Man dies after medical call involving vehicle

FOR CITY TIMES

WOOD COUNTY – On Wednesday, Feb. 26, 2025, at approximately 6:10 pm, Portage County Communications Center received a report of a male who was found unconscious near a vehicle on private property in the Town of Carson. The caller stated the unconscious male was lying in a ditch with standing water in it. Portage County Sheriff Office deputies and other emergency personnel were dispatched. Upon arrival, it was determined a 68-year-old male from the Town of Carson had been driving his vehicle on a private trail/road on private property near the 1400 block of Elm Road North when it became stuck in a ditch. It appeared the male then exited the vehicle and fell into the ditch, where he was later found by a family member. It was unknown how long he had been there prior to being found. Emergency medical personnel performed medical interventions, but the man was later pronounced dead at the scene. It did not appear there was a collision which would have contributed to the man's death, which remains under investigation by the Portage County Medical Examiner. The Portage County Sheriff's Office was assisted at the scene by the Portage County Ambulance Service, Rudolph Fire Department, Rudolph Rescue, Rudolph Emergency Medical Responders, and the Wisconsin State Patrol.

FOR CITY TIMES

WISCONSIN RAPIDS – Bill Edwards, Domtar's senior vice president of Paper and Packaging Operations, received the Excellence in Leadership Award from the Association of Suppliers to the Paper Industry (ASPI) on Friday, Feb. 21, during the organization's annual conference in Clearwater, Florida.

The ASPI Excellence in Leadership Award is presented annually to an industry leader who demonstrates exceptional management skills, strategic vision and a commitment to advancing the pulp and paper sector.

"I am truly honored to receive this award and grateful to be part of an industry that plays such a vital role in everyday life," Edwards said. "At Domtar, we are committed to producing essential paper, packaging, and pulp products that people rely on daily. This recognition reflects the hard work and dedication of the entire team, whose innovation and passion drive our success. I share this achievement with all those who have supported and inspired me throughout my career."

"Bill's dedication to guiding operational performance and fostering collaborative relationships has made a lasting impact on both Domtar and the broader industry," said Steve Henry, president of Paper and Packaging for Domtar. "This recognition reflects his commitment to our core values of caring, accountability, collaboration and entrepreneurship. We are proud to see his contributions recognized with this well-deserved honor."

United Way Seeks Volunteers For Disaster Recovery Team

FOR CITY TIMES

WISCONSIN RAPIDS – United Way of South Wood & Adams Counties invites community members interested in disaster preparedness and recovery to participate in an upcoming Volunteer Reception Center training from 5:00pm to 7:00pm on April 16 at the Grand Rapids Lions Club. In the event of a disaster, this group of trained volunteers may be called upon to help screen and organize spontaneous, untrained volunteers to help with recovery efforts. By preparing for the types of disasters most likely to occur in our area, United Way seeks to strengthen community resiliency and reduce the impact such events may have on the most vulnerable members of our community. The Volunteer Reception Center, or VRC, provides a system to safely and efficiently turn a crowd of spontaneous volunteers into a screened and organized workforce. Before the VRC can be activated after a disaster, a group of trained volunteers must be ready to respond. These individuals staff the VRC, helping to screen, interview, and train spontaneous volunteers who turn out to aid the disaster response. Training for VRC volunteers is held twice each year – only volunteers who have attended training are eligible to staff the VRC if called upon.

The next VRC training and informational session will be at the Grand Rapids Lions Club on April 16 from 5:00pm to 7:00pm. Training will include a brief informational presentation and a demonstration exercise. First-time attendees will have an opportunity to join the VRC following the training. Registration is appreciated but not required; to register, contact Ben Eberlein at 715-421-0390 or ben@uwswac.org by Friday, April 11. The VRC is coordinated by United Way of South Wood & Adams Counties in collaboration with Wood County Emergency Management and Marshfield Area United Way.

Last month, Wood County Health Department staff met with Representative Krug to share the services that the health department provides to the public, discuss the Community Health Improvement Plan, and talk about barriers to health in the community and potential solutions.

Build your confidence with better balance to reduce fall risk

FOR CITY TIMES

WISCONSIN RAPIDS – Although slips, trips and falls can happen at any age, it’s more common as we get older. Getting up from a fall also becomes more of a daunting task and at times, can seem nearly impossible.

Numerous age-related changes may be at fault. As we age, we lose muscle strength and flexibility (especially if we aren’t quite as active as we used to be). Our senses such as vision and hearing become less sharp, making it more difficult for us to navigate potential fall hazards. Chronic conditions also play a huge role. Often we are on multiple medications to treat our conditions. Certain medications (or being on multiple medications) can have a host of unwanted side effects such as dizziness, sleepiness or lightheadedness, ultimately putting us at an increased risk for a fall.

The good news? There are things we can do to lessen our risks for slips, trips and falls. Join the Better Your Balance: Stepping On program to learn more about why falls happen and what you can do to reduce your risk.

Work with a local Physical Therapist to identify strength and balance exercises specific to preventing falls. Learn how to get up from a fall and about when/how to use assistive devices safely.

Hear from a local vision expert on eye related conditions that can impact our fall risk.

Hear from a local pharmacist about what medications might put you at risk for a fall and what you can do about it.

Hear from the Fire Department, as it relates to community safety and what you can do to reduce your risk for in-home falls.

Join on Fridays, March 21-May 2 from 9:30AM-11:30AM at the South Wood County YMCA. This program is open to the community. Non-members are welcome and encouraged to attend. Pre-registration is required by calling the Aging and Disability Resource Center of Central Wisconsin at: 888-486-9545. There is no cost to attend.

Meet Wisconsin’s 2025 longest-married couples

FOR CITY TIMES

WOOD COUNTY – Wisconsin Family Council (WFC) announced the newest inductees into its Marriage Hall of Fame. WFC began this unique Hall of Fame in 2022 to honor both the institution of marriage and individual marriages that have gone the distance. Applying to be part of the Marriage Hall of Fame was open to any married couple in Wisconsin who has currently been married 60 or more years.

Wisconsin’s 2025 longest-married couple is Theodore and Rosemary Prosser of Oneida who have been married 76 years. Theodore and Rosemary were married on Oct. 20, 1948. They have 10 children, 16 grandchildren, 17 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild. They are still able to live in their home and celebrate many family outings together. Their marriage is a lesson for all married couples: “Enjoy life and love hard.”

17 other couples join the Prossers in WFC’s Marriage Hall of Fame this year:

Ken and Kate Cisar, Oconto Falls, married 75 years.

Verne and Sylvia Wepner, Oshkosh, married 74 years.

Roger and Joanne Stecker, Oshkosh, married 74 years.

Bryon “Bill” and Ruth Johnson, Bellevue, married 73 years.

Ray and Sandy Swanson, Muskego, married 62 years.

Arthur and Joan Seyfert, West Bend, married 61 years.

Jim and Patricia Cronin married 60 years.

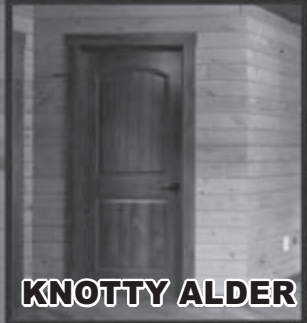

Wisconsin Family Council president, Daniel Degner, commented, “What an incredible accomplishment for each of these couples! Each is well deserved in making it into this year’s WFC Marriage Hall of Fame. Their milestone anniversaries are a great testament to the truth that marriage can last a lifetime. Their lives are an example for young married people like me. Without a doubt each of these marriages have experienced trials and blessings, and through it all, their commitment to each other and their vows prevailed. We are so glad we can honor these couples who exemplify the kinds of marriages that build families that form a strong foundation for our communities, state, and nation. Congratulations to each of them!”

Each of these couples will receive a framed certificate recognizing their induction into Wisconsin’s Marriage Hall of Fame. Pictures of all the inductees and their stories are posted on wifamilycouncil.org. Applications for next year will open in Jan. 2026.

Veterinarian survives near-fatal cattle chute injuries, shares safety warning

FOR CITY TIMES

WOOD COUNTY – Eric Knock’s near-fatal injuries have mostly healed, but his approach to safety is changed forever.

In Sept. 2022, the Miller, S.D., veterinarian was working with a crew in a producer’s pasture. As Knock finished treating a bull, he stood up next to the chute. At that moment, the squeeze gate on the chute was released to free the bull, causing Knock’s skull to become pinched between the chute frame and squeeze mechanism. Knock survived significant injuries and is now sharing his ordeal at tellingthestory-project.org/eric.

Knock’s story is the latest of 15 such incidents shared through Telling the Story Project, which embeds injury-prevention messages directly into these firsthand accounts, transforming them into powerful educational tools. The project is a collaboration between three agricultural safety and health centers funded by the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) -- the Upper Midwest Agricultural Safety and Health Center, the Central States Center for Agricultural Safety and Health, and the National Children’s Center for Rural and Agricultural Health and Safety – as well as the National Farm Medicine Center.

Although Knock didn’t lose consciousness, he doesn’t recall details of the incident, nor being airlifted to the hospital.

“I didn’t need surgery, but I had several skull fractures,” he said. “Doctors used words like ‘extensive’ and ‘many.’ None of the fractures were displaced. If that had happened, the outcome could have been much more serious.”

Knock spent 12 days in the hospital and then months afterward recovering from bleeding on the brain, nerve damage affecting an eye, and severe damage to his middle ear and eardrum, which required surgery.

Since the incident, Knock takes a few crucial seconds to assess his environment before he starts working.

“I’m more aware of where everyone is while we’re working,” he said. “I pay close attention to pinch points on equipment, so I recognize the hazards to myself and fellow workers. We all know there are dangers when we work around large animals and equipment. This incident has intensified our understanding of what can happen.”

The Telling the Story Project motto is, “Tell a story, save a life,” reflecting its mission to inspire change through personal stories.

“By sharing these personal stories, we hope to encourage farmers, farm workers, and ranchers to adopt safer practices in their work,” said Ellen Duysen, project team member, Central States Center for Agricultural Safety and Health.

From the Editor: Letters to the Editor

To our valued readers,

We want to take a moment to explain an important update to our editorial policy regarding political letters and opinion pieces.

While many media companies are eliminating political content altogether, we remain committed to providing a forum for meaningful discussions that contribute to the education and awareness of our communities.

To continue offering this service in a sustainable way, we have made two key changes:

1. A 250-word limit on political letters and opinion pieces to encourage clear, concise, and impactful discourse. We ask that you also provide supporting documentation on the facts included.
2. A required submission fee for publishing political opinions, reflecting the significant investment required to maintain this platform.

Our newspapers and digital media provide a powerful and far-reaching outlet for those who wish to share their views. With that opportunity comes responsibility. We must ensure that all contributions meet our standards for civility and relevance.

We reserve the right to edit submissions that are derogatory, inflammatory, or counterproductive to constructive community dialogue.

The reality is that providing a platform for public opinions—one that reaches thousands of readers—requires time, effort and editorial oversight.

This is a service we are proud to offer, but it must be managed responsibly.

The alternative would be for individuals to purchase their own media outlets, which is impractical for most.

Instead, we are maintaining an accessible, fair, and carefully moderated forum for public discussion. We appreciate your understanding and continued trust as we work to provide a space for informed and respectful dialogue.

Aspirus encourages early support during Eating Disorders Awareness Week

FOR CITY TIMES

WOOD COUNTY – An estimated 28.8 million Americans will experience an eating disorder in their lifetime, according to the National Eating Disorders Association (NEDA). Despite their prevalence, eating disorders often remain misunderstood and stigmatized.

“Eating disorders encompass a wide range of conditions tied to disordered eating patterns, negative body image, and societal pressure to conform to ideals of beauty and health,” says Taylor Young, a clinical therapist with Aspirus Health.

Anorexia nervosa, bulimia nervosa, and binge eating disorder are the most common diagnoses, but eating disorders can affect people of all ages, genders, and backgrounds. While many assume these conditions primarily affect young women, Young emphasizes that young men and individuals across all identities are also at risk.

The Fix Is In recognizes World Spay Day

FOR CITY TIMES

WOOD COUNTY – Feb. 27 marked World Spay Day, an international campaign raising awareness about the importance of spaying and neutering pets. Animal shelters across the state are over-run, and a severe veterinarian shortage is making it increasingly difficult for pet owners to access spay and neuter services.

Founded in 2009, The Fix Is In is a 100% volunteer-driven nonprofit dedicated to expanding access to spay and neuter services across Wisconsin. In 2024, the organization helped fund nearly 700 spay and neuter surgeries for outdoor cats. Previously operating a mobile veterinary clinic, The Fix Is In shifted its focus in 2022 to providing financial and logistical support, ensuring these critical surgeries remain accessible and affordable. By reducing pet overpopulation, the organization helps create a healthier environment for both animals and their communities

“Cats have been a part of our world for thousands of years. It is critical that we do what we can to control the population,” says Karla Ortman, The Fix Is In founder. Wisconsin is full of compassionate people who care for cats and dogs, both in homes and on farms. Cats play a vital role in controlling rodent populations, but without spaying and neutering, even a small number of cats can quickly multiply into a population of 50 or more. This can lead to inbreeding, disease, and malnourishment. A single unspayed female cat can easily give birth to around 60 kittens within five years. Spaying and neutering prevent unchecked population growth that can become unmanageable for individuals and communities.

Spaying and neutering save lives. Studies show that altered cats and dogs live longer, healthier lives than unaltered pets. These procedures reduce the risk of disease, prevent life-threatening reproductive cancers, and decrease dangerous behaviors like roaming and fighting. For outdoor cats, spay and neuter are especially critical - only 25% of kittens survive to adulthood, with many facing starvation, disease, or deadly exposure to harsh weather. Preventing these litters spares countless animals from suffering while improving the well-being of existing pets and strays.

As part of their efforts, The Fix Is In has launched a specialty license plate to help offset the cost of spay and neuter surgeries for individuals and rescue organizations statewide.

“Money is tight for many families, but we love our pets,” says Bree Richardson, president of The Fix Is In board. “Purchasing this specialty plate is a simple yet impactful way for Wisconsin residents to support animal welfare and help curb animal overpopulation. Funds from license plate orders go directly to covering spay and neuter surgery costs for individuals and rescues assisting people with spay and neuter.”

For more information on how to support spay and neuter efforts in Wisconsin or to order a specialty license plate and make a direct impact, visit The Fix Is In at <https://www.thefixisin.org>

“The pressure to meet societal standards of body image can be overwhelming,” Young explains. “It’s important to remember that health and weight are not as connected as many people think.”

Young notes that those most at risk are often young adults with high levels of anxiety and a drive for perfectionism. However, eating disorders do not discriminate—they can affect anyone, regardless of age, gender, or background.

Early intervention is key to preventing long-term complications, such as mental health challenges and nutritional deficiencies. Recognizing warning signs, like changes in eating habits or behaviors after meals, can help initiate important conversations.

“Approach these concerns with empathy,” advises es Young. “Open, judgment-free conversations can encourage individuals to seek the support they need.”

Recovery from an eating disorder is possible with the right support. A multidisciplinary approach—including health care providers, therapists, and nutritionists—is essential to creating a treatment plan tailored to individual needs. Family and community support also play a crucial role in recovery.

“As a society, we need to dispel the stigma surrounding eating disorders,” Young stresses. “Awareness campaigns like National Eating Disorders Awareness Week can spark important conversations about mental health and inclusivity.”

If you or someone you know is struggling, help is available. Start by scheduling an appointment with a primary care clinician, who can connect you with a behavioral health specialist. Dear Reader, Until recently, I had never been to Cartagena, Colombia. But when the opportunity arose for a short getaway with some old friends, I couldn’t resist.

Cartagena is a vast and vibrant city, but we focused our time in its historic district—the heart of its charm and beauty. There, we wandered cobblestone streets filled with pantomimes, women in brightly colored traditional dresses balancing baskets of fruit on their heads, and countless vendors offering souvenirs in the plaza. We explored the old fortress, visited the monastery perched high above the city, and soaked in the rich history surrounding us. Our home base was perfectly situated near Plaza de San Pedro, placing us right in the middle of the energy and magic of Cartagena.

One of the great joys of travel is meeting new people, and the locals of Cartagena welcomed us with open arms. With a few Spanish speakers in our group—and occasional help from Duolingo on our phones—we struck up conversations that made the experience even more meaningful. We indulged in Colombia’s world-famous coffee, savoring the flavors offered by Juan Valdez and Alberto’s in just about every little café we encountered.

The highlight of our trip came on our final evening at La Vitrola, a restaurant as enchanting as the city itself. The food was spectacular; the live band filled the air with music, and the atmosphere was pure joy. One of our friends, having shown up in shorts, was graciously provided with a blanket to meet the dress code—an unexpected but amusing moment. After dinner, we found ourselves outside, singing along with street musicians playing soulful Spanish songs of lost love, carried away by the music and the moment.

As I reflect on our time in Cartagena, I realize that no trip leaves you unchanged. We came home with new memories and strengthened friendships. Perhaps, in some small way, we left a piece of ourselves behind in that beautiful city. And maybe, just maybe, Cartagena carries a trace of us now too.

FOR CITY TIMES
WISCONSIN RAPIDS – The Wisconsin Rapids Rafter's have announced the reveal of their alternate identity for the 2025 season; The Central Wisconsin Mashers. With a rich appreciation for the agriculture in the area and the goal to spotlight local exports, the Rafter's teamed up with the Food+Farm Exploration Center and McCain Foods to present this identity.

“We are very excited to release the Mashers identity and create a fun way to spotlight the potato growers in the area. Creating this alternate identity was a team effort from our front office, our friends at Food+Farm and McCain Foods, and our graphic design intern, Ella Avery, who designed the logo for us.” said Assistant General Manager Jake Adams. General Manager Ken Day said about the alternate identity, “We wanted to accomplish three things with our alternate uniform, bring together the surrounding areas under the Central Wisconsin name, celebrate the potato growers of Wisconsin, and create something fun for our Rafter's fans.” The Rafter's will wear the mashed potato themed jerseys on Friday, Aug. 1 against the Lakeshore Chi-

“The Wealth InFormation Lady”: Tax Harvesting, Is It Worth It?

The Wealth InFormation Lady

BY LOUANN SCHULFER, AWMA®, AIF®
ACCREDITED WEALTH
MANAGEMENT ADVISOR SM
ACCREDITED INVESTMENT
FIDUCIARY®, PUBLISHED AUTHOR

I've written about some of the tax harvesting that we've done for our clients and have had many discussions as to how the strategy can be of benefit. Essentially, we sell individual positions such as those in stocks, bonds or exchange traded funds, to “realize” a tax loss or a tax gain in a non-retirement account. Then, we reinvest the money in a different investment, abiding by the wash-sale rule. That rule disallows a tax deduction if one sells an investment position at a loss and then repurchases the same or a substantially similar investment within 30 days of the sale that booked the loss. We book the losses because they can be used to offset realized capital gains. For example, if one had a $100,000 realized long-term capital gain in a given tax year and $30,000 of realized capital losses, they could offset $30,000 of the gain and only have to pay tax on $70,000. Additionally, if one has more capital losses in a given year than they have capital gains, the capital losses can be carried forward and potentially used in other tax years.

I was talking about this with a client of mine who is anticipating future capital gains from his business, possibly from real estate sales, and as a long-term investor, from his investments. He was happy to know that we can, and did in fact, harvest losses when we had the opportunity to do so. His business partner has a similar portfolio, but worked with a different advisor. That advisor said tax harvesting wouldn't be worth it. I relayed to my client that I could not say why tax harvesting would not be worth it in that instance or that advisor's mind. It could be because of the time and effort that it takes. It could be because of the costs of buying and selling, which can be paid by either the client or the advisor. Certainly, there may be times when the effort or cost would outweigh the benefits when considering whether tax harvesting is worth it.

DNR accepting artwork for the 2026 turkey, pheasant and waterfowl Stamp Contest

FOR CITY TIMES

WOOD COUNTY – The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is now accepting artwork entries for the Wild Turkey, Pheasant and Waterfowl Stamp Design Contests. The winning designs will appear on the 2026 collection of stamps.

Each year, local artists from around Wisconsin compete for an opportunity to showcase their talents, commemorate their work and promote wildlife conservation across the state.

Hunters are required to purchase a species-specific stamp to legally harvest any of these game birds in Wisconsin. The sales of these three stamps generate hundreds of thousands of dollars annually for species management throughout the state, including habitat management, restoration, education and research projects.

Stamp design entries must be received or postmarked by Aug. 1, 2025. Judging will take place on Aug. 23, 2025, at the Waterfowl Hunters Expo in Oshkosh, Wisconsin.

The winners of the 2025 contests were:

Wild Turkey – Robert Leum of Holmen

Pheasant – Robert Leum of Holmen

Waterfowl – Jon Rickaby of Suamico

All stamp contest applicants should review the contest rules carefully to ensure the eligibility of their entries. Artwork must meet technical requirements to be properly processed and prepared for judging and display.

Rules, entry information and reproduction rights agreements are available on the DNR's Wildlife Stamp Funding and Stamp Design Contest webpage.

Stamp contest applicants are strongly encouraged to obtain insurance for their artwork if shipped and to confirm the delivery of their submission directly with the stamp contest coordinator.

The DNR is now accepting artwork entries for the 2026 Wild Turkey, Pheasant and Waterfowl Stamp Design Contests. Jon Rickaby created the winning 2025 waterfowl stamp.
