School Board sends referendum to November ballot

BY MIKE WARREN EDITOR

MARSHFIELD - Voters in the Unified School District of Marshfield will decide in November if the Board of Education should spend $71.575 million on improvements at Grant Elementary and Marshfield High School.

The board voted 6-1 during a special meeting Aug. 5 to advance the referendum to the Nov. 5 ballot, which also includes national races for the White House, US Senate and Congress, as well as local State Assembly and Senate races. "We got a general number. We didn't see what's included in that general number. We didn't get the specifics on it, and that's what people are asking me. 'What specifically is included in this?' Well, I can't tell them what specifically is included in that, so that's where I have a problem," said Cathy Gorst, the only board member to vote against going to referendum for the proposed funding. "I told you at the last meeting that I wasn't comfortable with that number. I thought we could shave more off."

"But then on the flipside, if we cut out too much, when are we going to go back to the well and ask for more money? That's the struggle that I have," said Nicole Forst, who was elected to the board in April. "Where do you draw the line? Just the feedback that I've heard, seventy-one-point-five is a lot. And I said, 'Well, if you break it down by month, this is how much it should be,' then they step back a little bit. I just think it's that initial sticker shock that is hard for people to swallow."

PUBLISHER'S LETTER

Blueprint For The End Of Days

Dear Reader,

How do you want to exit this world and transition to the next?

There fundamental ways to approach the end of life, aside from extraordinary circumstances.

The first way is to grow old and do the ordinary things necessary to get along. You die with your hearing intact. You can still see clearly. Your voice remains strong. You have most, if not all, of your teeth, and your brain functions well enough to know what day it is. You can walk and manage basic needs independently. Ultimately, you pass away peacefully in your sleep.

The second path is to live life to the fullest, pushing your limits every day. Your vision diminishes, your voice weakens, and your hearing fades. You have only a few teeth left, and your body is marked with wrinkles and scars. You fought hard for good causes and never shied away from a challenge. You practically crawl to your grave, having given everything you had. You face the afterlife unafraid, with the remnants of your soul.

So, which path will you choose-the easy way, with its stately graces and comforts, or the challenging route, overcoming obstacles and conflicts, leaving the world a better place behind you?

It's your call.

Preview of six-day Central Wisconsin State Fair

BY MIKE WARREN EDITOR

MARSHFIELD - Going to the Central Wisconsin State Fair in Marshfield is like dialing up your favorite streaming service online - there's always something new being offered while those timeless classics await you as well.

The six-day fair runs Aug. 20-25 at Marshfield Fairgrounds Park, 513 E. 17th St., with the theme, "Rise & Shine: It's Fair Time."

"We have been working all vear and we are very excited about the week of activities that we have been able to assemble for you," says Executive Director Dale Christiansen, in his welcome to the 121st Central Wisconsin State Fair.

The grandstand entertainment is always one of the first schedules fairgoers will scope out ahead of time, and this year's roster should not disappoint.

"In assembling this year's lineup, we wanted to rise above what we've done in the past and still provide the stability of proven acts," Christiansen adds.

One of the best-selling rock bands of the twenty-first century is headlining this year's grandstand lineup. Daughtry is scheduled to perform on Friday, Aug. 23 at 7:30 p.m.

"We're going to a different level with bringing Daughtry into town and we're hoping to have the place packed," Christiansen told us in a recent interview.

Country artist Dylan Scott kicks off the grandstand schedule on Wednesday, Aug. 21 at 7:30 p.m.

Back by popular demand, rock tribute band Hairball returns on Thursday, Aug. 22 at 7:30 p.m.

"They've been with us for several years, and people that have come to see them just keep saying, 'Bring them back please,' so they're doing well for us, so Hairball's back again," Christiansen said.

Tickets for all three shows include gate admission if purchased prior to entering the fair.

"If you buy a VIP package, which gets you down on the ground in front of the stage, Dylan's tickets for VIP are seventyfive dollars," said Christiansen. "That includes your gate admission and two beverage tickets. Hairball, their tickets are forty-five for VIP. Daughtry's VIP tickets are at eighty-dollars."

For the Dylan Scott show, trackside seating is $45 and grandstand seats are $35.

For Hairball, the trackside price is $35 and the grandstand price is $25. For Daughtry, trackside seating will cost $50 and a grandstand ticket runs $40.

The weekend's grandstand attractions include the Rice Rodeo Company's Bulls, Broncs 'n Barrels show on Saturday, Aug. 24 at 7:30 p.m. and the Obsession with Destruction Demolition Derby on Sunday, Aug. 25 at 2 p.m. Each show will charge $25 for adults (13 & up) and $15 for children ages 5-12. Kids ages 4 and under are admitted free of charge.

The opening night of the fair will feature the always-popular Dress-A-Cow contest on Tuesday, Aug. 20 at 7 p.m. in the Jer Lang Show Palace, with the theme, "Dancing Out the Barn Door."

"After Dress-A-Cow, there's going to be a farmer Olympics," Christiansen told us. "They're looking at putting children's teams together, adult teams together, and they even had the idea if maybe some businesses would get some teams to compete against each other. I've heard throw a bale of hay and a number of different activities that are going to be taking place, so we're real excited about having that going on down there."

As always, Wednesday at the fair means Senior Citizen and Veterans Appreciation Day. Those folks are admitted for just $5. Also on Aug. 21, the Visit Marshfield Family Entertainment Tent will feature the Hayes Boys Orchestra and The Memories at 11:30 a.m., and at 3:15 and 4:30 p.m., respectively.

"The Memories are a staple for Senior Day," says Christiansen. "They kind of stepped in when Howie Sturtz retired, and Howie was here for years and now The Memories are doing the same."

Wednesday, Aug. 21 will also feature the Junior Fair's Market Animal Sale at 6:30 p.m. in the Jer Lang Show Palace.

On Thursday, Aug. 22, the Family Entertainment Tent schedule includes the Eau Claire-based Gator's Band providing a variety of songs from eight different decades, Medford native Jackson Taylor performing early-to-mid-2000s country music, Marshfield's own Hub City Jazz, and Appleton rock band Bad Habitz.

The Entertainment Tent lineup for Friday, Aug. 23 will feature the country sound of Dawn Marie from 1 to 3:30 p.m.. performances by Marshfield's Main Street Conservatory of Dance between 4 and 5 p.m. and cover band Star Six Nine from 9 p.m. to midnight.

The Foxfire Affair, Universal Dance

Pig and duck races from Pleasure Valley Farm in Adell will be featured during a high-energy show for kids of all ages at the Central Wisconsin State Fair, in Marshfield Aug. 20-25.

Visiting a smaller, historic Marshfield

BY THOM GERRETSEN CONTRIBUTING WRITER

MARSHFIELD -- I recall that Marshfield, Wisconsin sent a congratulatory Marshfield, letter to Massachusetts when it celebrated its 350th birthday in 1990. Even if we had sent our mayor there, however. I have doubts he would have arrived at the anniversary event on time.

I'd blame heavy traffic from nearby Boston when I tried my own pilgrimage in 2019 on a larger trip with my wife Jean. I fought occasional bumper-tobumper traffic to Cape Cod on a Saturday afternoon until I turned around. Otherwise, I may have missed the first pitch of a Red Sox baseball game at Fenway Park.

Fast forward to July 2024. As I planned a road trip to the Major League Baseball All-Star Game in Arlington, Texas I found another Marshfield I didn't know existed: It's in southwest Missouri, around miles east of Springfield. I couldn't reach the last Marshfield I tried visiting, so I was determined to see this one.

Missouri's version has about one-third of the residents as Wisconsin's. I posed with a city entry sign that listed 6,633 residents. But according to Wikipedia, that was as of the 2010 U.S. Census. The 2020 Census listed 7,458. Incorporated in 1856, it is 16 years older than its Wisconsin namesake.

This community's famous resident is Edwin Hubble: His numerous discoveries as an astronomer included NASA's Hubble Space Telescope. A smaller-scale replica of the telescope is near the center of the downtown courthouse square. Webster County Administrator Public Danielle Boggs couldn't wait to give me a proper showing.

I wish I could have arrived in town earlier than I did. Not surprisingly, much of Marshfield was quiet around 5:15 p.m. Friday, July 12. However, I wasn't going to deny myself an early afternoon walk in the majestic Ozarks on the panoramic, municipalowned Bluff View Trail in Wildwood, MO.

In checking out the square, I stepped to a main courthouse entrance and tugged on a locked door. After others went home Boggs -- an elected county official - answered and asked if I needed help. Missouri's public administrators advocates for the mentally developmentallydisabled, elderly with They're dementia, etc. also court-appointed representatives descendants' estates and guardians when no one else can care for those unable to care for themselves.

and said I just wanted to learn a little more about her community. I felt as if I gave her some relief. Boggs knew that Wisconsin's Marshfield was larger but she didn't know that the city's Clinic headquarters has hundreds of physicians in an integrated health system with more than 1,600 providers in around 60 locations in the Badger State and Upper Michigan.

Hubble isn't Marshfield,

Boggs also made sure I knew that Marshfield streets show part of the route for the Historic Route 66. Before meeting her, I found a logo marker on the square. I also spotted several monuments that honor local veterans. I saw an informative state historical marker about Webster County. A gazebo remembers the Marshfield Concert Band from 1903-28.

MO's only claim to fame. It's also the county seat of Webster County, named for Daniel Webster. He represented New England in Congress and was U.S. secretary of state under Presidents William Henry Harrison, John Tyler and Millard Fillmore. Webster once lived in Marshfield, MA. Also, this city is next to Interstate-44 which goes through the Missouri Ozarks. Perhaps it's why it has more chain dining choices than you see here.

I also learned that this place is Missouri's highest county seat in the Ozarks at 1,490 feet above sea level. Boggs also said I was about a week late for the city's biggest annual event; the 145th annual Independence Day Parade. She said it has taken place longer than any such July 4 parade west of the Mississippi River. Missouri Gov. Mike Parson was this year's Grand Marshal. Boggs also gave me a drone photo highlight.

The area also has a dairy farming heritage: The Hosmer Dairy Farm Historic District near Marshfield is in the National Register of Historic Places. So is the Rainey Funeral Home Building in the city limits. Before leaving, Boggs encouraged me to grab a copy of the city's 132-yearold weekly newspaper, the Marshfield Mail published on Wednesdays, just like this one.

I haven't researched the numbers of Marshfields across the U.S.: Some are cities, some towns, and the Boston area Marshfield is made up of eight villages and six zip codes at the junction of Cape Cod Bay and Massachusetts Bay.

I just know that with a local leader's help, I thoroughly enjoyed visiting this Marshfield.

WOOD COUNTY – A Wausau man is dead after the motorcycle he was operating collided with a vehicle driven by an elderly woman, who pulled out in front of him. The crash occurred shortly after 7 p.m. on Aug. 8 at Highways 10 and N in the Township of Milladore.

According to the Wood County Sheriff's Department, 60-year-old Alonzo B. Dvorak of Wausau and his passenger were traveling east on Highway 10 when a car driven by 86-year-old Marlene A. Rozar receives multiple awards

FOR HUB CITY TIMES

MADISON -Representative Donna
Rozar (R-Marshfield) has been recognized by multiple groups for her leadership and accomplishments on several issues for this legislative session.

First, Rep. Rozar – a retired nurse and nurse educator – has been named a "Friend of Family Medicine" by the Wisconsin Academy of Family Physicians. She received this award for her continued work strengthening the practice of family medicine, increasing access to care, and ensuring patient safety.

Rep. Rozar also received the "Early Detection Life Saver Award" from the Early Detection Saves Lives Coalition. The coalition gave this award to Rozar for her support of legislation promoting early detection of breast cancer (AB 117). This bill requires insurance policies to cover supplemental breast screening exams or diagnostic exams for an individual who is at increased risk of breast cancer.

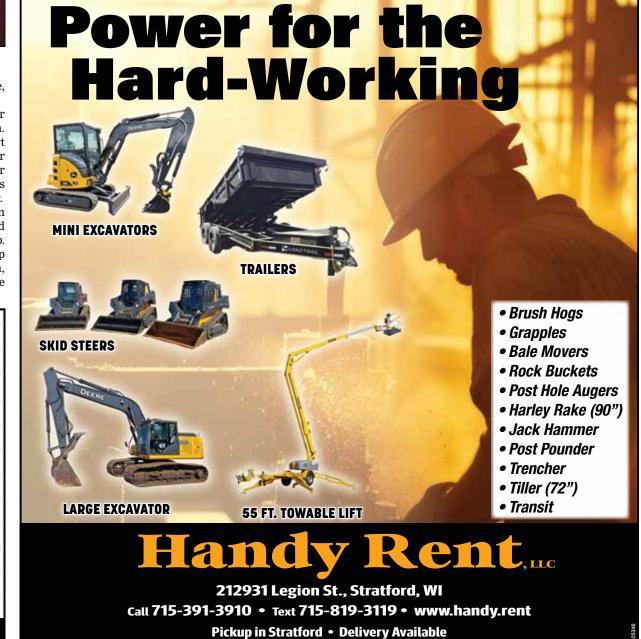

Also, the Wisconsin Primary Health Care Association and Family Health Center of Marshfield have named Rozar a "Champion of Community Health Centers." Rep. Rozar earned this recognition through her leadership as Vice-Chair of the Assembly Committee on Health, Aging, and Long-Term Care, as well as a member of the Assembly Committee on Workforce Development and Economic Opportunities to ensure community health centers have the resources needed to continue meeting the health care needs of rural Wisconsinites. Rep. Rozar was previously recognized for her leadership on issues related to community health centers in the 2021-2022 legislative session when she was named "Community Health Center State Grant Champion" by the Wisconsin Primary Health Care Association.

"I am honored to receive these awards," said Rozar. "I do not legislate to achieve awards, rather to continuously serve the people of central Wisconsin. These awards are a reminder that good policy is good politics, and the policies I advocate for in Madison are beneficial to my constituents and all Wisconsin residents. I will continue to fight for increased access to affordable quality health care for rural Wisconsinites and policies that improve our general wellbeing."

HFIELD Honoring Marshfield's 150th

Marshfield 150 for 150: Jeffrey Kleiman

NOMINATED BY DON SCHNITZLER

History professor Jeffrey Kleiman has lived in Marshfield for more than 35 years, teaching at the UW-Marshfield/Wood County Center, later UW-Stevens Point at Marshfield. During those years, he encouraged students to develop critical thinking skills, presented exceptional programs for life learners, and inspired students and community members alike to set and achieve their goals.

Accepting Marshfield's assistant professor of history position in 1988, Kleiman held a bachelor's degree from Lindenwood College, St. Charles, MA, master's from the University of Cincinnati, OH, and a doctoral from Michigan State University.

His early teaching assignments included typical lowerdivision undergraduate courses, like American History, Western Civilization and World History. His lectures focused on the complex and compelling stories of real history, and he asked his students to apply critical and analytical thinking skills - beginning the difficult task of interpreting events rather than merely repeating what they had read about them. While teaching in Marshfield, the opportunity for upper-level courses allowed Kleiman to teach in his research field of the Holocaust. His work here culminated in translating a survivor's memoir from Yiddish to English.

Kleiman developed a reputation as being a "notoriously tough grader." He remained an instructor with no compulsion to give anything but an honest grade. Yet, his classes were always filled.

In 1991, to help high school students prepare to enter college, Kleiman introduced a course, "Summer Study Skills: The Key to Academic Success." It aimed at helping students develop the ability to read books and write papers, to take notes, to take tests, set priorities, meet deadlines and to adapt to the new environment of college life.

That same year, the student body, along with the student government Senate awarded him the first of his teaching excellence awards at the Marshfield campus.

Kleiman and then Dean Nancy Auman, offered a special continuing education series entitled, "1964-1989: A Quarter Century of Usage," celebrating the 25th anniversary of University of Wisconsin-Marshfield/Wood County. Over six weeks, they discussed 25 years of changes in education, civil rights, political campaigns, lifestyle trends from hippies to yuppies, impacts of Vietnam, Watergate, Reaganomics and global challenges of the Common Market and the Third World since the campus opened.

Kleiman frequently presented continuing education courses offered on the Marshfield campus and was also often invited to speak for local organizations and at special events. His discussions provided exceptional programs for everyone on a lifelong learning journey. With topics ranging from local to global history, Kleiman delivered talks on America's religious, political and ethnic history, the Holocaust and Holocaust denial.

In 1994, Kleiman was appointed as a Wisconsin teaching fellow - one of only two faculty selected that year from the UW Centers. Wisconsin teaching fellows are selected from UW System faculty in their first ten years of college teaching who display strong potential to become outstanding teachers at the undergraduate level.

Then in 2002, Kleiman was named a U.S. Fulbright scholar and spent the 2002-2003 school year at the University of Lodz in Lodz. Poland. While there he taught a historical survey of America since 1939, the history of American business and the history of minority groups in America. During that time, he helped six Polish students complete their master's degrees, one of whom had her thesis published by Lodz University Press. He also conducted research on the Holocaust and post-World War II Europe for an intended book project.

Two years after returning to Marshfield, Kleiman was awarded a second Fulbright Scholarship, taking him back to Poland as a senior specialist with the Fulbright Program for lecturing, teaching and conducting seminars in Krakow, Warsaw and Lodz on ethnic and religious politics in the United States. He arrived in Poland to attend an international Holocaust Studies conference in Krakow. where he was invited to deliver an academic paper.

As Marshfield prepared to celebrate its 125th anniversary in 1997, Kleiman joined the Marshfield History Project, a local group interested in creating a unique and comprehensive history of Marshfield. His knowledge of history, research and writing skills provided needed guidance to help bring that history, The Marshfield Story: Piecing Together Our Past, to completion. As the major contributor he detailed the city's history from its origins as little more than a clearing alongside the railroad tracks to its status as a modern Wisconsin community. Sifting through thousands of newspaper clippings and integrating the information with state and national trends, he wrote the first five chapters of the book. With submitted stories on businesses, organizations, schools, churches, families, and special sections on Marshfield military, blacksmiths, and railroads, the book was really the first comprehensive history of the city.

In 1999, the State Historical Society of Wisconsin recognized Kleiman's efforts creating the history book with a local history award of merit. Presenting the award, State Historical Society Director, George L. Vogt, said the Marshfield History Book showed that people make history together, and that people working together "can do history." A belief underlying the project remains the role that academic historians should play in helping people make sense of how important local history can be.

An example of this came about when Kleiman served as a board member of the private, non-denominational Henry A. Praschak Memorial Fund, which raised funds to buy the statue of Jesus Christ in Praschak Wayside and the land surrounding it from the City of Marshfield. The challenge came to preserve the only statue in Marshfield's history against those who sought its complete removal.

In response to a pro-Nazi exhibit in the public library during early 2003, Kleiman, and others, founded the Marshfield Social Justice Group. This group worked to help create a welcoming environment for all people living in the Marshfield area and began the Marshfield Area Cultural Fair in the spring of 2004. This activity promoted respect and acceptance of diversity within the community and to promote community harmony. From the outset, Kleiman has actively helped develop plans and participated in most Fairs, which celebrated its 20th anniversary in 2024.

University students and community members alike have benefited from Kleiman's passion for teaching and life-long learning. The Marshfield Story and annual Marshfield Cultural Fair are significant parts of his community legacy. But the greater legacy is seeing what the students accomplished as he encouraged them to think outside of the box: to think differently, creatively and inventively throughout their lives.

Spiros receives Early Detection Life Saver Award

MADISON -- Representative John Spiros (R-Marshfield) issued the following statement after he received the Early Detection Life Saver Award for his support of legislation to increase access to breast cancer screenings for those at increased risk:

"Cancer ravages families, so anything we can do to

Rep. Spiros. "My family, just like so many out there, has been deeply affected by cancer, which makes this award profoundly personal to me."

Rep. Spiros co-authored 2023 Assembly Bill 117, which would have created new coverage requirements for health insurance policies for certain individuals for certain breast examinations, and corresponding cost-sharing limitations for those examinations. The Legislation was championed by Gail Zeamer, a member of the Early Detection Saves Lives Coalition, who passed away earlier this summer.

"While the bill did not make it over the finish line this session, I look forward to working with stakeholders to get it done in Gail's name next session," said Rep. Spiros. "Without our health, we have nothing."

schools at that point," said School Board President Mark Konrardy. "I even question at this dollar amount whether we're really doing justice to the schools. There are things that need to be taken care of. People say we didn't maintain the buildings. Come again. If you walk in those rooms and you see the equipment, that equipment is immaculate. Our staff has done a hell of a job. And if we maintain the schools, we are going to be able to give a higher education."

"I was not part of the Facilities Committee that put in hours and the examination of facilities and everything else, people that I trust, people that know about these things, I wasn't part of that committee and we have to kind of trust these people, in terms of the stuff that they've worked on," said board member Dale Yakaites.

After completing a comprehensive analysis of school facilities, Madisonbased Nexus Solutions identified districtwide needs totaling $157.2 million. The focus eventually shifted to $13.8 million in priorities at Grant Elementary and $47.7 million worth of upgrades at Marshfield High School, for a total of $61.5 million. An initial athletics/Phy. Ed. package at MHS totaling $21.7 million was pared down to $10 million, bringing the referendum funding request total to $71.5 million.

"Grant School and the high school rose to the top of our conversations because of the safety and security," said Superintendent Dr. Ryan Christianson, during a special board meeting July 29, when various building needs and referendum scenarios were first laid out for district officials by Nexus Solutions.

"Next after safety and security were infrastructure improvements. There's more work that was identified that we removed to pare down to the numbers that you're looking at here. We made some pretty painful cuts to get down to where we sit right now "

Grant Elementary priorities identified in the proposed referendum plan include air conditioning and air handling upgrades, complete lighting, roof and locker replacement, replacing and upgrading some kitchen equipment and a secured entry point and main office at the front of the school.

MHS priorities include mechanical and electrical upgrades, specifically with heating and cooling systems, replacing original air-handling units from when the school was constructed in 1968, replacing most windows and a majority of the school's doors, new roofing and kitchen equipment, and a secure entry point and office addition as part of a Commons area expansion just off the circle drive along the south side of the building.

The proposed $10 million worth of Phy. Ed. and athletics improvements include new gym bleachers and floors, a new wrestling room addition, a pool spectator area, and remodeled girls' locker room. Excluded from the plans were a boys' locker room expansion and a new fitness center.

If approved, the district's current mill rate would jump from $5.11 to an estimated $6.50. District residents can find more information at marshfield. referendumfacts.org.

In April 2023, voters rejected a $99.5 building-and-remodeling million referendum which would have addressed the lion's share of the $157.2 million in needs district-wide identified by Nexus.

On July 23, Rep. Rozar was presented the 2024 Outstanding Legislator Award by the Wisconsin Counties Association. Rep. Rozar received this award due to her commitment and leadership on responsible public policy initiatives that support county government and improve Wisconsin. One example is 2023 Wisconsin Act 68, relating to county of residence for care management organization (CMO) facility placements. Rozar worked closely with the Wisconsin Counties Association on this legislation over the past two legislative sessions. Additionally, she fought for increased shared revenue payments to counties and other local municipalities, as well as increased nursing home reimbursements transportation funding.

"I am honored to have received this award," said Rozar. "As a legislator who also serves as a Wood County Board Supervisor, I understand the important role county governments play in people's lives. Act sixty-eight makes a necessary clarification of state statute. This law will ensure the proper county is billed for their resident's costs, streamline our CMO billing system, and save taxpayer dollars. The increases in shared revenue, nursing home reimbursement, and transportation funding were necessary to ensure county governments serve their residents efficiently."

Act 68 unanimously passed the State Assembly and Senate before Governor Evers signed it into law on Dec. 6, 2023.

DNR seeking volunteer hunter education instructors ahead of fall hunting

FOR HUB CITY TIMES

MADISON -- The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is seeking volunteers to promote safe, responsible and ethical hunting practices as hunter education instructors. Volunteer opportunities are available in all parts of the state.

Since the program's creation in 1967, more than 20,000 volunteer instructors have trained and certified more than one million hunters across Wisconsin. These efforts have helped make hunting much safer, with a 95 percent decrease in huntingrelated incidents since the program's start. In addition to shaping the future of Wisconsin's hunting tradition, becoming a volunteer instructor is a great way to obtain hands-on teaching experience, work closely with DNR staff and engage with your local community.

There are two ways to become a certified volunteer hunter education instructor. Interested volunteers can serve as apprentices under a sponsoring instructor for at least two complete courses or attend a certification training session hosted by a DNR Outdoor Skills Trainer.

Once certified, the DNR provides volunteer instructors with all the materials and equipment required to teach a hunter education course. Instructors must teach one class every three years to remain certified, although many teach more.

For more information on becoming a volunteer instructor, please contact the outdoor skills trainer in your area.

For our area, contact Linda Xiong at 715-214-4211 or reach her at 1300 W. Clairemont Ave., Eau Claire, WI 54701 or lindav.xiong@ wisconsin.gov.

Once certified, the DNR provides volunteer instructors with all the materials and equipment Wisconsin DNR photo required to teach a hunter education course.

Wisconsin State Patrol reminds drivers to keep kids safe as they head back to school

FOR HUB CITY TIMES

MADISON -- As families prepare for another school year, the Wisconsin State Patrol reminds drivers to slow down and pay attention to keep kids safe. Traffic patterns will change as school buses head back out on the roads. Plan ahead and watch for pedestrians at all times.

The Wisconsin State Patrol's August Law of the Month is school bus safety. Drivers and caregivers all have a role in ensuring kids get to and from school safely.

"Kids count on their community to keep them safe as they go to and from school," Superintendent Tim Carnahan said. "Their safety must be everyone's top priority. Drivers need to be aware of their surroundings and eliminate distractions, and caregivers should talk with children about bus safety. We all have to work together and stay alert to prevent tragedies."

There are about 600 crashes involving school buses every year in Wisconsin.

Simple ways drivers can protect kids

School buses stop frequently, and children can be unpredictable. Drivers need to use extra caution when they see a vellow bus on the road. School buses are the only type of vehicle with a specific color required by state law. The national school bus glossy yellow color allows for high visibility for other drivers on the roads.

The school bus loading and unloading area is the most dangerous for pedestrians, so always pay attention to a bus when the stop arm is extended or warning lights are engaged. Also watch for kids waiting at driveways and those walking or biking to or from school.

Wisconsin law requires drivers to use extra caution around school buses:

Flashing red lights: Stop at least 20 feet away, in both directions, from a bus when red warning lights are flashing; the only exception is if you are traveling on the other side of a divided road

Flashing amber/yellow lights: Slow down when amber or yellow lights are flashing, which signal the bus is about to stop and red lights will soon be activated; drivers can pass a bus with amber lights activated but should do so cautiously

Yield to pedestrians who have a walk

signal or green light, or those who are crossing a road with no signals

Always follow directions from school crossing guards

When passed illegally, bus drivers are authorized to report violations to law enforcement. A citation for failure to stop for a school bus costs $326.

Safety conversations with kids

Caregivers should incorporate safety conversations into their family's back to school plans. Talk with children about bus stop safety and general walking or biking precautions.

Children should:

Follow instructions from bus drivers and crossing guards

Play it SAFE: Stay at least five giant steps (at least 10 feet) away from the curb when waiting for the bus; Always wait until the bus comes to a complete stop and the driver signals to get on the bus; Face forward after finding a seat on the bus; Exit the bus after it stops and look left-right-left for cars before crossing a street

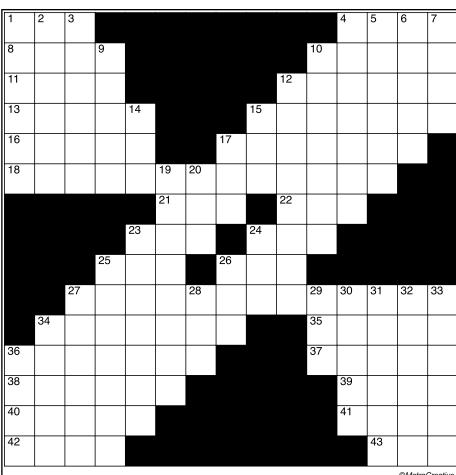

Never walk behind a bus; if a child must cross in front of a bus, tell them to walk on a sidewalk or along the side of the street to a place at least ten feet or five giant steps in front of the bus before crossing; make eye contact with the bus driver before crossing; never stop to pick up an item because the driver might not see them

School buses are designed to be one of the safest vehicles on the road, and drivers receive special training to safely operate a bus. Drivers must pass the Commercial Driver License (CDL) exam with a school bus endorsement. Some bus companies and school districts also hold regular new driver and continuing education programs to ensure safety rules are followed.

In addition, the Wisconsin State Patrol inspects every Wisconsin school bus annually to ensure the vehicles are ready to safely transport children. They conduct about 10,000 inspections each year, evaluating a broad array of mechanical equipment including steering components, brake systems, wheels, tires and structural components. In addition, specially trained inspectors verify that all school bus-specific safety components such as, emergency exits, emergency lighting and stop arms, and other passenger safety items are in place and in proper working order.

After a summer of tune-ups, inspections and cleanings, school buses across the state are ready to once again hit the roads for another school year. Kobussen Buses photo
