$10 million grant eyed by Canton

BY PAUL MITCHELL
North Country This Week

CANTON – The public will have an opportunity to help enhance the Village of Canton's application to the 2022 rounds of the Downtown Revitalization Initiative (DRI) and NY-Forward competition.

The State has designated $200 million in the 2022 state budget for these programs - $100 million to the DRI and $100 million to NY-Forward - to help communities develop plans and implement projects that will "accelerate and expand New York's burgeoning downtown revitalization."

The public is invited to session on Thursday, Sept. 15 at 6:30 p.m. at TAUNY, 53 Main St., when feedback and potential projects will be shared.

Two less formal engagements were held Sept. 9 at the Canton Farmers Market and Wednesday, Sept. 14.

"We are interested in hearing ideas for revitalizing our downtown area. How can we improve the public realm to make downtown more navigable, more attractive, more walkable and bikeable, for example," stated Canton Economic Development Director Leigh Rodriguez.

New gun laws shut down FD fundraiser

BY JEFF CHUDZINSKI
North Country This Week

WEST POTSDAM — The "Biggest Little Gun Show in the North Country" has been canceled for the second time this year, citing Governor Hochul's new gun control measures as the reason.

According to a Facebook post on the West Potsdam Volunteer Fire Department's page, the decision "wasn't an easy one."

"After speaking with the St Lawrence County Sheriff's office, the District Attorney's office, and the NY State Police we felt we had no choice. They were all very helpful even though they couldn't officially give me any legal advice," the post reads.

Officials with the department cited § 265.01-e Criminal possession of a firearm, rifle or shotgun in a sensitive location as cause to cancel the show.

Under the law anyone in possession of a firearm in a "sensitive space" who is not law enforcement will be charged with a felony. These "sensitive spaces" include government buildings for the purpose of government administration, including courts, "any place used for the performance, art entertainment, gaming, or sporting events such as theaters, stadiums, racetracks, museums, amusement parks, performance venues, concerts, exhibits, conference centers, banquet halls, and gaming facilities and video lottery terminal facilities as licensed by the gaming commission," as well

Long defunct building may get $2.2 million face lift

BY ADAM ATKINSON
North Country This Week

POTSDAM — The owner of the former Scanlon Auto Parts building at 4 and 6 Depot St. is planning a $2.2 million overhaul of the structure which was condemned after a fire there in February 2015.

The 12,000-square-foot building complex, which contains the 8,000 commercial space where the auto parts store was located and a multi-story apartment building, is currently owned by Pam and Larry Hazen under their real estate company Trezza Realty LLC.

The Hazens plan to present their plans to deconstruct and rehabilitate the building at the next village board meeting on Sept. 19, with the goal of applying for a grant for the work through the state Restore New York Communities Initiative.

The village would be the lead applicant on the grant and Trezza the sub-grantee, said Village Planner Fred Hanss.

Hanss said the Hazens would front over $200,000 of their money as a match for the grant. The village will serve only as the applying grantee and not contribute any financial backing to the endeavor.

Scanlon Auto Parts closed in December 2014, after selling auto parts since the early 1970s. A 2015 fire seriously damaged the apartments and commercial area.

Hanss said the building's condition has deteriorated over time. The building originally housed an Oval Wood Dish factory.

Hanss said the future plans for the buildings include a new commercial area, high-end apartments and an events space there.

The rehab will be a piece of an overall redevelopment and rejuvenation of the Depot and Raymond streets block. Other developments around the block have included the SLC Arts Creative Spirit Arts Center, the Children's Museum, Garner Park, and future plans for the Market Square Mall which is owned by local architect Brooks Washburn.

"It all links in with every other thing we are doing down there," Hanss said. "It all dovetails together."

Hanss said the grant application is due in mid October. The village board is expected to vote on whether or not to apply for the grant before then.

The village planner said the application process will

as “any gathering of individuals to collectively express their constitutional rights to protest or assemble.”

According to the law, possession of a firearm in said areas is a class E felony.

Officials say the cancellation of the event, along with the spring show, has cost the department at least $10,000.

The funds are used most often for training expenses, equipment purchases to maintain state compliance, as well as vehicle repairs and other miscellaneous expenses incurred by the department, officials say.

Officials with the fire department also chose to cancel the spring gun show following the murder of SUNY Potsdam student Elizabeth Howell out of respect for the community and Howell’s family. Despite the cancellation of the West Potsdam Gun Show, organizers with the Syracuse Gun Show, which is held at the New York State Fairgrounds, have decided to move forward and still host the show.

“The largest gun show held in New York State! More than 800 exhibits and displays are expected from collectors and dealers from all over the United States,” the show’s website reads.

According to the website, members of the Onondaga County Sheriff’s Office Pistol License Unit will be at the show “to answer questions regarding state pistol license applications issued by the county and will be processing amendments to acquire handguns to county-issued pistol license holders.”

The new laws have also drawn the ire of reenactment organizations in Madrid and Plattsburgh who say they can no longer use any firearms for demonstrations.

According to one report, organizers of the Battle of Plattsburgh reenactment were informed that musket-loading type rifles, black powder rifles, flintlock rifles and similar firearms would constitute a violation of the new laws if the events were to move forward.

The same report did say that cannons were still allowed.

Assemblyman Billy Jones, who represents the easternmost portion of St. Lawrence County, said the decision is affecting tourism and the economy.

“This is what happens when the state rushes to pass legislation without properly vetting it first. Firearms at reenactments are not dangerous- reenactors have public safety in mind when organizing these events. But now, all future battle reenactments are in jeopardy because reenactors are not going to travel far distances if they are not allowed to bring their firearms, especially re-enactors from Canada,” Jones said.

Jones went on further, saying re-enactments are an “excellent teaching tool, and not allowing firearms will take away from experiencing living history.”

Scott Wilson, volunteer Fort Tribute Coordinator, said that the new laws have essentially put an end to historical re-enactments, including those held at Fort Tribute in Madrid.

“I have been a living historian for twenty-two years and in that time have enjoyed the opportunity to share my in-depth knowledge of the American Civil War with the general public and school-aged children. Fort Tribute, a Civil-War area educational interpretive center, provides access to the people of St. Lawrence County and beyond the North Country the opportunity to experience hands-on living history educational opportunities, specifically about the 6,000 men from our county who fought, 1861-1865,” Wilson wrote in a North Country Now letter to the editor.

Wilson openly called on officials to take action and offer a clarified law to exempt participants in such events.

“We need to act quickly as possible to ensure our living history events, commemoration and battle reenactments can continue adding value to our already rich New York State history has to offer as well as the essential tourism it draws,” he wrote. Congresswoman Elise Stefanik also issued a statement on the cancellation of the event, saying she intends to work to restore the West Potsdam Gun Show.

“Kathy Hochul should be ashamed for forcing the cancellation of the West Potsdam Volunteer Fire Department gun show and attacking our Constitutional rights,” Stefanik said.

“The North Country knows that I will always stand up for our values and the Constitutional rights of every New Yorker and American and work to restore the West Potsdam Volunteer Fire Department gun show, a great event that hundreds of patriots proudly attend,” she continued.

Though County Legislators did not offer extensive arguments specifically against the cancellation of the show, a resolution in direct opposition against the Concealed Carry Improvement Act was addressed and debated extensively during the full board meeting held on Sept. 12. Legislators did say that the new laws are negatively impacting local reenactments and other events that promote tourism in the region. The CCIA was passed in direct opposition of the Supreme Court’s ruling on NYSRPA v. Bruen in June, according to state officials.

Under the laws in the CCIA, a slew of restrictions were put in place that affect lawful gun owners, including a requirement to pass a 16-hour pistol course, a mandatory interview with law enforcement, full disclosure of all social media accounts in the last three years, new safe storage restrictions and an extensive list of “sensitive spaces” firearms are not permitted.

County officials have spoken against many of the restrictions throughout the summer and have recommended legal action be taken by the county moving forward.

“We also need to present a pipeline of potential projects to demonstrate that if we are awarded funding, we have committed partners and are ready to proceed.”

The programs divide the state into 10 regions, with each region receiving one $10 million DRI award and another $10 million for up to three smaller NY-Forward awards.

The Village of Canton is considering applications to both programs. Previous recipients of the grant in the North Country region include Plattsburgh, Watertown, Saranac Lake, Potsdam, Massena and Tupper Lake.

Applications will be reviewed by the North Country Regional Economic Development Council, which based on the potential for transformation, nominates applications to be forwarded to the state selection team.

“If awarded funding, there is “an intense planning process” to develop a Strategic Investment Plan, followed by formal solicitation and selection of projects by a local planning committee” said Rodriguez.

The Question: Do you plan to go deer hunting this fall?

Deer hunting season will soon begin, with early bowhunting starting Sept. 27, crossbow season starting Oct. 12 and the regular season beginning Oct. 22. Are you planning to go hunting this fall?

HERE ARE COMMENTS from some survey participants:

“I don’t hunt, but I love me some back strap.”

“I could never kill one of those beautiful creatures. I enjoy seeing and watching them daily around my home and surroundings. Only if I was desperate for food.”

“I love getting out in the woods. If I get a buck that’s a bonus.”

“Haven’t bought a license in over 5 years. Having just turned 65 this year, it’s become more difficult to reach the state land hunting areas I use to navigate easily. Over the years I see more and more prime hunting lands being posted. Many hunters of private lands simply want that big buck and wouldn’t lower themselves to shoot a doe. This practice only serves to make the deer herd out of balance. Too many does spells accidents. I would like to see the state implement a tax incentive to landowners that would allow a lottery for those looking only to fill their freezers.”

“I spend a lot of time together with my son and grandson this time of year. My favorite part of hunting season is definitely the family time.”

“I do not hunt but I will happily cook and eat venison given to me by a hunter who I let use my summer camp for hunting.”

“Hunting is a long held family tradition of enjoying the outdoors together and bring home nutritious meat.”

Views on clergy as mandated reporters

Responding to the letter written by Ben Hull, Madrid candidate for county legislator, who says clergy shouldn’t be mandated reporters:

No question sir, you are a true politician. Your elegant words and your line of reasoning are very persuasive but it doesn’t meet the standards of the faith you claim to have. One thing for sure, if a child, having no connection to your congregation, walked into your church and confided that he or she was sexually assaulted. The authorities would have been immediately called and you would know that you have done the right thing. You would look good for doing what is right, but that was not the case. The sexually assaulted children and the pedophile both had connections to your church, so now a different standard was applied.

Using this loop-hole in the law, “exempting clergy as mandatory reporters”, to not report this crime, is wrong. This loop-hole probably came into existence because of a corrupt clergy in bed with corrupt politicians, passing a law to protect the corrupt clergy from all kinds of heinous crimes committed against children. We all heard the stories and the history of the clergy, the horrible acts that were committed against children. That is why, now, more than half the US states have done away with the clergy getting a pass and now need to report these crimes.

It is a disgrace for you or any CFC member with knowledge of this crime to hide it and sweep it under the rug, continuing business as usual. A little foresight would tell you that as these children grow up sin will eventually be shouted from the rooftops. You show no repentance, only hollow justification. CFC has an historical pattern of doing this. I know, I lived it. And to accept tithes and offerings for 6-7 years from members who were kept in the dark of these crimes, well that’s another sin altogether.

What parent would not put the safety and security of their own child ahead of protecting the reputation of an organization? Mr Hull, I’m sure you would agree. Apparently, 7 years later, someone eventually agreed and did the right thing and now the shame of your reasoning has come down hard upon the whole church.

The leadership at CFC has a history of attempting to save face at the expense of the victims while coddling the perpetrators. This luciferian practice needs to stop. The leadership and anyone who had knowledge of this crime has to Come Clean and own it. This crime may not pass as a crime in our justice system but certainly counts as a crime against God.

“If the watchman sees the sword coming, and does not blow the trumpet, and the people are not warned, and the sword comes and takes any person from among them, I, God, will hold the watchman accountable for his blood.” Ezekiel 33:6. Point being, don’t conceal potential danger.

The definition I like to use for the word righteousness is (right use of Gods Law). Hiding any type of crime against a child (not reporting it for 6 or 7 years) is extremely heinous and is definitely not the right use of God’s Law.

It is not easy to confess actions that are rooted in your ego and pride but it is necessary to get everything out in the open and let the chips fall as they may. That is the only way I know of where you can start restoring any relationship with God. Empty your cup and accept the consequences. It is easy to go from the light to darkness but to get back into the light is one hell of a displeasure. I know I have lived that one too.

Bottom line: Own it.

Register to vote by Oct. 14

National Voter Registration Day (NVRD) will celebrate its tenth anniversary on September 20. Since the first NVRD, nearly 4.7 million people have registered to vote on this “holiday” which is intended to focus attention on the importance of voting.

Every year on NVRD, volunteers and organizations all over the country come together to set up voter registration tables, and engage in media outreach to help Americans register to vote.

According to 2020 Census data, as many as one quarter of those eligible to vote are not registered. The sponsors and partners involved in NVRD aim to shrink that number toward zero.

The National League of Women Voters is proud to be one of the ninety-eight organizations and companies that are “Premier Partners” of National Voter Registration Day. There are thousands more local partners across the country, including the LWV of St. Lawrence County.

Visit the League’s “one stop” voter information site, www.Vote411.org to check your registration status, or find out how to register online, in person or by mail. On Vote411 you can also locate your polling site, and learn more about the candidates running for Federal and state offices.

General Election Day is November 8. Early voting will be available from October 29 through November 6. The early voting polling sites in St. Lawrence County are: 42 Maple St. in Potsdam (Clarkson Building—former Honda dealership), and at the Dobisky Center in Ogdensburg (100 Riverside Ave.). The last day to apply for an absentee ballot online or to postmark an application sent by mail is October 24. The last day to apply in person to vote absentee is November 7.

Your vote is your voice: if you aren’t already registered, get ready to make yourself heard by registering to vote on National Voter Registration Day. If you can’t do it then, remember that the deadline to register this year is October 14.

Councilman questions retaliation in Colton

At the end of a special meeting of the Colton Town Board this month, I was informed by Town Supervisor Ronald Robert that he had given instructions to the town attorney to investigate me for a letter regarding religion and the public schools that I had written to NCN (Learning traditional value and morality, asserts Colton man), a letter that I wrote as a private citizen and not as a member of the board. I was also given print-outs of a discussion about my letter that had occurred on the personal Facebook page of a town resident, Danielle Dalbec Edwards. Supervisor Robert adduced some critical comments made about me and my letter on this Facebook page as the primary motivation for his initiating his investigation of me. Supervisor Robert has launched this investigation of his own accord and without any consultation with the other board members. That he should use his position and the Colton taxpayers' money to silence any defense of the traditional family and to stifle any criticism of transgenderization in the public schools is unconscionable. A recent article in City Journal explained the "foundational concepts" of the transgender agenda in our nation's public schools: "Western society has created a 'Heterosexual Matrix'...that underpins an oppressive system of 'patriarchy,' 'homophobia,' and 'transphobia.' To liberate schools from this system, administrators and districts must adopt 'queer pedagogy'...which will disrupt the 'commonsense view of the world' and replace it with queer alternatives, emphasizing 'gender non-conformity.'" Not even a Dr. Frankenstein or a Dr. Moreau would have contemplated the mutilating operations that are being performed on teenagers today. Parents have not merely the right, they have the duty to make sure that their children are not being brain-washed in the public schools into giving their consent to treatments and operations that will mar and mangle them for life. Supervisor Robert's actions will have an intimidating effect not only on town elected officials and employees, but on any town resident who relies on the town, as all do, for basic services. What kind of retaliation can they expect if they write a letter to the papers expressing their religious convictions, convictions that the town supervisor might disdain? In any case, "Male and female He created them," says Scripture. Not even the town supervisor of Colton can change that.

to ensure our living history events, commemoration and battle reenactments can continue adding value to our already rich New York State history has to offer as well as the essential tourism it draws. If you have any specific questions, please feel free to reach out to me directly. Scott A. Wilson Volunteer Fort Tribute Coordinator

New gun law halts reenactments

The newly passed firearm law has halted all historical reenactments, commemorations and living history demonstrations that were planned in the coming weeks, including, but not limited to events at the Almanzo Wilder Farm, Burke, NY, Fort Tribute, Madrid, NY, German Flatts, NY at Old Fort Herkimer Church in the Mohawk Valley and Angelica in Western NY. All are important to local and state tourism. More importantly, the continued education of our youth in how this great Country was formed. Everything related to reenactments of the French Indian War, Revolutionary War, War of 1812 and Civil War are now halted. This is extremely ironic, since Path Through History weekend is nearing October 8-9, 2022. According to the I Love NY website, Path Through History, "There is no better way to discover New York State's eye-opening history than at our numerous historical sites, such as Washington's Headquarters, Newburgh and Fort Ontario State Historic site. We could add to name just a few, Fort Ticonderoga, Fort William Henry, Lake George, Historic Sackets Harbor Battlefield, Old Fort Niagara and Fort La Presentation, Ogdensburg, which all are now affected.

I have been a living historian for twenty-two years and in that time have enjoyed the opportunity to share my in-depth knowledge of the American Civil War with the general public and school-aged children. Fort Tribute, a Civil-War area educational interpretive center, provides access to the people of St. Lawrence County and beyond the North Country the opportunity to experience hands-on living history educational opportunities, specifically about the 6,000 men from our county who fought, 1861-1865. Before September 1, 2022, a Civil-War era black powder musket could be used in historical reenactments, drills, commemorations, ceremonial honor guards and firing demonstrations. Today, it would appear to violate the new law. It is important that clarification about the use of those in the context of historical demonstration purposes need to be made. As the law is written, there appears to be no exception made for these.

We need to act quickly as possible

Assemblyman Smullen endorses Gray

I am honored to endorse Scott Gray to be the next Assemblyman in the 116th River District. I first met Scott when I worked at the Hudson River-Black River Regulating District. I saw a person who knew and understood the finances between the District and the county, but more importantly I saw a person with a deep concern to ensure the communities along the Black River were served well by the District. Scott was a great ally to have when it came Serving communities along the Black River. Scott has a great mind and motivation to do what is right for his constituents. When in Albany I take the approach of discussion, calling around to my colleagues and seeking their opinions. This is a way of governing that myself and Scott have done together since the Regulating District. I have full confidence in serving with Scott in the New York State Assembly and that we will be able to work together to get things accomplished in the North Country. I know his care and concern for the North Country and you will be well served by having him in Albany on your behalf. I truly feel Scott will be a hard working Assemblyman and a strong advocate for his constituents. Scott Gray is the right voice for the job.

Robert Smullen

Praises Stefanik for doctor recruitment

I support and commend Congresswoman Elise Stefanik's efforts and her call upon the Northern Border Regional Commission (NBRC) to expand opportunities to recruit doctors to our region. The NBRC is a Federal-State partnership for economic and community development in northern Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and New York. The Commission could implement a J-1 Visa program waiver program as agencies in other parts of the country have done. The waiver program would allow non domestic physicians trained in the US to work in health professional shortage areas or medically underserved areas within the NBRC. Without the waiver, individuals here under the J-1 visa have to leave the US and return to their home country for two years before returning to the US to work following the completion of their education. A waiver program would help as it could permit those individual to work in the US for 3 years without having to remain out of the country for two years. The North Country counties are included in the NBRC region and would clearly benefit.

The show will feature over 50 North County artisans selling handcrafted or homemade products, including food, jewelry, wines, quilts, furniture, hand-turned bowls, and rolling pins,

The artisans will be situated throughout the outdoor museum.

“Attendees are encouraged to bring their wagons and enjoy the many vendors throughout the grounds,” said Brooke Rouse, the Chamber’s Director of Tourism.

“The show is a great one-stop-shop for holiday décor, gifts, or personal pleasures. There is something for everyone, and Members of the 'Sweethearts & Heroes' group pose with a student at a school event.

Norwood-Norfolk Central students go back to school with Sweethearts & Heroes

NORWOOD — A squad of cape-less superheroes returned to Norwood this week to show students how they can spread HOPE (Hold On, Possibilities Exist!) during the 2022-2023 school year and beyond.

Sweethearts & Heroes, a student empowerment and empathy activation team that prevents bullying and suicide, will be in the Norwood-Norfolk Central School District on Monday, Sept. 12 and Tuesday, Sept. 13.

The Sweethearts & Heroes team is: Tom Murphy, director and co-founder, of St. Albans, Vt.; Ret. U.S. Army Sgt. Rick Yarosh, a HOPE expert from New York who was burned severely while serving in Iraq; and Pat Fish, an aspiring young leader who first saw Sweethearts & Heroes as a student in Glens Falls.

"We're thrilled to be back in New York for the 2022-2023 school year, and we're honored that our friends and colleagues in Norwood asked us to visit again," said Murphy, whose team worked with teachers in the district on Sept. 1 and Sept. 2. Sweethearts & Heroes also spent two days in the Norwood-Norfolk Central School District last February. Murphy said, "The most recent national data tells us that student anxiety and hopelessness are still on the rise — a trend that was escalating before COVID hit — so our work in Norwood next week is crucial."

While in Norwood next week, the team will offer its signature presentation to students in Grades K-2.

"Norwood-Norfolk is very excited to welcome back Sweethearts & Heroes to continue their programming with our students and staff," said Dr. George Biffer, Norwood-Norfolk Central School District High School Principal. "Their messaging of HOPE, Bully Buttons, overcoming adversity, and their Circle work has had positive impacts upon our students who enthusiastically wanted to continue talking with Tom, Rick, and Pat even after their presentations concluded last year."

Sweethearts & Heroes offers: a signature presentation that calls for HOPE, Empathy and Action; Circle, which is built on the ancient ritual of communicating in a circle to build empathy; and BRAVES Buddies, which trains older students in bully drills that they, in turn, teach to students in lower grades.

For 15 years, Sweethearts & Heroes has presented what Murphy calls "the 'stop, drop and roll' of bullying" to more than 2 million students in schools from New England to Hawaii.

For more information on Sweethearts & Heroes, visit: sweetheartsandheroes.com.

Transportation safety tips for SLC motorists, students

As students are now back in school, motorists are urged to be aware as more school-aged children will be crossing streets and buses will be dropping students off.

The most important element of bus safety involves the loading and unloading of children. Please reinforce these safety measures with your child:

Only cross the road when the driver signals that it is safe to do so/

Parents waiting for the loading or unloading of students need to refrain from giving signals for children to cross;

When waiting on the side of the road for the bus, students must be a safe distance from the road until the bus comes to a complete stop and the doors open.

Students walking to school are reminded to carefully cross the street. With an increasing number of electric vehicles, students need to look and listen for oncoming traffic before crossing the street.

As a reminder, there are crossing guards in front of the school for safer crossing of the streets.

The first days of school are marked with increased traffic near the school. Motorists not using the school would be wise to avoid the areas of State Street and Farmer Street.

Drivers coming onto the school property are asked to exercise extra diligence and patience. Please be extra vigilant for students crossing the streets, school driveways and parking lots.

For the safety of all, please do not park in designated fire lanes.

Remember to watch for the flashing red lights of buses. It is illegal for motorists to pass a bus with its red lights flashing. This includes buses with flashing red lights in the bus loop or in the parking lot.

PCS Music Friends get donation for scholarship

POTSDAM -- A Potsdam High School alum from the Potsdam High School Class of 1966 has given $500 to PCS Music Friends for scholarships.

P2 Club holding fundraiser

POTSDAM — A bottle drive will take place Saturday, Sept. 17, from 12-3 p.m. behind the Potsdam High School by the sugar shack.

The fundraiser will benefit the Potsdam High School P2 Club. "The P2 Club is an action oriented, student-driven club formed around the Positivity Project.

The club empowers students to do service activities that aid both the students and the community as a whole," said Johannes Richter, P2 Club member.

Public invited to Court Street study presentation Sept. 28

BY PAUL MITCHELL
North Country This Week

CANTON – The public is welcome to listen to a presentation on a recently-completed Court Street study on Sept. 28 at 6 p.m. at the Canton Municipal Building Courtroom.

The study conducted by the Clarkson Construction Engineering Management Consultant Group (C3G) has focused on improving pedestrian and bicycle safety on Court Street between State Street and Main Street.

The presentation will also be offered via Zoom - <https://us02web.zoom.us/j/83636210658?pwd=VH-NiK21HRGhPdjdM1grSDE3Vk-dRUT09> - Meeting ID: 836 3621 0658 - Passcode: 115724

The link is also available at www.cantonny.gov.

“The Complete Streets Task Force and the Village of Canton very much appreciate the expertise and good work of the C3G crew and Clarkson professor Erik Backus, and the generous support of the St. Lawrence Health Initiative for funding this study,” said Village Trustee Klaus Proemm.

“This study will support our effort to create safer pathways, both for kids getting to school and pedestrians and bicyclists in general,” he added.

A preliminary presentation was led by Matthieu Cote, a C3G intern, in August.

His findings then included usage of 5 foot bike lanes on either side of Court Street until the intersection with Chapel Street, addition of crosswalks near Judson Street with bump outs, addition of proper signs for bike lane indications as well as shared use lanes, re-striping of center lines and buffer zones for bike lanes, addition of a raised crosswalk by St. Mary’s Church to slow down traffic and use of a bike box at the intersection of Court and Main Streets.

Also, removal of the right turn lane onto Main Street, extension lane up to bike box, additional space for vehicles turning onto Court Street and Main Street and vice versa, extension of light timing to accommodate for the addition of 2 or 3 vehicles on the single lane, the right turn lane now only lasts approximately 5 seconds and based on data collected is underutilized and can be accommodated with the single lane, increased protection for pedestrians waiting at the intersection as well as more turning space for larger vehicles, and the addition of a three-way stop at the intersection of Court and Judson Streets.

Lastly, include an addition of a two-way bike lane traveling along the southbound vehicle lane that will allow for a bike lane to be present to cyclists throughout the entirety of Court Street traveling in either direction, and a bike box at the intersection of Main and Court Streets.

Town clerk, supervisor wait on budget request letters

BY ADAM ATKINSON
North Country This Week

POTSDAM — The town supervisor and clerk’s office are still waiting on responses to letters asking for budget requests from each town department, elected official, and various clubs and organizations the town funds.

Once the requests for funding are received the town board will start holding budget work sessions to get down to the brass tacks of the municipality’s 2023 fiscal plan.

“Once we have those numbers, we will create the tentative budget which is essentially a wish-list,” said Town Supervisor Ann Carvill. “The Board will then discuss and agree upon what they deem as appropriate funding.”

“We will examine anticipated revenues and have those numbers prepared as well,” Carvill said.

The town board traditionally holds several budget work sessions before eventually approving the tentative budget, holding a public hearing on it, and then voting on the final numbers.

Usually the process takes much of the fall with the final budget adopted by the end of November.

Cinema 10 continues with ‘Belle,’ ‘Red Rocket’

POTSDAM — Cinema 10 continues the Fall 2022 season with upcoming two films.

Cinema 10 will partner with SLC Arts and SVPC for a free screening of “Belle,” a 2021 film directed by Mamoru Hosada, inspired by Beauty and the Beast on Friday, Sept. 16 at 8 p.m. in Ives Park.

When Suzu forges an online persona in a virtual world known as “U,” she becomes a rising pop singer known as Belle. But when her concert is interrupted by a mysterious avatar, her new found fame and confidence could be destroyed as quickly as she found it.

“Belle’ is a beautifully observed, dazzlingly animated sci-fi fairy tale about our online-offline double lives,” writes Robbie Collen of The Telegraph.

“Belle” is 121 minutes long and is rated PG for thematic content, violence, language and brief suggestive material.

This is a smoke free event.

Cinema 10 returns to the Roxy for a 7:15 pm screening of “Red Rocket” on Monday Sept. 19.

After Mikey’s porn career falls flat, he has to return back to his home town in order to pick up the pieces and make a new life for himself.

“Red Rocket” is the latest from director Sean Baker, who made a name for himself with such indie gems as “Tangerine” and “The Florida Project.”

The film is another funny and, at times, arresting portrait of American poverty that manages to “keep hope alive by rescuing devastation from the jaws of happiness,” writes David Ehrlich of IndieWire.

The film features strong sexual content, graphic nudity, drug use and pervasive language.

Tickets are $5.50 general ($45 season) or $4.50 for students and seniors ($35 season). Season tickets are sharable.

The Sideways to perform in Ives Park Friday

POTSDAM — The Sideways will perform on Friday, Sept. 16 from 6-8 p.m. in downtown Potsdam, closing out SLC Arts’ Ives Park Concert Series for the season.

Their performance is sponsored by National Grid and Clarkson University.

The Sideways was formed in 2018 to showcase singer-songwriter Joey “Sideways Stehle” in Rochester, and has quickly built a fan base in Rochester and other upstate NY music scenes.

Stehle delivers deeply personal and introspective lyrics over a wide variety of upbeat musical genres, ranging from Pop to Jazz, with a healthy helping of Funk and Soul to keep your head bouncing and your feet dancing, said a press release from SLC Arts.

The Ives Park Concert Series is free and open to the public.

This concert will be a smoke free event.

Donations will be accepted during the performances, and SLC Arts will sell North Country Arts Festival branded merchandise at the event.

Free household waste collection day slated

CANTON – The Development Authority of the North Country, in cooperation with St. Lawrence County and the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, will be sponsoring a free residential household hazardous waste collection on Saturday, Sept. 17, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the St. Lawrence County Human Services Building on Route 310 in Canton.

Items such as solvents, pesticides, fluorescent light tubes, pool chemicals, paint cans and aerosol cans that still have product in them will be accepted. Empty aerosol cans, motor oil, asbestos, construction debris, and explosives will not be accepted. Electronic waste (televisions, computers) will not be accepted, it can be recycled at most county transfer stations.

New this year is the acceptance of leftover latex paint. In the past, only oil-based paints were accepted, but New York State has implemented a new initiative to recycle latex paint. Any unused oil-based paint will be collected and disposed of as hazardous waste, but latex paint will be collected and recycled. Empty paint cans of either type should be dried out and disposed of in the trash.

In addition, unwanted or unused prescription and over-the-counter medications from residential households only will be collected by law enforcement.

This collection event is open to residential households only; waste will not be accepted from businesses, schools, farms or municipalities.

Info: www.northcountryrecycles.org.

SOAR classes still open for fall semester

POTSDAM – The local SOAR organization’s Fall 2022 courses designed for life-long learners have started and members of the organization still have a chance to register for the remaining open classes.

Members who have registered (and those who plan to register) for the fall program are asked to check the website at soarnorthcountry.org for a list of courses that are still open.

The course booklet, registration form and associated documents are available on the website.

Registration will remain open while there are openings in the proffered classes.

People may also sign up for or add courses by going to the SOAR office during office hours or by calling the office at 315-267-2690.

Those dropping a course need to call the office with that request; there are waiting lists.

Fifteen classes are closed. The semester begins the week of Sept. 5.

This Fall, SOAR brought back courses popular before COVID shut the organization down in the spring of 2020 and is offering a variety of participation courses such as a theater course that will take participants through the whole process of staging a play.

Other options include the sciences, the arts, criminal justice, literature, travel, history and more.

SOAR charges a membership fee of $75 in the fall, which covers the current semester as well as the spring semester.

In addition to attending classes, membership entitles participants to a year of campus parking, library privileges and use of Maxey Hall facilities, all on the SUNY Potsdam campus, and parking on the SLU campus during classes held on that campus.

Those who are returning to classes for the first time since COVID ended the Spring 2020 semester must show proof of vaccination.

The SOAR office, Room 382 in the Van Housen Ext. building on Potsdam’s campus, is open Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Contact the office by email (soar@potsdam.edu) or by phone (315-267-2690) for more information.

Attorney reviews if councilman’s letter violates discrimination policy

BY ADAM ATKINSON
North Country This Week

COLTON — The town’s labor attorneys are being asked to determine if a letter to the editor written by a town councilman somehow violates the municipality’s policies on ethics or discrimination. The councilman feels the move is a form of intimidation.

Councilman Kevin Beary’s recent letter published by North Country This Week voiced Conservative stances on education, gay marriage and potential social engineering in schools.

It sparked a private Facebook conversation critical of his stance. Read the letter on North Country Now at <https://www.northcountrynow.com/letters/opinion-learning-traditional-value-and-morality-asserts-coltan-man-0325016>.

The letter and Facebook conversation apparently led town supervisor Ronald Robert to direct the town’s labor attorney, Matthew P. Ryan of Albany firm Roemer Walens Gold & Mineaux LLP, to see if the letter violates the town’s policy on discrimination.

Ryan declined to comment on the review, which is currently ongoing, when reached by phone.

Beary said he was caught off guard by the move.

The councilman said he was told by Robert that he was being “investigated” by the town’s legal counsel at a meeting and handed a sheaf of papers with copies of the conversation on Danielle Dalbec Edwards’ Facebook page which sparked the inquiry.

A few of the comments posted in the conversation, which was between multiple people, dubbed Beary a homophobe, and cast him as an intolerant religious zealot.

It’s largely unclear how many of those in the conversation are actually Colton town residents.

Beary states that he wrote the letter as a private citizen under his Constitutional right to free speech, not as a town councilman representing the town.

The letter does not identify him as an elected official anywhere in the text.

“I’m not an employee, I’m an elected official. It’s very bazaar,” Beary said, adding that the move was intimidation. “I feel like he is abusing his authority as town supervisor. He’s trying to silence that discussion (opinion) for whatever reason.”

“Perhaps he is very sensitive to any kind of criticism and feels he has to respond. Perhaps he feels the town is being criticized because I’m being criticized,” Beary said of Robert.

Robert later clarified that the attorney’s inquiry was a review not an investigation.

An email from Robert to Beary, which Beary supplied to the paper, reads:

“In response to your inquiry regarding the ‘investigation,’ the op-Ed you wrote and submitted to a local paper has been brought to the Board’s attention. As you should know, there are various policies in place in the Town that govern the actions of employees, the public and the Board including policies governing discrimination.

“At this point, our labor attorney is reviewing the policies to determine whether they apply and the next steps to be taken. Should our attorney determine that an interview is warranted, I will be in touch.”

An email from the attorney Matthew P. Ryan to Beary states much the same.

“This matter is being reviewed by the Town to determine its next steps and whether any policies are implicated by your opinion piece to the local newspaper. No determination has been made whether any policies have been implicated and an investigation is required,” Ryan writes to Beary. “As you are likely and should be aware, there are various policies and procedures in place in the Town that governs the actions of employees, appointed officials, and elected officials. Once a decision is made, you will be advised of the next steps.”

“On the subject of Kevin Beary, we have no comment on it,” Robert told this reporter in a voice-mail message. “Everybody has a right to their opinion and that’s all we have to say about it.”

However, Beary was not convinced of Robert’s comment.

“If he truly believed I was entitled to my opinion, he wouldn’t have instructed the town labor lawyer to investigate me for possible violations of town regulations. He is clearly trying to intimidate me and everyone else in Colton into never publicly expressing an opinion he disagrees with,” Beary said.

Beary told North Country This Week that he is considering hiring his own attorney to look into the matter.

SLC emergency service for pets looking for volunteers

BY PAUL MITCHELL
North Country This Week

CANTON — A St. Lawrence County-wide partnership is looking for individuals with a passion for animals who would be willing to volunteer their time to assist domestic pets in the times of an emergency or disaster.

A training session to certify volunteers for the County’s Animal Response Team (CART) will be held Saturday, Sept. 17, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Human Services Building, State Hwy. 310 in Canton.

“This is a very important piece of safety for our residents,” said Patrick Ames, executive director of Cornell Cooperative Extension of St. Lawrence County. “People are far less likely to evacuate their homes during emergencies if they are unable to take their pets with them and the Red Cross can’t take domestic pets.”

Interested persons are asked to send an email to StLawrence-CART@gmail.com by 3 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 15.

New York State requires volunteers to complete four classes to be certified. The Sept. 17 session will include all four classes. Lunch will be provided courtesy of Cornell Cooperative Extension.

The state enacted the CART initiative following Hurricane Katrina in August 2005. Now every county in the state has a CART unit. The St. Lawrence County CART team has 8 to 10 certified volunteers and is coordinated through the county’s Office of Emergency Services.

Other partners include the county’s Public Health Department, Red Cross, New York State Ag & Markets, Soil & Water Conservation District, and Cooperative Extension.

“Studies have shown that the general public won’t leave their homes for safety unless there is some place for their domestic pets to shelter,” said Ames. “This training and the County Animal Response Team is the answer to that dilemma. We really need volunteers.”

The CART team would be called to care for animals during or after emergencies such as apartment fires, flooding or ice storms.

CART is a dedicated group of volunteers whose mission is to plan for and aid in the protection of public health, animal food supply, companion animals, and livestock in the event of a declared emergency,” according to the Emergency Services website.

The sheltering, protection and identification of domestic animals, including livestock, are at the responsibility of their owners, but in times of emergency or disaster, public interests may take precedence with regard to sheltering, evacuation and care of animals in the interest of ensuring the health and safety of residents in danger is not compromised by the inability to evacuate with pets.

Resident hit with penalty after tax bill sent to wrong address

BY ADAM ATKINSON
North Country This Week

POTSDAM — A village resident got hit with a penalty of more than $200 after his village property tax bill went to an address in Lewis County instead of his Potsdam residence.

However, the village clerk says the penalty cannot be waived but at least two village trustees want to investigate the issue further.

How the tax bill of Larry Zuckerman of 6 Grove St. ended up being sent to Brantingham, NY has village trustees looking into the matter.

Zuckerman came before the board at their Sept. 6 meeting to raise the issue and get the fee waived.

“I’m coming before the board to see if I need a waiver on the penalty on my property tax,” Zuckerman said.

“There is a lot of mail that I haven’t gotten from the Village of Potsdam and one of them was my property (tax) bill. And this is the first property bill that we get directly,” Zuckerman said.

The Grove Street man said he noticed when he finally received the warning of his unpaid tax bill that the zip code on the bill is 13312, which is the zip code for the Brantingham area in the town of Glenfield in Lewis County.

“So I would like the $219.65 taken off my property tax bill and I would certainly like my address corrected to the Potsdam zip code, 13676. And I wouldn’t mind getting a copy of the tax bill I never got. Which probably came back to you guys as a return now,” Zuckerman said.

“We did not get that back. If we would have gotten that back we would have reforwarded to you,” said Village Clerk Lori Queor.

“I did reach out to the county treasurer to ask about what happens if someone doesn’t get their taxes (bill). She provided me with the New York State property tax law which says ‘the failure to mail any such statement or the failure of the addressee to receive the same shall not in any way affect the validity of the taxes or interest prescribed by law with respect thereto,’” Queor said.

“So in other words she’s saying we can’t go back in time and go backwards and by law, we can’t remove the penalties,” the village clerk said. “It’s the property owner’s responsibility if they don’t get them to try and contact someone.”

“But that doesn’t speak to the problem of them (the county) having sent it to the wrong address. Correct?” asked Village Clerk Monique Tirion.

“If they don’t get it, regardless of how they don’t get it, we can’t waive the interest and penalties is what she is saying,” Queor answered.

“But I mean somebody used the wrong address. So who answers that question?” asked Tirion.

“I don’t know,” Queor said.

“You spoke to whom?” asked Tirion.

“Vicky Stiles at the St. Lawrence County Treasurer’s Office,” Queor said.

“So I guess we would need to try to discuss this with the county-level treasurer,” Tirion said.

Zuckerman said he did speak to the county treasurer’s office regarding the issue and that the county-level representative he spoke with said all the county office does is put the bills into an envelope.

“They said the bills are actually generated here,” Zuckerman said.

“The bills are not generated here. The bills are generated at the county level and mailed directly from the county and they invoice us for that mailing. We do not print any bills here at all. The county prints them all,” Queor said.

“Right, but the bill started here. That’s why it has the wrong address,” Zuckerman said. “As far as I know, 13676 is the zip code.”

“And how do we know that they (the county) haven’t... that they don’t have incorrect zip codes for, or you know, address details for other taxpayers is my other question,” asked Village Trustee Alexandra Jacobs Wilke.

“We don’t,” said the village clerk.

“We can’t check those records from our end?” Wilke asked.

“We cannot,” Queor said.

“When I spoke to the county, they said it was the village’s responsibility, and they have our correct zip code,” Zuckerman said.

Queor said that when residents make changes to the address, she asks them to contact the county to notify them of the change. She said the county usually makes the change which affects the town tax bill, the village tax bill and the school tax bill. “Because they mail them all,” she said.

“You’re saying that the village cannot reach into our pockets to reimburse this gentleman for this amount of money,” Tirion said.

“He has not paid this yet,” Queor said.

“That’s not legal?” Tirion asked.

“Not legal,” Queor said. “Not according to New York State law.”

“Which doesn’t speak to the wrong addresses. I think we need a few more phone calls on this,” Tirion said.

“Yes I want to look more into this topic,” Wilke added.

Rotary Club offering maple trees to property owners

BY PAUL MITCHELL
North Country This Week

CANTON – Do you live in the village and want a maple tree planted? And at half the cost.

The Canton Rotary Club is making trees available to village property owners.

Partnering the tree program with Kevin Blanchard of Willow Tree Nursery in Potsdam and the SUNY Canton fraternity Alpha Theta Gamma, a new Autumn Blaze maple tree can spruce up your property in a matter of days.

“This is another example of what Rotary Clubs do in our communities,” said Canton Rotary Club President Jeanne Tyo-Martin. “The club is donating half of the cost of the trees for any village property owners who wish to have a tree planted for them in the front yard.”

The tree must be planted along the road with a limitation of 35 feet deep from the roadside.

A $40 maple tree will cost the property owner just $20 and the trees will be planted for free by the fraternity members. The trees are 6 to 8 feet tall. The tree is fast growing, very adaptable and has a great fall color.

“We are always willing to give our time and efforts to help our community,” said Nikolas Rauch from the Alpha Theta Gamma fraternity. “A famous man was said ‘think globally, act locally’ and that’s a good motto we live by for the betterment of the world and its best to focus our efforts on our little piece of heaven and hopefully we can be a beacon for others to give back.”

Anyone interested can email Lance Rudiger, project coordinator, at ludiger@aol.com. The trees will be distributed on a first come, first serve basis.

“This will make Canton a more beautiful village with trees that provide welcome green in the spring, cooling shade and breeze in the summer, fantastic autumn blaze color in the fall and stately dark shapes in the winter,” noted Rudiger.

On and off over many years, planting trees has always been a project of the Canton Rotary Club, Rudiger said.

Hilltop Hunting and Fishing closing

BY JEFF CHUDZINSKI
North Country This Week

CANTON — Hilltop Hunting and Fishing is set to close Sept. 24. According to Sidney Belmore, the decision has not been an easy one but a necessary one. A fixture of the outdoor scene in the North Country for over 40 years, Hilltop Hunting prided itself on being a one stop shop for sportsmen and women. “Hilltop Hunting opened on March 3rd, 1980 run by gunsmith Joe Russell who did his gunsmith schooling in Trinidad Colorado. Joe had a passion for hunting, fishing, and serving the North Country for 40 years before his passing in 2020,” Belmore said. Hilltop Hunting continued on for two years following Russell’s passing, attempting to navigate the ever changing landscape and supply chain issues throughout the COVID pandemic. Sales are currently ongoing, with the liquidation of over $200,000 in inventory in full swing. Bucket sales and bundles have been a fixture for the last couple of weeks, with a number of products still available, according to Hilltop’s Facebook page. “Kelly, Dave, and Sid would like to thank the customers over the past 42 years and most recently the last two years for their business and loyal support. The last day the store will be open is Saturday Sept. 24th. We look forward to seeing everyone over the next few weeks as mark downs continue,” Belmore said. “Although Hilltop Hunting is closing just remember, ‘rain or snow buck or doe they’re going down,’” she said.

Bert and Betty have left an amazing legacy. Family came first. Friends were treasured and the United Church of Madrid was their church family.

Wherever they traveled new friends were made, including in Ruskin, Florida, where they wintered 26 years.

Betty was a true homemaker, wonderful at many things including baking, sewing, and knitting. She was a Girl Scout leader for 25 years.

After retirement, she especially loved quilting and gardening and reading. She loved being a grandmother, willing to get down on her knees a be a true playmate.

POTSDAM — Work continued this week for the Canton-Potsdam Hospital’s Regional Care Pavilion with a temporary closure of the Cottage Street portion owned by St. Lawrence Health. The $71.8 million expansion project of the hospital is expected to last until 2025. “Construction efforts for the preparation of the Regional Care Pavilion are moving steadily along,” stated St. Lawrence Health and Canton-Potsdam Hospital President Donna McGregor. “Our staff and the construction crews have been very cognizant in doing their best to make any impacts on our patients and visitors as minimal as possible.” So far new sidewalks have been constructed along the south side of Cottage Street. Work continues on the creation of a temporary entrance on the Cottage Street side of the hospital. In addition the Grove Street parking lot has been expanded. “We appreciate the patience of our neighbors and everyone who comes to Canton-Potsdam Hospital when they may experience a flag person or a slow moving construction vehicle in the area,” Mrs. McGregor said. “The end product of this project will provide our community at large with an amazing and updated healthcare facility,” the president said.

Overtime threshold for farm workers lowered

BY JEFF CHUDZINSKI
North Country This Week

The New York Farm Laborers Wage Board recently voted in favor of lowering the overtime threshold from 60 to 40 hours per week, drawing the ire of NY-21 Democratic Congressional candidate Matt Castelli. In a press release issued on Sept. 7, Castelli urged Governor Hochul to reject the proposed overtime rules in favor of allowing workers to negotiate with their employers directly.

“Farming is not a 9-5 job and these rules do not take into account the seasonal, weather and timing realities of farms, or the needs of farm workers to maximize hours during the growing season. In an industry where the government already controls and limits profit margins, these rules only serve to hurt New York farmers who are already having trouble finding a ready workforce, and farm workers who will no longer be able to work the hours they choose,” Castelli said.

Senator Dan Stec was also critical of the Farm Laborers Wage Board for its decision to lower the overtime threshold, citing the hardships farmers endured through the COVID pandemic and inflation as two primary concerns.

New York Farm Bureau President David Fisher voted against the measure, saying the report “is not a full and accurate depiction of the data and testimony gathered during the two-year long process.”

Fisher argued that the report lacked significant economic data, as well as detailed testimony from farmers, farmworkers and agricultural experts. “New York State agriculture is a national leader in wage rates, human resource development, and safety training. Many of the farm labor protections in place exceed those of any private industry in the state. Yet much of this was also not included in the report. In the end, the report written by the Department of Labor justifies the wage board recommendations based on cherry picked data and inflammatory opinions,” Fisher wrote in his dissent. Many of the reasons surrounding the 2-1 vote to lower the overtime threshold revolved around employee well-being, the impacts on human health and equitable labor practices. Under terms of the new rules farmers would see new tax credits to make the transition easier, though farmers have been vocal in their opposition, saying the credits are not nearly enough to offset the potential rise in overtime expenses. The next course of action will come as State labor Commissioner Roberta Reardon will have 45 days to review the recommendations and offer a formal decision.

Village Green Concert Series awarded $20,000

Master’s degree of teaching offered online

NORWOOD – The St. Lawrence River Valley Redevelopment Agency has awarded the Norwood Village Green Concert Series $20,000 for the construction of a handicap/general purpose ramp for the Liotta Band Shell on the Norwood Village Green. Additionally the New York State Council on the Arts has also awarded the Series a Capital Projects grant of $10,000 for the much needed addition to the facility. The Village of Norwood will donate in-kind services and the Series has been fund raising to complete the project’s financing.

All architectural drawings have been finalized by Brooks Washburn, Architect, and it is expected that construction will be completed in the spring of 2023.

The project is a matter of safety and access to a village-owned facility. The purpose of the project is to provide handicap access to the Liotta Band Shell on the Norwood Village Green. Further the project will provide safer and securer access to the facility for all, and in addition the project will provide easier access to equipment movement on and off the bandshell.

1. The construction of a handicap ramp at the back of the bandshell leading to a platform connecting to the side rear door of the building. The ramp has been designed to meet all local and state requirements with proper grades, railings, etc. It has a dual purpose a). to provide handicap wheelchair access and b). to provide easier and safe access when moving equipment on and off the facility for performances.
2. Two railings will be installed on the left and right sides of the band shell’s front 3 steps. Its purpose is for workers, performers, and audience members to have assisted and safe egress to the band shell.
3. A roof will be constructed to cover the platform and steps to the side door of the band shell and appropriate lighting will be installed.

The Norwood Village Green Concert

Series has raised all funds to build and expand the facility since 1974. In 2022 the series entered a 10-year renewable lease agreement with the village to provide free-to-the public performances for Norwood and its surrounding communities. The facility and this improvement will also be used by the Village of Norwood for other purposes such as the Autumn Festival and the Christmas Santa Tree Lighting Festival. (Santa had a rough time negotiating the front steps this past December as did children and adults visiting St. Nick). The band shell facility is also used by other community groups throughout the year.

In reference to the Series fund-raising effort to complete the project’s financing: Checks should be made to the Norwood Village Green Concert Series and mailed to the Norwood Village Green Concert Series, 3 Bicknell Street, Norwood, NY 13668. Write Ramp Construction in the memo.

POTSDAM -- In an effort to meet the need for new educators across the country, SUNY Potsdam has made its master of science in teaching (MST) degree program in childhood education 100% online.

College officials say this makes it easier for aspiring teachers to get the experience and credentials they need, no matter where they’re located.

“Our online program is ideal for working professionals. Academic advisors can customize a program completion plan to maintain a level of course workload which can realistically fit within a candidate’s other commitments,” said K. Chad Graham, the assistant chair of the Department of Elementary Education and a clinical faculty member.

The nationally accredited graduate program can be completed in as few as three semesters, full time.

The childhood education MST program has offered a virtual/hybrid option since Fall 2020, which has been so successful that the College sought and received approval to move the entire degree fully online.

'Pickleplex' reaching out to town for financial support

Scheduling system, cost structure to be examined

BY ADAM ATKINSON
North Country This Week

POTSDAM — The village and members of the North Country Pickleball Club are asking the town to financially support the new pickleball courts at Sandstoner Park at 43 Pine Street.

In return the village, which owns and operates the site, proposes to offer to town residents the same $60 lifetime membership fee charged to village residents to use the court moving forward next year.

As the number of local players surges into the hundreds, along with many interested would-be paddle battlers from outside Potsdam also seeking court time, the village is trying to work out how best to set up a cost structure for use of the so-called “Pickleplex.”

The village is asking for a $62,500 contribution from the town to help maintain and continue to enhance the pickleball facility, considered by many local players to be the best in the region.

Sandstoner Park features six courts and is lighted for night play. Tournaments held there this summer drew players from all over the state.

The request to support the courts financially was previously discussed by the town’s recreation committee, said Town Councilman Marty Miller at the Sept. 13 town board meeting.

Miller said that due to the courts being a village facility, but with court time scheduling handled by the Club, an outside organization, there were concerns about access.

“We still didn’t feel there was going to be equal opportunity for all town members or village members to utilize the pickleball courts,” said Miller.

“That’s incorrect,” said Village Trustee Steve Warr who joined the meeting by phone.

Warr explained that the court membership fees and the scheduling system used for court time was set up to try to manage demand. This year village and town residents paid a $60 lifetime membership fee. Guests play for $5 per session. Players from outside of the village and town are charged $60 this year and next year that fee will presumably go up.

Anyone who is a member can initiate play at anytime through a scheduling website, Warr said. “We just don’t want 75 people showing up at once,” the trustee said.

“That way you can have a modicum of control over how many people are going to be there at once so you don’t have a melee of 75 people going there at the same time,” Warr said.

Marty Miller
Town Councilman

The trustee said the village is also is trying to prevent large groups of pickleball enthusiasts from coming to the courts from elsewhere and monopolizing the time. “And not allow village and/or town residents to use it first,” he said.

Warr said the village constructed the courts so that adults can have an option for a healthy, local recreation activity. “I do know its getting people off the couch,” Warr said. “People I knew who weren’t interested in any type of sports said “This is the greatest thing we’ve done in 40 years.”

The courts’ play schedule is currently managed through a website called PlayTime Scheduler, said Teresa Fisher, a member of North Country Pickleball Club.

“It’s a very easy and simple tool to use,” Fisher told town board members. “It’s a way to . . . control the number of people that are on the court.”

The site is free scheduling tool created exclusively for pickleball and covers courts all over the United States.

Visit that website at <https://bit.ly/3Dp8eMu> .

To schedule court time at Sandstoner Park, players need to register for a free account on the website.

“We’re looking at next year to determine what to do with outsiders (players who are not village residents). Because we’ve already been contacted by big groups from Massena, Ogdensburg, Canton, who don’t have a facility like this, who would like to come over and monopolize play,” Warr said. “I don’t think that’s right when we’re doing, we collectively, are doing all of the work and maintaining it so it stays a viable operation.”

Town Councilwoman Lynn Hall raised a question regarding equal opportunity to the courts.

“One of the concerns is that some people can’t even pay the $60 membership who live in the village or the town. Is there any possibility that there could be subsidized slots?” Hall asked.

Fisher said that Club members this past summer took up a collection for would-be players to cover their membership fee and that the group would probably do so again.

Hall said she supported the pickleball activity, but still voiced reservations regarding the cost.

“I just don’t want this feeling, like some of the town and village people, that you have to pay a lot of money to be able to participate. It needs to be more than just word of mouth,” Hall said.

Several members of the club spoke to the board about the growing popularity of the sport in the area and asked for town support moving forward.

“There is not another facility, anywhere, as nice as what we have here in Potsdam,” Fisher said. Fisher said there are not many recreation activities available to adults in the area. “The number of people that have come out of the woodwork to play pickleball is impressive,” she said.

Fisher said the sport of pickleball grew 40 percent nationwide from 2019 to 2021.

The town is expected to discuss the matter further, but took no action on the issue at the meeting.

Step By Step in O’burg launches podcast

BY JIMMY LAWTON
North Country This Week

OGDENSBURG — Looking to raise awareness about the work they do, Step By Step in Ogdensburg has launched a podcast called Beyond the Box.

The podcast was created by Carrie Woodcock and Step By Step CEO Dave Bayne.

Bayne said the podcast discusses issues that impact people in the North Country but are largely invisible to the general public. He said the goal is to raise awareness and open minds to some of these realities.

“I think the mindset is very different in the North Country than a lot of places. We owe it to our community to challenge some of the ideas about issues that sometimes carry stigma,” he said.

“Where unconventional thinking intersects with societal and cultural norms, we represent the individuals that exist in the gray area outside of the box, embracing individuality and celebrating differences. Life requires creative thinking to successfully navigate the obstacles that are thrown at us. Innovation requires change, and our goal is to make a difference by advocating for health and wellness, housing, education, and opportunity for all members of our community, while challenging stigma and social norms. Beyond the Box opens a dialogue for conversations that need to be had and brings awareness to issues that need to be addressed. We invite you to join us as we discover new solutions. Many will attempt to put you in the box they think you fit in, and it is up to you not to fall into it,” the podcast’s landing page says.

Woodcock works for Step By Step, but previously had experience as a musician with a background in marketing and promotion.

As the pair began working on the podcast, initially they had planned to discuss the services provided by Step by Step, but with an increased discussion about the growing homeless community in Ogdensburg, they decided to explore that issue.

“People were talking about why people were homeless and why they were in Ogdensburg, but nobody really knew the answer,” he said. “There was this idea that people were just giving homeless people a ticket and sending them to the city, but that’s just not the case.”

Bayne said the reality is that people can’t just be lumped together.

“There isn’t just one reason driving this,” he said.

Bayne said some people choose to live outside because the alternative options are worse. He said some struggle with substance abuse, others with mental illness, others make the choice for a variety of reasons.

Tammy Bush, Deputy Director for Step by Step, said the homeless problem is further reaching than Ogdensburg, but says it’s certainly more concentrated there.

She said that’s likely because Ogdensburg has a variety of unique services such as the mental health unit at Claxton-Hepburn, the St. Lawrence Psychiatric Center, Citizen’s Advocates, Step By Step, and Single Room Occupancy transitional services.

She said that when people are sick they are able to take advantage of services here and that the people do really well in the programs, but without better outpatient services it can become a revolving door.

Bayne said they may be able to get some help and assistance after completing the program but oftentimes people are thrown back into situations that aren’t ideal for people in recovery.

Step By Step, peer-run not-for-profit, provides what it can to help, but says there are limits to what they can do.

Bush said St. Lawrence County Department of Social Services has temporary assistance programs that can put people into a hotel for a time, but said many of the locations used put them back into contact with other people struggling, or perhaps using or offering drugs to them.

Bayne said for some people their odds of staying clean are better on the streets than being put into those situations.

Bayne wasn’t critical of the county’s efforts; he acknowledged that many of the resource providers are going to need to work together to meet the challenge of providing more outpatient services and shelter options. He said there are many organizations that play a role in helping people and he believes the way forward is through collaboration.

Bush said that anecdotally the impact of isolation during COVID-19 has also made things more difficult for people who were already struggling, and caused a struggle for people who were doing alright prior.

“Something we always push is community integration. Isolation is not good for people who struggle with mental illness. So we got to see what might happen to someone over years of time that happens much faster during COVID. That lack of community, that lack of socialization, lack of in person services took a toll on a lot of people,” she said.

Recently Step by Step had a big win. With persistence, the organization was able to add 20 beds to the Lincoln School Apartment program in Ogdensburg thanks to successful grant writing.

However, Bayne said the organization already has at least 36 people seeking a spot there.

“So it’s a great thing, but it’s not enough to meet the needs,” he said.

Bayne said the organization will be working to keep building on past efforts to increase services through collaboration, but in the meantime he encouraged people to listen to the podcast to hear real stories and about real people in their own backyard and perhaps walk away with a better understanding of their own community.
