

PUBLISHER’S LETTER

Looking Past; Looking Forward

Dear Reader,

When the love of your life dies, the impact is profound and life-altering. The grief can feel as though it will never subside, and the absence of that person—your partner in all things—casts a shadow over even the smallest moments of your day. The process of losing them, from illness or sudden tragedy to the final goodbye, is one of life’s greatest challenges.

After the funeral is over, the loneliness often sets in deeply. Friends and family may surround you for a time, offering kindness and support, but eventually, their lives pull them back to their routines. And there you are, left to grapple with the silence.

Many who experience such a loss have shared how the grief feels inescapable. The memories you shared with your spouse linger everywhere—in your home, your daily habits, and even in the way you think about the world. The ache is particularly acute when something good or bad happens, and you instinctively want to share it with them.

There is no one-size-fits-all answer to coping with such loss. Each person’s grief is unique, shaped by the depth of the relationship and the individual personality of the one left behind. However, here are some thoughts that may offer comfort and guidance as you navigate this painful journey.

First, take it one day at a time. It’s simple advice, but it holds profound wisdom. In the early days, just getting out of bed and facing the world can feel like a monumental task. Allow yourself to move at your own pace. Don’t rush the grieving process or feel pressured to “move on” too quickly. Healing is not linear, and it’s okay to have days when the sorrow feels overwhelming.

It’s important to lean on others—but also seek to rebuild. Family and friends can provide crucial support, but their lives will naturally continue, and you may find yourself needing to rebuild parts of your own. Consider joining a grief support group where others who’ve experienced similar losses can share their insights and struggles. Knowing you’re not alone in your feelings can be deeply reassuring.

Over time you can find new meaning and purpose. Though it feels impossible at first, try to slowly re-engage with the world. Take up an activity or explore something you’ve always been curious about. Join a class in art, writing, or history. Volunteer with an organization that aligns with your values. If you’re physically able, activities like yoga, gardening, or walking in nature can offer both physical and emotional relief.

You may find some healing in honoring your loved one’s memory. Create a ritual or space where you can remember and celebrate your spouse. It might be a small garden, a photo album, or even a weekly moment of reflection. This helps keep them present in your life in a way that feels healthy and comforting, rather than overwhelming.

But don’t remain in a constant state of sorrow. Your loved one wouldn’t want that. While they may no longer be physically by your side, their love and influence live on in you. Embracing life doesn’t mean forgetting them; it means carrying their memory with you as you find joy again.

Take heart, dear reader. Though the journey of loss is painful, it’s also a testament to the love you shared. Grief is a long and winding road, but it does not mean your own story is over. It’s a new chapter—one you didn’t ask for, but one in which you can still find meaning, connection, and even hope.

watching a baseball game and calling one on the air. And for me, it will forever be there and it’s just a memory that I have of him. And the game itself was a total byproduct of what you were hearing on the radio, just stories of him traveling on trains and buses between games and stuff like that. It took you to an era that obviously most of us didn’t live through. And so it brought life to a game that existed before we were even here, which was just phenomenal.”

For me, my thoughts of Uecker will always go back to my nephew. As a young boy, my nephew was honored by the local Optimist Club where he received the privilege of returning the tee at a Wisconsin Badgers football game. I won’t mention the team’s name, but one of the opponent’s players decided that it would be funny to run out in front of my nephew and steal the tee away before he had a chance to grab it.

Needless to say, this did not go over very well for the young boy who lived for sports and highly anticipated the moment he would be able to run out on the Wisconsin Badgers football field. Seeing how devastated he was, I thought of the man that my nephew looked up to at the time — the man he referred to as “Bob Buecker.”

I wrote a letter to Uecker telling him of my nephew’s devastating experience. Within a week, my nephew received a package of memorabilia in the mail with a note from Uecker. The fact that Uecker went out of his way to help cheer my nephew did not surprise me, it was the speed in which he did it and the note that touched my heart.

From that day forward, I’ve had a great deal of respect for him. Two media commitments have brought me within proximity of the longtime announcer since that day, and I’ve watched him take time to be present when meeting fans.

Uecker was a class act and a great role model for our state. Someone will be able to fill his role, but I doubt that anyone can fill his shoes. So long to my favorite boy of summer.

Educator nominated for life-changing award

WAUPACA – Waupaca High School meal checker and cafeteria coordinator Theresa Herreid has been nominated for National Life Group's 2024-25 LifeChanger of the Year award. Sponsored by the National Life Group Foundation, LifeChanger of the Year recognizes and rewards the very best K-12 educators and school district employees across the United States who are making a difference in the lives of students by exemplifying excellence, positive influence and leadership.

Herreid was nominated by a colleague, Marcia Riendeau, for uplifting students and staff with her warm demeanor, whether it's calling in lunch orders or encouraging students and staff. Her kindness extends to the lunch helpers, making them feel appreciated and included.

When Herried faced a health crisis last year, her colleagues rallied around her, offering support during her chemotherapy. The entire school celebrated when she was declared cancer-free. Her spirit was evident this Halloween when she humorously took on the role of Grumpy in a staff costume theme.

Beyond the school, Herried volunteers with local community efforts, like Amoco's "Christmas for Children in Need," showing her dedication to giving back.

"Recognizing Ms. Herried for the joy she brings to so many lives would be wonderful," said Riendeau.

Fisheree adjusts for missing millpond

BY EMILY DOUD
STAFF REPORTER

MANAWA – The Manawa Cowboys Fisheree is back this year despite the current state of the millpond and is set to take place Jan. 25.

Instead of the contest taking place solely at the Manawa mill pond, fishing participants are allowed to try their hand fishing at the river channel on the Manawa millpond, School Section Lake, Bear Lake, White Lake and Cedar Lake.

The times for fishing will start at 7 a.m. and end at 1 p.m., any fish caught will need to be back at the warming shelter at the Manawa Veteran's Park in Manawa by 1 p.m. to qualify for prizes.

There will be first place prizes that include trophies and cash prizes, handed out to the biggest fish in each category.

Qualifying fish categories are crappie, bass, northern, perch and blue gill, no live fish can be registered.

Brianna Coyle, one of the organizers of the event, said they are always looking for more parent volunteers to help during the fisheree.

"If you don't fish come get some lunch, participate in the soup cook off and buy some raffle tickets," said Coyle.

Along with the fisheree there is also a soup cook off where people can enter their soup into a contest, prizes will be handed out to the top three winners.

There are also a number of high dollar raffle prizes, tickets are three for ten dollars and you do not need to be present to win.

Prizes include Rossi R95 45-70 Govt SS/SS Laminated, Ruger 10/22 rifle with American flag stock, Smith & Wesson M&P .22 Magnum pistol, Ruger 3810 Security-9 pistol, JTS M12AR shotgun, Xbox Series X console, PlayStation 5 console, Insignia 55 inch Smart Fire TV, JBL PartyBox Stage 320 speaker and a DEERC D65 Drone.

To win a firearm it will require a background check and there are age requirements as well before any guns can be claimed.

Another fun activity is added this year, helmet bowling, which allows teams to bowl on the ice using football helmets, with winning teams getting prizes.

Coyle said the game will be scored like traditional bowling, and the prizes depend on the turnout. If there are a lot of teams Coyle said there will be prizes for top three bowling teams, if there is not a large turnout then there will only be a prize for the top spot.

Everyone who registers a fish in the contest will receive a $5 gift certificate to Little Wolf River Outfitters in Manawa.

"We are so grateful for all of the sponsors this year and the donations," Coyle said. "We are a lucky community with some amazing people and we can't thank everybody enough for the support we receive all year round."

Aiming for the Packer Fan Hall of Fame

BY EMILY DOUD
STAFF REPORTER

MANAWA – A Manawa resident is looking at possibly becoming a member of the Green Bay Packers Fan Hall of Fame.

Ken Groholski said the Packers Fan Hall of Fame started about 26 years ago, an award that is given out to fans that work towards the benefit and promotion of the Green Bay Packers, as well as a current or former season ticket holders.

Ken Groholski's daughter and her husband drafted a letter and sent it in so that Groholski could be considered for the award, which is what got the journey started for the long time fan.

Groholski finished in the top ten, which now means that the voting comes down to all of the public.

Groholski said he has been a season ticket holder for over 47 years, and with his four tickets he said he always tries to take people with him that may not have had the opportunity to go to a game before.

"I was aware of the Green Bay Packers going way back to grade school," he said. "I just never got to go to games, but

Ice skating at Aqua Park

Skate at your own risk

BY BERT LEHMAN
STAFF REPORTER

CLINTONVILLE – There will be ice skating at Clintonville Aqua Park this winter, with it being “skate at your own risk,” as personnel may not always be present at the Aqua Park to monitor the skating.

Ice skating at the Aqua Park was in question after a Dec. 19 Clintonville Public Works Committee meeting. At that meeting, Clintonville Director of Public Works Justin Mc Auly told the committee that a non-profit organization that had indicated it would monitor the warming house during ice skating hours wasn't willing to monitor the facility during all the open hours. Mc Auly also told the committee that the city did not include in the city budget, funds to pay city personnel to monitor the facility during ice skating hours.

At the committee meeting, Mc Auly told the committee that the city would need to contact Clintonville City Atorney Keith Steckbauer and the city's insurance company to see if the city would be allowed to have the Aqua Park open for ice skating if no personnel were there to monitor the facility.

At the Jan. 14 Clintonville City Council meeting, Clintonville City Administrator Caz Muske told the council that the city would be allowed to offer ice skating “at your own risk” if personnel are not there to monitor the facility.

“In the event that we don't have an organization running the warming house, we still can have the facility open,” said Clintonville City Administrator Caz Muske.

Muske said Steckbauer and the city's insurance company told the city that it must monitor the ice thickness of the skating area to make sure it is thick enough for ice skating.

Ice skating hours

Ice skating at Clintonville Aqua Park was allowed for the first time Jan. 18. While ice conditions are favorable for ice skating, skating will be allowed on Fridays from 3-9 p.m., Saturdays from 6 a.m.-9 p.m., and Sundays from 6 a.m.-9 p.m. Lighted skating will be from 5-9 p.m. each of those days.

Warming house hours will vary and will be announced weekly. The warming house will be monitored by volunteers when it is open.

There is no cost to people if they want to ice skate at the Clintonville Aqua Park.

Tribune-Gazette named paper of record

CLINTONVILLE – The Clintonville Tribune-Gazette has been named the official newspaper of the city of Clintonville through April 30.

By a voice vote, the Clintonville Common Council unanimously approved the Tribune-Gazette as the city's official newspaper when it met Jan. 14. Ald. Brad Rokus was not present for the vote.

The Clintonville Chronicle had been the city's official newspaper, but it ceased publishing a paper in recent weeks. This necessitated the city to choose a new official newspaper prior to the council's reorganizational meeting in April, when an official newspaper is normally chosen.

Laid-back camping at the Car Show

BY EMILY DOUD
STAFF REPORTER

IOLA - The Iola Car Show has applied for a permit to add seasonal camping sites to the Iola Car Show campground which has been strictly for event-only camping for many decades.

The plan to further develop the campground goes back to 2018, when the Iola Car Show team was considering ways to make additional use of the property throughout the year outside of the flagship event.

Of the concepts discussed, the seasonal camping was very appealing because so much of the work is already done due to the well developed event camping.

“It's a concept we've been slowly working towards for several years, and we've been sharing it in meetings with volunteer groups for two or three years,” said Joe Opperman, the executive director at the Iola Car Show. “It has taken several years to get to this point primarily because we have limited people and resources and there is never a shortage of work to do developing and maintaining the grounds for the show.”

The goal with the seasonal camping is to make use of the

The Iola Car Show may be adding 24 seasonal sites with water, electric and sewer hookup. In the past, camping was only allowed during the summer car show. Emily Doud Photo property with a simple and quiet additional side business that doesn't overly tax the existing staff.

The plan is to develop 24 seasonal sites in the woods on the north end of the campground.

The sites will have water, electric and sewer hookup.

Campers would pay a set rate to have access to their site for the entire season, rather than paying a nightly rate.

There are no plans to add other traditional camping features like pools, arcades or a bar.

Rather, the appeal of the space is the quiet, serene setting.

“We think this is likely to attract an older, possibly retired crowd who would like a peaceful place to keep their [recreational vehicle] or camper for the season and are interested in taking advantage of the community features that already exist,” said Opperman. “Central Wisconsin offers an abundance of natural beauty and summertime activities, and Iola is a great place to have a home base to enjoy those things.”

The Iola Car Show will also be applying for the ability to add transient camping, which is the term for short-term camping where people pay a per-night rate.

Opperman said they don't have immediate plans to develop significant transient camping, but it makes sense to include it in the application process rather than repeat all the same steps in the future.

“We imagine there may be some interest in occasional short-term camping for friends or family of our seasonal campers,” said Opperman.

This would allow kids and grandkids to come and have a weekend space where parents or grandparents have their seasonal site.

“The appeal of the seasonal concept is that it's simple business,” said Opperman. “We aren't interested in adding a high-maintenance or a party crowd to the operation, but rather looking to add a feature that fits in well to what is already here.”

He hopes to help create some more customers who will enjoy local restaurants, the golf course, and other community offerings.

Depending on a number of factors, they hope to be able to develop the season sites in 2025, and be ready for seasonal campers in 2026.

Mental health event for farmers

IOLA - Many farmers and other agricultural workers have high levels of depression, anxiety and even suicides, as an event to be held in Iola gets information out to the agricultural community.

Waupaca County Suicide Prevention Coalition is offering “Grateful for the Growers” on Jan. 23 at Rustic Grill Restaurant at Glacier Woods, 604 Water Street in Iola.

This free workshop is open to agricultural workers and adult family members as well as counselors, social workers and others in helping occupations.

Speakers will focus on self-care, how to help another in distress, resources, and more.

Check-in is at 10:30 a.m. and the program runs from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., and includes a free lunch and resource tables.

Pre-registration is strongly requested but walk-ins will be allowed if space permits.

Jeff Ditzenberger, the event's keynote speaker, is a former grower from southern Wisconsin who uses his past struggles with suicide to help other people.

He travels around the country sharing his message. Nearly 30 years ago, “Ditz” survived his own suicide attempt.

In 2015, he founded TUGS (Talking, Understanding, Growing, Supporting) to promote mental health and wellness in rural communities.

Other speakers are Brenda Statz with Farmers Angel Network, Lynae Schott with Wisconsin Farmer Wellness program, and Carissa Weber, Mental Health Substance Abuse Therapist.

Post any questions at <https://www.facebook.com/WaupacaCounty-SuicidePreventionCoalition> or email wscppo-suicideprevention@gmail.com and a coalition member will get back to you.

City seeks garbage bids

No opt-out for city-wide service

BY BERT LEHMAN
STAFF REPORTER

NEW LONDON – The city of New London will seek garbage disposal bids, which won't include an opt-out for residents.

By a 6-4 vote at its Jan. 6 meeting, the Board of Public Works directed the city to request garbage disposal bids. Part of that approval was for the bids not to include an opt-out clause for city residents.

It should be noted that requesting garbage disposal bids does not commit the city to a city-wide garbage disposal contract. Once the bids are received, the city could choose one of the bids, or reject all of them.

Survey results
Leading off the discussion, Robert Garske, director of Public Works for the city of New London, told the committee that the city received 285 responses from the survey regarding garbage disposal in the city. From those responses, 92% said they currently pay a garbage contractor to pick up their garbage at the curb at their residence and 6% said they transport their garbage to a drop-off location.

When the survey asked if residents would support the city bidding out the garbage collection service under a city-wide contract, 76% of the respondents said they would be in favor of that, while 24% said they were not in favor.

If the city were to bid out the garbage collection service under a citywide contract, 65% of the survey respondents were not in favor of allowing residents to opt-out of the citywide service.

Survey results questioned
Ald. Tim Roberts questioned the legitimacy of the survey results, adding that he had heard someone had flooded it with responses.

"I mean 285 responses isn't a lot, it wouldn't take much to sway it either way," Roberts said. "I understand, I do talk to constituents, and I understand that people are frustrated."

Ald. Mike Barrington said he thinks the reason the city didn't get a lot of responses was due to residents not being able to participate in the on-line survey once they received the information in the mail about the survey.

"When my mail came with that survey in it, everything was already closed, I couldn't even vote," Barrington said. "Like I said, I talked to at least five people who told me the same thing. By the time they got the survey, they didn't even get a chance (to vote)."

New London City Administrator Chad Hoerth told the committee that the city sent the survey information by the end of October to the contracted company that mails the city utility bills to residents. He said the city figured out in mid-December that the information hadn't reached residents yet.

"Once we heard that, we opened it (survey) back up," Hoerth said. "Now, granted, it said the survey was going to close in the middle of December. We kept it open until Jan. 1. We did collect some more (survey responses)."

He added that the city was under the impression that the survey information would have been available to residents sooner than it actually was.

New London Mayor Mark Herter told the committee that 285 responses represent only 3% of the city's population.

"I think it's something we have to act on, even at this percentage, it's showing that people want us to do something," Barrington said.

Hoerth said when it comes to surveys, a 15-20% response rate would be considered good.

"You're not going to get 100% of the population with a survey like that," Hoerth said.

Discussion
Based on his past experiences with garbage collection, Roberts questioned what kind of customer service city residents would get through a city-wide garbage collection contract.

"Also, I don't believe in forcing services on people," Roberts said. "There are many snowbirds in the community who are gone six months out of the year. Now you're forcing them to pay for garbage (service) that they don't use."

Herter said based his conversations with residents, the community is split about 50-50 about the city contracting with a company to do city-wide garbage collection.

Ald. John Faucher said he is also a proponent of property owner rights, and doesn't like to force services on residents.

"Personally, I don't like forced services unless it's a big problem," Faucher said. "I don't like monopolies, but I don't think what we have here is quite a monopoly."

Barrington asked what harm would be done if the city would seek price bids from multiple garbage collection companies for a citywide garbage collection contract.

"It's not going to hurt us at all to go out and see if we can get somebody to come in here at a better rate," Barrington said.

Roberts said he feels the city would be "opening a can of worms" by pursuing a city-wide garbage collection contract. He asked who with the city would field all the questions that would arise with a city-wide garbage collection contract.

Herter said there would be additional administrative costs if the city had a city-wide garbage collection contract.

Hoerth said the city is short of city staff already.

"I've said this numerous times," Hoerth said. "Every time we turn around, people want more service from the city, and that's fine, but we need to make sure we have the manpower to do these things."

Ald. Bernie Ritchie Jr. said he didn't think it's the city's responsibility to get rid of a homeowner's garbage.

Herter said he was not against the city seeking bids for a city-wide garbage collection service, but he was in favor of residents having an opt-out option for the service if the city did move forward with a garbage contract.

"Having that option to opt-out, for me, is a huge one for those that don't want it, for whatever their reasons may be," Herter said.

Three incumbents running unopposed

HORTONVILLE – Three incumbents are running for reelection in the April 1, Village of Hortonville spring election. Village President Jeanne Bellile returned papers and is running unopposed on the spring ballot. There are three open seats for village board and only two incumbents running on the April 1 ballot. Incumbent village trustees Jim Moeller and Jane Olk both returned papers and will be on the April

1 ballot. Incumbent trustee Grace Abitz filed non-candidacy papers Dec. 26, and is not running for reelection. The open seat will be filled with whoever receives the most write in ballots. Village board trustees and the village president are all two-year terms. There will not be a primary for village officials on Feb. 18 however; there is a statewide primary for the State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Correction

In the Jan. 9 issue of the New London Press Star, there was an error in the story titled, "Board president seeks goals for football program." In that story, it was stated, "Board member Mark Grossman asked Sloma if there is a perception of a problem with the football team that the district needs to address in order for it to achieve the next level."

It should have read, "Board Treasurer Nate Grundy asked Sloma if there is a perception of a problem with the football team that the district needs to address in order for it to achieve the next level."

We apologize for the error and any inconvenience it may have caused.

Weather, ice cooperate at White Lake

BY GREG SEUBERT
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

WEYAUWEGA - Things have to fall in place to have a successful fisheree, especially during the winter, including weather and safe ice. One day before the coldest temperatures in years moved into Waupaca County, organizers of the White Lake Aeration Conservation Club's annual fisheree on Jan. 18 couldn't have been happier with the way things turned out.

"It's not as cold as it's going to be," club president Tom Buchholz said. "We were really excited to see that we were able to squeeze it in between the cold fronts. We appreciate the good weather."

Hundreds of people headed to Waupaca County's largest inland lake for the club's 42nd annual fisheree.

"We were so hopeful that we would have ice," Buchholz said. "In talking to people, they really wanted to come out and have a good time on the ice. We were really thankful to see some cold weather come in and we were able to have this. (The ice thickness) just wasn't there, but then we had a couple of days of cold weather this week."

Organizers ended up pulling the plug on last year's fisheree because of unsafe ice conditions.

"The main thing that the White Lake Aeration Conservation Club does is supply dissolved oxygen to the fish through aerators," Buchholz said. "Whenever we don't have good ice for the lake, our club takes a bit of a hit because we depend on the revenue that we make off of this fisheree to support the whole project. One-hundred percent of what we make goes to run the engines and air compressors."

"We have this fisheree in order to raise money for that," he said. "They've had an aerator here for more than 45 years and this continues to be a nice, good community project. We cater to kids by having bike raffles, food and hot chocolate, things that they would enjoy.

"We've been a club for 45 years and it's a group of local people that live here," he said. "I'd say over half the people in the club do not live on the lake. It's really for anybody who wants to come and help do things for the lake. We watch over the lake, we build wood duck houses. It's a feel-good club and we do a lot for the local community as well."

Maintaining the lake's aeration system isn't the club's only responsibility, according to Buchholz.

"Besides monitoring the dissolved oxygen levels, we also watch over the fish counts, fish habitat and the fish themselves," he said. "We work with the fish biologist out of Shawano to keep the population of fish diverse. We have five species of panfish, we have walleyes, we have northerns."

The lake also has some new residents.

"We recently stocked 3,500 perch about three weeks ago," Buchholz said. "We were hoping to put some catchable fish in here for the fisheree for the little kids to catch. That means a lot to us to see the kids have a good time. They're 6 or 7 inches and we buy them from a certified fish grower and the DNR has to approve the permit."

Most local anglers are aware of White Lake's reputation for small northern pike and weed growth.

"We have a program that we started in conjunction with the (state Department of Natural Resources) to try to eliminate the small growth pattern (for northern) that's been here for 35, 40 years," Buchholz said. "It's always been a lake that has small northern. We now have a slot limit size. Fish that are over 25 inches need to go back into the water. We're going to try that for several years to see if we can improve the size of the fish. Our goal is to catch the small northerns and let the big ones grow. Then, we would have bigger fish. You can keep fish that are under 25 inches. You can catch five fish a day."

The lake's slot limit is 25 to 35 inches and the daily bag limit is five fish.

White Lake also have a weed problem that the club has been dealing with for years.

"It's a very shallow lake and it's a manmade lake," Buchholz said. "We actually have a dam that runs the water level of the lake. It gets a fair amount of weed growth because it is shallow. We have more than 22 species of water plants and the DNR likes to see the diversity we have here. Some people don't like the weeds. There are two invasive species that are here and we're monitoring the growth of those."

White Lake covers 1,064 acres between Weyauwega and Manawa and has a maximum depth of 10 feet.

The DNR lists walleye as common in the lake and panfish, largemouth bass, northern pike and catfish as present.

Buchholz said there's a good reason why the fisheree remains popular.

"The tent that we have makes it a party atmosphere with warm heaters," he said. "Everyone can come in and take a break. Families really appreciate how we have it set up and I think that's a draw. I was at the boat landing this morning a half-hour before daylight and I probably saw a dozen trucks drive on in the dark. When they come in, they tend to spend most of the day here."

Buchholz also said the event isn't showing any signs of slowing down anytime soon.

"It's been two years since we've been able to have a good turnout and it looks like a great turnout today," he said. "I'm really glad to see that because we were really behind during Covid and the warm weather. To have a great day like today means the world to us to keep this club afloat and moving forward."

More local talent on stage

WEYAUWEGA - The community-made production of "A Talent for Murder" was a big success last year. It was a dinner theatre talent show with a murder mystery plotline. Patrons were served dinner while being entertained by a huge range of incredible local talent performing opera, blues, beat poetry, slapstick comedy, dancing and more.

Now the W-F Music Boosters have something similar in the works. Called simply, "Dinner and a Show," the performance will be held on Saturday, Feb. 1 at the Gerold Opera House.

The doors open at 4:30 p.m. and a spaghetti dinner will be served at 5:30. Attendees will be served by middle and high school choir and band students.

There will be live performances by W-F middle and high school music students and then it will get extra fun: W-F alumni will be invited to take the stage and join the students for a performance, adding some nostalgia and community connection to the evening.

Throughout the evening there will be raffle baskets, a 50/50 raffle and a special quilt raffle.

The WF Music Boosters is a group of community members, including parents of current and former music students. Their mission is to support the WF school district's music department by providing scholarships, funding for instruments, and assistance with productions and school events. This event is a key fundraiser that supports their efforts.

Tickets are $15 per seat or $100 for a table of eight, making it the perfect event to gather family and friends. To reserve a spot, call or text Rachel at 920-867-3908.

Renew lease for cell tower

City wants the "going rate"

BY BERT LEHMAN
STAFF REPORTER

NEW LONDON – The New London Finance & Personnel Committee directed New London City Administrator Chad Hoerth to gather more information about lease agreements for cellphone towers, before it would renew a lease with Nsight Tower Holdings, LLC.

At its Jan. 8 meeting, the committee requested the additional information to make sure the city is receiving the "going rate" for a cell tower lease.

Lease history

Hoerth told the committee that the lease renewal would be for the cell tower on city land behind Floral Hill Cemetery. The cell tower is next to the water tower. The city has had a lease with Nsight Tower Holdings, LLC since 2006. The contract started as a five-year term, with four automatic renewals. The lease is set to expire in 2026.

Nsight reached out to the city to express interest in renewing the lease.

"They're obviously starting early because if there's any hiccups, they want to make sure they get that figured out before they have to take down their tower," Hoerth said.

Lease proposal

In the proposed new lease, Hoerth said the rent would be $1,349 per month, and would increase annually based on a CPI formula. The rent would also include an additional $200 per month for each sublessee that the company has. There are currently two sublessees on the tower.

The proposed lease would be for five years, with five automatic renewal terms, essentially making it a 25-year lease.

Hoerth said he reviewed the proposed lease, as did New London City Attorney Keith Steckbauer.

"We went back and forth with a bunch of different items to kind of clean things up, negotiated, and what you have in front of you is what we're recommending," Hoerth said.

Discussion

Ald. Tim Roberts asked if the profits from the lease go into the city's general fund.

New London Finance Director Judy Radke confirmed that the profits do go into the city's general fund. She said the city currently budgets $20,500 in revenue from the existing lease.

Since the city does not have any other cell towers on city property, Roberts questioned whether the proposed contract was for the "going rate" for a cell tower.

"Has there been any discussion with other parties that have cellphone towers?" Roberts asked. "Are we getting a good deal?"

Hoerth said the city "continued it based on what was negotiated back in the time, and based on a consumer price index increase on an annual basis."

"The cellphone companies make quite a bit of money off of it, I just didn't know if there were any negotiations to maybe get a little more out of them," Roberts said.

Hoerth told the committee it could make a motion to have him go back to Nsight to do more negotiating.

"We've got time. The current contract does not expire until 2026," Hoerth said.

WAUPACA COUNTY VETERANS SERVICE OFFICE ANNOUNCES TEMPORARY OFFICE DURING COURTHOUSE REMODEL
The Waupaca County Veterans Service Office assists the near 4,000 military veterans who call Waupaca County home

WAUPACA COUNTY, WISCONSIN — The Waupaca County Veterans Service Office will temporarily relocate to the main offices of the Waupaca County Highway Department located at 2670 County Road A in Waupaca. Waupaca County Veterans Service Officer Jesse Cuff announces this move ahead of the courthouse remodel project slated to begin later this spring. "We are relocating the office over the last week of January and will re-open for appointments at the new location, thanks to our friends at the highway department, on Monday, February 3rd, 2025". Cuff went on to say, "This move ensures our veterans will not have to contend with or navigate around construction activities at the courthouse." The courthouse remodel project is expected to last approximately two years.

Due to the new office arrangement, hours and availability will vary and veterans will meet with representatives by appointment only. Making an appointment is as simple as calling 715-258-6475 to speak with Cindy, Craig, or Jesse to schedule in advance.

District and HYA websites for the purpose of informing a possible candidate about the School District.

Mr. Richie started to advise of the issues facing the District that the new superintendent would need to understand and address when he lost his internet connection and left the meeting. Mr. Gerlach commented that this is a good profile and the District is in a good position. Mr. Richie will be presenting candidates to the Board at the January 2, 2025, special Board meeting.

Board President Brooks pointed out that it is encouraging to see that a majority of the survey respondents rated the District a 3 or above in being a quality school district, reflecting a positive level of satisfaction with the District.

Completion of Board Member Availability Calendar:

The Board members were asked to complete their availability calendars through January.

WASB Resolutions:

Board President Ron Brooks advised that he supports all of the proposed resolutions, particularly Resolutions 25-04 and 25-08, and asked WASB Delegate Betty Manion to support those as well as the WASB Delegate Assembly at the State Education Convention. Mrs. Manion noted that some of the resolutions were proposed last year and were resubmitted.

School Visits or Other Board Reports:

Board member Dale Feldt shared that he attended the WHS trivia night which was a fantastic event. He went to project night at CEC and the Young Authors presentation at WMS. He also went to the WLC and participated in the pre-K tour, met with WLC Principal John Erspamer and Associate Principal Jody Pankratz who were providing tours to potential teachers from UWSP, and he tutored math students. He advised that WHS and the Waupaca Rotary have teamed up to bring in a group from Romania in August with the focus being on education.

Board member Bob Adams shared that the Madrigal Singers performed at his church, and he commended their teacher, Anna Lussier, and her team for all of their great work.

Board member Betty Manion shared that she attended the Authors and Writers presentation at WMS, the cupcake wars, and the Holocaust Exhibit at the Waupaca Public Library with the 8th graders. She also attended the Madrigal dinner and the holiday parade and commented that the community appreciated that the WHS band performed. She also went to the WLC and spoke with Mr. Erspamer and Ms. Pankratz as well as several teachers.

Mr. Brooks shared that he also attended the holiday parade and heard the same positive comments regarding the WHS band, and he also attended the Holocaust Exhibit with CEC students.

Board member Lori Verhalen shared that she attended the Holocaust presentation at WHS yesterday.

Board member Steve Klismet shared that he went to the dance team's event in Freedom and commented that many Waupaca community members were there to support the team.

As a side note, Mr. Klismet noted that the elderly have trouble climbing the stairs on the bleachers so inquired if a railing could be installed.

CEC Liaison Report:

CEC Liaison Betty Manion advised that she attended the Governance Council meeting last Friday. They were provided updates from the Student Council, and about project night and the farm to table dinner as well as students' community visits. There was also a Sources of Strength peer leaders presentation. They discussed the school report card, the annual Authorizer Report, and the 2024-2025 budget, and looked at programs for teaching Spanish. They were also advised of the Rotary grants received and that the CEC billboard is up on Highway 10.

Personnel Committee Meeting:

Mr. Gerlach advised that the Committee met on December 5, 2024, to review wage comparables for Food Service employees. Even with the proposed $1.50 per hour wage increase, the employees will still be slightly lower than the average. He requested that the increase be made retroactive to November 4, 2024.

A motion was made by Dale Feldt and seconded by Lori Verhalen, per Committee recommendation, to increase the hourly wage rate for Food Service employees by $1.50 per hour to the 1A, 1B, 2, and consolidated level 3 classifications as presented, with it being paid retroactive to the Personnel Committee meeting held on November 4, 2024. The motion carried unanimously on a voice vote.

Consent Agenda:

Mr. Feldt inquired as to the reason for the RVA contract renewal and if there was an increase in costs. Director of Teaching and Learning Mark Flaten advised that it was needed because it is a charter school through the Medford Area Public School District and their need to review their contract, similarly to what we did with the CEC. Costs are figured on an annual basis and are not part of this renewal contract.

A motion was made by Bob Adams and seconded by Lori Verhalen to approve the items of the consent agenda as presented.

A motion was made by Lori Verhalen and seconded by Betty Manion to accept, with gratitude, the many donations as presented. The motion carried unanimously on a voice vote.

Monitoring:

School Improvement Plan/Review of State Report Cards:

Director of Teaching and Learning Mark Flaten reminded everyone that the state report cards are based on last school year's performance and include four priority areas: student achievement and student growth (which both use a weighted three-year average with the most recent year weighted the most), as well as target group outcomes and on-track to graduation. He set out the overall scores for the District and each of the four schools. He also provided the trend data for the past four years as well as a comparison of the District to other local and regional districts. The achievement and on-track to graduation scores are above the state averages. However, we need to provide more support to the students in our target groups.

Mr. Flaten noted that there is no one perfect tool that measures and levels the educational playing field. Using the state report card data along with looking at other measures provides a better picture of our effectiveness and the necessary next steps for continuous improvement. There are things to be celebrated but work needs to be done.

Mr. Flaten advised that by making learning visible we focus on our guaranteed and viable curriculum, common learning target aligned assessments, effective teaching in every classroom, and continuous improvement. Classroom "look fors" include preparation and evidence of expectations, learning targets and student success criteria, as well as samples of student work indicating that they have met the criteria. Student "look fors" include the ability to answer three questions (what are you learning, why are you learning it, and where are you at in your learning), as well as engagement and pride in their work. Mr. Flaten also advised of adjustments that are being made this year.

WHS Associate Principals Jennifer Erb and Kyle Scherwinski advised of the improvement plan for WHS based on the results of the School Perception Survey and current academic data. The survey identified poor moments and indicated that staff input is valued. The academic data indicated that the graduation rate went up and academic growth remained the same. They noted that they have been really focusing on attendance. Ms. Erb pointed out that they need to find ways to connect the importance of tests to the students and motivate them to do their very best whether or not they intend to go on to a four-year school. She also outlined action steps that have been or will be taken to improve building culture and academic results. We need to make purposeful fun for staff and students, noting that teachers' morale is higher when student morale is higher. They know there is work to be done, but they have a lot to build from and a lot to build for.

Mr. Gerlach added that tests are important but are just one set of scores. We have a lot of really good staff and students.

WMS Principal John Meyer advised that he is very aware of the trend data and scores and the staff is working hard to improve them. When you look at the data, there was a decrease in some areas because of how the question changed, so it was how that target was scored. Mr. Meyer noted that he is proud of the very positive results of the School Perception Survey. He also provided comparison data for the past four years for the Forward exam as well as the fall iReady ELA and math exams. Mr. Meyer shared their plan for growth to include implementation of instructional strategies to address student learning gaps and improve overall academic achievement in reading and math. They are laser focused on using the top three areas (learning target, feedback, and student engagement) to maximize their efforts to see substantial growth of the students. There is a common vision and they believe that all students can learn.

CEC Administrator Carrie Naparalla advised that there are positive on the report card results but there is always room for growth. The target group chronic absenteeism and on track to graduation 8th grade math scores increased, however the growth score for math is an area for improvement. She outlined the CEC's improvement plan which included goals for student success, academic excellence, and social-emotional health relationships and connections, along with the plan and measures to achieve each of those goals. Ms. Naparalla also provided data from the spring Forward exam for grades 3-8.

WLC Principal John Erspamer advised that they are pleased that the school exceeded expectations but there are many areas to work on. He outlined the WLC's improvement plan which included goals for student success, academic excellence, and training and support for staff, along with the plan and measures to achieve each of those goals. He also provided data of the student achievement results in math and English/Language Arts for grades K-4. Mr. Erspamer noted that unless the students have adult connections and feel safe, data does not matter. He also noted that the EL students have more support now but a lot of challenges remain. Mr. Erspamer recognized his staff for the great job they are doing because, as elementary teachers, they have to provide every content area and still let kids be kids.

5-Year Baird Budget Model:

Interim District Administrator Craig Gerlach and Mr. Flaten presented the District's 5-year budget forecast which was a collaborative effort between Baird Finance Services, Greg Gaarder of CESA 5, and the Core Team.

Mr. Flaten advised that there were certain assumptions made in projecting this budget based on professional judgments. He presented two options with the only difference being the amount of state aid the District receives per student in the 2027-2028 and 2028-2029 school years, which results in a bit of a delay in the shortfall in the Fund 10 balance when using the second option. Mr. Flaten pointed out that costs will continue to increase each school year and the District will be operating in the red. He noted that in the first option they cautiously projected a decrease in state aid to $100 per student because of the uncertainties relating to the gubernatorial election.

They stressed that it is important that we continue to be thinking ahead and continue to monitor our budget, and advised that there will be more in-depth budget conversations this spring.

Administration

Annual Charter School Authorizer Report:

Mr. Flaten provided the required annual Charter School Authorizer Report which was also presented to the Governance Council last Friday. It consists of the academic and financial performance of the CEC. The measurables come straight out of the contract using local, state, and national assessment data.

For Measurable #1, the percentage of CEC students meeting or exceeding grade level expectations is higher than their non-CEC District counterparts, with the exception of 3rd grade math and they are working hard to close that gap. For Measurable #2, CEC students grew at a greater percentage than their non-CEC District peers in ELA and math in all grades except 7th. He pointed out, however, that the expectation of a 3 at CEC is slightly different than it is at WLC because of project-based learning. They need to use a triangulation of data to measure if the students are performing at or above their peers.

Mr. Flaten also provided the financial performance information, noting that the CEC has its own 501(c) designation. He set out the Authorizer's operating costs, which had increased due to additional time spent reviewing and revising the renewal contract, as well as a listing of the services and costs provided by the Authorizer to the CEC. He noted that he is working on creating similar information for each of the other schools for comparison purposes.

A motion was made by Betty Manion and seconded by Steve Klismet to accept the Charter School Authorizer Report as presented. The motion carried unanimously on a voice vote.

Hortonville's Riley Mueller leads FVA title hopes

BY NICK GRIESBACH
SPORTS REPORTER

The catalyst for the Polar Bears, senior Riley Mueller is leading a Hortonville team, who have their sights set on a Fox Valley Association championship as they currently are tied for the lead in the conference standings.

Mueller is following up a junior season where he was Second-Team All-FVA. He leads his team in scoring and is third in points per game in the conference.

Riley started in organized basketball in the YMCA 4K league, “My parents got me into it specifically, my dad got me into it at a young age, and it just stuck with me early.” Mueller, has been enthralled by the sport throughout his adolescence, “it has always been my favorite sport and my passion throughout my life.”

Time management and varying workloads have been a difference in Riley's time in high school, “As a freshman and sophomore, it was more difficult because I have so many classes along with basketball because I didn't have any periods off from school or breaks throughout my day so having so many classes in one day along with practice and games can be a lot. Compared to now, where I have a few hours off from school throughout my day to help with studying time and a break in between school and basketball.”

Riley has a feel for the game that he attributes to his success on the court, “My basketball IQ is something I think I have an advantage of over others. I feel like I know what's going to happen before it does. The game feels kind of slow to me so having that IQ is an asset,” and both teamwork and individuality as a reason he stuck with the sport, “I love how it requires so many people doing their job to be good and how it's such a team sport and needs so much teamwork. But also, you can do so much work by yourself to make yourself better and be the best individual player you can be.”

Competing against Oshkosh North has given Riley memorable moments in his career, as he scored 39 points on Jan 10. and defeated them on a buzzer-beater in his sophomore season, “There have been so many great memories playing in this program, but a few that stick out is when we beat Oshkosh North my sophomore year on a game-winning shot from almost half court.”

Every coach on our staff has played a role in the player I am now, so it's hard to pick one. But I would love to shout out to Brett Sommer. The other guard with me when I was a sophomore and graduated 2 years ago. He was the ultimate team-first teammate, pushed me to grow and improve, and was there for me when I had an off game and helped me learn so much as a young player.”

Hortonville, Welson dominate in win over Oshkosh North

BY NICK GRIESBACH
SPORTS REPORTER

HORTONVILLE – Rainey Welson put on a show against visiting Oshkosh West on Friday, Jan. 17, as she dropped 43 points to get an FVA win.

The Polar Bears jumped out to an early 18-8 lead, and that was as close as the deficit would get for the remainder of the game.

Welson, a University of Maryland commit, would score 31 points in the first half in different ways, including the game's most memorable highlight as she sank a deep three to beat the buzzer and send Hortonville into the locker room up 40-14.

Hortonville kept their foot on the gas pedal as they won 75-41 to keep themselves in contention for the Fox Valley Association championship.

Forfeits stall New London wrestling

BY NICK GRIESBACH
SPORTS REPORTER

NEW LONDON – Several forfeits by the New London Bulldogs prevented them from overcoming the deficits against the Seymour Thunder at home on Jan. 16. Falling in their dual meet 47-22.

Seymour took an early 6-0 lead after decisions in the 150 and 157-pound weight classes went their way.

The Bulldogs got their first victory, with a major decision by Owen Ross cutting the Seymour lead to 6-4, and a pin by Phoenix Fletcher gave New London's in the 175-pound division gave them a 10-6 lead.

Howie Roloff had the major decision victory in the 190 weight class giving the Bulldogs the 13-6 lead.

The Thunder cut the deficit to 13-12 as the Division Two second-ranked 215-pound Cael Leisgang defeated the third-ranked Preston Krueger by pinfall.

A pinfall by 285-pound Brock Soscha gave the lead back to Seymour as they went up 18-13.

Forfeits in the 106, 113, a pin by Seymours Logan Bohnlein at the 120 pounds, and forfeit in 126-pound made the lead insurmountable for New London.

Competing for pride and individual wins. New Londons' William Christopher and Seymours Aidan Peters competed in the match of the night, as both came into the meet as top 10 in the 132-pound weight class.

Christopher and Peter needed an extra minute as both could only score one takedown against each other. Christopher finished the match as the victor, winning the 4-1 decision.

Warhawks soar over Hornets

As cold as it was outside, it was also frigid inside Weyauwega-Fremont High School's gym.

Weyauwega-Fremont held Rosholt to fewer than 20 points in each half and the Warhawks cruised to a 56-34 boys' basketball win over the Hornets Jan. 20.

The Warhawks never trailed in the game and sealed the win with a 16-0 run in the second half after the Hornets had cut the deficit to six points.

Rosholt trailed by 11 points in the first half and headed to the locker room at halftime down 25-18.

A pair of Marcus Kohl baskets cut the Warhawks' lead to 28-22 early in the second half, but the Hornets never got any closer. The Warhawks scored the game's next 16 points to push the lead to 44-22. Dylan DeLaet's two free throws ended Weyauwega-Fremont's run, but Rosholt never got any closer than 15 points.

WEYAUWEGA - Scoring points has become a problem lately for the Amherst girls' basketball team.

Five days after Bonduel held the Falcons to 13 points, Weyauwega-Fremont out-scored Amherst 32-6 in the first half Jan. 14 and went on to post a 49-21 Central Wisconsin Wisconsin-East win on the Warhawks' home court.

The Falcons took an early 4-0 lead on baskets from Hailie Portmann and Alexis Wierzba. Olivia Witkowski scored the Warhawks' first eight points and started a 17-0 run. That run gave the Warhawks a 17-4 lead, and the Falcons never got any closer the rest of the way.

Nicolet NATIONAL BANK PRESENTS Senior Spotlight Landon Bicknase-SPASH

As a senior, Landon Bicknase is set to capitalize on his junior season, during which he was part of the 200-yard Medley Relay team in 2024. Landon's junior season also included top-five finishes in the 200-yard Individual Medley, 100-yard Breaststroke, 200-yard Medley relay, and 400-yard freestyle relay.

Beginning his sport at the age of 10 through the YMCA, Landon started swimming after wanting to pursue a different sport in the pool, "My mom put me on the swim team at the YMCA after I said I wanted to be on a diving team."

Landon has performed on a national stage in his swimming career, which was highlighted by qualifying for Nationals in Greensboro, NC, with my YMCA club swim team. A multi-sport athlete-Landon began focusing solely on swimming, "I also played football and soccer in elementary and junior high after my freshman year I switched to swimming full-time."

The camaraderie was a factor in Landon sticking with swimming, "I like being around the guys on the team I've made some great friends, and the support from my coaches pushes me to be my best."

Landon has kept his focus on a future in the pool as he has kept attention on the classroom, "When I decided I wanted to pursue swimming in college, I decided to step up my work and study more often and made time for it."

"My breaststroke, which is currently fastest in the conference, is great for our team relay," Landon says of his greatest asset in the pool that has helped him towards several of his achievements, including making the sectionals team as a freshman and being named Rookie of the Year."

Landon is preparing for his career after high school as he will attend the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh to compete on the swim team and study Physical Education, "looking back I see I have come a long way with the effort I put into school and swimming."
