Saari to retire

Superintendent leaving Waupaca in June

BY ROBERT CLOUD
SENIOR EDITOR

WAUPACA – Members of the Waupaca School Board held a special meeting May 2 to discuss how to replace District Administrator Ron Saari.

Saari announced his plans to retire at the end of the academic year in an April 30 letter to school board members, staff, parents and residents.

“I want to share how grateful I am for the opportunity to spend the last five years working for the School District of Waupaca. I have learned a great deal from our staff and feel that my skills have grown considerably during my time as your District Administrator,” Saari said in his letter. “I truly believe that we are in a much better position to continue to grow and improve as an organization than previously.”

In his letter, Saari noted the nearly $900,000 2024-25 budget shortfall that the district had faced last year.

During January and February, the district received new information from the state, which significantly lowered the projected budget deficit.

“By continuing to follow our district’s philosophy of position cuts through attrition and evaluating every open position before posting, we now have a 2024-25 balanced budget projected,” according to Saari. “This has allowed us to forgo the previous plan to create a stakeholder group to evaluate difficult budget cutting options.”

Board discussion

At the May 2 meeting, school board President Ron Brooks said the goal of the meeting was to discuss what needed to be done in order to hire a new district administrator.

Brooks said Mark Flaten, the district’s director of teaching and learning, is willing to serve in both his current position and as an interim administrator until the school board completes the application and interview process.

Brooks said another staff member recommended Craig Gerlach, a retired Stevens Point district administrator, as an interim district administrator.

Gerlach could also serve as a mentor to the new district administrator the Waupaca hires.

Gerlach retired as the Stevens Point district administrator in June 2022. He subsequently served as an interim administrator in Wisconsin Heights for one year.

“Do we know what the cost is for bringing Craig in?” asked Molly McDonald, the board treasurer.

If Gerlach worked as an interim administrator, helping train the new district administrator hired by the school board, Brooks said he would have an annual

Opioid crisis scramble

County slow to action

BY JAMES CARD
STAFF REPORTER

WAUPACA – According to members of the Waupaca Recovery Coalition, Waupaca County is dragging its feet on two subjects that could make a difference in the lives of people on the road to recovery.

The first concern is that the county is sitting on funds that could be put to better use.

In January 2022, the Waupaca County Post reported that the county would receive $1.7 million from a multistate $21 billion opioid settlement from pharmaceutical companies that caused America’s opioid crisis.

The county would receive these funds over a nine-year period.

The funds are to be earmarked to cover expenses associated with opioid abuse, such as treatment and prevention programs.

What members of the Waupaca Recovery Coalition would like to know is how is the money being spent and since they are on the front lines of the opiate disaster, how they can have a seat at the table and advise the county on where the funds could be used most effectively.

Jed Wohlt, the Waupaca County health officer, provided the following numbers: “To date the county has received $535,246.77 in opioid

Clintonville board OKs pay rates

Support staff pay raised

BY BERT LEHMAN
STAFF REPORTER

CLINTONVILLE – The Clintonville School Board approved support staff base pay and hourly rates, as well as instructional staff salaries, and the daily substitute teacher pay rate for the 2024-25 school year.

The approvals came at the board’s April 22 meeting. Also, at that meeting, Superintendent Troy Kuhn provided the board with updates to other matters that impact the district’s budget.

Support staff pay

The support staff base pay and hourly rates for the 2024-25 school year that were approved were recommended by school administration.

Kuhn told the board that the majority of hourly staff would receive a 25-cent per hour increase in pay. The increases are built into the district’s budget projections.

Instructional staff salaries

Kuhn told the board that the administration is not recommending that the base pay be increased this year for salaried staff. Instead, it recommended that each of the salaried staff receive their STEP adjustments. He said that recommendation is in the district budget models.

The board unanimously approved the recommendation.

Substitute teacher pay

Kuhn said that each year the district normally discusses the pay rate for substitute teachers. The district currently pays substitute teachers $128 per day and $60 for half a day.

Recently, Kuhn said he surveyed area school districts as to what they pay their substitute teachers.

He said his first thought was that the district’s pay for substitute teachers was too low, but after comparing the data, the district’s rate is comparable with other area districts.

“I think we’re OK with where we are,” Kuhn told the board.

Most of the other area districts pay $120 or less per day, Kuhn said.

He added that the district did not include a pay increase for substitute teachers

NL school meals to cost more

Fees raised by 5 cents

BY BERT LEHMAN
STAFF REPORTER

NEW LONDON – The cost of some school meals will increase by 5 cents in the 2024-25 school year in the New London School District.

The New London School Board approved the increase when it approved the fee schedule for the 2024-25 school year at its April 22 meeting.

Superintendent Scott Bleck said that over the last few years, the district has taken multiple approaches to school fees. This included last year, when the district re-established a “significant amount” of fees to become part of the district’s annual budget development.

Bleck asked the board to discuss the fees for the settlement funds. To date $71,268 has been spent," he wrote in an email to the Waupaca County Post.

The projects that funds have been spent on include $59,204 for Tru Narc devices (a tool for detecting fentanyl and other substances), a fentanyl awareness campaign that cost $11,664. RISE training for home visitor staff working with families impacted by substance use. That was $400 and the salary and compensation package for a substance use disorder counselor, a newly created position that was posted in April 2024.

According to the job posting, the new full-time position pays $28 to $32 per hour, requires a bachelor's degree in human services, 360 hours of specialized education in substance use disorder, a professional license in substance-abuse counseling or mental health counseling and a preference for those with four years of experience.

"The county's recent expenditure of these crucial funds on billboards and law enforcement equipment, areas not within the dedicated guidelines for spending, starkly deviates from the settlement's intent to bolster nonprofit efforts in starting and sustaining recovery services. We believe that the community deserves to be informed about these discrepancies and the potential for these funds to enact real change if directed properly," wrote Michael Hall, director of Impact Wisconsin in an email to the Waupaca County Post.

Impact Wisconsin serves anyone experiencing crisis or substance abuse disorder in Waupaca County and other rural areas.

"I think we need better county involvement in how to support people with a substance abuse disorder. The opiate settlement is relatively a small amount of money but this is the public health crisis of our time. Fentanyl is the leading cause of death in young people. So that should be front and center on the county agenda," said Dr. Ezra Lyon, a physician at ThedaCare and member of the Waupaca Recovery Coalition.

"How do we help people suffering from substance abuse disorder? How do we get people housing and medical care and transportation and jobs and the thing for people to put their lives back together? Because that's how we're going to keep people from dying. But it's not front and center right now," Lyon said.

Wrong address

If a person with a substance abuse disorder lived in New London and wanted help, the person's street address would determine his or her fate.

The county line slices through the city and if a person lived in Outagamie County, they could receive help for their treatment. If the person lived in Waupaca County, then they would not receive help.

This relates to comprehensive community services (CCS), a state Medicaid benefit provided through Department of Human Service that are distributed at the county level. It focuses on unique needs that relate to mental health and substance use.

Waupaca distributes CCS for mental health problems but not for substance abuse. Providing the benefit costs the county nothing other than administrative work.

BadgerCare, the Wisconsin's largest Medicaid program, can cover all substance-abuse recovery programs but they do not cover room and board at a treatment facility; however the CCS will cover it. This is the problem with sober-living facilities. They can be funded through grants, an opiate voucher system (which is currently on hold for new applicants) and through CSS.

"The county just has to make it so they can pass that money to us. We can bill for medication management, life skills and peer coaching. All of that stuff is sustainable and adds no weight to the county. If we compare Waupaca County to Outagamie County, Outagamie works with CCS. If there is client that says I need to go to treatment, I need funding to get into sober living because I don't have I don't have a job and can't pay for it, then Outagamie will step in and it will be covered so that person can get into treatment," said David Mahan, director of operations at the Mission of Hope House in New London.

"If they lived a block over in New London, they would have been taken care of. It's so frustrating. Every other county is doing it. All they have they look to the other counties. It's really simple. They are just not doing it," said Mahan.

He rattled off the names of counties where CCS is available: Outagamie, Shawano, Brown, Door, Manitowoc and others. He also pointed out that all of the sober-living housing in Waupaca County is maxed out. They are swamped and there are waiting lists.

Without help from CCS they have asked churches for donations to cover room and board for recovery clients.

"The conversations that we have in all the other counties compared to Waupaca is totally different. In Shawano we told them who we are and what we do and it's OK, how do we help and what do you need. Here, it's radio silence," he said.

The Waupaca County Post contacted Waupaca County's Human Services Director Mary Solheim about the lack of a CSS program for substance-abuse cases. She did not reply by press time.

contract and be paid an annual salary. He noted that it would be expensive for the board to select an administrator while paying an equal salary to Gerlach.

McDonald said the district would be paying two people to be the district administrator.

Board Vice President Steve Klismet asked if they could have a probationary one-year contract with a new administrator.

"Do you think we would have a difficult time getting someone if we say a shorter contract like one year and say we want to see what you're about before we make a long-term commitment?" Klismet asked.

"That's a very good option," Brooks said. "We take applications. We do interviews. We pick our individual and we give that person a one-year interim and say this is a trial by fire."

He noted that this option would be less expensive.

Board member and clerk Betty Manion suggested that the board contact Dave Peoschl, who served as Waupaca's district administrator from 1992 to 2016.

Brooks said he would also like to see Peoschl on the team that interviews candidates and asked Manion to discuss this with Peoschl.

Prior to interviewing candidates, Flaten suggested that the board meet with staff at each of the buildings to hear their input.

Several board members said they believed meeting with staff at the schools would help the board build better relations and trust with teachers and administrators.

"I think it's time that the board goes out there and meets them on their turf," Brooks said.

The district has posted the job opening for district administrator.

They plan to accept applications until May 20, hold interviews in June and hope to fill the position before the end of July.

MEAL FEES

2024-25 school year at the meeting, adding that the fees didn't need to be approved at the meeting, as that could wait until the next board meeting.

"I think from a standpoint of where we landed this year, we landed in a quality spot to meet the needs, yet still, do our very best to make the best decision in the economical for our students' families when it's our responsibility to support a free and appropriate education for our students," Bleck said.

Board Clerk Katie Batten asked what the projected enrollment is for the district for the next school year, since that has an impact on the budget.

SDNL Business Services Director Joe Marquardt said the district is projecting to lose 50-75 students from its enrollment.

"But remember your revenue limit is based upon three-year averages," Marquardt said.

Marquardt added that as the number of students eligible for free and reduced lunch increases slightly, as they have the last few years, the district collects fewer fees from those students because the fees can potentially be waived.

Board President Chris Martinson asked Bleck if there was any reason the board couldn't approve the fees at this meeting, since there didn't seem to be anything controversial in the fees.

Bleck said that would be at the discretion of the board.

The fees approved included a 5-cent increase for paid breakfast, paid lunch and paid milk for the 2024-25 school year.

A document provided by the district to the board regarding the proposed fees stated, "Each school district analyzes fees for local impact. There are several differences throughout the region but New London is comparable in most areas. These revenues in the budget are slowly declining because of the decline in students. The district has tried to be very conservative with fees for families."

PUBLISHER'S LETTERHonoring Mothers on Mother's Day

Dear Reader,

As we approach Sunday, May 12, we prepare to celebrate Mother's Day, a cherished occasion established in 1907 to honor the profound sacrifices mothers make for their children. This day serves as a poignant reminder of the immeasurable love and dedication that mothers selflessly provide.

Motherhood is a journey marked by both joys and challenges. From sleepless nights to tender moments, mothers navigate a myriad of experiences in raising their children, often facing daunting circumstances with unwavering strength and resilience.

As we commemorate Mother's Day, let us pause to express our gratitude to the remarkable women who have shaped our lives. Whether through words, gestures, or simply spending quality time together, let us honor the profound impact mothers have had on our paths to success and self-discovery.

For those fortunate enough to still have their mothers by their side, may this day be filled with warmth, laughter, and cherished memories. And for those whose mothers are no longer with us, may their legacy of love and guidance continue to inspire us each day.

Wishing all mothers a day filled with love, appreciation, and the recognition they truly deserve. Happy Mother's Day!

Chain students present musical

WAUPACA – Students will perform "Disney's High School Musical Jr." at 5:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, May 17-18, at the Chain Exploration Center.

The 60-minute musical, designed for middle school-aged performers, is based on the 2006 Disney Channel original movie and the subsequent national tour.

The fifth through eighth grade-cast includes 26 students led by Emma Ives, Brianna Hass, Mackenzie Loken and Molly Peters.

The musical centers on the budding relationship between Troy, a high school athlete, and Gabriella, the new science whiz at school.

They meet while vacationing with their families and become attracted to each other while competing in a karaoke contest.

They rediscover each other when they return school and decide to audition for the school musical, only to have their dreams thwarted.

Adapted for young performers, this musical includes popular High School Musical songs such as "Get'cha Head in the Game," "Stick to the Status Quo" and "We're All in This Together."

These directors are teachers in charge of the Performing Arts Kids elective. This elective class met four days a week for 30-minutes during the second semester of the school year.

Performances are free to the public, but donations are welcome to help support future performances.

The Chain Exploration Center is located at N1360 Silver Lake Drive, off of State Highway 54, west of Waupaca.

Trail saved at Hartman Creek

Path almost abandoned

BY JAMES CARD
STAFF REPORTER

WAUPACA – The Dike Trail at Hartman Creek State Park has been repaired and repaved with crushed limestone and is ready for hiking.

Recently, it was almost abandoned because of its horrible condition. The culprits were a combination of Mother Nature and some nuisance muskrats.

Muskrats sometimes make lodges that are similar to beaver lodges but they also find homes underground. They burrow into the banks of rivers and lakes.

The entrance to the den is below the water line and the tunnel that leads to the den above the high-water mark can be up to 45-feet long. They also dig air shafts to the surface and other entrances and escape routes.

These underground voids caused sinkholes to form on the trail and eventually it became pockmarked with ankle-breaking potholes and small craters. One pothole was large enough to swamp a four-wheeler.

This was the main cause of the Dike Trail falling apart, along with rainfall and erosion making the mess worse.

The Dike Trail is a one-mile path that circles Hartman Lake and on the north shore, the trail is bordered by the lake on one side and a small slough on the other side that forms Hartman Creek at the spillway at the east end of the lake. In this section surrounded by water, the muskrats could burrow into the trail berm from both sides and create more havoc.

"I met an older couple on the trail and they said they gave up walking the trail because it was so dangerous," said Park Superintendent Jarrod Kehring.

He said they had to close it many times to patch it up and they considered abandoning the trail because of the resources needed to fix it.

With help from the Friends of Hartman Creek State Park, park staff was able to receive funding for the rebuild project from grants from the Waupaca Area Community Foundation Fund and the Knowles-Nelson Stewardship Program, along with matching funds from the Friends of Hartman Creek State Park. The total project cost was $37,000.

The new surface of the crushed limestone is nice for an easy stroll and stable enough for people using mobility aids. It connects to the paved trail on the south shore of Hartman Lake.

The trail can be accessed from the beach area of Hartman Lake and from the park shelter area where the Dike Trail separates Mid Lake and Hartman Lake. The trail also connects to other hiking trails, a bike path and the Pope Lake Hiking Trail.

Young guns on target

Up-and-coming J.V. shooters

BY JAMES CARD
STAFF REPORTER

WAUPACA – The Waupaca High School varsity trap team, the Comet Clay Crushers, have two wins and four losses so far this year.

What is notable is the junior varsity team composed of sixth through eighth graders have won four of their six matches.

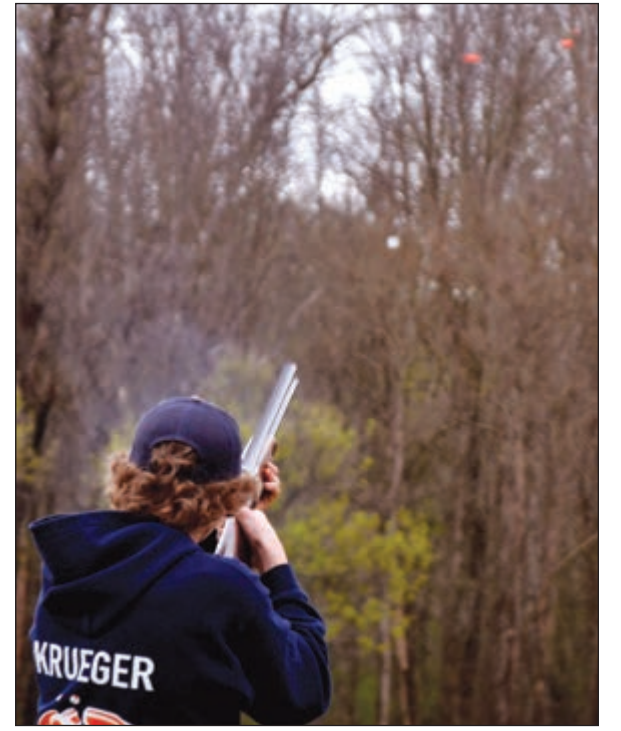

"The J.V. team this year is some of the best kids we've had. We've been complimented when we've gone to other shoots this year on how well behaved and how well our junior shooters are shooting. We lost our first match two weeks ago and that club has 31 J.V. shooters. Well, you put eight kids up against 31, the chance of winning just got taken down a couple pegs," said John Woodliff, the head coach.

Towards the end of their Thursday practice, Ezra Woodliff approached Woodliff, who is both his grandfather and coach. "I just got 50 straight," he said.

He hit 50 targets in a row, a perfect score. Woodliff beamed at his grandson and then turned around to varsity shooter Caden Plum and said, "It looks like you got a run for your money."

Plum nailed a 50-for-50 earlier in the week against Laconia, leading the team to a 220 to 206 win. The other top gunners were Blake St. Louis (44 out of 50), Justin Olson (42 out of 50), Tyler Lehman (42 out of 50) and Jayden Krueger (42 out of 50).

top five scores establish the team score. Individuals are eligible to win individual Lewis-class awards.

Their practice starts every Thursday afternoon with a team meeting in the clubhouse at the Waupaca Conservation League. The coaches go over the results of the last shoot and review safety protocols. They break up into squads of five shooters and grab their guns and ammo.

Al Domaszek and Steve Rawson are the assistant coaches and only they, the shooters and a scorekeeper are allowed past the safety fence while shooting is in progress.

"Those squads that you see here – we don't change them up unless there is a reason for it. We want them to get accustomed to shooting with each other. So at a conference shoot, they know who is on either side of them," said Woodliff.

They shoot 25 rounds, take a break while another squad shoots, and then shoot another 25 rounds – the same number fired at a conference shoot. They do not run laps or do push-ups, but Woodliff encourages them to exercise and stretch.

"They are young, tough people. But go out there on a hot day and lift that gun 50 times up to your shoulder. It wears on you. At the state shoot, its 100 targets. I do encourage them to lift weights and do finger exercises – you got to pull that trigger," he said.

For shooters struggling to smoke a clay pigeon, he has used a camera that records the location of the shot impact, how long it took the shooter to pull the trigger and how well the target was smashed. It helps the shooter understand where the shots are going: high, low, left, right—which can be very difficult for a person to self-diagnose.

The team is self-funded and gets no money from the school district. The team holds fundraisers, takes donations and the in its budget projections.

Insurance costs

Kuhn told the board that once the sale of the former Rexford Longfellow Elementary School property is finalized, the district's liability insurance cost will decrease by 25% by having the property removed from the liability insurance coverage.

However, he said that is negated because the district's liability insurance premium as a whole is scheduled to increase by 24%.

Despite that, Kuhn said with the district's decrease in worker's compensation insurance costs, in addition to the sale of the property, the district will “come out ahead” by $20,000 to $30,000 when compared to last year.

Jirschele Field

Kuhn said the city of Clintonville has moved some bleachers from Bucholtz Park to Jirschele Field in W.A. Olen Park because the main grandstand area still can't be used by spectators.

He said he asked City Administrator Caz Muske to schedule meetings to determine what to do with the ballfield at W.A. Olen Park.

“I know some of you board members have brought it up, do we need to start sticking money back into our fields to get them upgraded, or are we going to continue that relationship with the city, and they use our facilities and we use theirs?” Kuhn asked.

Health reimbursement accounts

Kuhn told the board that around 14 teachers in the district are eligible to retire next year, but the district is not fully vested in its retirement account. He said he will present more information to the board at a future meeting, as the board will need to decide how to handle that.

“Do we want to put that in our budget, because if we are going to put that in our budget, we're going to take a whole bunch of layoffs for one year and then rehire them,” Kuhn said.

Another option, Kuhn said, is the district could use funds from its undesignated fund balance to cover the retirement expenses.

“Otherwise, we're looking at a couple of options of what we can do internally, as possibly shifting some funds around,” Kuhn said. “However, we need to make sure that, number one, it's legal, and number two, that we have the ability to do that.”

The district does have close to $2 million dollars in a retirement fund, Kuhn said, but the funds are in smaller amounts allocated to individuals. Because the funds are allocated to individuals, the funds can't be used to make payments to other retiring teachers.

Department heads, stipends

The board approved the discontinuation of department heads and stipends.

Kuhn told the board that the administration was recommending the discontinuation for the 2024-25 school year and beyond. He said the recommendation was to serve as a budget cut and the money could be dispersed elsewhere.

Board officer elections tabled

Absent member sought delay

BY BERT LEHMAN
STAFF REPORTER

NEW LONDON – When the New London School Board met for its April 22 meeting, it was scheduled to elect officers for the upcoming year.

However, the board voted to table those elections until its May meeting.

The vote was 3-2 to table the election.

Board Vice President John Heideman and board Director Nate Grundy voted against the delay. Board President Chris Martinson abstained from the vote, while board director Mark Grossman was excused from the meeting.

Martinson said he abstained from the vote, "Because I'm assuming the reason for this is, Mark (Grossman) has a different idea of things than I do, and I don't want to tip the balance either way, so I'm going to abstain."

Since the board did not elect a new slate of officers, the board approved to carry over the current officers until the May meeting.

Prior to the vote, Superintendent Scott Bleck told the board that Grossman was dealing with a family matter and could not be present at the meeting, but requested that the election of board officers be tabled until the next board meeting.

Bleck said Grossman made the request because he wanted to participate in the officer elections. Bleck said he told Grossman he would bring that to the board to consider.

He added that delaying the officer elections would be allowable according to statutes. The board has 30 days from April 22 to elect officers.

Board Director Mandy Wilz said she was OK with tabling the election of officers. Board director Holly Schweitzer agreed.

Heideman said he was opposed to delaying the officer elections.

"I don't see the point of it (delay)," Heideman said.

Heideman added that Grossman could have attended the meeting via Zoom.

Bleck said he offered that option but Grossman declined.

Board approves food service contract

Board member questions quality

BY BERT LEHMAN
STAFF REPORTER

NEW LONDON – Despite one board member questioning the quality of food from the New London School District's current food service vendor, the board approved a new contract with the vendor.

At its April 22 meeting, the board approved a new contract with Chartwells, the district's current food service vendor.

Board Vice-President John Heideman and board Director Nate Grundy voted against awarding the contract to Chartwells. Board Treasurer Mark Grossman was excused from the meeting.

Board discussion

Business Services Director Joe Marquardt said the district creates and solicits for food service proposals but the template for that is the same for all school districts that use a food service management company.

Marquardt said the proposals received by the district are then scored based on a variety of criteria, adding that cost is the number one consideration. He told the board that each criteria category was discussed by the Fa-

ILITIES Committee.

"We feel that Chartwells is still the best recommendation to have the board consider moving forward," Marquardt said, regarding the committee's recommendation. "We feel like their company is putting us in a position to offer the food service options that we want for our students."

Marquardt told the board that he appreciated the "continuous improvement mindset" of Chartwells.

Heideman asked how many years the district has been working with Chartwells.

Marquardt said the district has worked with Chartwells for five years.

Heideman said he was on the board when the district switched to Chartwells, and Chartwells made some "big promises" at that time.

"I for one, I'm not satisfied with the history of what we've had," Heideman said. "I don't like false advertising."

While at the WASB Convention, Heideman said he listened to Chartwells' sales staff present examples of meals regularly served at schools. This prompted Heideman to send photos of the School assets as rec center

Benefits for school, city

BY JAMES CARD
STAFF REPORTER

WEYAUWEGA – At the May 6 school board meeting, the main topics of discussion were summer projects in the school district, mainly upgrades and repairs to existing outdoor facilities.

District Administrator Phillip Tubbs posed the idea that in small communities with small school districts, the school essentially becomes the community's de facto park and recreation department.

The school's baseball field becomes a place for impromptu sandlot games. The school's outdoor basketball courts are home to pickup games. People on exercise programs walk on the oval track or the cross-country course. Grassy areas become dodge ball war zones or a place to walk a dog.

The school's playgrounds get constant use with young families and random children in the neighborhood. The W-F high school's weight room is open to public membership and use during certain hours.

Summer projects include replacing ten basket ball hoops at school campuses and work on Vinger Field

(the baseball/softball field located behind and mid-center of the school building complex).

This includes installing outfield fencing and purchasing new bleachers. The fencing—depending on the configuration and outfield depth—would cost $9,000 to $12,000. Four new sets of aluminum bleachers would run an estimated $6,000 per set. Also added in are two new dugout benches at $1,500.

There was a discussion on how it would be paid for. There is a community fund (Fund 80) and also funds for school-only use. This can be a gray area with the Department of Public Instruction on where and how money is spent.

According to the DPI, "Fund 80 is used to account for activities such as adult education, community recreation programs such as evening swimming pool operation and softball leagues, elderly food service programs, non-special education preschool, day care services and other programs which are not elementary and secondary educational programs but have the primary function of serving the community."

"There are a lot of uses for Fund 80 and it's a great way for schools to have that partnership with the community to get some of things that you cannot normally get out of our funding. Especially when small schools and communities like ours – the school is the hub. Our playgrounds are constantly being used. I know there is a one in town [Maasch Community Park] but other than that—a lot of towns like ours don't have a playground, just the schools and that's it. The softball, baseball and football fields are being used constantly. When the weather gets warm like this there are people always back out there. It's what small schools do. They don't have the spaces available through the recreation department. We don't have a rec department so the school becomes it," said Tubbs.

The board discussed at length moving various bleachers from different fields as the sports seasons unfold and seating is moved as required. Many cost-saving ideas were floated to rearrange bleacher needs. These led to discussions of usage – for both school activities and community use.

Board Vice President Trisha Loehrke brought up a problem with the dugouts at the varsity baseball field: there is a gap between the fence and the dugouts that exposes players to getting whacked by an errant line drive. This gap is present at both dugouts.

She also pointed out that two years ago, a student fell over backwards out of the bleachers during homecoming.

The board also discussed the condition of the wood bleachers, safety concerns and the possibility of replacing them over time through a capital fundraising campaign.

Principal Jodi Alix brought up a related tangent: the Class of 2020 left behind the remaining balance of their class treasury, about $3,000. They donated it to the Taylor Kennedy Folk Foundation with the hope that it would be put toward improving the softball field with bleachers and an overhang and that was an asset that could be possibly leveraged for field improvements.

Also discussed was the W-F school district renewing their physical therapy agreement with the New London School District. A physical therapist employed by the New London Scholl District spends part of her time in W-F schools. New London bills W-F for a percentage of her labor and the therapist keeps track of her hours and at what school. Tubbs said that so far this agreement has worked out very well.

Archeologists reveal canoe's story

Artifact at Iola Historical Society

BY EMILY CONROY
STAFF REPORTER

IOLA – Modern scientific tests are revealing the story of a dugout canoe removed from Selmer Lake in 1969.

The canoe was pulled from the lake by Jim Jameson, who eventually gave the canoe to Bob Strand.

Strand was a previous owner of Iola Mills who used the space as a museum, according to Lee Halverson, the Iola Historical Society vice president.

Tom Fucik bought Iola Mills from Strand and recently sold the property. He decided to donate the dugout canoe to the Iola Historical Society, Halverson said.

At a presentation on April 29 by Tamara Thomsen, a maritime archeologist, and Dr. Sissel Schroeder, professor of archeology at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, shared their findings about the canoe and others like it that have been found in Wisconsin.

They spoke to a full house at the Machine Shed next to the Iola Historical Society.

A dugout canoe was used in the Midwest throughout the warmer seasons. When Native Americans were unable to use the canoe due to frigid temperatures and ice on waterways, or moving south to warmer temperatures, they would sink the canoe in a lake and come back to retrieve it once the weather warmed.

Schroeder and Thomsen began recording and documenting dugout canoes when a student, Ryan Smazal, decided he wanted to write his college thesis on indigenous watercraft.

Thomsen was familiar with dugout canoes as she had found a couple dugout canoes in Lake Mendota in Madison. She was diving in the lake and was picking up trash off the bottom when she spotted a dugout canoe. Thomsen said the canoes she found in Lake Mendota have been aged at thousands of years old.

At the start of the project there was only 11 dugout canoes documented in Wisconsin. Today there are 174 and the number is continuing to grow as more people are coming forward with canoes to study.

“As this project expanded we began to realize we are going to have a pretty substantial sample size that might allow us to address more questions, then just simply management of heritage resources,” Schroeder said.

Through radio carbon dating they were able to determine the Selmer Lake dugout canoe is likely well over 100 years old.

IOLA – The No Iola Sand Mine Neighbors held a benefit May 5 to assist in raising money for legal fees associated with the appeal of a conditional use permit (CUP) for a sand mine.

The proposed site is located on Iola Car Show property.

The CUP was approved in January and three of the neighbors close to the sand mine filed an appeal Feb. 19, with the help of Christa Westerberg an attorney with Pines Bach out of Madison.

The MusicFest featured eight bands starting at 1 p.m. at Northland Sports Bar and Grill in Iola.

“MusicFest far exceeded our expectations as far as attendance and the donations we received for the legal defense fund against the Iola Car Show sand mine,” said Greg Ambrosius, one of the neighbors who is named in the appeal.

Ambrosius estimated that about 700 people attended and they raised more than $8,000 to use towards their legal fees.

He said there were 30 baskets donated by local businesses and individuals that were used as raffle prizes, as well as silent auctions.

The eight bands that came to play donated their time as well.

“It was just a perfect day for our community. The weather was ideal. The bands were great,” Ambrosius said. “We believe the law is on our side and eventually we will prevail in denying this sand mine permit in the Township of Scandinavia.”

“The dugout has very clear metal tool marks on it, and given the timing of metal tools, iron tools being introduced into this region it is most likely that the dates for the dugout fall somewhere in the 1800s, we are pretty sure that it wouldn't be post 1900,” Schroeder said.

They also found that the keel of the canoe is V-shaped, which is extremely rare for dugout canoes, Thomsen said, the average dugout canoe starts with a V-shape but generally have a flat bottom.

There are only two documented V-shaped dugout canoes in Wisconsin, the Iola dugout canoe is one of them, she said.

The type of wood used was also determined to be red pine, as soft wood is a fairly common material for dugout canoes, Schroeder said.

Manawa shop offers sporting goods

BY EMILY CONROY
STAFF REPORTER

MANAWA – As a former coffee shop in downtown Manawa closes a new store geared toward outdoor enthusiasts opens.

Little Wolf River Outfitters is now open and Rick Zemple has taken charge to provide the community with sporting goods and bait.

Zemple previously owned four Battery Plus stores with locations in Wausau, La-Crosse, Marinette and Stevens Point.

When he was approached with an offer to sell those four locations he decided it was as good a time as any.

Originally, he wanted to open a shop up at his home, however his wife was mildly apprehensive to that idea. So when the store front, previously known as the Busy Bean, was up for sale, he thought it was a good location as well as easier than building something from scratch.

“This worked out pretty

good, because in order to build anything now it is three times the cost when I could come into here and step in with power and water and everything ready to go,” Zemple said. “I think it's a nice fit for town, people have said some very nice things.”

Zemple lives on the Little Wolf River in Manawa and spends a lot of his time fishing, as well as hunting and enjoying the outdoors.

His new shop will feature a large variety of sporting goods and he will still be selling batteries, including batteries for boats, golf carts, all-terrain vehicles and lawn mowers. He will also offer watch batteries, which he can change in the shop.

There will also be hobby farm items, like chicken, cow, cat and dog food, bird seed. There are also food plot items for hunting.

He said a section he refers to as “fish it again,” has become quite popular in the community so far. Zemple buys gently used fishing equipment and re-sells it at a discount for children or those just starting in the sport who may not want to spend a lot of money.

Most importantly, he sells bait, including night crawlers, worms, minnows and leeches.

Zemple said he will install a bait vending machine outside the store so people can have access to bait when the store is not open. He hopes to have it installed later this summer.

He said the big thing in winter will be wax worms out in the vending machine.

Local student receives Alliant grant

AMHERST – Siri Anderson, a student at Amherst High School, was among 25 Iowa and Wisconsin high school seniors to receive $1,000 Innovation Scholarships from Alliant Energy.

The annual scholarships, to be used for higher education expenses, reflect students’ academic achievements and leadership in their communities. Students demonstrated leadership through community service and volunteer work, as well as academic achievement through exceptional grade point averages and test scores.

Each student submitted a written essay identifying a problem in their community and proposed a creative solution using science, technology, engineering or mathematics (STEM) concepts.

“Supporting workforce readiness and fostering young minds interested in STEM-based careers is critical to developing the future of a skilled and innovative workforce,” said Julie Bauer, executive director, Alliant Energy Foundation. “We are thrilled to contribute to each of these recipients’ futures.”

Recipients must be age 24 or under and enrolling for the first time at an undergraduate school. They also must reside within Alliant Energy’s service territory at the time of application and be a dependent child of a current Alliant Energy customer or a customer themselves.

Grants available for inclusive programs

STEVENS POINT – The recently launched Inclusive Foundation provides support to organizations that serve older adults and adults with disabilities in Wisconsin.

The nonprofit organization seeks to foster diverse and inclusive communities, and make a positive impact on the lives of individuals across the state.

“The launch of the Inclusive Foundation marks an exciting milestone in our journey to build partnerships that embrace choice, independence and a sense of belonging in our local communities,” said Candise Miller, executive director of the Inclusive Foundation. “By providing funding opportunities to organizations that share our vision, we aim to drive positive systems change and improve lives throughout the state.”

The foundation pursues a multi-pronged approach for systems change, including provider innovation, leadership development, and public policy education.

As part of its inaugural initiatives, the foundation announced its first funding commitments totaling more than $1.9 million. Grant recipients include:

A partnership with the Wisconsin Board for People with Developmental Disabilities (BPDD) to develop a two-prong public policy leadership initiative. The program emphasizes knowledge transfer, capacity building, fresh perspectives, succession planning, coordination with other BPDD public policy and advocacy initiatives, and stakeholder engagement.

The initiative includes a Wisconsin Disability Public Policy Leadership Fellowship and a Wisconsin Disability Public Policy Leadership Internship program that will equip an expanded pool of people with lived experience to inform and support policymakers, building skills and connections to facilitate future careers in disability policy leadership.

A partnership with the National Leadership Consortium on a three-phase program aiming to advance the leadership development and connection of three cohorts of emerging and established leaders working in various roles and positions across the Wisconsin Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities (IDD) system.

The proposed program will offer an annual in-person Leadership Institute, ongoing virtual follow-up training and support, and short-term leadership coaching. Ultimately, the goal of the program is to enhance Wisconsin leaders’ skills, knowledge, resources, connections, confidence, and capacity to continue to transform and move the developmental disabilities system toward practices, services, and supports that advance the human rights and dignity of Wisconsinites with IDD.

In addition to its inaugural commitments, the Inclusive Foundation announced its first Open Call for grant proposals beginning May 1.

The foundation encourages organizations that contribute to Wisconsin’s Long-Term Services and Supports (LTSS) ecosystem to consider applying. Inclusive Foundation is especially interested in ideas related to housing, transportation, community living, integrated employment, workforce, integrating medical and long-term care needs, and peer support.

This inaugural grant cycle runs May through August 2024.

For more information on grant opportunities and Open Call, visit www.inclusafoundation.org/grant-information.

This time can be used by caregivers to connect with friends at the YMCA, engage in wellness activities, run appointments, go shopping or just take a few moments to themselves.

“With the support of the Women’s Fund of Portage County we can ensure that this opportunity is accessible to all, regardless of financial circumstances, and provide focus on both physical and mental wellness for our friends and neighbors,” explains Constantineau.

Public health vending machine installed

STEVENS POINT – Portage County has installed a public health vending machine to provide easy access to a range of harm reduction supplies.

The vending machine will offer the following items at no cost: nasal Narcan (Naloxone), fentanyl testing strips, xylazine testing strips, Hope Kits, cable gun locks, tick kits, Deterra medication disposal bags, condom kits, Hepatitis C home test kits, general hygiene kits, feminine hygiene kits, emergency blankets, and resource material packets.

The temperature-regulated vending machines located outside of the Ruth Gilfry Center entrance at 817 Whiting Ave., Stevens Point. The machine is available 24/7, 365 days a year for anyone in the community in need of the listed harm reduction supplies.

Community members will only need to enter their zip code to dispense products from the machine. Other personal protected information will not be collected.

Some of the vended products will have dispensing limits to ensure everyone has fair access to the products in the machine.

The county’s goal is to place harm reduction resources into the hands of those in need without judgment, while creating a healthier and stronger community.

Ring, Mary

Mary Lou Ring (Luft) January 24, 1937 - February 22, 2024

Mary Lou Ring (Luft), aged 87, of Appleton, Wisconsin, passed away naturally and peacefully in her sleep on February 22, 2024. Mary - a beloved wife, sister, mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother - will be greatly and forever missed, and will always be lovingly remembered for her good heart, her character of integrity and resilience, her witty sense-of-humor, and the special love she gave to her family and friends. Mary's path throughout her life was one filled with a strong work ethic, a sense of adventure, love and laughter (surely complemented by her witty sense-of-humor), and the joy of relationships found in family and friends.

Mary's life began on January 24, 1937, as the daughter of the late George and Bertha (Johnson) Luft. From these beginnings, her early years started at a small farming home situated on the rural outskirts of Ogdensburg, Wisconsin. Born in 1937, Mary's earliest years were marked by humble beginnings that were not all too uncommon during the Great Depression Era, lacking modern conveniences often taken for granted in today's day and age, such as running water and electricity in her family's home. These beginnings instilled in Mary a profound sense of resourcefulness, resilience, and an appreciation for the most meaningful things in life: family and friends. Throughout her life, Mary, along with her husband, the late Lawrence "Larry" Ring, lived in many places, which included various other places in Wisconsin, such as Appleton, Brillion, Princeton, and elsewhere. Aside from Wisconsin, she resided in McAllen, Texas, and Las Vegas, Nevada, for many years.

It was in 1965 that Mary met the love of her life, Larry. Their story began that year while she was waitressing at the Left Guard Charcoal House in Appleton - a restaurant operated by players from the legendary 1960s-era Green Bay Packers - where Mary first spoke to Larry as he worked as a bartender. Telling of what would become their lifelong future together, she forever recalled, word-for-word, her first-ever exchange with Larry over the speed of service on a drink order, where he jokingly suggested she might "get faster service" if she "tipped the bartender better." This playful exchange exemplified their instant chemistry and the enduring connection that defined their relationship over the next fifty-plus years, blossoming into a lifelong partnership - both in love and business - as they later owned and operated the Crystal Lounge, a popular local bar and grill with a convivial atmosphere in Waupaca for roughly a decade in the 1970s and 1980s. Beyond managing their businesses and raising a family, Mary's personal interests and hobbies included reading, traveling, and antiquing - activities she most often enjoyed with Larry, who had a particular fondness for gifting her jewelry he lovingly selected during their many travels and adventures throughout their life together. These shared activities highlighted the deep companionship they both had and valued in one another.

During her journey of life, Mary consistently blessed this world with her true essence: a beautiful woman with an even more beautiful soul, marked by intellect, class, and grace. She was a pillar of endearment and affection for her family, taking pride in both her life's and family's accomplishments, and in being a wife, mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother to the many who loved her. She lived a life symbolized by a philosophy centered on integrity, self-reliance, and the importance of valuing relationships with family and friends, always ensuring that they felt her love and the warmth of her soul. Indeed, although Mary has left our physical world, her legacy continues to remain within those who truly knew her: a belief that life's true meaning comes from the relationships we pursue, cherish, and nurture.

Mary is survived by her loving children: Barbara Arnoldussen, Timothy Masterson, and Mark Masterson; her grandchildren: Brittney, Jason, Chantal, and Joy; her great-grandchildren: Jacob, Ethan, Jayvion, Marcus, Geneva, Jada, Nevaeh, Matthew, and Kimberland; and her brother: Steve Luft. Mary was preceded in death by her loving husband, Lawrence "Larry" Ring; her parents, George and Bertha Luft; her son, Robert Masterson, Jr.; her grandson, Colin; and her sisters: Fern (Luft) Nelson, Elizabeth (Luft) Miller, and Betty (Luft) LaBar; and her brother, David Luft.

A commemoration of Mary will occur privately among close family members in accordance with her personal wishes. While she will undoubtedly be missed dearly by many, we find comfort in her words, as she would often say in recent years when reflecting on her life and the times spent with Larry, "we had a good life together."

In closing, a light-hearted memento reminding us of Mary's playful spirit:

AS TIME GOES BY:
*There was a time not long ago,
When a love seat for two was fine,
But lately I've noticed,
The love seat has only room for mine!*
—Mary Ring (2001)

Menzel, Michael T.

Michael T. Menzel (1947 - 2024)

Michael Ted Menzel, 76, of Plainfield, Wisconsin, passed away on April 21, 2024.

Mike was born on August 10, 1947, at St. Michael's Hospital in Stevens Point, Wisconsin, the fourth of ten children of the late Roy and Margaret Menzel. He attended Stevens Point parochial schools, graduating in 1965 from Pacelli High School.

On May 30, 1967, Mike enlisted in the United States Air Force when the Vietnam War was raging. The fact he enlisted at all was a story in itself. It was during a time when many of his peers were worried about being drafted or even avoided being drafted, and it took a special and unusual commitment to enlist. His plans almost fell through when he failed his physical because he had a perforated eardrum. That could have exempted him from serving in the military altogether, but instead he chose to have surgery to repair the eardrum so he could enlist.

Mike went on to serve his country for four years, stationed for 11 months in Cam Ranh Bay, Vietnam from June 1968 to June 1969. His work ethic was exemplary, taking no R&R time during his time in Vietnam. He was promoted to a pay grade of E-5 and eventually became a staff sergeant in September 1970 before being honorably discharged on May 28, 1971.

Mike graduated from the Truck Driving Program at Fox Valley Technical College in Appleton, Wisconsin, and drove truck for local trucking companies for a number of years. He moved to the Plainfield area where he resided for the remainder of his adult life, working mostly in the area's agricultural industry.

Growing up in Stevens Point, Mike cherished spending weeks at a time during his boyhood swimming, boating, fishing, and exploring the lake and woods surrounding the family cottage near Hazelhurst, Wisconsin.

As a teen, Mike had the handsome, muscular physique of a football star and actually tried out for his high school team, but during practices he was more inclined to frolic with the little neighborhood kids nearby than to tackle dummies, and was (with his coaches' encouragement) more than happy to "retire" from athletics.

One of Mike's lifelong passions was cars, especially Jeeps, sporty V8s, and most recently his beloved 2018 Ford Escape. He was a natural-born mechanic and, back in the day, could patiently and systematically dismantle and reassemble a carburetor with the best of them. In his later years he purchased a Shelby Cobra replica kit car, a Ford V8 engine block and 4-speed manual transmission, envisioning a two-seater dream car that he would build himself and drive off into a golden sands sunset. Unfortunately, with advancing age and declining health, he ran out of time to make his beautiful dream come true.

Mike enjoyed his humble two-acre dwelling on the outskirts of Plainfield, leading a simple, solitary life with tall trees and lilac bushes flourishing nearby. Each spring he recorded the date on his calendar of the first blooming daylily in his yard and the return of the first hummingbird. He loved dogs, too, especially his Spike and Cale. After they died, he continued his special canine connection by dog-sitting for his neighbors.

Those who knew Mike well knew that some of his favorite stops in Stevens Point were Bill's Pizza, Ski's Meat Market, Kwik Trip, Fleet Farm, and Dan's Liquor Dispensary, where he would pick up an occasional bottle of Kessler's to complement a jug of orange juice. Those stops almost always included brief but memorable chats with the employees, who enjoyed seeing him. Although he was strong-minded, especially in his political beliefs, Mike had a soft heart for family, friends and anyone who knew him.

Mike is survived by seven siblings: Rev. William Menzel, Wisconsin Rapids, WI; Kathryn (Charles) Collins, Appleton, WI; James (Sharon) Menzel, Stevens Point; Fritz (Carol) Menzel, Stevens Point; Janet Jurgella (Eric) Finn, Stevens Point, WI; Stephen (Wendy) Menzel, Stevens Point; Daniel Menzel, Stevens Point; former brother-in-law Ron Jurgella; eight nieces, seven nephews, and many grand-nieces and grand-nephews. He was preceded in death by his parents, siblings Mary Sue and Thomas Roy, and a nephew, Luke Glennon Collins.

A gathering with friends and family has already occurred.

Always honoring the country he loved and served, Mike kept a light shining on the American flag he flew on a pole at the back of his yard, easily visible by passers-by on Interstate 39. Mike once shared his thoughts on the beauty of the sunrise and the sunset this way:

All that fire at both ends of the day shows us how small we really are.

Glenda's activities included membership on the Waupaca Library Board, the Waupaca Historical Society Board, WAGS, Master Gardeners, Winchester Academy Board of Trustees, and was a member of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, book clubs, and social groups.

Survivors include her brother, Birney (Gloria) of Peterson, IA, nephew, Michael Terrell of Milford, IA, niece, Melissa Elzen of St. Elmo, MN, five great nieces and nephews, numerous other family members, and many friends.

Schmidt, Audrey

Audrey C. Schmidt, age 91, of Waupaca, WI, passed away on Tuesday, April 30, 2024 at Wisconsin Rapids Health in Wisconsin Rapids, WI. She was born December 12, 1932 in Milwaukee, WI; the beloved daughter of Alfred and Blanche (Czaja) Pepp.

Audrey's life was one of love, service, and dedication to her family, community, and faith. She spent her formative years in Milwaukee, where she received her education. On December 11, 1954, Audrey joined in marriage with Harley E. Schmidt in Shorewood, WI. Together, they embarked on a journey of love and partnership, raising three children: Tom, Laurie, and Joe.

Her faith was central to her life, and she was an active member of Trinity Lutheran Church in Waupaca. students play half of the cost of expenses, around $300. The only expenses are clay targets that they buy in bulk and they purchase their shot shells with a school discount from Vista Outdoor, the ammunition and sporting gear conglomerate that is a supporter of the Scholastic Shooting Sports Foundation.

If a student doesn't have a shotgun, the Waupaca Conservation League provides a loaner. Trap and skeet shooting is well known for high-end shotguns but here it is common to see the gun rack holding Remingtons, Mossbergs and Brownings, pump-actions, auto-loaders and break-actions are all represented. Some are adorned with camouflage and synthetic stocks; others are blued steel and hardwood.

"The old staple guns. It's all how you learn how to shoot. The gun doesn't make you a better shooter," said Woodliff.

New shooters receive classroom instruction before touching a shotgun. They learn safety, rules and stances and then learn how to hold and shoulder their shotgun with good form and focus.

The Comet Clay Crushers is a 10-year-old team. Last year's team was the best year, finishing the season with a 6-4 record. The north division is in the Kettle Moraine Conference and they award scholarships every year.

The next home shoot is on Monday, May 13, against Oakfield. On Saturday, May 18, they will compete against hundreds of other shooters at the state competition at the Wisconsin Trapshooting Association Shooting Complex and Learning Center in Rome.

meal samples to his son. "He would vehemently disagree with that statement," Heideman said.

While Heideman acknowledged the "book-work" with Chartwells works well for the district and things have improved over the past year, he's still not happy with some of the promises made.

"Some of that I understand is Covid-related, but I'm kind of negative," Heideman said.

"Really?" board Director Mandy Wilz asked.

Wilz said her son used to always bring a cold lunch to school, but now refuses cold lunch because he "loves" the school lunches.

Board Clerk Katie Batten asked what things about Chartwells the committee didn't like.

"The promises that were made when we went with them five years ago were financial driven, and we got what we paid for," Heideman said. "We made money, but I don't know that during all that time we provided the best food we could have to the kids. And, the difference in money in this contract, really is nothing."

Board Director Holly Schweitzer asked why the district switched from Taher to Chartwells five years ago. "Yes, they bought our business," Heideman said.

He added that Chartwells guaranteed the district profitability with its food service contract.

Batten asked Heideman what he likes about Taher. "I can't guarantee you what anybody brings," Heideman said. "I don't feel that we got the quality that we were promised over the last five years (from Chartwells)."

Marquardt told the board that with the information collected, there is no reason for the district to not choose Chartwells.

"They have done what we have asked," Marquardt said. "There's always opportunity for meetings and growth and discussion."

He added that the board can choose a different food service vendor next year if it wants to.

Proposal evaluation

According to the proposal evaluation matrix the board received comparing the proposals, Chartwells achieved the highest point total when adding up the points received in all the criteria categories. Out of 100 points, Chartwells received 88, while Taher received 82, and Aramark received 76.

The projected profit for the district under the Chartwells contract is $41,305, while it is $50,062 under Taher, and $42,975 under Aramark.

Hogs for Heroes seeks applicants

STATE – Hogs for Heroes, a Wisconsin-based charity, is now accepting applications from injured Wisconsin veteran riders for their next three Harley-Davidson motorcycles to be gifted in July through September of 2024.

Application criteria and materials are available on the "Application and Selection" page on www.hogsforheroeswi.org.

The second application period opened May 1, 2024 and must be postmarked by May 18.

Hogs for Heroes is a Wisconsin 501(c)(3) nonprofit dedicated to healing the mental and physical wounds suffered by Wisconsin Veterans during the course of active duty, through the therapeutic benefits of owning and riding a Harley-Davidson motorcycle.

The charity raises funds to purchase Harleys for injured Wisconsin veteran riders.

"We are working to help those injured veterans who once had a passion for riding and now find themselves without the means or ability to have a bike in their life," said Hogs for Heroes President Kevin Thompson. "Getting back on the road has been powerful healing for our 41 recipients and we encourage Wisconsin veteran riders who have been injured in the course of active duty, and are longing to return to riding, to apply as this program is for them."
