A shopping spree for those in need

GREEN BAY – Since 2013, St. Mark Ministries has been transforming the St. Mark Lutheran School gym into a makeshift sales floor to house racks of donated clothing for their volunteer-based clothing giveaway event.

This year, the clothing giveaway will be held Aug. 2-3, 8 a.m. - 2 p.m., at St. Mark Lutheran Church and School's Green Bay campus. All are welcome to come shop the free clothing for all ages, with no limits on what can be taken home.

Shoppers can do one round of shopping, make a trip back to their vehicle to drop bags off, and then come right back and shop some more if they choose.

St. Mark Ministries will be providing shopping bags, but they have run out in the past so shoppers are encouraged to bring their own bags if they are able.

Oneida One Stop breaks ground on new store

BY PRESS TIMES STAFF

ONEIDA NATION — On July 19, the Oneida One Stop broke ground on an all-NEW Mobil Oneida One Stop across the road from its current location.

Work on the facility, located at 790 CTH E, De Pere, is expected to take just short of one year.

"The new store will be a vast improvement from the current store. Some highlights include its very own walk-in cooler, bean-to-cup coffee machines, increased product selection with more cooler doors, island cooler for grab/go snacks and Oneida Retail's first self-checkout," an Oneida Retail Enterprise release stated.

"There also will be ample back-of-house storage, dedicated rooms for data/mechanicals, along with additional space to offer hot food service. The new store will continue to offer Top Tier fuel and carry the Mobil brand."

"Oneida Retail Enterprise is extremely excited about our new store," Oneida Retail General Manager Debra Powless said. "We have worked extremely hard to get to this point, and we can't wait for our community and staff to experience the best Oneida has to offer."

Oneida Retail Enterprise operates seven convenience stores and three smoke shops.

All 10 businesses are located within the Oneida Reservation.

The retail shops employ over 100 full-time employees.

Oneida's MS2 Construction is serving as general contractor for the project.

GREEN BAY – A new mural honoring Green Bay Packers legend Bart Starr has been completed in downtown Green Bay just in time for next year's NFL Draft.

The mural is located on the side of the historic Bellin Building at 103 E. Walnut St., Green Bay, adjacent to the recently renamed Bart Starr Memorial Bridge.

The mural, painted by local artist Beau Thomas, features an action shot of the bridge's namesake alongside his quotation, "I was just one part of a great team."

Thomas, owner of Trackside Design LLC, explained that this particular piece of work took a long time to come to fruition.

"I had been trying to get a project done on that wall for al-

Seymour freshman makes sure student needs are met

SEYMOUR – While back-to-school shopping can be an exciting experience for many children, rising costs of classroom supplies can be a stressor for families; however, one local high school student has been dedicated to making sure all students have the necessary supplies for a successful school year.

For the past five years Walker Hass-Brendon, a rising freshman at Seymour Community High School, has been hosting a Back to School Supply Drive as part of his birthday celebration.

With support from his grandmother Prudence Walker, owner of Rustic Cuts and Co., as well as Danielle Whitman, Shado Rose, Jim Belfast and the Seymour Business League, Hass-Brendon has been able to gather a variety of school supplies.

Hass-Brendon shared that the inspiration for the supply drive came from the community members that had helped him and his grandmother over the years and worked as a learning opportunity to "know the importance of giving back."

While each individual school and grade may have different

In the past, the clothing giveaway event has been able to offer community members a wide variety of items, including bags, accessories, jewelry, belts and outerwear on top of basic clothing items.

Their stock comes from donations made by the congregation and fellow community members.

Event Coordinator Deanna Nighbor explains that there are no limits to what can be donated, as long as the items are still in good condition.

“We have really high standards for what we take because it’s free, it doesn’t need to be stained or ripped... but we kind of say ‘if you can wear it, we’ll take it.’”

The clothing giveaway event has become a source of security for community members who are in a spot in their lives where they need a little extra help for whatever reason.

“Everyone has a different story about why they might be there. And sometimes they just want to have their story told and they just need a kind face and a smile to listen, it’s not sometimes even about the clothes... We’ve had people who have shared that they just had a baby or someone who is taking custody of grandchildren or crazy life circumstances have happened and they didn’t know how they were going to get things done,” Nighbor added.

Nighbor’s favorite part about putting on the clothing giveaway event is how it creates a week-long opportunity for Christian fellowship.

“It’s always so great to see the joy in people’s eyes to find that one item that you know is just going to be a blessing to them,” she said.

If you would like to make a donation, there will be one last donation drop off window on Monday, July 29, 9 a.m.-7 p.m., at the Green Bay campus.

St. Mark Ministries is especially looking for donations of high-demand items such as men’s and children’s clothing items.

St. Mark Lutheran Church and School Green Bay campus is located at 1167 Kenwood St., Green Bay.

Prudence Walker and Walker Haas-Brendon were able to pass along boxes of donations and a $300 check for lunch accounts last year and hope to provide the same support this year.

necessities, Walker Hass-Brendon noted “We are looking for student and teacher supplies of all kinds, from book bags to paper clips. We are also collecting monetary donations for school lunch accounts.”

As part of the Back-to-School Supply Drive, they will also be at the Back-to-School Bash on Saturday, Aug. 10, from 1-7 p.m., at Seymour Lake Park.

Walker will be making a push to gain more needed supplies with the goal to fill a whole school bus.

The event will also include limited quantities of free hotdogs and hamburgers, sandcastle building, a 50-50 raffle, volleyball, fishing and more.

Donations for Walker’s

Sixth Annual Back-to-School Supply Drive can be dropped off at Rustic Cuts and Co., 247 N Main St., Seymour. Donations will be accepted from today until Aug. 27 and will benefit schools in Seymour and Black Creek as well as Community 2000.

Sexual Assault Center continues 50 years of advocacy

BY OLIVIA COFFIN
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

BROWN COUNTY – The Sexual Assault Center is the only organization in Brown, Door, Marinette and Oconto counties that provides 24/7 support to all victims of sexual assault — a service they have been providing for 50 years.

They follow the Sexual Assault Response Team (SART) protocol and are always there when a victim goes to the hospital for a Sexual Assault Nurse Exam (SANE) or reports the crime to the police.

Advocates and nurses respond within 30 minutes when a victim arrives at the emergency room.

“I’m 44 years old and a survivor of both domestic violence and sexual assault by my former partner. The trauma I endured was severe and shattered my ability to live a normal life,” said “Brenda” (name changed to provide confidentiality.)

“From the beginning, I needed more than just help; I needed someone to believe me. I needed emotional support and connections to other resources in the community. My advocate didn’t just provide these connections; she fought for me, stood by my side, and guided me through the complicated legal process. She has been there for me every step of the way.”

Advocates say that the community can help by believing victims when they share their experiences, report suspected child abuse, connect those in need, and support financially.

Last year, advocates helped 243 victims through SANE exams.

Their services are free and confidential, helping anyone affected by sexual violence, including those who face sexual harassment, cyberstalking, strangulation, trafficking, elder abuse, internet crimes against children and online exploitation.

City of De Pere to host Nelson Family Pavilion grand opening

BY PRESS TIMES STAFF

DE PERE – The city of De Pere will host a grand opening event for the Nelson Family Pavilion on Friday, July 26, at Voyageur Park, kicking off with a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 5 p.m.

The event will include music by Jackson Mankowski, 5:15-6:45 p.m., followed by Johnny Wad, 7-10 p.m.

“We appreciate the support and partnerships that have helped make this a reality, and we’re excited to finally unveil this beautiful new venue to the community,” said De Pere Mayor James Boyd. “The Nelson Family Pavilion will be a cornerstone for community engagement and events in De Pere, while enhancing one of our most beloved and recognizable parks.”

The Nelson Family Pavilion features an interior multi-purpose room, with garage doors opening to a patio overlooking a one-acre open space and the Fox River.

The facility was made possible through the support of the David L. and Rita E. Nelson Family Fund and numerous local donations.

“The addition of the Nelson Family Pavilion adds to one of De Pere’s most popular destinations: Voyageur Park. Situated along the picturesque Fox River and incorporating the Fox River Trail, Voyageur Park is crown jewel of activity in De Pere, hosting events and programming such as Yoga in the Park, De Pere Beer Gardens, Community Band concerts, Celebrate De Pere, art walks and much more,” a city of De Pere release stated.

“The park is also home to biking and walking paths, large green spaces, the city’s largest inclusive playground, and is adjacent to the popular De Pere Riverwalk and Wildlife Pier.”

A family affair Downtown restaurant hits milestone

GREEN BAY – This year marks 50 years since Ronald “Jake” Jacobson opened Jake’s Pizza and 10 years since the business was reopened by Cara Sanders and her sister, Brook.

“It took us a while to get everything set and opened, but it was worth it,” Brook said.

The sisters were working together at another restaurant when Jim Rivett mentioned the idea of reopening Jake’s.

“We didn’t know Jake before, so I tracked him down. My husband told me to look him up in the phone book. I called him, we met with him and the rest is history,” Cara said.

Jake stayed and worked with the Sanders sisters until January 2022.

Brooke and Cara still use Jake’s original pizza recipe.

“My husband does all the stuff Jake used to do in the old days... Jake taught us everything. He taught us his knowledge and his recipe and gave us his blessing which was so important to us. We had to learn how to do it because we’re making everything. From making the dough and the sauces to our sausage for the pizzas and everything else. Jake’s Pizza had a huge following and because of that, it comes with family and memories,” Cara stated.

“Jake’s is the centerpiece of a lot of people’s family celebrations. A family said they come here for every birthday or anniversary. Or they’ve gotten engaged here. Our customers are our family, we know about their lives and their kids, and they know about us.”

And family they are; Brook ended up meeting her partner at Jake’s.

When COVID-19 hit, the customers family aspect truly played a huge role in helping them stay open.

“It was St. Patrick’s Day when we shut down; it was terrifying,” Brook said.

Cara said that they had a customer buy

$1,000 worth of gift certificates and had many customers buying pizzas because they told the sisters, “We want to be able to come back when this is all done.”

The sisters said their customers rallied around them and without them, they wouldn’t be here.

“Jake’s Pizza isn’t just a pizza shop, it’s a family, whether you work here or are a customer or both,” Cara said.

Jake’s Pizza is located at 112 S Broadway, Green Bay, and is open Wednesday through Sunday, 4-9 p.m.

Lambeau: A measure of success

BY KRIS LEONHARDT
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

In 1930, Curly and Marguerite Lambeau constructed a home in nearby Allouez, and Curly later became a district manager for the Mass Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Ever the charmer, Lambeau was finding success on and off the field.

The Lambeau's new home — constructed at 330 Miramar Drive in the English Revival Style — reflected that success.

"The majority of construction within the district took place during a historic period of rapid economic development and expansion in Allouez. The 1920s and 1930s, despite the economic depression, were decades of growth in Allouez. Miramar Drive is named for a Spanish word which translates to 'view of the sea,' perhaps because of the proximity to the banks of the Fox River or the popularity of Mediterranean Revival fashion during the 1920s. The development of the Miramar Plat is marked by two small brick piers set off from the western entrance at the intersection of Miramar Drive and Riverside Drive. Among the upper middle-class commuting homeowners of the neighborhood, car ownership was common during the period of development," a Miramar Drive National Residential Historic District application stated.

Marguerite continued to live in the Miramar home until the age of 98, selling the house in 1997.

Fellow Packers player Don Hutson and his wife, Julia, later purchased a house up the street at 226 Miramar Drive in the early 1940s, well after Curly lived there.

After the end of his playing career in 1945, Hutson served as Curly's assistant coach until 1948.

But, amid a back-to-back-to back NFL Championship win, 1929-1931, Lambeau and the Packers were at the top of their game and the crowds were getting larger.

However, with all of the success, the Packers remained susceptible to failure.

"...and it is not too much to expect that 70,000 persons will see some of the outstanding 'pro' games before long. Whether Green Bay can continue in the league when the crowds reach this size remains to be seen," a 1931 Press-Gazette article stated. "And when defeats come in the years ahead we will at least have the memory of the good old days to soften the blows."

On Sept. 20, 1931, as Green Bay took on the Brooklyn Dodgers, Willard J. Bent, who had paid $1 for a seat on the top row on the northwest end, was in attendance at City Stadium.

The seat provided on the top row "was a long wooden plank, placed on top of wooded supports or horses, the lower ends of said supports on the ground and extending backwards and at an upward angle, so that the upper end of said supports were 12 feet or more from the ground and the plank seats were laid across these supports in tiers," a 1932 lawsuit stated, adding that "the spectators occupying said seats frequently arose and stood on the foot-rests in front of their seats and frequently all arising at the same time."

That is exactly what happened as Bent and others rose up to watch the action on the field.

As Bent was standing, the plant that served as his seat came loose, and when he sat back down he fell to the ground from approximately 12 feet in the air injuring his back.

Without a clamp or device to fasten the rear seat and without a back on the seat, the suit claimed the Green Bay Football Corporation to be negligent.

receiver and handed him $15,000 in unpaid bills.

The money struggles were reflected in the team's record that year, finishing 5-7-1.

With star tackle, Cal Hubbard, out for the season with a fractured thumb and forefinger and the roster down to 17 healthy players, a Nov. 29, 1933, Press-Gazette article illustrated the mounting stress for Lambeau.

"Coach Lambeau, who has been off his feet for several weeks, suffered severe pains in his side at mid-day Tuesday and he, too, hastened to the doctor, as he feared an acute attack of appendicitis. The Bay mentor was given a thorough once over and the attending physician claimed some of the fears by discounting the appendix attack. It is a stomach disorder brought on by nervousness and Lambeau has been placed on a strict diet with some sure cure powders thrown in to hasten a quick recovery," it read.

Wequiock Falls

Brown County's Wequiock Falls is one of the county's smaller parks.

The park includes a large ravine which offers a close-up look at one of the Niagara Escarpment rock formations.

During the spring and summer, the Wequiock Creek forms an inviting waterfall and the small roadside park offers a small picnic area with restrooms just off of Highway 57.

An old bridge above the falls and a set of stone stairs leading down to the ravine only add to the ambiance of the park.

The park is located off of Highway 57; turn off on Van Laanen Road and the entrance to the park is immediately on the right.

The ideal time to visit the waterfall is in the spring during the thaw and after a good rain, but the falls offer a picturesque view and fun all summer long.

Wequiock Falls is located at 3426 Bay Settlement Road, Green Bay.

GREEN BAY – Since 2022, financial trends have indicated significant losses for older adults in Wisconsin.

To combat the uprising in financial exploitation and abuse of vulnerable elders, UW-Green Bay and the Wisconsin Elder Justice Coalition have combined their efforts to produce the Financial Abuse Specialist Team (FAST) toolkit.

The Wisconsin FAST toolkit was created through a subcommittee of the Wisconsin Elder Justice Coalition as well as researchers at UW-Green Bay with the goal to collect information, share experiences and locate resources.

Debra Leis, program

specialist at UW-Green Bay, reflected on the work that went into building a new FAST toolkit, "We learned from past and current Wisconsin FASTs on their history, process and lessons learned and invited representatives from out-of-state FASTs to virtually share their experiences and resources with the committee.

"The FAST toolkit contains information on the background of and need for FASTs in Wisconsin and provides details and resources on recruiting members, onboarding members, running meetings and reviewing cases."

This information is crucial because "the FAST toolkit is designed to be a base for which teams can build and customize to fit the needs of their specific

DNR investigating manure spill

BY PRESS TIMES STAFF
BROWN COUNTY – The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is assisting with the investigation of a manure spill affecting Brown County.

The spill occurred in eastern Outagamie County and western Brown County, resulting in a fish kill in Dutchman Creek.

“On Tuesday, July 16, the DNR was notified via the DNR Spills Hotline that manure was observed in Dutchman Creek,” a DNR release stated.

“Immediately after the notification, DNR staff observed dead fish in Dutchman Creek. Manure-impacted water was observed at road crossings at Bain Road, Country Road U, Cyprus Drive, Packerland Drive, Circle Drive and Hansen Road.

“DNR and County Land Conservation staff have been on-site each day since the notification. A definitive source has not been identified.

“There is no known threat to drinking water wells. However, it is recommended that people and pets avoid the surface waters of Dutchman Creek.”

Dutchman Creek runs through Hobart, Ashwaubenon and travels near the Interstate 41/State 172 interchange.

The creek connects to the Fox River on its east end.

The investigation is ongoing, and no additional information is available at this time.

There are just four Wisconsin counties that have FAST representation — Dane, Milwaukee, Walworth and Waukesha. This leaves much of northeastern Wisconsin and beyond without important services for the growing elderly population.

To provide more secumost five years — pitching various ideas to the building owner and Downtown Green Bay. The Walnut Street Bridge was recently named after Bart Starr and that’s how the idea came to honor him on that nearby wall. Green Bay’s 2025 Draft also helped add more incentive to complete this one,” he said.

The Bart Starr Memorial Bridge inspiring the decision for the mural’s subject is no surprise considering Thomas’ method of choice for deciding what to fill a space with.

“I like to start the mural process by looking at the space or environment I’m working in, thinking about the client and their needs with the project and what I can do to bring my style and solution to everything,” he stated.

As a local artist, Thomson has completed many other murals in the Green Bay area.

Perhaps one of his most recognizable murals is “The Broadway Mural” which is located on Dubois Formalwear’s building at 127 South Broadway St.

The postcard-inspired design is located on a highly visible wall within the community and draws inspiration from different scenes that can be found within the Broadway District.

“Painting across Green Bay has been a long-term goal of mine. I’ve been in business for over 10 years now and have focused on completing some of the largest murals on the biggest and best walls... Mural painting lets you leave your mark across communities and change the way the world looks, it’s a real privilege,” explained Thomas.

The Sexual Assault Center also offers bilingual and culturally specific services for Hispanic and Hmong victims.

The Sexual Assault Center relies on a variety of funding sources — the most substantial is a federal grant which is provided under the Victims of Crime Act.

These grants are funded through federal fines and fees paid by people convicted of crimes.

According to Michelle Pierquet-Hohner, the center’s vice president of philanthropy and communication, “The federal fund has been shrinking over the past several years, with Wisconsin’s annual funding expected to drop from $44.5 million to roughly $13 million. This reduction equates to a $500,000 decrease in funding for Family Services this year alone and could equate to almost double that for next year. These cuts will negatively impact not only the Sexual Assault Center but also the Counseling Clinics and the Willow Tree Cornerstone Child Advocacy Center, all of which provide crucial support to area victims of crime.”

Tana Koss, vice president of programs and strategy added, “Our work at the Sexual Assault Center is vital for supporting victims of sexual violence. The recent funding cuts put our ability to provide essential services at risk. Without sufficient resources, we might face the tough decision of reducing or pausing some of our crucial support, which could impact survivors’ access to the help they need. We are actively seeking additional funding and community support to ensure we can continue our important work.”

That work includes providing 9,748 advocacy services, supporting 2,066 hotline calls and serving a total of 556 children and more in 2023.

“The Sexual Assault Center is dedicated to supporting victims on their path to healing and justice, helping each person do what feels right for them. Whether or not you choose to report what happened, please know that we are here to offer you support and services 24/7,” said Holli Fisher, center director.

St. Joseph's Orphanage: Closing the doors

BY KRIS LEONHARDT

The city rallied around the orphanage, often hosting various benefits throughout its decades-long existence.

One of the most significant — and one of the highlights of the local social pages — was started in 1947 by the Nazareth Guild of the St. Joseph's Orphanage.

Each year for more than a decade, the Orphans' Benefit Ball offered local socialites the opportunity to "waltz into the heart of an orphan" at Riverside ballroom.

The funds were used to purchase items that could not be obtained by the diocese for the orphanage, such as playground equipment, kitchen equipment, redecorating and updating the facilities and other large-ticket items needed to serve the children.

The 1954 Orphans' Benefit event was held to buy additional furnishings for the new orphanage residence building.

Due to safety concerns for children living in the original building, the Catholic Diocese of Green Bay and local parishes funded a new dormitory, which was constructed in 1953 and dedicated in 1954.

Proceeds from the third Orphan's Benefit Ball remodeled and furnished the girls' playroom at the orphanage, which included a new radio and phonograph system. Press-Gazette photo

The building and a new chapel were constructed at a cost of over $600,000.

The new dormitory housed eight rooms each for boys and girls.

Each room could accommodate eight children apiece.

At Christmas-time, local groups from Brownie troops to reformatory inmates made sure that no child housed at the orphanage went without a gift.

In 1955, the Brownie and Scout troops became a part of "St. Joseph's Home for Children," as it would soon be called, giving the children an opportunity for further fellowship and learning.

The uniforms for the new recruits were, once again, provided by the Nazareth Guild.

However the orphanage was admitting fewer and fewer children as more and more were placed in foster homes.

In 1957, the home adopted a program targeting teenage girls with "problems" and two years later, instituted a similar program for boys ages 13-18.

Placement of the children was handled directly through the court system and the program dealt primarily with local youth, with some consideration to children coming from other areas of the state.

At that time, Home Director Rev. Eugene Hotchkiss told the Green Bay Press-Gazette that "the picture concerning the handling of juvenile has been changing rapidly in recent years, but actually it goes back to 1933 with the adoption of such things as Social Security, Aid to Dependent Children and other means of government financial support."

The boys would now be housed in Don Bosco Hall, while the girls were placed in Madonna Hall.

Another program was started at the home to receive children ages 2-14 and house them for one month while placing them with an agency.

In 1967, the facility became a boys home and two years later, the home began selling the furnishings from unused rooms to help cover expenses.

By 1977, there were just a dozen boys at the facility.

In 1980, the St. Joseph Home for Boys was merged with Our Lady of Charity School Center and the boys were moved to the Our Lady of Charity grounds, effectively closing the doors to a facility designed to care for area children for nearly nine decades.

Voters to see $183 million referendum this November in GBAPS district

BY KRIS LEONHARDT
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

GREEN BAY — A $183 million referendum will be in front of Green Bay Area Public Schools (GBAPS) voters during the Nov. 5 general election, after the board of education unanimously approved a resolution authorizing it during their July 22 meeting.

The funding includes $150 million for work to address school consolidations.

Projects would address additions, renovations and deferred maintenance associated with all of the schools affected by the consolidations — Beaumont, Chappell, Doty, Lincoln, Red Smith and a new west-side elementary.

School officials estimate that by consolidating and closing schools, the district will avoid $67.8 million in deferred maintenance costs and $5 million in operations costs.

Another $33 million would address entrance security and bathroom renovations at East High, Edison, Franklin, Lombardi, Preble High, Red Smith, Southwest High, Washington and West schools.

"We've said many times we're talking about school finance and Wisconsin and just the policies and the procedure of it. This is a normal process. The budgeting has been responsible. This is something that's been planned, and we just will continue on," said board member, Bryan Milz.

"I know the community because we have proposed many referendums in the past, and I think a lot of people don't understand how all of this came together, as in terms of how money is funneled through the state, the local institutions here," added board member, Kou Lee. "I think that this is a really a good step forward in terms of what... the board is going to be participating in this to come up with a strategic way how we are going to come out of this. Because, I think looking at the Green Bay School District, if you look at how we allocate our resources, I think that nobody could complain that we have the money, the resource in the right spot, but we just right now could not get the results. And I think that with the strategic planning, we could do the analysis in different ways and different departments and different parts, and I think we're going to come out of it better because of that, because we're going to be able to pinpoint exactly what we need to do."

Board member, Andrew

Becker, called it a "carefully-structured referendum."

"We've done budgeting that has reflected the reality of the need to go to referendum to maintain and improve buildings, with school consolidations. There have to be some additions to buildings that cost some money up front that will save some money in the long term. Some of the votes to close schools were unanimous; some of them weren't. But now that's done, we have to properly expand where we need to expand and make facilities a little bigger," he explained.

"It's designed to keep a flat mill rate and that's accomplished by doing these referendums every few years to keep a very, very steady tax rate.

"Unfortunately, we don't have an exemption from inflation and cost of construction materials and labor. If we had such an exemption then we would be able to not wait. It would be able to cost the same as it cost in 2017."

Brown County Board pushes Veterans 1st land decision

BY EVA WESTEIN
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

GREEN BAY — During the July 17 Brown County Board of Supervisors, community members once again brought attention to the land donation agreement and Veteran's 1st housing project.

During the public comment section of the meeting, many members of the community who were both for and against the project addressed the board.

Those who opposed the project generally maintained the concerns that were expressed at last month's board meeting, which mainly consisted of concerns over the legitimacy of the land transaction and the legitimacy of the treatment and services being provided to those living in the Veteran's Village.

Those in attendance who supported the project mainly focused their time on presenting rebuttals to some of the claims that were previously made by those in opposition.

One previously-raised concern was that the plot of land that is intended to be used for the Veterans Village used to be home to the Brown County Mental Health Center, and because of this, construction would be impeding on a historical site and burial ground.

Edward Simpson, a Veteran of Foreign War in support of the project, explained that there is work being done to identify and memorialize those who are buried near the construction site.

"So far, of the little less than 100, we've already come up with the first 10. We're working with the University of Wisconsin to get through the records and being able to find these names. Once we get the names or as many as we can, we'll put them on a big sign with their names individually listed," he explained to the board.

In regards to the legitimacy of the services being offered, Gail Nohr used her public comment segment to provide her credentials and experience.

Nohr is a veteran herself, as well as the co-founder and program manager for Veterans 1st.

"I am currently employed by Brown County and have been working part-time at the Community Treatment Center for the last five years, helping residents in crisis get mental health and substance abuse [resources] that they need and am currently working at the Jackie Nitschke Center in Green Bay as a licensed substance abuse counselor in training... I've helped over 270 clients develop recovery skills and overcome their addictions," she stated.

After hearing from a wide variety of other perspectives from concerned community members, the board later decided to hold on making a decision to review and potentially reconsider the donation of county property to Veterans First.

A closed session meeting that was intended to consist of discussion and possible action regarding the land was struck from the agenda and the communication was received and placed on file.

County facilities to open early for Draft

The board approved a request to open county facilities such as Bay Shore Park, Reforestation Camp and the Brown County Fair Grounds before the traditional May 1 opening date to provide camping opportunities for visitors attending the 2025 NFL Draft.

De Pere to allow animals in parks

BY LEE REINSCH
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

DE PERE — The “No Dogs Allowed” signs in city parks will soon be coming down.

The De Pere Common Council passed a resolution amending the city ordinance regarding animals in parks.

The new rules go into effect once signs come down and the city conducts public outreach.

Most city parks, aside from Voyageur, don’t allow dogs.

Dogs must be on a non-retractable leash no longer than six feet.

They will be allowed only on open grassy areas, walkways and trails, and their respective parking lots.

They won’t be allowed in park buildings, playgrounds, playground fall surfaces, picnic shelters or sports fields.

Dogs need to be licensed and vaccinated, and their guardians are responsible for cleaning up after them.

Aldersperson Dan Carpenter asked about the impetus for the change.

Director of Parks, Recreation, and Forestry Marty Kosobucki said the board of park commissioners had been kicking the idea around off and on for the past two years.

He said community-wide park surveys found that a “pretty significant majority of people” responding wanted dogs to be allowed in city parks.

Currently, Voyageur is the only park in De Pere that allows dogs.

Mayor James Boyd said a few East River Trail users have reported people with off-lease dogs, but there are no documented cases of complaints about dogs causing problems at Voyageur.

“The only complaint we’ve heard is people complaining that they weren’t allowed when we tell them their dog can’t be in the park,” Kosobucki said.

The changes won’t take effect until the city’s had a chance to do community outreach and replace the signs.

It will be a few weeks before signs are changed, Kosobucki said.

Water main relocation

The board voted unanimously to award a contract of $262,455.94 to Calnin & Goss, LLC, of Appleton, for the French Road water main relocation.

The water main is being relocated to accommodate on June 13.

This project involves the relocation of the city’s water main along French Road to accommodate the construction of the new Southbridge Interchange off Interstate 41.

The future south bridge is a new bridge to be constructed over the Fox River at Rockland and Red Maple/Southbridge Roads with a full-access I-41 interchange at Southbridge Road, plus arterial roads.

Ninety percent of the costs ($236,000) to relocate the utilities affected by the project are being paid by the Wisconsin Department of Transportation.

The City of De Pere water utility is responsible for $27,000; and the city sewerage utility and stormwater utility are each paying $1,000 toward the costs.

Cameras installed

The board retroactively approved the purchase of security cameras and technology at the new Nelson Family Pavilion at Voyageur Park.

The board approved a budget of $30,000 for the equipment in 2023.

The agreement is with Camera Corner Connecting Point for hardware, installation and ongoing support for digital door access and surveillance for the new pavilion.

The cost of $24,662 includes hardware installation and five years of license subscription fees for cloud-based video surveillance and digital door control access.

Cloud-based video storage will cost the city about $3,500 per year.

Staff will be able to lock and unlock the main door by remote, and those who rent the pavilion for private events will have access to a mobile app that will enable them to lock or unlock the door.

The board also authorized $115,000 for a cloud-based phone system for the city to replace the city’s current seven-year-old phone system.

The board budgeted $60,000 last fall for the system and approved another $30,250 to come from the city’s unassigned reserves.

Mayor James Boyd said the cloud-based system would save the city $30,000 over the next five years.

City hires private collection agency

Bill collectors could be tracking down those delinquent on their property taxes.

The city signed on with the collection agency Finance System of Green Bay to pursue those who are late paying money they owe to the city.

Last year, the city started using the state debt collection (SDC) program, but it turned out that the program required the city to submit more personal information about those who owe money than it possesses in many cases.

Under its user terms, Finance System will charge a minimum 33 1/3% fee.

The agency will charge 50% for accounts collected after legal action has been started, accounts forwarded to another agency, and accounts owing less than $50.

Suamico approves work on development projects

SUAMICO – The Suamico Village Board held their most recent meeting on Monday, July 15, during which the board approved the final plat of Tilque Meadows in the southeast corner of Harbor Lights Road and Harbor Cove Lane brought forward by Diana Tilque Estate.

The section sits at 3.9 acres with a current single family home and will have four lots for future single family homes.

The board voted to approve the plan so long as administrative payments are made and the requirements of all other ordinances and regulations.

Next, the board heard a preliminary approval request for the Lost Trail Subdivision, located 350 feet east of St. Francis Park Drive, from owner Scott Sonabend and prepared by MACH IV.

With a total size of 19.57 acres, the subdivision would consist of six buildable single family home lots and an outlot for stormwater purposes.

The board approved the preliminary plot.

Suamico Fire Department adds rescue boat service fee

Chief Joe Bertler of the Suamico Fire Department brought forward a resolution to amend the 2024 fee schedule for fire department services.

This resolution added a $500 charge for Suamico Fire Department rescue boat services per hour.

The fee would cover prices for fuel and crew time for two engines.

The board also clarified, “The intent is not to charge every time the boat goes out but for calls like somebody’s beached their boat and needs service, not for legitimate emergency rescue operations.”

The next Suamico Village Board meeting will be held Monday, Aug. 5, at 6 p.m. in the Municipal Services Center at 12781 Velp Ave., Suamico.

Smith assumes superintendent role

HOWARD – The Howard-Suamico School District held their most recent board of education meeting on Monday, July 15, where Mark Smith operated in his new role as superintendent — a position he assumed on July 1, 2024.

Smith noted that the board of education has been working to set him up for success and that “we will continue to transition well into this school year.”

As the beginning of the 2024-25 school year approaches, Smith noted that he is focused on “successfully opening schools and creating the best experience for staff and students” as well working with and listening to educators, board members and support staff.

Board President Greg Klimek spoke on the upcoming August broadcast communications.

Members suggested a short biography about Superintendent Mark Smith, fall sports schedules, band performances and other upcoming events.

The board then discussed the Wisconsin Association of School Boards (WASB) School Perceptions Board Survey.

In a ranking of “fully achieved” to “not achieved,” the seven members ranked the school board highest in culture, community engagement, vision and policy.

The categories that came in lowest were budgeting and district operations.

After discussing the categories and data collection, the board will continue to return to these categories in future meetings throughout the year.

The Howard-Suamico Board of Education will hold their next meeting on Monday, Aug. 5, at 6 p.m. in the District Office, 2706 Linville Rd., Green Bay.

Howard approves annexation of two Pittsfield properties

BY JANELLE FISHER
CITY PAGES EDITOR

HOWARD – The Howard Village Board approved the annexation of two parcels of property from the Town of Pittsfield at its Monday, July 22, meeting.

The annexation was requested by the property owners, who filed a petition last month to annex their properties from the Town of Pittsfield to the Village of Howard.

The petition was reviewed by the State of Wisconsin Department of Administration, who determined that the annexation was “found to be in the public interest.”

“This is going to help us to continue our growth from a village standpoint, and it’s also helping the individuals from that area that might want to hook up and be part of the village,” said Trustee Chris Nielsen.

The annexation adds 21.626 acres to the village of Howard.

As part of the annexation, Howard will pay the annual property tax amount $546.49 to the town of Pittsfield for five years, totaling $2,732.

The annexation was approved unanimously.

PUBLISHER'S LETTER

Joy And Sorrow

Dear Reader,

The complex interplay between joy and sorrow is a timeless subject. It is perhaps not entirely fair to compare these emotions in a binary fashion. Both joy and sorrow are essential parts of the human experience, contributing to our emotional richness.

In essence, the impact of joy versus sorrow cannot be universally quantified or declared as one being greater than the other. Each emotion plays a vital role depending on an individual's circumstances and experiences. The balance of these emotions contributes to the tapestry of life, providing contrast and context that allow us to appreciate each moment more fully.

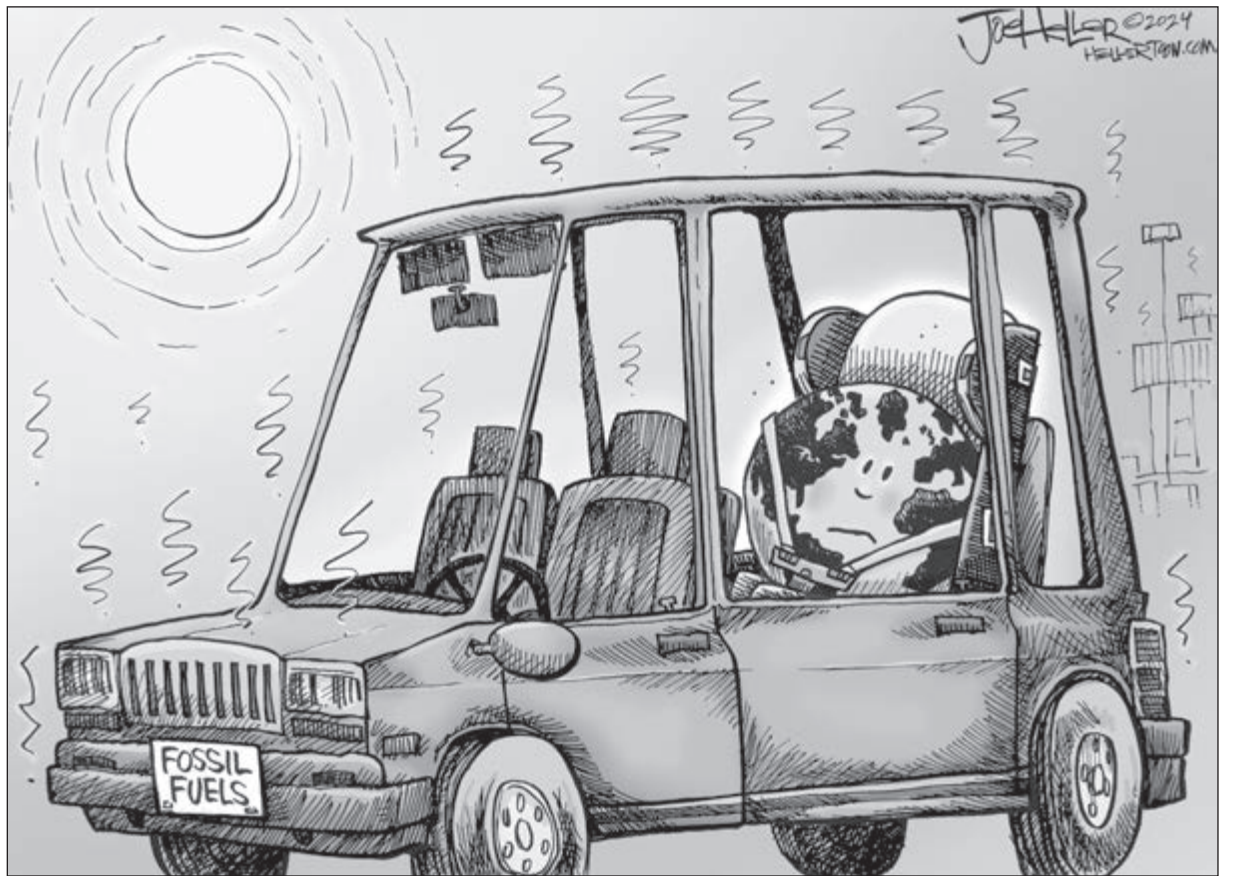

Ultimately, the significance of joy and sorrow lies in their ability to shape our lives, foster connections, and inspire personal growth. The question of which is greater may not be fair, as both are indispensable to understanding and experiencing the full spectrum of human emotion.

Tribal Food Sovereignty fueled by the American Rescue Plan

BY TEHASSI TASI HILL

ONEIDA NATION CHAIRMAN

The American Rescue Plan has been a significant contribution to all levels of government as America has dramatically improved in its recovery from COVID-19.

Oneida Nation is appreciative of the assistance that has been extended to rebuild our food infrastructure.

Farm direct to our schools and tables — with the emphasis on eating organic and healthy foods, is pivotal in improving our quality of life.

The concept of Food Sovereignty for Native

Hill

Communities means the right to choose, cultivate and preserve food practices.

This allows for health and the community needs to be at the center of food and agricultural policies, which better align with the cultural values and traditional methods known to our cultural identity.

Oneida Nation's traditional combined planting of our corn, beans and squash is significant.

Not only does it culturally represent Three Sisters, but there is also a science as to how each plant has specific attributes.

Corn, beans and squash are known to compliment one other as they nourish and protect the soil while serving each other as companions to benefit mutual substance and yield.

The traditional practices of our gardens provide intergenerational knowledge which has been a legacy of Oneida people, which has sustained our traditions for many lifetimes over.

Oneida people have always been known as agriculturally inclined and hunters.

We have historically created an environment of gardens and orchards in territories where fish and game are abundant.

Today we continue those traditions.

Oneida has made tremendous progress with our farms, orchards, gardens and preservation of our wildlife on the reservation.

Each day is a battle to protect our wildlife from the urban encroachment around us.

We hope to continue to keep the opportunities strong and expanding where we can still plant our Three Sisters and manage our annual harvest of wildlife.

Our future in food sovereignty and food preservation can be strengthened by the creation of an expanded and improved cannery for our community.

The Oneida Nation Cannery was a dream 40 years ago that became reality.

An Oneida Nation state of the art cannery will continue to be a dream, until it becomes reality.

Oneida Nation, with support of American Rescue Plan dollars, has invested millions to the advancing of our food sovereignty initiatives.

We are grateful for the role of the American Recovery Act and the dedication of resources to the restoration of critical health needs on our reservation.

We are fortunate to have the resources that keep us in alignment with our cultural values and traditional teachings.

Oneida strives to maintain a good mind, a good heart and a strong fire, as these are the fundamental to our core values.

Fairchild Systems named a 2023 Great 8 Dealer

GREEN BAY – Fairchild Systems, a division of Fairchild Equipment, is proud to announce that it has been named one of the top eight dealers, receiving the prestigious 2023 Great 8 Dealer Award for Wholesale Pallet Rack Products (WPRP).

This esteemed recognition highlights Fairchild Systems' unwavering commitment to excellence, outstanding performance and dedication to providing top-notch services in the Material Handling Industry.

The award underscores the company's hard work, innovative strategies and exceptional customer service, setting it apart from the competition.

"We are absolutely thrilled to receive the 2023 Great 8 Dealer Award. This honor is a testament to our team's dedication to delivering the highest quality customized pallet racking solutions for our customers' unique needs," said Mike Bruno, systems engineering manager of Fairchild Systems. "Our focus has always been on providing innovative and effective solutions, and this award reinforces our commitment to excellence."

In a highly competitive market, being recognized as one of the Great 8 Dealers is a significant accomplishment that reflects Fairchild Systems' professionalism and ability to consistently deliver high-quality pallet racking solutions.

This success showcases the company's expertise in the field of warehouse storage and reinforces its position as a leader in the industry.

"The Fairchild Systems division of Fairchild Equipment exemplifies our company's commitment to innovation, quality, and customer satisfaction," said Van Clarkson, president of Fairchild Equipment. "The team's relentless pursuit of excellence in providing customized warehouse design, storage, and product flow solutions has been instrumental in achieving this remarkable recognition."

Brown County jury scams continue

BROWN COUNTY – The Brown County Clerk of Court's Office is aware of continued scams involving individuals that pose as law enforcement officers and calling jurors.

Some jurors might even be texted fake bench warrant documents.

These imposters indicate that records show the jurors failed to appear for jury duty and now must either turn themselves in to the Brown County Sheriff's Office for arrest or can send payment through a gift card.

These imposters are very convincing and create a false sense of urgency to follow their instructions.

Some residents may have been mailed false payment notices with instructions on where to send the gift card information to.

"There is no situation where it would be necessary for jurors to send cash, gift cards or Bitcoin for missing jury service," says John A. Vander Leest, Brown County Clerk of Courts. "These are complete scams, and I urge you to not fall for it. Please talk to your family members about this scam so they don't fall victim to it. I've had multiple calls from victims who have paid $500 or more to the scammers."

Jury service is one of the most important civic duties citizens have.

When potential jurors are called for jury duty, they are mailed a summons and a juror handbook which provides specific instructions for them to follow.

Potential jurors should not deviate from those instructions.

If you have been affected by this scam, please call your local police department.

New North partners with Wisconsin DNR in effort to enhance environment

NORTHEAST WISCONSIN – New North Inc., the regional economic development corporation for the 18 counties of Northeast Wisconsin, has joined a collaborative effort to enhance the environmental quality and community involvement within the Green Bay Watershed.

In partnership with the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Office of Great Waters and a grant from the Fund for Lake Michigan, a Community Advisory Committee (CAC) is being formed to be the community's voice in identifying and acting on the watershed's environmental opportunities for two key initiatives: the Lower Green Bay and Fox River Area of Concern and the Green Bay Conservation Blueprint.

The CAC, which is modeled on the Waterway Restoration Partnership in Milwaukee, provides a structured platform for individual citizens to share their opinions and perspectives on environmental restoration efforts for the targeted initiatives and the impact of policies and programs on residents and workers within the Watershed.

"We appreciate the chance to be involved with this initiative, which will measurably impact the environmental quality of our region," says Juan Corpus, New North vice president of diversity, equity and inclusion, who is working with the DNR Office of Great Waters. "We are looking for community members to join us in positively influencing the environment of the New North."

Those interested in being a part of the CAC can apply at <https://bit.ly/NewNorthEnvironmentalCACapplication>.

CAC members will be paid for their service to the committee.

An information session on the CAC — its objectives, the application process and how community members can get involved — is being held from 10-11:30 a.m. on July 31 at Northeast Wisconsin Technical College, Room BT 325.

Registration for the event is available at <https://bit.ly/EnvironmentalCACinfoSession>.

Objectives of the CAC include the opportunity for community members to express their views on environmental initiatives in an organized manner, the ability to influence decision-making processes and policy development for the targeted initiatives and fostering a collaborative setting for the discussion of the impact of environmental programs and policies on the local community.

"We are pleased to join New North in providing this opportunity for the regional community to have a voice in matters that affect environmental quality," says Brie Kupsky, Green Bay program coordinator within the Division of Environmental Management-Office of Great Waters of the Wisconsin DNR. "We encourage anyone interested in the goals of the Community Advisory Committee or becoming a paid member of the committee to join us at the information session later this month."

June tonnage remains steady for Port of Green Bay

GREEN BAY – The Port of Green Bay has seen steady volumes during the first three months of the season, with 214,467 tons of cargo moved through the Port during June.

May saw 213,888 tons, while March/April saw 204,659.

Year-to-date, tonnage totals show a slight decrease from last year of 5%, from 668,383 to 633,014 tons.

"We're pleased with the steady numbers the Port is seeing so far this season," said Dean Haen, Port of Green Bay director. "While we can't predict what the rest of the season will look like, last year's mild winter may have an impact this year on our final salt tonnage and overall numbers. We expect tonnage for other commodities to remain relatively consistent."

The leading cargo during June just happened to be salt at 56,748 tons.

Other cargoes included petroleum products (49,650 tons), limestone (47,310 tons), cement (44,371 tons) and coal (16,388 tons).

Throughout June, 23 ships entered the Port, bringing the year-to-date total to 62 vessels.

During the same period last year, 59 ships visited the Port.

"Great Lakes shipping is vital to the economy in Northeast Wisconsin. The companies using the Port contribute substantially to our quality of life, and we are lucky to have them in our community."

Those interested can find recent and historical tonnage information for the Port of Green Bay at portofgreenbay.com/cargo-quantities-shipped.

Green Bay man sentenced to 20 years in prison for dealing fentanyl resulting in death of teen GREEN BAY – Gregory J. Haanstad, United States attorney for the Eastern District of Wisconsin, announced that on July 18 Senior U.S. District Judge William C. Griesbach sentenced Roosevelt T. Taylor (age 36) to 20 years in prison after he pled guilty to Distributing Fentanyl Resulting in Death, in violation of Title 21, United States Code, Section 841.

According to court records, for at least several weeks in 2023, Taylor repeatedly distributed counterfeit Percocet "M30" pills containing fentanyl in the Green Bay area.

Taylor described himself as a "middler" who connected customers to a larger drug distributor.

In that role, Taylor became responsible for putting hundreds of fake Percocet pills into circulation, not knowing who would ultimately ingest the potentially lethal dose of fentanyl found in about 70% of such pills.

During one fentanyl-trafficking offense, Taylor supplied "M30" pills to a 17-year-old female who used them and died of fentanyl toxicity.

At the time, Taylor had a lengthy criminal history, including prior jail and prison sentences and was on supervision in three separate felony cases for robbery, burglary, and delivery of heroin.

At the sentencing hearing, Judge Griesbach emphasized that trafficking fentanyl is distributing "poison."

The judge considered nationwide data that 7 in 10 counterfeit pills tested at DEA Crime Labs contain a lethal dose of fentanyl, that fentanyl is the leading cause of death for 18- to 45-year-olds and that synthetic opiates like fentanyl cause over 73,000 deaths annually in the U.S. — equal to 200 deaths per day.

According to the DEA, illicit fentanyl remains the deadliest drug threat facing this country.

It is a highly addictive synthetic opioid that is 50 times more potent than heroin and 100 times more potent than morphine.

Just two milligrams of fentanyl — the amount that fits on the tip of a pencil — is considered a potentially deadly dose.

The Sinaloa Cartel and Jalisco Cartel in Mexico, using chemicals largely sourced from China, are primarily responsible for most of the fentanyl that is being trafficked in communities across the United States.

This case was investigated by the Brown County Drug Task Force, the Drug Enforcement Administration, and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives.

It was prosecuted by Assistant United States Attorney Timothy Funnell.

Packers invite training camp attendees to support Nonprofit of the Day Program

GREEN BAY – Fans attending Packers Training Camp, presented by Bellin Health, are encouraged to interact with local nonprofit organizations through the Nonprofit of the Day program, a community outreach initiative that aims to connect nonprofits with community members at training camp.

The program, in its second year, will feature a local nonprofit organization at each weekday practice open to the public.

This year, 11 nonprofits were chosen to participate from a field of over 30 submissions.

Each organization will share information about their nonprofit and what services they provide to the community in addition to offering activities for guests to engage in.

The nonprofits will be set up in the parking lot to the east of Ray Nitschke Field, between gates 1 and 2.

They will begin interacting with visitors 90 minutes before practice starts.

All practices are scheduled to begin at 10:30 a.m., but fans are reminded that start times are subject to change.

The 2024 schedule includes:

- Monday, July 22: Violence Intervention Project
- Tuesday, July 23: First Tee Northeast Wisconsin
- Wednesday, July 24: Wisconsin Humane Society
- Friday, July 26: House of Hope Green Bay
- Tuesday, July 30: Neville Public Museum
- Wednesday, July 31: Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) of Brown County
- Tuesday, Aug. 6: Junior Achievement of Northeast Wisconsin
- Wednesday, Aug. 7: Family Services of Northeast Wisconsin
- Tuesday, Aug. 13: The Salvation Army of Greater Green Bay
- Tuesday, Aug. 20: American Red Cross
- Thursday, Aug. 22: Brain Center of Green Bay

• Monday, Aug. 1 and Thursday, Aug. 15 will serve as rain make-up days, if needed.

More information about training camp activities is available at packers.com/trainingcamp.

GBPD SWAT partners with CrossFit Green Bay in community event

GREEN BAY – Ever wonder what it's like to be a member of a Special Weapons And Tactics (SWAT) team or have you seen SWAT deployed to a critical incident in your neighborhood and have questions?

Now is your chance to meet with the Green Bay Police Department (GBPD) SWAT team and learn about the required skills to be part of the specialty unit and the decision-making of high-risk calls.

GBPD is partnering with CrossFit Green Bay in a family-friendly community event on Saturday, August 17, from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. at CrossFit Green Bay - East, 1110 Kepler Drive, Suite 101.

All ages and all abilities are welcome to attend, and general admission is free.

Attendees will have the chance to learn about the GBPD SWAT team, see officers in action with demonstrations, get up close with GBPD vehicles and equipment, participate in a SWAT Physical Fitness Test sponsored by CrossFit Green Bay, meet with recruitment staff from the GBPD Professional Standards Division and more.

"This event is an opportunity for our residents to learn about the Green Bay Police Department SWAT team and our response, movement and techniques in an attempt for a safe resolution. We want our community to feel comfortable if there's a need for us to respond to their neighborhood and to know that we are normal people with normal lives who happen to have a high-risk job," said Sergeant Mike Luberda, Green Bay Police Department SWAT team member.

AARP Wisconsin seeks nominees for top statewide volunteer award

WISCONSIN – AARP is now accepting nominations for its 2024 Wisconsin Andrus Award for Community Service, which honors Wisconsinites age 50+ who are sharing their experience, talent and skills to enrich the lives of their community members.

"We are excited to shine a light on Wisconsinites who are using what they've learned in life to make a difference in the lives around them," said AARP Wisconsin State Director Martha Cranley.

Nominations will be evaluated by the AARP Wisconsin Executive Council based on how the volunteer's work has improved the community, reflected AARP's vision and mission and inspired other volunteers.

The award recipient will be announced in early fall. The achievements, accomplishments or service on which nominations are based must have been performed on a volunteer basis, without pay.

Volunteers receiving small stipends to cover the costs associated with the volunteer activity are eligible.

The achievements, accomplishments or service on which the nomination is based must reflect AARP's vision and purpose, be replicable and provide inspiration for others to volunteer.

Partisan political achievements, accomplishments or service may not be considered.

Couples or partners who perform service together are also eligible; however, teams are not eligible.

Previous Andrus Award recipients are not eligible. Volunteers serving on the Andrus Award selection committee are not eligible.

AARP staff members are not eligible.

The application deadline is Aug. 11.

Learn more and submit a nomination at www.aarp.org/andrusaward.

Prevent, treat age-related macular degeneration

Savvy Senior

YOU ASK THE SENIOR QUESTION – WE FIND THE SAVVY ANSWER. SYNDICATED COLUMN

DEAR SAVVY SENIOR,

Is macular degeneration hereditary?

My mother lost much of her vision from it before she died, and now at age 65, I'm concerned I may get it too.

What can you tell me?
Brown Eyed Betty

But the good news is there are things you can do to protect your eyesight, and a number of treatments that are available if you do happen to get it.

Here's what you should know.

What is AMD?

Macular degeneration, also known as age-related macular degeneration (or AMD) is the most common cause of severe vision loss in people over age 60, affecting an estimated 20 million Americans.

AMD is a progressive eye disease that damages the macula, the part of the eye that allows us to see objects clearly, causing vision loss in the center of your vision.

This affects the ability to read, drive, watch television and do routine daily tasks, but it does not cause total blindness.

There are two types of AMD – dry and wet.

Dry AMD, which affects about 85 to 90 percent of all people that have it, progresses slowly and painlessly over a period of years.

While wet AMD is much more aggressive and can cause severe vision loss in a matter of weeks or months.

Factors that can increase your risk of getting AMD include age (60 and older); smoking; excessive exposure to sunlight especially if you have light-colored eyes; certain genetic components; a family history of AMD; high blood pressure; obesity and being Caucasian.

What you can do

For anyone over the age of 65, it's a smart idea to get your eyes examined by an ophthalmologist every year.

They can spot early signs of AMD before vision loss occurs.

Early signs, however, may include shadowy areas in your central vision or unusually fuzzy or distorted vision.

The Amsler grid is also an excellent tool to check your eyes for AMD at home.

Visit Macular.org, and search "amsler chart" to test your sight.

While there's currently no cure for AMD there are things you can do if you're high risk, including: eating antioxidant-rich foods such as dark green, leafy vegetables and cold-water fish for their omega-3 fatty acids; protecting your eyes from the sun by wearing UV protective sunglasses; controlling high blood pressure; exercising regularly and if you smoke, quit.

Dry AMD treatments

If you do happen to get AMD, your doctor may recommend you start taking a daily dose of antioxidant vitamins and minerals known as AREDS or AREDS2.

Studies by the National Eye Institute have shown that while taking these supplements cannot prevent you from getting AMD, they can reduce your risk of progression from intermediate to advanced AMD by about 25 percent.

You can purchase AREDS supplements – made by Bausch and Lomb and sold as PreserVision – over the counter in many drugstores and online for around $30 a bottle.

There are also two new medications (Syfovre and IZERVAY) that were approved by the FDA last year to treat a late-stage form of AMD called geographic atrophy or GA.

These treatments, which are given either monthly or every other month in the form of an injection into the eye, can slow the progression of GA.

Wet AMD treatments

For wet AMD, there are several anti-VEGF medications like Avastin, Lucentis and Eylea that can stop vision loss and may even restore it.

These medications, which have been around for more than a decade, are also given by injection into the eye and repeated every month or two.

Newer anti-VEGF drugs, like Vabysmo and Eyla HD, are also highly effective but don't require monthly treatments.

Most patients on these medications can go three to four months between injections.

Somerville Architects & Engineers break ground on Riverside Drive facility

FOR THE PRESS TIMES

ALLOUEZ – Somerville Architects & Engineers, a local architectural and engineering firm, will break ground July 29 on a state-of-the-art office building located at 2120 Riverside Drive in Allouez.

“Since their inception in 1946, Somerville has been a cornerstone of architectural and engineering excellence in the greater Green Bay community. The firm’s journey began with an office in downtown Green Bay and in 1959, Somerville established their first office location on Riverside Drive in Allouez,” a company release stated.

“In 1972, they moved to their second location on Riverside Drive. Their current location, built in 1993 also on Riverside Drive, has served the firm well for the last 30 years providing a space where creativity, collaboration, and client-focused design thrived.”

“Our strong desire to remain local and community-focused has guided our decisions throughout the years,” Somerville President Matt Schachtner stated. “Our new office building will continue our legacy in Allouez, providing a convenient and central location for our employees and clients.”

The $12 million construction project located in one of the Tax Increment Financing (TIF) districts in Allouez.

The village created the TIF districts to attract and support private businesses which, in turn, boosts the local economy and property values without immediately raising taxes.

Somerville has hired local contractor, Immel Construction, to lead the construction.

“With a track record of completing over 7,800 projects throughout Wisconsin and beyond, Somerville’s team has earned the trust of clients who appreciate innovative designs delivered on time and within budget,” the release added.

“From the original Lambeau Field to the state-of-the-art NICU at Bellin Health, and from the Brown County STEM Innovation Center to the new Menominee Indian High School, their projects have made a lasting impact in the communities where they work.”

The company is 100% employee-owned.

“We look forward to this new chapter as we continue shaping our community’s landscape,” Schachtner added.

THE BEAT

For local poet, hip-hop brings self-expression to the tip-top

Cujo the Poet is a man on a mission

By Kana Coonce
Contributing Writer

With a new album available for streaming and purchase, a launch party slated for the last Friday of the month, an ongoing music education project and a fundraiser for the Boys and Girls Club next month, Cujo Mojock is no stranger to staying busy or working hard.

"I try really hard not to create a dichotomy of personality between stage and real life," said Cujo, who goes by his stage name — originally a nickname given to him in high school as a play on his legal name — when he's offstage, as well.

"My name's Cujo," he explained. "That's who I am. That's really my identity."

Yes, even his family calls him Cujo.

"My goal is to be as authentic and genuine as possible behind the microphone," he said.

This means that the Cujo you see is the Cujo you get. It's an attitude that extends to the rest of his work, as well.

His latest album, New Beginnings, is the first of his releases to feature his "ugly mug" (his words, not ours) on the cover, which features photography by Green Bay's Chris Rugowski of Chicken or the Egg Photography.

Cujo said that it's his way of taking ownership of his words.

"Truth is a pillar for me," said Cujo. "I get a lot of laughs at shows because I do voice my actual opinions at shows, even if it's embarrassing or uncomfortable or not what the 'right answer' would be."

He's found that when he speaks from his heart about his hopes and his struggles, he tends to find others who feel the same.

"Many times after the show, somebody will come up to me and tell me that... the music resonated and they didn't realize other people felt the same," he said. "There's unity in this experience and you don't have to feel alone, whether it's political, global conflicts that are bogging you down or not being able to make the rent that's bogging you down, you know?"

Though Cujo dabbled in multiple genres before settling on hip-hop — in college, he played guitar for a metal band, and for a time, he wrote acoustic folk songs — he said that for his style of poetry, hip-hop proved to be the best fit.

"I always found my writing to be too long-winded and not concise," he said.

Cujo funded New Beginnings with proceeds earned from his Youth Voices Project, which he in turn funded through an Indiegogo campaign that netted him $4,170 of a targeted $5,000. The funds allowed the artist to co-host an audio production program alongside Green Bay videographer Shoua Lee called Music Saved My Life. Free for participants, Music Saved My Life was targeted toward youth ages 12-17.

"We're doing songwriting, we're doing beatmaking, we're doing mixing and matching in the studio, we're giving tips on live performances, having them set up and take down shows," said Cujo of the program, which he said was designed to give teens a taste of a little bit of everything there is to do in the music business that they otherwise might never have had the opportunity to try.

"I think there are so many ways to make a living that are sometimes overlooked by the education system," especially K-12, where art offerings are more limited than they might be at a university, said Cujo. "Art and music is kind of treated as secondary enrichment that helps prep [kids'] minds for math and English instead of being treated as a parallel core subject that has real merit for pursuing."

Combining his fundraising goals for New Beginnings with those of his Youth Voices Project, therefore, allowed Cujo to hit two birds with one stone.

"Making an album is expensive" — at least, to do it right, said Cujo. "It's part of the reason many of these songs [recorded for New Beginnings] have sat on the backburner."

"Obviously, I could've just asked my fans to preorder the album and believe in me," he said, but he felt that he could give back to the community while he worked toward his goal. He got a lot of educational stuff — songwriting, writing, beat, debate, all

ComedyCity goes rogue

New and returning shows lined up for Rogue Comedy Month

By Janelle Fisher
City Pages Editor

This August, ComedyCity will celebrate its fifth annual Rogue Comedy Month — a month where the ComedyCity troupe has the opportunity to experiment with new concepts and expand on old ideas.

“Rogue Comedy Month is our chance as an improv group to try out new concepts we’ve never done before, redo concepts that we have done before and have proven to be successful or fan favorites and really just do something different than our normal routine,” said ComedyCity Artistic Director Nick Wallander. “It started back in 2020 during the height of the pandemic. That was the first August we tried the concept out because at that point we had been doing online versions of our shows over Zoom and that got a little tedious and repetitive. Everyone was pretty bored at that point in time with lockdowns and everything, so we decided, ‘hey, let’s do something different this month so you get a handful of different shows.’ Then a year later we translated it to the live, in-person format and this will be the fifth year overall that we’ve done the concept of, in August, just shaking things up. We tried some new things and picked up momentum and we’re very excited about that.”

Leading up to this month, which is jam-packed with a variety of shows, Wallander said it’s all hands on deck.

“In our normal month, our shows are pretty much the same format,” he said. “We’re used to that. We don’t really have to do anything extra. For this particular month, everyone has been putting in a lot of extra time here and there either planning out details for the events or actually getting together and rehearsing elements that are atypical to our normal improv format.”

Many of the shows lined up for this Rogue Comedy Month include elements from past shows or exercises that members of the troupe want to expand on.

“Some of it is taking what we love about current improv games that we play and asking ourselves how we could expand it into something more or a longer show or add elements to it,” he said. “That’s really what a lot of these shows are — taking things that we’ve already done and shaking them up a little bit and adding a twist. For example, one of our shows this time around is What a Bunch of A-Holes. It basically takes a game that we call ‘day in the life’ that we do at our regular shows where we ask an audience member about something that happened and then we reenact it with an improv scene. In What a Bunch of A-Holes, we are going to take some stories from Reddit — there’s a lot of threads about people asking, ‘Hey, am I the jerk?’ or ‘Am I the a-hole?’ — share them with the audience and then reenact what that story is going to entail. That’s also a similar concept to Tipsy History, which is a returning show that started out as a Rogue Comedy Month show a few years ago and now is a semi-regular show that we do every few months.”

Returning shows and new shows combine to fill out the lineup for this year’s Rogue Comedy Month, which will bring performers to ComedyCity’s stage every Friday and Saturday night this month.

“Tipsy History is definitely a returning favorite,” he said. “We also have the return of our version of The Match Game — something that we did several times online as a Zoom show back in 2020. We’re going to have that return in-person and live on stage. That’s pretty much our take on the classic game show. We have the return of Herlarious, and that is a show that is between a cast of all or almost all of the women that we currently have in our roster... It was probably the best show we did all of last summer... There’s two musical-themed shows this year. The new one is Musical Rumble Remix, which is going to be a combination of various musical elements which include several improv games that have music included with them... We also have the return of Improv Musical: The Musical, which ends up between 80 and 90 minutes of a full-fledged improvised musical. We get a title from the audience of what the musical is called and we do a whole story based around that... Then there are two other shows returning, which are Duos, which is groups of two doing long-form improv... and Comedic Neutral, which is normally based around Dungeons and Dragons and doing a campaign live on stage, but they’re trying a different game this time called Honey Heist... One of the shows I’m excited about is LOL and Order, which is our mock courtroom. We improvise an entire trial based on an audience member’s petty disagreement they might have had with a family member or an incident in life and we determine whether someone was guilty or not guilty of some petty indiscretion.”

With a diverse offering of shows and something for everyone to enjoy, Wallander said he hopes this year’s Rogue Comedy Month opens people’s eyes to improv so that they see it in a way they may not have before.

“I just hope [people] realize that improv is a diverse art form in comedy,” he said. “It can be as simple as getting a suggestion and doing a scene or it can be something that has a little more structure that has improvised elements. I want them to see improv differently, so I hope they come watch a Rogue Comedy Month show and realize how much potential there is and that there’s so much more to it than they have ever thought.”

Cujo emphasized that New Beginnings could not have been made without the help of other local artists. The beats on all of his tracks were created by Appleton hip-hop artist and album producer MC Genesis, with sound engineering and mastering handled by Beloit’s Adam Gasser.

Also featured on the album, in a track titled “Food Is Medicine,” is his daughter, who Cujo said has been performing with him for almost a decade.

“My daughter, since she was little, has been kind of a natural ham,” he said. When she was three years old, she asked to join him on stage. Now, she’s 10 — although she was nine at the time of recording.

Cujo himself has grown, too.

“I feel like I’ve entered a new stage in the artistry,” he said. After “working diligently” for the past 12 years — Cujo began performing hip-hop onstage when he was 24 years old — Cujo said that he “feels like it’s showing in my delivery, in my ability to do more than just spit facts, wrap it in a package people are able to listen to for 2 hours or more.”

Which leads us to those eponymous new beginnings. “I just feel real comfortable, so to me it feels like a new beginning,” he said. “Like I’m starting fresh.”

Also new? Cujo’s stage name, which now has the addition of “the Poet.”

“I’ve always viewed rap as just an extension of poetry,” he said, explaining his thought process for the title, which he added to aid with optimizing his visibility on search engines against Stephen King’s rabid Saint Bernard.

The official launch party for New Beginnings, featuring a live performance of the album in its entirety by Cujo the Poet, will be held on Friday, July 26, at Paradise North Distillery, 101 Bay Beach Rd. in Green Bay’s South Bay Marina. Doors open at 6 p.m. and performance begins at 6:30. After the show, Cujo will be available for autographs and photos until 9 p.m. Snacks will be provided and cocktails will be available for purchase.

Cujo will also perform at the 5th annual Boys and Girls Club fundraiser at UW-Green Bay’s Weidner Center next month, August 20, at 2:30 p.m.

New Beginnings is available now to stream on Spotify and Apple Music and for purchase at cujohiphop.bandcamp.com. CP

West De Pere students come together for summer production

By Janelle Fisher
City Pages Editor

While summer break for many students also means a break from extra curricular activities, middle school and high school students in the West De Pere School District have been hard at work for the last six weeks putting together a production of Joseph and The Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat.

“Joseph and The Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat is told as the biblical story of Joseph and his eleven Brothers,” said Jesse Robak, director of the show. “The story follows his journey, basically of him going through and saying, ‘I was the favorite brother, my dad likes me the best,’ and the brothers didn’t really enjoy that. And so they did some bad stuff to make it look like he was killed, unfortunately, but really they sold him off to a very wealthy man in Egypt. From there, he was thrown in a jail cell. He was at the lowest of lows, but then he rose because he has the ability to tell people’s dreams and share with others what their dreams mean. And so the Pharaoh in Egypt had these unsettling dreams that he needed to explain and lo and behold, this guy sitting in his jail cell was able to tell his dreams. So he rose to fame and fortune and led Egypt all through this famine and the brothers, still back home in Canaan, were not prepared for the famine when it hit. And so they came to Egypt begging to this pharaoh and his right-hand man... Little did they know that was their brother. It wraps up in a solemn way of reuniting everybody and realizing what you might see up front and at first is not all somebody is worth and how you need everybody's help to do something. It really is just a powerful message of reuniting as a family and coming together as one whole group."

▲ The goal of the summer production was to create a fun environment for students to enjoy theater.

West De Pere's production involves students of a wide variety of ages, ranging from about to enter seventh grade to recently graduated seniors, with varying levels of experience in theater.

"This is a group of high schoolers and middle schoolers in the West De Pere School District who come together for a common goal of doing theater," Robak said. "We've got kids that are mainly involved in sports, we've got kids involved in music and we've got students who are more academic-driven who all share a common interest in wanting to be on stage and perform. We've got kids who have been doing theater their whole lives all the way up from five years old and some kids who this is their first show ever."

Involving younger students in a show with high schoolers, Robak said, helps prepare them for their future.

"I think there is benefit in having our middle schoolers see what the high school programming looks like and what the high school programming involves so that way, in two years, when they get to their freshman year, they know what to expect already," he said. "They know what the standard is and they know what the expectations are at the high school level. And I think it's great for them to see high school role models. The younger students see those role models on stage, especially in the principal roles, and say, 'I can do that one day. I can be that person one day.' I really think it's a great learning experience for our younger students."

▲ The show follows the biblical story of Joseph.

But it's not only the younger students who benefit from the experience.

"The high schoolers can actually learn a lot from the middle schoolers as well," Robak said. "The younger mind is typically more creative and more willing to take chances and make choices on stage and just be out there without any sort of fear of being different. I think there's a good balance between having both the young kids and the older kids."

In putting together this show, Robak said it was important to him to create an environment where the students could have fun while working with a fast-paced schedule.

"When I came into this role this year, I wanted to make an environment that was fun and safe for anybody who just wanted to perform," he said. "No high stakes, no high pressure, just, 'let's have a fun summer.' We do it in about six-and-a-half weeks. We started June 10 and perform at the end of July... It's really an outstanding group of kids... It's really extraordinary what they can do in this amount of time."

Unlike productions that happen during the school year, Robak said this summer production dealt with the added challenges of students each having their own scheduling conflicts to work around.

"During the school year when they do their regular programming, rehearsals are three days a week and usually right after school, so the kids are already here," Robak said. "They just filter right in after the school day and they're here. In the summer, everybody's schedules are different. There's vacations and trips and other school programming... I wanted it to be a flexible, fun summer, so I told kids when they were auditioning and going through that process that if they've got conflicts, we'll work with them and we'll figure them out and we'll be able to put the show together."

Robak said he hopes those coming to the show see not only how much work the students have put in, but also how much fun they're having on stage.

"I think the biggest thing is just seeing students in our community coming together for one common goal and having fun for an hour and a half on stage," Robak said. "Miss a line, miss a cue, so be it. That's live theater. What I want the audience to see and notice is how much fun these students are having and that this is a place for anybody, regardless of if they've never done theater before or if they've been doing it forever."

Performances of West De Pere's Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat began Thursday, July 25, and will continue Friday, July 26, and Saturday, July 27, at 7 p.m.

Bay-Lake region receives coastal community grants

BY PRESS TIMES STAFF

NORTHEAST WISCONSIN — Gov. Tony Evers recently announced nearly $1.3 million in grants “to support quality of life, foster economic development, protect and improve the Great Lakes resources, and create resiliency in Wisconsin’s coastal communities.”

“The grants are administered by the Wisconsin Department of Administration (DOA) Wisconsin Coastal Management Program (WCMP) to be used by local, state and Tribal governments, regional planning commissions, universities and nonprofit organizations,” a release from Evers’ office stated.

This newly announced funding will support projects totaling over $3.3 million.

“There’s no overstating the importance of our Great Lakes and how these vital natural resources have shaped the culture and economy of our coastal communities and our state’s history,” Evers said. “Wisconsin’s roughly 800 miles of Great Lakes shoreline across Lake Michigan and Lake Superior provide folks with drinking water, commerce, and recreational opportunities that bring millions of visitors and future residents from far and wide. These investments will go a long way toward helping ensure we protect our shoreline communities, address the unique challenges we face, and promote long-term growth and success.”

“The collaborative public and private projects aided by our coastal programs do so much to expand public access, sustainable use practices, community development, habitat restoration, and address pollution,” said DOA Secretary Kathy Blumenfeld. “This is a key program with lasting benefits for our state in too many ways to count.”

Recipients for this year’s grants were recommended by the Wisconsin Coastal Management Council.

The Bay-Lake region, which includes Brown, Door and Kewaunee counties, is receiving multiple grants, which includes the following funding.

Bay-Lake Regional Planning Commission will receive $30,000 for technical assistance and outreach.

UW-Madison Board of Regents receive $59,469 for restoration habitat focused on the Brown County study area.

Universities of Wisconsin System Board of Regents are receiving $17,447 for cumulative and secondary impacts focused on Door and Kewaunee counties.

NEW Water will receive $16,275 for Great Lakes education.

Universities of Wisconsin Sea Grant Institute is receiving $30,000 for land use and community planning centered on flood resilience in the East River Watershed of Brown County.

The town of Scott will receive $26,980 for land use and community planning focused on areas adjacent to Wequiock Creek.

The Bay-Lake region, which includes Brown, Door and Kewaunee counties, is receiving multiple grants.

Record-setting salmon tournament over

In the Outdoors

BY KEVIN NAZE
GUEST COLUMNIST

If it wasn't for a family friend who couldn't fish opening weekend of the Kewaunee/Door County Salmon Tournament, Lorrie Combs-Schmidt of Sturgeon Bay might have had a less stressful past week of waiting.

Then again, she wouldn't have had $15,000 for her fishing team, either.

Combs-Schmidt caught the heaviest Chinook in the 42nd annual event, a 41-inch, 33.97-pound giant on the second morning of the 10-day contest.

It was the largest of 14 30-plus-pound salmon brought to weigh-ins from Kewaunee to Washington Island.

All told, more than 450 20-pound-plus "kings" hit the scales, and nearly 150 were 25 pounds or more.

A lot of them were caught 40 to 80 feet down in 80 to 150 feet of water. Spoons, flasher/fly combos, cut bait ("meat") rigs and J-Plugs all lured trophies.

It was another record-setting event, with more than 3,800 participants sharing in more than $90,000 in cash and prizes, including early-bird and daily port prizes, and a 9.9 Yamaha kicker motor that was raffled off among all ticket buyers.

Kewaunee led the way with four "30s" while the Sturgeon Bay and Washington Island areas each produced three (one of the island's was weighed at Howie's Tackle in Sturgeon Bay), Algoma two and Baileys Harbor one.

Combs-Schmidt said she's a perch fanatic at heart.

She nearly overslept Saturday morning, July 13 — if you can call waking up at 2:37 a.m. oversleeping.

She and her dad, brother, cousin and friend were aboard the Combs' 23-foot Cruisers off the Bank Reef in Lake Michigan out of Sturgeon Bay.

They'd caught a couple "kings" in mid-teens, but an hour or so after sunrise the Emma Mueller of Green Bay shows off a 40-inch, 30.13-pound Chinook salmon she hooked off Kewaunee last week.

big smacked a Howie Fly skirt that her brother Troy had doctored up.

Troy grabbed the rod after the hit, which he said came about 70 feet down in 135 feet of water off a copper wire setup behind a planer board.

"He felt it, and he said, 'Here, it's your turn,'" Lorrie said. "I was amazed at what could be pulling that hard on the pole."

Meanwhile, Clinton Meier of Elk River, Minnesota won $8,000 and a Howie's Tackle shopping spree for a 41-inch, 32.73-pounder that hit a flasher/fly combo that same night on the Mad Russian, one of the Gail Force Sportfishing charter boats at Algoma.

Finally, Matt Smith of Hobart won $5,000 and a Yeti cooler for his 42-inch, 32.24-pounder caught in northern Door County waters this past weekend. It also hit a flasher/fly combo.

That fish was leading the lake-wide Salmon-A-Rama until the final hours Sunday, when it was beat by a tenth of a pound by a fish caught in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Speaking of Salmon-A-Rama (SAR), that contest produced six 30-pound-plus fish, all of which were landed off K/D or U.P. counties. Nine of the contest's top 10 fish were caught up north, far from the headquarters in Racine. Racine waters did produce the SAR's top laker (24.50 pounds), and nearby Winthrop Harbor the heaviest coho (15.35).

Milwaukee was the site of the largest rainbow trout (18.18), and Port Washington produced the winning brown trout (25.48 pounds).

Next year's K/D has been set for July 11-20. Anglers will try to tie the record for 11 straight 30-pound-plus winning fish. That last happened from 1989-1999.

Check out the final payout online at www.facebook.com/kdsalmon2022.

More than $1,000 in cash and prizes will be awarded to youths.

Adult prizes are based on participation, and there will be dozens of random draw prizes of fishing lures and other tackle among all tickets sold.

Tickets will go on sale Aug. 1 at Algoma Citgo and Graf's Mobil.

Questions on the event can be emailed to gofishwisconsin@gmail.com, or by texting 920-883-9792.

The adult division is for salmon and trout on Lake Michigan, but kids can bring in fish caught anywhere in the area.

The Ahnapee River, area inland lakes or the bay of Green Bay are all popular, while others try their luck with family and friends on Lake Michigan, or in private ponds.

If they're not planning to eat their catch, kids are encouraged to measure the length, take a photograph and release the fish back into the water.

Hughes seconded. The motion carried unanimously.
12. REPORTS OF VILLAGE OFFICIALS
 i. B. Dhuey reviewed Howard Village Code Sec. 34-10 - Motorized bicycles, scooters, play and toy vehicles on the roadway. He specifically reviewed the section of the code related to E-bikes and how the village ordinance differs from state statutes. He said Howard police do not typically enforce the rule that unlicensed individuals, especially minors, cannot ride electric bikes or that their parents/guardians can be cited for it. However, he said the ordinance is nice to have on the books in case there is an incident or accident involving them, which has happened recently. The board discussed. No action was taken.
13. CLOSED SESSION (NONE)
14. ADJOURNMENT
 C. McAllister moved to adjourn. C. Nielsen seconded. The motion carried unanimously, and the board adjourned at 6:53 p.m. Respectfully submitted, Leigh Ann Wagner Kroening Village Administrator's Assistant Publish 07.26.24

Jackson Strong (2022) was the highest drafted player, taken in the seventh round

ASHWAUBENON – The 2024 Major League First-Year Player Draft was held July 14 through July 16. This year's draft was twenty rounds with six current and former Rockers' players selected.

The highest alum picked in this year's draft was Jackson Strong (Canisius College). While with Green Bay in 2022, the outfielder played 18 games, picking up six hits and one home run. Strong finished this spring with a .350 average, with 62 total hits, 11 home runs, and 41 RBIs.

Left-handed pitcher Justin Loer (LSU) was teammates with Strong in 2022 and was taken in the 13th round. He had 32 strikeouts with the Rockers and allowed just 14 runs in five games. For the Tigers in 2024, he made 26 relief appearances with 30 strikeouts in 24.1 innings.

Three players from last year's championship team were also drafted. Zane Zielinski (UI-Chicago) was selected in the ninth, while Cole Peschl (Campbell College), and JoJo Jackson (Georgia State) were Day Three guys picked up in the fifteenth and the seventeenth.

Zielinski played in 32 games for Green Bay, where he hit .231 and stole six bases. This spring, he exploded for UI-Chicago, boosting his average to .407 with 21 home runs, 22 doubles, and 63 RBIs. Jackson continued his impressive batting from the championship run. He hit 16 homers in 47 games at Georgia State in the spring, to go along with the four he hit with the Rockers. Peschl racked up 32 strikeouts in just five games with Green Bay, but that number jumped with Campbell to 83 across 69 innings pitched.

The final Rucker drafted was current pitcher Nathan Blasick (New Orleans). He has made 10 appearances this summer with 17 strikeouts to just 11 walks. At New Orleans, he had a 3.93 ERA in 24 appearances, allowing just 15 earned runs in 34.1 innings of work.

The full list of 2024 NWL draftees can be found by going to www.northwoodsleague.com and selecting NWL Alumni and Draft Highlights under the baseball menu at the top of the page.

Single game tickets are on sale now. Visit www.greenbayrockers.com or call the ticket office at (920)-497-7225 to reserve your seats. Search by home type for comparable sales

Dear Monty

BY RICHARD MONTGOMERY
SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

DEAR MONTY,

I am preparing to buy my first home. Depending on whom I speak with or even when I read an article or datasheet, I need clarification about two common words in the real estate vocabulary.

They appear to be interchangeable.

The words are "style" and "type."

MONTY'S ANSWER

These two words have different meanings.

The word "style" is related to the architectural appearance of a home.

There are many styles to describe the look and feel of a home. Several examples of style descriptors are colonial, modern, contemporary and gothic, but there are many more.

The word "type" refers to how the home is constructed in relation to ground level and the number of floors at different levels.

This distinction is important to understand.

The factors Negotiations

When negotiating as a buyer or a seller, it is essential to review comparable properties to prepare for a negotiation. You want to find properties currently for sale and recently sold that are comparable in size, type and in similar neighborhoods. If you are buying or selling a home, restricting your comparables to the same type of home will likely give you the truest comparables and a shorter range of value.

Convenience

The ranch style requires the most significant square foot footprint for the convenience of all the rooms on the same level. A ranch requires more material to build, which makes it the most expensive. There are no stairs to enter or navigate within. Building a one-story home offers limitless design options. Living on one floor also conserves time maneuvering throughout the house. Every type of home has advantages and disadvantages.

Cost

The other eight types cost less to build, and some are far less expensive. The A-frame on the far right-hand side of the top row is the least expensive of the nine. The A-frame is the least costly because it requires the least material. The seven home types between the one-story and A-frame costs are in between. There are advantages to other home types besides a lower price. Many consider a second floor to be a more private environment. Adults and children have different activity schedules, and a second floor acts as a natural divider and privacy buffer, which many homeowners prefer.

Promotion

Real estate advertising is well-known for being deceptive. Books are written about interpreting real estate ads when searching for a home. In today's online world, photoshopped videos and photos eliminate objects that may discourage a buyer from looking or just the reverse, the video makes the home appear in like-new condition only to discover that the home is sub-par upon inspection. Baking bread to conceal pet odor, hiding worn or damaged floors with area rugs, and similar tricks still happen. When the seller furnishes an inspection, a seller condition report and a virtual tour before the buyer makes an offer, the buyer appreciates being fully informed and the seller is protected from liability and defects discovered just before closing.

Weekly Fishing Report

brought to you by Smokey's on the Bay bait and tackle

Walleye fishing back to normal

Walleye fishing on Green Bay has finally been living up to its normal standard.

Trolling Crank baits like No. 7 Flicker Minnows and No. 7 Flicker Shads around structures has been one of the best bets for action, anywhere from College Reef in University Bay to Geano's Reef, and all the way up to Oconto Shaol.

The east shore structures like Vincent Reef and Volks Reef have also been good for walleye action trolling at times.

Jigging any off the reef tops with Shiver Minnows and Jigging Spoons along with Hair Jigs and other glide baits has been productive on many days.

The trolling bite in the "mud" off Geano's and up past Pensaukee has also seen an uptick in action.

Both No. 9 Flicker minnows and Crawler Harnesses have been seeing good catches on many days.

Fish want to see a slower presentation these last few weeks so even on your crank baits slow down your speed. These fish are still coming off one of the largest Alewife feeding stretches we have ever seen on Green Bay.

They are not as willing to chase a bait fast.

Perch fishing continues to be very good overall, with areas around Geanos, Pensaukee, Oconto, Bayshore, Maccos Reef all seeing good action.

Minnows, hellgrammites and crawler pieces were best baits with dead sticking seeing an uptick in activity.

If you go, please be safe, and take a kid fishing.

best route ever, but if the line doesn't block, the quarterback doesn't see it or the DB doesn't play as well — there are too many factors where you can be great but get overshadowed. It's the same thing with basketball. You can never miss a shot, but if you never touch the ball, there's not much you can do. When it comes to track, it's always just kind of you, a gun and your lane," said Tinch.

The big league

During his time at Pitt State, Tinch became the fastest collegiate athlete breaking the record for the 110m hurdles and becoming the World Leader with a time of 12.96 — the first collegiate athlete to break a sub-13 second time.

This year, Tinch had a new hurdle to take on — the 2024 Olympics.

"It was a new experience. It's something that as a track athlete it's what you always dream of attempting to represent your country and it's what most people understand track and field to be," said Tinch.

"When you ask the average person about track the only thing they ever think happens is the Olympics. They tend to think people just never compete and then every four years everyone says, 'Hey, let's go run it up on the oval for a couple weeks,' so obviously that's our biggest goal to represent our country there because it's the biggest experience for us."

Despite missing the chance to compete for Team USA on the big stage, Tinch said that it was a learning experience and he knows he has other opportunities ahead.

"It didn't go as I planned but it was an experience that I will learn from and grow from and hopefully next time I won't be in this same position when I'm on the outside looking in," said Tinch.

Up next

Tinch said that he has a full schedule ahead and will continue working to improve his time on the track.

"I've got a couple meets coming up next month in a couple different countries in Europe at the end of August and into September and then it will be into the offseason to take a break and get ready for next year," said Tinch.

Although his time competing as a collegiate athlete has come to an end, Tinch said he continues to follow a similar training regimen as when he was a student-athlete at Pitt State.

"Training is still essentially the same as when I was in college. You schedule your meets and take a peek at how far out they are. You go through run cycles and go through conditioning early and build your footspeed throughout the year and try to be ready to peak at the right times," said Tinch.

"I still train at the same college I was at, so I am still on a similar schedule as them, just a little bit delayed than the other college athletes. It's also a little bit more intense since I don't have to worry about waking up early for class and things like that."

Cordell Tinch said that despite placing fourth in the Olympic Qualifying Finals, he is more motivated than ever for his career. Submitted photos

In addition to the physical side of things, Tinch said he also takes care of his mentality leading up to a race.

"I usually am pretty laid back in all honesty. When you start overthinking, or start putting pressure on yourself, that's when you tend to run worse. I always try to just treat a big meet like another day, whether it's an Olympic Trial or just a small meet that I'm doing with the college kids to start the year. I treat them all the same because in this sport you can't control everybody else you can only control yourself. Sometimes someone is going to come out and run very fast that was unexpected and other times someone who is expected to run really fast runs really slow. You just kind of have to control what you can control and go have fun."

Tinch said that he doesn't usually focus on what he has to give up to work towards his goals, but on what he can learn from the process of training to be the best.

"It wasn't really a sacrifice, it was more of a learning experience I had to go through in taking a break from school and everything and just being around people that will help you get your mental side right. There was never really a big sacrifice I had to make besides leaving what I knew to be my norm and going back to school taking that risk. That was probably the biggest sacrifice I had to make. You get really comfortable when you're around something for a long time, so it's tough to leave it and move to the next thing," said Tinch.

However, Tinch said he knows that he would never be where he is today without his strong support system from his family, friends and the Green Bay community.

"I've always had a fantastic support group of family, friends and just people that I talk with that I always seem to learn something from. Whether it's a good interaction or a bad interaction, I always try to take something from it to learn and move forward so I am just thankful for all of it," said Tinch.

"I've always known a lot of people around Green Bay. Green Bay is such a small, big place. To other people it may seem like there are a lot of people here and it's a big city, but it almost seems like everybody knows somebody who knows somebody and there is always that kind of trickle down effect of knowing people. There are a lot of people throughout Green Bay that I have interacted with or competed against and they all just kind of remember my name so I've always just kind of known people around town," said Tinch.

"There are a lot of people that had no clue about my personality but then when I am out at the bars or at a Packers game or at the farmers market, my personality always gravitates me towards other people so a lot of people have recognized who I am, but not known anything else about me. Now I get more and more people that come up to me and say, 'Hey, I saw this,' or 'I heard this about you,' and that's a nice feeling. At the same time, sometimes when you are back at home, you just kind of want to be left alone, so there is the good and the bad."

Unforgettable experiences

As his career has taken off, Tinch has had the opportunity to travel to a variety of countries across the world including Hungary, China and a variety of other countries.

However, there are a few places in particular that Tinch said stood out.

"Going to Budapest was a great time. Budapest is a beautiful, beautiful city. I went there this year and last year. Honestly, my favorite would probably be Monaco. Monaco was probably the first time I fully escaped my shell and was finally able to enjoy myself. It was the first time it didn't feel like a business trip. Don't get me wrong, I was still there for a job, but I was also there to let loose and have fun. I got to celebrate my birthday in a whole new country, so that just really added to the whole atmosphere of the trip," said Tinch.

At the end of the day, Tinch said that the biggest lesson he has learned through all of his experiences has been to always look forward and move on from your mistakes.

"I definitely learned that we are all competitive — track and field is a very, very, very competitive sport. But at the same time, you can't worry about every little thing that happens because there are going to be a lot of ups and downs throughout the season. One bad race does not define your year, but also one good race does not define your year," said Tinch.

Phoenix Volleyball receives AVCA Team Academic Award for 10th straight year

BY GREEN BAY ATHLETICS FOR THE PRESS TIMES

LEXINGTON — Last week the 2024 AVCA Team Academic Awards, sponsored by INTENT were announced. For the 10th year in a row, the Green Bay volleyball team received recognition.

More than 1,400 collegiate and high school volleyball programs maintained a year-long grade-point average of 3.3 on a 4.0 scale (or 4.1 on a 5.0 scale), to earn the award for their classroom excellence during the recently completed academic year.

"We are pleased that the record-setting success of the 2023-24 season on the court has extended to the classroom, too, as evidenced by more programs earning the Team Academic Award than ever before," says AVCA

CEO Jaime Gordon. "This is a great example of how committed our coaches are when it comes to helping their players reach their full potential as both students and athletes."

ent on their team and how veterans and rookies alike are continuously working to prove their role on the team.

Going into his ninth season with the Packers, veteran Kenny Clark earning a contract extension this season solidifies the Packers defense with a strong leader.

"Kenny is the model of consistency with everything he does in his approach," said LaFleur.

"Just the work he puts in. You can always count on him each and every Sunday. I am really happy and ecstatic that we got that done."

In addition, LaFleur said that first round Draft pick and 2024 rookie Jordan Morgan is working his way into his own role on the team amid his first season in the NFL — wherever that may be.

"Only time will tell. I would like to find a home for him (Morgan) but I think that over time we have seen the value in cross-training these guys. You've got to move guys around to get the top five out there, but he is certainly capable of doing whatever we ask him to do," said LaFleur.

As Camp progresses and the Packers inch closer to taking the field at Lambeau, LaFleur said the team has to keep in mind that it is a process and there are necessary steps they have to take to get back to their peak performance as a group.

"To me it really starts when you get the pads on. There are some rules of engagement along the way. At the end of the day we need to get better and work together in every phase and keep people healthy. It's about being a great teammate first and foremost and pushing each other to get better," said LaFleur.

"I think there is a clear vision for what we can be and what we want to do. Obviously, there are going to be things that turn up along the way and you are going to have to be able to adjust. That's the beauty of having some guys with some experience now is that when you need to pivot, you can count on them to be able to do so."

The bottom line, according to LaFleur, is putting in the work and holding yourself accountable are the most important things he is looking for from his team in the coming weeks.

"Nothing is going to be given to you in this League. It all comes with putting in the work and taking it day by day. You've just got to continue to stay together and stay connected."

PRESENTS Senior Spotlight

Erin Schuch, Ashwaubenon High School, swimming

Parents' names: Bill and Cathy Schuch
Siblings: Matthew Schuch
Insta: @erin.schuch
Position or events: 200, 500 freestyle
Career highlight: Winning a state title in the 500 freestyle this past year.

At what age did you start playing your main sport?

Seven years old.

Who introduced you to the sport?

My parents. We had a cottage in Lakewood that was on a private lake. Because there was no recreational water activity I was able to swim across the lake often with my mom. I started doing this around five and ever since then I've loved the water.

Has this always been your favorite sport?

Yes.

How has balancing academics and athletics been different for you from your freshman year to your senior year?

It's definitely been more of a struggle as I've gotten older. I also run track and training for that through winter while also swimming six nights a week is very tough. As the classes get harder so does balancing it all but it's very rewarding to be able to do both.

What is your favorite part about this sport? What about it has caused you to stick with it for this long?

My favorite part about this sport is how hard it is. Which I know sounds crazy but I am drawn to hard work. The feeling of accomplishment after a killer workout is hard to beat. The discipline and consistency that swimming, and especially distance swimming, provides is what draws me in most. I've also met so many of my best friends through the sport so the camaraderie of it all is also a big factor for me.

Is there a professional athlete you look up to? If so, who?

Yes, Katie Ledecky of course. She has been the best in the game for so long. I also admire her humility. You can tell she is a leader on Team USA and really important to the young people coming up each year.

What would you say is your biggest asset in the water?

My biggest asset is my faith and my mindset. I'm a big believer in "if you believe you can, you will." I don't have to be the fastest or strongest in the pool I just have to want it the most and I will succeed. I also recognize that failure is inevitable and with a faith in God to fall on, I understand those moments of failure don't define me.

What has been your most memorable experience in high school sports so far?

It would make sense to say my State win, but probably racing and placing second with my freshman and sophomore year 200 and 400 freestyle relay team. Those girls got me through my first years of high school. There's no magic quite like racing with your best friends and siezing records and All-State awards.

How does it feel as a senior, to look back throughout high school and see your growth (as a person and athlete)?

It feels amazing. I was a relay only swimmer at state my freshman year. I missed the cut in the 100 fly by one place and I was heartbroken. I'm so glad I went through that though because it makes my successes that much more special. It's been a lot of mental work to get to now but I wouldn't trade it for the world.

Do you have any pre-match rituals/routines/superstitions?

Before a distance race, I listen to SZA and do some yoga.

Do you take any extra steps to prepare for a big match/game/meet, outside of regular practices?

Yes, I use visualization as a tool, which is something that my club coach taught me. You start a timer, close your eyes and visualize a specific race, troubleshooting the time it would take you and try and get it on or as close to your PR as possible. This is proven to be just as beneficial as physically swimming the race.

I also lift and do yoga.

Any memorable coaches or teammates you'd like to give a shout out to?

Yes, my best friend and teammate for the last ten years; Sienna Nitke. She's off to Purdue to swim in less than a month. Love you lots Si!

Any hobbies outside of sports?

I play guitar, sing and write songs.

Favorite song?

"Better Man" by Taylor Swift.

Sports drinks like Gatorade and Powerade or water?

Zoa Energy (please sponsor me!)

What is a fun fact about yourself?

I can walk on my hands for 20 yards.

Future Plans? (college, major, career, etc.)

I am going through the recruiting process right now. I hope to commit by fall.

Alter your skewed perception

By Jay Luck

SAVE 25% when you mention this ad

“By engineering our minds to focus on positive habits, patterns, and beliefs, we are able to essentially remove the previous bad habits.”

There are many people caught up in distractions and not living their true purpose. They struggle to cope with personalities and relationships so much so that their own life suffers. They perpetually repeat the same patterns wondering why things never change.

Why is this? A skewed perception.

Imagine if you could see the best in yourself, succeeding at what you thought you could not. By engineering our minds to focus on positive habits, patterns, and beliefs, we are able to essentially remove the previous bad habits.

During the hypnosis process, people are taught how to get out of their way and learn how to be in control of their own subconscious mind. To do so, people must go through the “steps of change” process. It sounds daunting, but it’s quite easy when using the technique of hypnosis.

The steps consist of the levels the client works through before breakthroughs can be made. The first step is to finally admit they have a problem or bad habit they want to work on.

To take the hypnosis process further and have more in-depth experiences, try a hypnosis workshop!

If you want better direction and success in your career or less stress and more enjoyment out of life, hypnosis workshops may be able to help. You may look up more, breathe deeper, and step confidently into the new natural.

Some things that are addressed at hypnosis workshops may include:

- Five ways body is influenced by thought
- Components of sustainable change
- Goal direction
- Four instant behavior transformers
- Identifying false perceptions

Even if you’ve tried almost everything up to this point without success, hypnosis can help you achieve your goals. Change your bad habits today! ↗

Jay Luck, Master Hypnotist and NLP Consultant, can be reached at 612-868-8177 and online at www.wisconsinhypnosiscenter.com for on-stage, in-clinic corporate training, and boardroom transformations in 17 states and Canada.

We teach our clients: They Do, They Win. We offer free screenings to determine if you’re a good match for hypnosis and even offer which services can guarantee success. Four times a year, we offer amazing classes for students or clients who want to add this as an additional skill in their current career or to become hypnotists. Some classes are designed for marketing professionals and salespeople to increase their skills and their relatedness to their clients. We call this class “Perceptioneering”, and it teaches students to be able to read others more effectively than ever.

Here are examples from our clients: “I used to feel stressed and angry all the time... Now I feel less stressed and happier than I was in many years. Hypnosis helped me gain more confidence around other people.” “I used to need the comfort of food most of the time. I ate when I was happy, sad, alert, tired, anxious...it was my go-to. Now I’m saying food is a necessity, a health aide, not a constant companion. I have more energy, and I don’t get that sluggish feeling from filling up on junk food or overeating in general. I crave healthy food, and it’s a pleasure to sit down and do a meal that I know is enough and consists of choices that are good for me physically and mentally.”

Cordell Tinch: Disappointment fuels passion

BY TORI WITTENBROCK

GREEN BAY – One of the biggest up-and-coming athletes in the world, Bay Port graduate Cordell Tinch, recently experienced a slight setback in his career, but according to him, it's only motivation to keep pushing forward.

After suffering the heart wrenching disappointment of placing fourth at the Olympic Qualifying Trials in the Finals for the 110m hurdles in Eugene, Or. with a time of 13.03 — missing the cut for Paris by just 0.07 — Tinch said that although it didn't go his way this year, he has high goals for his career going forward.

“My current goal is to never miss another global team that I am competing for. Whether it is an indoor worlds team, an outdoor worlds team, an Olympic team or a world relay team. I plan on if there is another Qualifying to go represent Team USA, I will no longer watch it on TV, I will be there in person,” said Tinch.

From the beginning

The Pitt State alum said that although he has always been athletic and taken an interest in other sports, track has always been his true passion.

“I played basketball, football and ran track as I grew up. I was just kind of drawn to track with the individuality of it. Knowing as a wide receiver I can go run the

During his time competing at Pitt State, Tinch became the fastest ever collegiate athlete with his sub-13 second 110m hurdle time and the world leader with a time of 12.96 seconds. Submitted photo

Training Camp in full swing

BY TORI WITTENBROCK

GREEN BAY – Training Camp is back in full swing for the Packers as the 2024 season quickly approaches.

After taking the youngest NFL team to the Divisional Round of the postseason, the Packers return this season with even more experience and promise than last season.

“It's good to have everyone back. We've got a lot of work to do. We've got a great group of guys and a great locker room but we have a lot of work to do to get to where we want to be,” said Green Bay Packers General Manager Brian Gutekunst.

“We've got a lot of talent, but it will be up to them. They need to put in the work and the sacrifices that they need to sacrifice.”

Packers Head Coach Matt LaFleur said that his expectations are high for the team this season and he is excited to see the team back in action as players continue to make their return to the field.

“Whether you're a young player or a veteran, when you get to camp, you want everybody out there. Certainly, there are some players that can't be out there for one reason or another, but you just have to be able to adjust and adapt. That's the nature of the beast. We are confident that they will all be out there sooner or later,” said LaFleur.

Going into Day One, LaFleur said that he can sense the anticipation of the team and knows that each player is doing their part to put in the work and prepare for the season.

“I think the overall vibe of the team is great. We had a great team meeting yesterday. There is a lot of energy in the building right now. I just think any time you talk about the character of the football team and why that's so important, you can feel it from our guys,” said LaFleur.

“We've all got a lot to work on.” LaFleur also said that transitioning back into the mindset and preparedness for season is a long process that takes time and motivation to reach a point that will lead them to success on the field.

LaFleur said, “We always follow the objectives of football camp. Getting back into football shape and forging our identity and getting ready for week one and beyond. That's a big part of it. I think the connection on the team is paramount. That's why we have all these guys in the same place together. Give them a little bit more time with one another.”

According to LaFleur expectations are higher than ever for each player from an individual standpoint.

“I think that everything we do matters. How much work we put in, how deliberate we are about our practices, how intentional and mindful we are and how we go about our day. The habits that we create are going to forge the identity that we want to feel,” said LaFleur.

“I think they are energized. I think they are ready to go. I think the guys are all ready to get back at it. Ultimately, we've got to go out there and put in the work. We have to be deliberate about how we go about our business and approach every take and make sure we are constantly out there competing.”

The Packers coaching staff acknowledged the breadth of tal-

Real Rewards Checking (Real Rewards) is available for consumer deposits only. Annual Percentage Yield (“APY”) is accurate as of 1/1/2023. Real Rewards is a variable rate account. Your APY may change at any time after your account is opened, at the discretion of Nicolet National Bank. Real Rewards is a tiered rate product. If qualifications are met for the qualification cycle, Tier 1: The portion of your balance that is equal to or less than $15,000 will earn 3.00% APY. Tier 2: The portion of your balance that is over $15,000 will earn 0.01% APY. The APY for Tier 2 will range from 0.40% to 3.00%, depending on the balance in your account. If qualifications are not met for the qualification cycle, your entire balance will earn 0.01% APY. You must enroll in online banking and e-statements in order to qualify. Transactions required each qualification cycle: At least ten posted and cleared debit card transactions (ATM-processed transactions do not count as qualifying debit card transactions), and at least one posted and cleared direct deposit of payroll or social security. Disclosed APY assumes all interest remains on deposit. Fees and withdrawals of interest will reduce earnings and APY. All Nicolet National Bank checking accounts are subject to credit approval.
