work with me and learn," he said. "They build skills, such as how to collaborate with others. They learn how to work with authors from all different backgrounds and experiences. They do the work of editing, meeting deadlines, dealing with the variables that come up. Its real work experience."

The press began as one Editing and Publishing course during fall semester in which students would publish a fiction book from a regional author.

It currently runs with publishing-related courses every fall, spring and summer, and continuously publishes books of fiction, non-fiction and poetry by authors from around the world.

Law benefits Stevens Point

MADISON – Gov. Tony Evers signed SB 880 into law on March 22.

The bipartisan legislation exempts TID (Tax Incremental Financing District) 14 in the city of Stevens Point from state-mandated limitations in order to generate economic development in the Central Wisconsin community.

SB 880 passed the state Assembly 98-0 and the state Senate 32-0.

"I believe in representative democracy: when local leaders come to me and ask for support, I listen and I'm there for them," said state Rep. Katrina Shankland, D-Stevens Point. "That's why when Mayor Mike Wiza and other city leaders reached out to me and asked for legislative support with spurring investments in the East Park Commerce Center, I was glad to reach across the aisle and get results for our community."

Shankland said the new law will support investments in infrastructure, including a rail siding track and spurs, sewer, water, stormwater, roadways and pedestrian walkways.

"Without this legislation, the deferred maintenance costs to taxpayers would only increase, while the lack of investment in our critical infrastructure could result in lost developments and jobs, as well as lost revenue to our community," Shankland said.

"In addition to investing in the infrastructure in the East Commerce Park Center, this new law also lays a strong foundation for recruiting new businesses to the city, as well as supporting the relocation of businesses so they can continue to expand," Shankland added.

"As a result, the city will be able to continue its work partnering with Gov. Evers and state agencies to recruit a food processing company to Wisconsin, which will create 150 good-paying jobs in Stevens Point, purchase an estimated 10,000-20,000 acres of potatoes from Wisconsin producers, and support our local farmers. This could also result in the localizing of supply chains, reduction in shipment costs and carbon emissions, and additional tax revenue to the Stevens Point area," Shankland said.

SB 880 is supported by economic development organizations, companies and public education institutions, including the Stevens Point Area Public School District, Mid-State Technical College, UW-Stevens Point, Ellis Construction, Lineage Logistics, Ki Mobility, Centergy, and local farmers and small businesses in the agricultural supply chain.

Two vie for council seat

BY BERT LEHMAN
STAFF REPORTER

CLINTONVILLE – Former common council member Brad Rokus and current common council member Peggy Zaemisch are both running for the District 2 seat in the April 2 election.

The Clintonville Tribune-Gazette recently sent a list of questions to the two candidates to get their views on issues important to the city.

To help inform voters on where the candidates stand on these issues, the questions and their responses are listed below.

Why do you want to be a member of the Clintonville Common Council?

Rokus: Clintonville is pointed in a good direction. We have a bright future and great opportunities on the horizon. I feel, that with my experience, from previously being on Council and twenty-plus years of public utility management, I can help make these opportunities a reality. I really love this city, and I want to help make it the best it can be. I think serving as a council person, I would be able to best help this community move forward to future successes.

Zaemisch: Being elected on April 2 would grant me a third term. I believe that the experience gained in my first two terms would give me the edge to understand the city's present challenges and those that are upcoming.

What are your qualifications to serve on the common council?

Zaemisch: Prior to moving to Clintonville and serving on the council, I worked as a journalist for Wisconsin community newspapers for 40 years, giving me a great deal of experience in observing municipal issues and how they can best be resolved.

Rokus: I have dedicated my adult life to serving the public. Personally, I have served on City Council for eight years, and the last two as Chairperson of the Redevelopment Authority. Professionally, I have been in public utility management for twenty-plus years. In that time, I have helped provide safe and affordable water and wastewater services to countless people in various communities. In that process:

I prepare and oversee multi-million-dollar utility budgets, I prepare and manage long range capital improvement plans, I oversee infrastructure improvement projects, and I lead a group of talented individuals in a collaborative team environment. I feel that all of these things have brought me to this point, to help Clintonville succeed now and in the future.

What do you feel is the biggest issue facing the city of Clintonville, and how would you try to fix that issue?

Rokus: The biggest issue I see is affordability. How do we continue to provide and even expand the services we offer our community members without making living here unaffordable? Many of the important issues facing our community come back to this single area of concern. We have done a good job in the past at cutting operating costs as well as securing grants for improvement projects. We need to continue to pursue and secure more of these grants whenever possible. We also need to expand our search for alternative funding sources. We need to continue to make improvements to our community and provide our residents with quality services. What we cannot do is to make the costs of these services over burdensome. Times are tough, and many of our residents are struggling. We as a city need to do our part and not make things worse by spending our resources in an inefficient manner. We need to do all we can to ease the burden felt by our businesses and our taxpayers.

Zaemisch: I think that the ongoing planning and scheduling for infrastructure improvements will continue to work sidewalk and street work into a calendar to ease costs for residents.

The city has been trying to reduce its debt. Do you feel the city is making progress in reducing its debt? Explain why or why not?

Zaemisch: I think the use of professional financial planners has helped balance the budget and offered ways to make bond sales at the most advantageous times. These planners also update the council regularly and have kept spending manageable and understandable.

Rokus: We have been making positive steps towards reducing our debt by utilizing our spending restraints and using cash on hand. We have been making progress. I feel, that because of efforts over the last ten years, we have been able to include more infrastructure improvement projects. For example, in my district, we were able to make improvements to 13th St. Moving forward, we need to continue with those efforts. And as I stated earlier, we need to be exploring new funding sources without making it less affordable to live here for our residents. We have looked into new funding sources in the past and found that we, as a community, could not afford to implement it. But just because previously explored options weren't right for us, doesn't mean we should quit looking. We just can't make things more difficult on our residents and business owners.

Affordable housing has been a topic of discussion lately. What are your ideas to create more affordable housing in the city?

Rokus: I feel that we are making progress on this area of concern. Affordable housing is an issue everywhere right now, not just here in Clintonville. We can gain knowledge from efforts made by other communities in their shared struggle by reaching out to their leadership to see what has worked and what has fallen flat. Also, I think that maintaining and improving our current housing stock will help grow our community. As the RDA Chairperson, we are discussing how we can transition some of the successes we have had for business improvements into residential home improvement initiatives. An attractive, well maintained housing stock can spur future improvements and development.

Zaemisch: Easing the spiraling costs of housing for Clintonville families rests mostly on federal control of interest rates. I do believe we have the recent spark of interest from investors and developers including multiple family housing starts. Easing property into zoning more city lands into residential is the next big step for the city to press for.

Mayoral candidates discuss issues

Kettenhoven, Supanich

BY BERT LEHMAN
STAFF REPORTER

CLINTONVILLE – Incumbent Steve Kettenhoven and challenger James Supanich will appear on the April 2 ballot.

They are seeking election as mayor of Clintonville.

Following is the second part of a two-part article reporting their views on the issues.

Affordable housing has been a topic of discussion lately. What are your ideas to create more affordable housing in the city?

Kettenhoven: One of the city administration's goals for 2023-2024 is a focus on housing. Our city administration continues to meet with residential developers. One of those developers, Impact 7, was invited to present at the September Redevelopment Authority meeting to discuss a potential affordable housing project at the Rexford Longfellow school.

While that particular project didn't work out, we will continue to meet with developers and work to possibly develop the vacant land on the northside of our community.

Supanich: Since there had been a lot of discussion of residents not wanting more low-income housing, I will address my comments to middle income affordable housing.

Again, this is not an easy topic to find workable solutions. Affordable housing revolves around several things. Cost is obvious, but reasons for building in the city are also an issue in this discussion.

Talking with some contractors, financing is a big issue. We could discuss with the banks in town a method of offering low interest loans to start with, or as what had been suggested in the past, the city could purchase land, subdivide it for housing, and offer the lots at extremely low pricing or as free lots. Whether these ideas would produce additional housing is still in question.

I would propose working with the two Realtors in town to develop a plan based on their knowledge of how we could start an affordable housing program. But the other factors such as programs for kids and adults have an impact on where people build. We could work with the school district to bolster the robotics team, start a rocket club, or maybe an astronomy club.

This would give kids or families more activities to choose from. We are already doing movies in the park, which is a great idea, and maybe we should be looking at concerts in the park or something of that nature for the adults.

A new fire station for the Clintonville Fire Department has been discussed for several years. Do you feel the fire department needs a new building? If yes, how do you recommend the city get to the point of building one? If no, why don't you feel the fire department needs one?

Supanich: Based on the needs for fire equipment that the city currently feels justified, we will eventually need a new fire barn. The next round of equipment may not fit in the firehouse and we certainly can't park them outside. But I feel there is a need to have more discussion with the fire chief on timeframe and vehicle need so we can plan when we actually need to build a new building. What we should be looking for right now is the location where the new fire barn would be built. What I really feel we need is a Streets Department building. That structure had a bad roof, heating unit, old electrical wiring and support walls are starting to deteriorate. To me this seems the higher priority at this point.

Kettenhoven: Our role as policy makers is to ensure we are making the best decisions for our community with public funds. The city continues to discuss facility needs during our capital improvement plan process each year. The Fire Station, as well as the Public Works Department building, are two of the facilities that are discussed. As we continue to restructure our debt, we will continue to evaluate both of those needs to better plan for 2029, which is when we will see capacity in our borrowing.

Why should residents of the city of Clintonville vote for you?

Kettenhoven: I am very passionate about our community. In my first term as Mayor, we've had several new businesses open on our Main Street, a dog park, and a new Aqua Park that will open this June. These are services that will not only benefit the residents of Clintonville, but also bring revenue in from outside of our community. I will continue to work with our professional staff and lead our council to make policy decisions that are in the best interest of our community. Clintonville has so much potential, and we're on the right track. Let's keep moving forward.

Supanich: I think Clintonville is a great city that has the potential to offer residents many opportunities. I feel my background is purchasing, budgets and capital plans will allow me to work with the city to develop many of the things that we need. Plus, to add items that the residents would like to have available to them.

Library offers park passes

CLINTONVILLE – State park and forest vehicle-admission day passes will be available to library card holders at the Clintonville Public Library.

Starting April 1, library card holders can check out a pass for free admission for one vehicle at any state park, forest or recreation area where admission is required.

This is a collaborative program of the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources and Clintonville Public Library.

"The DNR is continually looking for innovative opportunities to bring more people to state parks and forests, and to ensure everyone in Wisconsin has access to our incredible natural resources," said Steve Schmelzer, director of the DNR Bureau of Parks and Recreation. "By partnering with Wisconsin's library system, we can reach households who may not be as familiar with the wide array of opportunities Wisconsin's state parks and forests have to offer."

The program, Check Out Wisconsin's State Parks At Your Library, is a collaborative effort between the DNR, Wisconsin Library Association's Wisconsin Association of Public Libraries, Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction, and the C.D. Besadny Conservation Fund from the Natural Resources Foundation of Wisconsin.

The Friends of the Clintonville Public Library who funded the purchase of the passes.

"Our library provides resources for everyone of all ages and backgrounds about a broad range of topics, so adding access to our state park system is a natural fit. We are excited to participate, and we hope to see this program flourish in our community. Anyone with questions about the program should stop by the library," said Library Director Jamison Hein.

The goal of the program is to expand access to the Wisconsin state park system to new park visitors. Clintonville Public Library received 20 passes, each with a one-time use.

Library offers Book Club Express

NEW LONDON – The New London Public Library offers a free monthly service to patrons ages 3-18 called Book Club Express.

Kits are ready to be picked up the first week of each month and include 3-5 library books geared toward the child's reading level, a craft and a snack.

"This is a great resource for families who are too busy to stop in to pick out books or want something different to read," according to Stacy Dietzler, children services librarian. "Kids love the surprise of not knowing which books they will get and that a librarian picked out books just for them. With this program we are hoping to get books into the homes, as well as creating a fun experience involving books."

After nearly a year since its inception, more than 100 youths are participating in Book Club Express.

Thrivent and Friends of the New London Public Library have been sponsoring this program.

W-F School Board has four candidates

Two incumbents, two challengers

BY JAMES CARD
STAFF REPORTER

WEYAUWEGA – The April 2 election will have four candidates on the ballot for the Weyauwega-Fremont School Board.

Long-serving president Sandy Smith is stepping down and Doug Ehrenberg, Eric Kohl, Trisha Loehrke and Richard Wagner will be serving out their current terms.

Up for reelection are Brandon Leschke and Brad Gerrits. Nancy Gorchals and Walley Sedlar filed papers to be in the running as challengers.

The Waupaca County Post sent two questions about their background and views to each of the candidates.

Why do you want to be a member of the W-F School Board and what are your qualifications?

Gerrits: My wife and I moved to the area 13 years ago, and we are raising two boys that currently attend Fremont Elementary. As a parent, coach, local business owner, and dedicated advocate for equality education, I am passionate about ensuring our children, along with every other child in the district, receive the best possible education regardless of background or circumstances.

As a current member of the board, I've done a lot of listening. I believe a well-informed board member makes good decisions. I believe in the power of transparency and accountability in shaping the direction of our schools. I believe that trust and teamwork amongst the board members is crucial.

Promoting academic excellence: I will advocate for curriculum that prepares students for success in an ever-changing, competitive world. Supporting educators: I recognize the invaluable role that teachers and staff play in the lives of our students. I will advocate for policies and initiatives that support our educators. Engaging the community: I believe in the importance of open communication and collaboration between the school board, parents, students and community members. Fiscal responsibility: I will prioritize fiscal accountability by making sure that our resources are allocated efficiently and effectively to support student learning and achievement.

Your vote is crucial, and I'm ready to roll up my sleeves and get to work on behalf of our students, families, and community. My focus will always be on "what's in the best interest of the students' education and the school district."

Gorchals: I was raised in the W-F School District and continue to live here to this day. I am currently a Weyauwega small business owner of 20 years. I was a proud student in the W-F class of 1986! (Who we all know was the best class) My husband and I sent both of our children to Weyauwega-Fremont. We now have two beautiful granddaughters attending there as well.

I recently attended a pep rally at the W-F High School gym, and the wonderful experience reminded of why I'm running for the school board. The excitement of all in attendance for every sport, club, and musical extracurricular was evident. It solidified the fact that WE ALL need to put the welfare and success of our W-F students first! This cannot be achieved without emboldening a strong, supportive, and caring staff.

Gorchals

Leschke: I have been on the W-F School Board of Education since May 24th, 2021 I initially came to the board to fill a vacant position for City of Weyauwega Representative after several attempts were made by the School District to find a Representative. After some time had passed by with no interest by any city citizen, I agreed to fill the position and serve the remainder of the term. Since being appointed to fill the partial term, I have been re-elected to another full term and am seeking re-election once again. I've been employed with the City of Weyauwega for 19 years. As a responsibility of my employment, I'm actively involved with budgeting and expenditure of tax dollars. I personally have two children going K-12 in the district and several other nieces and nephews. I feel I'm well in tune with the functions of the district as a result of my family and work engagement. I'm dedicated to the success of the students and staff. I'm responsible, committed and reliable.

Leschke

Sedlar: I would be honored to be elected as a School Board Member for the W-F School District. As a School Board member, I would be a solid and grounded voice for the Bloomfield and town of Wolf River area. I would take pride in gaining knowledge and making sound decisions when it comes to the District's education system as well as supporting the wise use of all taxpayers' dollars.

My commitment lies in ensuring prudent decision-making regarding our education system and the effective utilization of taxpayer funds. I believe in connecting directly with the guardians of our District's children in order to get a true feeling on how the current students are being prepared for their futures, as well as taxpayers with graduated or without children whose monetary support is vital to the educational system.

My qualifications stem from a robust educational background, having served as an instructor at Fox Valley Technical College for over 17 years in the Natural Resources and Agricultural programs and I have a Masters Degree in Education. During my time at FVTC, I guided students towards Associate's Degrees and advocated for their continued academic advancement towards a Bachelor's Degree, if desired. I am dedicated to leveraging this experience to contribute meaningfully to the W-F School Board's initiatives and uphold the best interests of our community.

What do you feel is the biggest issue facing the W-F School District, and how would you try to fix that issue?

Gerrits: Currently, the biggest issue in the school district is transparency and communication between the school and the community. To solve this, the school board would greatly benefit from having someone with leadership experience and effective communication skills. Strong leaders can build consensus, resolve conflicts, and maintain a focus on student outcomes amidst differing perspectives and interests.

The school district also needs a well-devised strategic plan. Through, once again, strong leadership experience and effective communication, we can develop a clear and coherent vision for the school district's future and translate it into an actionable strategic plan.

Gorchals: My main priorities in running for the W-F School Board are as follows: 1) Positively representing the students, staff, and taxpayers of the Weyauwega-Fremont School District. 2) Making intelligent/thoughtful decisions as it pertains to taxpayer dollars and grants received.

In closing I want share some amazing words of wisdom my father gave to me when I was young: "If you hold an elected position, you need to spend the taxpayer's dollars as if it was coming out of your own checkbook."

Leschke: I feel staffing and staff retention is the biggest issue. Too often we see good staff come and go. When good staff go, they take with them district training, local knowledge, local understanding, local student/parent relationships, and years of district experience. I want to encourage, cultivate and build the district with the best staff we possibly can to educate and serve our children. I will encourage employee growth and accountability. I will encourage and support administration to provide the tools needed for our teachers/staff and their professional development. I will encourage administration to conduct the required employee reviews and evaluations to ensure we meet required criteria. With employee retention at the forefront, I want to see a strong in person emphasis of optional employee exit interviews when staff moves on. I understand it's nearly impossible for every employee to be totally happy; however I also know there is always something we can learn from and adjust. It's difficult to fix and improve upon what is unknown. I will encourage the district explore all options to improve upon employee retention. The retention of good quality happy staff will help to provide our students with the best educational experience WF school district can offer.

Sedlar: The foremost challenge facing the W-F school district revolves around the enduring quest for academic excellence amidst evolving expectations, financial constraints and stakeholder involvement. Wisconsin's public education system always faces challenges; we are no different today than when the education system originated in the 1840s – expectations or outcomes and funding are key components as well as administration, teacher, student and parent engagement.

How we get students to graduate from the W-F school district as the most-prepared and well-educated people we can takes a team of school board members, administration, faculty and support staff working together with parents to make some tough decisions for the common goal of the best education for our young people today and moving forward. Collaboration is paramount in navigating these complexities and making crucial decisions in the best interest of our students.

Keeping young people motivated throughout life is learned early with the help of our educational system. I will strive to listen, ask important questions, and help as a school board member to make sound decisions to ensure W-F students have the best educational opportunity we as a community can provide. By fostering an environment of open communication and collective problem-solving, we can address challenges head-on and ensure that the educational experience offered by the W-F school district is nothing short of exemplary.

Manawa set to begin comprehensive planning

BY EMILY CONROY
STAFF REPORTER

MANAWA – The city of Manawa held its first open house March 18 to introduce some of the ideas for updating the city's comprehensive plan.

Eric Fowle is a senior planner with Cedar Corporation, the company hired by the city to update the plan.

He was in attendance to answer questions and present ideas to help Manawa grow in the future.

Fowle said a comprehensive plan needs to be updated every 10 years. Manawa's plan was last updated and adopted in 2009.

A comprehensive plan is required for communities that decide to regulate land use through zoning and land division ordinances, he said.

"The city actually ran the risk of legal challenges if someone didn't like a decision that they made from a land use perspective," Fowle said.

Fowle said he starts with the previous plan document and then updates all of the demographic information, facts and figures and background information.

The end product then looks at recommendations to help the community reach its goals.

The plan will focus in on varying priorities that are predicted to affect the community moving forward, things like economic development, transportation, ground water protection, affordable housing, expanding on trails and parks.

One of the most important things Fowle said was to update the city's zoning ordinances. Fowle said much of the conversation has been about affordable housing. Updating the zoning ordinances can be an important regulatory tool that can allow for the housing or prevent it.

"We wanted to condense it and really just filter it down, in the next five years what would move the needle the most," he said.

Fowle said there are opportunities for improvement with the Department of Transportation when they rebuild State Highway 22 through downtown, working with new design elements.

Expanding trails is another aspect that is mentioned as one of the priorities, along with the roads. He said trails are amenities that communities generally use and enjoy, along with the city's parks.

In addition to the priority directives, Fowle also identified two areas in the city that could be used for development.

Those are currently the northwest and the southeast areas of the city, land that is primarily agricultural.

"Obviously times are different, cities are having to treat residential development similar to what they did for industrial or commercial in the past where you incentivize," he said. "There is just no way around it, it just costs too much to build homes now."

Fowle said there has not been a family home built in Manawa in 10 years.

In order to adopt the new comprehensive plan, the planning commission will hold a public hearing. Then city council will vote for its approval.

A date has not been set for the public hearing yet.

Ice fishing in Mongolia

BY EMILY CONROY
STAFF REPORTER

MANAWA – Ice fishing has become more than a hobby for one Manawa native who recently competed in Mongolia at the World Championship Ice Fishing Contest on March 9-10.

Nate Winters, Little Wolf High School Class of 2008, brought home a silver medal with the USA ice fishing team.

This marked the first time the United States has won a medal while overseas in the world contest.

"It is the accomplishment of my life time to say that I am a part of this team, and had the opportunities to fish in these wonderful countries in some of the hardest conditions imaginable," he said.

Winters began his ice fishing journey in 2015, fishing competitively at the state and national level. He started trying out for the USA ice fishing team in 2018.

He said he tries out every year for the team, making it on as an alternate angler in 2019 and competing in Bulgaria, than as an angler this year in Mongolia.

There are 10 teams that currently compete at the world competitions, they are the USA, Lithuania, Ukraine, Mongolia, Latvia, Sweden, Norway, Finland, Estonia and Kazakhstan.

The competition is split into two days, three hours each day.

Each team gets three days of official practice. They are not allowed in the competition area, but the training helps the team learn the lake, the fish species and the best ways to approach the contest.

The event was held on Ugii Lake in Mongolia, a lake 55 miles outside of the host city of Kharakorum. On the lake they create five separate sectors about 50 by 130 meters.

Winters said during competition the sector where teams fish is selected at random.

They are only allowed two hole markers at any given time. Winters said on his first day he had to drill two holes in his three-hour allotment of time, during which he caught 80 fish.

On the second day he had one of the more difficult sectors. He drilled 18 holes, but only caught two fish.

The ice on the lake was 53 inches thick, and Winters said only hand augers are allowed. Electric and gas powered augers are not allowed in the world championship competitions.

Hand drilling through almost five feet of ice was one of the biggest challenges that the team encountered, he said.

Winters said the team was able to turn it around on the second day, despite the lower number of fish he caught.

"We all worked together, that was probably the number one key to this year," he said. "Everybody was selfless in the fact that we're going there, we are going to work together and learn as much as we possibly can so that everyone that is fishing has the same opportunity to succeed."

There were two species of fish that his team caught, the common roach, which generally are small measuring 8 to 10 inches, and Red Fin Perch, which are also small, measuring in at 8 to 12 inches.

Winters said the amount of fish caught during the Mongolian contest set records for the heaviest weights ever seen in the world competition.

"It's super competitive, it's super interesting to watch and see how everything develops and how the fishing can be as fast and furious as you can imagine," he said.

The world championships have been held in the US twice, the first time in Rhinelander in 2010 and in Wausau in 2013. The world championship will return to the United States in 2025, and will be held in Michigan.

Iola Mills grows gelato market

BY EMILY CONROY
STAFF REPORTER

IOLA – Iola Mills has found a way to help customers get their gelato fix outside of their open and busy season by selling pints of their gelato in Stevens Point and Plover.

The two businesses currently selling the pints are the Stevens Point Co-op, 633 Second St., in Stevens Point, and The Colorful Plate Café, 3400 Innovation Drive, in Plover.

Angie and Ed Lemar bought Iola Mills in February 2023. They continued offering the gelato recipe of Tom Fucik, the previous owner.

Fucik learned his recipe at an Italian gelato school in Chicago, Angie said.

The Iola Mills is not heated, which means there is an off season, despite trying to be open around event days and holidays, the lack of heat makes it difficult to maintain regular winter hours.

Angie said being able to sell the gelato pints has created year round revenue for the business. It also provides the gelato pints to customers from Stevens Point who may not be able to make it to Iola for a scoop of the Italian dessert.

The Lemars use Fucik's main recipe then they create specialty flavors based off of the original recipe.

Angie said this helps for their wholesale venture, as businesses can request specialty flavors to use at their own location. This allows them to grow their gelato business in different ways.

The Lemars have been long time Stevens Point Co-op members, so they knew they like to work with local producers. They thought it would be the right type of product for the co-op customer base.

"It just seemed like a natural first step to work with the co-op again because of their focus on local producers," Angie said.

Angie put out the idea of wholesaling their gelato on their Facebook page, to see if any businesses would be interested in selling the product.

The Food and Farm Exploration Center, which is an education center with a focus on agriculture. Located inside the center is the Colorful Plate Café.

Grace Harbridge, manager of the Colorful Plate Café, said her first job was at Iola Mills under the previous owner, so it was a natural fit to sell the pints.

"We try to carry as much local [products] as we can and this is like a local, but also a home for me," Harbridge said.

She said the best selling pints are the vanilla, chocolate and peanut butter cup flavors.

"We get a lot of teenagers that want to eat sugar and drink sugar," Harbridge said.

Iola Mills will start its season in May through October, the pints will continue to be for sale at the restaurant, with many more flavors available in house.

"It's been a great response so far, people are really excited to be able to know that when we're not open that they can find it somewhere else," Angie said. "And for those people in the Stevens Point area I think they've really been excited that they can get it a little easier."

Brazile, Novarro speak at UWSP

STEVENS POINT – The University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point is hosting an event next month that will bring together two seasoned political analysts for a discussion of the American political landscape.

Donna Brazile, former chair of the Democratic Party, and Republican strategist Ana Novarro will present “The Health of American Democracy in a Polarized World” at 7 p.m., Monday, April 8, in the Dreyfus University Center Laird Room, 1015 Reserve St., Stevens Point.

The conversation will be moderated by Wisconsin Public Radio’s Rob Mentzer.

Brazile and Novarro are among the best political commentators on tv today. Despite hailing from opposing political parties, these pundits join forces to provide blunt and humorous commentary on the American political landscape.

The talk is sponsored by the Tommy G. Thompson Center on Public Leadership and is presented by the Wisconsin Institute for Public Policy and Service (WIPPS) and UW-Stevens Point.

“In spite of the growing polarization in the country, people really do want to be able to engage in civil, constructive conversations with those on the other side of the political spectrum,” said Eric Giordano, executive director of WIPPS. “Donna Brazile and Ana Novarro are prominent figures in the Democratic and Republican parties, respectively, but their easy-going, respectful rapport can serve as a model for all of us.”

Attendees may also access the event via Zoom by registering at <https://tinyurl.com/thompson24>.

Amherst school referendum on ballot

AMHERST – Tomorrow River School District (TRSD) residents will vote April 2 on an operational referendum.

The three-year non-recurring referendum asks voters for $900,000 annually for the 2024-27 school years in order to offset projected shortfalls.

The shortfalls are projected to be of approximately $850,000 in 2024-25;

$850,000 in 2025-26 and $1.2 million in 2026-27.

The current operational referendum in effect at the district since 2001 is $400,000 annually. This renewal request of the expiring referendum asks for an incremental $500,000 annually.

The district’s need for more revenues stems from a few factors.

First, slowly declining in-district enrollment. TRSD receives $11,000 for each in-district student enrolled at the school.

Second, a significant health insurance cost increase. Security Health, one of only two companies that provided bids through the district’s broker, raised the school district’s rate approximately 15% for 2024 over 2023. This increase amounts to $359,700 over the prior year.

Third, overall cost increases. In 2001 the district’s operational referendum was $350,000. It is currently $400,000. Adjusted for inflation it should be more than $600,000 today.

The proposed tax increase amounts to 71 cents per $1,000 in property value. On a $300,000 house, then, this equates to an additional $213 in school assessed property tax.

Students donate blankets for newborns

STEVENS POINT – Thanks to area students, 50 newborns will be going home from Aspirus Stevens Point Hospital’s birth center snuggled in handmade blankets.

The Student Council at Plover-Whiting Elementary School wanted to do something special for new mothers. With the help of the school’s sixth-grade classes, they made 50 fleece tie blankets.

The cleaned, packaged blankets are now being sent home with each newborn delivered at Aspirus Stevens Point Hospital.

According to Student Council Advisor Suzanne Schroeder, the project was supported by Walmart and the families of Plover-Whiting Elementary – including one grandmother who donated a generous amount of fabric.

Winners named in conservation contest

STEVENS POINT – Area students participated in the Conservation Awareness Poster Contest for students in grades K-12.

The contest theme was “May the Forest Be With You Always.”

Students placing at the Portage County contest were:

Primary Division, Grades K-1: First Place - Ambrose Kozikowski.

No entries were received in the Elementary Division, Grades 2-3.

Middle Division, Grades 4-6: First Place – Pearl Carriveau; Second Place – Liam Mangin; Third Place – Calliope Lemar.

Junior Division, Grades 7-9: First place – Brenna Lockman.

Senior Division: Grades 10-12: First place – Ayla Carriveau; Second Place - Kaelynn Kazda.

First place winners advanced to the area contest hosted by Oneida County on Feb. 6. Portage County’s entries in the Elementary and Senior divisions placed first and advanced to the state contest, held as part of WI Land and Water Conservation Association’s annual conference in Green Bay, March 6-8.

The Conservation Speaking Contest is open to students in grades 5 through 12 in three divisions: Elementary, Grades 5-6; Junior, Grades 7-8, and Senior, Grades 9-12. Speakers research topics promoting the conservation of natural resources and the protection or enhancement of environmental quality.

Taking first place in the Junior Division at the Portage County and North Central Area was Katelyn McNelly with her speech “Powerful Pollinators are Conservation Champions.” McNelly performed her speech at the state contest as part of the WI Land and Water Conservation Association’s annual conference on March 6.

For more information on the contests, contact Patty Benedict, benedicp@co.portage.wi.gov or visit

BILLS

The second bill, SB532, eliminates a section of administrative code that prohibits driver schools from being established within 1,500 feet of a Department of Transportation office that provides driving skills tests.

This legislation was requested by a constituent from Tomah.

The third, SB 416, removes a requirement for county veterans service offices to obtain grant funding from the Department of Veterans Affairs.

“Before this law was enacted, a county veterans service officer had to take a civil service examination in order for their county to be eligible for DVA grant funds,” Testin said. “However, this test covers very little of what a county veterans service officer’s job duties actually entail and simply has no real purpose. It’s well past time that we get rid of this bureaucratic red tape, streamline the grant distribution process and quickly get our veterans the resources they need.”

The fourth bill, SB 476, codifies current administrative code so that Wisconsin-licensed healthcare providers located outside the state have the power of statute behind them when attempting to enroll in the Medical Assistance program.

Earlier this session, new Medicaid rules were finalized that allow healthcare organizations that do not have a physical address in Wisconsin to apply for certification as a Medical Assistance provider so they can treat Medical Assistance recipients via telehealth. These healthcare professionals must hold a Wisconsin license and be in good standing with their respective licensing boards.

Under SB 476, the Department of Health Services is prohibited from requiring out-of-state healthcare providers to maintain a physical location in Wisconsin to register for the Medical Assistance program.

The fifth bill, SB 592, increases the reimbursement rate under the Medical Assistance program for complex rehab technology equipment.

Complex rehab technology, or CRT, consists of medically necessary and individually configured products and services designed to meet the unique medical and functional needs of individuals with disabilities.

Managing Mother Nature in Waupaca

Progress on city lakes

BY JAMES CARD
STAFF REPORTER

WAUPACA – The March 15 meeting of the Friends of Mirror and Shadow Lakes was a recap and review of progress on various projects on and around the two lakes. The meeting was led by Parks and Recreation Director Laura Colbert.

Mystery solved

Over the past year, people have noticed that the channel that connects Mirror and Shadow Lakes was filling up. Excess sand was the culprit but no one was sure where the sand was coming from and how it was making its way into the channel.

There were meetings and discussions with experts.

Parks Superintendent Josh Peterson figured it out. He determined that the sand blew off the beach during dry winter weather on days where no snow was present. He observed sand whipping across the beach and piling up towards the channel.

Peterson erected a snow fence, however; this winter's weather was weird so the efficacy of the snow fence is yet to be determined.

The parks department also got an estimate for rain gutters on the beach house. The rain gutters are to prevent erosion and to keep more sand from going into the channel.

Goose round-up

The Canada geese are back in town and the parks department has been in touch with an animal control company that specializes in removing problem geese. The goose round-up was approved by the city council and the cost is approximately $3,500.

Colbert said, "We are not anti-geese. We are anti-..." "Poop," said many people all at once.

"Yes, but also illnesses among our families and kids that are swimming at the beach. This can cause a lot of bacterial issues. On top of that, our lifeguards spend way too many hours a day removing this and so that taxpayers dollars we could put elsewhere instead of removing goose poop," said Colbert.

She said a poster would be created to be distributed throughout the community explaining this problem. According to Peterson who participated in a previous goose round-up years ago, the company, along with city employees and volunteers, surround the geese and slowly push them to an enclosure where they are live trapped. This is done during a period where the geese are flightless during the molting process when they lose and regrow feathers.

The geese are later tested to be deemed fit for human or animal consumption. The round-up will take place at the end of May or early June.

Fish, weevils, cattails

The topic of stocking fish was discussed but it was determined that it was unnecessary. The only complaint was that some of the bluegill were stunted but other than that, the fish populations were healthy.

There are aquatic weevils that feed on non-native Eurasian milfoil, an invasive weed that chokes up lakes. The beneficial weevils make their way onto shore for cover and thus, landowners along the water are encouraged not to mow a strip of waterfront grass between Memorial Day and Labor Day. The weevils need that vegetative cover for protection.

The idea is to help a tiny insect that in turn fights a big problem facing many lakes in Wisconsin, including Mirror and Shadow.

Cattail management is a priority on the lakes. They are invading certain sections of the lakes. There are native and non-native ones and Friends of Mirror and Shadow Lakes wanted to know how to identify between the two before culling problem stands.

Because of oak wilt and emerald ash borer-killed trees, the city has a surplus of logs to use as fish sticks (log structures sunk to the bottom of the lake to create fish habitat).

Fish sticks have been sunk into both lakes before by skidding the logs onto the ice, bolting them to boulders and when the ice melts, the structure sinks to the bottom.

However, this year's warm winter prevented such projects so the group suggested saving the logs for a colder winter.

Bridge champions announced

WAUPACA – The Waupaca Duplicate Bridge Championship games were held Friday, March 22.

The Club Champion was awarded to Karen Holly and Sue Heideman, second place went to Dan and Mary Schommer and third place to Roger Collins and Patricia Hoehn. All award winners were from Waupaca.

The next duplicate games in Waupaca are scheduled for 9 a.m. Friday, March 29, in the Holly Center, 321 S. Main St. All area bridge players are invited.

Dedicated to horses

Karen Klein, of Waupaca, was named the Wisconsin Horse Council Horseperson of the Year. She is a board member of the Friends of Hartman Creek. Klein is actively involved in monitoring the trails, so they are safe, working with the park to increase the number of trails and ensure conservation of the land. She also worked with the Wisconsin Horse Council to receive a grant for additions to the park including safer mounting blocks. She can be seen often riding the trails on her trusty Fjord horse, Sander. Submitted Photo

With over 20 years of experience as an engineer, including leadership of a global program that manages tissue machine assets in 23 countries, I understand what knowledge and experiences are needed for our students to succeed in today's highly competitive global economy and am dedicated to working collaboratively with other members to achieve our shared goals. I am passionate about education and would be honored to continue to serve on the board.

Klismet: I have been serving the Waupaca community for the last three years as chair of the Buildings and Grounds, and currently I serve as your vice-president of the Waupaca School Board. I chose to run for the Waupaca School Board to get more involved at the community level and wanted to set a good example for my five children. I have been a resident of Waupaca since 1976 and I am a 1986 graduate of WHS. Four of my children have graduated from Waupaca and I currently have a daughter that is a junior.

I have served this community through our family-owned and operated business since we moved here, my wife Carol and myself continue to do so yet today. I feel I bring a common-sense, real-life experience voice to the board and believe every student and employee of the Waupaca school district deserves a safe and healthy learning environment. I feel every parent should be able to have individuals that represent them that are approachable and reachable. I pride myself in being available to you when you need me, anytime of day. I would appreciate your vote on April 2nd.

Link: I'm driven to join the Waupaca School Board out of a desire to give back to a community that shaped me, while paving a path forward for the next generation. As a consultant and leader at a global firm, I've honed my skills in strategic planning and project management, making me well-equipped to oversee changes at the administrative level.

My own experiences as a neurodivergent individual and a parent with a child in the school district underline my commitment to prioritizing mental health, faculty and supporting staff, innovating education, and fostering inclusion. I look forward to leveraging my professional expertise and personal insights to ensure the board serves student, faculty and community needs.

Manion: I love Waupaca and have been part of this community for 45 years. Our four children received an excellent education here and being a board member has allowed me to give back to our community. I am grateful and humbled to have been elected to serve on this board for several years. Being a board member brings an incredible responsibility to our students, staff, families and taxpayers, one which I never take lightly.

I believe I bring two crucial perspectives to the board: my female voice and my board experience. Knowledge of past practice and institutional knowledge is invaluable to present day proceedings and a vision for the future. Diversity in board makeup is also invaluable to good decision-making as those voices fairly and equitably represent the makeup of our community. Running for re-election will allow me to bring to fruition many exciting projects and endeavors of which I have been part of since their inception.

Along with my past board experience, I believe being in the field of education for my entire career as an: educator, artist-in-residence, administrator, author, and adjunct professor at St. Norbert and Silver Lake Colleges has afforded me the knowledge, qualifications, and passion for the role of a board member.

Verhalen: I am a dedicated advocate for quality education as an active member of our community, I am excited to contribute my skills, experience, and passion towards the success of our school district. I realize the importance of this role and the challenges it may entail. I am willing to collaborate with teachers, administrators, parents, students, and community members to implement positive changes in the district.

As a board, we need to make informed decisions that benefit our students and the community. I have had the privilege of serving on the board of a private school where I played an integral role in facilitating its remarkable growth. The school had a small student body, I actively contributed to the strategic planning and implementation of initiatives that propelled the school's expansion.

In my real estate career, I have successfully navigated highly charged and emotionally challenging circumstances by skillfully brokering deals that addressed complex issues and diverse perspectives. In these situations, I demonstrated adept negotiation skills, empathy, and a commitment to finding mutually beneficial solutions. By fostering open communication, building trust, and remaining focused on common goals, I was able to facilitate agreements that satisfied all parties involved.

What do you feel is the biggest issue facing the Waupaca School District, and how would you try to fix that issue?

Adams: In my view, one of the most significant issues facing our school district is the need for increased transparency in staff changes and stronger collaboration with the community. To address this issue, I would propose implementing strategies that prioritize open communication and foster a greater sense of involvement.

I would advocate for clear and timely communication regarding staff changes. This includes providing comprehensive explanations for important changes, such as transfers or resignations, to ensure staff members feel informed and supported.

Furthermore, I would continue to promote transparency through accessible online platforms or regular updates on the district's website and social media channels. This would enable parents, staff, and community members to stay informed about important decisions, upcoming events, and district updates.

By enhancing transparency in staff changes and fostering greater interaction with the community, we can create a stronger sense of trust, inclusivity, and collaboration within the Waupaca School District. This approach ensures that decision-making processes are more inclusive, empowers stakeholders, and ultimately helps to cultivate an environment that supports the success of all students.

Genske: Like many districts across the country, we are facing the challenge of declining enrollment due to lower birth rates. This affects our funding, as it is based on the number of students attending. However, I am happy to report that enrollment has stabilized in the short term and we are actively working to attract new families through open enrollment and promoting our district as a preferred destination.

Our facilities, academics, staff and extracurriculars are strong and we are increasing awareness of these strengths through improved branding, such as the new video board in the high school gymnasium. This was funded through local business advertising partnerships at no cost to taxpayers. I look forward to further leveraging this funding model to build community pride in our excellent school district. That said, we can't forget that the foundation of all schools is the teachers and staff, we must continue to attract and retain top teaching talent. To attract and retain talent, competitive pay and career opportunities are required. I am always open to feedback and suggestions, please reach out to me if you would like to discuss. My contact information is available on the school district's website.

Klismet: One of the biggest issues for Waupaca School District is maintaining a balanced budget. From declining enrollment to less state funding, the district has to find areas to save money and generate revenue. I feel that there are several ways to generate revenue without having to cut programs for our students and benefits for those employed by the school district.

The School District of Waupaca is responsible for the upkeep of certain properties in the community. The soccer fields and Ffrisby golf on King Road and also the tennis courts at the high school and middle school. I feel that we could work out a better agreement with the Waupaca Park & Rec department to help relieve the financial burden of these properties. In addition, we are at half capacity in the High School, we need to come up with ideas for that empty space. I feel that Fox Valley Technical College would be utilized more by our students if it was located in our high school.

Another item is the Comet logo. Currently there is no trademark on the Comet logo. That means anyone can use the logo at no cost to them and benefit financially from the printing of that logo. I feel that the Comet Logo should be trademarked and then money could be generated for the school from that logo. Thank you for the opportunity to serve you and our community. I would appreciate your vote on April 2nd Link: The Waupaca School District faces the challenge of modernizing education whilst ensuring the well-being of students and teachers. As a business transformation leader and parent, I intend to use strategic planning to enhance teaching methods and provide strong support systems to assist teachers and students in navigating educational challenges. Advocacy for fiscal responsibility, transparency, and community involvement is also on my agenda. By striking a balance between these, I am committed to fostering a nurturing environment that promotes high academic achievement, strengthens our school community, and paves the way for long-term success.

Manion: I feel the biggest issue facing the Waupaca school district is tackling and balancing the district's budget while maintaining our "Excellence in Education." This becomes a challenge due to limitations in state funding to school districts and a worry to not pass that burden on to local taxpayers. Unpredictable revenue limits, not tied to inflation make it difficult to deal with rising costs in utilities, insurance, operations, wages, programming, construction, etc...

I feel the best way to deal with this is to always keep in mind, "Who we are as a community and what we are about." Always approaching decisions with "What's best for all our students" helps us to create the best programs, hire and maintain our great staff, celebrate our four unique schools, support our sports and extracurriculars and promote the arts in our schools. A "We're All in This Together" mentality is the best way to achieve this by coming together with open communication, transparency, creativity, common interests, and shared values. This approach will help us tackle important issues of safety, mental health, diversity in our district, and preparing our students for college and career readiness in our ever-changing world.

Verhalen: As a real estate business owner who is tied to the success of our local educational options (which increase property values), and as a community member who feels a sense of ownership in educating our youth, I believe that our district is effectively utilizing its funds and doing an excellent job at managing them. The district offers many diverse programs focused on students, equipping them with tools for future success. The list of programs we currently offer students is quite impressive, including student career planning support.

I am impressed with the Waupaca Works program and the positive impact it has on our students and community. The economic development potential is endless. I had the opportunity to witness two students engaged in a youth apprenticeship, and it was fascinating to see their growth. I believe there needs to be more engagement within the community for local partnerships and supportive programming for our students. I would like to see a strong marketing strategy in which our district becomes a destination district.

By showcasing our strengths, attracting more students and families, and engaging with the community, we can improve our overall success and enhance our reputation. Let's work together to achieve educational excellence for our families.

PUBLISHER'S LETTER

The True Meaning of Easter

Dear Reader,

Easter, a holiday celebrated by millions worldwide, holds deep significance rooted in both religious tradition and cultural symbolism. At its core, Easter commemorates the resurrection of Jesus Christ, a pivotal event in Christian theology symbolizing hope, renewal, and redemption.

This miraculous event, occurring on the third day after Christ's crucifixion, signifies victory over death and the promise of eternal life. For Christians, Easter represents the culmination of Lent, a period of fasting, reflection, and spiritual growth leading up to this momentous occasion.

Beyond its religious connotations, Easter also carries profound symbolism in nature's cycle of rebirth and rejuvenation. As spring arrives, bringing with it blooming flowers, chirping birds, and warmer weather, Easter serves as a metaphorical representation of new beginnings and the triumph of life over death. The imagery of eggs, bunnies, and pastel colors commonly associated with Easter further symbolizes fertility, abundance, and the beauty of creation.

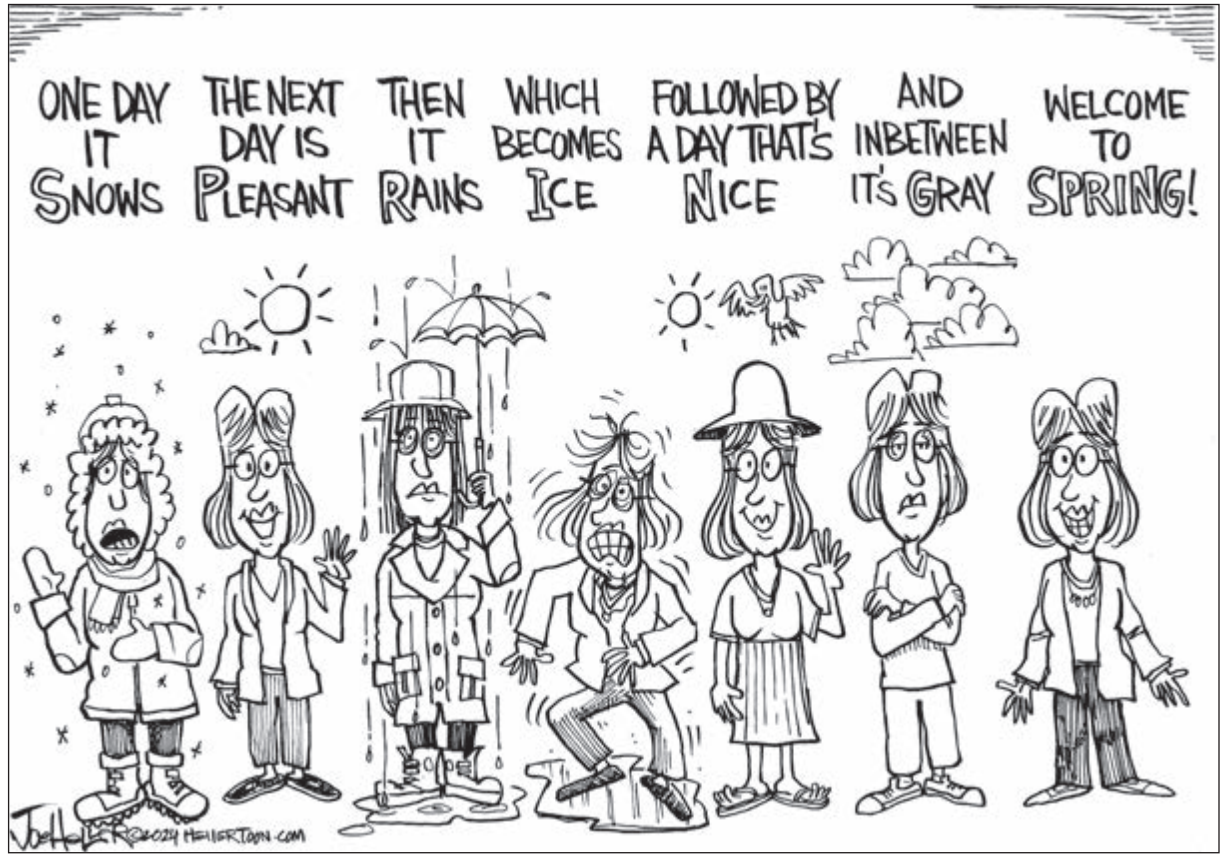

Moreover, Easter is a time for families and communities to come together, sharing in the joy of the season through various traditions such as Easter egg hunts, feasting, and attending church services. It serves as a reminder to cherish loved ones, embrace hope, and embrace the promise of a brighter tomorrow.

In essence, Easter encapsulates themes of faith, renewal, and unity, resonating deeply with individuals of diverse backgrounds and beliefs. Whether through religious observance or secular festivities, Easter remains a time-honored occasion to rejoice in the triumph of life and love. Happy Easter!

Vote yes for constitutional amendments

This letter is in response to last week's letter by the disinformed League of Women Voters of Stevens Point concerning the constitutional amendments on the ballot in April in Wisconsin.

With all due respect for the League of Women Voters from Stevens Point, they are flat out wrong when it comes to their position on the constitutional amendments. We, as citizens of Wisconsin, must vote yes on Questions One and Two. By voting yes on Question One, the residents of the State of Wisconsin are clearly sending a message to corporations (i.e., Facebook Zuckerbucks) and foreign countries (i.e., China and Russia) that their money and donations cannot be used in the State of Wisconsin to influence our elections and ultimately influence state policy. Vote yes on Question One to protect Wisconsin Elections from outside and foreign money.

A yes vote on Question Two will protect our election security by not allowing people, foreign governments or corporations from outside of Wisconsin to run our elections. The citizens of Wisconsin must run our elections. Wisconsin has a long history of fair and open elections, but recently individuals and companies outside of Wisconsin are gaining access to run our elections (example: City of Green Bay 2020 election). We, as citizens of Wisconsin, must take control of our elections and vote yes on Question Two. This will help protect our election integrity from people, corporations and foreign countries outside of Wisconsin from running our elections.

I urge everyone to vote yes and yes on Questions One and Two for the constitutional amendments. A yes and yes vote brings common sense back to the State of Wisconsin election process.

Voters have a choice

This Tuesday, you have a choice between two candidates for second district alder: myself and Ms. Guthrie.

Ms. Guthrie says she likes the job Mr. Shorr's been doing, like the "help" he gave the people who complained about the noise at Goerke Park during games or people speeding on their street. What I remember is his ignoring what people said before the council and instead, talking about what he read on the way in, taking up 15 minutes without coming to a point.

This is exactly why I'm running! The council even ignored the results of their own Business 51 survey. Seeing people having to resort to a petition on Stanley Street and the road project referendum, you can't help but conclude there's a disconnect between the council and many people in this city. I will endeavor to bring all sides to the table and arrive at a compromise.

Reading Ms. Guthrie's writings, you quickly notice she has her own agenda. There's nothing in there about working with the people, getting their opinion, etc.

Geez, that's what we have now!

Conversely, the first two items on my handout were to: (1) establish regular office hours so you can actually meet with me to discuss your concerns and (2) ensure that if you ever have to go before the council, that I will make sure you're listened to. And, as promised, that list of concerns I got from you will be my starting point. Also unlike Ms. Guthrie, I'm independent. My only commitment is to you!

As a financial planner, I listened to and worked with people to resolve their problems. That's what I will strive to do for you!

I hope you will consider voting for me on Tuesday.

Thank you for your consideration.

Editors' resilience

Resilience - the capacity of a person or entity to maintain their core purpose and integrity in the face of dramatically changing circumstances.

That word came to mind as I sat in the parking lot outside the Press Times office in Green Bay.

As the late afternoon sun hit the words — Press Times — it cast a light orange glow on the sign.

As I soaked in the moment, I thought over the events of the past month.

With the election drawing near, the atmosphere has become somewhat volatile.

I thought of the numerous editors in our publishing company and some of the things they have had to endure over the past few weeks.

The calls I get from them tell me that it is the same all over.

Our editors — though they represent every generation of the workforce, they have one thing in common — resilience.

I am proud to be a part of this group of kind, sincere and dedicated group of editors that connect and inform our communities.

Though each one of them abides by publishing company policy, they are often subject to those who wish to use them as pawns in their own agenda.

But, our editors are dedicated and resilient and those roots run deep in this company.

If you are not familiar with the "David and Goliath" story behind Multi Media Channels' legacy, you might want to check out "The Chain Gang" by Richard McCord.

The Press Times is a testament to resilience — that of the Frank Wood family.

The family's dedication to local journalism is evident in its publishing footprint and the Pass It Forward internship program that is further supported by the Packers Give Back and Nicolet National Bank.

We were able to shine a light on the program this month at the Wisconsin Newspaper Association convention held in Madison, where our publications took home 47 awards.

I want to thank all of our editors for their commitment to local journalism and congratulate those who took home awards.

Your dedication blows me away.

Are non-compete clauses enforceable?

BY CALEB GERBITZ
KNOW YOUR LEGAL RIGHTS

A non-compete agreement is a bit like a time capsule. It's agreed to on the day an employee is hired, and it often isn't revisited until years later when the employee moves on to a new opportunity. But, much like a time capsule, non-compete agreements sometimes don't age as expected, leaving employers and employees alike to ask whether their non-compete is still enforceable.

The enforceability of a non-compete is one of the more complicated areas of Wisconsin law, but there are a few guiding principles.

To begin, Wisconsin law casts a skeptical eye on non-compete agreements, preferring instead to protect employees' freedom to make a living in the job of their choice. To accomplish this goal, Wisconsin has a law which provides that any non-compete agreement that imposes an "unreasonable restraint" on an employee's right to work is unenforceable. Importantly, the statute goes one step further and says that if a non-compete that is unreasonable in any respect, then it is unenforceable in its entirety.

But what makes a non-compete unreasonable (and therefore unenforceable)? In Wisconsin, a non-compete agreement must satisfy five criteria. If any one of the following requirements are not met, then the non-compete is unreasonable and unenforceable.

First, the non-compete must be "necessary" for the employer's protection. An employer's preference to keep its employees or avoid competition is not enough. Instead, the employer must identify specific reasons why the non-compete is essential to its business. Permissible reasons include the need to protect sensitive information, such as trade secrets, or to avoid compromising customer relationships. The employer's need for the non-compete agreement is often the most critical factor to determining whether a non-compete is enforceable.

Second, the non-compete must end after some reasonable duration. What constitutes a reasonable duration for a non-compete will depend on the circumstances. That said, Wisconsin courts often uphold non-competes lasting up to two years.

Third, the non-compete must have some reasonable limitation on its scope. The most common limitation is geographic—i.e., an employee is prohibited from competing within 50 miles from the former employer's business.

In other instances, courts have upheld non-compete agreements that prohibit an employee from contacting certain customers of the former employer. Here too, what constitutes a reasonable limitation on the non-compete's scope will depend on the situation.

Fourth, the non-compete must not unreasonably burden the employee's post-employment activities. To be sure, any non-compete agreement imposes a burden on the employee subject to it, but the question here is whether it is possible for the employee to continue earning a living in the employee's chosen profession. A non-compete may be unenforceable if it prevents the employee from working altogether.

Fifth, a non-compete agreement must not be contrary to public policy. This factor doesn't come up very often, but if a non-compete agreement will unreasonably stifle economic competition or lead to shortages, a court might strike it down.

Again, if a non-compete does not satisfy all five of these criteria, it is unenforceable in its entirety. There's a fair amount of gray area in each requirement, and how they apply to a particular non-compete will vary depending on the situation. When possible, it's helpful to work with a knowledgeable attorney who can carefully analyze the non-compete to determine whether it is enforceable.

Obituary Notices

Brennenstuhl, David

David Thomas Brennenstuhl of Plymouth, WI, passed away peacefully on March 6, 2024, at Aurora Medical Center in Sheboygan, WI. That day he was welcomed home by his Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

David was born on September 19, 1943, in Minneapolis, MN, to the late Florence (Ladendorf) and George II Brennenstuhl. He attended the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee.

David's primary profession was as a computer project manager for G.T.E. Data Services in California and Indiana. But his real passion was for reading, travel, piloting small planes and seeing exotic animals. David had a kind and generous nature. He was a member of MENSA.

Retiring at 55, he traveled the world with his first wife Donna (Feay) and his son Daniel until his wife's death in 2008. Unique experiences marked his life. He drove a library bookmobile, played tuba in various municipal bands, ran a zoo mobile for the Fort Wayne Children's Zoo and hosted a classical all-night radio program at UWM. He enjoyed hiking in Bavaria, camping in the snowy California mountains and sailing in the Pacific.

Although his life was not without hardships, it has been said that hardships often prepare ordinary people for amazing destinies... as it did David. "How great is the love the Father has lavished on us, that we should be called children of God!" - 1 John 3:1

In 2011, David and Kristin (Petersen) Chase of Lake Geneva, WI, a former college friend from 40 years earlier, re-met on a camping trip. In 2012, they were married in Fort Wayne, IN. Later that year they settled in Plymouth, WI. They spent their time between Plymouth and Door County during his remaining years. It was during that time that David grew strong in his Christian faith and his personal relationship with Jesus.

David is survived by his wife Kristin, son Daniel of Fort Wayne, IN, step-son Andrew Chase of Sister Bay, WI, sister Terry (Tim) Taylor of Minneapolis, MN, and brother George Brennenstuhl III of Taylor, MI. He is further survived by numerous cousins, nieces, and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents, first wife Donna, sister Virginia Willis, and his brother John.

A memorial service for David will be held this May in New London, WI.

The Suchon Funeral Home and Cremation Services of Plymouth is assisting the family. For online condolences, please visit www.suchonfh.com.

Grunwald, Robert

or other legal action against you. The Complaint, which is attached, states the nature and basis for the legal action.
Within 40 days after (March 28, 2024) receiving this Summons, you must respond with a written Answer, as that term is used in Chapter 802 of the Wisconsin Statutes, to the Complaint. The Court may reject or disregard an Answer that does not follow the requirements of the statutes. The Answer must be sent or delivered to the Court, whose address is Clerk of Circuit Court, Waupaca County Courthouse, 811 Harding St, Waupaca, WI 54981, and to Plaintiff's attorney, whose mailing address is PO Box 1473, Wausau, Wisconsin 54402-1473. You may have an attorney help or represent you.
If you do not provide a proper Answer within 40 days after March 28, 2024, the Court may grant judgment against you for the award of money or other legal action requested in the Complaint, and you may lose your right to object to anything that is or may be incorrect in the Complaint. A Judgment may be enforced as provided by law. A judgment awarding money may become a lien against any real estate you own now or in the future, and may also be enforced by garnishment or seizure of property.

Notice of Spring Election and Sample Ballots April 2, 2024 Office of the School District of Waupaca Board Clerk To the voters of the School District of Waupaca: Notice is hereby given of a spring election to be held in the School District of Waupaca on Tuesday, April 2, 2024, at which the officers named below shall be nominated. The names of the candidates for each office, whose nominations have been certified to or filed in this office, are given under the title of the office, each in its proper column, together with the questions submitted to a vote, for a referendum, if any, in the sample ballot below. Information to Voters Upon entering the polling place and before being permitted to vote, a voter shall: • state their name and address • show an acceptable form of photo identification* • sign the poll book *If a voter does not have acceptable photo identification, the voter may obtain a free photo ID for voting from the Division of Motor Vehicles. If the voter is unable to sign the poll book due to disability, a poll worker may write the word "exempt." If a voter is not registered to vote, they may register to vote at the polling place serving their residence if the voter provides proof of residence. Where ballots are distributed to voters, the initials of two inspectors must appear on the ballot. Upon being permitted to vote, the voter shall enter a voting booth or go to a machine and cast their ballot. The vote should not be cast in any manner other than specified here. Sample ballots or other materials to assist the voter in marking their ballot may be taken into the booth and copied. The sample ballot shall not be shown to anyone so as to reveal how the ballot is marked. A voter who is a parent or guardian may be accompanied by the voter's minor child or minor ward. An election official may inform the voter of the proper manner for casting a vote but the official may not advise or indicate a particular voting choice. Assistance for Voting A voter may select an individual to assist in casting their vote if the voter declares to the presiding official that they are unable to read, have difficulty reading, writing, or understanding English, or that due to disability are unable to cast their ballot. The selected individual rendering assistance may not be the voter's employer or an agent of that employer or an officer or agent of a labor organization which represents the voter. Where Paper Ballots are Used The voter shall make a mark (X) in the square next to the name of the candidate of their choice for each office for which they intend to vote. To vote for a person whose name does not appear on the ballot, the voter shall write in the name of the person of their choice in the space provided for a write-in vote. On referendum questions, the voter shall make a mark (X) in the square next to "yes" if in favor of the question, or the voter shall make a mark (X) in the square next to "no" if opposed to the question. Where Optical Scan Voting is Used The voter shall fill in the oval or connect the arrow next to the name of the candidate of their choice for each office for which they intend to vote. To vote for a person whose name does not appear on the ballot, the voter shall write in the name of the person of their choice in the space provided for a write-in vote and fill in the oval or connect the arrow next to the write-in line. On referendum questions, the voter shall fill in the oval or connect the arrow next to "yes" if in favor of the question, or the voter shall fill in the oval or connect the arrow next to "no" if opposed to the question. When using an electronic ballot marking device ("Automark," "ExpressVote," "Clear Access" or "ImageCast Evolution-ICE") to mark an optical scan ballot, the voter shall touch the screen or use the tactile pad to select the name of the candidate of his or her choice for each office for which he or she intends to vote. To vote for a person whose name does not appear on the ballot, the voter shall type in the name of his or her choice in the space provided for a write-in vote. On referendum questions, the voter shall touch the screen or use the tactile pad to select "yes" if in favor of the question, or the voter shall touch the screen or use the tactile pad to select "no" if opposed to the question. Where Touch Screen Voting is Used The voter shall touch the screen or use the tactile pad to select the name of the candidate of their choice for each office for which they intend to vote. To vote for a person whose name does not appear on the ballot, the voter shall type in the name of the person of their choice in the space provided for a write-in vote. On referendum questions, the voter shall touch the screen at "yes" if in favor of the question, or the voter shall touch the screen at "no" if opposed to the question. After Voting the Ballot After an official paper ballot is marked, it shall be folded so the inside marks do not show, but so the printed endorsements and inspectors' initials on the outside do show. The voter shall deposit the voted ballot in the ballot box or deliver the ballot to an inspector for deposit and shall leave the polling place promptly. After an official optical scan ballot is marked, it shall be inserted in the security sleeve, so the marks do not show. The voter may insert the ballot in the voting device and discard the sleeve or deliver the ballot to an inspector for deposit. If a central count system is used, the voter shall insert the ballot in the ballot box and discard the sleeve or deliver the ballot to an inspector for deposit. The voter shall leave the polling place promptly. After an official touch screen ballot is cast, the voter shall leave the polling place promptly. Spoiling Ballots If a voter spoils a paper or optical scan ballot, they shall return it to an election official who shall issue another ballot in its place, but not more than three ballots shall be issued to any one voter. If the ballot has not been initiated by two inspectors or is defective in any other way, the voter shall return it to the election official who shall issue a proper ballot in its place. The voter may spoil a touch screen ballot at the voting station before the ballot is cast. The following is a sample of the official ballot: WNAJLP

ETD Street lighting RFQ for lighting equipment only

The Village of Hortonville invites bids for the lighting package for new street light poles and fixtures for the East Towne Drive (ETD) lighting upgrade. Lighting equipment to resemble the street light poles and fixtures installed along North Oak Street (NOS). Not included in this quote will be the installation of the light fixtures, poles, and anchor bolts. Equipment purchased directly by The Village of Hortonville (VOH). See below pole and fixture schedule. Alternate products will be accepted and reviewed prior to accepting alternate bids.

Lighting package: TWIN HEADS WITH HIGH OUTPUT LUMEN PACKAGE & 25' POLES LSI Industries:

- 5 - LSI 5RP T S11G25 4N BLK 25' Round straight steel pole, 5" diameter, 11 gauge thickness, 4" OD tenon mount, black finish
5 - LSI ABKIT 5RP S11G STL PL 3/4X24 11BC 3/4 x 24 Headed Nut Anchor Bolts w/Zinc Plated Double nuts and washers set of 4
5 - LSI KIT BCVR 5SRBC BLK 5-inch Square Base Cover for Round Pole -Black
5 - LSI BBKS 5R D 30 BLK Banner arm brackets for a 5" round pole, double arms at 180 Degrees
5 - LSI XDLM B 3 LED HO NW UE BLK CHD180 Decorative LED area light, Lifestyle medium 2@180 with classic hook mount a rms, bell shade, type 3 distribution, high output,4000K, 120-277V, black finish

Bids due by April 4th, 2024, at noon to Nathan Treadwell at 531 N Nash Street . Bids past this time will be rejected. VOH reserves the right to accept or reject any bids due to inaccurate findings.

LED LIFESTYLE MEDIUM DECORATIVE AREA LIGHTS (XDLM)
US patent 7,828,456 8,002,428, 8,177,386 8,434,893 8,567,983 and US & int'l. patents pending SMARTTEC™ - LSI drivers feature integral sensor which reduces drive current when ambient temperatures exceed rated temperature ENERGY SAVING CONTROL OPTION - DIM - 0-10 volt dimming enabled with controls by others. BLS - Bi-level switching responds to external line voltage signal from separate 120-277V controller or sensor (by others), with low light level decreased to 30% maximum drive current.
LEDS - Select high-brightness LEDs in Cool White (5000K), Neutral White (4000K), or Warm White (3500K) color temperature. 70 CRI CW. 80 CRI NW and WW.
DISTRIBUTION PATTERN - Types 3, FT and 5. Exceptional uniformity creates bright environment at lower light levels. Improved backlight cutoff minimizes light trespass.
CROWN - Cast aluminum. Wiring emerges from crown through compression seal fitting to prevent water entry. One-piece silicone gasket seals crown to shade for water- and dust-tight construction.
SHADES - Spun aluminum. Two shade styles available - A - Angle and B - Bell.
OPTICAL UNIT - Optical unit and aluminum door frame recessed into shade and sealed with one-piece silicone gasket. Clear tempered flat glass lens sealed with silicone gasket to door frame (includes pressure-stabilizing breather). Optical unit is tethered and provides access to driver. Door frame retaining fasteners are captive.
BRACKETS - Brackets are extruded and cast aluminum assemblies or fabrications. All decorative elements are die cast or extruded aluminum.
MOUNTING - Classic Hook (CH) and Side Arm (SA - 4" O.D. minimum pole top required) available. See Steel Round Pole and Aluminum Round Pole data sheets for pole selection information. Side Arm pole mount requires 3" reduced drilling pattern. Classic hook mount requires a 4" O.D. pole or tenon.
ELECTRICAL - Two-stage surge protection (including separate surge protection built into electronic driver) meets IEEE C62.41.2-2002. Location Category C. Available with universal voltage power supply 120-277VAC (UE - 50/60Hz input), and 347-480 VAC. Optional button-type photocells (PCI) are available in 120, 208, 240, 277 or 347 volt (supply voltage must be specified).
DRIVERS - Available in SS (Super Saver) and HO (High Output) drive currents (Drive currents are factory programmed.). Components are fully encased in potting material for moisture resistance. Driver complies with FCC standards. Driver and key electronic components can easily be accessed.
OPERATING TEMPERATURE - -40°C to +50°C (-40°F to +122°F).
FINISH - Each fixture is finished with LSI's DuraGrip polyester powder coat process. The DuraGrip finish withstands extreme weather changes without cracking or peeling.
WARRANTY - LSI LED fixtures carry a limited 5-year warranty.
PHOTOMETRICS - Please visit our web site at www.lsi-industries.com for detailed photometric data.
SHIPPING WEIGHT (IN CARTON) - 36 lbs. (16.3 kg)
LISTINGS - UL listed to U.S. and Canadian safety standards. Suitable for wet locations
This product, or selected versions of this product, meet the standards listed below. Please consult factory for your specific requirements.

THE STATE OF WISCONSIN.
 To each person named above as a defendant:
 You are hereby notified that the plaintiff named above has filed a lawsuit or other legal action against you. The Complaint, which is attached, states the nature and basis of the legal action.
 Within 40 days after the date of first publication, you must respond with a written answer, as that term is used in Chapter 802 of the Wisconsin Statutes, to the Complaint. The Court may reject or disregard an answer that does not follow the requirements of the statutes. The answer must be sent or delivered to the Court, whose address is Waupaca County Courthouse 811 Harding Street, Waupaca, WI 54981, and to Galanis, Pollack, Jacobs & Johnson, S.C., plaintiff's attorneys, whose address is 413 N. 2nd Street, Suite 150, Milwaukee, Wisconsin 53203. You may have an attorney help or represent you. If you do not provide a proper answer within 40 days, the Court may grant judgment against you for the award of money or other legal action requested in the Complaint, and you may lose your right to object to anything that is or may be incorrect in the Complaint. A judgment may be enforced as provided by law. A judgment awarding money may become a lien against any real estate you own now or in the future and may also be enforced by garnishment or seizure of property.

Volunteer campground hosts sought

MADISON – The state Department of Natural Resources is seeking volunteers to serve as campground hosts at state-owned properties across the state, including Hartman Creek State Park.

- Host responsibilities generally include:
- Staying at a campsite at the campground and volunteering for a few hours each day.
 - Greeting campers and answering questions about the property.
 - Helping with daily campground operations and setting an example by being a model camper.
 - Cleaning campsites, bathrooms and facilities and helping out with light maintenance.
 - Sharing park information
- and helping with campground programs.
- Enjoying the company of other campers and ensuring they enjoy their stay.
- "Volunteers are an integral part of the programming, operations and management services of Wisconsin's state parks, forests, recreation areas and trails," said Janet Hutchens, the DNR's friends groups and volunteer services coordinator.
- Equestrian campground hosts are also needed at Governor Knowles State Forest; the northern and southern units of the Kettle Moraine State Forest; and Wildcat Mountain State Park.
