GREEN BAY – The Green Bay Austin Straubel International Airport received $5,000,000 in funding in March, which will be used for advancing safety.

The funding is part of $260 million in support for over 80 community-driven projects in the state, allocated through bipartisan funding packages.

While these projects cover a wide range of issues, they are mainly focused on advancing safety, which is what Austin Straubel airport will be working towards.

The boy the city never forgot

BROWN/KEWAUNEE/DOOR COUNTIES – It was a different time in America — a time when people got married young and stuck through that marriage no matter what, and a time when morals and character were greatly valued.

Had this story occurred today, everything may have turned out very different and may have even gone unnoticed.

This would just be a story about a small-town boy, his love of football and the city that never forgot him.

The year 1853 brought about a mass migration of Belgian immigrants into Brown, Door and Kewaunee counties as families looked to escape the economic hardship of their native country.

That wave would bring more than 15,000 emigrants into northeast Wisconsin with the promise of cheap land and the “American Dream.”

The migration to the area has been viewed as a result of two things.

“A big part of the immigration factor for the Belgians that came to Wisconsin was the letter-writing that came back to Belgium,” said John Mertens, via the Belgian Heritage Center.

Marcel and Mary Lambeau welcomed their first child at their North 12th Street home in Green Bay (now 615 North Irwin Street) on April 9, 1898.

“One other factor that I found was Father (Edward) Daems had returned to Belgium in 1856, and he was a strong influence for immigration.”

Among the emigrants were all four grandparents of Earl Louis Lambeau.

Whether by design or good timing, Earl’s paternal grandfather, Victor, arrived in 1873, on the heels of the Great Fire (Peshtigo Fire) which burned about 1.2 million acres on both sides of the bay of Green Bay, killing an estimated 1,250-2,500 and leaving thousands homeless.

This led to a rebuilding period where the Belgian-Americans were converting their homes to red brick made from the heavy clay in the area.

A young and single Victor formed a business partnership with fellow emigrant, John Baptiste Rose, and began the Rose-Lambeau Mason Contracting Company.

Victor soon married another Belgian-American, Marie Adolphine Charlier, and the couple had eight children together.

The oldest, Marcellin, or Marcel, was born in 1876.

A dark-complected boy with dark hair and dark eyes, the young man soon ran into trouble due to his tendencies toward telling falsehoods and running away from the public school.

At the age of 10, he was sent to the State Industrial School for Boys in Waukesha.

After a year and two months, he returned home only to end up

NORTHEAST WISCONSIN – Four candidates have launched their campaigns for the Wisconsin’s Eighth Congressional District following a retirement announcement from Rep. Mike Gallagher (R-WI).

After stating in February that he would not be seeking reelection, Gallagher announced late last month that he will be stepping down from his seat in April.

On April 4, Dr. Kristin Lyerly OB/GYN launched her campaign at Hinterland Brewery as the lone Democratic candidate to throw their hat in the ring.

“As a physician, I know what it’s like to deal with the bureaucracy in the healthcare system and the tough choices patients and families have to make every day,” Lyerly stated during her announcement. “Healthcare is a fundamental human right, not a privilege reserved for the few. I will work tirelessly to ensure that every person in our district has access to affordable and meaningful healthcare.

“I’ve always advocated for my patients and will be in an even better position to continue that fight for all of our district’s residents when I’m elected to Congress.”

Three others have announced their campaign for the Republican ticket — State Sen. Andre Jacque, former state senator Roger Roth and Tony Wied.

Jacques announced his campaign on March 4 stating, “Living in and representing the Northeast portion of the state has afforded me the opportunity to meet many neighbors who have become friends. I’ve worked tirelessly in the Senate to serve them and make the lives of their families, and mine, better. I’m proud of my record delivering conservative wins and fighting back against liberal policies that would harm our state.”

He has served as a member of the Wisconsin Senate since 2019.

Roth announced his candidacy back in February following Gallagher’s announcement, releasing the following statement, “We must solidify our border and strengthen our national security, our economy and our traditional values. Our federal government is failing us. It is our duty to preserve and protect our great nation now and for our future.”

Roth was a member of the Wisconsin Senate from 2015 to 2023, representing Wisconsin’s 19th Senate District.

On April 8, former Green Bay businessman Tony Wied entered the race.

“Our career politicians are failing us and there’s way too much at stake in this country for me to stay on the sidelines,” Tony Wied said. “I was in business for 30 years and I was fortunate enough to sell my business and I’m interested in serving this country.

“I love America and I have the ability and I have the time to spend to really helping America and getting involved and fighting for change.”

Wisconsin’s Eighth Congressional District currently includes Brown, Calumet, Door, Kewaunee, Marinette, Menominee, Oconto, Outagamie, Shawano and Waupaca counties, and part of Winnebago County.

Watch for further candidate coverage as the August primary draws closer.

GREEN BAY — The Green Bay Packers and Bellin Health are teaming up to donate updated CPR instruction and AED equipment to local schools, thanks to an NFL Foundation grant.

The funding from the $20,000 NFL Foundation CPR Education Grant will provide up-to-date CPR training and AED instruction equipment for state schools, including Ashwaubenon High School, Bonduel High School, Coleman High School, Crivitz High School, Gillett High School, Green Bay School District, Lena High School, Marinette

High School, Notre Dame Academy, Reedsville High School, Suring High School and Wausaukee High School.

In addition, the pair will donate four AEDs to other schools that will be selected at Bellin’s Athletic Director Business Meeting in early May.

“Bellin will help provide training resources to each of the schools receiving support from the grant,” a Bellin release stated.

“We are so grateful to the NFL and the Green Bay Packers for their partnership in this effort to equip our schools with this potentially life-saving equipment, and the up-to-date training to ensure it’s used the right way,” said Bellin Health Athletic Training Team Facilitator Mark Husen. “It’s not just about the players, it’s about the fans, referees and others whose lives could be saved by quick access to CPR and AED.”

“These latest donations come on the heels of a large-scale CPR/AED effort between Bellin and the Packers in 2023, a collaboration that was developed in the wake of the cardiac emergency Buffalo Bills safety Damar Hamlin experienced in early 2023,” a Packers release stated.

Referenda see local support, down statewide

BY PRESS TIMES STAFF

BROWN/KEWAUNEE COUNTIES – While voters across Wisconsin approved 62 of 103 school district referenda placed on election ballots this spring — a 60% approval rate — those voting in Brown and Kewaunee counties approved proposed referenda at 100%.

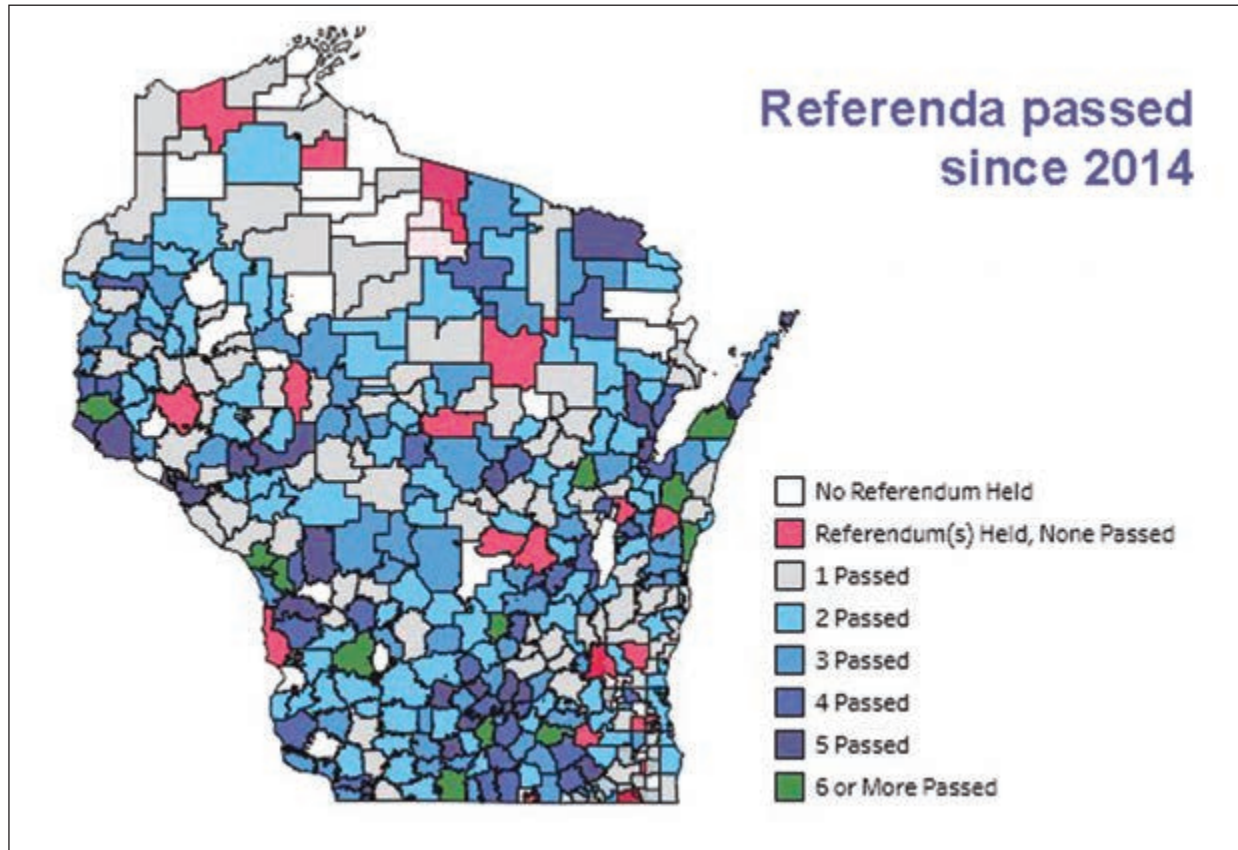

Voters in the De Pere School District, in Brown County, approved a non-recurring referendum authorizing the district to exceed the revenue limit by $4,750,000 per year for five years.

The vote passed 3,773-2,873.

Brown County's Seymour Community School District voters approved a three-year non-recurring referendum, 1,185-1,153.

In Kewaunee County, Luxemburg-Casco School District voters approved a non-recurring referendum to exceed the revenue limit for three years for operational expenses, 1,884-1,766, and Algoma School District voters approved general obligation bonds for improvements to district buildings and grounds including safety, security and energy efficiency upgrades, 1,003-475.

More districts asked to increase property taxes for operations rather than capital needs, a result of inflation, declining enrollment, the expiration of recent federal aid and state-wide revenue caps.

In 1993, state legislation put a limit on what districts could spend per pupil and the limit was based on spending in 1993.

The limit was originally adjusted to keep in line with inflation, until the 2009-10 school year when legislators discontinued the increases.

“With 103 referenda this spring, 2024 is already shaping up to be a year with an unusually large number of ballot questions. In 2022, there were 166 total school referenda — the most since 2001 — but only 82 in the spring. Since 2014, voters across Wisconsin have approved 881 school district referenda, which averages out to more than two per district,” a report from the Wisconsin Policy Forum stated.

“These increased numbers in 2024 indicate that many districts in Wisconsin are feeling financial pressure today. Many more referenda could appear on ballots in November.

“Across ballots from February and April, 66% of all referendum questions asked voters to raise property taxes to support school district operations. This represents the highest share of operating referenda since at least 2000.

“Yet as districts’ requests for additional revenue have intensified, voter support for these requests appears to be waning. Voter approval rates of school district referenda hovered around 50% for most of the late 2000s and early 2010s. Starting in 2012, however, voters approved referenda in greater numbers, with the passage rate peaking at 89.7% in 2018.

“Over the past several years, approval rates have trended downward. After slight declines in both 2020 and 2022, the 60.2% passage rate for 2024 school district referenda so far is the lowest in a midterm or presidential year since 2010. Moreover, the 41 failed referenda in 2024 so far already constitute the greatest number of no votes in a single year since 2010. It’s possible the approval rates this November will be different, but in the past school referendum passage rates have tended to be similar in the spring and fall.”

St. Norbert College, UW-Green Bay collaborate on student degrees

BY PRESS TIMES STAFF

GREEN BAY – On April 11, UW-Green Bay and St. Norbert College (SNC) inked an agreement that will allow students in selected degree programs to study at both institutions.

“This sharing of resources provides students from the region (and beyond) with an opportunity to take classes more easily at either of the northeast Wisconsin four-year campuses, regardless of campus residence or enrollment. The agreement focuses on the student’s needs and provides more opportunities for degree pursuit where a student can augment the general education they receive at one school with a degree program available at the other,” a joint release explained.

“For example, a St. Norbert student could access the courses needed for a degree in engineering through offerings at UW-Green Bay, or a UW-Green Bay student could complete their economics or engineering physics major with courses provided at SNC.

“In other programs, SNC students can complete three years at SNC and then the final two years at UWGB to earn their undergraduate and graduate degree. SNC will honor the UWGB tuition rate where applicable when UWGB students take classes at SNC, and the reverse.”

“This collaboration with UW-Green Bay is a win-win for both institutions, and most importantly for the students we serve,” said Laurie M. Joyner, Ph.D., president of St. Norbert College. “This partnership strengthens our Norbertine tradition of engagement in the local community. And given the enrollment and financial challenges in higher education today, these partnerships are critical in providing the best well-rounded education students want and deserve,” said Joyner.

“Students win when institutions collaborate to build on the strengths that each college brings to the communities they serve,” said UW-Green Bay Chancellor Michael Alexander. “Rather than try to provide everything our region needs in higher education on our own, students and the community become better when we partner with each other, ensuring our students and the region can benefit from having two stronger, yet different institutions.”

Currently, the following classes/program credits will transfer between St. Norbert and UW-Green Bay:

Class credits

SNC students can take at UW-Green Bay:

German, Russian, Arabic and Oneida language classes and engineering

UW-Green Bay students can take at SNC:

French language classes, engineering, physics and economics

Undergraduate to graduate 3 + 2 programs

Master of athletic training

M.S. nutrition and integrated health

M.S. sport, exercise and performance psychology

M.S. supply chain management

“An agreement like this honors the needs of a student,” said Alexander. “In addition to offering more degree options, it also expands the college experience opportunities for students. The agreement is a great way for us to think creatively about higher education and how it can thrive into the future with a complete ecosystem in Northeast Wisconsin.”

“This partnership is another example of our work to address the evolving needs of the local community and provide an outstanding educational experience for our students, which includes academic quality, curricular efficiency and advancing student success,” Joyner added.

Program partnerships may start as soon as fall 2024.

GREEN BAY – Over 40 high school students from the Appleton Area School District, Howard-Suamico School District and Green Bay Area Public Schools (GBAPS) joined forces in a partnership with Kaboom Collective, culminating in a professional concert alongside indie folk rock trio, The Accidentals, on April 11 at the Weidner Center.

“This collaboration with Kaboom Collective has opened doors to unprecedented opportunities, allowing students to work alongside professionals in the music industry under the mentorship of a professional conductor,” a GBAPS release stated.

“Today is the culmination of a year and a half of planning and preparation. We have the pleasure of having three school districts collaborate,” said Lucinda Roberts, Fine Arts Institute coordinator at East High School.

The Kaboom Collective is a non-profit organization made up of award-winning music industry executives and professional audio technicians, music educators and artists spanning the spectrum of music genres.

“So the students have been working on the music since September,” Roberts said.

January through March the students traveled to each other’s school districts to practice.

“And then this week, the Kaboom Collective folks arrived,” she added.

“The kids get to meet students from other schools that have the same

GREEN BAY – The Wisconsin Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) hosted their state leadership conference at the KI Convention Center in downtown Green Bay April 8-9, welcoming over 2,300 students and their advisers to network and compete in over 70 business and IT-related events.

FBLA prepares students to become “community-mind business leaders” through career preparation and leadership experiences.

“This is our 70th state leadership conference,” said FBLA Representative Katie Grassel of Seymour. “Students that are competing here at this conference with the hopes of advancing on to our national leadership conference, which is going to be held at the end of June in Orlando, Fla. Every person can compete in one event, or a chapter can compete in a big project like a community service project.”

“The top four competitors in each event [qualified] to represent Wisconsin at FBLA Nationals,” added FLBA State Advisor Jen Jackson.

FBLA events help students develop leadership, communication, teamwork and networking skills.

The national leadership conference will be held June 29 - July 2 at Orange County Convention Center in Orlando.

The Green Bay Area Public School District recently added a middle school elective class called “Introduction to World Language & Cultures.” During the month of April, the course has a unit on the Oneida language and the topic is language revitalization. Using funds from the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction American Indian Language Revitalization Grant, the district was able to contract with Anishinaabe Hip-Hop Artist Paul Wenell, Jr., pictured speaking at Lombardi Middle School on April 10, and Tanaya Winder, an author, singer/songwriter, poet and motivational speaker who comes from an intertribal lineage of Southern Ute, Pyramid Lake Paiute, Diné and Duckwater Shoshone Nations, where she is an enrolled citizen.

Allouez, Rockland top Voter Challenge

BY PRESS TIMES STAFF
GREEN BAY – On April 11, Project VOTE of Brown County awarded its “Voter Challenge” trophies for the April 2 election in the Brown County Courthouse Rotunda. Project VOTE is a local non-partisan group that works to increase

“informed voter turnout” and awareness in Brown County. The group issues the Voter Challenge as a competition among Brown County municipalities to encourage local voting. The contest is divided into two divisions — the “Green” for municipalities with less than 10,000 residents and the “Gold” for municipalities with more than 10,000 residents. The trophies are presented for the highest percentage of registered voters who turn out to the polls for general elections. “Rockland’s turnout of 47.7% of registered voters was the best among the municipalities in the Green Division, which includes the county’s municipalities with populations below 10,000. The voter turnout in Allouez was 38.3%, the highest percentage among the larger municipalities that make up the Gold Division. It’s the fourth Voter Challenge victory for Rockland and the seventh for Allouez,” a Project Vote release stated. “Our congratulations go out to Rockland and Allouez for their wins in the 2024 Spring Election Voter Challenge,” said Glen Tilot, Project VOTE chair. “It is always so vitally important for people to take the time and effort to learn about the candidates and participate in the election process. We look forward to seeing what the turnout will be in November when we head to the polls for the presidential election.”

He stayed there for three more years before being released to return to Green Bay, but the home he would return to in December 1891 would look very different.

Murder-suicide
Two months earlier, on a busy Monday afternoon, downtown Green Bay was rattled by the sound of gunshots.
Several people witnessed the tragedy as Victor Lambeau met his wife on the corner of Main Street and Webster Avenue, where he drew a revolver, shot her and then committed suicide.

"Lambeau was dead but his wife was still alive and conscious, the bullet having entered her neck," a Press-Gazette article stated.
In the upcoming days, the city struggled with the "why," as newspapers reported jealousy and a fight over money as the cause.
An Oct. 14 edition of the Green Bay Weekly Gazette recounted the coroner's jury testimony from Lambeau's partner, John Rose, who testified that "Lambeau came to him Monday afternoon at the old city pound lot where he was engaged in laying the foundation of M. McGuire's new house. He, Lambeau, had been drinking and was much excited, more excited than he had ever known to before. When drinking, he was very jealous of his wife, being haunted by the idea that she was untrue to him."

After hearing the testimony, a verdict of "temporary insanity" was returned.
On the day of the shooting, Lambeau was carrying a life insurance policy with him from the Modern Woodmen of America for $3,000 — worth around $100,000 today — payable to their children.
The insurance was paid out on Oct. 29.
According to probate records, Lambeau also owned eight lots in the city of Green Bay and one in Preble at the time of his death.
The property was divided among his widow, Marie, her surviving children and one infant granddaughter Lillian.

Marie was pregnant with her eighth child at the time of the shooting.
She gave birth to a daughter months later, but the infant would die after just a few weeks.

Marcel matures
As Marcel returned to Green Bay, he did what came naturally and began working in masonry, eventually becoming the president of the Mason's Union.
He met and married Mary Sara LaTour, daughter of Belgian emigrants, Louis and Sylvia LaTour.
One year later, the couple welcomed a curly dark-haired boy into the world at their North 12th Street home in Green Bay (now 615 North Irwin Street) on April 9, 1898.
They named him Earl Louis — Louis after his maternal grandfather Louis LaTour.
The following year, the couple lost a baby at birth, but later welcomed Raymond Victor in May 1900, Oliver Denen in 1902 and Beatrice C. in 1904.

The couple then lost a second child — a daughter — in 1906 — 19 days after Mary gave birth.
The Lambeau boys were known for their burly stature — a natural brawniness given to them by their strong Belgian heritage.
A May 1900 Press-Gazette announced the arrival of Raymond at a mighty 12-and-a-half pounds.
Those roots also supplied the boys with dark hair, and for one of them, a distinctive wave of locks that were extremely "Curly."

Continued next week
As we begin this series, we want to thank Deb and Hannah at the UW-Green Bay Archives, Sam and Katie at Packers Hall of Fame Inc., Packers Historian Cliff Christl, Mary Jane and Jeff at the Brown County Library History Room, Kristin and Joe with the Belgian Heritage Center and all of those individuals who shared their knowledge and memories over the past year of research.

Marty Piette, airport director of Austin Straubel, said that the two main focal points for funding usage will be the replacement and upgrade of passenger boarding bridges and improvement of the heating, ventilation and air conditioning (HVAC) system within the terminal.
Currently, the 12 passenger boarding bridges at the airport are approaching 20 years of usage, and Piette said that the replacement and upgrading of these aging bridges will allow for "more accessibility from an ADA perspective."
Piette stated that the current HVAC system includes "some pretty old equipment," and a new setup will "provide better energy efficiency."
This is in alignment with Austin Straubel's goals to "continue [their] stewardship of the environment," which also includes "upgrading and retrofitting for LED lighting with more energy efficiency and using motion sensors."
Over the past two years, the airport has been making a series of improvements to its facility, grounds and airfield.

Last year, the airport improved its short-term parking and a portion of its long-term parking.
"Green Bay Austin Straubel International Airport is an economic driver in our community, providing transportation options for local businesses as well as leisure travelers, while also helping support businesses like hotels, restaurants, gas stations and tourism attractions. Investments and upgrades to our facilities and operations benefits all of us," said Troy Streckenbach, Brown County Executive.
Travelers do not need to worry about how construction will affect their flights.
Piette noted that construction "will not have an impact" and the airport has the capability to "move flights around" to ensure smooth travels. However, those traveling through the airport will notice "more accessibility and better lighting."
Work is expected to be completed by the end of the summer.
But to ensure travels go as smoothly as possible, Piette recommends allowing "an additional 15 to 20 minutes" onto planned flight arrival times during the construction period.

De Pere expresses community diligence to deter deer

BY LEE REINSCH
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

DE PERE – Residents who want to keep deer out of landscaping should consider planting things that deer don't like to munch on.

That's the conclusion of the De Pere Common Council after an inconclusive aerial deer survey.

Compared to numbers from the last aerial deer survey, done earlier this year in conjunction with the wildlife services division of the USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS).

"Given the numbers and the lack of car crashes, I don't believe it represents a serious traffic hazard," De Pere Police Chief Jeremy Muraski said at a recent Common Council meeting.

Muraski said there were a handful of non-serious car/deer accidents and that deer numbers tend to spike in November due to deer rutting and moving around.

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources doesn't have a set threshold for deer in populated areas.

The 2014 survey, done by helicopter, didn't result in any actions on behalf of the city, such as killing or moving the deer.

Culling would cost $400 per deer, and transporting the deer is not an option due to chronic wasting disease, according to De Pere Director of Parks, Recreation and Forestry Marty Kosobucki.

Last fall, some members of the public brought their complaints to the De Pere Common Council, saying deer were devouring their flowers and lunching on their landscaping.

The city included $2,600 for an aerial survey in the 2024 budget.

The survey counted deer in five sections on each side of the Fox River.

The count includes the number of images that were confirmed to be deer and, in some cases, the number of images not 100% confirmed to be deer.

The west side deer count went from 109 in 2014 to 95 confirmed deer and seven unconfirmed in 2024.

On the east side, inside De Pere city boundary lines, the deer count went from 10 in 2014 to 62 confirmed deer in 2024, with 16 unconfirmed.

Kosobucki called the east side increase significant but said the jump isn't as steep if the 2014 baseline number incorporates the area just over the border from De Pere into Allouez.

The 0.59-mile swath near St. Norbert Abbey went from 46 in 2014 to 51 in 2024 with 10 unconfirmed.

Another bordering Allouez, a 0.19-square mile piece between East River Drive and the East River from Lebrun to Charles Street, went from 29 in 2014 to 22 in 2024.

"Deer move around," De Pere Alderperson Shana Defnet Ledvina said.

She pointed out that one fault with the survey was that it wasn't done in one day.

Some deer could have been counted more than once.

According to Kosobucki, the USDA conducted a culling operation late last year on Green Bay's east side, near Preble Park, and that an aerial survey had counted more than 80 deer in a smaller, more densely-populated area.

Alderperson Amy Chandik Kunding suggested that the city provide planting and landscaping tips on its website.

Perry Willems of Willems Landscape Service, Inc., suggested planting things that would be unpleasant to eat, such as things with needles or thorns, or things with a strong fragrance such as boxwood or spotted nettle.

"As far as evergreens, you can do spruce, boxwood or junipers; where it comes to shrubs, you can do barberry because they have thorns on them, and also roses, forsythia, lilac and ninebark," Willems said.

Perennials that deer dislike include allium, ornamental onion, astilbe, beebalm, bleeding hearts and salvia.

Annuals they dislike include lavender and marigold.

Willems said deer love hostas and arborvitae, which many people have in their yards.

A spray made of water and cayenne pepper can steer pests away, as can mothballs and a variety of commercial products.

He mentioned Liquid Fence, whose active ingredients are putrescent whole egg solids and garlic, according to the company's website, liquidfence.com

To protect tree bark from deer rubbing on it, Willems suggested trunk wraps.

An online search found them in a variety of materials, including plastic, vinyl, metal, plastic or wire mesh and burlap.

The results from the survey, including zone maps from 2014, can be found on the city of De Pere's website at <https://deperecitywi.iqm2.com>, on pages 71-77.

GBAPS board approves creation of third boundary option

BY KRIS LEONHARDT
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

GREEN BAY – During an April 15 special board meeting, the Green Bay Area Public Schools (GBAPS) Board of Education voted unanimously to approve the creation of a third option, in addition to the two conceptual scenarios returned by Woolpert.

During their April 8 meeting, Interim Superintendent Vicki Bayer and GBAPS Director of Communications Lori Blakeslee presented feedback from a district survey, the Boundary Advisory Adjustment Committee and the community.

In response to that feedback, Bayer asked board members to consider a recommendation that district leadership create a "Scenario C" for the Boundary Advisory Adjustment Committee to consider.

This new scenario would be created implementing using "the facility task force recommendations, which focused on building education adequacy, enrollment and short- and long-term maintenance needs," while continuing to "address the budget deficit through school closures/consolidations, reduce overall district capacity to address declining enrollment — currently the district is at 76% capacity (1 in 4 seats empty) and in 10-years the District is projected to be at 67% capacity (1 in 3 seats empty)— and minimize student movement and feeder pattern disruptions, with a focus on elementary schools."

Bayer said that "feedback does not support K-8 because of the impact to boundaries and feeder patterns at the middle and high school levels" and that the "community feels overwhelmed with the amount of change at one time," while "budget deficit and declining enrollment must continue to be addressed."

To provide the committee and the community with an opportunity to provide feedback on Scenario C, the boundary work timeline has been adjusted to:

Tuesday, April 30 — committee meeting, 6-8 p.m., District Office, Room 138;

Ashwaubenon School District staff receives recognition

ASHWAUBENON – During its April 10 meeting, the Ashwaubenon School Board heard from school staff on strategic plan updates, roofing project bids and a recent recognition.

Kaitlin Tauriainen, child nutrition coordinator at Ashwaubenon School District, was awarded an Innovation in Nutrition Education award from Action for Healthy Kids and United States Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Tauriainen and the school district were awarded for their 34 "Fork Farms," which are individualized hydroponic growing systems.

Ashwaubenon is one of six school districts across the country to have won this award.

Tauriainen shared "This project started as a way for us to grow fresh food for our students year-round. It has been so rewarding to see it progress into not only a farm, but also a classroom. With students' overall well-being being our number one priority, we will continue to make strides forward to offer healthy, locally procured foods, while incorporating education into all we do."

During the meeting, district staff members from Parkview Middle School and Ashwaubenon High School brought forward updates on their strategic plan.

The plan has two goals: safe and inclusive learning environments as well as high expectations for all.

Parkview representatives shared updates on positive events like "Cookies with Caregivers" and weekly "Parkview Prides."

High school staff discussed the benefits of an eight-period day, which will give additional time for electives and collaboration between educators and students.

Finally, the school board meeting ended with acceptance of multiple bids for roofing projects.

This includes Molina Dynasty's $602,069.19 bid for Pioneer Elementary School, Crafts' $512,736.00 for Parkview Middle School and Wenger Construction's $413,927 bid for Cormier Early Learning Center.

The Ashwaubenon School Board will hold their next meeting on Wednesday, May 8, in the Ashwaubenon District Office Board Room, 1055 Griffiths Ln., Ashwaubenon.

New board member

The board also interviewed six candidates for an open seat created by the resignation of Laura Laitinen-Warren.

Laitinen-Warren was appointed to the board in March 2021 and was elected to her seat for a three-year term in April 2022.

During an April 3 special meeting, the board narrowed a list of applicants down to six, including Rick Crosson, James McGee, Rissel Peguero Almonte, Duvall Perry, Shane Stout and Leah Weakley.

Following seven-minute interviews of each candidate, the board selected Rick Crosson in a 4-2 vote, with James Lyerly and Andrew Becker voting for James McGee.

Crosson is retired and most recently served as the chief operating officer of deBoer Transportation, February 2013 to March 2022.

Crosson also served as an Army lieutenant colonel in aviation.

"I am currently working with the University of Wisconsin's Business School as part of their Business Advisory Council. I helped draft their diversity statement for their university. In fact, the very first sentence in there I am proud to say that I coined it. It says, 'Diversity is not some of us; diversity is the sum of all of us,'" Crosson told the board during his interview.

The appointee will finish out the remaining year in Laitinen-Warren's term set to expire in 2025.

Local students are state Money Smart scholarship recipients

FOR THE PRESS TIMES

GREEN BAY – The Wisconsin Department of Financial Institutions, in partnership with Edvest 529, and the Wisconsin Coalition on Student Debt, recently named 15 Wisconsin high school seniors as the scholarship recipients for this year's 2024 Money Smart Wisconsin Scholarship Contest, including three area students.

Ten of the 15 scholarship recipients are first-generation college students.

Each scholarship recipient will receive a scholarship in the form of a $1,000 contribution to a new or existing Edvest 529 account for their winning essay submission on how they plan to finance their higher education.

Local recipients include Jonathan Jeske, Sword of the Spirit Academy (Home-school), Ashwaubenon; Nora Oleniczak, Preble High School, Green Bay; and Christopher Vanderwielen, Luxemburg-Casco High School, Luxemburg.

Members of the Wisconsin Coalition on Student Debt reviewed and scored the 160 essay submissions based on criteria including identifying funding sources for higher education and explaining how to manage student loan debt.

"These students have shown us through their essay submissions that they have developed plans to pay for college and manage potential student loan debt," said Wisconsin Department of Financial Institutions Secretary Cheryll Olson-Collins. "We applaud these students for demonstrating sound money management skills, and we encourage them to continue building their financial literacy and capability skills as they continue their education. It is our hope that this scholarship will support them in their pursuit of ongoing academic achievement."

The Money Smart Wisconsin Scholarship Contest is part of Money Smart Wisconsin Week, a financial literacy awareness and education campaign, which took place April 6-13.

St. Paul dedicates new building

BY MEGHAN CALLAHAN
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

GREEN BAY – St. Paul Lutheran Church and School of Green Bay recently completed its much needed and deserved update; an addition to the side of the church.

Staff Minister, Worship Director and part-time Bible Teacher Peter Schaeve said that the addition is "a blessing" and very necessary in order to accommodate the influx of students entering St. Paul Lutheran Church.

"The student population is going to basically double next year, we're going from 98 kids to about 180."

St. Paul Lutheran Church has been part of the Green Bay community since 1882 and has been at the corner of Mason St. and Webster Ave. since 1953.

The addition of the new wing of the church will allow for some office spaces to be freed up and used as classrooms as well as an extension of the 3k-5k program.

The addition also houses a community center in the basement.

"This is mainly for church activities and volunteer drives, such as the food pantry or the diaper drive," Schaeve said. "We wanted more space for community."

The addition has a square footage of 15,187, more than enough room to build community and create enough space for incoming students.

Specifically, the new building houses eight classrooms.

Not only does Schaeve hope the new add-on will bring the community together, he also hopes that it will make the building easier to find and to navigate.

"Before the place was kind of a maze," he said. "You had to go through many different hallways and doors in order to find the chapel."

In addition to a more accessible front entrance, there is hope that visibility for the church will increase and it will be simpler to find and access.

"Sometimes people get confused distinguishing us from the church right next to us," Schaeve said. "We're hoping the new building allows for us to be found more easily."

This project has been in the works for six years now and was much anticipated by community members and staff alike — so much so that the church hosted a dedication rite for the new building.

It was held on Sunday, April 14, right after a special service and consisted of scripture and prayer and was followed by a lunch downstairs in the new community center.

St. Paul Lutheran encourages others to come and worship with them on Sundays and check out their brand new building.

PUBLISHER'S LETTER

When Autumn Comes

Dear Reader,

There is an indescribable sadness in dying. Dying, while a solitary act, invites the many connections and networks of love a person has affected prior, to be a part of this final physical farewell.

Every being dies. All living things animated by the spark of life eventually will be extinguished. Those who die through some earthly tragedy or by the direct or indirect hand of others, elude the myriad of issues facing death. But for most, there is no art in dying. Most don't die gracefully or well, because the process is polluted by unceasing grasping for those last wisps of earthly life. One would think the Creator of life would have provided a better way.

Life has an unknowable expiration date, an autumn. We look back at the memories that nurtured us through the years. We summon all the childhood ones when we floated in clouds of love with our parents, grandmas and grandpas, and brothers and sisters. Then come the later memories after school was left behind, when we lived through joyful and sorrowful adventures with dear friends. Perhaps we had our own little ones; then came the day when they had their own progeny; and so on.

The question arises: Why are we here? If we are to love one another, why do so many find themselves without love? If we are here to lock arms and embrace as brothers and sisters, why do so many try to dominate their fellows? If we can't responsibly share and care for our brethren, will there be another Ark followed by a flood and renewal for the venerable ones?

Is there perhaps, as most Christians believe, a Hereafter when the Creator appears in tangible form again wielding an irresistible force of attraction that embraces the good souls with Him? At the same moment, does He release the unworthy into the abyss of oblivion?

Ruefully, autumn comes around for us all, and we weep for what once was but now is lost beyond recall. At the moment of departure, there's a profound sorrow attached to those who lived with a noble purpose; and possibly a momentary sigh of relief when the evil ones are gone.

Plastic was first introduced in the early 1900s and has heavily evolved since then.

Mass production of this material took off in the 1950s, and since then, over 9 billion tons of plastic has been produced.

While this material is widely used across the planet, it's also causing a lot of problems within our environment.

When plastic isn't recycled, it can take anywhere from 20 to 500 years for it to fully biodegrade.

And when plastic breaks down, it creates microplastics that enter our soil and water resources.

So how do we combat this problem? Refuse, reduce, reuse and recycle.

Reduce

One of the best ways to reduce the amount of plastic we consume is by simply saying "no thank you" when offered plastic materials. Many take-home restaurants will offer you an option to opt out of plastic cutlery when ordering. And if they don't have an option, you can ask them not to include single-use plastics.

containers, donate them. Plastic materials are durable and can last for a long time, if you don't have a use for them anymore, someone else may.

Recycle

Most plastic containers can be recycled with your curbside recycling (check the Betterbin app to confirm it's acceptable in your recycling). Softer plastics such as films, bags and wraps, can be recycled as well, but not in your curbside recycling.

Find a location to recycle No. 2 and No. 4 plastic bags by visiting Earth911.com.

Plastic is a common material among our daily lives. It's up to us to reduce our consumption of plastics to keep ourselves and our planet healthy.

To learn more about plastic disposal in our area, please visit recyclemoretricotry.com.

Refuse

Refusing can mean bringing your own shopping bags or containers instead of using the plastic options a store may have.

It can also mean asking for limited packaging options when shopping online.

More than 40% of plastics are produced for packaging.

Before you place an order, online or in-store, ask if they have plastic-less packaging.

Reuse

Plastic can easily be reused for many projects around your home, business or school. Plastic jugs and bottles are great for storing or moving liquids. Plastic containers are perfect for organization and storage. And plastic bags can be used over and over again.

For other plastic materials, such as toys, clothes (yes clothes have plastic fibers in them), shoes and

Call 811 before you dig

FROM ALLIANT ENERGY

Alliant Energy encourages residents and contractors to call 811 before any digging projects.

A quick call to 811 or click on call811.com prior to planting trees or shrubs, fencing a yard or building a playset can prevent a fine or a potentially dangerous accident with gas or electric lines.

The announcement coincides with National Safe Digging Month.

Spring is a popular time for digging projects, and April is a month to acknowledge the hazards and raise awareness of safe digging practices.

It's not just about the call, it's the law and it can keep you and your neighbors safe.

811 is a national, free service available year-round.

"Everyone is excited to get outside and start working on outdoor projects this time of year," said Adam Marxen, manager of gas integrity and standards for Alliant Energy. "Not knowing what's below the surface can lead to a major disaster. Please slow down and call to have your underground lines marked before you dig."

After you call 811 to describe where and when you plan to dig, utilities mark the locations of buried lines with high-visibility paint or flags.

Yellow paint or markings indicate buried natural gas lines; red paint or markings identify electric lines.

When you dig, Alliant Energy advises you to stay 18 inches away from the marked lines.

If you must work within the 18-inch tolerance zone, dig by hand with extreme caution.

If you happen to contact natural gas pipelines or electric lines, call 1 (800) ALLIANT — 800-255-4268.

Even minor damage such as nicks, cuts or dents can result in pipeline failure, electrical shock or a major incident, if not properly addressed.

Never attempt to fix damaged lines yourself. If you hear blowing gas or begin to smell gas, get to a safe distance and call 911 immediately.

"Safety is at the center of everything we do here at Alliant Energy," Marxen said. "It's important that our customers use the 811 service to make safety their priority as well."

How to tap into underutilized veterans burial benefits

Savvy Senior

YOU ASK THE SENIOR QUESTION — WE FIND THE SAVVY ANSWER. SYNDICATED COLUMN

DEAR SAVVY SENIOR,

What types of funeral benefits are available to old veterans?

My 83-year-old father, who has Alzheimer's disease, served during the Vietnam War in the 1960s.

Planning Ahead

DEAR PLANNING,

Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) National Cemetery Administration actually offers a variety of underutilized burial benefits to veterans as well as their spouses and dependents.

Most U.S. veterans (both combat and non-combat) who didn't receive a dishonorable discharge are eligible for burial benefits.

To verify your dad's discharge, you'll need a copy of his DD Form 214 "Certificate of Release or Discharge from Active Duty."

If you don't have it, you can request online at Archives.gov/veterans.

Here's a rundown of some of the different benefits that are available to veterans that die a non-service related death.

Military cemetery benefits

If your dad's eligible and would like to be buried in one of the 155 national or 119 state, territory or tribal-operated cemeteries (see VA.gov/find-locations), the VA provides a number of benefits at no cost to the family, including a gravesite, opening and closing of the grave and perpetual gravesite care; a government headstone or marker, a United States burial flag that can be used to drape the casket or accompany the urn and a presidential memorial certificate.

If your dad is cremated, his remains will be buried or inurned in the same manner as casketed remains.

But be aware that funeral or cremation arrangements and costs are not taken care of by the VA.

They are the responsibility of the veteran's family, but some veteran's survivors may be eligible for burial allowances.

The VA also offers a memorial web page called the Veterans Legacy Memorial for any veteran buried in a national, state, territorial

NEWS BRIEFS

Weight restrictions end for northern Wisconsin highways

WISCONSIN – The Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT) ended Spring Thaw Class II and posted road restrictions for 15 counties of Zone 1 on Tuesday, April 16.

Class II roads include about 1,400 miles of state highways susceptible to damage from heavy trucks during the spring thaw period as frost leaves the ground.

More information regarding frozen road declarations, Class II roadways and roadway postings can be found on WisDOT's website.

Further information also can be found online for divisible load permits and non-divisible load permits.

County highways, town roads, city and village streets may also be posted or limited to legal load limits or less.

Decisions to place or lift weight restrictions on those roads are up to local units of government.

More information on overweight permits can be found on the WisDOT website by searching for oversize overweight permits.

Applications open for DNR 2025 Class of State Conservation Wardens

WISCONSIN – The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is accepting applications through May 7 for its 2025 class of conservation wardens.

DNR conservation wardens are credentialed law enforcement officers stationed statewide, serving rural and urban communities.

Wardens enforce laws that protect fish and wildlife, the environment, state parks and forests and outdoor recreation enthusiasts.

The warden career offers opportunities to protect the state's natural resources, build relationships and serve our communities in unique and essential ways.

Conservation wardens also serve as ambassadors and educators, teaching the public about natural resources, outdoor safety and environmental conservation.

This year's warden opportunities will include major state park and forest assignments across Wisconsin.

The DNR will hire approximately 10 full-time wardens for the upcoming class who will begin training in January or April 2025, depending on the applicant's prior law enforcement experience.

Applicants must be at least 21 years old upon hire and already have earned or be planning to earn at least 60 college credits within their first five years of being hired.

To apply, visit Wisc.Jobs and search for Job ID 13900.

Bellin Receives 'Stop the Bleed' Training Grant

GREEN BAY – Bellin Hospital will provide specialized Stop The Bleed (STB) training to its security team thanks to a $1,200 grant from the Northeast Wisconsin Regional Trauma Advisory Council (NEWRTAC) and matching contribution for equipment purchase from the Bellin Health Emergency Department.

Awarded earlier this year, the grant provides specialized Stop The Bleed training equipment to help train all members of Bellin's Security team.

In addition, the security team is training its members to become STB instructors so they can train new staff and conduct refresher courses within their teams.

Stop The Bleed teaches bleeding control techniques that can be used in an emergency.

"Stop The Bleed training is giving our Security team an important emergency response tool that can mitigate injury and help save lives," said Bellin Health Athletic Trainer Roland Schmidt, who was instrumental in securing the grant and providing guidance for the training. "By training them to train others, we can spread this valuable, potentially life-saving response skill even further."

Bellin Health's 35-plus Licensed Athletic Trainers all have been trained in Stop The Bleed and continue to conduct yearly training refreshers.

Each Athletic Trainer carries a Stop The Bleed kit in their medical kit, and this grant will allow even more Athletic Trainers to train others.

In addition to formal STB trainings, Bellin Athletic Trainers assist in the Hands on Healthcare program that exposes middle and high school students to healthcare careers, using STB manikins to demonstrate and teach some of these life-saving techniques.

"We are grateful to NEWRTAC and our Bellin Emergency Department for their contributions to this valuable training," Schmidt said. "Working together, we can be prepared and save lives."

Brown County Library encourages return of overdue items with amnesty week

BROWN COUNTY – Knowing life happens, Brown County Library is offering fine forgiveness during the week of April 22-27.

Whether overdue library items are a few days late or a few years late, fines for items returned during Fine Forgiveness Week will be waived.

"If having overdue items are keeping people from coming back to the library, we want to change that! This amnesty program encourages the return of library materials

- no questions asked," said Brown County Library Executive Director Sarah Sugden.

Items returned must be in good, usable condition. As a convenience, items can be returned to an outdoor book drop.

Fine forgiveness applies only to items returned from April 22-27 and does not apply to existing fines or items borrowed through Interlibrary Loan.

For additional information call (920) 448-4400 or visit browncountylibrary.org.

Registration open for Preble Pride Mental Health Awareness 5K

GREEN BAY – The public is invited to register to participate in the Preble Pride Mental Health Awareness 5K, held on Saturday, May 11.

The 5K race is not just about covering a distance, but also about breaking down the stigma associated with mental health issues.

This event's purpose is an opportunity to promote a healthy lifestyle, while also making a lasting impact.

Proceeds from the event will support Preble's annual Mental Health and Wellness Fair, as well as student groups that support the mental well-being of students.

The 5K race takes place in the community-friendly Olde Preble neighborhood, with a well-marked course, offering participants a refreshing and invigorating experience.

After the race, participants and their families are invited inside the newly renovated Preble Stadium for an awards ceremony, music, face painting, balloon artists, and bounce houses.

To register for the race, visit raceroster.com/events/2024/84180/preble-pride-mental-health-awareness-5k.

or tribal cemetery.

This allows families to post pictures and stories of their loved one online as a way to remember and honor their service.

If you're interested in this option, the VA has a pre-need burial eligibility determination program to help you plan ahead before your dad passes.

See VA.gov/burials-memorials/pre-need-eligibility or call the National Cemetery Scheduling Office at (800) 535-1117.

Private cemetery benefits

The VA also provides benefits to veterans buried in private cemeteries.

If your dad chooses this option, the VA benefits include a free government headstone or grave marker, or a medallion that can be affixed to an existing privately purchased headstone or marker; a burial flag; and a presidential memorial certificate.

Funeral or cremation arrangements and costs are again the responsibility of the family, and there are no benefits offered to spouses and dependents that are buried in private cemeteries.

Military funeral honors

Another popular benefit available to all eligible veterans buried in either a national or private cemetery is a military funeral honors ceremony.

This includes an honor guard detail of at least two uniformed military persons, folding and presenting the U.S. burial flag to the veteran's survivors and the playing of Taps.

The funeral provider you choose will be able to assist you with all VA burial requests.

Depending on what you want, certain forms may need to be completed which are always better to be done in advance.

For a complete rundown of burial and memorial benefits, eligibility details and required forms visit Cem.va.gov.

Burial allowances

In addition to the burial benefits, some veteran's survivors may also qualify for a $948 burial allowance and $948 for a plot to those who choose to be buried in a private cemetery, and $231 for a headstone or grave marker allowance.

To find out if your dad is eligible or to apply, see VA.gov/burials-memorials/veterans-burial-allowance.

Conflicts of interest are natural with home sales

Dear Monty

BY RICHARD MONTGOMERY
SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

DEAR MONTY,

I have a situation where I need professional advice.

I am interested in purchasing a one-bedroom, one bath house with property and some structures in the Midwest.

The seller is someone my wife and I have known for several years, and we are well acquainted. The seller also has a business at his residence.

The business is a small flower-farming operation he has managed for around 30 years.

My wife has been an employee at the seller's farm for around 15 years and helps manage it.

The seller's farm has historically done well, financially speaking.

Getting to the point, the seller has had two appraisals done so far.

One was for around $450,000, and the other was around $200,000.

There are 10 acres of land, the above-mentioned house, two 40x30-foot plastic greenhouses and a small heated barn with a large walk-in cooler.

The seller isn't selling the property as a business, just the house, land and structures.

The property is maintained well, and the house, even though small, is essentially a custom house so it's nice on the inside.

What are your thoughts regarding the two appraisals being so far apart?

My lender has not performed an appraisal yet, but I am unsure what to make of the potential transaction.

Additionally, do you think this situation presents as a conflict of interest?

MONTY'S ANSWER:

The subject property is unique from your description, and the seller's approach is exceptional.

It is unusual when a seller has an operating business that has done well financially and wants to sell as if there was no business. Usually, this would add value to the sale price.

It is unclear how much your wife knows.

It is very common for an employee to believe the owner is raking it in, and the owner is struggling.

On the other hand, in 30 years, he may have a fortune and want the same for a dedicated employee.

If your wife helps manage it and knows the balance sheet, she likely already knows the value added by operating the business.

The appraisals

All opinions will be different because the nature of the appraisal is subjective thinking with many variables.

If you know both valuations, you may have viewed the appraisal documents.

Reading each appraisal

ness, specifically the two hoop houses and the walk-in cooler.

Your lender's appraiser will also have a different opinion.

The difference between the seller obtaining two appraisals and your lender's appraiser is that this appraiser is not working for you. Even though you are paying, your lender's appraiser protects the lender's interest.

The conflict of interest

It is unclear who you think has the conflict of interest.

You both have a conflict of interest inherent in protecting your interests.

The seller knows your wife knows the financials, and that knowledge may explain why he would sell in this fashion.

Consider asking him. It is expected to have the concerns you are sharing.

Let it play out and react as necessary.

UW-Green Bay Theatre presents The Mad Ones

By Janelle Fisher
City Pages Editor

UW-Green Bay Theatre will put on its final performances of the 2023-24 season this weekend as it wraps up its production of The Mad Ones.

"It's about a young girl who is on her way to college," said Director Thomas Campbell. "It starts off when she gets in the car and then the rest of the play takes place in her head and she reflects on the past year and the memories of some of the events in the past year of her life. And she is joined by the ghost of her recently deceased best friend... It's a small cast, but heavy material, big songs, big content and lots to process emotionally."

The show, Campbell said, was selected intentionally because of that small cast.

"The previous musical we did was a really big, large cast, so we wanted to focus on something different for a student experience," Campbell said. "So we felt that pedagogically this was a good show to focus on. Also, bringing a musical into this space presents different challenges for us artistically, as well as from a teaching standpoint."

While UW-Green Bay Theatre's shows are typically performed in the larger University Theatre, The Mad Ones will take place in the smaller Jean Weidner Theatre to provide both the students involved and the audience with a more intimate experience.

"I really like how intimate the space is," said Audrey Soberg, who plays the role of the main character, Sam. "Early on in the process, we were talking about how this all takes place in Sam's mind, so we're trying to give that to the audience so that they feel like they're in there with me. And then I feel like they're in there with me, so it changes my process of how I react to things and how I interpret how the scenes are going. We just wanted everything to feel a lot closer and a lot more intimate, so I'm very excited to be able to do a musical in this space."

Cast members said that being a part of a smaller show has also allowed them to get more intimate with their own characters and how they bring them to the stage.

"With it being only four cast members, we've all been able to really allow ourselves to get intimate with our characters and really dive in deep to who they are — even deeper than just the script may allow and even playing with scenarios or different themes or different connections and relationships even," said Blake Larson, who plays Sam's boyfriend, Adam. "The show allows so much for the actor to play with their character, and it's really allowed me, especially, to figure out who Adam is and who I want him to be."

Although the show covers some serious topics, Campbell said the show's more comedic moments and the cast and crew have kept rehearsals light and enjoyable.

"Even though the content is really heavy, it's been a lot of fun," he said. "Lots of laughter. Lots of willingness to explore and try new things and challenges — just embrace the process. It's a really good group. We have a fantastic stage management team and really strong performers."

The mix of emotional and comedic moments have also provided a challenge for the cast to learn how to navigate as they

When Push Comes to Shove and Still Life: Holding Sound open now at newARTSpace

By Janelle Fisher
City Pages Editor

Now through May 18, newARTSpace will house two exhibits at its downtown De Pere gallery — an exhibit featuring the artwork of John Tyson entitled When Push Comes to Shove and an exhibit featuring the artwork of Marjorie Mau entitled Still Life: Holding Sound.

Although each exhibit and artist utilizes different mediums and ideas, newARTSpace Curator/Coordinator Terri Warpinski said the motivation behind the artwork connects them.

“For both Marjorie and John, art is a hugely grounding part of their daily lives,” she said. “It helped both of them in very different ways and it helps them sort of make sense of their existence. What I hope people leave with is the notion that art isn’t merely decorative and it’s not merely pretty, but that it is an important part of human expression. I believe everybody needs a form of expression. It doesn’t have to be visual, but it’s essential to what it is to be human.”

When Push Comes to Shove

Tyson’s exhibit, When Push Comes to Shove, features strong literary ties and pairs words with densely scribed and worked backgrounds.

“They’re all words of mine or words that

I’ve picked up from other people,” he said. “And I’m obsessed with words. I like the whole thing of poetry and I’ve also liked art, so they just kind of came together. I was able to do a lot of drawing in prison. I had the time and I took full advantage of that, so it just became a ritual that I follow through... It’s a part of everything for me.”

Those who view Tyson’s exhibit at newARTSpace may recognize his work as it is also featured in Art Against the Odds, an exhibit on display at the Neville Public Museum composed of the artwork of individuals in Wisconsin’s prison system.

Tyson was released in 2017, but his passion for art has stuck with him and he has found comfort in the repetition present in his work.

“Sometimes you like your doodle and then you might repeat those kinds of things,” he said. “Repetition is very important for us because, as humans, we repeat everything. We don’t like to say that because we want to be new and exciting and different, but life is very repetitive. And so that’s what my job is — to put words down in a very openly repetitive way.”

“Repetition helps me relax,” he said.

Ashwaubenon students perform in PUFFS

By Janelle Fisher
City Pages Editor

Although many may be familiar with Harry Potter, Ashwaubenon High School students are bringing a lesser-known side of the story to the stage in their production of Puffs, or Seven Increasingly Eventful Years at a Certain School of Magic and Magic.

"It's a parody of Harry Potter," said Amber Hammen, who co-advises the production with Heather LaFleur. "But it's very tongue-in-cheek. They don't have any direct trademarked words, so they have a lot of words that are referencing it. The kids actually picked it — they really wanted to do it and we checked it out and thought it would be great. And it's very funny. I would say there's like a joke a minute."

There is no shortage of laughs throughout the show, but LaFleur said there is a more heartfelt message to be felt as well.

"It's the story of the seven years at the magical school, from the perspective of the Puffs or the Hufflepuffs — the house that never got any kind of attention," Heather said. "It's them trying to make their way and get recognized for something... It's supposed to be a story for people that were never destined to be a hero. It's for all the people who never really felt they had an adventure."

▲ One reason students selected Puffs as this year's show was because of the large cast and the opportunity for many people to get involved and be on stage.

While the play focuses on a different set of characters, Hammen said some popular characters from the original series make appearances throughout the show as well — some in more traditional forms than others.

"They have a main trio just like the original trio, but they're very opposite of them," Amber said. "And there is still Harry, but Ron is played by a mop and there's not really a Hermione. So it's kind of funny in that regard."

In keeping with Ashwaubenon High School tradition, this year's spring play is being directed by students while the advisors take a step back.

"We're very much supporting rather than leading," Hammen said. "And that's what it's supposed to be."

Student directors Sarah Beudo and Addie Thomas have taken the lead in directing Puffs, and said the process has provided a much different experience than being in the cast.

"It's very interesting to get to see your ideas that you have from the very beginning start to progress," Beudo said. "And you get to watch as all of the actors get to know their roles and grow as the characters themselves."

Having experience acting in shows at Ashwaubenon, though, has helped them be able to take on the role of director effectively.

"I think it really helps that we both acted on stage, too," Thomas said. "It kind of gives us an insight of what they might be thinking when we tell them something and it doesn't always click right away. We're kind of able to help them through some of those challenges."

To those considering seeing the show, Beudo and Thomas said there's something for everyone in Puffs, regardless of their level of familiarity with Harry Potter.

"Even if you've never seen or read Harry Potter ever, there are a lot of jokes in [the show] that don't have to do with Harry Potter and a lot of things that people are going to find funny and entertaining, even if they've never seen it," Thomas said. "And if you have seen it, there are a few jokes in there for you."

Performances of Puffs will be Saturday, April 20, at 7 p.m. and Sunday, April 21, at 4 p.m. at the Ashwaubenon Performing Arts Center. Tickets will be sold at the door. More details can be found at ashwaubenonpac.org. GP ▲ Puffs is a parody of Harry Potter, following the story of the Hufflepuffs.

"Doing it over and over again, it's like, 'Okay, I did a week. Could I do a month?' And then, 'Yeah, I can do a month,' and then finally, after three months or so, 'I'm going to do it a year.' I wasn't trying to mark time — people believe that. Maybe I was, but that's kind of like if you like washing dishes... By the second, third or fourth dish, you're in your own place... That's what I like."

Tyson said seeing his artwork on display for the first time has been an emotional experience.

"It's pretty inspiring and it's pretty awesome and vulnerable..." he said. "It gets very emotional, not because I'm going back there, but one of the things I've talked to Terry and David about is that I have DID — dissociative identity disorder — so I can leave... It's not a bad thing, it's just a coping skill that I learned... This is the first time my art has been like this... This is just very vulnerable and I like it. I don't need to run from it. I can engage with it."

Still Life: Holding Sound

Mau's exhibit, Still Life: Holding Sound, features drawings in a series which brings together elements from throughout Mau's artistic journey.

"Quite a while ago, when I was an adult student at UW-Green Bay, I was a ceramics student..." she said. "I've had them in my studio, just sort of up on a shelf, not paying much attention to them... Most recently I've been painting, and then through health reasons, I stopped painting and it took me a while to get back into doing art again. I decided to draw, because I love drawing too, and a while ago I had been asked to draw artifacts at the Neville Museum. There's a specific way of doing that — drawing them by bisecting them and measuring the sides. I really enjoyed doing that and I decided to do my drawings like that of vessels, which I've continued to love all along the way... I took that whole idea and I deconstructed it. I just took it all apart and reconfigured what a vessel might look like with all those parts in it that had been rearranged, and that's how [the pieces on display] happened."

Mau said she hopes people who view her work are able to see the care and intention behind each detail of her work.

"When people put a still life together it's very purposeful," she said. "There's a purpose for the material where you put the objects and there's a purpose for how you arrange it, and that seems to be where my work is. As a painter, I always had such a hard time with clarity and with the work feeling like it's clear. But this work feels like there's a lot of clarity and intention. I hope that what people get out of it is the simplicity of it — that all that's necessary is in the work."

For Mau, having her work on display has been meaningful as she considers what the future may hold for her work.

"The title, Holding Sound, came to me from another artist, Anne Truitt, who is a sculptor..." she said. "At the end of her life, when she stopped working, everything was taken out of her studio and she said all that was left was sound. That just really impacted me and, as I'm getting older, I think about that. Where is my work going to go? What happens at the end?... It was wonderful for Terry and David to ask me to do this, because I work now without the intention of showing it or selling it, so to have it here is just wonderful."

move along with the quick pace of the show.

"Making all the switches from moment to moment has been interesting to navigate because the tone and emotions throughout the show switch so quickly as we're going from memory to memory," said Jenny Witt, who plays Sam's mother, Beverly. "There's one moment where I'm doing a funny song and then I'm dumping all my despair from my entire life, so those switches have been interesting to navigate."

As the show deals with the transition from college to high school and Sam's journey to figuring out who she wants to be, Campbell and the cast said that many people in the audience, and even the cast members themselves, will be able to find something to relate to in the show.

"One thing that stuck with me a lot is understanding that in order to live a life that you want to live, you have to base your actions off of what you want and not what other people around you are trying to do or what the people around you want for you," said Ava Brewer, who plays Sam's recently deceased friend, Kelly.

"There's a lot of moments in the show that lots of people go through," Witt said. "So being able to realize that art imitates life, if you come see the show you will see things that you probably have or will face in your life."

Brown Trout Tournament this weekend

In the Outdoors

BY KEVIN NAZE
GUEST COLUMNIST

Northeastern Wisconsin's most popular spring brown trout tournament is taking place this weekend.

Hundreds of anglers are fishing off Kewaunee and Door counties, hoping to tangle with a trophy trout. Most years, it takes a whopper larger than 20 pounds to win.

Known as the Baileys Harbor Brown Trout Tournament, the April 18-21 event allows fishing in Green Bay and Lake Michigan.

Tickets are available online at <https://e.sparxo.com/Baileys-Harbor-Brown-Trout-Tournament>, or in person at the four weigh-in locations (Baileys 57, Howie's Tackle, Hooked Up Tackle Shop and Yacht Works Kewaunee) and five other ticket outlets: Algoma BP, Cherryland Shell and Greystone Castle in Sturgeon Bay, Lakeshore Adventures in Baileys Harbor and Virlee Gunworks in New Franken.

Get tourney updates at <https://www.facebook.com/BaileysHarborBrownTrout/>.

Meanwhile, there were 41 teams entered the Blue Door Brown Trout Derby, headquartered in Kewaunee last Saturday. Team Reel Deal (59.25 pounds), Team Pieman (58.91) and Team JG Express (52.85) were the top three finishers, while Team LaFond's Fish Market had the catch of the day, a 19.61-pounder.

You can watch an archived video of the weigh-in, or check out still photos and see the leaderboard, at <https://www.facebook.com/Blue-doortournamentseries>.

Elsewhere, walleye spawning is winding down on

Green Bay tributaries, and fish have been active as they head back to the bay. Some bonus pike, trout and bass have also been hooked.

A large run of suckers in the tributaries means the steelhead run is on its last legs, with most fish spawned out and on their way back to the main lake.

DNR fisheries staff sorted more than 2,000 steelhead at the Root River and Besadny weirs this spring, including more than 1,200 in eight collections from the Root at Racine. Of those, nearly 800 were spawned.

The thirdeg-take at the Besadny Anadromous Fisheries Facility near Kewaunee took place April 10, and another was set for April 17. Through April 10, a total of 989 steelhead had been sorted. Of those, 245 females were spawned resulting in about one million eggs taken.

Finally, if you've been wanting to see sturgeon spawn, now's the time to check below the dams at DePere, Peshtigo and Marinette, or take a trip to the Wolf River at New London, Shiocton or Shawano.

Birdathon underway

The Great Wisconsin Birdathon began this week and runs through June 15.

It's like a walk-a-thon, but instead of logging miles, participants log bird sightings.

The Birdathon is Wisconsin's largest fundraiser for bird conservation. Bird enthusiasts from across the state raise support and awareness for bird conservation by forming a team or donating to a team.

White pelicans by the hundreds have been swallowing spawning walleyes below the DePere dam all month. Pelicans are also frequenting some of the west shore tributaries as well as lower Green Bay and Little Sturgeon Bay and Sawyer Harbor in Door County. Kevin Naze photo.

Last year, 72 teams raised a record $122,162. The funds are collected and managed by the Natural Resources Foundation of Wisconsin. The Bird Protection Fund's advisory committee selected 11 projects to fund. Learn more at <https://www.wisconservation.org/great-wisconsin-birdathon/>.

Bird programs at AHS

The Algoma World Migratory Bird Day Celebration will be held on Saturday, April 27 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Algoma High School.

Organized by the Bird City Algoma Committee, this event supports Algoma's ongoing recognition as a Bird City Wisconsin.

The celebration will feature displays by local organizations, vendors, door prizes and programs. Steel Belly BBQ food truck will offer a lunch menu from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Native plant sale

Wild Ones Green Bay Chapter in De Pere is holding its annual native plant sale through April 30. See what's offered at <https://greenbay.wildones.org/>.

Closer to home, Door Landscape and Nursery in Egg Harbor (www.doorlandscape.com) offers native plants and advice.

The nursery has about 150 species of native plants. Many are propagated from seed, with an emphasis on Door County natives.

Turkey hunt is on

The first of six seven-day spring wild turkey hunts began Wednesday, with gobblers already fighting and pursuing hens.

Any turkey harvest must be registered by 5 p.m. the day after recovery. You can register by phone at (844) 426-3734 or online at <https://gowild.wi.gov/wildlife/harvest>.

For more information, visit <https://dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/hunt/turkey>.

Spring hearing

Results of advisory-only votes for the recent Department of Natural Resources fish and wildlife hearings and Wisconsin Conservation Congress county meetings and online input should be available soon at <https://dnr.wisconsin.gov/about/wcc/springhearing>.

Weekly water levels

Lake Michigan and Green Bay water levels are down about four inches from last year at this time, and 33 inches from the April, 2020 monthly record.

Water levels are still about 33 inches above the all-time monthly low, set in 1964.

I history and the greatest single season turnaround in Horizon League basketball history, Green Bay Men's Basketball Head Coach Sundance Wicks has agreed to a contract extension that will keep him in Tittletown through the 2028-2029 season. In his first year at the helm, Wicks won the 2023-24 Horizon League Coach of the Year in his first year and the Joe B. Hall National Coach of the Year. "Sunny has done such an amazing job in year one, we are thrilled that he will continue to lead the Phoenix for the foreseeable future," said Director of Athletics Josh Moon. "We are building something special in Green Bay, and his connectivity, juice, belief, character and passion for this program and University will continue to help us rise to new heights. What I appreciate most about Sunny is his love for our players and his deep commitment and belief to learn from the legends that have come before him, he has embraced the grit and hard work that embodies this region and this program and ignited the passion and belief for Phoenix basketball from so many. We are excited to watch the continued rise of this program under his leadership."

Wicks, a Gillette, Wyoming, native, was tasked with raising the Phoenix from the ashes of one of the lowest points in program history.

He immediately rebuilt and re-energized the program, highlighted by winning 18 games, the most regular season wins since the 2016-17 season.

The Phoenix also achieved Horizon League success, winning 13 HL games for the first time since the 2013-14 season, and finishing third for the first time since 2019-20.

The Green Bay community took notice, and games saw an average attendance increase of 42% this year, as well as a 63% increase in ticket sales.

In addition to Green Bay's team success, Wicks also guided numerous players to award-winning seasons.

Lead guard Noah Reynolds was named the Horizon League Newcomer of the Year, All-Horizon League First Team and NABC District 12 All-Region First Team after an outstanding season. For the first time in program history, Green Bay also saw two freshmen named to the Horizon League All-Freshman Team, David Douglas Jr. (Freshman of the Year) and Marcus Hall.

While the Phoenix excelled on the court, their off the court accomplishments might be even more impressive. As a team, Green Bay finished the Fall 2023 semester with a 3.25 GPA, the second-highest mark in program history.

The team has also been involved in over thirty volunteer activities, ranging from reading to local elementary school children, to move-in day on campus, to being present at fellow student-athlete send-offs, SAAC meetings and community outreach events.

In total, the Phoenix went 18-14 in 2023-24 after a 3-29 season in 2022-23. That 15.5-game turnaround is tied for ninth-best turnaround in NCAA DI history. The 13 Horizon League wins is also the most by a first-year head coach in Green Bay men's basketball history.

"I would first like to express my deepest gratitude for Chancellor Alexander and Director of Athletics Josh Moon for their backing and belief in the mission and vision of our program through this extension," Wicks said. "It is because of their belief that I get to wake up every day living my passion and carrying on 'The Green Bay Way' legacy of those that came before me. It is an honor serving UWGB, Green Bay, the Fox Valley and all northeastern Wisconsin."

"The way the Phoenix faithful brought the juice this season and helped will our team to wins in the Resch Center this year was remarkable!" Wicks continued, "that love and support from our Phoenix family helped these young men orchestrate the greatest single season turnaround in Horizon League basketball history. More than ever, our staff and players are committed to the work, and we will all be relentless in our pursuit for excellence both on and off the court. Thank you to the army of energy givers, the believers and all the behind-the-scenes difference makers out there that helped elevate our program. The rise continues!!!"

Saloun breaks home run record, Phoenix drops first two to Oakland

Sam Saloun smashed her 19th career home run, breaking a GB Phoenix record in their game against the Oakland Grizzlies on Saturday, April 13. Green Bay Athletics photo

BY GREEN BAY ATHLETICS FOR THE PRESS TIMES

GREEN BAY – The Green Bay Phoenix softball team dropped a pair of games to the Horizon League's second-place team on Saturday, falling to Oakland 9-1 and 7-4. The Phoenix will finish the series tomorrow at 11 a.m.

Game 1 | Oakland 9, Green Bay 1

Oakland didn't wait to start the scoring, singling a run home in the top of the first to take a 1-0 lead after one inning. The visitors quadrupled that lead with a three-run homer in the top of the second.

The Phoenix struggled to get the bats going, collecting their first hit in the fifth inning and scoring their first run in the bottom of the seventh. By that time, the Golden Grizzlies had built a 9-0 lead and contained Green Bay to one run to wrap up game one 9-1.

Green Bay's run came after Kaylin Fahy hit into a fielder's choice to score Lauren Porter.

The Green Bay Phoenix struggled on Saturday, falling to the Oakland Golden Grizzlies 9-1 despite the efforts of L. Porter, who went 2-for-3.

Kelly Greene started and took the loss in the circle for Green Bay. At the plate, Green Bay was led by Porter, who went 2-for-3 with a run scored.

Madyson Baker, Paige Hanson and Jordan Meng were the other Phoenix to register a hit.

Game notes

Oakland outhit Green Bay 15-5.

Five Golden Grizzlies had multiple hits in the contest. Sydney Campbell was lights out in the circle for Oakland, throwing seven innings of one-run ball.

Game 2 | Oakland 7, Green Bay 4

The Phoenix started game two on top, with Hailley Heckenlaible singling home Bella Herman to take a 1-0 lead in the first. Unfortunately for Green Bay, Oakland responded with seven unanswered runs.

Green Bay had runners in scoring position in multiple innings but was unable to capitalize until the bottom of the seventh. Sam Saloun got the scoring started with her record-breaking 19th career home run. That was followed up by an RBI triple from Hanson and an RBI single from Meng to bring the score to 7-4.

That left Green Bay with runners at first and second with one out, but Oakland reliever Mary Newton shut down the Phoenix rally to secure the 7-4 win.

Game notes

Every Phoenix starter reached base safely in game two.

Green Bay left 12 runners stranded on base in the loss. OU slightly outhit the Phoenix 12-9.

The Phoenix drew five walks from Oakland pitching.

Saloun led the Phoenix at the plate, going 1-for-2 with a home run, RBI and two walks.

Preble hangs on to beat Pirates, weather

BY RICH PALZEWIC
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

SUAMICO – With a 20-mph wind from the northwest and a little rain thrown in, the Green Bay Preble softball team used some small ball, timely hitting and clutch pitching to eke out a 6-5 Fox River Classic Conference (FRCC) victory on April 16 over Bay Port.

With the Hornets (6-1 overall, 5-1 FRCC) leading 6-3 entering the bottom of the seventh inning, the Pirates (3-3, 3-1) got their first two batters — Estelle Finlan and Hailey Montie — aboard via walks.

Preble Coach Ron Metzler then pulled starting pitcher Katie Geydoshek in favor of sophomore Tenley Kuehn.

After Kuehn struck out Sydney Rau for the first out, Payton Dudra grounded out, advancing both runners a base.

Morgan VandenBranden then ripped a two-RBI double to plate Finlan and Montie.

VandenBranden advanced to third on the play due to a throwing error.

With the game on the line, Kuehn struck out Willa Stocki to send the crowd home.

"I was a little nervous coming into the game in such a tight spot, but I knew my teammates had my back," Kuehn said. "I believed in myself out there."

Kuehn said she simply focused on throwing strikes.

Tenley Kuehn

"With the wind and rainy weather, I tried to put the ball in the (strike) zone," she said. "I went pitch by pitch — I'm happy with how things turned out."

Metzler said despite Kuehn being a sophomore, she saw plenty of action as a freshman.

"I'm not sure I would have put her in that position last year with that kind of pressure," he said. "It was getting dark and raining, and the pressure was on. It was great to see her come through — she showed us what she can do, but we already knew what she could do."

The game was scoreless until the top of the third when the Hornets' Cara Schauer led off the inning with a double, was sacrificed to third on a Kaitlyn Duchateau bunt and eventually scored on a wild pitch.

Leading 2-0 entering the fifth, Preble plated two more runs to make it 4-0.

Hannah VonHaden — who led off the inning with a single — eventually scored on an RBI single from leadoff hitter Hannah Smith.

Smith came around to score on a passed ball later in the inning.

The Pirates finally plated a run in the bottom of the fifth when Aubrey Parker touched home plate after Finlan was walked with the bases loaded.

The inning could have been worse, but Geydoshek stranded the bases loaded.

The Hornets made it 5-1 with a single run in the sixth before Bay Port cut the margin to 5-3 in the bottom of the frame after Willa

Stocki knocked in a pair with a triple.

Preble added an insurance run in the seventh, setting up the late-game fireworks.

"It was a wild game," Metzler said. "You had crazy plays, close calls, bad weather and two good teams. The top half of the FRCC this season is loaded with outstanding pitching. You'll see a lot of 1-0, 3-1 or 2-1 games — we're looking forward to that. When we see these games, it's fun to be a part of."

For the Pirates, Coach Chris Nelson said, "I was extremely proud of how my girls hung in there."

"The girls believe in themselves," he said. "Preble is a tough team — Geydoshek is one of the top pitchers in the state, so I was happy with our effort."

The first-year coach — who took over for Amber Francour — said his squad is young but talented.

"It's a resilient group," he said. "We had a few errors but also made some plays we had to. We have to learn how to win — we can't just play five innings... it has to be a full game. We only have two girls on this year's team who have varsity experience — the rest are new to varsity softball."

Geydoshek — who picked up the win — was charged with all five Bay Port runs but only allowed four hits, struck out 10 and walked six.

Finlan surrendered nine hits and struck out one in her complete-game effort.

Participants prepare for Training Runs ahead of upcoming Bellin Run

Bellin offers regular training runs and walks in the weeks leading up to the big event to aid participants in their training process.

GREEN BAY – As the annual Bellin Run quickly approaches, opportunities for training runs to prepare for the big day have opened up.

Training runs and walks are intended to provide motivation and socialization for participants preparing their bodies and minds to take on the big run in June.

Weekly group trainings allow individuals to train for free every Wednesday at 6 p.m. through June 5 at Bellin Health Titledown Sports Medicine and Orthopedics.

Runners of all levels and abilities are encouraged to join in, providing access to various routes intended to help prepare for the 5K or 10K.

According to Nate Vandervest, Bellin Health's running expert and leader of the training runs, the most important incentives for people to take advantage of the training run opportunities are the atmosphere and the people.

"We have a great staff that can answer your questions

For runners who want to learn how to perform better or minimize their risk of injury, Bellin offers state-of-the-art running assessments.

about the race, training and injuries. The group of runners and walkers that show up on a weekly basis are all so encouraging of one another," said Vandervest.

"We have a wide range of abilities that makes it less intimidating for anyone that is new because there will be someone running or walking at your pace that you can get to know at the training runs."

Vandervest also said that each runner can expect to gain a lot of information, experience and preparation to help guide them for the big day.

"You can expect the support of our professional staff along with all the other runners and walkers at the training run for that day. We have two routes that people can choose based on ability level or race they intend to compete in. One of the training routes will be made for people competing in the 5K while the other is for the 10K participants. The routes follow our Bellin Run training plan that you can find online," said Vandervest.

In addition to the physical aspect of participating in the training runs, Vandervest said that training runs can also benefit people who are unsure about themselves by incentivizing the creation of a community of motivated individuals.

"There is power in numbers and what attracts people most is other people. We have that here at the training runs. I have seen people create training friendships at these over the years. I have also witnessed people that were unsure of being able to complete the race increase their fitness to the point that they had a timed goal by the end of the training cycle," said Vandervest.

An online training guide is also available to help participants and runners stay on track on an individual basis.

These online resources and additional information can be found at bellinrun.com/training.
