You made it!

On behalf of the communities surrounding it, welcome to Horicon Marsh.

Spring and summer are ideal times to visit, as you'll be awarded beautiful views of this region's most prized natural possession no matter where you spend your time.

The Marsh was created by the Green Bay lobe of the Wisconsin glaciation during the Pleistocene era. The glacier, during its advance, created many drumlins (a glacial landform) in the region, many of which have become the islands seen throughout Horicon Marsh. It's believed the Marsh, through which the Rock River flows from north to south, and surrounding Dodge County have the highest concentration of drumlins in the world.

Believed to be the largest freshwater cattail marsh in the country (32,000 acres), it was dammed to create Lake Horicon in the mid-1800s, but was restored as a marsh by 1869. In 1927, a bill was passed in the Wisconsin State Legislature turning ownership of the lower portion of the Marsh to the state. A fire destroyed much of the Marsh in the early 1930s, but a restoration project was able to save the natural space. It was reopened to the public in 1935 after being closed roughly two years. In 1940, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service purchased the northern portion of the Marsh. Ever since, the state and federal government have managed and curated their respective properties. The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources serve as stewards of the southern third, and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service manages the upper two-thirds.

Horicon Marsh is perhaps best known for its incredible showing of migratory birds every spring and summer. People travel from across the world to see scores of geese, herons, ducks and dozens more birds that make Dodge County their home during the warmest months.

Fowl hunters also flock by the thousands to the Marsh. Hunting for geese and ducks is permitted in the statemanaged portion of the Marsh and several historic hunting clubs still manage properties abutting the Marsh.

Surrounding the Marsh, visitors will find pastoral fields of green, both the leaves on the trees and the rolling farmland of Dodge County. A culture rich with agricultural history, a short drive away from the Marsh will reveal rustic family farms and plenty of high vantage points (especially at the county's Ledge Park).

There are several places to stay if you plan to spend more than a day in the area, including inns, motels, parks, campgrounds and bed and breakfasts.

While in the area, be sure to visit the Horicon Marsh Education and Visitor Center and the Horicon Marsh National Wildlife Refuge.

Bikers and hikers can make a day of the Gold Star Memorial trail, which connects the City of Mayville and the City of Horicon with a passage through the Marsh..

Each community surrounding the Horicon Marsh offers something unique from local festivals and events including concerts, parades, picnics and tractor pulls. There's no shortage of both weekend and weekday events, so reference the pages of this Visitor Guide, look online or ask a local for the day's main event.

Whether you are biking, hiking, canoeing, bird watching or visiting one of our local shops or restaurants, there is something for everyone visiting the Horicon Marsh area. We hope you enjoy your visit!

VISIT OUR COMMUNITIES

Horicon, City on the Marsh

Located within an easy commute from Milwaukee, Madison or Oshkosh is the City of Horicon – the City on the Marsh.

Horicon Marsh not only laps against the banks of Horicon residences, but it flows through the city in the form of the Rock River.

Canoe or kayak launches are available at several spots within city limits with access to both the Rock River and the Horicon Marsh. Start at Bowling Green Park in Downtown Horicon, grab a community canoe or kayak and use the all-needs launch to start your journey down river or north into the Marsh. Lifejackets are also provided. There are also public boat landings and access points off Chester and Nebraska Streets. Onemile Island Trail is accessible from the Nebraska launch and parking lot.

For those in the city for birding, there are bluebird houses at some of the Horicon parks. Horicon was named a "Bird City Wisconsin" starting in spring of 2012, and some species can be seen in any of Horicon's eight city parks (geese, herons, cranes and ducks all frequent the city). Some parks are ideal for a small picnic, while others include playground equipment, ball fields, tennis courts and even a disc golf course.

Shore and dock fishing – with a state-required license – are allowed in any Horicon park with access to water (unless signage explicitly states otherwise).

If you're hungry, Horicon has several family-friendly options and some late-night eateries, as well. Famous fish fries, broasted chicken and delicious burgers are the norm around here, so check downtown for your specific style.

Want to cool down with an ice cream cone? Horicon is known for the Ice Cream Station, which is located in on the north end of Downtown Horicon and has more than 25 varieties of Cedar Crest Ice Cream served in cones, bowls or dishes.

If the heat is still a bit much, head over to the City of Horicon Aquatic Center (in Discher Park), which features water slides, a diving board and kiddie pool.

If you want to catch a game, Horicon's American Legion baseball team plays its home games at Discher Park throughout the summer months.

The School District of Horicon, which recently renovated its sporting facilities, features athletic programs throughout the spring and summer months, many of which are free to view. Take a walk on the brand new track, or check with the school about recreation opportunities during your visit; they provide open gyms, pickleball and more.

The single-campus school building also has a greenhouse, the plants in which are cultivated by local students for sale to the general public. If you happen to be around during the plant sale, please take home a some foliage!

If visiting on a Wednesday during the dog days of summer, you must stop at Kiwanis Park for the farmers market and free concert. The Horicon Phoenix Program sponsors a series called Music at the Market, which features a local and traveling acts starting at 6 p.m. alongside an accompanying the market. Bring lawn chairs or blankets; seating is limited! The farmers market runs from 4-8 p.m. Fun and educational programs for the kids start at 6 p.m. (hosted by the Horicon Public Library).

A shelter and bathroom facility is located at Horicon's North Palmatory Street overlook, which features some of the most stunning views of the Horicon Marsh. There are hiking trails near the overlook, several of which connect to the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resource's Horicon Marsh Education and Visitor Center.

Also, the always-popular Iron Ridge Fire Department Picnic, which runs in August, should not be missed. The weekendlong festival includes a free corn roast, delicious food, games and tournaments, live music and fireworks. Located just a few miles south of Horicon in the Village of Iron Ridge, it's well worth the trip to see one of the state's best volunteer-run multi-day festivals.

More information on some of these events is included in this free Visitor Guide publication.

Make It Mayville

Make Mayville your destination this spring and summer!

With beautiful views of the Rock River, a trip to the city known as the Gateway to the Marsh should start in historic Downtown Mayville. Grab a delicious beverage at a local, community-based coffeehouse, stroll along Main Street enjoying multiple boutiques and eateries and maybe even play a few frames at the local bowling alley.

There are plenty of restaurants and taverns along the way suiting all needs, and between the antique stores, art houses, spas and salons, some visitors never have to leave Mayville's main drag. Each summer, a portion of a block is restricted from traffic and named Park Square (Main at Allen Street). There, visitors can enjoy food and beverage along with live music. Park Square opens at the end of May.

Mayville's new public library, Ted & Grace Bachhuber Memorial Library, opened in the fall of 2023. The new location continues to offer a huge selection of books, movies and history, as well as a fun-filled children's area with puzzles, puppets, activities and stories for families to share. Programs for all age groups happen year round.

Young families can also take advantage of the many parks and green spaces in the city. Take a stroll across the footbridge passing over the Rock River and visit the Veterans Memorial. Find names of local service men and women and read the dedications written by family and friends.

Follow the river bank and cast a line into the Rock River under the shade of the massive oak trees that rival the beautiful Park Pavilion for tallest stature.

A kayak launch, with free-to-use kayaks donated by the Mayville Rotary Club, is a popular park attraction, located immediately south of the pavilion on the Rock River and is open to the public. Continue up the hill to Lions Point Park and enjoy the playground equipment, volleyball courts, disc golf course and picnic area.

Around the bend, visitors will find Firemens Field baseball diamond. Take in a local school or Legion league game, or run the bases and enjoy the view of the rolling hills of the Mayville Golf Course just beyond the outfield.

Hike or bicycle on the first phase of the Gold Star Memorial Trail which extends from Theiler Park to the Horicon Marsh Education and Visitor Center – a 2.1 mile asphalt path along Hwy 28 boasting views of rolling farmlands.

The TAG Center, a state-of-the-art 46,000 square foot aquatic and fitness facility is open to the public. It is located on the west side of town offering many activities for people of all ages. More information, including several day pass options, is online at mayvilletagcenter.com.

History abounds in this small town, and museums are abundant to honor the people, industry and places through the decades. There are several local museums and historical societies, many of which have open hours during the summers. Check with each local chapter on access to their grounds and exhibits.

Mayville has many events throughout the spring and summer to attract visitors from near and far. Concerts, biergartens, farmers markets and community celebrations ensure good food and fun. Audubon Days is not to be missed and will run this year from Sept. 13-15.

Outdoor dining on Main Street encourages patrons to savor the tastes and sounds of small town charm, while ensuring that not one minute of the warmer weather passes by unrelished.

From the rolling Rock River to Music on Main to concerts in Foster Park, this small town has a lot to offer residents and visitors of all ages.

It is sure to be a good time.

Love Birding? Check Out the Horicon Marsh Bird Club!

The Horicon Marsh Bird Club was organized in 1994 for the purpose of studying and sharing with others the rich bird life of Horicon Marsh and eastern Wisconsin.

Through regularly scheduled field trips, meetings and other activities, members develop a better understanding and deeper appreciation of the diversity of birds and their important habitats around us.

Although the club is primarily focused on education and observation of birds, members are offered the opportunity to become involved in a variety of conservation projects and important wildlife surveys, which will help monitor the status of birds and aid in managing their populations and habitats.

From backyard birdwatchers to field ornithologists and researchers, bird club activities are available for novice and expert birders alike. Families and youth are encouraged to join in observing and studying Wisconsin birds.

All bird club activities are open to the general public. Monthly programs are held the third Thursday from September to May at 6:30 p.m. Meetings are held at the Horicon Marsh International Education Center, located on Hwy. 28, between the cities of Horicon and Mayville. Field trips are offered throughout the year to a variety of locations and habitats to experience and learn about the birds of the area.

Members are involved in monitoring some of the bird populations at Horicon Marsh and other locales to supplement surveys conducted by Wisconsin DNR and other researchers.

The Horicon Marsh Bird Club assists in organizing and conducting the annual bird festival at Horicon Marsh. This weekend-long event is held each May at the peak of the spring bird migration. This year's festival runs May 10-13. Register for events or see the free activities available at horiconmarshbirdclub.com/bird-festival.

Bird Club members receive a monthly newsletter detailing Horicon Marsh Bird Club activities and information about Wisconsin birds.

Over the years, more than 300 species of birds have been sighted at Horicon Marsh, and it regularly attracts some of Wisconsin's rarest birds.

At the National Wildlife Refuge, public access is limited in this portion of the marsh in order to protect the wildlife for which it has been established. However, most of the state area of Horicon Marsh is open to the public.

One of the best ways to explore this area is by canoe or shallow draft boat. Please be aware of designated restricted use and closed areas.

Follow the club on Facebook, facebook.com/pages/Horicon-Marsh-Bird-Club, and visit their website at horiconmarshbirdclub.com.

Explorium has Something for Everyone

A couple of birders check their books at the Horicon Marsh Education & Visitor Center and Explorium located between the cities of Horicon and Mayville.

The Explorium is a fun and educational feature for all ages at the Horicon Marsh Education and Visitor Center. Tickets can be purchased in person.

Whether you like history, hiking, herons or hearing about hunters and the hunted, you'll want to head to Horicon for a self-guided tour of the Explorium at the Horicon Marsh Education and Visitor center.

The Horicon Marsh Education and Visitor Center is located off Hwy 28 between Horicon and Mayville, and features the Explorium, which opened in August 2015. Visitors to the center will find a charging woolly mammoth, walk-through glacier, an airboat simulator and a giant great blue heron replica.

"We're thrilled to welcome the public to the Explorium and experience all it has to offer," said former DNR Secretary Cathy Stepp. "The Explorium exhibits bring the history of Horicon Marsh to life and showcase our state's natural heritage."

Bret Owsley, DNR Southern District Director, said the $3.7 million project - made possible with nearly $1 million in donations from the private Friends group - will benefit the surrounding communities as visitor numbers grow. In addition to school field trips, youth group visits and adult tours, the Horicon Marsh Education and Visitor Center is drawing more families and individual visitors to take advantage of the offerings.

Horicon Marsh Education and The Visitor Center building was completed in 2009, but portions of the building were left largely unfinished until the planning for the interpretive displays was completed. DNR contracted with Taylor Studios of Rantoul, Ill., to design and manufacture the lifelike exhibits.

"The Explorium encourages visitors of all ages to look, listen, touch and even smell the changes in the marsh over many thousands of years," Owsley said. "We think young visitors will especially enjoy some of the special touches developed by Taylor Studios including the fresh 'mammoth' scent and replica water control gates similar to those that help us manage the marsh today.'

22,000 acres managed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service - the history of Horicon spans some 12,000 years. As visitors walk through the Explorium, the story of the marsh and its inhabitants stretching from the Ice Age through modern times is narrated by a talking Clovis spear point.

Horicon Marsh started as a network of rivers and wetlands left behind by receding glaciers and grew into the world's largest manmade lake after early settlers built a dam to power a sawmill in the 1840s. When the state Supreme Court ordered the dam removed in 1869, the marsh quickly returned and began drawing huge flocks of migratory waterfowl and other birds.

After market hunting depleted the bird populations, a short-lived attempt to ditch and drain the marsh for farming from 1910 to 1914 ended in failure. Then, during the 1920s, conservation- minded citizens pressed the Legislature for support and started a restoration process that continues to this day.

Drawing on this history, highlights of the Explorium include:

· An area depicting the receding glaciers, complete with a mammoth charging out of the wall and examples of the flint-knapped Clovis points found in these early hunting grounds.

· A walk-through glacier that creates a chill in the air as visitors learn more about the Ice Age and origins of the marsh.

• A private hunting lodge, similar to those of the late 1800s. Interactive displays show the effect of market hunting on wildlife during this time and highlight the role of local hunting clubs in trying to create the first set of hunting regulations.

· Hand-carved decoys produced by Burton Lange and John Yasger, local artisans who gained a national reputation for their work.

· Numerous bird and animal mounts as well as examples of common marsh plants.

For more information about pricing to visit the Explorium, please visit www.horiconmarsh. org or call 920-387-7890.

Entrance to the education center is free; however, a small fee is charged to visit the Explorium. Annual passes and group rates are available.

Free maps of the Horicon Marsh and other tourism information about Dodge and Fond du Lac counties are available to everyone.

Outside, nature trails and a 30-foot observation tower offer an opportunity to see many birds and enjoy the marsh.

Hours are noon to 4 p.m., Thursday and Friday, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. The center is open from mid-April through mid-December with the help of many volunteers.

Admission is $4 for adults and children 14 and younger are $2. Members are not charged. Admission is good all day. The following events have an increase charge of $5 for adults and $3 for children 14 and younger: Earth Day Celebration, Bird Festival, Fall Living History Festival, Monsters on the Marsh, Fall Wild Birds of Prey Saturdays.

Marsh Haven was designed and built for the many visitors to the Horicon Marsh. In fact, families from all 50 states and 85 foreign countries have visited this unique educational center-the largest allvolunteer nature center in the Midwest.

Starting with just a few drawings on paper in 1984, a dedicated group of volunteers began giving nature education programs and raising funds for a modern nature center on the Horicon Marsh.

Eventually, a 47-acre site was purchased in the northwest corner of Horicon Marsh and the development of trails and facilities began in earnest. Many local volunteers worked for years to develop hiking trails, the observation tower, a picnic shelter, a waterfowl pond, and an overnight bunkhouse for school and scouting groups.

Horicon Marsh Education and Visitor Center

The Horicon Marsh State Wildlife Area consists of the lower one-third of Horicon Marsh and is managed by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

A Wildlife Education Program has been conducted at the State Wildlife Area since the mid-1980s. This program focuses on the abundant wildlife resources of the marsh, their ecology and an appreciation for the outdoors. Due to the growing demand for education programs and the successes, this required a larger and more permanent facility to allow it to expand and operate on a year-round basis.

In 1992, Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) purchased the former Flyway Clinic, located along Hwy. 28, with the intent of developing this as an education center. A non-profit Friends group was established in 1994 as a fundraising organization to support this cause. The organization has also provided countless hours of volunteer assistance to the education program.

Following a long campaign, Friends of Horicon Marsh International Education Center reached its goal of raising $1.9 million toward construction of the center. The State of Wisconsin matched this through the Building Commission and additional funds were provided to DNR to renovate the office area to house its staff, creating a $4.8 million project.

Construction began in November 2007, keeping much of the original building. After 18 months of construction, the new Horicon Marsh International Education Center was completed in late March 2009. The name was changed in 2013 to Horicon Marsh Education and Visitor Center.

The Horicon Marsh Education and Visitor Center offers a beautiful large viewing area in the upper lobby along with new interactive displays and a Children's Discovery Area. The lower level has classrooms for education programs and a hunting cabin themed auditorium for groups and programs.

A previously unused portion of the Horicon Marsh Education and Visitor Center's lower level is now interactive, hands on exhibits known as the 'Explorium'.

The $3.7 million area depicts the history of Horicon Marsh through eras of significant importance. You will learn about the marsh in an interactive way that makes learning fun.

Construction of the new educational displays and hands-on exhibits took more than a year, and the displays occupy portions of both the first floor and lower level. An auditorium capable of seating 120 and two classrooms complete the lower level, which opens onto more than five miles of winding trails through a variety of habitats in the 11,000-acre state marsh.

DNR contracted with Taylor Studios of Rantoul, Ill., to design and manufacture the lifelike exhibits.

"The Explorium encourages visitors of all ages to look, listen, touch and even smell the changes in the marsh over many thousands of years," DNR Wildlife Supervisor Bret Owsley said. "We think young visitors will especially enjoy some of the special touches developed by Taylor Studios including the fresh 'mammoth' scent and replica water control gates similar to those that help us manage the marsh today."

The Horicon National Wildlife Refuge is a national treasure located in our backyard.

At more than 33,000 acres in size, the Horicon Marsh is 14 miles long and ranges in width from three to five miles. Horicon Marsh is one of the largest freshwater marshes in the United States.

The northern two-thirds of Horicon Marsh is managed by the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service as the 22,000 acre Horicon National Wildlife Refuge. The southern third of the marsh is managed by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources as Horicon Marsh State Wildlife Area. The marsh is fed by the Rock River which flows through the refuge.

The Horicon National Wildlife Refuge was established in 1941 to provide an undisturbed sanctuary for migratory birds and waterfowl including the redhead duck. In addition, the refuge provides opportunities for visitors to connect with nature through nature-centric recreational opportunities including wildlife observation, photography, hiking, bicycling, snowshoeing, cross country skiing, environmental education and interpretation, fishing and hunting.

The Horicon National Wildlife Refuge provides critical habitat for more than 300 bird species, as well as white-tailed deer, muskrats, red foxes, turtles, frogs, bats, dragonflies, fish, garter snakes and much more. The marsh is also known as an integral point in the migration of Canada geese, ducks and sandhill cranes.

An additional 70 acres of land was recently added to the northern boundary of the refuge as a land transfer from Ducks Unlimited. The area is open for all hunting seasons currently allowed on the refuge as well as to other approved recreational uses during the designated time periods outlined in the general refuge regulations. About The Marsh

Horicon Marsh is a shallow, peat-filled lake bed scoured out of limestone by the Wisconsin Glacier thousands of years ago. The same layer of rock that forms the hills to the east of the marsh extends 500 miles to the east and is the same stretch of rock over which the Niagara River plunges at Niagara Falls.

The rock extends more than 230 miles in Wisconsin alone. An impressive display in the area is often referred to as "The Ledge" which is located in Ledge Park. The Ledge is nestled between Horicon and Mayville, and offers a series of hiking trails and scenic lookouts, as well as playgrounds and camping.

GOLD STAR MEMORIAL TRAIL

Enjoy the Gold Star Memorial Trail

The Gold Star Memorial Trail is a 10-foot wide, paved, non-motorized path that aims to create a safe, offroad connection between the cities of Mayville, Horicon and Beaver Dam. The Trail has created a vital route for transportation and recreational opportunities for city and rural residents as well as visitors and tourists.

The trail also remembers those who have given their lives serving our country and their families.

The $3-4 million estimated project will be constructed over 5 phases with a goal to be mostly funded through donations and grants. The Friends of Dodge County Parks, Inc., the group behind the construction of the Wild Goose State Trail, is spearheading the fundraising efforts.

Phase 1 of the project constructed a 2.1-mile long paved, off-road path within the right of way on the north side of State Highway 28, connecting Theiler Park in Mayville to the Horicon Marsh State Wildlife Area Education and Visitor Center. Design and construction of Phase 1 was about $670,000 with most of the cost funded by community donations and grants.

Construction on Phase 1 began in February 2018 and wrapped up in November 2018. Finishing touches on Phase 1 including signage, benches, trail head kiosks and memorials were installed in spring 2019. The official ribbon cutting for Phase 1 was at Theiler Park in Mayville on Saturday, June 1, 2019 (National Trails Day).

Phases 2-5 continue the Trail into Horicon and Beaver Dam. Currently, Horicon the Marsh trails do not permit bike riding, but users can walk, hike or walk a bike on the southern Bachhuber Trail to Palmatory Point (Phase 5), which then connects to the City of Horicon Gold Star Memorial Trail bike route (Phase 4). The Horicon bike route leads to the west end of the City near Whitty Park, which will serve as the connecting point for Phases 2-3 of the project. Phases 2 and 3 are currently in the planning and design process. The Trail was awarded a nearly $1.1 million WI Department of Transportation (WISDOT) Transportation Alternatives Program (TAP) grant to construct Phase 2, connecting the City of Horicon with the Wild Goose State Trail. The TAP grant requires a 20% local match, around $200,000. Fundraising efforts are working towards this local match.

Construction on Phase 2 is set for this year.

While there's still much work to do, there are currently miles of accessible, paved Gold Star Memorial Trail routes that visitors should be sure to enjoy on a visit to the Marsh.

'Rock 'n Boom' in Mayville

As July Fourth approaches, most communities have their own special ways to celebrate this country's independence. Mayville is no different.

On July 3, Mayville hosts its annual "Rock 'n Boom" celebration.

The day begins at 4 p.m. with Legion baseball at Firemens Field, located within Mayville City Park. Love the smell of the grill on a summer afternoon? The burger fry aims to please each year, serving mouth-watering burgers and refreshments throughout the afternoon and evening.

Putting the "rock" in Rock 'n Boom will be live performances by local rock bands. Music is scheduled to start at 4:30 and run until 8 p.m. and again from 8:30 p.m.-12:30 a.m. The stage is set up just outside of the Mayville Park Pavilion at City Park.

Bringing in the "boom" will be the always-spectacular fireworks display at dusk. The display is often referred to as best-in-class, lighting up the night skyline overlooking the baseball diamond and the rolling hills of the Mayville Golf Club at dusk.

Bring your folding chairs or your blankets and set up on the grass to enjoy the festivities.
